"Right To Farm" Adopted By GC Commissioners

The Garrett County commissioners in their public meeting this week adopted the Right to Farm Ordinance. The new edict was written by the commissioners and John Nelson, director of the county's planning and zoning office.

The commissioners first obtained the right to create the ordinance by asking Delegate George Edwards and Senator John Hafer to secure legislation that allowed them to do so. This legislation passed in the 2001 General Assembly and became effective on Oct. 1.

A meeting was held in August for public input on the ordinance. During the meeting several local farmers, including Brooks Hamilton, president of the Garrett County Farm Bureau, stated that they supported the ordinance. There was no opposition to the bill voiced at the meeting.

The ordinance, Nelson explained at the August meeting, provides a "layer of protection against nuisance law suits" that are sometimes filed against farmers. Though the new ordinance does not disallow law suits, it does delineate the farmers' rights in Garrett County, and therefore may provide some protection to them in the event of such litigation issues as noise, odors, or other aspects of farming that some may deem undesirable.

The ordinance, Nelson said, basically states that any farm use of land is permitted, and farm use is defined as "any use of land which directly contributes to the production, processing, or storage of agriculture products."

Operation of farm equipment, normal agricultural operations, management practices, and sale of farm products are also clarified

TREE DEDICATED AT OAKLAND STATION — A dedication ceremony was held last Saturday for the community Christmas tree planted near the historic train station in Oakland. Family, friends, and neighbors gathered to celebrate the life of Dale E. Leatherwood, in whose memory the 24-foot Douglas fir has been dedicated. Leatherwood, a graduate of Frostburg State University, was engaged to Venessa Stacy, daughter of Vivian Stacy and John Stacy of Garrett County, when he died suddenly at the age of 30, the victim of an undiagnosed heart ailment. A wildlife biologist, the young man was committed to the preservation of different species, and planted many trees as part of his habitat restoration work. After his death, Venessa's aunt and uncle, Cindy and Marshall Stacy of Pinetum Enterprises, donated the nearly 11,000-pound fir for the project. It was planted in May, with Matt Scheffel of Allegheny Welding and Joe Adams of All State Tree Movers assisting. Memorial donations made in Dale's name to Our Town Theatre, where Venessa served as a founding member of the board, were used to pay part of the costs. The Leatherwood family made a significant gift to the project, as did the town of Oakland. Dale's parents, Gurney Leon and Reverend Neva H. Leatherwood, attended the ceremony. "The Leatherwoods are grateful to the town and everyone involved in making this wonderful tribute to Dale a reality," said Venessa Stacy. A bronze plaque on a granite plinth, installed by Mountaintop Monument Company, was unveiled at the ceremony, which was conducted by Truett Rogers. Photo by John McEwen

Bartlett Says U.S. Should Help Afghan Resistance And Provide Aid

by Jennifer Dorroh
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON — The United States should help resistance groups overthrow the Taliban in Afghanistan, and be prepared to give Afghanistan up to $20 million in aid once the Taliban is removed from power, said Rep. Roscoe Bartlett, R-Md.

Bartlett spoke Tuesday as part of a bipartisan delegation of House members who traveled to Italy, Turkey, and Russia last week, where they said they worked to build coalitions for the U.S. fight against terrorism. The 11-member delegation returned from its six-day trip Monday night.

The trip included meetings in Rome with former Afghan king Zahir Shah, who was deposed in 1973, and with commanders in the resistance movement against the Taliban.

"We conveyed to King Zahir that we support his efforts and the efforts of the Afghani resistance to bring freedom and peace to their homeland," said Rep. Curt Weldon, R-Pa., who led the delegation.

"The United States and Afghan resistance groups have a common struggle against the oppressive Taliban regime and their terrorist cronies," Weldon said.

In Ankara, Turkey, the group met with top officials of the government, which has agreed to let the United States use its airspace and transit facilities during a potential military strike in response to the terrorist attacks.

Bartlett said Turkish officials urged the United States to give development assistance to Afghanistan through non-governmental organizations in Turkey. But they cautioned against pouring too much U.S. money into the country, Bartlett said.

"If we gave them a billion dollars it would cause

State Officials Present Six-Year Plan Of Transportation Projects

Oakland Bypass Local Officials' Top Priority

Officials from the Maryland Department of Transportation (MDOT) visited Garrett County recently to discuss ongoing and upcoming projects for this area listed in the state's draft Consolidated Transportation Program for fiscal years 2002 through 2007. Statewide, the overall program is slated to expend a record capital budget of $9.3 billion over the next six years for investments in transit, highways, Baltimore-Washington International Airport, the Port of Baltimore, and a number of Smart Growth related projects.

MDOT officials made their presentation before the Board of the Garrett County Commissioners, local elected officials including Oakland mayor Asa McCain, Del. George Edwards, Sen. John Hafer, and approximately four dozen interested citizens. While approving of the various projects proceeding or planned for the county, Edwards, McCain and the commissioners reiterated several times throughout the meeting their support for construction of an Oakland bypass to re-route Garrett Highway's through traffic away from an increasingly congested downtown, and expressed frustration with the state's timetable for the project's completion.

"This county hasn't had a major roads project since Interstate 68 was completed years ago," Edwards commented. "Most people feel the Oakland bypass is a project that needs to be completed, and soon, re-

State Domestic Violence Group Honors Officers

Two area police officers, plus seven other honorees from across the state, have been recognized by the Maryland Network Against Domestic Violence (MNEDV) for their professional work and community service in combating domestic violence. Capt. Larry Gnegy of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and Tfc. James B. Hovis of the Maryland State Police will be honored at the MNEDV's annual meeting and 2001 awards dinner on Thursday, Oct. 25, in Annapolis. The event is open to the public. (See below for dinner reservation details.)

Hovis will receive the

"Open Space" Projects To Be Temporarily Cut

John Nelson, director of Garrett County Planning and Zoning, reported to the Garrett County commissioners this week that 25% of the total funds believed to be allocated for FY 02 Program Open Space (POS) projects would not be available after all. The director received word from the State Attorney General's office that a state house bill that recently passed allowing the county to use all of the funds for design and development aspects would not be effective until FY 03.

Nelson explained that previous guidelines for POS projects required that 25% of the funds be used for acquisition and 75% for design and development. But because most POS projects in Garrett County require little or no purchase of land, the new bill, introduced by Delegate George Edwards, will benefit the county, but only on future projects.

Nelson further explained that the wording of the bill led many to misinterpret when the bill would be in effect.

Because none of the FY 02 projects require any acquisitions, the commissioners had to cut 25% of the $238,867 of the POS funds available to the county for projects that had already been approved by the state board. In order to be within the guidelines, the commissioners decided to cut $5,000 from the total $35,000 allocated for the Lions Club Park project in McHenry; cut $13,204.75 of the $70,000 allocated for the Garrett County Recreational Trail; and to put Friendsville's bleachers, eastern Garrett County's fencing, and Deer Park's playground equipment on hold until FY 03.

Commissioner Fred Holliday asked Nelson to explain to those people whose project received reduced funding or were cut this year that "funds will be available next year" and that their projects will receive top priority during the next allocation of funds.

Smouse Chosen County's "Most Beautiful Person"

A Grantsville resident was recognized by the commissioners on Tuesday as "Garrett County's Most Beautiful Person." Jack Smouse, 80, was chosen from a list of 11 other nominated groups or individuals by the Garrett County committee for "Maryland's Most Beautiful People" (MMBP).

Elsie Slagle, a teacher at Northern High School, nominated Smouse for his service to the community, in particular Northern High School and the Goodwill Mennonite Home in Grantsville.

"Mr. Jack Smouse is truly

HONORING OUR HEROES — The Grand Marshal for the Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade 2001 will not be an individual, instead, selected for the honorary position is a group of dedicated citizens — our rescue service heroes. Representatives of local rescue units will symbolically carry the banners and emblems of their peers nationwide. The Autumn Glory festival is presented by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. Meals On Wheels Program Funding Cut; Area's "Most Frail" At Risk

Only weeks before the onset of a Garrett County winter, the Area's Agency on Aging's Senior Nutrition program has been hit hard by a shortage of funds used to deliver meals to the homes of some of the region's most frail and needy residents, according to Adina Brode, director of the Area Agency on Aging, which is headquartered at Garrett County Community Action Inc. in Oakland.

The loss of the "Senior Helpings" grant from the National Meals on Wheels Foundation and the Philip Morris Company Inc. has forced the well-known "Meals on Wheels" program to be reduced from five days a week deliveries to three days a week.

"This is really bad news for some of the county's most frail residents," said Brode. "Our clients for this service are typically women in their 70s or older who are living alone and often on two or more medications.

"For many, cooking for themselves is unsafe. And often the only contact they have with anyone is with the person delivering their meals," she said. "Our delivery people tell us that sometimes they knock and knock on a person's door and finally enter, finding that person on the floor, incapacitated. He or she could have been there for hours and hours. And now

Part Of County's Debts To Be Paid With $4.1 Million Surplus

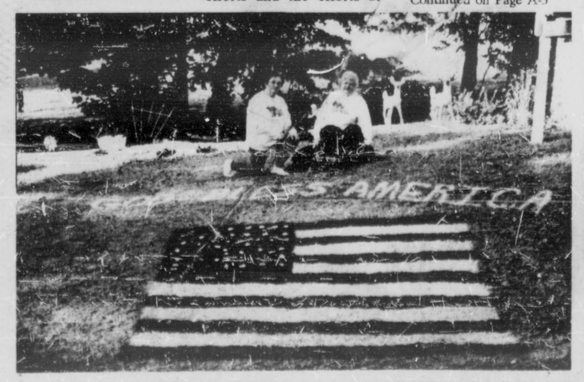
The Garrett County commissioners announced Tuesday that about half of the county's approximately $4.1 million surplus revenue would be used to pay off four of the county's largest loans.

"It was the best thing to do with the money," Commissioner Fred Holliday stated about the commissioners' decision. He pointed out that the county would save approximately $7,000 a year in interest and debt service by paying off the loans early. The interest rates on these loans range from 5.80% to 6.99%.

The loans were for the Roger P. Glotfelty Building ($400,140), Garrett Optical Loan ($1,008,257), Mountain Fresh Meats ($370,000), and Garrett Containers ($450,000).

About $1 million of the surplus will be used for carryovers and amendments to the FY 01 budget expenditures. They are $85,000 for Solid Waste and Recycling, $26,000 for the Sheriff's Office, $50,000 for Garrett Community College, $2,500 for the Board of Elections office, $144,000 for the Garrett County Roads Department, $2,000 for Ruth Enlow Library, and $600,000 for the Economic Development department.

Another $200,000 was also reserved for contingency, or emergency use. The remaining surplus will be kept as unreserved, undesignated funds. Holliday noted that the board of commissioners decided that this was a prudent decision, due "to the way the world is now."



A SHOW OF PATRIOTISM — Garrett Countians have joined the nation in the past three weeks in celebrating the United States, in supporting the families who lost loved ones in the terrorist attacks, and in cheering on the United States military. Dee Cole, pictured above right, offered her show of support by spray painting an American flag on her lawn. Assisted by her neighbor and friend, Sheila Sines, also pictured, Cole used 35 cans of paint and worked for five hours to create the image. "I just felt I had to do something," she said, to show her support of this country's freedom and to express her hope that America's soldiers are protected as war looms. The flag can be seen at 910 Second Avenue in Friendsville. Also pictured is Dee's dog Angel.

JACK SMOUSE: GARRETT COUNTY'S "MOST BEAUTIFUL PERSON" — The Garrett County commissioners recently announced that Jack Smouse, Grantsville, had been chosen as Garrett County's "Most Beautiful Person" for his dedication to the county. Smouse was chosen from a list of 11 groups or individuals nominated for the award. Garrett ASI To Partner With School System

The Adventure Sports Institute (ASI) at Garrett Community College has secured a state grant to develop and implement a therapeutic recreation program for transitional age youth (TAY) who have had difficulties adjusting to traditional school environments. An $80,000 grant from the Maryland Department of Mental Health and Hygiene will assist the coordinated effort between GCC and the Garrett County Board of Education, which will select students for the adventure-based program.

A total of 16 students, eight from Northern High School and eight from Southern High, are expected to participate in the first program. Plans are to begin the TAY project early this month, according to Mike Logsdon, director of the adventure sports program.

The 12-week program will involve the participants in an adventure-based activity for approximately seven hours one day a week. The activities will be designed to develop the participant's self-confidence, ability to work as a member of a team, make good judgments, and solve problems using skills learned during the program.

Each 12-week program will address one skill area such as rock climbing, whitewater paddling, or large animal husbandry. A component of back country living skills will be incorporated into the curriculum in order to prepare the participant for a culminating activity planned to be an overnight excursion to a remote site.

Participants will become members of the TAY team, which will include project coordinators, student guides from ASI's Adventure Education Guide Service (AEGS), and student mentors from the GCC adventure sports program and the recreation program at Frostburg State University. One mentor will be assigned to each participant.

This fall's session will focus on rock climbing and will include a back country living component that teaches proper dress for the outdoor activities, personal hygiene, shelter and sleeping, cooking and nutrition, map and compass, and first aid. The instruction will begin at the college's climbing wall, progress to Cooper's Rock near Morgantown, W.Va., and culminate in an overnight campout at Seneca Rocks, W.Va.

"The ultimate goal is to enable the participants to share the joys and excitement of outdoor activities with all of us," Logsdon explained. "They will be challenged by the rocks or the river just as we are because we are all the same out there. Nature is the great equalizer."

OAKLAND BRICK WALK NEARING COMPLETION — The count of inscribed bricks that have been installed in the downtown Oakland sidewalk that wraps around the southwest corner of the intersection of Liberty and South Second streets neared 1,600 this week. Oakland officials said 194 bricks remain for sale at $25 each for one line of print, $30 for two lines, and $35 for three lines. Brick purchases can be made by visiting the Oakland City Hall at 15 South Third Street, or by calling 301-334-2691. Shown from the left are Ruben Lapp, owner of Lapp Construction Company, Oakland mayor Asa McCain, Ernie Nazelrod, and Oakland Town Council member Jay Moyer.

Deer Park Man Arrested On Drug Charges

A Deer Park man faces drug charges after a search of his home by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force reportedly uncovered a small marijuana-growing operation.

Timothy W. Arnold, 47, was taken into custody after the 9 p.m. Friday search, which came after investigators obtained a search and seizure warrant. Recovered from the residence were six suspected marijuana plants, several items of drug paraphernalia, and five firearms.

Arnold was charged with manufacturing marijuana, possession of marijuana, and possession of drug paraphernalia. He was released from jail after posting a $1,000 bond.

In another local drug-related arrest, Maryland State Police troopers assigned to the McHenry barrack jailed a West Virginia man Thursday evening after a traffic stop along Garrett Highway.

Aaron Jerome Sigley, 24, Fairmont, was originally stopped at 5:23 near Ryland Court for a seatbelt violation. The trooper placed him under arrest when he learned that Sigley was driving with a suspended license.

A vehicle search that followed reportedly uncovered a homemade smoking pipe bearing suspected burnt marijuana residue and a cigarette box containing two suspected marijuana cigarettes. The vehicle was unregistered and had license tags belonging to another vehicle, according to the police statement.

After being arrested on charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia, and driving on a suspended license, Sigley posted a $500 bond to gain his release.

Comm. Action Receives Grant Money For IDAs

Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc. (GCCAC) is one of a consortium of nine community-based organizations that has been awarded funds from the Office of Community Services, Department of Health and Human Services, through the federal Assets for Independence Act (AFIA). This grant matches the amount raised by the applicants.

The IDA funds will enable up to 36 participants to gain financial literacy while receiving matching dollars for every dollar they save toward homeownership, continuing education, or for a small business.

IDAs are matched savings accounts for eligible individuals that help them acquire assets. Participants who join Asset Builders, Garrett County's IDA program, began saving at any of the county's financial institutions and have their savings matched at the end of one year with up to $1,850 toward any of the three approved assets. During the year, participants receive economic literacy and asset-specific training, such as hosing counseling if they are saving to purchase a home or training in a small business management if their goal is microenterprise.

In 1999, GCCAC began the first IDA program in the state through a partnership with the Garrett Partnership for Children and Families. Since that time, 19 participants have completed their savings goals and have received matching funds for their asset purchase. An additional 15 participants are currently enrolled and working to achieve their saving goals.

Miss Maryland To Take Part In Autumn Glory

Miss Maryland 2001, Kelly Glorioso, will take part in numerous activities throughout the festivities of the upcoming 34th annual Autumn Glory Festival.

Glorioso, of Towson, will be giving tours of the B&O Railroad with Mayor Asa McCain, Saturday, Oct. 13, prior to being featured in the grand feature parade, which starts at 1 p.m.

Immediately following the parade, she will perform "God Bless America" with Chip and Shaun on the Front Page Stage. Other activities she will be involved with are the fiddle contest and the airplane rides at Garrett Airport.

On Sunday, Oct. 14, she will not only judge but also participate in the no-hands sundae eating contest held at Lakeside Creamery.

Glorioso, 21, graduated summa cum laude from Towson University in August 2001. She is a spokesperson for Guiding Eyes for the Blind, a national service dog organization. She was also the 2001 Towson University Student Volunteer of the Year, Maryland's representative to National 4-H Congress, and 4-H all star.

German Campus Home To Garrett Transfer Student

Anton Schuberthan, son of Marie Schuberthan of Friendsville, is the first Garrett Community College student to transfer to the Schwabisch Gmund campus of the University of Maryland located near the Bavarian Alps. He is majoring in international business and is taking a German language course.

Shortly before entering GCC as a business major last year, Schuberthan developed an interest in studying at the German campus when he visited the country and traveled in the area of the university. His mother, also a Garrett student, credited GCC's director of arts and sciences, Virginia Broaddus, for advising her son to take the courses he would need to transfer and for helping him use the semester at GCC to his advantage.

"Anton loves being over there," his mother said. "His most loved activity is hiking, and he is finding so many beautiful places to hike. During their new student orientation the group visited King Ludwig's castle and Anton found an opportunity to hike up over a mountain." She also expressed gratitude to Manning Smith, GCC's former dean of students, who was instrumental in articulating the transfer program between GCC and the Schwabisch Gmund campus during his sabbatical year.

In accordance with the transfer agreement, students who take the designated courses at Garrett can spend a year on the German campus and then transfer credits back to complete an associate's degree, or can continue their education in Germany and earn a bachelor's degree.

Schuberthan is a 1999 graduate of Verona High School in Verona, N.J.

Animals Cause Two Accidents, Three Injured

Animals were the reported cause of two separate accidents with injuries this week, according to Maryland State Police.

Courtney B. Carroll, 20, Martinsburg, W.Va, and Jennifer Nicole Dirting, 20, Morgantown, W.Va., were taken to an area hospital after their 1995 Toyota struck a deer along Interstate 68 in Friendsville on Sunday evening.

According to police, they were wearing their seat belts and the air bags deployed following the 11 p.m. accident.

An original report from the Garrett County Emergency Management Fire and Rescue Communications indicated one person was taken to Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown.

A Grantsville man is listed in stable condition at Cumberland Memorial Hospital after his 1990 Chevrolet Blazer ran off the roadway and struck a tree.

Woodrow Jacob Durst, 85, was traveling eastbound on Dung Hill Road east of Bill Beitzel Road when he swerved to miss an animal, causing him to run off the road, according to police.

No charges were filed in the 5 p.m. accident. Durst was transported by Northern Rescue Squad. The Bittinger VFD also assisted at the scene.

GBI Jails W.Va. Homebuilder On Escrow Charges

A Morgantown, W.Va., construction firm owner was arrested this week by the Garrett Bureau of Investigation on charges that he failed to deposit escrow funds connected with a local homebuilding project.

Kirk W. Overfield, 43, owner of Kirk Construction of Morgantown, had been hired to construct a log home in Garrett County, but was jailed on an arrest warrant in the wake of a two-month GBI investigation. Overfield is accused of failing to properly deposit escrow monies in association with the work. Three counts of failure to escrow monies and one count of failure to comply with a trust were filed after the Garrett County state's attorney's office utilized a warrant to secure Overfield's bank records.

Title 10 of Maryland's Custom Home Protection Act requires the contractor to supply the homebuilder, within 30 days of completion, a list of all subcontractors who have been paid and completed over $500 in work. The regulation is in place to ensure that no mechanic's liens are placed on the property.

Overfield was charged when he turned himself in to GBI detectives on Monday. He was subsequently released when he posted a $25,000 bond.

Glendening Gives Tourists Break On Tolls, Park Fees To Spur Economy

by Jill Caniglia
Capital News Service

BALTIMORE — Gov. Parris N. Glendening Tuesday revealed a plan to boost state tourism and commerce by increasing the advertising budget and eliminating toils and park admission fees. Glendening spoke at the B&O Railroad Museum, a Baltimore tourist attraction where American railroading was established in 1827.

Glendening encouraged people to leave their homes and enjoy the tourist attractions in Maryland, noting the tourism and airport industries are experiencing "a major drop off" since terrorist attacks destroyed the World Trade Center and severely damaged the Pentagon Sept. 11.

"Even as we mourn the loss of human life, we must not allow these events to diminish the reality of Maryland's outstanding business climate and excellent quality of life," said Glendening.

From now through December, a time when tourism is not usually heavily promoted, Maryland will triple its tourism advertising budget to $1.2 million, said Glendening.

The state will launch an advertising campaign in print and on radio in Maryland, Washington, Pittsburgh, and Philadelphia to let people know about discounts they can receive Columbus Day weekend. Maryland bridges and tunnels will be free, and no admission will be charged at unreserved campsites in state parks.

The state also will hold "Maryland Family Fun Weekend' on Oct. 13 and 14, when some tourism industries and businesses will offer free admission and discounts.

The Department of Natural Resources wants people to visit state parks, even if it means a loss of state income. They're hoping tourists will spend money with private industry — restaurants and the like.

The parks will lose about $150,000 this weekend, said DNR spokeswoman Heather Lynch. "But it's a commitment we're willing to make."

Tourists can also expect breaks in Ocean City. Many restaurants, hotels, and golf courses are offering 10 percent discounts during the holiday weekend, said Mayor Jim Mathias.

Glendening also encouraged people to fly and take comfort in the extra security in place at Baltimore/Washington International Airport.

The Maryland National Guard will be at BWI Thursday to ensure the safety of passengers. Maryland state troopers are patrolling the airport until guardsmen complete training. The guard members have finished Federal Aviation Administration training and will start state training in civilian interaction.

The campaign is designed to prevent layoffs in the tourism industry, which employs more than 100,000 and contributes $7.7 billion to the state's economy.

Glendening's plan to promote Maryland tourism comes on the heels of his two-day jaunt to New York with other governors and District of Columbia mayor Anthony Williams to promote American tourism.

Public Input Solicited For Youth Planning

A partnership has been formed among health and human service providers, education, law enforcement, parents, business leaders and county government to develop a countywide strategy for youth development and risk prevention. The Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families, operating under the county's Local Management Board, is working with its interagency colleagues to assess community needs and develop a plan to help prevent and reduce behaviors that place youth at risk, as well as lead to more positive outcomes.

The public will have the opportunity to provide input on the topic at the following scheduled focus group sessions: 7 p.m. Friday, Oct. 5, at the Apostolics of Oakland Church, 600 Spruce Street, Mtn. Lake Park; 6:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 8, at Kitzmiller town hall; 7 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 9, at the Loch Lynn town hall; and 7:30 p.m. that same evening at the Mtn. Lake Park Ticket Office, located along G Street just south of Maryland Highway. These focus groups are working to help identify the needs of local youth in several communities with assistance from local Community Planning Groups.

From these and other assessment findings, officials will develop a plan that will incorporate specific research-based proven strategies to best serve local youth. "The outcome should streamline current services, blending multiple budgets to create a seamless continuum of youth services by providing research-based prevention services for all youth, and ensure targeted programs for youth at greatest risk," a Partnership spokesperson stated.

The Youth Development and Prevention Board, chaired by Monty Pagenhardt, will oversee the planning process, and the Partnership will submit an application for a Youth Strategies 5-Year Consolidated Grant. For the assessment phase of this project, the Partnership has compiled data from recent county surveys, census information, and demographic profiles.

Youth and parent questionnaires are being distributed in a variety of venues such as after-school programs, school improvement teams and Head Start. Interested citizens who are not able to attend the focus group sessions may fill out the questionnaire on-line at www.garrettpartnership.org/youth plan, from Friday through Tuesday, Oct. 5-9.

Persons interested in further information may call the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families at 301-334-1189.

Local Ministers Plan Special Services, Float

The Mountaintop Ministerial Association, in response to the recent terrorist attacks on the United States, will be hosting three events during the county's Autumn Glory Festival.

The first event will be a memorial service to be held on Thursday evening, Oct. 11, in conjunction with the annual Firemen's Parade. The exact time and location have yet to be determined, but it will be a service during which the firefighters, law enforcement, and emergency personnel who perished in the bombings will be recognized and honored. Final details will be released as soon as possible.

The association will enter a float in the Saturday Autumn Glory Parade with the theme "Don't Go It Alone." The association recognizes how important it is for people to share their grief, anger, and frustration with others during this time. "The theme of the float is to share the fact that many pastors and churches in our community are here to help anyone who needs it so no one will ever have to go it alone. It is to also recognize that a personal relationship with God can have a profound impact on our ability to deal with such tragedy as we can call upon Him for help in times of stress and trial," stated a spokesperson for the association.

The association will host a Sunday morning worship service at Southern Garrett High School from 8:30 to 9:15 a.m. in the gym. The theme of this worship service is "to celebrate the victory we have in God and that the tragedy will never have the final say." This service is open to everyone.

The churches currently involved in the Mountaintop Ministerial Association are: Bethel United Methodist, Meadow Mountain Mennonite, Oakland Church of the Nazarene, Mountaintop Christian Assembly of God, St. Matthew's and St. John's Episcopal, St. Paul's United Methodist, St. Peter's Roman Catholic, Oak Park Church of the Brethren, Rocky Drean Assembly of God, Accident Lutheran Parish, Bittinger Lutheran Parish, Faith Evangelical Free, St. Mark's Lutheran, St. John's Lutheran (Red House), Gortner Union, Oakland Seventh-Day Adventist, and Oak Grove Church of the Brethren.

For more information about the Mountaintop Ministerial Association, persons may call Pastor Mark Hickman (301-334-4488) or Pastor Randy Nairn (301-746-6433).

Board Of Ed. Meeting Set

The Garrett County Board of Education will hold its regular meeting on Tuesday, Oct. 9, in the board room located on the third floor of the administrative office building at 40 South Second Street, Oakland.

The board will meet in closed session from 4:05 to 5:30 p.m. and reconvene in open session immediately thereafter. Time is set aside at 4 and 7 p.m. for public comment and participation on any topic.

The public is invited to attend.

Glendening Urges Land Protection Now At Land Trust Convention

by Penny Riordan
Capital News Service

BALTIMORE — The nation must act now to preserve land from development, said Gov. Parris N. Glendening to a national gathering of land trust members Tuesday.

Members of land trust organizations at the Baltimore Convention Center praised the governor for being one of the best in the nation in using state funds to support land trusts and preserve land.

The people in attendance are part of a huge growth in the grassroots conservation movement. Land trusts work to put land under contract between the owner and the trust, thus preventing it from being developed forever. The number of land trusts nationwide has nearly doubled in the past 10 years.

The number of Maryland acres preserved by land trusts has increased recently, with one in every four acres of protected land being preserved in the past seven years.

"As important as this success is, we must do more," Glendening said. "Once a field is lost to development we can never get it back."

Leaders of the National Land Trust Alliance and local Maryland activists agree with the governor's statements and back his environmental programs.

"The governor has done what he claims to have done," said John Bernstein, director of the Maryland Environmental Trust. "He's put a huge amount of money into it."

Programs such as Rural Legacy, GreenPrint, and Maryland Agricultural Land Preservation Fund are considered nationwide examples of good state policy that gets land away from developers forever.

In 1950, there were only 53 land trusts in the nation. In 2000, that number has jumped to 1,263. There are 42 land trusts in the state of Maryland, including the unique public/private Maryland Environmental Trust.

MET works with local land trusts, which in turn work with landowners to help them apply for state money to put easements, or contracts, on the land to ensure it won't be developed.

The biggest advantage about MET is that it can work as an arm of the state to actually enforce the easements to make sure the land is being used properly, Bernstein said. This is especially important with the increased number of agricultural easements.

A total of 146,776 acres in Maryland have been preserved by land trusts as of 2000. About 10 percent of Maryland is preserved in some form, through land trusts or state parks or ownership.

The Eastern Shore Land Conservancy has preserved 116 properties totaling 25,156 acres as of 2000. Based in Queenstown, the growth and success of this group is a testament to what local support and state funding can do.

"A lot of identity is built up into the lands that are important to us," said Rob Etgen, conservancy executive director. Land trust membership is increasing, he said, because more land is disappearing. When that property disappearing is a childhood playground or favorite swimming hole, people are motivated to do something about it.

Land trusts are so popular, he said, because "we're actually changing things that are important to us. Land trusts are a way to channel that energy into doing something for landscapes."

People want to do something that is both proactive and productive in their community, said Jean Hocker, president of the Land Trust Alliance. "Through [land trusts] people can make a difference in their own community."

Enjoy a Train Ride!
from Oakland to Mtn. Lake Park on Saturday, October 20 & Sunday, October 21
as part of the annual Fall Foliage Train
that comes from Cumberland every year.
Billed as "A chance to relive history" by its promoter, Oakland Mayor Asa McCain, the two mile ride will recreate for many residents in the area a time when traveling by rail between the two communities was a 10¢ investment. The rides planned for October will cost $10 for adults and $5 for children under twelve.
Once arriving in Mtn. Lake Park, riders will be greeted by residents in period costume, who will offer an outside tour highlighting some of the most historic homes and buildings of the community.
The train will leave Oakland on both days at 1 p.m. and return at 2:30 p.m.
"This is a chance to show your children and grandchildren what train travel is like," said Oakland Mayor McCain.
Tickets are being sold in the Oakland and Mtn. Lake Park town halls and will also be available at the Oakland Train Station on weekends.
The schedule for the opening of the train station is 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturdays and 12 to 4 p.m. on Sundays.

How to Respond...

During the hours immediately following the September 11 terrorist attacks on the United States, most Americans experienced a tremendous, but frustrating, urge to do something. We all wanted in some way, any way, to aid and assist the victims of the tragedy. Of course, our options were severely limited, at least when it came to actually providing assistance at the three sites of the attacks. So we pursued other, less direct, options.

We gave blood, in record numbers. We have sent and are still sending money to the victims' families. We are sending notes of support, thanks, and compassion to the fire and rescue personnel who have lost so many of their comrades and who continue to work at the sites. We are flying the U.S. flag more prominently than we have in decades. Military recruitment has jumped dramatically since the attack. We are holding thousands of special memorial and worship services. As a nation, we seem to be more united than we have been since the days following the attack on Pearl Harbor in 1941.

These many forms of response are all good. But we want to suggest still another way that local people can respond, which would be a special way to honor the persons lost in the disaster and also have a definite, long-lasting, positive effect on our own community.

Our suggestion is to consider becoming a volunteer firefighter or emergency medical technician and serving with one of our local departments/rescue squads. Without actually contacting the officers of each of these organizations, we are reasonably certain that every one of them could use additional members. We know for sure that both of the county's rescue squads — Northern and Southern Garrett — are almost in desperate need of more members.

Yes, it is a commitment that requires some time, and occasionally the work is difficult, both from a physical and emotional standpoint. But it is also some of the most rewarding work that anyone can ever do.

Attaching a flag to our car antenna, attending a special worship service, and sending money to the various relief funds are wonderful gestures which we in no way want to demean or discourage. But there would be few ways for many of us to better honor our fire/rescue heroes than to become one of them, and such an opportunity exists right here.

Persons wishing to consider this option, but who are unsure about how to proceed, are invited to contact our newspaper office. We will find out for you.

For those of us fortunate to be over 55, the Flowery Vale Health & Fitness Center is a perfect fit. The center is well equipped, and trainer Elaine Kackley is knowledgeable and patient. With day, evening, and Saturday hours, just about anyone can make time for a visit.

Congratulations to Ronnie Padmos and Adina Brode at the Agency on Aging for getting this program together. It is unique, beneficial, and hopefully will continue to be well used.

To the Editor:

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce has announced that there will be an honorary post of Grand Marshal instead of a celebrity for the Autumn Glory Parade. I would like to know if they had even scheduled anyone to be the Grand Marshal before the horrible terrorist attack on our country. I have called the chamber and left a message asking this question, but they have not returned my call.

I do commend the chamber for wanting to recognize not only the courageous firefighters and police in New York City, but our local firefighters, rescue personnel, military reservists, and law enforcement officers, as well, who place their lives in danger helping others. My husband is a volunteer firefighter, as you are, and I know that many times you do put yourself in harm's way to help others. I agree that all of you deserve to be recognized and honored for your service, and I think the parade is a great place to let the public physically show their appreciation. However, I hope that this honor isn't being given just because the chamber didn't have anyone else to be Parade Grand Marshal.

Dear Chief, Officers, and Firefighters:

On behalf of the Kitzmiller Volunteer Fire Department, I wish to extend our condolences and prayers for the fallen firefighters, their comrades, and families. The professionalism, dedication, and undaunted heroism of the FDNY firefighters has instilled a great sense of pride in our affiliation with the firefighting profession. We well know that each time the whistle sounds or the tone alert is received we may encounter a life-threatening situation...a situation that may take us from this earth, our friends, and loved ones.

We know that on a daily basis, FDNY firefighters respond to more calls with seemingly insurmountable circumstances than our small community of firefighters will see in a lifetime. The tragedy of September 11, 2001, had to be an order of magnitude greater than any event ever encountered by FDNY, yet you answered the call without trepidation. Your bravery and dedication we only hope to emulate.

Our thoughts and prayers are with you as you courageously work through this atrocity that has been committed against your great city and our great nation. God bless you, and God bless America!

Sincerely,
Jimmy L. Armstrong

To the Editor:

I am writing to express my deep gratitude to the caring community in which I am blessed to live. As a lifelong resident of Garrett County, I suppose I always knew that in difficult times people living here help one another. But when the evidence of that caring is given so generously as it has been to me recently, words can hardly express the emotions that arise. And in Garrett County it doesn't take a plane crashing into a building to bring out the generosity of the people of the community.

Perhaps a few words of explanation are in order. I was diagnosed with cancer in March of this year and have been in treatment for this condition since that time. Many people in the community have been a support to me and my family, but recently, fellow members of the Bittinger Volunteer Fire Department, the auxiliary, and others held a benefit barbecue for my medical expenses. As I said, words sometimes fail to adequately express thoughts and emotions, but I can only say that I am tremendously honored and very appreciative of the hard work of those who planned and served the dinner. I am also very thankful for all those who came to the dinner and supported me in that way. Many people apparently gave donations significantly above the ticket cost "just to help out." While the financial assistance is greatly appreciated, the supportive thoughts and prayers expressed by the money are of even greater value to me.

So once again, thank you to all who helped with the dinner and made it a rousing success! And especially to the guys and gals at the Bittinger fire department, thanks for being such a great group. I haven't been able to make as many calls this year, but with God's continued blessing me with healing, I hope to be back in "full fire-fighting form" in a short time.

With gratitude,
Jim Brenneman

To the Editor:

The Sept. 20 issue of The Republican was outstanding! Your pages A8 and A9 are as good an example as I've ever seen of a newspaper serving its readers.

The editorial was extraordinary — as good or better than anything I've read in the New York Times, and they've had some very good ones. In fact, it was as good an editorial on the subject published in any newspaper.

I hope and pray our nation's leaders follow the editorial's line of thought as they lead our country through what are surely to be troubling days. As they do so, they must keep in mind that there is simply no place in America for bigots and freedom haters — no matter what religion they profess to follow.

To the Editor:

Jon Zeigler's admonishment of America's lack of moral absolutes was like a voice crying in the wilderness to this unworthy, sinful servant of God. Most of the believing faithful having much more ability than myself have been silent and non-supportive of Bible truths, most probably for fear of ridicule or loss of monetary gain and friends.

As a regular Bible reader, the editor says he believes in a loving God, but not one of vengeance. What criterion could he use for this statement after reading Deut 32:35-39-41 in the Old Testament or Romans 12:19 and many others in the New Testament (nearly 50 verses in both)?

Concerning the two sisters killed in the windstorm, it is not the created being's right to question his creator. The man Job, a "perfect and upright man," also learned a lesson in doing the same.

Unless America returns to Bible precepts, the tragedy in New York may look like a Sunday school picnic as to what could follow. The God of love, who is also a God of vengeance says in Proverbs 16:4 — The Lord hath made all things for himself: Yea, even the wicked for the day of evil.

Respectfully,
Bob Groves

Editor's note: The following letter was written by a British pen pal of Mary Bowman, McHenry, in response to the terrorist attack on the United States.

My dear Mary,

You and your family and your country have been in my mind all week. In fact, the whole country has been so shocked by the evil actions on Tuesday 11th that people have spoken of nothing else—or kept silent. We were all utterly appalled and I'm sure will never properly understand such fanaticism. We have our problems of terrorism in Northern Ireland, which is caused now mostly by religion—Protestants against Catholics — which never seems to end because of the bitter, bitter hatred. As a result, there is an exodus from Ireland to England and America of young people wanting to get away from the strife. So you will understand how deeply we feel for you.

Yesterday there was a memorial service at St. Paul's in London, attended by the U.S. Ambassador and his wife, the Queen, Princes Philip and Charles, plus many other dignitaries representing USA, and it was heartbreaking to see the U.S. members of the public outside trying so hard not to weep. We were weeping for them and, like them, getting no relief. I hope they seek and find the organization responsible and punish accordingly, but I also hope that good will come out of evil. America now has the opportunity to show the world that she does care for the weak and oppressed, for the uneducated and under privileged, and I'm sure if she organized a worldwide program of education throughout the world, it would show the world that she is keen to break down this wicked, envious hatred and build instead bridges of love and caring and understanding. Playing the game of tit for tat never did anybody any good.

Our prime minister is a bit of a pansy, but at least he stood up straight away and gave his support to the USA, and said we were fighting for democracy throughout the world. Our new head of the conservative party, Mr. Duncan Smith, also stood up and agreed with him, and bulldog breed as we are, you can be sure, where there's a "scrap" there we shall be. I'm surprised that the devils haven't had a go at us, but let's hope this time we shall be prepared.

Now must close, as time is marching on. May God bless you and all your family, and America.

With much Love,
Ruth

To the Editor:

I would like to share my personal story concerning breast cancer. I had been exposed to the Wellness Program prior to relocating from New York to Garrett County. It was through this program, in participating in the women's annual checkup, that I met Dr. Margaret Kaiser. It is hard to believe that the year I first signed up was 1987.

As a person who tends to be very scheduled with activities, this special time to check out everything was convenient for me. At the time I was employed as a manager of systems services For Empire Blue Cross Blue Shield in New York. I relocated to Garrett County March 31, 1988. While I was enrolled in a graduate program at Frostburg State University, I waited for Christmas break following fall semester to have my physical and routine checkup. At this time, early January 1998, Dr. Kaiser recommended I get my mammogram. I was feeling pressured and thought, "Gee, I'll let it slide this year. I've had one every year prior."

Dr. Kaiser insisted and reminded me of my family history. My maternal grandmother, aunt, and mother all had breast cancer. I am the first daughter of the third generation to become a victim of breast cancer.

After reconsidering the advice of my doctor, I conceded to getting the mammogram. Two days after the first mammogram I was called back to the hospital to have a second one. Dr. Kaiser's office called me after arranging for a stereotactic core biopsy at a Cumberland hospital. By the middle of January, my breast cancer was diagnosed, and Dr. Kaiser called me into her office to deliver the news and advise me of my options.

In the wee hours of February 4, we had a severe snowstorm that I was driven through to Ruby Memorial Hospital for the lumpectomy. I was admitted for an overnight stay in Ruby Memorial because they closed Route 68 due to hazardous road conditions.

I have thought of that morning a 1,000 times and realize that if Dr. Kaiser had not been persistent I might not have finished my master's in counseling psychology; I wouldn't be the president of the Appalachian Beekeeping Association; I wouldn't be happily growing chemical-free produce on Honey Grace Farm; and I wouldn't be helping people as a counselor at the Garrett County Health Department Substance Abuse Program. Dr. Kaiser and the Wellness Program with the mammogram screening gave me a second chance, and my current medical staff keeps me aware of my next steps in life preservation.

Throughout the journey from the initial excision of the cancer during graduate school up to my first employment in March 2000, the Garrett County Health Department assisted in monitoring my case and helping me gain access to the special Breast and Cervical Cancer Grant to cover costs for radiation treatments and drug coverage. I will be forever grateful for their support and professional assistance.

Two special people I would like to thank are Carol Clark and Becky Parks. Thank you to all who have participated in my recovery.

Sincerely,
Madonna C. Pool

View From My Window

by Jeffrey Wilson

AS THE WORLD TURNS

Autumn officially began on Saturday, Sept. 22, 2001, A.D. at 7:04 p.m. Eastern Daylight Savings Time. My experience of autumn began a few evenings later when I found myself pulling up the covers in the middle of the night.

The days since then have been typical of fall. At dawn the sky is crystal clear. The sun shines, promising warmth. By mid-morning clouds gather. The winds arise. I put on a sweatshirt as I work about the house. I add a jacket if working at my desk. After a few days like that I begin to feel warm when the thermometer reads 60 degrees or above. That tells me my body has made the shift to the new season.

One of the highlights of this year's apple harvest was the first fruits from the Esopus Spitzenberg, Thomas Jefferson's favorite. It is one of the parent apples of the Jonathan which made me favorably disposed toward it, since the Jonathan is my favorite all-around apple. There were about a dozen pieces of fruit this year, enough for a good sampling.

An Amishman told me once that the best time to pick an apple is just before it falls off the tree. His wry response contains a lot of wisdom. The apple is at its peak ripeness when it is ready to fall off the tree. When it falls, both the apple and its quality drop. He was saying, therefore, that the best time to pick an apple is a little before the best time. An apple that has not reached its peak is preferable to an apple on the ground.

There are plenty of other fall chores. A cord of firewood was delivered a few weeks ago that I still haven't stacked. The cooler weather certainly makes me feel much more like stacking it. A half-hour each morning as a kind of aerobic warm-up to the day should see all that wood under cover shortly.

I have a few gallons of paint that need to be applied before cold weather sets in. A few years ago my place looked like the town where the people were too poor to paint and too proud to whitewash. Having lifted my farmstead out of that condition, I am eager not to allow the buildings to tumble back into it.

While undertaking the various outdoor chores, it is important to maintain vigilance against yellow jackets. The other day I was picking apples, when I grabbed an apple only to discover that a yellow jacket was feeding there. They will mine a nice, ripe apple hanging on the tree just as easily as one on the ground. Now I wear goatskin gloves when I am harvesting apples. I also keep benedryl handy.

Most years the beginning of autumn signals the end of lawn mowing. Once a month is usually enough in October and November, and that partly to mulch the fallen leaves. This year it was so dry that the lawn did not need mowing for the month following my return home from Europe.

We had as much rain here during the last fortnight of September as we had had in the 10 previous weeks. The grass seemed to think it should get in a little growing while it could. Nephew Grant has been mowing for me this year. It is one job off my shoulders, while providing him the opportunity to fund the growing personal budget of a teenager.

That cuts me enough slack to do some jobs which are not absolutely essential, and yet need to be done. I have been dividing some antique irises that have not bloomed very well the past few years because the bulbs are bound up with themselves. Good fall plantings make for a beautiful spring.

What a comfort the cycle of nature is! The older people become, the more likely they are to opine that the seasons aren't what they used to be. Perhaps once we grow old nothing seems quite as good as it did when we were young. For all of that, one season does follow another.

If the transition does not attain to a certain memory or poetic ideal, there is comfort that we have both the memory and the ideal to which current events can be compared. That means there is a certain comfort even in disappointment because we recognize a higher good than has been achieved.

If the autumn glory is not quite as glorious and the Indian summer not quite as dreamy as ones we can remember, there is still the glory and the dream. And if our chores are forever the same, then even the beading of sweat on a frosty morning attests to life. Despite all the startling halts we experience, the path continues. At the end of the day we can rest in the security that the very nature of change is certain.

Oct. Proclaimed Breast Cancer Awareness Mo.

October is National Breast Cancer Awareness Month, as proclaimed by the American Cancer Society (ACS). Throughout the month, the Garrett County Health Department, Garrett Memorial Hospital, the local chapter of the American Cancer Society, and University of Maryland Statewide Health Network are encouraging all women to "fall into a good habit" by having their annual mammograms, doing breast self-exams once a month, and having a clinical exam by their physicians yearly.

"Early detection is the key in increasing the number of breast cancer survivors and decreasing the number of women lost to the disease," an ACS spokesperson said.

For more information, persons may contact any of the above mentioned organizations.

Prostate Cancer Survivors Sought By Cancer Society

The American Cancer Society is currently looking for men in Garrett County who have survived prostate cancer and are willing to talk with other men on the importance of screening and early detection. These individuals are encouraged to contact Tenna Taylor of the American Cancer Society at 1-888-227-9979.

Judge Ralph Burnett, a local survivor of the illness, is also looking for prostate cancer survivors and those interested in prostate cancer information who would like to begin a support group in Garrett County. Those interested in such a support group are encouraged to call Burnett at 301-334-8023.

Persons interested in volunteering for the American Cancer Society may also contact Taylor at the number noted above.

National BREAST CANCER AWARENESS Month

"Sweet Treats" Set For Breast Cancer Survivors

To honor those women who have survived breast cancer, a "Sweet Treats" dessert reception will be held on Monday, Oct. 22, 6-8 p.m., at the Will O' the Wisp. The reception will be in conjunction with Breast Cancer Awareness Month (October) and will include guest speaker Donna Walbert, a breast cancer survivor.

Walbert's topic will be "Breast Cancer and Wellness: A survivor's story of wellness before, during, and after breast cancer." She will share her journey of finding the true meaning of wellness in body, mind, and spirit during her battle with breast cancer, and how wellness now takes on new meaning in her life, an organizer said.

The Sweet Treats event will feature desserts prepared by the Will O' the Wisp. Sugar-free options will also be available.

"This event is an opportunity to recognize breast cancer survivors and those that are battling breast cancer, while providing a time for fun and fellowship," said Tenna Taylor of the American Cancer Society. "Every woman who has been touched by breast cancer is invited and encouraged to attend. It will be an opportunity for women to celebrate and be rewarded for their courage."

Breast cancer survivors who would like to attend must contact Taylor at 1-888-227-9979 no later than Oct. 18 to reserve their seats. The reception is free to all breast cancer survivors and is sponsored by Garrett County Health Department, Garrett Memorial Hospital, American Cancer Society, and the University of Maryland Statewide Health Network.

McHenry MSP Barrack Notes Sept. Activity

The Maryland State Police Barrack W, located in McHenry, has released its police activity summary for the month of September.

The personnel assigned to the local barrack handled a total of 628 calls for service. They were responsible for 25 arrests of adults on criminal charges, eight of which were drug-related.

Troopers charged 11 suspects on driving while intoxicated or driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs charges. Thirty-nine motor vehicle accidents were investigated, none of which resulted in a fatality.

A total of 665 citations were issued for speeding, 459 of which were for speeds in excess of 65 miles per hour along Interstate 68. An additional 527 warnings were issued to speeding drivers. Troopers issued 165 seat belt citations, and four citations for non-use or improper use of child safety seat restraints.

Troopers responded to three domestic violence-related cases, and closed each of them.

To contact the local MSP barrack for general information or to request non-emergency police assistance, persons may call 301-387-1101. All emergencies should be reported by dialing 9-1-1.

C. Welling Joins Audiology Office In Grantsville

The Audiology and Hearing Aid Center of Grantsville has announced the addition of Cherie Welling, MS, certified clinical audiologist, to the practice. Welling joins Pamela Martin Adams, MS, licensed/certified clinical audiologist and speech pathologist, at the office, which is located at the medical practice of Dr. Robin Bissell, 124 Miller St., Grantsville.

Welling obtained a bachelor of science degree in speech pathology and audiology from Clarion University and a master's degree in audiology from West Virginia University. She completed a clinical fellowship year at Memorial Hospital in Elkins, W.Va., and has served as a clinical and educational audiologist for school systems and hospitals in West Virginia and Virginia.

Welling relocated to the Grantsville/Salisbury, Pa., area when her husband, David Welling, assumed the position of superintendent of schools in Salisbury. The couple and their two daughters live near Salisbury.

"Cherie's expertise in evaluation and management of hearing disorders and fitting of specialized hearing aids and instrumentation, digital and programmable instruments, and hearing conservation are welcome additions to the array of services available at the Audiology and Hearing Aid Center," said Adams. The office accepts medical assistance, Medicare, and private insurances.

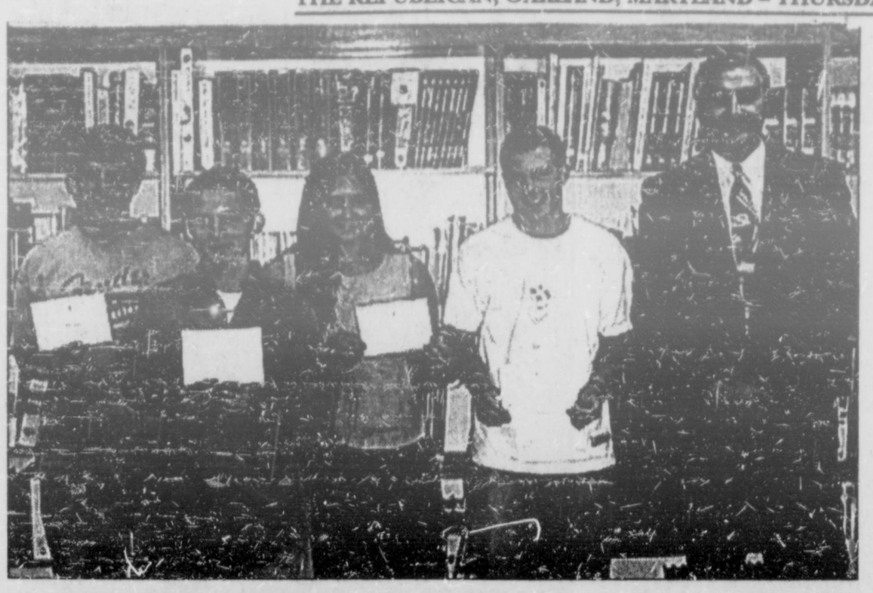
GCSW Reminds Residents: Buy New Permits

The Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling (GCSW) reminds residents and property owners of Garrett County that their 2001 refuse disposal permits will expire on December 31, 2001. The 2002 refuse disposal permits are now on sale and need to be purchased by January 1, 2002, to gain entrance to any collection site. No vehicle will be admitted to any collection site without the '02 permit attached to the windshield on or after January 2, 2002. However, the 2002 permit may be used immediately upon purchase to gain entrance to the collection sites for the remainder of 2001.

Applications for the 2002 permits are available at all six refuse collection sites, as well as the Garrett County Courthouse. Applications may also be downloaded off the Internet at www.garrettcounty.org. The permit cost remains at $20 for the first vehicle and $10 for each additional vehicle in the household. Persons may simply complete the application and mail it with a check or money order to: GCSW, 3118 Oakland Sang Run Road, Oakland, MD 21550. Individuals are also welcome to come to the landfill, located 3.5 miles north of Oakland and 2 miles south of Bray School Road, to purchase permits. The hours of operation are Monday through Saturday, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Should persons fail to renew their refuse disposal permits by January 1, 2002, they may continue to recycle items at the collection sites. However, no refuse will be accepted until their 2002 applications are processed and the permits are in place on their vehicles' windshields, unless they use individual bag stickers. These bright orange decals are intended for 13-gallon garbage bags. Two stickers are required for bags larger than 13 gallons. The cost per sticker is $.50, and stickers may be purchased from the following retail outlets: Get 'N Go in Oakland, Arrowhead at Deep Creek Lake, Slopeside Exxon/Market in McHenry, Swanton Grocery in Swanton, Chestnut Ridge Amoco in Grantsville, and Funny Farm Citgo in Friendsville. One may also purchase these stickers at the Garrett County Landfill, or at any of the collection sites.

For more information, persons may call 301-387-0322, e-mail at solidwaste@garrettcounty.org, or visit the Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling web site.



NHS COMMENDS STUDENTS — Gary Reichenbecher, principal at Northern High School, recently an-nounced that four students have been named as Commended Students in the 2002 National Merit Scholarship Program. A letter of commendation from the school and National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC), which conducts the program, were presented by Reichenbecher to these seniors. Being recognized for their academic promise, the students placed among the top 5 percent of more than one million students who entered the 2002 competition by taking the 2000 Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship qualifying test. "The young men and women named Commended Students have demonstrated outstanding academic potential by their performance in our very competitive Merit Program," said a spokesperson for NMSC. "We hope this recognition will augment the educational opportunities of Commended Students and encourage all students to strive to realize their potential." Pictured above, from the left, are Adam Brenneman, Micah Plevyak, Amanda Bell, Mark Roberts, and Reichenbecher.

them problems and create corruption," he said.

In Moscow, the delegation met with members of the Duma, Russia's national legislature, and with officials in President Vladimir Putin's administration to discuss cooperation between the two countries in the war on terrorism as well as other issues. Delegation members said they were encouraged by the response they got from the Russians.

On a personal note, Bartlett said he was pleased to renew his acquaintance with members of the Duma, whom he had met on his previous trip to Russia in the late 1990s. The pleasure appeared to be mutual, he said.

"They don't just kiss you twice, they kiss you three or four times," he said.

gardless of the overall economic situation. We need to speed up the process and find the money to move this into the next phase."

Edwards spoke in reaction to a statement by State Highway Administration head Parker Williams, who had told the gathering that, in an absolute best-case scenario, it would take at least six years to complete the 2.4-mile roadway. "The project planning phase is almost complete; however no funds have been set aside for design and engineering. If we had that money in our hands today, we'd be looking at three years of engineering and design work, and if we had the construction funds it would be another two or three years until the bypass could be finished. So, if all the money were in place right now, it would take a minimum of six years to build the bypass at a total cost of $35 million," said

GCMH UNVEILS NEW WEB SITE — Garrett County Memorial Hospital has given its web site a face-lift, and a portion of the operation's results is shown above. The redesigned site includes listings of services, physicians, employment opportunities, recent press releases, and information links. "The number of visitors to our site was on the decline, so we felt it was time to give our viewers something new," commented GCMH Marketing and Development specialist Linette Sines. The new web site may be viewed at www.gcmh.com.

In Memory of our Dad on his birthday

Stanley "Bucky" Tasker

Oct. 5, 1943 - Feb. 13, 2001

It's been almost eight months since the good Lord took you to his wonderful kingdom above, and left us without a Dad we dearly loved.

So, it's your first birthday in heaven, Dad. We can't even begin to imagine what it must be like, but one thing we do know is that we can still feel your presence watching over us each and every night.

So, if you can see and hear us now, there is one thing we'd like to say, We love and miss you Dad, Happy Birthday!

Love, Jaime, Jerry, Tim & Terri

Born Aug. 20, 1937, in Aurora, W.Va., he was the youngest child of the late Raymond C. and Alta (Teets) Bolyard. He was also preceded in death by two brothers, Richard Kent Bolyard and Lowell E. Bolyard.

He retired as a physical education teacher at California High School, California, Pa. He was a 1955 graduate of Aurora High School, and a 1959 graduate of West Virginia University, where he received his bachelor of science degree in physical education.

During his education at WVU, he played baseball and basketball for four years. He played professional basketball with the American Basketball League on both the Pittsburgh and Chicago teams, and was a volleyball official and referee. He was also a member of the Ougabus Society.

Surviving is one sister, Ruth M. Christman, Lima, Ohio; three brothers, Keith R. Bolyard, Lima, Ohio, Doyle W. Bolyard, New Philadelphia, Ohio, and Larry G. Bolyard, Keyser, W.Va.

Friends were received at the Aurora Memorial Building. Funeral services were conducted at the Aurora United Methodist Church on Tuesday, Oct. 2, with Pastor Mary Conley officiating.

Interment was in the Aurora Cemetery. The Smith Funeral Home, Keyser Chapel, was in charge of the arrangements.

The family requests that expressions of sympathy take the form of contributions to the Mountaineer Athletic Club, P.O. Box 8077, Morgantown, WV 26507.

DONNA J. CAGE

Donna Jean (Reiner) Cage, 58, Oldtown, died Monday, Oct. 1, 2001, at Sacred Heart Hospital.

Born July 13, 1943, in Pottsville, Pa., she was a daughter of John Reiner and the late Mary Reiner. She was also preceded in death by one grandson.

She was a 1961 graduate of Southern High School. She was a former secretary for the United State's Air Force at the Pentagon in Washington, D.C. She was a former employee for the Internal Revenue Service, Cumberland, and the Cumberland Unemployment Office. She was also a member of the Oliver Grove United Methodist Church, Oldtown.

Surviving are her husband, Paul Cage Sr., Oldtown; two sons, Paul Cage Jr., and John Cage, both of Oldtown; two daughters, Diana Stott, Oldtown, and Mary Ann Wharton, Cumberland; three sisters, Carol Alexander, Florida, Joan Fields, Pennsylvania, and Eloise Whittaker, Maryland; two brothers, John Reiner, South Carolina, and Steve Reiner, Virginia; and 10 grandchildren.

Friends will be received at the Scarpelli Funeral Home, Cumberland, today, Thursday, Oct. 4, from 3 to 5 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Funeral services will be conducted at the funeral home on Friday at 11 a.m., with the Rev. Mike Henning officiating.

Interment will be in the Oliver Grove Cemetery. The family requests donations be made to the Cancer Society or the Kidney Foundation.

VERNA M. FRAZEE

Verna Mae Frazee, 86, formerly of Accident, died Wednesday, Oct. 3, 2001, at Goodwill Mennonite Home, Grantsville.

Born Sept. 23, 1915, in Accident, she was a daughter of the late William George Gustav Fratz and Ida Flora (Glass) Fratz. She was preceded in death by her husband, Carl W. Frazee Sr. and one brother, Glen Fratz.

She was a member of Zion Lutheran Church, Accident, and the Ladies Aid of the church.

Surviving are one son, Carl W. Frazee Jr., Piscataway, N.J.; four daughters, Wuanieta M. Frazee, Accident; Leona Dronsfield, Nokesville, Va.; Mary Ellen Younkin, Timonium, Bobbi Sisler, Accident; two sisters, Rosalie Frazee and Margaret Kahl, both of Accident; five grandchildren; and four great-grandchildren.

Friends will be received at the Newman Funeral Home, Accident, today, Thursday, from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. Services will be conducted tomorrow, Friday, at 2 p.m. at Zion Lutheran Church with the Rev. Dr. Wilfred Karsten officiating. Friends may call at the church one hour prior to the services. Interment will be in the church cemetery. Expressions of sympathy may be directed to Zion Church Building Fund.

ANDREW R. SWARTZENTRUBER

Andrew R. Swartzentruber, 22, Oakland, died Wednesday, Sept. 26, 2001, as the result of an automobile accident near Wichita, Kan.

Born June 30, 1979, in Oakland, he was the son of Daniel C. and Elma M. (Petersheim) Swartzentruber, Oakland.

He was a member of the Mountain View Christian Fellowship, Salisbury, Pa.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by three sisters, Leona Swartzentruber, Leah Swartzentruber, and Amanda Swartzentruber, all at home; four brothers, Daniel J. Swartzentruber, Oakland, Luke Swartzentruber, Willis Swartzentruber, and Michael Swartzentruber, all at home; paternal grandmother, Rachel (Byler) Swartzentruber, Oakland; and maternal grandparents, Floyd and Mary (Miller) Petersheim, Oakland.

Friends were received at the Gortner Union Church, Oakland. Services were held at the Mountain View Christian Fellowship, Salisbury, Pa., on Sunday, Sept. 30, with Bishop Jerry Yoder officiating. Interment was in the Mountain View Cemetery, Salisbury.

The Stewart Funeral Home, Oakland, was in charge in arrangements.

Guests of Steve and Sue Hauser on Stemple Ridge were his brothers, Richard of Oklahoma, and "Red" of Michigan.

Visiting with John and Connie Fint at Aurora are friends from Colorado with whom John has stayed when on western hunting trips.

BUSY OCTOBER
by Jean Winters
Aurora Correspondent

Are you aware of how many organizations call October "their" Month? Some of the most well known efforts are made in the interest of cancer — both National Breast Cancer Awareness and Breast Cancer Control Month are October-oriented. But did you know a number of other health concerns call this their month, too? Child health, Celiac Sprue, family, lung, babies' health, liver, Lupus, Spina Bifida, Rett Syndrome, SIDS, plus spinal health, physical therapy, and prescriptions also lay claim to October.

Included are "weeks" of observance — one being National School Lunch, but we also have more health concerns: Hepatitis, hearing aids, Red Ribbon Celebration (drugs), Infection Control, Heart Walk, Child Health and Health Education. It begins to seem we are obsessed with health concerns, so take note: be aware of your body and its signals. Let's try to shorten the list of problems in health we need be concerned to solve. And have a good month, too, for this is only the short list of observances.

By way of reminder, Aurora CEOS will be at the Aurora Post Office on Oct. 2 to distribute literature about breast cancer.

TERRA ALTA

Karen Spiker, Terra Alta, won the quilt drawing at the Preston County Buckwheat Festival. The drawing was sponsored by the Terra Alta Civic Club.

"ATTENTION ALL YE PEOPLE OF THE MOUNTAIN, I present you Ashley Hayes who shall be crowned Queen Ceres the 60th and Cross Kisner who shall be crowned King Buckwheat the 60th," said General Chairman Charles "Bud" Whetsell during last Friday's coronationn ceremony in Kingwood. "They shall reign over the 60th annual Preston County Buckwheat Festival." Hayes and Kisner are pictured above with Dr. O. Claude McGhee and Miss West Virginia 2001 Danae DeMasi, who served as coronation officials for this year's event. Also shown are the king's crownbearer Nicholas Robertson, and the queen's second runner-up Courtney Starcher, far left, and first runner-up Shelly Reynolds, the queen's crownbearer Nash Thomas, and the king's first runner-up Thomas Kromer, all pictured at the far right.

NO PARADE IS COMPLETE WITHOUT CLOWNS...and this pair delighted the thousands of visitors with their antics during Saturday's Buckwheat Festival Parade.

THE PRESTON COUNTY COMBINED MIDDLE SCHOOL MARCHING BAND once again won the approval of the crowd as it brought up the rear of the Farmers' Day Parade during the 60th annual Preston County Buckwheat Festival. The 140 students in grades 5 through 8 from the six middle schools in the county, wearing their own school's uniform, showed their pride as they marched for the fourth consecutive year in festival parades.

PERCHED ON HER ROYAL FLOAT, Queen Ceres LX Ashley Dawn Hayes gave her royal wave to all her "subjects" as she and her court led the way down the parade route for all three Buckwheat Festival parades last week in Kingwood. Seated on the front of the float are Courtney Starcher, maid of honor, left, and Shelly Reynolds, maid of honor. Walking alongside is Tyler White, second runner-up to King Buckwheat LX, who served as an escort for the maids of honor.

ROCKIN' AND ROLLIN' TO THE OLDIES, these beboppers, led by "Elvis" himself, rode the Bruceton Bank's float in Buckwheat Festival parades last week in Kingwood.

DOING THEIR PART to assist New York City and Shanksville, Pa., area fire and emergency services personnel, and also to honor those Americans who were killed in the September 11 terrorist attack on America, were the volunteer firefighters and citizens of Kitzmiller. Donations of food and bottled water for the rescue workers were collected and delivered to Shanksville, and Kitzmiller residents are pictured above unloading those donations. From left are Missi Nesselrodt, Jim Armstrong, Jim Browning, and Marty Smith. Also contributing to the drive were the members of the Oak Park Church of the Brethren. Pictured below, from left, are Armstrong, Browning, Margaret Kinch of Oak Park Church, Missi Nesselrodt with Micayla Paugh (child), Marsha Deem of Oak Park Church, and Smith. At right, Pastor Sam Calhoun of Kitzmiller Assembly of God Church leads a memorial service for the victims of the attack.

by Joan Sussman

The Bittinger 4-H Club held its October meeting on Monday evening and it was demonstration time. That caught me off guard and although my girls were not fully prepared for it they at least had some ideas developing. So they did pull it together to get ready for the meeting, although a lot of the other club members did not have theirs together. Only the Glotfelty kids (the youngest having given their demonstrations at the fair), the Bass kids, and my daughters were ready.

I had a great idea for a group demonstration using all my three girls. I suggested they should demonstrate "How to Show A Market Hog," with Claire as the judge, Caitlin as the shower, and Mere as the uncooperative animal. They could explain the key point of keeping your animal moving in front of the judge, never getting between the animal and the judge, keeping eye contact with the judge, how to use the cane or stick to guide the pig, and to be prepared for hard questions about feed regimen, breeds, weight, etc. However, they preferred to do the three individual presentations.

Mere showed how to make a homemade bird feeder using pine cones, peanuts, and bird seed. Caitlin demonstrated how to make her Aunt Carol's super chocolate cake. Cousin Robbie was just too busy with school work to be ready.

I also planned a special dinner, if they are not already too busy with homework and demonstration preparation, which included a pot roast using the few vegetables from my garden this year. I got one good head of broccoli, a fairly good crop of potatoes, two ripe tomatoes and a few carrots. These were not up to my previous standards. I also baked a fall pie using the few elderberries remaining and a few windfall apples.

In fact this year was a very poor year for apples on our farm. It was not that good either for elderberries since my "city slicker ex-husband" cut my big old elderberry bushes down. It looked to him just like an unaccessible bush, but that old bush provided my grandparents' and my parents' family easy, cheap berries for almost 100 years. Last spring I found a small bush and planted it, but it did not grow too much. I found some bushes on a back road in Bittinger while I hunted for some good, still-alive fall colors for my nature dolls. Caitlin and Claire did the picking duty for me.

I was very impressed on Saturday by not just our own Northern High Marching Band, but also my mother's alma mater, Allegany High School from Cumberland. Also Southern was great, as their drum major was our buddy, Suzanne Gilbert. What a perfect way to spend an autumn evening! My guess is that hundreds of people agree with me and enjoyed several outstanding marching shows performed by local schools, if I can judge from the thick crowds and long lines at the concession stands. They already sent out early flower-grams which I want to send to Claire. It was a very successful fundraising event for the band. Emma Bass, Caitlin, and Mere did duty as judge runners, as they ran to do little errands for the judges.

Ralph and Ethel Buckel had their family home last weekend for their family's "Big Birthday Weekend." With Ralph's birthday on Friday, Ethel's on Sunday, and daughter Judy's on Monday, and Sara's recent birthday, they had reason to celebrate. I believe I heard something about an upcoming great-grandchild for Ralph and Ethel. Ethel and Judy dropped by my house Saturday afternoon to deliver a nice big box of flowers from Judy's garden in Arkansas.

Although still somewhat spotty, the autumn coloration is close to peaking already in Bittinger. The show place around here is, of course, Brennemans' Grove, and it is rapidly approaching full color, but is still lemon yellow, with some green holding out. Probably next weekend it will be in full autumn glory gold and orange. I am very lucky I have a video tape of my horse "Little Joe" and me jumping over the split-rail fence when the grove was in peak colors just a few years before he died. Margaret Hershberger Wagner said that probably most of the leaves will be gone before Autumn Glory weekend.

Last week I wrote about the "blessing jars" being placed in our parish churches. The one in Emmanuel made its debut last Sunday, and it was pleasing and surprising to see the amount of money deposited in its first week. It is our first seed money for humanitarian disasters here and around the world. We should try to fill it with coins and bills before Thanksgiving. One kind of emergency we hope to use it for is now shaping up in Pakistan and Afghanistan, as the refugees flee war and drought as winter and war fast approach them. It would be a very good idea to show them Americans are not enemies of all Islam people and the innocent citizens of Afghanistan. Care and love from Americans could probably stem terrorists more than bombs and hate.

I talked to Aunt Betty Hummel in Washington state, where they have not had a frost yet. Of course, they don't have hard forests up there either. She is very homesick for the fall colors and all the goldenrods. If you want to see beautiful fall scenery, you should take a slow cruise on Foxtown Road. The colors are soft, gentle, subtle, but simply beautiful, with lovely farmlands, and pasture rimmed by old split-rail fences. When you enter a patch of woodland you are surrounded by soft-green, butter-yellow hickory trees. I prefer the soft autumn colors more than brilliant reds and oranges. The forest floor is covered with yellow and gold ferns.

Unfortunately, our "Pappy" Dale will miss all this fall splendor, as he is still in Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown waiting for his blood count to go up high enough to come home.

As I drove around the Bittinger area, I noticed several fields with the last hay crop of the season mowed down. The weather forecast is good for haymaking, being sunny and warm at least until this coming weekend when we are supposed to get cold and rainy weather. Let's hope the farmer will "make hay while the sun shines."

Doerr Construction treated the 2001 Hot Stove champion baseball team and their families at "Smiley's" on Sunday evening. Each of the 12 team members, along with the coaches, received a jacket from the Hot Stove League, with special guests Mr. and Mrs. Rick Hamilton of Cumberland who presented them. Tony Doerr was also there to congratulate the undefeated team members for their accomplishments, having competed against 31 other teams for a 22-0 season. Lenny, Sally, and Torrey Poholsky attended.

A benefit potato bar w/dessert and bake sale will be held at the Deep Creek Fire Company on Sunday, Oct. 14, from noon to 5 p.m., costing $5, for the benefit of Ryan Savage. Ryan was seriously injured in a 4-wheeler accident on September 20. Dessert and bake sale items and monetary donations may be brought to Emmanuel Lutheran Church on Sunday morning, Oct. 14. Contact Sally Poholsky at 301-245-4645 for information and questions.

James Glotfelty was a patient at Monongalia General Hospital in Morgantown for treatment for a heart condition. The cardiac version was successful, and he returned home Saturday, much improved. Before leaving Morgantown, Jim and his wife Donna visited with Dale Glotfelty, a chemotherapy patient at Ruby Memorial Hospital. Dale expects to be discharged in a few weeks. After arriving home, Jim and Donna were among those attending the Fair Appreciation Dinner at the Bittinger Community Building Saturday evening.

Dwaine, Lisa, and Adam Platter, Smithsburg, were weekend guests of Jim and Donna Glotfelty. Ida Reckner was also a Sunday lunch guest. Tim Glotfelty was an afternoon visitor.

Free Safety Seat Checks Scheduled

A free child safety seat check will take place at the Oakland Wal-Mart store this Saturday, Oct. 6, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Certified safety technicians will be available to inspect and help install seats.

This event is sponsored by the Garrett County Health Department, and for further information persons may call the health department at 301-533-0113.

PROUD TO BE AN AMERICAN — Students from Friendsville School participated in a school-wide patriotic activity recently. Students hand painted wooden stars and hearts to resemble the American flag. All students and staff wore them the following day to show their patriotism. This activity was sponsored by R.A.D. (Residents Against Drugs), which supplied materials and volunteers. Nicole Tichinel proudly shows her work.

Yearbook Sale (1950-present)

The Highlander staff has past editions of SGHS yearbooks for sale at $15 each. The books date from the 1950s to the present. Limited years and quantities. Please notify Erin White at Southern High School if you would like to purchase a book.

50th Anniversary of Southern High School

In conjunction with the Southern High School Alumni Association, the faculty of Southern High School is beginning to plan for the 50th anniversary of Southern High School. The initial event introducing the celebration will be a car in the Autumn Glory Feature Parade featuring retired staff from SHS. The car will be driven by David Beard, retired social studies teacher. Accompanying him will be former principal Luther D. Parrack and former librarian Martha DeBerry. Other retired teachers may also participate.

Most of the activities for the 1952-2002 anniversary of SHS will begin in January. The Faculty Social/Anniversary Committee is coordinating all of the events that will be held for the students, while the SHS Alumni Association is planning events for alumni. Many of the athletic teams will be honored at various events, and community help is being sought by Matt Redinger, athletic director. It is hoped that many of the departments of SHS will have their students do projects related to the history of SHS and that these projects can be exhibited in the school and the community.

If you would be willing to be a resource for projects or events, please e-mail Mrs. Joan Lambert at jlambert@ga.kl2.md.us or call SHS at 301-334-9447 between 1:45 and 3 p.m. A special anniversary week during which many activities will occur for the students will take place in April. Look for news articles in this column and newspaper throughout the year.

50th Anniversary Research Participants Needed

Mr. Bender has students who are producing an historical documentary on the 50th anniversary of Southern Garrett High School. His students are looking for graduates who would be willing to be interviewed for the documentary and for research purposes. Students are also looking for pictures, film, video, or any artifacts and memorabilia (diplomas, rewards, certificates, programs from plays or music productions, hall passes, mini-footballs, cheerleading sweaters, football helmets, baseball jerseys, etc.) related to the people and activities that occurred here at Southern High School over the past 50 years. Any person who would like to make himself/herself available as a resource for students researching this subject is asked to please e-mail Mr. Bender at dbender@ga.kl2.md.us or call SHS at 301-334-9447 between 1:45 and 3 p.m.

Ram Partnership

Each month, from October until June, will be sponsored by a different business in the community, which will contribute $200 to help honor and recognize all student success. This will include honor roll certificates, success celebration certificates, honor student plaques, refreshments and decorations for quarterly success celebrations, and other student honors.

In return for this appreciated contribution, the business will receive two unlimited year-round sports tickets, recognition on the school message board, school web site, and the Acorn newspaper for the month of their connection, as well as a picture of the representative of the educational partner in the yearbook and recognition for their month in future agenda books.

This exciting new promotion will strengthen Southern's relationship with the community, which has so graciously helped to support us all of these years. In becoming a "Ram Partner" it is hoped that a family of business associates will satisfy some of our school's needs, while they are provided with the advertising to promote business for their organization.

October's Ram Partner

This month's sponsor is Gregg's Pharmacy, located at 20 North Third Street in Oakland. They stock school supplies, household needs, sports rehab supplies, and prescription drugs. Owned and operated by Ernie Gregg since 1961, Gregg's Pharmacy is a supportive business that has always been active in the education of Garrett County's youth. Gregg's has contributed to Southern by providing jobs to students, which includes being active in the school-to-career program, as well as after-school student employment. They contribute to many high school activities and athletic functions and are a valuable asset to the community.

Mr. Gregg himself is active in most aspects of the community, including: Garrett County commissioner, board of directors for the Historical Society, chairman of the Tri-County Council, board of directors for the Dove Center, and a member of the Oakland Lion's Club. He is a strong believer in the education of students and has worked diligently to provide such opportunities to children of all ages. Thank you, Gregg's Pharmacy. We appreciate your support.

2001 Prudential Spirit of Community Awards

Applications are available in guidance for students, grades 9-12, who wish to be considered for the 2001 Prudential Spirit of Community awards. One student can be selected as Southern's honoree for having participated in outstanding acts of volunteer work in the community. One student will be selected in Maryland as the high school state honoree, who will receive a $1,000 award, a silver medallion, and a trip to Washington, D.C. Each of the 10 national honorees will be awarded $5,000, a gold medallion, and a crystal trophy for his or her school. Applications can be picked up in guidance now. All that is required is for students to fill out the application and return it to guidance by Friday, Oct. 26, 2001.

Some of the outstanding community service projects of the 10 students chosen as the 2001 national recipients included: one who developed a program to provide companionship to handicapped group home residents; one who founded and directed a 5K race to support a center for children with HIV/AIDS; and one who spearheaded a crude-oil recycling program to prevent oil contamination in rural areas.

SIT Meeting Minutes

The School Improvement Team meeting minutes are now available full-text on the school web site under the links page. This is a good resource for students, parents, and community members who would like to keep up with school changes and happenings.

Attendance Update

Reminder to students: please return to Mrs. Smith your completed "white" student information card. This card must be filled out and returned to the attendance office before a student can get an out-of-school pass. Also, students must have prior approval for days using a code 13 (going out of town, visiting a college, etc.). Students may use five code-13 days during the year, but they do count against the eight days allowed per semester.

Coca-Cola Scholarship Available

The Coca-Cola Corporation is offering 50 scholarships at $20,000 and 200 at $4,000 nationwide. Judging will be based on GPA (at least 3.0 cumulative GPA), leadership, community and volunteer activities, and employment during and/or after school. Students are encouraged to apply on-line for this scholarship at www.coca-colascholars.org by October 31, 2001. A limited number of paper applications are available in guidance for students who do not have Internet access. Please see Beverly Sincell if you have any questions.

Spanish Club

We would like to congratulate Claudia Coughlin, Andrea Coughlin's mother. She was the winner of the basket raffle to raise money for the New York Spanish trip, which included a brunch for two at Point View Inn. We would also like to thank Lakeside Creamery for its free scoop of ice cream coupons, which were included in the basket, and all our parents for their generous donations. We raised $300. Muy bien hecho!

State Park Programs

HERRINGTON MANOR/SWALLOW FALLS

The following program has been slated at Herrington Manor/Swallow Falls state parks. Further information on this and other park offerings may be obtained by calling the Herrington Manor office at 301-334-9180.

- Sat. 10/6, and Sunday, 10/7: Fall color hayrides are set for 10 a.m., and 12:30 and 3 p.m., through Garrett State Forest. A park naturalist will accompany participants for the 75-minute tractor-pulled rides.

DEEP CREEK LAKE

The following activities have been scheduled at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Locations and further information on the programs can be obtained by calling the Discovery Center at 301-387-7067.

- Fri. 10/5: Eyewitness Mammals will be shown at 1 p.m; a children's scavenger hunt is set for 3 p.m.; and a "Scales and Tales" naturalist's campfire program will get under way at 7:30 p.m.
- Sat. 10/6: A Snakeroot Trail hike will begin at 10 a.m.; a "Discover Fall Color" hike is set for 1 p.m.; Butterflies will be shown at 3 p.m.; and a "Kid's Night Out!" campfire program is slated for 8:30 p.m.
- Sun. 10/7: An edible and medicinal plant hike is set for 10 a.m.; a "Snakes Alive!" naturalist's program is scheduled for 1 p.m.; Cuddly Cubs will be shown at 2 p.m.; and a "Nature Craft for Kids" activity will be offered at 3 p.m.

Ride The Rails From Oakland To Mtn. Lake Park

Local residents will have a chance to ride a train from Oakland to Mtn. Lake Park on both Saturday, Oct. 20, and Sunday, Oct. 21, as part of the annual Foliage Train ride that comes from Cumberland every year.

Billed as "a chance to relive history" by its promoter Oakland mayor Asa McCain, the two-mile ride will recreate for many residents in the area a time when traveling by rail between the two communities was a 10 cent investment. The rides planned for October will cost $10 for adults and $5 for children under the age of 12.

Once arriving in Mtn. Lake Park, riders will be greeted by residents in period costume, who will offer an outside tour highlighting some of the most historic homes and buildings of the community. The train will leave Oakland on both days at 1 p.m. and return at 2:30 p.m.

"This is a chance to show your children and grandchildren what train travel is like," said McCain. Tickets are being sold in the Oakland and Mtn. Lake Park town halls and will also be available at the Oakland Train Station on weekends. The schedule for the opening of the train station is 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. on Saturday, and noon until 4 p.m. on Sunday.

Persons wanting more information may call the Oakland town hall at 301-334-2691.

Turkey Dinners Slated In Crellin

"Autumn Glory" fundraising turkey dinners will be served at the Crellin Community Building, located along Crellin Street, on Saturday, Oct. 13, from 3 to 7 p.m. The dinner menu features roasted turkey, mashed potatoes with gravy, dressing, sauerkraut, green beans, applesauce, cranberry sauce, and a roll, drink, and spice cake. Prices are $6 for adults and $3 for children under 12, and carryout dinners will be available at $6 each.

The event is sponsored by United Community Services of Crellin, the nonprofit organization which owns and operates the Crellin Community Building.

LOCAL RESTAURANT LENDS HELPING HAND — The employees of the Deep Creek Brewing Company along with the local chapter of the American Red Cross will hold a fund-raiser Monday, Oct. 8. The servers from the brew pub will be donating all of their tips in an effort to help those who were affected by the Sept. 11 tragedy. In addition to the contributions from the employees, the brew pub will also be making a contribution to the cause. The event will start at 4 p.m. and last until 10 p.m. Entertainment will be provided by the Deep Creek Chix, Donna and Peggy. Persons wanting to help may call 301-387-2182. Contributions will also be accepted from those who do not wish to dine in that evening. From the left are Elizabeth Huxford, Darrin Green, Preston Sharps, Morgan Rodeheaver, Stacy Godwin, and Mindy Sanders.

Red Cross Seeks Disaster Action Team Volunteers

The Western Potomac Chapter of the American Red Cross is seeking volunteers to join the Disaster Action Team for Garrett, Allegany, and Mineral (W.Va.) counties. A one-day class session in disaster preparation and relief, for both natural and man-made incidents, has been slated for Sunday, Oct. 14, from 1 to 7 p.m. at the ARC's regional headquarters, 400 Cumberland Street, Cumberland.

Registration for the class must be made by Friday, Oct. 12, by calling the local ARC office at 301-334-3810 or the Cumberland office at 1-800-361-9481. Based on interest, additional sessions may be scheduled.

In Loving Memory of
who passed away Oct. 8, 2000

Sometimes we'll think about you with a smile upon our face.
For all the happy memories that time cannot erase.
And then sometimes we'll think of you and our eyes will fill with tears,
For the emptiness we're feeling since you're no longer here.
But our very special memories of all the yesterdays,
Will keep you close within our hearts and never fade away.
And today with all its memories with a sadness we'll recall,
Someone we loved, someone we lost, you were special to us all.

GRANTSVILLE NEWS

PUZZLEY RUN FOLKLIFE CENTER

Valerie Cardill and Ray Schuler will present a concert of traditional Celtic ballads on Saturday, Oct. 6, at 7 p.m. at the Puzzley Run Folklife Center at Bietschehof Farm. The concert will be held inside the barn and refreshments will be available. Bietschehof Farm is located off of Route 40, two miles east of Keyser's Ridge. To reach the farm from Route 40, persons need to turn left on Zehner Road, and left again onto Hetrick Road, and the farm is on the left. Admission is free and donations will be accepted for Valerie and Ray.

The Dark Forest Haunted Hayride planned for the end of October at Bieschehof Farm has been canceled.

GRANTSVILLE KIDS 'N' CORPORATED

The students involved in the after-school program will travel by Shaffer Tours to Baltimore on Sunday, Oct. 7, to the new stadium to watch the Baltimore Ravens tackle the Tennessee Titans. The bus will leave Grantsville at 6:45 a.m. and return at approximately 9 p.m.

A Special "Lights On After School" open house will be held at the center on Thursday, Oct. 11, from 3:30 until 5:30 p.m. Parents and friends will have an opportunity to talk to the staff and share refreshments.

The students are invited to attend a "Haunted Hay Ride" and hot dog roast in Belle Vernon, Pa., on Saturday, Oct. 13. The bus will leave at 4 p.m. and return between 10 and 11 p.m.

RED RUN MENNONITE CHURCH

The Jubilators Gospel Quartet will present a concert at the church on Sunday, Oct. 7, at 7 p.m. The church is located on the Meyersdale Road, off of Route 40, three miles east of Grantsville. All are invited to attend, and for additional information, persons may call 301-724-6901.

CASSELMAN VALLEY SPORTSMEN'S CLUB

A buckwheat and pancake supper will be held at the club on Saturday, Oct. 6, from 5 to 7:30 p.m. The "all-you-can-eat" meal includes buckwheat cakes, pancakes, sausage, sausage gravy, and beverage. The cost is $5 for adults and $2.50 for children 12 and under.

A muzzleloader match will be held Saturday, Oct. 13, beginning at 1 p.m. Prizes will be awarded and the public is welcome to attend.

The next members' meeting will be held Sunday, Oct. 14, beginning at 2 p.m. Refreshments will be served. All members are urged to attend.

GRANTSVILLE SCHOOL

The first Accelerated Reader reward for the year, the showing of a movie, The Emperor's New Groove, was held Wednesday for students in grades k, 1, and 2. The students in grades 3, 4, and 5 will see the movie on Wednesday, Oct. 10. Students who have earned the required number of points by reading the Accelerated Reader books and taking tests on the books were able to attend the movie.

The Top five readers for September for the most books read were: Adria Graham, (fourth grade), 37 books; Derek Yoder, (second grade), 25 books; Nathan Mast, (third grade), 19 books; Randi Meyers, (fourth grade), 18 books; and Rebecca Engle, (third grade), 11 books.

The Top five point winners are: Skyler Roberts, (fourth grade), 43.5 points; Amanda Brenneman, (fifth grade), 26.4 points; Megan Mast, (fifth grade), 22.8 points; Adria Graham, (fourth grade), 20 points; and Derek Yoder, (second grade), 14 points.

The first "Dime Days" for the Grantsville library fundraiser will be held Wednesday, Oct. 10, for students and staff.

Parents and students are reminded that schools will be closed on Friday, Oct. 12.

SCHOOL PTO

The next executive meeting will be held Wednesday, Oct. 10, at 6 p.m. at the school.

The executive officers have announced the fall fund-raiser for the PTO. Raffle tickets are now being sold by the students, staff, and officers. The cost of the ticket is $5. Four numbers will be drawn the night of the Fall Festival. Holders of the first three numbers drawn will each receive $100 cash. The fourth ticket drawn will determine the winner of $1,000 of gasoline.

The Fall Festival will be held at the school on Friday, Oct., 26 from 6 to 9 p.m., and is a community event.

GIRL SCOUT TROOP #639

The next meeting of the troop will be at the Route 40 School on Wednesday, Oct. 10, from 3:30 to 5 p.m.

SALEM SCHOOL (SALEM CHILDREN'S TRUST)

The students at the school have been working toward earning points for a field trip by having homework done and good behavior. The field trip was then taken on September 21 to the corn maze near Accident.

The students will travel to the Springs Folk Festival this Friday, Oct. 5.

The students in the school's transition classroom are working on two projects related to the events of September 11. The first project is an index of terms, ideas, and pictures about the Pentagon, what happens there, and what the secretary of state does.

The second project involves the entire school in writing letters and collecting political cartoons and other items to encourage two servicemen with connections to the school. One U.S. Marine is the nephew of the school secretary and the other serviceman is a former intern at the Salem school who is serving in the Navy. They have also visited the crash site in Shanksville and created a patriotic bulletin board in the media center.

We, the members of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, extend our deepest appreciation to all of those citizens who helped us aid and assist our fellow firefighters in New York City, and their families. Just by asking passing motorists to drop their spare change into our fire boots, we are proud to report that we collected over $9,100, all of which will be sent to the NYC Firefighters Relief Fund.

A special thanks to Crellin Elementary School students, who collected $190 and also wrote wonderful letters to the NYC fire and rescue personnel.

You, the members of our community, have always come through for us. Thank you for helping us come through for some of our brother and sister firefighters.

SHS Girls Still Unbeaten, But Settle For Tie With BW

The girls' soccer team of Southern High School remained unbeaten this past week; however, they had to settle for a 1-1 tie yesterday afternoon against host Bishop Walsh. The top-ranked Rams came into yesterday's contest following a 5-0 victory over visiting Keyser on Saturday. Their overall record is now 7-0-1, and they have stretched their regular-season unbeaten streak to 19 matches.

Junior striker Brittany Naylor recorded a hat trick and one assist against Keyser on Saturday, as the Rams dominated play throughout the match. They finished with a lopsided 38-2 lead in shots on goal and a 10-0 advantage in corner kicks.

Naylor's first of three goals came less than two minutes into the match off an assist by Jenny Hickman. She doubled the Rams' total with a goal at the 30:31 mark off a feed by Sabrina Scheffel.

Robbin Gregg made it 3-0 when Naylor assisted her with 6:49 left in the half.

Naylor completed her hat trick at the 36:32 mark of the second half when she scored off an assist by Erin Rhodes. Scheffel tacked on an insurance goal with 10:08 remaining in the match to conclude the scoring.

Alasha Rush was credited with two saves in goal for Southern, while Tosha Likin turned away 33 of the Rams' attempts.

The loss dropped the Golden Tornadoes to 1-6-2.

It was a goal by Naylor in the second half of yesterday's match with Bishop Walsh that salvaged a tie for the Rams.

Shera Rowan gave the 8-2-1 Spartans a 1-0 advantage when she scored off an assist by Jennifer Tola with 17:31 remaining in the first half. It was only the fourth goal in eight matches allowed by the Ram defense and their sophomore keeper, Rush.

The Rams, who had edged BW by a 3-2 score early in the season, trailed in shots on goal by a 28-22 margin, and in corner kicks, 10-6.

Two 10-minute overtime periods were played, but neither team could put the ball into the net to break the tie and win the game. Rush recorded 15 saves for Southern, while Kelli Amoroso recorded 17 for the Spartans.

The Rams' next match will be at Northern next Tuesday, and they will entertain Westmar next Thursday.

Northern Girls Edged By Berlin, Then Blank Sentinels

A close loss and a shutout win were the results of two matches played this past week by the Northern High School girls' soccer team, as the Huskies were edged, 2-1, by host Berlin, Pa., on Saturday, but then came back to record a 2-0 Western Maryland Interscholastic League victory over visiting Fort Hill on Monday. The split left the Huskies and Coach Lynn Lais with an overall record of 2-5, a mark which they will try to improve this Saturday in a rematch at home with Berlin.

The score of Saturday's match with Berlin was tied at 1-1 going into the final two minutes, but Jenna Koval scored an unassisted goal at the 2:00 mark to give the home team the victory.

Koval had given Berlin a 1-0 lead at about the 10:00 mark of the first half with another unassisted goal, but four minutes later Northern's Tiffany Yoder scored unassisted to knot the score at 1-1.

The Huskies finished with a comfortable lead in shots on goal, 15-8, and also had a 4-2 advantage in corner kicks. Ashley Warnick and Randi Beiler combined for six saves in goal for Northern, while Laura Beachy recorded 14 for Berlin.

Northern Boys Fall To Elks, Get Shut Out By Campers

It was a another tough week on the soccer field for the Northern High School boys' varsity, as the Huskies were topped by host Salisbury last Thursday, 3-1, and were then hammered by visiting Allegany Tuesday evening, 7-0, in a Western Maryland Interscholastic League contest. The pair of losses dropped the Huskies to 1-6 overall and 1-2 in the WMIL.

Matt Podlesnik was the Huskies' nemesis at Salisbury last Thursday, as he scored all three of the Elks' goals. His first came at the 34:32 mark of the first half off an assist by Shawn Haines. He doubled his team's total with a goal off a feed by Ryan Whitacre with 10:30 left in the first half.

Adam DeWitt cut the Elks' lead in half with an unassisted goal for the Huskies midway through the second half, but Podlesnik tacked on an insurance goal off an assist by Shawn Haines with 13:19 remaining in the match.

Both teams had numerous scoring opportunities, as the Elks finished with a 26-21 edge in shots on goal, and the Huskies had a 6-3 lead in corner kicks. Greg Bender was credited with 15 saves in goal for Northern, while Nick Buterbaugh recorded 16 for Salisbury. The win was the fourth in nine starts for the Elks.

Allegany's T.J. McCullough matched Podlesnik's effort against the Huskies on Tuesday by also recording a hat trick, plus one assist, in the Campers 7-0 romp. He was assisted on all three of his goals by Ryan Browning.

The first came at the 14:20 mark of the first half. Teammate Pat Martin then scored an unassisted goal less than a minute later (13:35), and McCullough made it 3-0 with his second goal, which came at the 9:23 mark.

Aaron MacGray upped the Campers' lead to 4-0 when he scored an unassisted goal less than three minutes into the second half. Martin recorded his second of the night less than two minutes later, this time off an assist by McCullough.

McCullough's third goal, scored with 22:20 left in the match, was off a feed by Browning, and MacGray added an insurance goal at the 16:20 mark to conclude the scoring.

The Huskies were dominated in shots on goal, 24-8, and the Campers also led in corner kicks, 7-4. Geoff Newman recorded 16 saves for Northern, and Justin Schellhaus turned away five shots for Allegany.

The win improved the Campers' overall record to 4-1-2, and their WMIL mark to 2-1-1.

The Huskies will be back in action this evening at Southern, will entertain Bishop Walsh next Tuesday, and host Petersburg next Thursday.

The Huskies had several more opportunities to score in the first half, as they finished with a 17-8 advantage in shots on goal and a 3-1 edge in corner kicks. Beiler and Warnick combined for six saves, and Fort Hill's Becky Beeman turned away 15 shots by Northern.

The Northern junior varsity team earned a 5-0 shutout in the preliminary match, with Laura Costa and Amy Brenneman each netting two goals, and Carissa Kamp scoring one.

After Saturday's home match with Berlin, the Huskies will entertain undefeated Southern next Tuesday.

Husky Duffers Take Two On Way To Coming SHS Showdown

Northern High School's golf team took advantage of the outstanding weather this week to take two matches, downing Allegany and Bishop Walsh during a Cumberland triangular Monday, and taking a narrow three-stroke win in yesterday's home course three-way with Beall and Southern.

The Huskies ran away with Monday's tourney at the Cumberland Country Club, carding a team 180 to Alco's 195 and BW's 204. Mark Bergstrom's 42 earned the NHS duffer low medalist honors, far under the 48 scores of runners-up Earl Paul of the Campers and Rhett Mitter of the Spartans.

Northern's familiarity with its home Wisp Resort links helped it to a 194 team tally yesterday, while Beall recorded a 197 and SHS brought up the rear with a 200. Bergstrom's low-medalist 40 set the pace for the match, and the Rams' Matt Skidmore shot a 43 to earn second place. Other top scorers were SHS's Nathan Swartzentruber and Beall's Brian Kasecamp, as each carded 44s, and Northern's Mike Bergstrom and the Spartans' Mike Kasecamp, both of whom recorded 48s.

NHS is slated to host Westmar and Bishop Walsh in a 4 p.m. Monday triangular prior to next Thursday's Oct. 11 visit to the Oakland Golf Club for the Garrett County Championship Tournament showdown with the Rams. Southern is idle until the county tourney. Tee-off for the showdown is 4 p.m.

SHS Boys Topped 1-0 By Sentinels, Crushed By BW

Unable to produce any goals in two matches this past week resulted in two losses for the Southern High School boys' varsity soccer team. The Rams were shut out, 1-0, in a defensive Western Maryland Interscholastic League battle with visiting Fort Hill last Thursday, and were then dominated by undefeated Bishop Walsh, 6-0, Tuesday afternoon on the Spartans' field.

The pair of defeats dropped the Rams to 3-5 overall and their WMIL mark to 0-3. The will try to get back into the win column this evening when they host cross-county rival Northern.

The only goal of last Thursday's match was scored by Fort Hill's Vivek Purohit, off an assist by Justin Mallow with 13:09 remaining in the first half.

The defensive effort by both teams was strong and played nearly evenly, as the Sentinels finished with a 14-12 edge in shots on goal, and the Rams held a 4-2 advantage in corner kicks.

Earning the shutout in goal for the Sentinels was Jake Sullivan, while Chris Menker gave up just one goal for the Rams. It was the second straight one-goal loss against an area-ranked opponent for the Rams, who were nipped by undefeated Beall, 2-1, the previous Tuesday.

The Southern junior varsity was edged in the preliminary match, 2-1. Colby Ingram and Deshaies scored goals for the Sentinels, and Karl Hillen netted the Rams' lone goal.

Eric Perlozzo, the area's leading scorer, paced the 11-0 Bishop Walsh Spartans against the Rams on Tuesday, as he finished with a hat trick and one assist. Teammate Dado Papic recorded two goals, and Camron Saifi scored the sixth one.

Papic struck paydirt first, scoring off an assist by Conor Mullaney at the 30:06 mark of the first half. Perlozzo made it 2-0 with a goal off a feed by Matt Tam with 3:06 left in the half.

Perlozzo's second strike came unassisted at the 25:12 mark of the second half, and Saifi scored another unassisted goal just over a minute later to make it 4-0.

Papic scored off an assist by Perlozzo with 17:50 to play, and Perlozzo upped it to a 6-0 lead with an unassisted score at the 13:09 mark.

The Rams were outgunned by a two-to-one margin in shots on goal, 30-15, and the Spartans also led in corner kicks, 5-1. Menker was credited with 19 saves in goal for Southern, and Jay Sulek turned away eight shots for Bishop Walsh.

After tonight's contest with Northern, the Rams are scheduled to play at Beall next Tuesday. Tonight's junior varsity match will be kicked off at 6:00, and the varsity match will get under way at 7:30.

Runnin' Rams Lose To Sentinels; Fifth, Seventh In Area Meet

The Runnin' Rams, Southern High School's cross country teams, were defeated by visiting Fort Hill on Saturday at their Broadford Park course, and then on Tuesday placed fifth (girls) and seventh (boys) in the annual Area Meet, hosted this year by Hampshire.

The Southern boys were topped by Fort Hill, 25-33, while the SHS girls lost by a similar margin, 26-33.

Matt Frederick and Craig Conroy were the top finishers for the Southern boys, as they crossed the line in fourth and fifth places, respectively, with times of 18:30 and 18:31.

Fort Hill's Robert Wilson, Justin Faith, and Sean Castillo all crossed the finish line together and in first place, with a time of 18:02.

Finishing in seventh through 10th places were Southern's Keenan Shaffer, Jason Weeks, Tom Crozier, and Brian Crabtree.

The girls were paced by Southern's Melissa Durst, last year's 1A state runner-up, who recorded a time of 21:43. Teammate Natalie Domenick was second in 21:55, followed by four Fort Hill runners: Stephanie Fleming, Brittany Twigg, Liz Tichnell, and Kaitlin Bensley.

Southern's Stephanie DiSimone was seventh, and Holly Sauder placed ninth.

Durst also led the Southern girls in the eight-team Area Meet, as she placed sixth overall with a time of 22:48. Domenick was 13th in 23:35, and Emily Cosner was 22nd with a time of 24:52.

Fort Hill won the girls' title with 41 points, followed by Frankfort with 78, Beall with 90, Westmar with 102, Southern with 105, Keyser with 117, Allegany with 155, and Pendleton with 188.

Westmar's Jennifer Patton was the top finisher for the girls, recording a time of 21:07.

Matt Frederick was the top finisher for the seventh-place Southern boys, as he placed 18th with a time of 19:41. Craig Conroy and Nathan Rodeheaver were close behind in 20th and 21st places, both with times of 19:45.

The Westmar boys won the area title with 59 points,

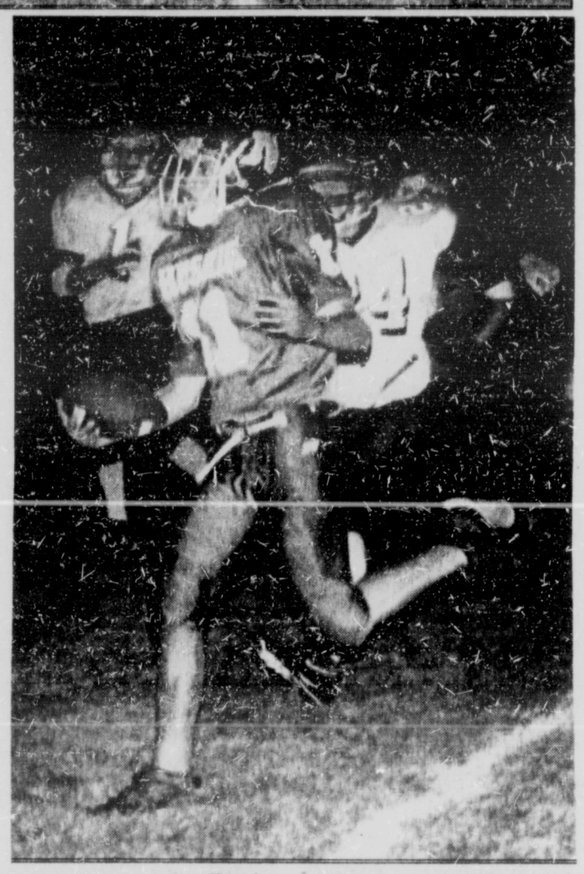
CAUGHT IN THE TD ACT, Northern High varsity halfback Cheston Bachtel (#22) is shown above streaking around the left side of the Turkeyfoot defensive line as he turns the corner on what became a 47-yard touchdown run early in the third quarter of NHS's 39-6 homecoming win Friday. Bachtel took advantage of a powerful Northern front line that included Jeff Yommer (#76) and Tommy Menges (#79) to score three times on the night as he rolled up 105 yards, while teammate Dustin Wiland (not pictured) accumulated a game-high 119 yards. Quarterback Aaron Mitchell (#11), below, got into the act as he is shown crossing the goal line on a four-yard keeper in the second quarter. The Huskies are slated to host unbeaten Allegany tomorrow evening at 7:30 p.m.



No Place Like Home For Huskies In 39-6 Romp Over Turkeyfoot

"We may have begun to turn the corner," Northern High School varsity football coach Phil Carr said after the Huskies decimated visiting Turkeyfoot 39-6 Friday night during in NHS's homecoming outing. If so, the previously winless Northern squad (now 1-3) changed its direction none too soon, for tomorrow night unbeaten Allegany brings the state's 19th-place ranking to the Cove.

"We hope to pull off a big upset over Alco," said the Huskies' skipper said after Friday's win, which was paced by three rushing touchdowns recorded by halfback Cheston Bachtel. "Our guys have the right attitude now, and we've been reminding them what they did to a heavily favored Cambridge-South Dorchester team in last year's state quarterfinals. If we get physical, like we did against Turkeyfoot, we've got a good chance."

Key to Northern's physical dominance of the Rams was a revamped offensive scheme moving two of the unit's biggest players, Trey Brenneman and Josh Swandol, from their original twin halfback positions to the line at guard and tight end, respectively. Like a mechanic tinkering under the hood, Carr made the switch in hopes of giving his offense a boost, and the adjustment paid off with added horsepower immediately.

"Trey had an outstanding game, and did a great job opening holes in Turkeyfoot's defensive line," observed Carr. "I can't say enough about the leadership he supplies for our front line; he's big, powerful, and smart — his past experience at quarterback, and more recent work as a halfback, gives him an insight into placing his blocks to best spring a ballcarrier for a good gain. He showed it time and time again Friday night." The coach also praised Swandol's blocking performance, and noted that the tight end gathered in the Huskies' only pass completion of the night.

That pass reception was key to Northern's first scoring drive, a march "typical of what our offense had been doing up until the opening games of this season," Carr stated. The 12-play drive grew on a steady diet of four- and five-yard runs until quarterback Aaron Mitchell hit Swandol with the 21-yard strike across the middle that put NHS in scoring position at the five yard line. Several plays later, Bachtel banged headfirst into the endzone from one yard out to put the Huskies up 6-0 at the 4:13 mark of the first quarter.

It wasn't long into the following stanza before Mitchell upped Northern's lead with a four-yard scoring keeper. Bachtel's extra-point carry made the score 14-0 with 10:57 on the clock. Halfback Ethan DeVore later scored at the 4:14 mark on a six-yard run to put the Huskies up by 20, a lead they took into the halftime locker room.

Scenting victory in the air, Northern's hounds wasted no time getting into the endzone as the third quarter got under way. With 10:15 showing on the clock, Bachtel took the ball and tore around the corner of the Rams' line to find open daylight. The speedy halfback didn't stop until 47 yards later when he crossed the goal line. "Moving Cheston from fullback to halfback allows him to make better use his speed to get around the ends," said Carr. "We hope to be seeing a lot more of that this year." Bachtel scored his third touchdown of the night seven minutes later, this time on a nine-yard TD carry that Brenneman capped with an extra point kick to make the score 33-0.

Turkeyfoot finally cracked the scoreboard at the 7:15 mark of the fourth quarter when quarterback Chance Hinzey scored on a three-yard keeper. Northern still had a trick up its sleeve, however, and backup quarterback Andrew Frantz, only a sophomore, scampered 19 yards into the endzone on a keeper of his own with 1:14 remaining for the final score.

"Our offense controlled the tempo of the game, and that put us in the driver's seat," Carr remarked. "We had 59 rushing plays, and kept Turkeyfoot's defense on the field while our defenders were able to stay rested and fresh. In turn, our defense shut the Rams' offense down; they only got the ball inside our 20 once or twice."

Northern's runners gained an outstanding 394 total yards, with a new face in the backfield gaining the majority of that tally. Sophomore fullback Dustin Wiland (5-7, 170) made his season debut in style, reeling off a game-high 119 yards on just 12 carries. "Dustin had a great game, he's a great addition to our offense. He's a quick runner who likes to put his shoulder down when he has to and go through people; he's also an excellent blocker," stated Carr.

Bachtel rolled up 108 yards on the way to his three touchdowns, and fellow halfback DeVore turned in some fine runs in addition to his touchdown carry. "Ethan played tough; he had a bum ankle but turned in a fine performance," the coach remarked.

Northern's vaunted "grave-digger" defense made its first appearance of the season, as the Huskies held Turkeyfoot to just 178 yards of total offence. Joel Resh and Pete Stein paced the unit as each picked off a Hinzey pass attempt.

Carr refused to let his team rest on last week's laurel's as he looked ahead to the Allegany showdown. "We know our season is on a hinge and could go either way now. To win, which we can, we have to play a mistake-free game as well as beat them in the trenches. We know they're bigger than we are, so we'll have to play smarter and hit harder."

The senior-loaded Camper squad, which handed the Southern Rams a 28-7 defeat last Friday, fields a Wing-T offense that tries to trick defenders with a lot of misdirection while pounding away at a defensive line's interior.

Alco senior fullback Chad Jacavino (5-9, 215) is a tough inside runner who has averaged over 100 yards per game this season. Senior halfback Jeremy Sellers (6-1, 185), last season's Area Offensive Player of the Year for the Westmar Wildcats, is a speed threat who reeled off 170 yards against Southern, while classmate and fellow halfback Robbie O'Brien (5-6, 140) also possesses good outside speed. Senior quarterback Ryan Strother (5-11, 170) is a left-handed passer who has displayed uncanny accuracy for a high school quarterback over his Camper career.

Allegany's defensive game plan revolves around loading the line in a 6-2 scheme, which the Campers "play as good as anyone in the state," Carr observed. Seniors Levi Lutz (5-11, 215) and Jacavino twin at linebacker, making the lion's share of Alco's tackles.

Tomorrow night's Cove kickoff is slated for 7:30 p.m.

Steelers Slay Dragons Via 32-0 Shutout

The Northern Steelers Division I unit ran over the visiting Hampshire Dragons for a 32-0 win during a Cumberland Area Youth Football League contest Saturday. The lopsided victory was Northern's first of the five-game season.

The Steelers' Tyler Warn got Northern on the board twice in the first quarter with touchdown runs of 32 and 27 yards. Tommy Smith broke away in the second quarter for a 42-yard rushing touchdown, and the Steelers took a 20-0 lead into the halftime locker room.

Northern scored twice in third quarter, as Justin Orndorf hit Chris Speicher with a 63-yard scoring pass, which was followed by Smith's second long touchdown run, this one from 36 yards out.

The Steelers' steel-curtain defense was keyed by interceptions recorded by John and Matt Wiland. Wes Speicher and Andy Folk were also singled out for outstanding play.

Northern visits the AES Patriots on Saturday.

NHS Jayvees Flatten Mounties In 34-8 Triumph

Beall's Mountaineers were no match for the Northern High School junior varsity football squad Monday night, as the Husky juggernaut rolled to a 34-8 win in Frostburg. The win gives the undefeated NHS Jayvees a 4-0 record, with each of its wins coming seemingly at ease.

Northern's Derek Workman got the ball rolling with a three-yard touchdown run in the first quarter. Fellow running back Michael Wolf rushed 40 yards later in the stanza to help NHS go up by 16 points. The Huskies aired out their passing attack in the second quarter, and field general Robert Stark struck gold twice in the form of split end Rico Alston, who hauled touchdown passes of 20 and 48 yards. Cory Fike capped Northern's scoring by streaking 70 yards for a third quarter touchdown that gave NHS a 34-0 lead. Beall's Crede Brodie scored on a one-yard plunge in the final period to stave off a shutout.

Stark had a hot hand throughout the night, connecting on 9 of his 10 pass attempts, some of which covered a lot of ground. The Huskies' defense was led by the hustle of Ian Wooden and Chad Carr.

Northern is slated to host Allegany at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

The month comes with sorrow & sadness,
it brings days I will never forget.
Though you left without a good-bye,
my memories of you will never die.
I miss you more than anyone knows,
as a day passes, my emptiness grows.
Tears I shed, I wipe away,
but the ache in my heart,
will never go away.
No one knows the grief I feel,
but your memories will always be there.

Deeply missed, Lisa

Rams Outmatched By Alco In Error-Filled Contest

If the Southern High School varsity football team could take away the first and fourth quarters of last Friday's game against Allegany, they would have returned home from Greenway Stadium in Cumberland with a 7-0 victory over the state-ranked Campers. But the home players proved that they deserved to be ranked, as they sandwiched their scoreless second and third quarters with 14-point first and fourth periods to record a 28-7 victory. It was the third defeat in four starts for the Rams, while the Campers upped their perfect record to 4-0.

The Ram defense could not contain halfback Jeremy Sellers and fullback Chad Jacovino, who scored two touchdowns each and rushed for 170 and 116 yards, respectively. Sellers carried the ball 22 times and Jacovino had 21 carries.

Most of the damage done by Sellers was in the first quarter, when he picked up 126 of his yards and both of his touchdowns. His first came at the 7:45 mark of the first quarter when he capped a nine-play, 70-yard drive with a nine-yard scoring run. Billy Orndorff booted the first of four conversion points to put the Campers up 7-0.

An interception of a Tobi Stoner pass by Robby O'Brien at the Allegany 28-yard line set up Sellers' second TD, as he scored via a 23-yard reverse on a third-and-nine with 2:37 left in the quarter. Orndorff's conversion made it 14-0.

The Rams responded with a touchdown early in the second quarter when Stoner connected with slot Chad Panther on a 44-yard pass for a touchdown. Panther then kicked the extra point to cut the Campers' lead in half.

The Rams had an opportunity to narrow the gap further when they recovered an Allegany fumble on the ensuing kickoff, but their drive was stopped on the Alco 33.

Yet another chance to rally came when the Rams recovered another Allegany fumble, which was followed by a 12-play drive that put Southern inside the Camper 10. A sack of Stoner on third down led to a 28-yard field goal attempt by Panther with just 17 seconds left in the half, but his kick was wide to the left.

After a scoreless third quarter, the Campers put the game away with a pair of touchdowns in the final stanza. The first came on a one-yard run by Jacovino with 7:25 remaining. Orndorff's conversion kick made it 21-7.

The Rams' following possession was ended when Sellers picked off another Stoner aerial at the Camper 45 and returned the ball to the Ram 35. Four plays later, Jacovino scored on a 12-yard run with 3:10 left in the game, and Orndorff's fourth extra point ended the scoring.

The Campers finished with a 366-140 lead in total offense. Both teams had trouble hanging on to the ball, as the Campers fumbled four times and lost three of them, while Southern gave up possession four times, once by fumble and three times by interception.

"We definitely had some opportunities, but we just couldn't convert," said Ram coach Fred Gregg, "which really has been our story all season. But against a team of this caliber, you have to capitalize on every one of their mistakes if you hope to have a shot at winning the game.

"There really were some bright spots, though," he continued. "We are playing better in several areas every week. We just have to keep working."

The Rams will face yet another formidable opponent this week in Preston High School, as the 3-3 Knights will come to town on Friday. Among the Knights' victims this season is Keyser, a team that edged Southern in the Rams' opener.

"They play a great schedule," Gregg said, "which includes the Morgantown teams. We will definitely be the underdogs again this week."

Preston is led offensively by senior running back Matt Liston (6-1, 185); senior fullback Jared Lawson (5-8, 210); and senior slot Stanley Moore (5-5, 180).

"Liston is one of the strongest backs we will see this season," Gregg said. "They put the ball in his hands as much as possible, and he gets outstanding blocking from Lawson and Moore, who are both big, strong kids who try to run right over you."

While the running game is the bread and butter for the Knight offense, they will also put the ball into the air, with one of the favorite targets being senior tight end Ben Whetsell (6-0, 185). "He is also an excellent blocker," Gregg added.

The Knights run primarily from the I-formation, but also utilize the wishbone and shotgun formations.

Their 5-2 defense is anchored by Lawson and senior Grant Westbrook (6-3, 185) at linebacker positions.

"Preston is a big school, so they have a lot of success in filling their positions with good players," Gregg said. "We are a relatively small school, and have to do the best we can with the numbers we have. But we don't look back at our 1-3 record, and we also try to never look ahead. We do everything we can to simply focus on the next game and try to win each week, one game at a time. That's our philosophy, whether we are 0-4 or 4-0."

Gregg said that one of the keys to being successful against the Knights will be the play of the Ram line. "We have to play well there, both offensively and defensively, or it could be a long night," he said.

As for an injury report, Gregg said that there are no players sidelined, "but we really got banged up against Allegany," he said. "We think everyone will be able to play, but certainly not everyone will be 100%, which concerns us."

Friday's game, which is the Rams' annual homecoming clash, will kick off at 7:30 p.m.

SHS "Football Field" Raffle Sales Slated

The Southern High School football program has scheduled a fund-raising "football field" raffle, with sales taking place at each of the remaining varsity home games beginning tomorrow, Friday, Oct. 5. The football field will be "divided" into approximately 280 plots that can be purchased for $10 each, along with six end-zone plots available at $15 each.

The plot sales will continue until the kickoff of the Rams' final home contest, set for Friday, Nov. 2. The holders of the plots where the football is situated at the end of each quarter of the Nov. 2 game will win $200 apiece.

Complete contest rules will be given to each plot buyer at the time of purchase.

SHS Jayvees Fall To Alco

The junior varsity football team of Southern High School was crushed by visiting Allegany on Monday, 40-0, as Kurt Jacovino ran over the Ram defensive unit for 210 yards of rushing and three touchdowns.

Michael Nines added 78 yards on 11 carries for the Campers, who finished with over 400 yards rushing.

Jacovino, who carried the ball 14 times, scored on runs of four, 20, and 65 yards, and also ran for a two-point conversion.

Also scoring for the Campers (4-1) were Nathan Geoff, who returned the opening kickoff 78 yards for a touchdown, David Lease on a 21-yard run, and Rance Smith on a six-yard carry.

The Ram jayvees are scheduled to play at Preston next Monday.

Ex-Husky Player To Benefit From Football Drawing

Tomorrow night's Northern High School home football game against Allegany will feature a 50-50 drawing to raise funds to help defray the medical expenses of Ryan Savage, a 2000 NHS graduate and co-captain of 1999's undefeated (regular season) Husky varsity football team. Savage was seriously injured two weeks ago in a four-wheeler crash near his Accident home, and continues to recuperate at Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown, W.Va. He is the son of Gary and Connie Savage.

Northern's football program, which usually accrues half of the proceeds raised during home game 50-50 drawings, will donate its entire portion of tomorrow night's sales to Savage, who also lettered in wrestling and track during his Northern athletic career.

A potato bar dinner has also been scheduled for Savage's benefit. See Page B-2 for details.

Three Inducted Into Southern Football Hall

Three former outstanding football players for Southern High School were recently inducted into the SHS Football Hall of Fame during pre-game ceremonies at the athletic field. They are Aaron Newcomb and Seth Tressler, both members of the SHS Class of 1997, and Dave Upole, a member of the SHS Class of 1973.

Newcomb was a two-year starter for the Rams in the 1995 and '96 seasons, and amassed over 2,600 yards rushing in those two seasons. He holds the single game rushing record of 262 yards. He was named to the first team All-Area squad as a running back both his junior and seniors years, won All-State honors his senior year, and was selected as one of the top 50 players in the state.

Newcomb won the Gold Helmet award as the most outstanding player his junior year, and MVP award his senior year. He is currently attending Garrett Community College, pursuing a degree in law enforcement.

Tressler was a three-year All Potomac Valley Conference and All-Area selection, and was only the second SHS player in history to be named the Area Defensive Player of the Year. He led the Rams in tackles his senior year with 76, including 30 solo tackles.

He also excelled in baseball, and is considered the best hitter ever at Southern. He received a football scholarship to James Madison University. He currently attends Indiana University in Pennsylvania, where he is majoring in sociology.

Upole played halfback, middle linebacker, and returned kickoffs and punts in the 1970, '71, and '72 seasons for Coach Bill Frost. During his junior year, the Rams allowed a total of only 72 points, and gave up six or fewer points in seven games. As a senior, he led the Rams to an 8-2 season. He was named Best Offensive Back and won the Golden Helmet award both his junior and senior years. He was the second leading scorer in the PVC his senior year, with 18 touchdowns. He was named to the Tri-Valley Conference team both as a junior and a senior.

Upole works as a fire boss for Mettiki Coal Company, where he has been employed for 22 years.

The three are now among 26 players, two coaches, and two community leaders named to the SHS Football Hall of Fame.

Fall Homecoming Scheduled At SHS This Weekend

The fall homecoming activities at Southern High School will be held this Friday, Oct. 5, and Saturday, Oct. 6.

The homecoming football game between Southern and Preston County high schools will begin Friday at 7:30 p.m. at the Southern High football field. Halftime activities will include the introduction of the fall homecoming court and the crowning of the king and queen. A performance by the Southern High School Marching Band, under the direction of Richard Clever, will follow the coronation.

The fall homecoming dance will begin at 8 p.m. on Saturday at the Southern High School cafetorium. Music will be provided by the Music Express, Frostburg. At 9 p.m., the homecoming court will be introduced during a special ceremony.

Homecoming activities are planned and sponsored by the Southern High cheerleading squad with the support and assistance of the squad's parent group. Adviser for the squad is Harry Biggs, and assistant advisers are Debbie Friend, Angie Biggs, and Stephanie Filsinger. Directors for the parent group are Ann Collins and Abby Nichols.

Ram Freshmen Top Sentinels Behind Everd

A 170-yard, two-touchdown effort by Chad Everd led the Southern High School freshman football team to a big 14-7 victory over visiting Fort Hill last Wednesday night.

Everd carried the ball only nine times and averaged nearly 20 yards per carry. He scored his first touchdown on a 76-yard run in the first quarter. Corey Bosley booted the extra point to give the Rams a 7-0 lead.

Fort Hill's Kevin Page answered with a 14-yard touchdown run later in the period, and the successful conversion kick knotted the score at 7-7.

Everd broke loose for a 62-yard touchdown run in the fourth quarter, and Bosley again kicked the conversion to give the Rams the lead and the victory.

Adding 43 yards of rushing for the Rams was Mike Schmidl. Corey Tressler spearheaded Southern's defensive effort with seven tackles and six assists.

The Rams were slated to host Keyser last night, but the Keyser team bus was involved in a traffic accident. None of the 31 students and four adults on the bus was injured.

Maddawgs Pound Visiting Reds By 66 Total Points

The Northern Maddawgs Pee-Wee Football League program hosted the GFC Reds for a pair of blowout victories at Northern High School Saturday, as the combined result of the two games gave the Maddawgs an overall 66-point advantage. The Maddawgs' A&B teams combined to annihilate the Reds in a 52-26 runaway in Game 1, improving their record to 4-3, while Northern's C team ran off with a 40-0 win over its Reds counterpart.

The A&B contest featured two Maddawgs touchdowns. Josh Duckworth opened the scoring by running 27 yards for a touchdown. Duckworth followed that score by intercepting a Reds pass attempt, although Northern's offense failed to capitalize on that opportunity. However, the Maddawgs defense came through again when Dylan Miller recovered a fumble. That recovery led to Duckworth's second rushing touchdown late in the stanza.

The Maddawgs A team defense opened the second quarter by forcing the Reds to give up the ball on downs, which set up a Blair Silbaugh touchdown run. Ryan Winebrenner scored a rushing touchdown on Northern's next possession, and a Silbaugh interception led to a Maddawg touchdown run by Jared Lapp. Despite a subsequent Reds touchdown, the outcome was never in doubt. Northern's offense got in another score before the half ended on a 20-yard scamper by Silbaugh.

The Maddawgs B team came out strong in the third quarter as Erik Thureson recovered a Reds fumble, setting up a 24-yard touchdown run by Nick Graham. One of many outstanding two-way Maddawgs players, Graham also recovered a fumble in the stanza.

The fourth quarter opened with Northern's A team giving up an early touchdown, but the Maddawgs got back on their feet when Andy Ganoe reeled off a 22 yard-touchdown run. Zach Fratz got in the act with two long runs (not for scores), and Zach Rogers picked off yet another Reds pass.

The 26-point win gave the A&B Maddawgs their fourth win of the season and a shot at the playoffs.

The Maddawgs C team dominated its 40-0 victory from the outset as Kameron Kamp took off for a 53-yard touchdown run on the game's second play. Kamp hit paydirt again a short time later with a 13-yard touchdown run, making the score 13-0 at the end of the first half.

On the Maddawgs first possession of the second half, quarterback Jesse Lapp rushed for a nine-yard touchdown on a quarterback keeper. The very next Northern series saw Kamp take off on a 16-yard touchdown run. The Maddawgs' Austin Tombley then pounced on a Reds fumble to give Northern another possession, and Josh Mason carried the ball 17 yards for a touchdown. After the Maddawgs defense shut the Reds down yet again, Kyle Rosenberger rushed for a 12-yard touchdown.

The Maddawgs will travel to Frankfort Saturday to take on the Colts for their final game of the season.

Ram Netters Hit Stride With Wins Over Hampshire, Beall

Southern High School's varsity volleyball team appears to have hit its stride, as the once-struggling Rams upped their record to 5-3 after recording a pair of 3-0 sweeps over Hampshire and Beall this week.

SHS's sweep over Hampshire Monday required some concentration, as the Rams took the first two games from the host Trojans by rather narrow 15-13, 15-12 margins, then rolled to a 15-8 win in the nightcap. Kristen Rollman paced Southern with 16 assists, and Jessica Sharon supplied five kills and two blocks. Holli Harris, Alexis Storey, and Erin Frantz tallied four kills apiece.

The Rams' junior varsity unit fell 2-1, as 15-3 and 15-1 Hampshire wins bookended Southern's lone 15-13 victory.

Last night's home match saw SHS roll to 15-10, 15-8, 15-11 victories over the Mountaineers. Rollman had 24 assists, Sharon had eight kills, and Harris and Frantz tallied five kills. Angie Johnson had seven points, six aces, and 10 attacks for the Mounties. The win capped Southern's regular season mastery of Beall, as the Rams swept the Mounties in both meetings.

SHS's jayvee squad took its first game 15-5, lost Game 2 by a 15-7 score, and won the final game 15-6. Andrea Ryan had 10 points and two aces, and Megan Pike added nine points and three aces.

SHS will host the Preston Knights tonight in a 7:30 p.m. match, with jayvee play commencing at 6 p.m. The Rams visit Westmar on Wednesday.

Husky Netters Lose To FH, But Rebound For Two Wins

The varsity volleyball team of Northern High School showed its mettle this week, for despite having Fort Hill snap its unbeaten winning streak Monday in a 3-0 sweep, the Huskies pulled together for a 3-1 win over Hyndman Tuesday and a 3-0 sweep of Westmar last night. Northern's record stands at 8-1 and, after they play Beall Tuesday, all eyes will turn to the Cove Wednesday as the Huskies host the Sentinels in what could be the match of the season.

Northern's first loss of the season came as the Sentinels pulled off a 15-10, 15-9, 15-8 sweep. Heather Lander's 11 service points led the Huskies, while Christie Flockhart contributed seven points. FH's Robyn Waltz paced all scorers with 16 service points and seven aces.

The Huskies' junior varsity unit took its match 15-9, 15-12. Kristi Garlitz recorded 11 service points for Northern, while teammate Valene Snyder supplied eight points.

NHS got back in gear with its Tuesday win over visiting Hyndman, taking the first two games 15-10, 15-9, falling in Game 3 by a 15-7 score, then rebounding to take the nightcap 15-13. Jolene Brenneman led the way with 20 attacks, nine points, and two aces. Flockhart recorded 14 attacks, and Amanda Frantz contributed nine attacks and eight points. Tara Emerick had 17 points, six kills, and 16 hits for the Hornets.

Hyndman handed the Northern JVs their first loss of the year, 16-14 and 15-8. Melissa Patterson had 10 points for the Huskies while Sara Thompson netted eight points for the Hornets.

Last night's sweep of Westmar came with ease, as the Huskies skinned the Wildcats 15-6, 15-9, and 15-7. Nicole Sisler paced NHS with nine service points and two kills, while Frantz had eight service points and Brenneman recorded two kills. Carrie Duckworth's seven service points led Westmar.

The Huskies' JV swept its match 15-4 and 15-6. Lauren Wiley had seven service points and Yesha Patel contributed five service points. Sarah Jones recorded eight points for Westmar.

Northern is idle until Tuesday's visit to Beall, followed the very next night by the grudge rematch with Fort Hill at the Huskies' Igloo. Jayvee play begins at 6 p.m., followed immediately by the varsity showdown.

Ravens Remain Undefeated In Youth Football

The undefeated Ravens rolled to a 25-0 victory over the Raiders in the NFL Division (full contact) of the Oakland Youth Football League this past weekend, while the second-place Redskins whipped the winless Jets, 25-6.

The Ravens are atop the rankings with a 6-0 mark, followed by the Redskins at 4-2, the Raiders at 2-4, and the Jets at 0-6.

In the NCAA Division (flag), the First United Buckeyes crushed the TCI Cougars, 39-0; the Gregg's Pharmacy Mountaineers flattened the Team One Terps, 33-7; the Gonder Insurance Tigers defeated the Rinker Construction Nittany Lions, 30-20; and the Pro-Fit Insulation Bears edged the F.O.P. Fighting Irish, 32-26.

The Mountaineers and Buckeyes are tied for first place in the division with 5-0-1 records.

2001 NORTHERN MADDAWG CHEERLEADERS — The Northern Maddawgs Pee Wee Football League Cheerleaders A & B squads will perform at a cheerleading exhibition beginning at 2 p.m. this Sunday, Oct. 7, at Frankfort High School in Short Gap, W.Va. The Northern Maddawgs C team cheerleaders, who will be pictured next week, will compete in the first portion of the C Team Tournament on Sunday, Oct. 14, at Allegany College of Maryland in Cumberland.

Garrett Netters Still Searching For Bearings After Four Losses

The woes continued this week for the slumping Garrett Community College volleyball team, as the Lakers were swept in all four of their matches. GCC fell twice on Saturday, 3-0 to Catonsville and 2-0 to Essex, then suffered a 3-0 defeat at the hands of Anne Arundel the following day. Last night Garrett was swept in three straight games at Essex.

Saturday's opening match with Catonsville was never in doubt, as the Lakers fell by game scores of 30-16, 30-14, and 30-9. Marianne Unger paced Garrett with six points and an 11-for-11 service tally, while Amber Stewart added five points. The second match of the day was a much closer affair, as Essex bested the Lakers by a mere 30-28 margin in the Game 1, then took a 30-23 win in Game 2. Unger was GCC's top performer again with a 15-for-15 service tally and three aces. Lauren Stillwagon added three points and went 11-for-11 from the service line, while Stewart recorded five points and connected on all nine of her service attempts.

Garrett was within reach of a game victory several times the following day against Anne Arundel, but fell 30-22, 30-14, and 30-25. Stewart and Jessica DeWitt each recorded eight points, while Laura Johnson was 31-for-34 on the attack with three kills.

Essex stymied GCC again for the second time in the week last night, sweeping the match 30-24, 30-27, and 30-17. Johnson put together a six-point, six-block, five-kill, and two-service ace performance, while going 17-for-19 on attack. DeWitt had 10 service points, three aces, four assists, and one kill, while going 33-for-33 on sets and 7-for-7 on the attack. Stillwagon had three points, two aces, and was 31-for-32 setting with four assists, and Unger had five service points and an ace.

The Lakers (1-12) are slated to travel to Butler CC tomorrow for a three-way, with CC of Beaver rounding out the field. On Saturday GCC hosts a 1 p.m. quadrangular as Beaver, CCAC Boyce, and Howard visit, and Allegany's Trojans visit Garrett on Tuesday for a 6 p.m. match.

AVS Students Gain Experience Leading Summer Programs

Students and faculty of the Adventure Sports program at Garrett Community College recently completed another summer during which they led several groups through a variety of adventure recreation experiences. The participants have ranged from students in private schools to executives with large corporations.

The Adventure Education Guide Service (AEGS) completed its fourth season with over 700 participant days of enrollment that generated over $42,000 in revenue, AVS program director Mike Logsdon said.

Several sessions were conducted for students and staff of Sidwell Friends, a private school in Washington, D.C. The offerings included rock climbing, whitewater paddling, mountain biking, orienteering, challenge course, field games, and nature study. A nature study component was taught by Natural Resources and Wildlife Technology program director Kevin Dodge, who led nature hikes. Ten adventure sports students completed the one-week AEGS guide training conducted by Steve Tomb, associate professor of adventure sports.

Another activity, corporate team building, involved adventure sports instructional staff, AEGS student guides, and professional facilitators from North Carolina. One of these sessions was conducted for 45 top executives of Worldcom near Swallow Falls State Park. Five-member teams constructed five Tyrolean traverses that participants then used to cross a short gorge by hanging suspended from a rope and pulling themselves along hand-over-hand. (See picture.)

Another session was conducted for 35 managers of Rainbow Day Care centers from five different states who participated in a range of challenging activities led by AVS students and faculty.

"Adventure sports students who helped with these team-building events received practical on-the-job experience applicable to future careers," commented Logsdon, adding that they also met community service requirements by serving as volunteers at festivals held in West Virginia and Maryland early this fall.

TEACHING ADVENTURE SKILLS — Students in Garrett Community College's Adventure Sports program, along with faculty members, got first-hand experience in how to teach AVS-based courses this summer. Working with the assistance of lead facilitators from North Carolina who had been contracted by the Adventure Sports Institute, the Garrett students led groups including Worldcom executives through team-building activities such as the construction and use of a Tyrolean traverse, shown above, commonly used by mountaineers to cross streams and ravines.

Meals On Wheels

with this reduction in our service, we have far more reason for concern."

Brode and others involved in the program maintain that the meal delivery service is hurt by several misconceptions, including the idea that "big federal dollars" are available, or that the people receiving the meals are not truly in need.

"The fact is, the program's state, local, and federal funding cannot support a five-day-per-week service," Brode said. Special grants, such as "Senior Helpings" from the National Meals and Wheels and Phillip Morris, are vital. However, foundation grants such as these are in great demand, Brode said. This year, "Senior Helpings" received 350 requests for funding totaling approximately $13 million. As a result, Garrett County Area Agency on Aging's proposal was not selected.

"Having been a beneficiary for the past three years, we are disappointed," said Brode, "but feel fortunate to have been able to increase meals services during the fiscal year ending Oct 1, 1999, 2000, and 2001 with 'Senior Helpings' providing a total of $85,000 during that time."

"Some of the stories that have occurred after our seniors heard the news have been heartbreaking," said Ronnie Padmos, Older Americans Act program coordinator for the Area Agency on Aging. "One lady who really depends on the meals told us that she would gladly quit getting the food altogether if it would help feed someone else five days a week. Another lady said that she would donate an extra $1 a week if she could get her meals five days a week."

Both Brode and Padmos have been actively seeking alterative funding since the amount of the Phillip Morris grant has been diminished. Already in the works is a local fund-raising event which will include hot hors d'oeuvres, beer, and a wine-tasting contest. The event is scheduled for November 16 at the Senior Center in Grantsville.

The highlight of the evening will be the showing of an Emmy-winning documentary titled "Images of Maryland." The program includes a large segment on Leo Beachy, a Garrett County photographer in the 1920s. Maryland Public Television (MPT), which produced the film, will supply door prizes and is sending its senior executive producer up for the event, according to a Community Action spokesperson. Organizers of the festivities are currently contacting caterers, restaurants, and wine shops to ask for their participation in return for being listed as sponsors.

Brode and Padmos said the event will be heavily advertised and that invitations will be sent out to local dignitaries (including Lt. Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend) and others with an interest in the welfare of the elderly in the area.

Anyone wishing to assist with either the event or with donating to the Meals on Wheels program may do so by calling either Brode or Padmos at 301-334-9421.

Smouse Chosen

a beautiful person in the great state of Maryland," Slagle wrote in her nomination letter.

She cited numerous reasons why Smouse should be the county's "Most Beautiful Person." His generous acts include: presenting $4,000 worth of scholarships per year to two Northern High students who plan careers in the health field; providing Goodwill residents rides to the mall; entertaining the residents; donating an organ, piano, and gazebo to Goodwill; and caring for his wife, who has Alzheimer's disease.

Smouse will be honored, along with winners from other counties, in Annapolis on November 14 with a ceremony and reception. Governor Parris Glendening is scheduled to attend as well.

The other nominees for the award were Gerald Iman; members of the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company: Brian Chaney, Jason Hull, Jason King, Andy Teter, Darla Teter, and Robert Sines; Terry and Doug Riley; Michelle Duda; Charles Nolan; Elsie Brady; Larry Gnegy; Betty Wellborn; James Frantz; and Clifford C. Dewitt.

"All the nominees are winners," Carol Riley, MMBP coordinator for Garrett County, said, "but, unfortunately, only one person can be chosen as Garrett County's Most Beautiful Person."

THE MOUNTAINTOP CRUISERS CAR CLUB will sponsor the fourth annual Autumn Glory Festival Car Show this year; however, the location for the show has been moved to Broadford Park. The show will be held Sunday, Oct. 14, with registration beginning at 9 a.m. The photo above was taken when a number of members' cars were parked along Second Street in Oakland. See story for details.

Autumn Glory Car Show Will Be Held At Park

Mt. Top Cruisers Car Club is sponsoring its fourth annual Autumn Glory Car Show on Sunday, Oct. 14, at Broadford Lake Park. Registration will be from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. The registration fee will be $7. Judging will begin at 1 p.m. and the trophies will be awarded at 4 p.m. Spectators are admitted free.

Vehicles are judged on cleanliness and workmanship, and not originality. A visible fire extinguisher is required, and the decision of the judges is final. Club members' vehicles will not be judged. Spectator and trailer parking (for those trailering their vehicles) will be available.

There will be a Chinese auction, raffles, 50/50s, door prizes for the car show participants, plus "rock & roll" music. Food will be available, and this show will be held rain or shine.

There will be 12 classes with three trophies per class and one Best of Show trophy, plus dash plaques for the show participants. Car classes are as follows: antique and classic production cars 1900-1932, 1933-1948, 1949-1960, 1961-1967, and 1970-1976; muscle cars 1960-1967, 1968-1976; pickups to 1976, antique and custom; street rods and customs to 1942 (cars); street rods and customs 1943 to 1976 (cars); 1977 and up for cars; and 1977 and up for trucks. Classes are subject to change on the day of the show.

For more information about this show, persons may contact Ron at 301-334-2838 or Gene at 304-735-5226 or e-mail gfevans@iceweb.net.

This is the club's first year of holding the car show at Broadford Lake Park, and members note their appreciation to the mayor and town council of Oakland for allowing the club to have the show there.

Local Residents Receive Church Honor Medals

Bishop W. Francis Malooly, western vicar of the Catholic Archdiocese of Baltimore, recently presented Archdiocesan Medals of Honor to 25 persons during mass at St. Michael Church in Frostburg.

Five Garrett County residents were recipients of these medals: Don and Patti Battista of St. Peter the Apostle Church in Oakland, Dolores Gloecki of St. Peter at Deep Creek Lake, and Don and Juanita James of Immaculate Conception Church in Kitzmiller.

The Medal of Honor was approved by Archbishop William D. Borders in 1984. The medals are awarded to men and women (clergy, religious, and laity) in the archdiocese of Baltimore for their outstanding contributions to the church.

To receive this honor, according to Rev. Donald J. Parson, "persons must be in good standing as Catholics [and be] exemplary individuals. They must be persons who have made longstanding or significant contributions of time, talent, and/or treasure on archdiocesan and parish levels. And, lastly, must be persons who have shown leadership qualities by their commitment to the church and its mission of service to God's people."

The medal is a bronze crucifix that is four inches wide. On one side of the medal, the words "Love," "Service," and "Disciple" are inscribed, along with three flames to symbolize "the recipient's burning desire to these three qualities." The other side of the medal shows the coat of arms of the archdiocese. A ribbon on which the medal hangs is green and white.

Previous Garrett County recipients are Wilda and Tommy Massi, Norm Regnier, Clarence Stem, Deacon James, and Christine Comfort.

DCL Policy, Review Board Meeting Slated

The Deep Creek Lake Policy and Review Board will hold a public meeting Monday, Oct. 15, at 7 p.m. at the Deep Creek Lake Discovery Center. The center is located in Deep Creek Lake State Park.

The agenda for the meeting includes a review of the public comments received on the Recreation and Land Use Plan and discussion on future work to implement the plan.

Policy and Review Board meetings are open to the public, and the board will accept input and public comment during the meeting. Further information on the meeting can be obtained by contacting Paul Durham at the Deep Creek Lake State Park office at 301-387-4111.

Grantsville Office Of Dove Center Expands

The Dove Center (Domestic Violence/Sexual Assault Resource Center Inc.) recently announced that the Grantsville office has expanded. Currently, there is staff available at the center Monday through Friday.

The Grantsville office now provides two counseling rooms, a conference room, and a group room. The Dove Center offers free services to victims of domestic abuse, sexual assault, date rape, children from violent homes, child victims of sexual abuse, and adults molested as children.

Also available are a 24-hour hotline, referrals to appropriate resources, temporary shelter, crisis and individual counseling, advocacy, accompaniment to legal and agency appointments, support and educational groups, and a speakers bureau.

There are offices located in Oakland and Grantsville, with outreach centers located in Hoyes and Kitzmiller. For more information, persons may call the hotline at 301-334-9000, the Oakland office at 301-334-6255, or the Grantsville office at 301-895-4300.

WEATHERIZATION DAY DECLARED – Garrett County Community Action's weatherization program was recently recognized by the Garrett County commissioners by declaring Oct. 30 as Weatherization Day in Garrett County. The program is instrumental in reducing the energy consumption and improving the living environment of the homes weatherized. In fiscal year 2001, the program weatherized more than 40 homes for the elderly and income-eligible families. Pictured above, in the front row, left to right, are Commissioners Wendell Beltzel, Fred Holliday, and Ernie Gregg. Standing are Community Action employees Rick Bowman, housing quality inspector; Jason Hensley, Bobby Stemple, installers; Rodney Powell, auditor/field supervisor; Brenda Roszell, program coordinator; Pam Nelson, vice president for community services and family development; and Loring Young, director of community development programs. Southern Band Booster Bingo Resuming Friday

The Southern Garrett High School Band Boosters will resume their regular weekly bingo games this Friday, Oct. 5, at the National Guard Armory in Oakland, it was announced this week by booster president Richard Hill. The games had to be suspended immediately following the September 11 terrorist attack on the United States because the National Guard was placed on a heightened level of security. However, the local unit has received permission to resume allowing other local organizations use of the armory.

Games will get under way at 6:30 p.m. All are welcome.

Southern Band Finishes Third At Spectacular

The Southern Garrett Marching Band of Southern High School finished in third place in Group II at the annual Northern High School Marching Spectacular, held Saturday at Husky Stadium and sponsored by the Northern Garrett Band Boosters.

The Southern Band, under the direction of Richard Clever and Duane Salisbury, earned a score of 74.90, less than a point behind second-place Atholton High School (75.65). The Allegany High School Band, defending state champion, won the Group II division with a score of 81.95.

Suzanne Gilbert, drum major of Southern Garrett, was for the second week in a row named Best Drum Major.

"We were against some very good competition, and we made a number of changes to our show this past week which added to the pressure," Clever said. "I think the kids handled it very well. This should help us in the future."

The Keyser High School Band, competing in Group IV, won the overall competition with a score of 82.25. The host Northern Garrett Band performed in exhibition.

The Southern band will participate in two competitions this Saturday, first at Westmar High School in Lonaconing, and then at Allegany High School, Greenway Stadium, Cumberland.

Town Hall

OAKLAND

The mayor and town council held its monthly meeting on Monday, Oct. 1.

- Amber Stalnaker and two other Southern Middle School students presented their thoughts on a youth activity center. This presentation was a part of their service learning program.
- Trick or Treat will be held in Oakland on Wednesday, Oct. 31, from 6 to 8 p.m. According to Mayor Asa McCain, next year the four towns and the Lions Club will meet and decide on the same date to hold the activity.
- The town agreed to extend the lease for 50 years to the Oakland Golf Club. George Scheffel, representing the golf club, reported on the expansion. A sprinkler system has been erected over the entire course, and the golf cart tracks have been paved. The new golf pro has started a youth golf program, at no charge, that has been extremely popular, Scheffel said.
- A resolution for First United Bank, R2001-07, was discussed. The bank is offering an "in house" sweep account for the town's accounts. This will ensure daily computerized collateralization, and will also give the town approximately double the amount of interest currently being earned on the checking account.

The next meeting will be held Monday, Nov. 5.

LOCH LYNN

The mayor and town council meeting was held at 7:30 p.m. on Oct. 2.

- William Rudd, town attorney, and State's Attorney Lisa Thayer-Welch were in attendance.
- Julie Coleman has been installed as the new clerk and has also been appointed by Mayor Larry Friend as resident agent.
- The new town office hours are Tuesday and Thursday from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., except for the first Tuesday of the month when the hours are from 11:30 a.m. until 7 p.m. The clerk will also attend the council meeting at 7 p.m.
- Effective Nov. 6, council meetings will be held the first Tuesday of the month at 7 p.m. instead of the first Monday of the month.
- Trick or Treat will be held on Saturday, Oct. 27, from 6 to 8 p.m. A Halloween dance will be held on the same evening for grades 6-12 in the community center all-purpose room from 7 to 10 p.m.
- Leaf pick-up will be done on Nov. 2 and 3 and again on Nov. 9 and 10. Residents must rake leaves to the edge of the street.
- The town council approved the purchase of a new stomper to be used in street repair.
- Effective Oct. 1, all sewer and garbage fees must be paid at the Garrett County Sanitary District office located in the courthouse.
- Four residents have filed for two open council positions. They are: Sheila O'Neil, Ron Friend, Betty Wolford, and Leland Hargrove.
- Anyone wishing to secure an application for an absentee ballot for the Nov. 5 general election must apply in writing or pick up the application in person at regular office hours on or before Oct. 18.
- The general election will be held on Monday, Nov. 5, from 11 a.m. until 7 p.m. at the Loch Lynn Heights town hall.

Next meeting of the town council will be held on Nov. 6.

ACCIDENT

The council meeting was held Monday, Oct. 1

- The oil recycling tank has been removed from the town lot. Persons may now take their oil to the Bumble Bee and Grantsville sites.
- Leah Brenneman and the Rev. Roland Nairn met with council concerning the newly purchased Christmas decorations. The dedication date for those decorations will be Dec. 8.
- The mayor and town council approved the Rural Legacy Plan.
- Trick or Treat for town residents will be Wednesday, Oct. 31, from 6 to 7 p.m. Residents wishing to participate are asked to turn on their porch lights.

The next meeting will be held Monday, Nov. 5, 7:30 p.m.

THE HOST BAND of the 2001 Marching Spectacular is the Northern Garrett Marching Band of Northern High School, which is pictured here during its exhibition performance at Husky Stadium this past Saturday. There were seven other bands in the competition, including the Southern Garrett Band, which placed third in the Group II division. See story for details.

Watercolors Of Area Resident On Display At GCC Art Gallery

An exhibit of watercolor paintings by local artist Arwana Schoemer will be displayed at the Art Gallery of Garrett Community College from tomorrow, Oct. 5, through Oct. 25. The show features Schoemer's most recent work with "luminous watercolors," which utilizes a technique of pouring transparent washes. The public is invited to a reception honoring the artist tomorrow, Oct. 5, from 7 to 9 p.m.

Originally from West Virginia, Arwana currently resides seasonally in Florida and in the Deep Creek Lake area. Her landscapes and floral images reflect, she stated, "the beauty of this area that is reminiscent of her mountain memories." She has taught private watercolor classes over the years, but is currently concentrating on her own work and exploring "new and exciting" methods of applying paint.

Although her primary focus is watercolor, Schoemer also uses gouache or acrylic as a watery medium, depending on the subject matter in her paintings. She has also done professional photography, and exhibits her photos in gallery shows from time to time.

Schoemer has an extensive background in art, having earned a degree in studio art at the University of Maryland, College Park, and having studied with leading watercolor painters across the country and abroad. She belongs to several watercolor societies and art centers, where she has earned recognition through exhibits and awards. Among those is the Baltimore Watercolor Society, where one of her paintings was accepted for the society's prestigious "2000 Mid-Atlantic Regional Watercolor Exhibition."

She has exhibited her works in many locations in Maryland, West Virginia, New York, and Florida. Locally, her paintings may be seen in the lobby of the Wisp Resort Hotel, at the Garrett County Memorial Hospital as part of the Loar Auxiliary Permanent Art Collection, or by appointment in the artist's studio.

The GCC Art Gallery is open to the public from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday, and on evenings and weekends during special events. For more information, persons may contact the GCC Art Department at 301-387-3024.

The exhibition is made possible in part by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council.

State Officials

Williams.

"We've been working for a bypass for 30 years, and are starting to lose patience," McCain commented, noting the spring opening of Wal-Mart has increased vehicle traffic, and that the state's own projections indicate that nearly 5,000 additional vehicles each day will be traveling the Oakland section of Garrett Highway by 2025. "Let's have the state see to what it can do to move things along by purchasing land along the right-of-way that are tying it up in with the Smart Growth issue." The town of Oakland is more than halfway through an annexation process, which could reduce the current 30 percent of the route that is outside the Smart Growth Priority Funding Area (PFA) to less than 10 percent, a development that Williams said would help the project along considerably, but added that at this point the construction timetable remains open-ended.

"The Oakland bypass is Garrett County's number one priority," Commissioner Wendell Beitzel reiterated. "We'll do what we can to get it moving; hopefully the state will see we're serious and get behind us."

County officials and citizens discussed several other project requests that were greeted with greater optimism by the state representatives.

Traffic signals, a priority of past transportation meetings, are being installed along Garrett Highway in the high-use areas of McHenry and Deep Creek Lake. Flashing signals began operating this week at the Mosser Road intersection, and a full-signal (red, yellow, green) traffic light will be installed at the Glendale Road intersection before winter. Although a full signal, the Glendale Road lights will operate on a flashing mode except during peak use times (tourist season), when they will be switched to full signals. The Mosser Road signals are strictly flashing yellow and flashing red lights, with no capability at this point to operate as full signals.

In response to a citizen's request, District 6 traffic engineer Fred Crozier said the state will conduct a traffic count along Garrett Highway in front of the Wal-Mart store to see if a traffic light is warranted there. He also said that a request by Mayor McCain to study the existing traffic signals in downtown Oakland to see if the traffic flow can be moved along more smoothly. McCain suggested that re-timing the stoplight at Second Street and Route 39 could help the traffic flow throughout the downtown area.

State representatives also outlined their timetables for the following projects:

• Resurfacing of I-68 from the West Virginia state line to Route 42 will begin this month, and be completed early next summer.

• Resurfacing of Garrett Highway between Monte Vista and Gortner roads will be completed by the end of October.

• Resurfacing of several streets in Loch Lynn will begin next spring and be finished in the fall.

• Bridge deck replacement of the Bloomington Road bridge over the CSX tracks is well under way, and should be completed by this winter.

• Intersection improvements on Grantsville's Main Street where it meets Bittinger and Springs roads will begin next spring and be completed in the fall.

• Construction of two truck-climbing areas along Route 42 on Elder Hill will begin next year and tentatively be completed by next winter. One will be located at the bottom of the hill, and the other will be located two-thirds of the way up. A truck stop/brake check pull-off area will also be placed on the hill's descent.

• An intersection improvement project at Bittinger and Sky Valley roads will get under way in the spring and be completed next fall. The project will involve clearing sight lines and straightening a curve along Sky Valley Road that can put vehicles attempting to pull onto Bittinger Road into a precarious situation.

State officials also discussed the results of the two-year, $750,000 study to select a north-south corridor to develop that will support economic development in western Maryland. After considering Routes 522, 219, 220, and I-81, the four-state study selected a combined corridor of Route 219 north of I-68 and Route 220 south of I-68. The next step, according to Williams, is to encourage West Virginia to cooperate in a study of its own.

The meeting was one of 24 Transportation Department visits around the state from September through November. Each fall, the department presents its draft program to every county and Baltimore City for review and comment, then prepares a final report to present to the Maryland General Assembly in January.

What's Happening Our Town Theatre

OTT Slates Oct. Events Such As Teen Coffee, Ghost Walk, Sale

The month of October will include a number of events and activities at Our Town Theatre in Oakland, according to Jane Avery, artistic director. The first part of the month will feature special evenings for local teenagers, followed by Autumn Glory and Halloween activities for the slightly younger crowd.

The schedule is as follows:

Oct. 11 — a teen coffee house after the Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade, including a dinner for Southern and Northern high school marching bands at 5 p.m.

Oct. 13 — Autumn Glory sale, featuring a wide variety of items and "knick-knacks" for children.

Oct. 20 — Kids' Costume Workshop, from noon until 3 p.m. For $4 each, children will be guided in making original costumes out of the theatre's "old bits and pieces." Teenagers and adults will be on hand to give each youngster individual attention. Reservations are required and must be made by Oct. 15 by calling 301-334-5640.

Oct. 25, 26, 27, 30, 31 — "Autumn Gory" (OTT's haunted house). This event is not gruesome or terrifying, Avery said, but "just a little scary and a lot of fun. OTT's haunted house will chill you, thrill you, and make you laugh," she said. Participants should be at least middle-school age or older, she stressed. Tickets, which will be $5 each, will go on sale at the theatre during Autumn Glory. Haunted house visits will be scheduled every 15 minutes from 7 until 9:30 p.m. Persons are urged to purchase tickets in advance.

Oct. 25, 26, 27, 30, 31 — the Ghost Walk. Participants will meet some of the Garrett County ghosts that walk the streets of Oakland at night, Avery said. Starting at 10:30 p.m., ticket holders will take a guided tour through the downtown section and will encounter some of the local spirits from the past. Avery said the program is designed only for older teenagers and adults. All tickets are $5 and should be purchased in advance. Tickets for the Ghost Walk will go on sale at the theatre during Autumn Glory.

Cast For Sanders Family Christmas Released By OTT

Our Town Theatre has announced the cast for its holiday play, Sanders Family Christmas, which will be presented in November.

The cast is as follows: Reverend Oglethorpe, Matt Eary; Burl Sanders, Richard Hill; Vera Sanders, Patty Brenneman; Stanley Sanders, Len Eiswert; Dennis Sanders, Jon Wildesen; Denise Sanders, Suzanne Gilbert; and June Sanders, Jill Holler.

The first read-through will be held Monday, Oct. 8, at 7 p.m. at the theatre. The production dates are Nov. 13-17 at 8 p.m.; Nov. 18 at 2 p.m.; and Nov. 27 - Dec. 1 at 8 p.m. Reservations may be made starting Nov. 1 by calling the theatre at 301-334-5640. All tickets are $5.

Sanders Family Christmas was written by Connie Ray and conceived by Alan Bailey, with musical arrangements by John Foley and Gary Fagin. This musical is produced by special arrangement with Samuel French Incorporated and is funded in part by the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council.

SERENDIPITY

I suppose outright predictability is something that has to be expected from a feelgood romance. Peter Chelsom's Serendipity, a lighthearted tale about two lovers who decide to leave their future in the hands of fate, does not exactly practice what it preaches, following a tried and true formula very much guided by human hands. But at least Chelsom is getting better at script evaluation; his two most recent films, The Mighty and Town & Country, were deeply flawed before they left the page. Despite the fact that one can see its outcome an hour away, this movie, written by freshman Marc Klein, is an enjoyable romp with good performances by co-stars John Cusack and Pearl Harbor star Kate Beckinsale, and equally good turns by a small supporting cast.

Featuring a standard Cusack story (boy meets, loves, and loses girl in first half hour, boy obsesses about girl for rest of movie), Serendipity takes place largely in pre-September 11 New York City, where ESPN producer Jonathan Trager (Cusack) and aspiring psychologist Sara Thomas (Beckinsale) first bump into each other at Bloomingdale's while trying to buy the same pair of cashmere gloves for a Christmas present. They spend the afternoon together walking, talking, and skating in Central Park, and have the best time of their lives, but have to admit they are both currently attached. Refusing to give him her last name, Sara (who strongly believes in destiny) decides to try an experiment. She writes her name and number in a book and donates it to a used bookstore, and instructs Jonathan to write his name and number on the back of a $5 bill. If she ever sees the bill again, or if he runs across the book, then they'll know they're meant to be together. So that's it; they say goodbye and part ways. And they each take one glove.

Cut to seven years later. Having long since given up finding each other (Sara nas subsequently moved to San Francisco), the two are both about to be married to other people. Jonathan's wedding to Hallie (Bridget Moynahan) is scheduled for tomorrow, in fact, and Sara's marriage to self-absorbed musician Lars (Northern Exposure's John Corbett) is not far off. But both of them are getting cold feet and remembering the love they let slip away. With the aid of his best friend, NY Times obituary writer Dean (Jeremy Piven), Jonathan decides to give fate a hand, beginning a desperate, 11th-hour search for the lady he only knows as Sara. Unbeknownst to him, Sara, with the help of her friend Eve (Molly Shannon), does the same.

In a way, this film defies critique—if you like this type of movie, you'll like it; if you don't, you won't. It helps to have competent actors, since without them it could quickly turn into a cloying treatise on love at first sight. But Cusack and Beckinsale make all the difference, and what results is a reasonably whimsical date movie. But be careful: if you make this your first date, you may end up going home with nothing but a glove. ★★★★

ZOOLANDER

Ever since There's Something About Mary catapulted him from the host of a popular MTV comedy series to household word status, Ben Stiller has been trying to re-create whatever it was that constituted that movie's magic. He's had hits (Keeping The Faith), misses (Mystery Men), and in-betweens (Meet The Parents), but never reached the kind of megahit status he achieved in Mary. Zoolander, his self-directed, self-written (with Drake Sather and John Hamburg) star vehicle featuring his simple-minded male model character, Derek Zoolander, isn't going to do it either. But it's not as bad as its trailers make it look.

Following the formula originated in the made-for TV shorts Derek Zoolander: Male Model (1996) and Derek Zoolander University (1997), the film centers around the beautiful but dim-witted Derek, whose various steely-eyed, puckered-lipped facial expressions (or "looks," as he calls them), all of which are the same, have made him the top male model in the U.S. for four years running. That position is about to be challenged, however, by the up-and-coming Hansel (Owen Wilson), a pretty-faced, puckering blond who is into extreme sports and recreational drug use. Covering the story for Time magazine is reporter Matilda Jeffries (Christine Taylor, a.k.a Mrs. Ben Stiller), who at first finds Derek vain and repugnant, but soon discovers that he may be in danger. It seems that eccentric fashion mogul Jacobim Mugatu (Will Ferrell, dolled up in a poodle-style hairdo to match his poodle-style poodle), who has hired Derek for an upcoming gig, has plans to brainwash him and train him to kill the new Malasian prime minister. This is because the new P.M. has pledged reform in child labor laws, which will force the U.S. fashion industry to pay fair wages to the Malasian sweatshop-working children who make their products.

While the idea of this film is questionable at best, Stiller has apparently gained some recognition for his good-natured lampooning of the male fashion modeling industry by having his short films appear at the MTV fashion awards to general acclaim. So the logical next step would be to cash in and make a big-budget Hollywood movie. The film is dumb and generally unfunny, but it has its moments. One of its fun aspects is the inclusion of numerous cameos by people like David Bowie, Andy Dick (in extreme, Oompa-Loompa-esque make-up), Cuba Gooding Jr., Lenny Kravitz, Natalie Portman, and Winona Ryder, among others. Also on board are Stiller's father Jerry (Seinfeld's Frank Costanza) as Derek's agent, and a scruffy and unkempt David Duchovny as the former model who tips Matilda off to Mugatu's sinister plot.

Don't go to see Zoolander for incisive, witty comedy or interesting characters. Go for the purpose of seeing Will Ferrell in a poodle wig screaming "Kill the prime minister!" with an orange face, as seen in a hallucination during Derek's brainwashing session. Don't go for an intelligent plot or a heartwarming romance, but go to see Christine Taylor being serviced by half a dozen male models while under the influence of mind-altering Asian tea. Don't go to see a biting satire of the U.S. fashion modeling industry, go to see Ben Stiller attempt to pull his leopard-print bikini underwear off without removing his pants. That's the kind of thing you just can't see anywhere else. ★★★

HEARTS IN ATLANTIS

I have been a fan of Anthony Hopkins since way back when he was smarting off to his mother Katherine Hepburn in The Lion In Winter. But even I have trouble getting my arms around his latest starring vehicle, Scott Hicks's Hearts In Atlantis, a quasi-supernatural story about an aging psychic who moves in upstairs from a young boy and his divorced mother, and changes their lives. The film seems at once dripping with sentiment and emotionally barren, as if director Hicks is either trying too hard or not able to get his actors to properly immerse themselves. Moreover, the story, adapted for the screen by William Goldman from a portion of a novel of the same name by Stephen King, has a strange and fragmented feel, as if major plot and character elements were cut out. Such excisions are often necessary for the sake of brevity, but it must be done in such a way as to to keep the narrative flow intact; I think this story has lost too many teeth.

The film starts with a short prologue starring David Morse as photographer Robert Garfield, who goes to visit his childhood residence in Connecticut after learning that the second of his two best friends has passed away. Though the house is condemned and in dilapidated shape, he goes in and immediately begins reliving the events that began with his 11th birthday, back in 1960. In this flashback, which constitutes most of the film, young Bobby Garfield is played by Russian-born child actor Anton Yelchin, and his two friends, Carol (Mika Boorem) and Sully (Will Rothhaar), are still very much alive.

On the morning of his birthday, Bobby discovers that he will not be getting the beautiful new bicycle he wanted, since his mother Elizabeth (Hope Davis) is having trouble making ends meet since his father disappeared and left her with a stack of bills. Also on that morning, a new tenant arrives who will be renting the room in the attic—a Mr. Ted Brautigan (Hopkins), who offers to hire Bobby to read the newspaper to him for $1 a week so that he may save up and purchase the bike for himself. Though Elizabeth doesn't trust the old man, Bobby takes a liking to him, as do his two friends. He soon learns that there's more to it than just reading, however—he's also expected to keep a watch out for what Ted calls "low men," who are apparently pursuing him for some mysterious purpose. While Bobby's mom breaks one mother-child appointment after another to work late for her boss (a man of questionable character), Bobby spends more and more time with Ted, eventually learning that he has the ability to read what other people are thinking. In fact, he can impart that ability on Bobby with a simple touch. This, it turns out, is why the "low men" are after him. Then, two events that happen concurrently impact Bobby's and his mother's lives in a way that they never expected.

While this film has the potential to be either a heartwarming coming-of-age story or a tense psychological thriller, it doesn't really achieve either goal, often bogging down in cryptic philosophy and slow-moving moments of inexplicable character development. The script seems stilted and inaccessible; the actors seem distracted. Though there are moments of emotion, especially for Bobby, Yelchin seems detached, as does his adult counterpart, Morse. This is apparently a choice by director Hicks, but it seems to run counter to the intended theme of the text. However, the film does show why Hopkins is such a well-respected actor; his essay of Brautigan, while distant, is subtle and tender, and the film boasts some touching moments. ★★★

Oakland Update

by Mayor Asa McCain

There is a train coming to Oakland on Saturday, Oct. 20, and Sunday, Oct. 21, the week after Autumn Glory, as part of the annual fall foliage excursion from Cumberland. The train ride is a full two hours long from Cumberland, and it takes you over trestles, through tunnels, and up the famous 17 mile grade, which is the steepest on the East Coast. You can participate by calling 1-800-TRAIN50, or by going to the web site www.wmsr.com. The cost is $55 for adults and $40 for children. The price includes a box lunch at Oakland.

For the first and possibly last time, we've been able to schedule a train from Oakland to Mtn. Lake Park and back for local residents. (See article and ad elsewhere in the paper). Think how great it will be to show your children and grandchildren what it was like for you to ride a real train. Costs for the four-mile round trip, which will leave the Oakland station at 1 p.m. both Saturday, Oct. 20, and Sunday, Oct. 21, will be $10 for adults and $5 for children. Mtn. Lake Park will provide a guided tour of the historic homes in the community and light refreshments. The train will return to Oakland at 2:30 p.m. Tickets for this special train are only available at the Oakland Town Hall and the Mtn. Lake Park Town Hall. There are only 100 tickets available for each train. For more information, call the Oakland Town Hall at 301-334-2691.

We received a lot of inquiries about the status of the Third Street bridge. The town and the county have been working together closely on this project, and the preliminary application has been filed and just this week was approved for federal funds. The next step is the design phase, which should start soon. The proposed bridge would be two lanes with a pedestrian walkway and no weight restrictions.

Garrett County Chamber of Commerce
Home of Deep Creek Lake
UPDATE

The board of directors of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce held its regular monthly meeting on Thursday, Sept. 20, presided over by Chairman Jonathan "Smiley" Kessler.

Chamber president Ken Wishnick reported that in fiscal year 2001, Garrett County showed a 9.9% increase in accommodations taxes collected over the previous year and an 11% increase in admissions and amusements tax for the same time period. Compared to three years ago, Wishnick said, Garrett County's accommodations tax shows an increase of 42.7%. He also pointed out that these numbers have been adjusted for the change in accommodations tax rate from 3 to 4 percent to ensure an "apples to apples" comparison.

Asa McCain, chairman of the Autumn Glory task force, said there are more entries for the Grand Feature Parade than last year. These include musical groups and school marching bands. The board set a policy that floats must have a seasonal or community theme and not be purely commercial in design and message. McCain then reported that food vendor spaces at the parade site are near sell-out and that remaining spaces for the Official Autumn Glory Craft & Gift Sale at the Dennett Road School are very limited. It was also mentioned that Fran Wishnick was coordinating the AG royal family coronation and entertainment program, and that more invitations for the kick-off event had been mailed.

McCain said the Deep Creek Lions Club has requested permission to take over management of Autumn Glory food vendor concessions next year. The board approved this request, and club members will "shadow" the chamber staff this year in anticipation of the transfer.

It was reported that Genesis Publishing and Advertising of Towson had been selected as the vendor for the 2002 Vacation Guide. Jerry Geisler, chairman of the Vacation Guide Task Force, said his group recommended that advertising rates in the guide remain the same as last year.

In the absence of Jim Murray, Wishnick reported on a proposed supplemental insurance program to be made available to chamber members by AFLAC through Gonder Insurance. The board approved the program and authorized Wishnick to proceed with the new member benefit.

MNEDV Law Enforcement Award. A regional family violence investigator assigned to Allegany and Garrett counties, Hovis has trained other law enforcement officers as well as pursuing abusers and stalkers. In addition to his law enforcement duties, Hovis has chaired the Garrett County Family Violence Coalition and has served on the executive committee of the Allegany County Family Violence Council for the past two years.

Gnegy will be presented with the MNEDV Civic Award for his community leadership in domestic violence prevention and awareness efforts. Gnegy chairs the Dove Center board of directors, serves with Hovis on the Garrett County Family Violence Coalition, and volunteers to work with domestic violence victims.

The MNEDV is part of the National Network to End Domestic Violence (NNEDV), an organization of 53 state domestic violence coalitions which represents over 2,500 member programs working to help end domestic violence. The NNEDV works with Congress to pass federal domestic violence legislation and facilitates net working and communication among the state coalitions. The NNEDV Fund, formed three years ago, enhances the professional skills of service providers and advocates by providing formal training, technical assistance, education, and outreach.

The Oct. 25 awards dinner will take place at the Radisson Hotel in Annapolis, beginning at 5:30 p.m. with a cash bar and social hour, which will be followed by a buffet dinner at 6:30 p.m. At 7:30 p.m. the keynote address will be delivered by Lynn Rosenthal, executive director of the NNEDV.

Rosenthal will share her knowledge and experience as a domestic violence advocate and present updates on pending federal legislation, public policy issues, and information from coalitions and the county. Rosenthal was formerly the director of the Florida Coalition Against Domestic Violence, and served on the NNEDV's board of directors before becoming the organization's executive director.

The awards will be presented to the nine MNEDV honorees at the conclusion of the meeting.

Tickets are $50 per person until Friday, Oct. 12, at which point the price will be set at $60 per person. Prepayment is required and reservations and payments must be received no later than Friday, Oct. 19. For reservations, persons may call the MNEDV office at 301-352-4574.

SALEM MEETS GOAL — The Maryland Salem Children's Trust, located near Grantsville, reached its fund-raising goal of $25,000 for the OutSpokin' for Maryland's Kids Campaign 2001, due to its many friends and supporters in the community. Four separate events contributed to the campaign's success: the Community Bike Ride, the 2nd annual Forest 5K Run/Walk, the 3rd annual OutSpokin' Banquet and Silent Auction, and the 9th annual Ride Across Maryland. Pictured above, left to right, are three of the cyclists in the Ride Across Maryland event: Tom Ruckert, Salem employee, and Dr. Ian and Cathy MacFawn of LaVale, who accompanied Ruckert on the first leg of his ride to Ocean City, which began September 7. The OutSpokin' campaign raises funds to provide services and educational programs for children unable to live with their own families. For more information about the program, persons may call 301-689-8176.

Blood Drive Rescheduled For November

A blood drive originally schedule for Oct. 5 at St. Peter's Catholic Church in Oakland will be rescheduled in November, closer to the holiday season.

According to Red Cross spokesperson Ted Mazza, this is the time when additional bloodmobile sponsors and donors are needed to meet anticipated patient needs. Since the terrorist attacks on the U.S., donor response across the region has been phenomenal, with many donors waiting in lines, some for several hours, to give blood, Mazza said.

"Our donors and sponsors have been wonderful and patient during this time. Since Sept. 11, hundreds of donors have come out, wanting to show their support for our country and fellow citizens," Mazza said. "They want to help in any way they can, and one way to do that is by giving blood."

As blood supplies are now at optimum levels, Mazza said the focus must shift to assuring adequate blood supplies throughout the year, in particular during the upcoming holiday season.

"Because of possible outbreaks of the colds and flu, inclement weather and holiday vacations, all too frequently blood supplies are in critically short supply during the holidays. With the help of our new Donor Rapid Response Team, we're working to improve blood supplies for this holiday season," Mazza added.

Starting Sept. 18, all regional bloodmobiles began carrying applications for potential donors to join the region's Donor Rapid Response Team (DRRT). The DRRT is a new program that will allow the Red Cross to collect information from potential donors and contact them over the next two months to inform them of upcoming bloodmobiles in their area.

RECEIVES CHARACTER EDUCATION AWARD — Broad Ford Elementary was one of 28 schools across the state to receive the Maryland Center for Character Education Recognition Award for 2001. Four representatives from Broad Ford's Character Education Committee attended the recognition luncheon at the Maritime Institute in Baltimore and were awarded a plaque and banner to hang in their school. Shown in the photo above receiving the award, left to right, are Suzanne Wilburn, second grade teacher; Bonnie Swyter, counselor; Dr. Maurice Howard, M.C.C.E. board member; Carole Glotfelty, school enrichment teacher; and Teresa Browning, kindergarten teacher. Committee members unable to attend were Rhonda Savage and Barbara Ponceroff, teachers; Leslie Warnick, parent representative; and Tom Fowler and Doug Gaither, principals. All Garrett County schools are teaching character education and are encouraging families and the community to reinforce the traits being emphasized each month. October's trait is Responsibility, and November and December traits are Caring and Giving.

FSU Moves Up In National College Rankings

In the most recent edition of U.S News and World Report listing "America's Best Colleges," Frostburg State University has jumped from the third tier to the second tier in the rankings of northern master's degree granting universities.

The magazine uses four tiers of rankings, based on a wide range of criteria gathered from individual institutions, which are categorized by the school's mission and/or region. Categories such as academic reputation, retention and graduation rates, and student selectivity are given specific weights and compared against peer institutions. Salisbury and Towson universities are also listed in tier two.

While many of FSU's figures were comparable to its peer institutions, Frostburg did post high statistics in the categories of diversity, full-time faculty, class size, and alumni giving. Areas that showed improvement over the previous year included FSU's reputation score as determined by other university leaders, its freshman retention rate, and the average SAT score of its freshman class.

FSU ranked particularly well in comparison with other public institutions in the second tier, which made up only 15 of the 45 universities listed. In tier one, there are only seven public institutions out of 42.

FSU listed highest in the tier among public universities in the percentage of classes of fewer than 20 students and third among that group in fewest large classes, more than 50 students. FSU also ranked third in alumni giving rates among public institutions and sixth in student-faculty ratio.

"This impressive ranking solidifies the university's growing reputation both statewide and nationally," Maryland governor Parris N. Glendening said. "Frostburg State University has worked hard to earn such distinction and is deserving of the recognition."

"Although we are already aware of the strength of our institution, validated recently by the very positive evaluation we received from the Middle states reviewers of our Periodic Review Report, it is always good to know that others recognize our strengths as well," said Dr. Catherine R. Gira, FSU president. "I know that none of the achievements for which we are credited would be possible without the excellent work of our faculty and staff."

To view this year's university and college rankings, persons may visit the web site www.usnews.com/usnews/home.htm. To learn more about Frostburg State University, persons may visit www.frostburg.edu.

BPW Celebrates National Business Women's Month

The Business and Professional Women's Club (BPW) of Garrett County is celebrating National Business Women's Month during October.

The BPW recently asked local businesses and agencies to nominate candidates for its "Woman of the Year" award whom they thought advocated job advancement and economic growth for women.

Donna McClintock was chosen "Woman of the Year" by the BPW from its list of nominees. McClintock is the manager of the Adult Evaluation Service of the Garrett County Health Department.

The BPW also chose Adina Brode of the Community Action Committee's Area Agency on Aging as the "Employer of the Year."

The "Woman of the Year" and "Employer of the Year" will be recognized on both county and state levels.

A luncheon, with a keynote speaker, has been planned by the BPW for Thursday, October 18, to honor McClintock and Brode.

The goal of BPW is to empower women of all ages by promoting equity, economic self-sufficiency, and networking. The BPW encourages all women and local businesses to honor Garrett County women by celebrating National Business Women's Month.

Callis Accepted Into National Scholars Program

Julie Callis, daughter of Wayne and Donna Callis, Mtn. Lake Park, has accepted membership in the National Society of Collegiate Scholars (NSCS). She will be honored during a campus ceremony this fall at the University of Maryland.

Callis is a sophomore in the University Honors Program at College Park. She is maintaining a 4.0 grade point average while majoring in international business and German.

NSCS is a highly selective, national, non-profit honors organization. Founded in 1994, NSCS recognizes first and second year undergraduate students who excel academically. The society was established on the principle that with scholarship comes a responsibility to develop leadership and a duty to perform service, according to a NSCS spokesperson.

"NSCS provides the opportunity for students like Julie to be recognized for their outstanding academic accomplishments early in their college experience," said Steve Loflin, NSCS executive director. "Julie will also have the opportunity to join other high achieving college students in developing leadership skills and a sense of civic responsibility."

Yommer-Resh Reunion Held

Tub Mill Arts and Crafts Association will hold its annual open house today, Thursday, Oct. 4, and Friday, Oct. 5, from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m., at the store, 117 Ord Street in Salisbury, Pa.

The store is filled with arts and crafts by local artisans, including paintings, stained glass, wood carvings, pottery, ceramics, knitted and crocheted items, and Christmas and holiday items. The fall schedule of classes will also be available. Refreshment will be served during the open house.

Mass For Peace To Be Held At St. Peter's

Beginning on Tuesday, Oct. 9, there will be a Mass for Peace at St. Peter the Apostle Church at 6:30 p.m. The Mass will be held on the second Tuesday of each month.

During Mass, the names of local persons who are active in the military will be mentioned. To have names added to the list, persons may call the parish office at 301-334-2202.

Rotarians Seek Applicants For Student Exchange

Rotary clubs in District 7350 of Rotary International, which includes Oakland, Frostburg, Grantsville, and Romney, W.Va., are seeking applicants for the 2002-2003 youth exchange year.

Students in grades 10 through 12 are eligible to apply for the program, which involves a year abroad, studying at the high school level and living with one or more host families under the sponsorship of a local Rotary club.

The applicants will be selected on the basis of a written application and personal interview conducted by the local Rotary club and the District Youth Exchange Committee.

At present, the Rotary clubs of the district are hosting students from Venezuela, Kazakhstan, Slovakia, Ireland, Costa Rica, Indonesia, El Salvador, Mexico, Germany, Thailand, Belgium, France, Brazil, Italy, Argentina, Paraguay, and Ecuador.

A total of 19 students from the district will experience the 2001-2002 year in another country. Applications for the 2002-2003 exchange are available from Rotarians from any of the clubs in the district. Completed applications must be received by Oct. 20 by the Youth Exchange officers in each club.

Additional information may be obtained by calling 1-888-768-2799 or logging on to the web site at www.exchangestudent.org. For information locally, persons may call 304-789-6958 in Terra Alta, W.Va.

Cosmetologists Needed By ACS

Volunteer cosmetologists are needed for the American Cancer Society's Look Good...Feel Better program. The program helps women cope with appearance-related side effects of cancer treatment.

A free training session is scheduled for Monday, Oct. 22, from noon to 3:30 p.m. at the Garrett Memorial Hospital Community Services building in Oakland. Training is free and lunch will be provided. To register, persons are asked to call Bonita Jackson at 800-287-2317 by October 17.

Look Good...Feel Better is a two-hour, hands-on group workshop conducted by volunteer cosmetologists that includes a 12-step skin care and makeup program. They also demonstrate how to use wigs, turbans, scarves, and hats to enhance appearance.

The program is a partnership between the American Cancer Society, the Cosmetic, Toiletry, and Fragrance Association Foundation, and the National Cosmetology Association.

The American Cancer Society is the nationwide community-based voluntary health organization dedicated to eliminating cancer as a major health problem by preventing cancer, saving lives from cancer, and diminishing suffering from cancer through research, education, advocacy, and service.

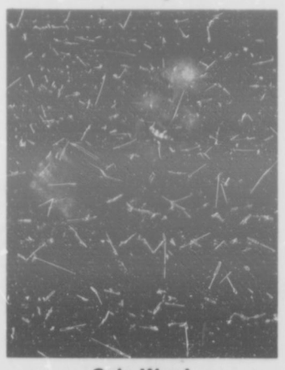
TV PIPELINE

Ward starred in short-lived military drama

By Taylor Michaels
©TVData Features Syndicate



Sela Ward

Q: Did Sela Ward star in a shortlived series called Emerald Point N.A.S.? –J. Perry, Columbus, Ga.

A: Yes,Ward played scheming Hilary Adams on that 1983-84 CBS military drama, which lasted less than a full season. She later became romantically involved with castmate Richard Dean Anderson, who played her brother on that show.

Q: Whatever became of Jennifer Ehle, the star of A&E's Pride and Prejudice miniseries? –Elizabeth MacGregor, Mason City, Iowa.

A: A native of North Carolina, the British-bred Ehle, 31, is one of the busiest actresses working today, in demand on both stage and screen.

Since her star-making performance as Elizabeth Bennet in Pride, Ehle has appeared in the films Wilde, Bedrooms and Hallways, This Year's Love and the Hungarian drama Sunshine.

On stage, she won a 2000 Tony Award for her critically acclaimed work in a Broadway revival of Tom Stoppard's The Real Thing.

Next up, she stars with Gwyneth Paltrow and Jeremy Northam in Neil LaBute's Possession, based on A.S. Byatt's best-selling novel.

Q: Whatever happened to Melissa Sue Anderson, who played Mary on Little House on the Prairie? –Curious in Ohio.

A: Anderson, 39, still acts occasionally (as Melissa Anderson, she co-starred with Greg Evigan in the 1998 TV movie Earthquake in New York). Her first priority, however, is playing mom to Piper and Griffin, her children with TV producer Michael Sloan, whom she married in 1990.

Q: I noted your recent column item about Dame Judi Dench and her late husband, Michael Williams, as well as their series A Fine Romance. You may be interested to know that A Fine Romance is being broadcast on more than 30 U.S. public television stations, and the show is available for purchase to all public TV stations via Granada Media and our company, Continental Program Marketing. –Joan C. Lence, Des Plaines, Ill.

A: Thanks, Joan. Dench fans may want to write to their PBS station managers and ask them to consider purchasing this charming little series.

Q: Whatever happened to that terrific Jeff Bridges summer series Maximum Exposure? It was set in Florida. –Sue in Columbus, Ohio.

A: Sue, I believe you are thinking of Maximum Bob, a wildly imaginative ABC series that aired on the network during the summer of 1998 with Beau Bridges, Jeff's brother, in the title role. Based on a novel by Elmore Leonard, the show drew rave reviews, but the ratings declined steadily from one week to the next until it was canceled.

In Focus

No Ordinary Baby, an original Lifetime TV movie airing Monday, Oct. 8, explores what might happen if a doctor and a willing couple tried to clone a human.

Bridget Fonda (Kiss of the Dragon) plays an ambitious reporter who finds out that a doctor (Mary Beth Hurt, Family Man) has cloned a human baby. When the story breaks, many problems are brought to light. And, as is often the case, not everything is as it seems.

Wednesday

Wednesdays on ABC, Diane Farr plays Jan Fendrich, a single mom and the only female police officer in the squad room, in The Job.

6:40 pm 32 Movie (Fri) "An American Tail: The Treasure of Manhattan Island"

TRIVIA

At age 5, Ben Affleck wanted a dog. After seeing how he cared for an "invisible" one for a week, his mother refused.

Bridget Fonda (No Ordinary Baby) originally was offered the lead role on Ally McBeal, but refused the part without even looking at the script.

During his high-school years, Benjamin Bratt (The Next Best Thing) was nicknamed "Scarecrow" because he was so thin.

Vincent Price (The Raven) was famous for being superstitious and joked about having a mezuza, a crucifix and a horseshoe on his front door.

Olivia Newton-John's dog knocked over a microphone stand during the recording of "If Not for You." The noise is still audible in the song.

As the cool days of autumn approach, gardeners prepare to protect their plants from the frost and the snow that can kill them, so that when spring comes, they will bloom again. They are covered with the pine needles and leaves and mulch that God provides for their protection.

Visible garden foliage will turn brown and shrivel when it's freezing outside, but with protection, the roots will live and bloom again.

Worship the Creator each week. There you will find the warmth of God's love that will protect your inner being...your spirit...as the cold truths of life assault you. Plan now, prepare before the "winter" comes. In Colossians 1:17, we learn..."He is before all things, and in Him all things hold together." God will protect you.

PUT OUT YOUR HAND

October 7, 2001

Background Scripture:
Exodus 3:1 through 4:17
Devotional Reading:
Exodus 4:10-16

When I was in my first pastorate in the suburbs of Harrisburg, PA, one day on the way to call in the hospital, I saw a woman hit by a car. As I pulled over to the curb, I was sure that she had not survived, for she had been thrown into the air and came down with a terrible thud. I had always been squeamish about physical injuries. The sight revolted me. So, I assumed that on this busy street there would be someone less squeamish and more knowledgeable to do whatever needed to be done before an ambulance arrived.

But, although several other people looked on with me, none made a move to go to the fallen woman's side. At last, I realized that if anything was going to be done, it would have to be me. So, for the first time in my life, I put aside my abdominal butterflies and knelt beside the bloodied woman to do whatever I could do. Miraculously, she was still alive, although I as sure she could not long survive. Nevertheless, later that same day in the hospital I saw her again and was told that she would recover and live.

An 80-Year Old Failure

I must confess that putting out my hand that day to touch her was one of the hardest things I had ever done. But, it seemed, I had no choice because no one else was going to do it and I knew that someone had to at least try. I had no idea how I could be of help to her, but that all became pretty academic when I put out my hand and did what I thought, for me, was impossible, I have since come to realize that most the worthwhile things in the world have been accomplished by people who were just as scared as I was, and just as certain they were not equal to the task.

Today, we celebrate Moses as a great man of faith, but we overlook the fact that he was certain that he was not the man for the job. Up until the time of this great wayside experience, Moses had not demonstrated any leadership or spiritual sensitivity. And, most important of all—something we usually overlook—when this challenge came to him, he was already 80 years old, an age long past the point at which people today think they can be of any service.

I Will Turn Aside

So, what made the difference between this 80-year old failure and the man of faith we revere today? For one thing, Moses made the change possible when, seeing the burning bush, he said to himself, "I will turn aside and see this great sight, why the bush is not consumed" (3:). Probably that one decision is what most differentiates us from Moses. Too many of us would have said—and do say today—"Hmm, isn't that strange!" and kept going. God has a message for each of us, but we will never hear that message unless we are willing to "turn aside and see," to give God a chance to speak from some of the "holy ground" in our own lives.

Perhaps another reason that God was able to reach Moses was that when he was challenged, he was honest about his doubts and reservations. When God proposed to send Moses to Pharoah as his representative, Moses did not beat around the burning bush: "Who am I that I should go to Pharoah and bring the sons of

• On Oct. 8, 1904, the first Vanderbilt Cup automobile racing event is held in Hicksville, N.Y. An early example of world-class motor racing in America, the annual event was created to introduce Europe's best automotive drivers and manufacturers to the United States.

• On Oct. 12, 1928, the Graf Zeppelin, the first commercial dirigible to cross the Atlantic, embarks on its maiden voyage. The Zeppelin, named after its inventor, Ferdinand von Zeppelin, made more than 500 trans-Atlantic passenger flights before it was retired in favor of the hydrogen-inflated Hindenburg.

• On Oct. 9, 1940, St. Paul's Cathedral, which has stood in London for more than 300 years, is bombed. A German blitz destroyed the altar and left much of the city in flames, but somehow the bombs missed the great dome, and the cathedral was entrenched as a symbol of British resolve.

• On Oct. 14, 1964, African-American civil-rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. is awarded the Nobel Peace Prize for his nonviolent resistance to racial prejudice in America. At 35 years of age, the Georgia-born minister is the youngest person ever to receive the award.

• On Oct. 13, 1977, four Palestinians hijack a Lufthansa airliner to Somalia, where they demand the release of 11 imprisoned members of Germany's Baader-Meinhof terrorist group. After the Palestinian terrorists kill the plane's pilot, a German special-forces team storms the aircraft, releasing the captives and killing the hijackers.

• On Oct. 11, 1984, American Kathryn Sullivan begins the first spacewalk by a female astronaut when she exits the space shuttle Challenger.

Strange BUT TRUE
By Samantha Weaver

Sept. 11 saw previously unthinkable terrorist attacks on the United States. In light of these events, instead of my usual column of odd facts, I'd like to share some quotations that have been brought to mind.

"To keep our faces toward change and behave like free spirits in the presence of fate is strength undefeatable." — Helen Keller

"Abandon your animosity and make your sons Americans." — Robert E. Lee

"Extremism in the defense of liberty is no vice, and moderation in the pursuit of justice is no virtue." — Barry M. Goldwater

"Let us have faith that right makes might; and in that faith let us to the end, dare to do our duty as we understand it." — Abraham Lincoln

"The reputation of a thousand years may be determined by the conduct of one hour." — Japanese proverb

"We are not interested in the possibilities of defeat." — Queen Victoria

"Non-cooperation with evil is as much a duty as cooperation with good." — Mohandas K. Gandhi

"World problems must be solved by the power of reason. The time has come for man's intellect to win out over the brutality, the insanity of war." — Linus Pauling

"When peace has been broken anywhere, the peace of all countries everywhere is in danger." — Franklin D. Roosevelt

"These are the times that try men's souls. The summer soldier and the sunshine patriot will, in this crisis, shrink from the service of their country; but he that stands it now, deserves the love and thanks of men and women." — Thomas Paine

"I venture to suggest that patriotism is not a short and frenzied outburst of emotion, but the tranquil and steady dedication of a lifetime." — Adlai Stevenson

Unusual teapots have been popular for centuries. Many were made to resemble buildings, animals, fish or human figures. One strange teapot shaped like a man holding his legs to the side and up in the air has been made for more than 150 years. One leg is a handle, one leg is the spout, and his tricorner hat is the top.

These teapots were first made in the Staffordshire district of England but were copied by firms in other countries, including Japan. A reproduction of the original Enoch Wood Staffordshire teapot was made by Tony Wood between 1980 and 1991. A 20th-century teapot is clearly marked with the factory name and the country where it was made.

Q. I recently bought a 1920s cut-and-etched 12-inch vase shaped like an hourglass. The vase has a 3-inch water stain about a third of the way from the top. I have tried soaking and scrubbing the inside with vinegar, bleach, denture cleaner, ammonia and several other chemical compounds. Nothing has worked. Any suggestions?

A. If water is left standing in glass — particularly in glass with a high lead content, like your cut-and-etched vase — the minerals in the water actually scratch the glass. The marks in your vase won't come off. They can only be hidden. Try coating the inside of the glass by swishing it with a clear liquid wax or a liquid dishwasher drying agent, like Jet-Dry. A layer of clear wax will cover the fine scratches so you can display the empty vase or fill it with artificial flowers.

How to Spot a Puppy Mill

In last week's column, I fielded a question from a reader who was taken advantage of by a woman claiming to sell purebred Chihuahuas. This week, I'll answer the reader's last question: Is this woman running a "puppy mill," and how can she be stopped?

According to the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, a puppy mill is run by a breeder who produces lots of puppies with no breeding program in place, pays little attention to where the puppies are placed, and has little or no regard for keeping the dogs healthy or socializing them properly.

These mills are either wholesale pet dealers or sell to wholesalers, who in turn sell the dogs to small pet-stores.

The woman who sold the Chihuahua to my reader is probably not a large-scale breeder, since she appears to only advertise through the newspaper. Most likely, she is a "backyard breeder."

Backyard breeders are much different from the official class of hobby breeders. Hobby breeders have only a few breeding dogs, breed very selectively, raise healthy pups and keep good records.

Backyard breeders represent the bad apples among private breeders, and this woman is one of them. She may not even be breeding dogs, just making a few bucks off the dogs she has on her property.

Because many hobby breeders are unlicensed — they do not need one if they gross less than $500 a year and if they have less than three breeding females — regulating backyard breeders is extremely difficult.

So, the best way to put backyard breeders out of business is to not buy from them. Insist on visiting a breeder before purchasing a dog. Make sure the puppies have plenty of run space, individual kennels (if they are past the litter stage), food, water and a generally clean environment. Have a veterinarian check the pet before you buy it. If you have any doubts about the breeder, don't buy that cute little puppy — and warn your friends away, too.

House of Hope Slates Annual Fall Hopefest

The fifth annual Autumn Hopefest benefiting the House of Hope has been scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 10, from 7 until 11 p.m. For the first time, this event, billed as "an evening of fun, food, and frolic," will be held in the Sitzmark Room at Will O' the Wisp at Deep Creek Lake.

The evening will feature dancing and a full-dinner buffet from the Four Seasons Restaurant at Will O' the Wisp.

"We are very excited to be hosting the Hopefest this year," said Martin Heise, food and beverage director of Will O' the Wisp and House of Hope board member. "We plan to serve an eclectic mix of favorite regional and seasonal foods."

Coordinators have arranged a variety of events for the evening, including door prizes and local guest bartenders. The popular silent and "Chinese" auctions will also be repeated this year.

Representatives for the House of Hope will be asking local business to support the event by donating items for the auction. "The business community has been so generous over the years," said Patty Wells, House of Hope board member. "We have raised over $6,000 at the past four events, just from our auctions alone."

Representatives will also be looking for guest bartenders for the evening. Bartenders work in teams for "tips," which are then donated to the House of Hope. The team earning the most tips wins the "top bartender" honor, along with various other prizes.

The House of Hope is located in Oakland and serves all of Garrett County. It provides flexible, individualized, and immediate aid to those in crisis. An ecumenical and non-denominational organization relying solely on donations, it neither solicits nor accepts government funding.

"The Hopefest has become a very popular event," said Fund-raising Committee chairperson Carol Smith, "and we appreciate the support of our local community."

Admission to the Hopefest requires a $30 minimum donation per person. Due to limited seating, tickets will be sold by advance purchase only and are available at Just Us Styling and Tanning Salon in Accident, Brenda's Pizzeria and Isabell's Coffee House at Deep Creek Lake, and Marvin's Men's Wear in Oakland. The admission price includes beer, wine, and soft drinks. A cash bar will also be available.

Tree-Planting Program Begins In Grantsville

The town of Grantsville will begin a tree-planting program with the aid of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR). Local groups, including Grantsville Boy Scouts, Grantsville Elementary School students, Lions Club, Rotary Club, Greater Grantsville Business Association, and town employees will plant 120 trees over a three-year period.

The first planting event will be held on Saturday, Oct. 20, at 8 a.m., under the direct supervision of Donna Burton of the DNR. Burton has been instrumental in planning the location and species of trees that promote growth and longevity, yet not pose safety problems to motorists and pedestrian traffic on Main Street. She has also procured grant funding from various sources to purchase the trees.

The tree-planting program is being implemented in conjunction with a sidewalk replacement program that is now under way in Grantsville, which is being funded by a Maryland State Highway grant. To ensure the healthy growth of the trees and continued enhancement of the appearance of the town, local groups and town employees will maintain the trees.

Individuals or groups who would like to help with the first tree planting event, or help care for the trees, may call the Grantsville town supervisor, John Vogt, or Mayor Gerald Beachy, at Town Hall at 301-895-3144.

Historical Hike, Program Slated

The Maryland Forest and Park Service recently announced a historical program and hike on three Sundays, Oct. 7, Oct. 14, and Oct. 21, beginning at 1:30 p.m. each day.

The program will be presented by Bill Martin, park historian, who grew up at New Germany during the Depression years. The program will present information about the life of a student in a one-room schoolhouse, and the participants will view the autumn foliage during the hike through the park.

The program is free, and for additional information, persons may call Martin at 301-895-5303 after 6 p.m. daily.

Campaign Begins For New Drunk Driving Level

The Glendening-Townsend Administration has a message for the would-be drunk drivers — "Don't, It's Just Not Worth It." Lt. Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend joined House Speaker Casper R. Taylor and police and highway safety advocates to kickoff an enforcement and marketing campaign for Maryland's new law lowering the legal blood alcohol level for driving to .08. Townsend announced a comprehensive law enforcement effort funded by the $2 million federal grant that the state received for passing the new law, which took effect Sunday, Sept. 30.

"Maryland is sending a strong message that drinking and driving will not be tolerated," said Governor Parris N. Glendening. "We are taking aggressive steps to make the road safe and end the needless heartbreak and tragedy caused by drunk driving."

Maryland State Police and other law enforcement agencies will conduct impaired driving initiatives across the state, such as sobriety checkpoints, beginning this weekend and continuing into 2002. Additionally, the Maryland Department of Transportation's State Highway and Motor Vehicle administrations will market the new law to increase driver awareness. More than 120 signs will be mounted along highways, on buildings, and at rest areas, warning people about Maryland's tougher drunk driving law. Additionally, SHA will program messages on variable electronic highway signs, advertise, and distribute posters and brochures.

"In Maryland, 195 people died last year as a result of drunk driving. This campaign and the $2 million federal grant will give law enforcement the tools it needs to prevent these tragedies," said Lt. Governor Kennedy Townsend.

Alcohol-related crashes cost the state more than $850 million annually between the fatalities and the 5,806 injuries last year, with employers paying for almost half of all costs through insurance, disability, worker's compensation, and lost productivity. With an alcohol concentration of .08, driving skills such as braking, steering, attentiveness, and ability to control speed are substantially impaired.

"This new standard will save the lives of many Marylanders on our roadways," said House Speaker Taylor. "It will allow law enforcement officials to remove these dangerous violators from Maryland's roads and keep them from behind the wheel of a motor vehicle."

Reporters were provided an opportunity to drive experiencing the effects of a .08 blood alcohol level by wearing simulation goggles and trying to maneuver along an obstacle course.

By virtue of Maryland's passing .08 legislation the federal government, under Section 163 of Title 23 of the Highway Transportation Equity Act, awarded Maryland more than $2 million. Twenty-four states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico all have .08 laws.

The Maryland Highway Safety Office recommends that people rely on a designated driver who absolutely does not consume alcohol so that there is no chance of impairment when driving. Open House For After-School Programs Set Lights on After-School, a national celebration to create a better understanding of after-school opportunities available to youth and to encourage community support, will take place throughout the county on Oct. 11. Parents as well as the general public are encouraged to join local open house events from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. at the after-school sites located at Grantsville, Loch Lynn, Southern Middle, Southern High, and Accident Elementary schools.

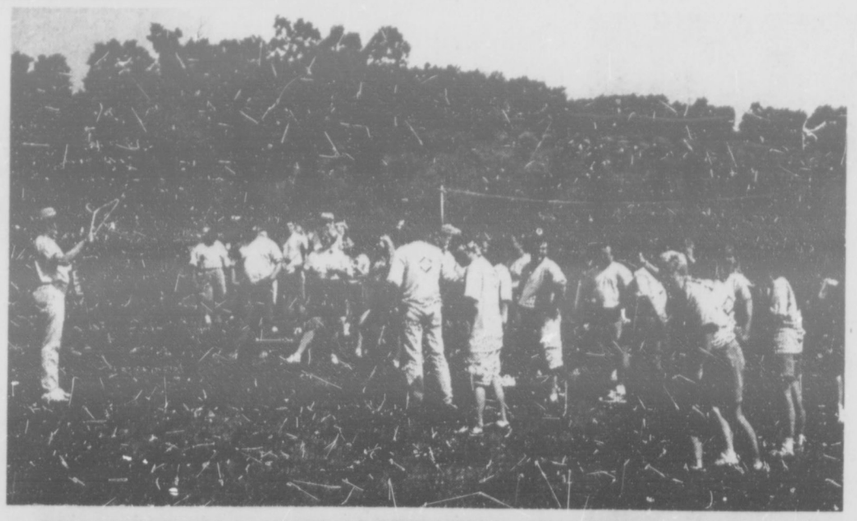
After-school programs keep kids safe, help working families, and improve academic achievement by providing critical opportunities for youth to learn and grow, according to a spokesperson. Students in quality after-school programs have better academic performance, behavior, school attendance, and greater expectations for the future, according to the U.S. Departments of Education and Justice.

Students who spend no time in extracurricular activities are 49% more likely to have used drugs and 37% more likely to have become teen parents than those who spend one to four hours per week in extracurricular activities, according to the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

Locally, enhanced after-school programs were initiated in 1999 to provide opportunities for youth to have safe and productive places to go when the school day ends. Last year 765 youth were served in over a dozen programs funded by the Maryland After-school Opportunity Fund administered locally by the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families. In addition to offering safe, structured activities with caring adults, a key objective is that youth who participate in after-school programs will maintain or improve their grades, especially reading scores (on the Md. Functional Reading Test) during the school year. In 2001, 97% of the students enrolled in after-school programs passed the test.

After-school programs are a collaboration between the Partnership, the Health Department, Community Action, and the Board of Education. Most of the programs operate from the end of the school day until 6:00 p.m. In 2000, the collaborative partners added after-school activities buses to support the after-school programs. The buses are available in both the Southern and Northern areas of the county and, like the programs, are free of charge.

Lights On After-School is a nationwide event to recognize the critical importance of quality after-school programs in the lives of children, families, and communities and the role these programs can play in improving academic achievement, helping working families, and keeping kids safe. It is a project of the After-school Alliance, a coalition of private, public, and non-profit entities committed to ensuring that all children have access to quality, affordable after-school programs by the year 2010. For more information, persons may visit www.afterschool alliance.org.



FCSI CELEBRATES 20 YEARS OF OPERATION — Financial Computer Support Inc., or FCSI, a local, cutting-edge computer company located in the Southern Garrett Industrial Park, recently celebrated its 20th anniversary of operations. In commemoration of the milestone, the management hosted an employee appreciation event, treating the staff to an entire day of games, food, and relaxation. The group gathered at the Haley Farm Bed and Breakfast north of Oakland and engaged in a variety of games, as pictured, and later shared a pig roast and other refreshments. The theme of the day mirrored the "Survivor" idea from television, with teams of about nine employees each "babysitting" eggs all day, keeping them intact. In the photo above, the participants are learning the rules from organizer Kim Daglovanne. For one event, the eggs were carefully packed into remote control cars, shown below, with participants attempting to get the cars around a course within a certain time limit and without any breakage to the cargo.

Antique Show Is A Go For Autumn Glory Festival

The Civic Club of Oakland recently announced that the annual Autumn Glory Antique Show will proceed Friday, Oct. 12, through Sunday, Oct. 14, at the National Guard Armory, 14 North Eighth Street, Oakland.

The Armory was removed from the lockdown in time for the Civic Club to put into motion all of the details needed to host the show. The hours of operation will be 10 a.m. until 7 p.m. on Friday, and 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

Thirty-one dealers will be exhibiting a large variety of items from jewelry to primitives. Home-cooked food will be served, including soups and baked goods.

As in previous years, a queen-sized quilt make by Civic Club member Helen Nordeck will be raffled off Sunday around 3:30 p.m. Persons do not need to be present to win.

WMAHEC Makes New Appointment

KATHY CUNNINGHAM

The Western Maryland Area Health Education Center (WMAHEC) recently appointed AmeriCorps member Kathy Cunningham as the health career enrichment facilitator. She will administer the Student Health Action and Recruitment Education (S.H.A.R.E.) program for the Allegany, Garrett, and Washington county schools.

S.H.A.R.E. is managed in cooperation with A STAR! in Western Maryland, an AmeriCorps program housed at Frostburg State University. For the middle school students involved, she will conduct a series of hands-on health career courses, spearhead community service projects, and provide health care site tours.

To further enhance the S.H.A.R.E. experience, she will facilitate health career awareness presentations for western Maryland sixth graders and conduct two one-week summer health careers camps for middle school students. This year's program places special emphasis on strengthening enrollment in the Washington and Garrett county programs.

Cunningham resides in Cumberland with her husband John, who is employed by Hunter Douglas and various local media organizations.

Persons wanting more information about S.H.A.R.E. may call Cunningham at 301-777-9150, ext. 141, or e-mail her at SHARE@allconet.org.

A Chaplain's Eyewitness Account Of The Attack On The Pentagon

The following is excerpted from an article written by a U.S. Army chaplain who was in the Pentagon at the time of the Sept. 11 terrorist attack on that building. His account of the incident and its aftermath prominently features the efforts of Chaplain Rick Spencer (formerly of Garrett County) and other military chaplains, and their fellow rescuers, in responding to the attack.

by Chaplain (colonel) Robert J. Jenkins

Sept. 11, 2001 — Day One

All 10 of us command chaplains serving commander in chiefs (CINCS) from around the world had just concluded morning devotions in the Office of the Secretary of Defense (OSD) conference room in the Pentagon, had been given an overview for the week's annual Strategic Planning Conference conducted by the joint staff chaplain and were on a 10-minute break when we were all called immediately back together to pray for the victims of the Trade Center attack now flashing on the briefing screen. Right after that prayer I was on the phone returning a call to my deputy command chaplain in Korea when I heard a very deep boom."

Immediately everyone was exiting the conference room and franticly waving at me to follow. I hung up the phone and followed the orderly mass of people exiting the building. As we turned around we could see dark billowing rolls of smoke rising directly opposite from where we were. No one was panicking. No one was running. All of us were stunned in disbelief. We moved to the edge of the walkway and watched the smoke rise. Some were asking if it was a bomb. No one knew.

Word quickly passed through us that a plane had crashed into the other side of the building. The smoke was worse now. Suddenly, security personnel began yelling at us to move off the walkway and across the road to the river. Another plane was supposedly inbound for a second strike. No one seemed to panic, but anxiety obviously rose as folks now very quickly moved down the steps and across the road.

Casualties began emerging toward us from inside the building. Some were walking on their own while others were being helped or carried. Voices were calling for anyone with medical experience to identify themselves. Chaplains were assisting the wounded. Some were holding IV bags in the air, others praying, comforting and encouraging those injured. I moved from victim to victim to offer support. Prayed with a few. Stayed with some 'til we could put them in a vehicle headed for a hospital. One black major was badly burned and his skin was hanging off his arm. It was a frenzy of activity....

Teams were now formed to go into the building to remove bodies. There were four of us chaplains. After the FBI would photograph and tag the remains inside the building and indicate location found, the Old Guard soldiers would put the remains into body bags; two chaplains (protestant and catholic) would pray a blessing over the remains before they were carried out of the building to a refrigeration truck waiting with a medical team and chaplain inside. A doctor would pronounce death, and after that the remains would be escorted to a controlled FBI holding area at the end of the Pentagon.

Respect for the dead and chain of custody were of paramount importance. I was designated the Protestant chaplain and Chaplain Rick Spencer designated the Catholic chaplain who would pray over the remains inside the building. Both of us could feel the weight of the responsibility, but both of us also found relief and strength through prayer and the knowledge that what we were doing for the living and the dead was necessary and a sacred honor.

Father Spencer and I hit it off instantly. I could sense in his demeanor a quiet confidence and see in his eyes deep spiritual strength. Neither of us knew what we were getting into, nor just how much we ourselves would need God's grace and strength in order to provide meaningful and effective ministry to those assembled around us. We walked among the soldiers, listening, offering words of encouragement and hope, praying with some and silently praying for all and for each other. The fire continued to consume and nightfall was upon us when we were told there would be no entering the building tonight. After being told to report back at 0700 the next morning, Chaplain Spencer and I looked for something to eat as we headed to the MDW Chaplain operations tent. It was now 2220 hours.

Day Two

No one around us believed we would find anyone alive. We understood that our task was now removal of remains. Chaplain Spencer and I moved among the waiting troops. Many were anxious and nervous. Most had never done this before. Some were not sure they could. Waiting and thinking made it more difficult. Food was brought to us by a group of the Red Cross volunteers, and it was most appreciated. It helped to divert our thoughts to something more pleasant, at least for a time....

The FBI was ready for the first team of us to go in. Chaplain Spencer and I assured each of them and then followed them into the building as they followed CSM Butts' (Old Guard) lead straight in and then left, down a long and dark hall through four inches of standing water and debris and then right to where the remains were tagged and ready for removal. One soldier returned. He couldn't handle the confinement of the darkness. Lights were brought in and he passed by us on his way back in. Father Spencer and I stood in polluted water against the wall and waited.

The longer we waited, the more time we had to think. The more time we had to think, the heavier the ordeal became. We were in polluted water with him in army boots and me in low quarters. While we both had masks over our noses, our eyes were not protected. Besides that, we wondered what the mask wasn't filtering out. Then we wondered about the structural integrity of the building.... These thoughts were not at all comforting, but they were real and we didn't want anyone else to be hurt, especially those risking their own lives trying to help. We stood in silence and continually offered prayer.

As each stretcher came and stopped, we each simultaneously blessed the deceased. Every body removed from the disaster would have a Protestant and a Catholic blessing offered. If anyone knew that someone was Jewish or Muslim, we were prepared for that as well. However, none of us knew anything of the sort. We did with deep respect what our conscience and duty as chaplains called for. We comforted the living and honored the dead. It was difficult duty.

Father Spencer and I noted the nervous look in the eyes of the soldiers as they first went in. As they carried remains out their eyes told a different story. Some were now stoic, focused on the task, not allowing him or her to think about what they were seeing and doing. Others looked profoundly disturbed and still others, shocked. Imagination was made to flee in the face of reality and the reality was most gruesome. Remains would be brought out, and then we would come out and wait 'til the FBI finished their processes, and then we would go through it all over again.

While we waited, Chaplain Spencer and I would talk to the troops and then go back in with the next group. It was hard on the soldiers. Even the rescue professionals and the FBI said they had never seen anything like this before. I had, and I had to control my thoughts because they wanted to take me to a place I could not afford to go. Not now, for sure. My own training in Critical Incident Stress Debriefing told me I would need to go there later, but certainly not now. We continued to pray and we continued to minister to the soldiers, firemen, safety inspectors, structural inspectors, air inspectors, and FBI agents, everybody involved in the process where we were. It was a very long and hot day, but at 1730 it was over. Structural concerns would not allow us to continue for the rest of the evening. We were exhausted as Chaplain Spencer and I headed back to the chaplain operations tent.

A regional police chaplain asked if I could use a ride to the hotel and I gratefully accepted, but couldn't leave due to the president's momentary arrival. Then we noticed firemen up on the roof of the Pentagon building unfolding a large American flag. The president arrived and actually passed by where Chaplain Spencer and I were standing. We each shook his hand and noticed his moist eyes. He shook my hand firmly and looked me in the eye and said, "God bless you." I was very deeply moved and could barely respond with a "God bless you, Mr. President." His strength was obvious and his compassion real....

Day Three

Up at 0520. Very tired, but cannot sleep. Still cannot believe this is happening at one level and am almost overwhelmed on another. Devotions, prayer, and back into the same dirty uniform, down the hill I go and report in at the chaplain operations tent.

It is almost daylight now. Chaplain Spencer and I marry back up with our team. Waiting. Getting ready. Someone calls in a bomb threat to the Pentagon and everyone is moved across the road. With so many security forces here, no one believes there is a real bomb and many of them express their anger. God help the phone caller if some of the policemen I was standing beside catch them! All clear is sounded and we finally move back in, but this time we

Silent Witnesses Tell Stories Of Domestic Violence Victims

Domestic Violence Awareness Month Underscored

by Peggy Nelson coordinator
Garrett County
Family Violence Coalition

The Garrett County Family Violence Coalition will once again display the Silent Witness figures during the month of October in observance of Domestic Violence Awareness Month. The display is one more way that the coalition strives to publicize the trauma of family violence. The Silent Witness display depicts eight red wooden figures representing brief stories of seven women and one child who were killed during family violence incidents. These stories do not represent any one in Garrett County.

The Silent Witness initiative began in the fall of 1997 when all 50 states came together in Washington, D.C., with 1,500 red Silent Witness figures. The life-sized figures represented all the women who were murdered in one year in our country as a result of family violence. We have been fortunate in Garrett County that there has not been a death of a woman or child due to family violence in a number of years. But it may happen in the future!

The Silent Witness Initiative set three-year goals for 1998 to 2001. Even in our small county we have accomplished all of those goals: We have not had a death in those three years; several of our local programs have been recognized for their efforts in supporting victims of domestic violence; and the Family Violence Coalition has been begun collecting data on the number of incidents reported by law enforcement along with the number of cases that appear in court because of family violence. No agency reports names or any other identifying information about an individual or family, but the shocking news is that in the last year there have been 101 reported cases of family violence.

The Family Violence Coalition is committed to seeing that every man, woman, and child in Garrett County is knowledgeable about how and why family violence happens. So when you see the Silent Witness display, stop and read the stories. In one way or the other, family violence effects everyone in our community.

For further information, or for assistance in coping with domestic violence in any form, persons may call the Dove Center's 24-hour crisis hotline at 301-334-9000 or 1-800-656-4673.

Unemployment Insurance Info Seminar Slated

The Oakland Job Service, a division of the Maryland Department of Labor, Licensing, and Regulation, and the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce in conjunction with Garrett Community College will sponsor a Maryland Unemployment Insurance seminar on Friday, Oct. 26. The seminar will be held in the auditorium of Garrett Community College from 8:30 a.m. until noon.

Topics to be discussed include unemployment insurance taxes, the claim process, law updates, recordkeeping and cost control, unemployment insurance policies regarding separations from employment, and the appeal process. Speakers for the event will include Tom Wendel, director of Maryland Unemployment Insurance Division; Dennis Morton, director of unemployment insurance contributions; Faye Gossert, unemployment insurance supervisor at the Hagerstown Adjudication Center; and Mary Vrany, director of the Unemployment Insurance Appeals Division.

Persons interested in attending this free seminar may contact Lloyd Day at 301-334-3972, extension 301, to register. The deadline to register is Friday, Oct. 19, at 4 p.m.

OCTOBER is Let's Talk Month
The Garrett County Teen Pregnancy Prevention Coalition and the Garrett Youth Council encourage teens and parents to talk about things that really matter like love, sex, and values. If you are unsure how to start a conversation, try this tried and true tip from parents and talk to each other.
Practicing works!
"I read it is best to use correct names for body parts, so I practiced in the mirror. Also, I got a good book from the library and flipped through the chapters with my 11-year old. At first she was nervous too, but we got over it quickly. Going through the book really helped. Now we both use books and magazine articles to start off our talks about sex and values."
Try this:
- At first you may feel ill at ease. You may want to write down some notes or start by saying, "Let me tell you what this word means."
- Be patient. Your child may ask you the same question a few times.

Nutrient Mgmt. Plan Deadlines Outlined By MDE

Maryland farmers have been reminded that they must provide the Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE) with a "Justification for Plan Submission Delay" form if they are unable to secure a consultant to develop a nutrient management plan by the Dec. 31 deadline. "We understand that many consultants are experiencing a backlog of requests for nutrient management plans," said Hagner R. Mister, secretary of Maryland's Department of Agriculture (MDA). "However, being placed on a consultant's waiting list does not automatically satisfy the requirements of the law. There are certain procedures and deadlines that apply."

The Water Quality Improvement Act of 1998 referred to by the secretary requires all agricultural operations grossing $2,500 or more annually or raising 8,000 pounds or more of live animal weight to have a nutrient management plan in place by the end of this year. Maryland farmers unable to have their plans developed by that deadline must provide MDA with a completed and signed Justification for Plan Submission Delay form.

The time line for submitting the forms and qualifying for a plan submission delay is as follows:

- Before Thursday, Nov. 1 — farmers must contact a consultant for services.
- By Nov. 1 — consultants must sign the Justification for Plan Submission Delay form.
- By Dec. 31 — Justification for Plan Submission Delay form must be received by the Maryland Department of Agriculture. It is the farmer's responsibility to make certain the form is sent to MDA in time to meet that deadline.

Justification for Plan Submission Delay forms are available at the Garrett County Soil Conservation District office, located at 1916 Maryland Highway, Mtn. Lake Park (301-334-6951) and the MDA regional nutrient management office in Cumberland (301-777-1747), as well as soil conservation district and regional nutrient management offices throughout the state. The forms are also available through all MDA-licensed nutrient management consultants.

SEALING MEMORIAL SCHOLARSHIP GIVEN — Aliza Green, daughter of Ron and Tina Green, Oakland, is the 2001 recipient of the John Thomas Sealing Memorial Scholarship, presented annually by Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sealing. The scholarship is given to a 4-H member or former member entering college as a freshman, with studies in the field of education or health care. Green, an 11-year member of the Red House 4-H Club, is currently attending Garrett Community College. After two years, she plans to transfer to Frostburg State University to study early elementary education. Green is pictured with Donald Sealing.

Maryland received rain showers on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Sunday last week, breaking the dry weather trend. While every county received precipitation, the northern counties received the largest accumulations. Precipitation measured for last week ranged from 0.6 inches in Prince George's County to 2.4 inches in Carroll County. Precipitation for September ranged from 1.3 inches in Charles County to 3.9 inches in Frederick County. Despite last week's showers, farmers managed to work an average of 5.2 days in fieldwork.

Corn harvest continues ahead of schedule. Corn harvested for grain is currently 34 percent complete, progressing 9 percent more than the previous week, 13 percent ahead of last year, and 3 percent ahead of the five-year average. Corn for silage is 84 percent harvested, progressing 5 percent more than the previous week, 12 percent ahead of last year, and 7 percent ahead of the five-year average.

Soybean harvest has begun in a few areas with 3 percent harvested; 27 percent of the crop is dropping leaves, 3 percent behind last year, and 5 percent behind the five-year average. Soybean conditions are rated 17 percent excellent, 54 percent good, 20 percent fair, 8 percent poor, and 1 percent very poor.

The rain increased soil moisture levels significantly last week statewide. The amount of topsoil and subsoil moisture rated in adequate supply increased 42 percent and 29 percent over the previous week, respectively. Topsoil moisture is rated 75 percent adequate, 22 percent short, and 3 percent very short. Subsoil moisture is now 67 percent adequate, 26 percent short, and 7 percent very short.

LIVESTOCK SCHOLARSHIPS — Each year area youth are awarded Garrett County 4-H/FFA Scholarships by the Garrett County Livestock Association. To be eligible, participants must be active members of the Garrett County 4-H/FFA Program, graduates of an area high school or equivalent, have been enrolled in a livestock project at least once during 4-H/FFA membership, and have been involved in Livestock Association functions. This year's winners are pictured above. Seated from left are Mark Wolf, 3rd place; Marcella Moreland, 5th place; Bryan Barnard, 1st place; and Aliza Green, 2nd place. (Not pictured is Frank Andersen, 4th place). Standing are Sarah Pysell, 2001 Farm Queen, and Scott Harvey, Livestock Association representative.

SHEEP CITIZENSHIP AWARD — The 2001 Sheep Citizenship award was presented to Cynthia Smearman of the Snowy Creek 4-H Club. This award is given by the Wilhelm family of Grantsville in memory of Roger Wilhelm, who was very involved in the Grantsville 4-H Club for 10 years, held many offices, and, a family member said, was always willing to help other 4-H'ers with their market sheep projects. Roger was also a four-year member of Northern Garrett FFA and served on the Garrett County Livestock Association board. "Roger lived for fair week. He loved it!" said Alice Wilhelm Smith, Roger's mother. Smearman was presented with a plaque. The presenters said she was given the award because she is always helpful to other 4-H'ers or leaders with various projects, she is polite and courteous to others, and was very involved in the fair. Pictured from left are Sarah Pysell, 2001 farm queen; Brittany Wilhelm, a member of the award-sponsoring family and a member of the Grantsville 4-H Club; Cynthia Smearman; and Smith.

Weight Loss Puzzles Doctors

ATLANTA, GA -- Doctors were surprised when two separate studies found that a natural dietary supplement could help cause significant weight loss.

Although not conclusive, both studies found that patients receiving the formula called Bio-Rex 3000®, lost more than twice as much weight as those in a control group on the same fat reduced diet. Neither group was instructed to decrease the amount of food they ate or to increase their exercise levels. An article published in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition says that you don't have to decrease the amount of food you eat to lose weight, provided that you limit the fat.

According to a spokesperson for Phillips Gulf Corporation, the exclusive North American distributor of Bio-Rex 3000, the company is considering additional studies in order to get federal approval to make pharmaceutical claims. Currently, weight loss claims for the Bio-Rex 3000 supplement are limited. However, with the requisite approval, the company could say that Bio-Rex 3000 decreases sugar cravings, increases metabolism and interferes with the body's ability to produce excess fat.

Bio-Rex 3000 is currently available as a dietary supplement and plan in pharmacies and nutrition stores or by calling 1-800-729-8446. Suggested retail price for a four week supply is just $19.99.

Ethanol Workshop Slated At BWI For October 11

The Maryland Ethanol Workshop rescheduled for Thursday, Oct. 11, will be offering a full slate of speakers and valuable information. This event, sponsored by the U.S. Department of Energy, the Maryland Department of Agriculture, the Maryland Department of the Environment, and the Regional Biomass Energy Program, is a part of a series of workshops held in many states across the country.

The workshop program will begin in the morning with an overview about the ethanol industry and the factors that have led to record levels of production of this renewable motor fuel. During lunch, a former director of the Central Intelligence Agency, R. James Woolsey, will discuss the role of renewable fuels in increasing energy security. Government officials may find of particular interest the afternoon discussions about federal and state policies that have been used to encourage fuel ethanol use and production in other states.

Government officials, business owners, fleet managers, industry representatives, and the public are invited to attend "A Dialogue: The Potential for Production and Use of Fuel Ethanol in Maryland," a one-day workshop, at the BWI Airport Marriott. Presentations will include: the Federal Bioenergy Initiative, which promotes the tripling of renewable bioenergy fuels by the year 2020; representatives of key state agencies discussing their perspectives on the merits of developing an in-state ethanol industry; an overview of the ABC's of ethanol; the potential environmental and economic development impact; and leaders from the state of Minnesota relating the dramatic impact a 225-million-gallon-per-year ethanol industry has made on their state and what it took to make it happen.

Also on the agenda for the ethanol workshop will be final-phase results from the Ethanol Feasibility Study commissioned by the Maryland Grain Producers Utilization Board (MGPUB). This study, exploring the possibility of Maryland constructing its own ethanol plant, has gained support since first phase results proved to be very favorable.

MGPUB is looking at the feasibility of constructing a 15-million-gallon ethanol plant. This would be a small grains plant with the probability of operating on primarily barley. To construct a plant of this size would cost approximately $30 million and require approximately 7 million bushels of barley.

For more information, persons may contact Jerline Williams at the Maryland Energy Administration, 410-260-7190, or jwilliams@energy.state.md.us. The agenda and registration form are posted on the organizer's web site, www.BBIethanol.com. Persons should click on DOE Workshops, then on Maryland.

BEEF CITIZENSHIP AWARD — At this year's Garrett County Fair, the Dayton Broadwater Beef Citizenship award was presented to Daniel Garlitz, member of the Grantsville 4-H Club and Northern FFA, for his participation in beef related activities and his encouragement to other youth showing beef projects. This is the sixth year this award has been given. Pictured from left are Farm Queen Sarah Pysell, Donna Knox (a Broadwater family member), and Garlitz. Dayton Broadwater was a life-long supporter to 4-H and FFA work. His love for beef cattle and agriculture inspired this award for youth at the Garrett County fair, a family spokesperson said. Garlitz was given a certificate, a plaque, and a savings bond.

Substance Abusers Must Follow Treatment Plan, Receive Support

by Fred Herath, Director
Garrett County Substance Abuse Program

Over the past few weeks, several articles have expressed concern regarding the adequacy of alcohol treatment facilities in Garrett County. This would include the editorial in The Republican on Sept. 6. As program director for the Garrett County Substance Abuse Program (formerly, the Addictions Clinic), I would like to clarify a few issues, and then appeal to the community for help in making our treatment efforts more effective.

As therapists, we consider ourselves medical professionals, operating under the same premises, procedures, and ethics you would expect from your doctor. These would include: "First, Do no harm" and second, "If the patient is going to get well, he/she must follow the prescribed course of action, or treatment plan."

Despite the fact that we are a small staff of 11 people, charged with a diverse set of tasks - that is, we serve the needs of all drug and alcohol abusers in the county from first-time DWI offenders to chronically addicted clients, all ages, both sexes, in several different settings - I would like to make the following statement: People who follow our direction will have manageability restored to their lives and will eventually conquer their addiction.

We have an excellent staff of highly trained people, but the fact is, most people with chemical abuse and dependency problems expect to restore manageability to their life by following some of the treatment plan, some of the time. This rarely works. Typically, what they think they need to do to get well is more or less what failed last time. Repeating the same behaviors and expecting different results is a fundamental symptom of addiction. As therapists, we must skillfully and tactfully tell our customers what they neither want to hear nor believe. That is usually true with regard to the severity of the individual's problem and always true with regard to recommending the most feasible solution. They get mad, scared, or both, and start looking for ways out.

The definition of alcoholism as defined by ASAM (the American Society of Addictive Medicine) reads as follows: "Alcoholism is a primary, chronic disease with genetic, psychosocial, and environmental factors influencing its development and manifestations. The disease is often progressive and fatal. It is characterized by impaired control over drinking, preoccupation with the drug alcohol, use of alcohol despite adverse consequences, and distortions in thinking, most notably denial. Each of these symptoms may be continuous or periodic."

Some people might have difficulty accepting alcoholism (and chemical dependence in general) as a disease. Bill Burnett, president of NAADAC (National Association of Alcohol and Drug Abuse Counselors) in the most recent edition (October) of Counselor magazine, stated: "One of the most basic topics that all addiction counselors need to be able to discuss and explain is the disease of addiction. The fact is that addiction is comparable to numerous other diseases in many ways... If alcoholism is compared based on the degree to which it has a biological basis, the degree to which the condition shows a predictable course and outcome, and the degree to which the condition or its manifestations are caused by volitional acts, then the disease of alcoholism is very comparable to coronary heart disease, hypertension, diabetes mellitus, gout, cancer, and syphilis."

Let me point out, if there were a successful argument against the position that chemical abuse and dependence constitutes a medical condition, I think the insurance companies would have found it. It is incumbent upon them to pay millions of dollars each year to treat alcoholism and other drug addiction.

As a recovering person myself, I can assure you, winning the battle against alcoholism or drug addiction requires no less a commitment from the patient than one would make when dealing with any other disease. It can be psychologically devastating. Fear prompts the patients, in desperate and ingenious ways, to avoid the challenges we place in front of them. Patient arguments as to why they can't comply with treatment are usually rational and logical - citing employment obligations, lack of transportation, perceived quality of care, etc. The Garrett County Health Department is committed to addressing these issues in every way possible, through vouchers, expanded hours, satellite facilities, etc.

Therapists recognize self-esteem as a big factor in recovery, and that it would be counterproductive to set the patient up for failure on the treatment plans. Everything we ask the patient to do can be accomplished, given the proper priority. The patient's protests should not be allowed to interrupt the treatment process. These barriers wouldn't stop the person from pursuing relief from any other life-threatening medical condition, which, incidentally, is also harming the people around them. Those who care should not accept such rationale from the substance abuser. People suffering from chemical abuse/dependence are not necessarily responsible for their affliction, but they owe it to themselves, to loved ones, and to society to address the solution in the manner most likely to ensure success.

Garrett County is a tough place to get clean and sober. This is because of the relatively sparse population. Many addicts and alcoholics relocate to this area in search of the "geographic cure," thinking that the opportunities to use will be so greatly diminished, their willpower will win out. That is not how it works. The recovering person needs a vigorous support system involving healthy companionship, family, and community understanding, and needs opportunities to rebuild from extremely limited resources.

It has been suggested that the county would benefit from a more extensive facility or residential treatment program, such as the Finan Center in Allegany County. What is important is not where the individual receives residential treatment; the key is a development of a community and family support system into which one can be discharged. The Massie Unit of the Finan Center serves the four western counties, a population of nearly half a million people (432,000). It has a staff of approximately 25 people and is actually a component of the larger Allegany County Health Department Addictions Program. It operates, as does our local program, principally on public funds. Both facilities are held highly accountable for the extent and quality of their services. After 14-28 days in a protected environment, where the focus is en-tirely on the importance of the individual getting clean and sober, the residential patient is discharged with an aftercare plan not unlike what we develop for our patients. One can either follow it or not. It's easier to address the issues on that plan (employment, medical care, housing, 12-step fellowship, education, etc...) in a community of diverse resources. Placing a residential facility in Garrett County will not alter this basic fact.

Keeping the beds filled and giving the patient what he/she needs to get sober is why, after a year-long deliberation and upon the advice of the Addictions Advisory Council, the health department elected not to compete but to partner with Allegany County in establishing a half-way house in far western Maryland. We have tried to augment the community support network by increasing the patient's therapeutic sessions beyond what is normally found in an outpatient clinic. Requiring the patient to attend at least three therapeutic sessions each week was generally perceived by virtually everyone outside our clinic as overly intrusive and unrealistic. The number of participants dwindled to the point that the more intensive treatment, in the jail and in the Oakland clinic, did not justify the time, staff, and expense it took to adequately provide the service.

To be truly successful, we must raise the collective consciousness of the community as to the importance of having the patients engage and follow through with treatment recommendations. The interesting phenomena is how often people vigorously clamor for help, either for themselves or others, and then fail to support or follow through with what is presented.

Be assured, treatment services of the Garrett County Substance Abuse Program is of the highest quality. All eight therapists are state certified drug/alcohol counselors, four at the master's level. The state of Maryland's Alcohol and Drug Abuse Administration and Lt. Governor Townsend's Drug and Alcohol Council rigidly monitor program protocols. Earlier this month, the program was reviewed for two days by a team of five surveyors from the state Office of Health Care Quality (formerly License and Certification). They sat in on groups, interviewed clients, and reviewed nearly all the medical records. The program received outstanding marks in all areas and received a two-year certification.

My challenge to the family, friends, and professionals seeking help for the many alcohol and drug abusers living in our community is this: Participate and support the individuals in their recovery plan and, above all, hold them accountable for following the recommendations. Filter the individuals' excuses for not complying with treatment as though they were refusing to follow the directions of a physician trying to save their life, for that is exactly what it is. Substance abusers, particularly, must be held accountable for treatment compliance; for, in most cases, intoxicated behavior and illegal drug use puts society's welfare at stake as well. If the community mind-set were to support and encourage drug and alcohol abusers to attempt abstinence and sobriety, as recommended by the treatment professional, our treatment efforts, and the efforts of those patients, would be much more effective.

I encourage each of you to learn more about the extensive services and the extremely competent staff at the Garrett County Substance Abuse Program. In that regard, I would be more than happy to discuss clinic operations with interested individuals (301-334-8115) and invite all to visit our program when the health department open house is announced.

COMPLETE TIPS TRAINING - The management and staff of the Long Branch Saloon, Mtn. Lake Park, recently completed the Training for Intervention Procedures (TIPS) program, and received a certificate from local TIPS coordinator Fred Herath in recognition of that effort. Pictured from left are: Herath, Michelle Shahan and Karen Lambert, servers; and Dick Williams, co-owner and manager. "By learning appropriate intervention techniques when the effects of alcohol could create a danger for a patron or others, or when an underage person may be attempting to purchase alcohol, these managers and servers can help prevent a tragedy," Herath said. "Establishments should be recognized and commended for incurring the expense, time, and scheduling involved in on-site training for the entire staff. This is a significant commitment to public safety and the responsibility associated with holding a liquor license." Other business owners who wish to receive this training are invited to attend one of the following scheduled sessions: October 8 at the Oakland municipal building for off-premise businesses (package liquor, convenience and grocery stores); and October 18 at Garrett Community College for on-premise businesses (restaurants, bars, and fraternal clubs). The fee for the former session is $15, and for the latter, $20. Those wishing to obtain more information and/or to register for these sessions are asked to telephone Herath at 301-334-7933.

Survey Shows Maryland Teen Drug Use Down, Except Ecstasy

by Justin Paprocki
Capital News Service

BALTIMORE — Drug use among Maryland teens has continued to decrease over the past six years, according to a survey released last week, but administrators are concerned about the increasing popularity of designer drugs.

"While we feel good about [the results], there is one drug that has become a major problem and that is ecstasy," said Lynn Linde, chief of the Maryland State Department of Education Student Services and Alternative Programs branch.

Student responses to more than three-fourths of the questions answered showed their drug and alcohol use declining, placing them slightly below the national average in most categories, according to the biennial Maryland Adolescent Survey, released by the state Board of Education at its meeting Tuesday.

The survey polled about 34,500 6th, 7th, 10th, and 12th graders statewide at public schools to determine their tobacco, alcohol, and illegal drug use.

Administrators are worried the use of ecstasy and similar drugs, which has quadrupled in the past 10 years, may continue its sharp increase.

About 5 percent of Maryland 12th graders reported they'd used ecstasy within 30 days of the survey, a figure about 1 percentage point above the national average. The Maryland figure is 2 percentage points higher than it was in 1998.

Programs tailored specifically to combat ecstasy use have recently been implemented at schools.

"Almost a year ago, [drug prevention coordinators] identified the growing threat of ecstasy, confirmed by these results, and implemented the Ecstasy Action Plan using prevention, enforcement, treatment, and monitoring to combat this problem," said Lt. Gov. Kathleen Kennedy Townsend.

The survey also showed alcohol use declined slightly, but remained the most popular drug among Maryland teenagers. Nearly half of the nation's 12th graders reported using alcohol in the past 30 days, compared to about 47 percent of Maryland students.

But students at Caroline County high schools said alcohol isn't as easy to get as marijuana, cited in the survey as one of the most popular illicit drugs. The students were participating last week in a forum organized by the state attorney general to discuss teenagers' concerns. Marijuana use was identified as a main problem.

Students said it's easier to find someone at school with a drug supply than it is to buy alcohol at a convenience store.

"It is a problem," said Jordan Parkhurst, a junior at North Caroline Senior High. "There's always a way to smuggle pot to a kid."

About one-fourth of the 12th graders surveyed used marijuana in the past 30 days. The number is down from last year, yet is still about 1 percentage point above the national average. The easy availability is one of the reasons for the high usage, Caroline students said.

Cigarettes are also easy to come by, whether buying them from a gas station or getting them from a friend, the students said.

Cigarette use is so prevalent, Parkhurst said, he sometimes reeks of smoke just using the bathroom because of students smoking there.

But cigarette use is down 3 percentage points from 1998 to 25 percent of Maryland 12th graders, according to the survey. And it remains about four points below the national average.

Starting anti-drug programs early in school, especially peer prevention classes, is a reason for the decline, administrators said. But keeping students drug free is increasingly a problem. Most drug use at least doubles from 6th grade to the time students enter high school and then rises again by graduation.

"In 12th grade, they're making up for lost ground," said Tina Henry, Caroline County director of pupil services. "We still have a lot of work to do, but we are seeing some promising results."

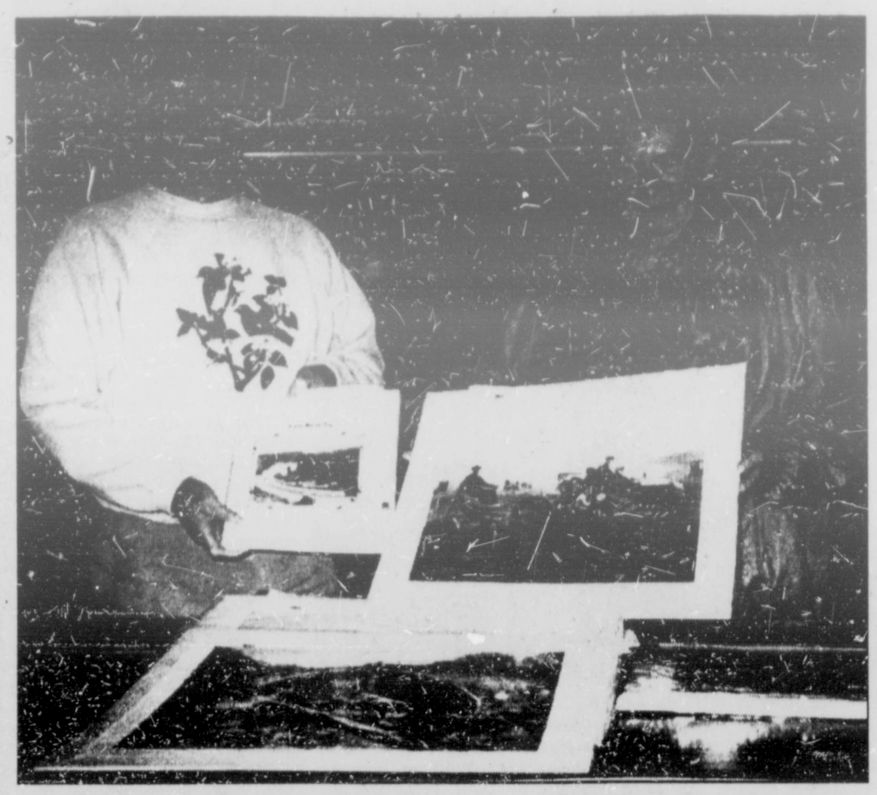
Folk Festival Will Feature Beachy Photos

The 44th annual Springs Folk Festival, set for 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. this Friday and Saturday, Oct. 5-6, in Springs, Pa., will include a display of photographs by deceased Grantsville area resident Leo J. Beachy, who used his camera to chronicle life in early 1900s-era Garrett County. The Beachy display is just one of a number of historical displays at the festival, which also features continual performances of traditional folk and gospel music, hayrides, demonstrations of bygone farming skills, a historical pageant, and Pennsylvania Dutch food.

The Beachy exhibit will be presented by Grantsville resident Maxine Broadwater, a descendant of the photographer. Beachy's work has been displayed in the Maryland Historical Museum, Baltimore, and last spring's Maryland Public Television documentary of his life and work, Images of Maryland 1900-2000, recently earned three Emmy awards. Limited edition matted prints, books, and calendars featuring Beachy's work will be available for purchase at the festival.

Admission to the Springs Folk Festival is $5 for adults, $2 for children ages 6-18, and children under 6 are admitted free. The Springs Museum is located along Springs Road (Rt. 669) three miles north of Grantsville. For further information, persons may call 814-662-4158 or 814-662-2147.



BEACHY PHOTOS PART OF SPRINGS SLATE — The Springs Folk Festival in nearby Springs, Pa., is set for Friday and Saturday, Oct. 5-6, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on the grounds of the Springs Museum. One of the many exhibits highlighting the rural heritage of Garrett and Somerset (Pa.) counties will be a display of photographs taken in the early 1900s by deceased Grantsville resident Leo J. Beachy. Pictured above are Richard Yoder, left, of the Springs Museum, and Grantsville resident and Beachy's niece and biographer Maxine Broadwater as they hold some items featuring the pioneering photographer's work. Other festival attractions include traditional acoustic gospel and folk music, and demonstrations of old-style rural skills and crafts, such as log-splitting by Grantsville resident Harry Doerr (below). The Springs Museum is located along Springs Road (Rt. 669) three miles north of Grantsville. Admission is $5 for adults, $2 for children 6-18, and free for children 5 and under.

More Charges Made Against Terra Alta Man

After further investigation of the driving while intoxicated (DWI) arrest last week of William Nathaniel Dixon, Garrett County sheriff's deputies determined that he was using a false name.

More charges were filed by deputies, and Michael Leslie Dixon, 25, was arrested for DWI, making a false statement to a peace officer, driving on a revoked license, failing to drive right of center, and failing to display a license on demand.

Dixon was released from the Garrett County Detention Center on $1,000 bond.

A Frederick man was arrested by deputies early Monday morning on numerous charges.

Craig Allen Appel, 36, was stopped by deputies along Maryland Highway west of Leon White Road. He was arrested and charged with DWI, failing to drive right of center, driving on an expired license, driving on expired tags, possession of marijuana, and possession of paraphernalia.

Appel was released from the detention center on his own recognizance.

In a separate incident, deputies made a traffic stop along Oakland Drive, and apprehended the backseat passenger, Matthew Swapp, 19, Oakland, on an arrest warrant for theft. According to deputies, a search of Swapp revealed a butterfly knife in his front pants pocket. Swapp was charged for carrying a concealed deadly weapon.

Swapp is currently incarcerated in the detention center on $20,000 bond.

Deputies arrested another man on an arrest warrant Sunday.

James Eston Sherbin, 28, Friendsville, was arrested in Arby's parking lot off Weber Road for driving on a suspended/revoked license. A search incident to arrest at the detention center revealed a small bag containing suspected marijuana.

Sherbin was charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance. He was released from the jail after posting $500 bond.

A two-vehicle accident Monday night caused electric outages for many residents near Silver Knob Road, according to sheriff's deputies.

Ronald Andrew McCrobie, 27, Oakland, was operating a 1990 Jeep Wrangler northbound on Route 219 and failed to see a northbound Ford tractor, operated by Jonas M. Yoder, 62, Oakland, police said. McCrobie then struck the rear of the tractor, forcing both vehicles off the roadway.

The tractor struck a telephone pole, which caused the electrical lines to be downed. Yoder was transported by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was admitted for treatment. Charges are pending against Yoder.

McCrobie was charged and arrested for DWI, and was later released.

LIGHTHOUSE WELCOMES FALL — The Garrett County Lighthouse consumers welcomed fall by decorating two bulletin boards, one at the Lighthouse and the other at the Discovery Center at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Patty Manown Mash, regional coordinator at the center, has offered the downstairs bulletin board to community organizations that would like to arrange a display. Past displays have included Wild Flowers by Mtn. Laurel Garden Club, and Hikes and Bikes by GFWC Civic Club of Oakland. Other organizations, including FCE Homemakers and Maryland Cooperative Extension, are scheduled for future months. Groups interested in participating may call Bobby Andersen, 301-334-4459, or Patty Mash, 301-387-7314. Pictured above, from the left, are Jane Wright and Andersen, two Lighthouse volunteers.

Historical Trust Wants Applicants For Grant Prog.

The Maryland Historical Trust (MHT), an agency of the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD), is accepting applications for Preservation Incentives for Local Governments (PILG) grants. PILG is a new incentive to assist counties in developing more comprehensive heritage preservation programs, and grants are available in the current fiscal year.

County governments are eligible to apply for PILG grants and may use them to help pay for new heritage preservation activities, including those associated with heritage preservation staff, developing a survey and evaluation plan for a county's heritage resources, and promoting heritage preservation within the county.

The PILG initiative was announced at a public forum in June in Crownsville, and was featured in the August issue of MHT's newsletter, In Context, and on the MHT web site (www.marylandhistoricaltrust.net). The deadline for submission of completed fiscal year 2002 PILG applications is October 31, 2001, and grants will be announced by the end of December.

In this initial funding round, the maximum PILG Grant amount is $25,000. A maximum of $600,000 will be available for fiscal 2002 PILG funding. Beginning in fiscal 2003, the maximum grant will increase to $50,000, and in fiscal 2004, eligible counties may apply for PILG grants of up to $100,000. Counties must provide a full match to receive grants, although "in-kind" support will be accepted.

Each application is ranked and evaluated using the Maryland Historical Trust's open project selection criteria. This includes, but is not limited to, the comprehensiveness of the applicant's PILG-related activities, the extent to which its PILG-related activities promotes its overall heritage preservation program, and the innovative nature of the applicant's PILG-related activities.

The Maryland Historical Trust serves as the state's historic preservation office and is dedicated to preserving the legacy of Maryland's past. Through research, conservation, and education, the trust assists the people of Maryland in understanding their historical and cultural heritage.

For information, applications, and copies of the open project selection criteria, persons may contact Scott D. Whipple at 410-514-7635 or whipple@dhcd.state.md.us. Persons may also write to the Maryland Historical Trust at the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development, 100 Community Place, Crownsville, MD 21032-2023. Applications are also available on the Internet at www.marylandhistoricaltrust.net under "In Your Community" or at www.dhcd.state.md.us.

The Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development works with partners to revitalize communities, encourage home ownership, expand affordable housing opportunities, and enhance Maryland's historic sites and traditions.

NOTICE TO GARRETT COUNTY TAXPAYERS

According to the laws governing my office (Section 14-808/Tax Property), the Tax Collector must advertise and sell properties for delinquent County, State and Town taxes, or taxes due other taxing agencies.

Garrett County tax bills become delinquent 15 months after billing. Therefore, 2000-01 (red) tax bills and prior years were delinquent October 1, 2001. The 2001-02 (orange) bills WILL NOT BE delinquent until October 1, 2002. Personal Property taxes for 2000-01 and prior years are also delinquent and become a lien on real estate.

If you took advantage of the semi-annual payment option, the 2nd coupon amount will be due without interest by Dec. 31, 2001. A small service charge will be assessed at the time of the 2nd payment.

Final delinquent notices will be mailed on or about February 1, 2002, allowing 30 days for payment. After this time, all delinquent accounts will be given to the Attorney for preparation for tax sale. To avoid additional costs, please pay delinquent accounts before February 28, 2002. For administrative purposes, the tax sale is being planned one month earlier for sale 2002. Therefore, the sale has been tentatively scheduled for May 2002 instead of June 2002.

If there are any questions, don't hesitate to call the office anytime between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Garrett County SKIES

by Dr. Bob Doyle
Frostburg State Planetarium

THE SUN — In early October, the sun shines for 11.8 hours each day, which falls back to 10.5 hours in late October. October sunrises are at 7:14 a.m. (start of month) while October's end has 6:45 a.m. sunrises. During October, the sun's peak height drops from 47 degrees on the 1st to 36 degrees as October ends. (45 degrees is halfway from the horizon to the top of the sky.) During October, sunsets drop from 7 to 5:17 p.m.

On the last Sunday of October (the 28th) we set our clocks back one hour; this causes both sunrises and sunsets to occur an hour earlier. This shift from Daylight Time to Standard Time also gives us an extra hour of evening star gazing.

October 31 besides being Halloween is also a cross quarter day, marking the mid point of the fall. Other cross quarter days are February 2 (winter), May 1 (spring), and August 1 (summer).

THE MOON — The moon is full on October 2, rising at dusk and hanging in the sky all night long. This is the famed Harvest Moon, providing extra evening moonlight for the next five nights. By October 10 the moon has shrunk to half full, then seen only in the morning sky. On that same date the moon will appear near the bright planet Jupiter at dawn. On October 15 the crescent moon will be near the brilliant planet Venus in the eastern dawn. For the next few days the moon will be lost in the sun's glare, reappearing in the western dusk after October 17. By October 23 the moon will have grown to half full, appearing as a letter "D" in the southern evening sky. On that same date the moon appears near the planet Mars. While the moon resembles a "D," this is the best time to spot its craters and mountains with binoculars or telescopes. Halloween features a nearly full moon for trick or treaters.

THE BRIGHT PLANETS — Our five nearest planetary neighbors appear as points of light that shine more steadily than the twinkling night stars. But if a planet appears very close to the horizon or if it's windy, even the planet's light may flicker. In October, the planet Mars is low in the southwestern evening sky. Three bright planets can be seen together at dawn. Most conspicuous is the brilliant planet Venus, low in the east. Above and to the right is the bright planet Jupiter. Higher and yet farther to the right is the planet Saturn. In the last week of October, the planet Mercury can be seen below Venus.

OCTOBER'S BEST SIGHTS — Locate the Big Dipper low in the northwest. Midway up in the western southern evening sky is the Summer Triangle, a large trio of bright stars that points south. The fall evening star groups are now quite prominent in the east. The bright golden star Capella is striking in the northeast. Above and to the right is the charming 7 Sisters star cluster, resembling a tangle of lightning bugs. Below the 7 Sisters are the bright star Aledberan and the planet Saturn.

OCTOBER ASTRONOMY ACTIVITIES — Now featured at the Frostburg State Planetarium is "Music of the Spheres," with free public showings each Sunday at 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. Also featured is an informal tour of the sky at dusk and at dawn using our planetarium projector. The Frostburg State Planetarium is just off the front lobby of Tawes Hall. The Cumberland Astronomy Club will meet on Friday, Oct. 19, at the LaVale Public Library at 7:30 p.m. All interested sky gazers from the tri-state area are welcome.

Dr. Bob Doyle directs the planetarium at Frostburg State. Since the mid '70s, Doyle has been writing the sky columns for beginners who would like to identify the brightest stars, planets, and sights in their backyards. To ask questions or get a free brochure, call the FSU Planetarium at 301-687-4270 and press 4. Doyle also hosts "Skywatch," a brief program on days of the week and sky sights that airs on weekday evenings just before 9 p.m. on WFWM, Frostburg State's radio station that transmits at 91.9 FM in western Garrett County and at 96.3 FM around Oakland. Dr. Doyle's e-mail address is rdoyle@frostburg.edu.

Diabetes Support Group Sets First Monthly Meeting

The Garrett County Diabetes Support Group has been formed by several local individuals, who will meet for the first time this Tuesday, Oct. 9, from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. at the Mary Browning Senior Center in Oakland. Support group meetings will take place the second Tuesday of each month at that same time and location.

This Tuesday's introductory meeting will include open discussion, recipe sharing, and a survey to determine what subjects would be of most interest to the public for future meetings. All recipes brought to share should include nutrition facts.

All Diabetes Support Group meetings are open to the public and there are no fees to join. Some of the topics planned for future meetings are travel, holiday meal planning, diabetic foot care, juvenile (type 1) diabetes, obtaining diabetes supplies, working with insurance companies, and the latest medical advances in treatments and cures.

For more information, persons may call Beverly Carvell of the Garrett County Extension Office at 301-334-6960 or Lillie Beckman at 301-533-3000.

SWANTON NEWS

OTTERBEIN UM CHURCH

Approximately 100 persons turned out Saturday to help get ready for the Apple Harvest Festival at the Burlington Children's Home. The festival will be held this Saturday and Sunday, October 6 and 7. On Saturday apples were peeled, jars washed, and kettles cleaned, in preparation for Monday's apple butter making. Apple butter will be made each day, Monday through Saturday. Those helping from Otterbein were George and Freda Rexroad, Freda Teets, Dotty and Melvin Beckman, Wanda Maphis, Joan Riley, Mary June Harvey, and Sandy Schofield.

The United Methodist Women will meet at the parsonage next Tuesday, Oct. 9, at 7 p.m. Carol Sweitzer will be the program leader.

October 14 is Rally Day. The Sunday school will sponsor an Autumn Glory hayride. All are welcome to bring a friend and meet at the church at 1 p.m. The wagons will proceed up Pine Hill Road and on to Camp Agape off North Glade Road, where hotdogs will be ready. There will also be apples and cookies. Wagons will return to the church by 4 p.m.

The Swanton Kitzmiller Charge Conference will be held Oct. 14 at 6:30 p.m. at Otterbein.

SWANTON COMMUNITY CENTER

The center will be making and selling donuts at the Springs Folk Festival, Springs, Pa., on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 5 and 6.

Beginning Oct. 4, high school diploma study groups will meet every Thursday from 6 to 9 p.m. Persons interested in continuing education or seeking a Maryland high school diploma are invited to "just walk in." This service is free for adults, over age 16, not currently enrolled in public school.

PERSONALS

Ralph Friend and Frances Sweitzer were surgical patients in Garrett Memorial Hospital last week.

Visitors of Orval and Mareva Teets last week were Jim Rhodes, Shirley Beckman, Keyser, W.Va., and Marian Smith of Florida.

Holly Wilson visited her sister, Addy Wilson, and her husband, Kit Norman, in Graham, N.C., over the weekend.

Shayne and Kendra Biser moved into their new home in Burlington, W.Va., last Thursday. Kendra is the daughter of Alverta and Denver Sweitzer.

The family of John and Linda Fleming made apple butter outdoors, in their copper kettle, last Saturday. Persons who helped with the peeling, cooking, and canning were: Orval and Mareva Teets, Amy and Artie Sweitzer, Freda Teets, Charlie Sultzer, David, Mary Lou and Joni Wilson, Steve, Lucinda, Amber and Jacob Davis, Lawre, Zach and Hannah Virts, A.J. and April Fleming, and Vernon Sweitzer.

Mary June Harvey was an overnight guest of her daughter, Sandra Schofield, Bittinger, on Friday.

George and Freda Rexroad and Freda Teets were Sunday dinner guests of Mary Lou and David Wilson.

On Sunday evening Bob and Fannie Rizer visited their daughter, Wandell Feaster, her husband Steve, and daughter Stefannie at their home in New Creek, W.Va.

Marian Smith, Kissimmee, Fla., and Shirley Beckman of Keyser, W.Va., visited Dotty, Melvin, and Andrew Beckman on Tuesday, Sept. 25.

PUBLIC NOTICES

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Deep Creek Watershed Board of Zoning Appeals will conduct a public hearing on Thursday, October 18, 2001, starting at 7:30 p.m. in the County Commissioners' meeting room, Second Floor, Courthouse Annex, Oakland. The Board will review the following docketed cases:

1. VR-498 - an application submitted by Peter J. Magerko for a Variance from the terms of the zoning ordinance as it affects the front yard setback for residences. The variance is requested to allow an existing accessory structure currently located within 24.83 feet of the front property line to be converted to a single family residence which requires a 40 foot setback from the front property line. The property is located at 1746 Stockslager Road. ZONED LR.

2. VR-499 - an application submitted by Eleanor M. Selberling for a Variance to construct an addition that will come to within 13 feet of a side property line instead of the grandfathered 13.7 feet. The property is located at 447 Hazelhurst Road. ZONED LR.

3. VR-500 - an application submitted by Christopher Perez for a Variance to allow an existing deck to remain at a zero setback from the rear property line instead of the required 5 feet. The property is located at 48 Stone Tavern Lane. ZONED LR.

4. VR-501 - an application submitted by Jimmy Railey for a Variance to construct a single family residence that will come to within 25 feet of a front property line instead of the required 40 feet. The property is located at 801 Marsh Hill Road (Lot #1). ZONED LR.

5. VR-502 - an application submitted by Jimmy Railey for Variances to construct a single-family residence that will come to with 25 feet of the front property line and to within 20 feet of the rear property line instead of the required 40 feet in each instance. Also, the application requests a Variance for the residence to go to within 9 feet of a side property line instead of the required 15 feet. The property is located at 801 Marsh Hill Road (Lot #2). ZONED LR.

Interested persons are invited to attend.

Maryland Department of the Environment Waste Management Administration

Notice of Application Received and Opportunity for Informational Meeting

The Maryland Department of the Environment (the "Department") is presently reviewing a Groundwater Discharge Permit Renewal Application (98-DP-2770) submitted by the Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling for Rubble Cell at the Garrett County Solid Waste Disposal and Recycling Facility. The application is for the continued discharge of the wastewater generated by rainwater percolating through the rubble cell floor at the Garrett County Solid Waste Disposal and Recycling Facility into groundwater via infiltration/percolation. This permit is for the existing portion of the rubble cell that was a non-hazardous solid waste acceptance facility for the disposal of construction and demolition debris. The landfill is located at 3118 Oakland Sang Run Road, Oakland in Garrett County, Maryland 21550. The proposed permit allows the Department to set and maintain requirements for the continued monitoring of groundwater quality at the landfill, and does not authorize an expansion or other change to the facility as currently permitted.

The Department has decided to extend the expiration date of the permit for this facility because the current expiration date was not issued for a five-year term allowed under section 9-213(a) Environment Articie, Annotated Code of Maryland. This section allows the term of a permit for a landfill system to be renewed for an additional 5-year term before a permit expires on the 5th anniversary of its date of issuance. Therefore, processing of this application will be deferred until February 25, 2004, at which time; opportunity for an informational meeting will be offered to discuss the application and the permitting process. In the interim, the Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling will continue monitoring under its present permit. However, a meeting can also be scheduled earlier if a request is received by October 25, 2001.

The request should indicate the name, address, and daytime telephone number of the person making the request, the name of any party whom the person making the request may represent, and the name of the facility. Upon request, the Department will provide an interpreter for the deaf or hearing-impaired persons. The application and supporting documents will be available for public review after October 4, 2001, at the Garrett County Public Library located at 6 N. 2nd Street, Oakland, MD 21550 and at the Department by appointment.

For further information regarding this notice, or to schedule an appointment to review this permit application and supporting documents at the Department, please contact Ms. Gail Castleman, Hearings Coordinator at 410-631-3314.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this proceeding is to secure the foreclosure of all rights of redemption in the following property located in Garrett County, Maryland, sold by the Collector of Taxes for Garrett County and the State of Maryland to the Plaintiff in this proceeding, which is more particularly described as:

all that parcel of land assessed [as Account No. 06-003842] situate in Election District No. 6, containing 21.04 acres, more or less, and described in the deed from Asten, Inc. to Raymond A. Ferguson dated November 2,1971 and recorded November 10, 1971, in Liber No. 317, folio 233, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland

The Complaint states, among other things, that the amount necessary for redemption has not been paid, although more than six months and a day from the date of sale have expired.

It is thereupon this 25th day of September, 2001, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, Ordered that notice be given by the insertion of a copy of this Order in some newspaper having a general circulation in Garrett County, once a week for three successive weeks, warning all persons interested in the property to appear in this Court by the 26th day of November, 2001, and redeem the property and answer the Complaint or thereafter a final judgment will be entered foreclosing all rights of redemption in the property, and vesting in the Plaintiff a title, free and clear of all encumbrances.

Eyewitness Account

all pass through a single entrance and are given a bracelet to identify that we are authorized to be inside the area.

A different Old Guard company arrives for duty and gets suited up in rubber boots, gloves, masks, and safety helmets. I again step up and inform the group that though the day's memories will be gruesome and those they will not wish to recall, it is our sacred duty to remove our fellow Americans with dignity and respect as we seek on this day to serve both God and country with integrity befitting honor because we are Americans. They were ready, and Chaplain Spencer and I were ready too. Chaplain Bradfield, who would again be inside the refrigeration truck with the doctor and nurse, was ready too. This would be another very hard day, but none of us knew that yet. We moved to our places and began.

The FBI was ready to lead us into deeper carnage. It was harder to breath the air...much more nauseating. Our thoughts were less controlled and our emotions were beginning to overload due to the visual trauma experienced. In fact, had the three of us chaplains not been specifically asked to return as a team for this third day, none of us would have. For the sake of the soldiers and teams we had bonded with and established a strong ministry link, we each stayed. It was our duty and we clearly knew that and embraced it without hesitation. The work continued.

Standing deep inside watching the soldiers work after the FBI backed out, one of the FBI agents said to me, "Chaplain, I can't express how comforting it is to us that you two are in here standing with us." I remarked to Chaplain Spencer how surprised I sometimes am by "who" makes those kinds of comments than I am by the comments themselves. Structural safety engineers cleared us from the building with concerns that a wall may collapse and trap us inside. Quickly we went outside and waited.

Up inside an exposed fourth or fifth floor office on the left side of the blast area you could see a Marine Corps flag standing. The entire wall was blown away, but that flag was standing tall. I pointed it out to the Marines among us. I told them, "Though covered in ashes and amidst destruction all around, that flag still stands. Look at it long and hard. Remember this day, Marine, never forget it and be proud. That is the heritage you are a part of." Even the faces on the Army soldiers were glowing, and when the Marine Corps major with us actually pulled the flag from that office as a crane raised him to it, all of us started clapping wildly. It was a great moment indeed!

Still waiting to go back into the building. Chaplain Spencer and I are told to report back over to the chaplain operations tent. We get there, but no one knows who sent for us so we head back. We are stopped by two senators and are asked how we are doing. We share what we are doing and they are particularly moved that every body removed from the disaster is being given a Protestant and Catholic blessing before removal from the building. They thank us and we move back to our troops wondering if that was why we were to go over there — Who knows?

Still waiting. Chaplain Spencer and I moved among the troops checking to seeing how everyone was doing. One soldier took Father Rick aside and asked for prayer of reconciliation. That is what we chaplains are about. Reconciling soldiers to God and soldiers with themselves and others. "Bringing God to Soldiers and Soldiers to God," is more than just our Army Chaplain Corps motto. It is what we do and we do it where the soldiers are. We share in their hardships and chalienges, in their joys and in their terrors, and sometimes we die with them too. It is our sacred honor and duty and we can do no less.

It is now 5 p.m.; two Navy and one Coast Guard chaplains are now replacing the three of us. Our duty is done; our fellow sister service chaplains will continue. We have finally been relieved of the watch. We say goodbye to the troops, FBI, rescue workers, medical personnel and one happy Marine Corps major, and the three of us report back to the chaplain operations tent.

As we stood talking among ourselves, we each realized it was good we were relieved two hours early. My cup of trauma work was full and almost overflowing. My body felt exhausted and my emotions wanted to again burst. The pain in my foot and leg was even more pronounced and I needed to eat something more than just a sandwich. Father Spencer and I headed over to the Red Cross food center set up in the Pentagon parking lot. What a shock we were in for. Standing in line waiting for chicken and barbecue, a man grabbed me and hugged me. When I looked at him and heard him say, "Robert, I am really glad you are here." His affirmation as my chief of Army chaplains deeply touched me more than I can say. He invited Chaplain Spencer and me to join him at his table, and we did. Our deputy chief of chaplains was there too, as was our sergeant major—in my view the best threesome our corps has ever had! The chief looked under my very hot black sweater and immediately knew why I was wearing it. He smiled at me and chuckled. Everything I needed on my shirt beneath was missing. We had a good laugh. It was an appropriate conclusion to a long hard three days, and days none of us ever wanted to repeat.

With our duty here now done, Chaplain Spencer and I joined hands, prayed for each other, hugged each other and departed in the peace of the Lord and in the satisfying knowledge that our ministry had made a difference to those whom tragedy had so ruthlessly thrown together but God had so wondrously caused to prevail.

Looking back at the flag draped from the Pentagon building and saluting one last time, I started the painful walk up the long hill to the Sheraton. A security man saw me limping and gave me a ride. I was grateful indeed!

Day Four

I slept long and hard, but awakened before 0600. My lungs don't feel completely clear. I am in emotional overload. The images are too intense, and I find myself still shaking my head in disbelief. It is all so surreal.

None of the chaplains who flew in from overseas can fly back before next Thursday [Sept. 20]. I call the airlines and the best I can do is next Wednesday, the 19th, out of National. My flight is rebooked, but then the TV says National is now closed indefinitely. What to do?

The Arab lady working in the hotel restaurant won't let me pay for my coffee and says, "God bless you" to me as I leave. I take a cab to Ft. Myer to pray in the chapel, and we are stopped in a long security line with the meter running. I pay the cabby and ask for a ride from the driver in the car ahead. He gladly lets me in and tells me he is a retired Naval aviator and has already volunteered to the Navy that he is ready to do a suicide mission on any target they name. I understand. He drops me off at the chapel for prayer and picks me up afterward.

I sit at the computer to write from daily journal the above. It is now 1830 hours. I am finished and I am okay. My task now is to quickly find my way back to Korea. May God help me and may God bless America!

"The present moment of history presents a special challenge to military chaplains. Before you lies the task of educating others in human and spiritual values, and of helping them to place ethics above technology, moderation above passion, a sense of justice and brotherhood above hatred and oppression." —Pope John Paul II

Adorable Adoptables

INSEPARABLE SIBLINGS NEED A NEW HOME — Pictured above is Rascal, a neutered St. Bernard-basset hound mixed male, who would like to find a home for himself and his identical sister, who is spayed. They are approximately 2 years old, and would like to stay together since they have been inseparable since birth. Interested persons may call the Garrett County "We Care" Adoption Program of the Humane Society at 301-334-8274 or 301-746-5725.

Updates On Ginseng Story

Some updates and corrections to last week's story featuring Gary Friend, who found two large, unusual ginseng roots, are needed.

Friend reported Friday that the potential buyer for the ginseng, the roots, and he were all doing well. The buyer in New York City informed Friend that neither he nor his office were involved in the attack. Friend also said that he replanted the roots, and that they are thriving.

Two corrections to the story also need to be noted. Friend has not been officially diagnosed with lymphomic cancer. Doctors only suspect that he might have the illness. And Bill Slagle lives in West Virginia, not Friendsville.

LET THE FESTIVAL BEGIN! — One can almost hear the crackle of the leaves and smell fall in the air as this youngster enjoys romping in the fall foliage. While most of the leaves are still on the trees, within the next few weeks they will perform their color magic and, finally, succumb to gravity. In celebration of the season, the 34th annual Autumn Glory Festival will be held October 10-14. This special publication will help all festival goers plan their schedules and enjoy the many festivities.

Bridget Frazee, Guy Joseph Jr. To Reign As Autumn Glory Royalty

Bridget Nicole Frazee, a senior at Northern High School, and Guy Joseph Jr., a senior at Southern High School, pictured, will be crowned as Autumn Glory royalty at this year's kick-off reception, scheduled for Wednesday, Oct. 10, at the McHenry House at Wisp Resort.

A coronation ceremony will take place at the kick-off event, followed by special entertainment.

Bridget Frazee is the daughter of Brenda Lee Frazee and the late Timothy Gene Frazee of Friendsville. Her older sister, Heidi Frazee, also represented the royal court in 1999. Bridget is a member of Asher Glade Church of the Brethren and youth group.

She is the president of Northern's senior class of 2002, as well as an active member of Northern's Student Council and National Honor Society. Bridget is also a member of Northern's STEAM (Student Tobacco Elimination Among Minors), sponsored by the Garrett County Health Department.

While at Northern, she has also achieved academic recognition, such as outstanding female of the year for 1999, 2000, and 2001; Who's Who Among High School Students; and distinguished honor roll. Bridget is the captain of the girls' basketball and softball teams, and has participated in volleyball and band.

Every winter, she volunteers as a guide for the Blind Skiers Program, and works at the Willy Wisp Ski School as a ski instructor. She has been a certified lifeguard for the past two years and worked at Sonrise Church Camp this past summer.

Next fall she plans to attend Frostburg State University and major in psychology.

Guy Joseph Jr. is the son of Guy and Janet Joseph. He is a member of the Southern High marching band and the chorus, and for numerous years he has played football and baseball.

For two consecutive years he has been named to Who's Who Among High School Students, and is a member of the Salem Church of the Brethren youth group, where he is the sergeant of arms and a member of the church softball league.

Princess Jennifer Hickman of Southern High School is the daughter of the Rev. Mark and Karen Hickman. She is a National Merit Scholar, Maryland Distinguished Scholar, and vice president of the National Honor Society. Jennifer was also named to the distinguished honor roll, and is a member of the Quill and Scroll Society.

At Southern she was a photo editor and photographer for the yearbook, a member of the school newspaper, The Acorn, and a member of the Russian Culture Club.

A four-year member of both the girls' soccer and track teams, Jennfier was selected as captain of the track team in her junior year. She also plays soccer for the Arsenal U-18 and is a certified referee for the Mtn. Top Soccer program.

In extracurricular activities, Jennifer attends Bethel United Methodist Church, and works at the Lakeside Creamery. Following graduation, Jennifer plans to pursue a degree at a four-year college.

Born in Greensburg, Pa., Prince Steve Kersten moved to Garrett County last year. He began the school year at Northern High School, where he was voted the junior class representative for the Snow Ball and was inducted into the National Honor Society. Steve completed his service learning hours at the Wisp during the winter Special Olympics and at the Garrett Chamber Visitors Center during the summer tourism season.

As a senior, Steve is currently enrolled in the I-Tech computer program at Garrett Community College. He attends the college three afternoons a week and is currently preparing for the A+ Certification for computer repair. After graduation, Steve plans to pursue a degree in computer science at GCC. He also attends Southern High School in the evenings to attend a Maryland Civics class required for graduation.

Steve currently has an after-school job at Apehangers, a motorcycle shop located at the Fort in McHenry. There he greets customers, sells motorcycle accessories and apparel, and orders parts for owners Tana and Pat Cessna. Steve was previously employed by Doug McClive at McClives's Restaurant, where he worked in the Courtyard.

In addition to snowboarding and driving golf balls at the Wisp, Steve also enjoys boating and fishing on Deep Creek Lake. However, Steve's favorite pastime activity is working on his 1990 Eagle Talon.

Steve lives in the McHenry area with his mother, Donna Orris, and stepfather, Randy Purnell. His father is Rick Kersten of Greensburg.

Railey Realty Inc., the official sponsor of the Autumn Glory royal court, will provide a scholarship to each member of the court and custom-made gowns for the queen and princess, plus other "courtly accoutrements." Tuxedo rentals for the king and prince will be donated by Marvin's Men's Wear.

AUTUMN GLORY COLORS EVERYTHING — Colorful buntings are decorating businesses throughout Garrett County in anticipation of the 34th annual Autumn Glory Festival. These traditional harbingers of the countywide fall celebration display a gold field with an oak branch, and red, white, and blue banners sweeping outward. Scott Browning of McHenry's Foodland Fresh is shown adjusting one of several buntings adorning the store at the Market Square complex. Autumn Glory buntings are available for purchase at Rudy's in Oakland.

Listen to What Our Customers Say About

HERITAGE LOG HOMES

Dear Walt and Pat,

When we look back at our experience of building our Heritage Log Home a couple of years ago, it really stands out as one of the best experiences we have ever had. Our initial research led us to Heritage Log Homes because the type of construction with through-bolting from top to bottom was only one of the many considerations that impressed us. In a climate that often has rather cold winters, it is a comfort to know that winter will definitely be kept "outside".

When the actual building started in August, 1997, it was the beginning of a dream come true. We're really glad that you were not only the Heritage sales representative, but also the building contractor. As complicated as building can often be, everything went exactly as scheduled for us. We were really impressed.

Your expertise in building log homes gave us the assurance that we would have a home of exceptional quality. The finished product was truly beautiful. We took a great deal of pride in the fact that complete strangers used to stop and knock on our door and ask if they could see the inside of the house. Our home was one of five buildings featured in the annual Red Cross Christmas tour in December 1998. Over a thousand people went through our home in one weekend. The overwhelming response when people stepped inside the door was, "WOW"!!

Sincerely,
Jim & Robin Shepherd

Walt & Pat Copeland
Mountain Lake Log Homes

Dear Walt & Pat

I wanted to write this letter to express my appreciation to both you and Heritage Log Homes of Gatlinburg, Tennessee, for the design and construction of my log home at Deep Creek Lake.

I began this project in the spring of 1995. After researching and visiting numerous log home builders, I contacted Walt and Pat Copeland of Mountain Lake Log Homes, dealers for Heritage Log Homes. At first I was very skeptical of building a log home due to the known problems of air infiltration and settling. Walt and Pat presented me with Heritage's solution to the problems. I researched many log home manufacturers, compared various so called approaches to treat the problems and concluded that Heritage had the best design to deal with settling and air infiltration. The through-bolt design system in conjunction with the double tongue and groove logs has provided an exceptionally tight and energy efficient home. To date I have found no flaws in this system and would highly recommend the design to future homeowners.

I would highly recommend a Heritage Log Home to one interested in log construction and more importantly I recommend Walt and Pat Copeland of Mountain Lake Homes for any forthcoming construction projects.

Sincerely, John Case

John Case

Mountain Lake Log Homes

As first time new home planners, my wife and I approached the process of designing and constructing a log house with quite a bit of nervousness and a definite lack of experience. After looking at several other log home suppliers' plans and features, we decided that the design information provided by Heritage Log Homes and the guidance provided by Walt Copeland truly enabled us to transform our thoughts into architectural plans. As the house was being constructed, Walt patiently described the process and answered our questions. He explained the nuances of solid log construction and the impressive structure of the double-tongued logs held together with a spring-loaded rod system. During the construction phase of the project, we always felt that our log home was being well built.

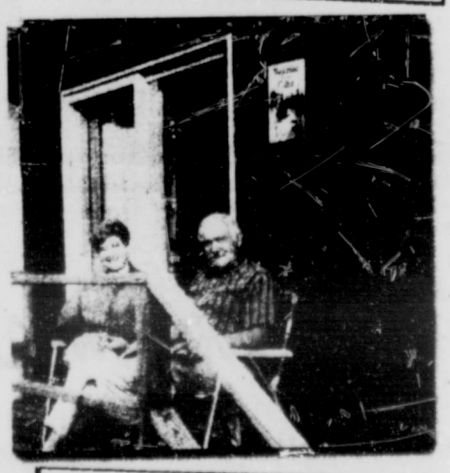
After construction was completed, Walt continued to support us. He explained the care and maintenance of a log home and regularly checked in to monitor our state. Now that we are living in our log home, we are extremely pleased with the Heritage product and our builder's continued support.

When friends and relatives visit, they are genuinely impressed with the house. They comment on the solid construction and the open, airy feel of the living room. In winter months, we enjoy sitting in front of the fire while the snow swirls around the house—here's a minor complaint: the solid logs are so efficient at deadening the outside sounds, we can't listen to the swirling winds. We challenge visitors to find a chink in the walls where wind can sneak in; to date no one has found a gap. In summer months, the combination of log insulation and ceiling fans eliminated the need for air conditioning.

Perhaps the ultimate summary of our experience is this: If we were to build again, we would contact Walt and [illegible] at the Heritage home plans—and proceed with very little nervousness.

Ray and Lorraine Hughes

Heritage Means:
•VALUE •SERVICE •INTEGRITY



To Heritage Log Homes:

We were very pleased with our Heritage Log Home dealer. Working with him was like working with a friend. As a matter of fact, he did become our friend. He was helpful and considerate from the very first time we talked to him.

It was a pleasure that he was not just selling us logs, but was helping us make the right decisions on building as well. The quality workmanship and concern for the best possible service to us was excellent. And of course, the price was right. We are still happy with Heritage Logs.

Sincerely,
Les & Sandy Danton

Royal Reception Scheduled To Kick Off Autumn Glory Festivities

A reception "fit for a king" will kick off the 34th annual Autumn Glory Festival on Wednesday, Oct. 10, at Wisp McHenry House. Hosted by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, the evening will open with a cocktail hour. A buffet dinner will then follow, which will include an "endless" peeled-shrimp bar. The evening will then shift to the formal coronation ceremony with an entertainment program selected by King and Queen Autumn Glorious.

The Honorary Golden Ambassador for Autumn Glory 2001 will also be named during the ceremony by last year's winner, Elaine McDonald. All of the former winners of this recognition gather to make the final determination from a list of five finalists provided by the Chamber of Commerce. Their selection remains secret until the ceremony.

Audrey Shipe, last year's Autumn Glory queen, will return this year to participate in the coronation. The former queen will crown the 2001 royal court members: King, Guy Joseph, Southern High School; Queen, Bridget Frazee, Northern High School; Prince, Steven Kersten, NHS; and Princess, Jennifer Hickman, SHS.

Railey Realty Inc. is the official sponsor of the Royalty Court. Its sponsorship helps provide the custom-made gowns for the queen and princess and scholarships to all royal court members.

IT WILL BE A FAMILY AFFAIR at the Autumn Glory Festival's Maryland State Banjo Competition when the seven-member Lewis Family opens the event at 7 p.m. Friday, Oct. 12, at Southern High School. The bluegrass gospel group will perform a number of the genre's most popular songs as audience members warm up their toe-tapping and hand-clapping for the main event, during which top banjo pickers of all ages compete for the state title, trophies, and cash prizes. Tickets are available at Proudfoot's and Grogg's pharmacies in Oakland, Deep Creek Lake Pharmacy in McHenry, Beachy's Pharmacy in Grantsville, and Friendsville Pharmacy, or by calling 301-387-7122. Sponsored by M&T Bank, the contest will benefit the Dove Center, Garrett County's domestic violence and sexual assault center.

Following the coronation, a program will be provided by local performers, including vocalists Kristin Callahan, Miranda and Amanda Savage, and Holly Hare. Callahan, a 1999 graduate of Northern High School, has appeared in several local shows, and has given recitals while studying voice with Mary Mickle. She recently prepared a demonstration recording in her pursuit of a musical career. The Savage twins, students at Southern High School, have performed in Garrett County productions and talent competitions. Hare, an All-State vocalist, is a student at NHS and is a voice student of Kathryn Sincell-Corwell at Frostburg State University. Other items on the entertainment agenda for the kick-off reception have been billed as "royal surprises."

Rescue Service Heroes Designated Grand Feature Parade Marshalls

HONORING OUR HEROES — The Grand Marshal for the Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade 2001 will not be an individual. Instead, selected for the honorary position is a group of dedicated citizens — our rescue service heroes. Representatives of local rescue units will symbolically carry the banners and emblems of their peers nationwide. The Autumn Glory festival is presented by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. Persons wanting more information may call 301-387-4FUN (4386).

An Autumn Glory Festival tradition will be changed this year, as no individual celebrity will lead the Grand Feature Parade as parade marshal. Instead, the honorary post of Grand Marshal has been awarded to a group of people — America's "Rescue Service Heroes."

"Representatives of the men and women of Garrett County who serve as firefighters, emergency medical technicians, Red Cross volunteers, military reservists, and law enforcement officers, who often put their lives on the line helping others, will be recognized this year with the parade's highest honor, our Grand Marshal," explained Ken Wishnick, president of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

In all other respects, the Grand Feature Parade of the 34th annual festival, sponsored by First United Bank & Trust, will hold with tradi-

Parade, Run/Walk, Swap, Tours, Card Show To Be AGF Events

The traditional Firemen's Parade in Oakland is one of the many special activities and events slated for the 34th annual Autumn Glory Festival, October 10-14. Scores of fire and rescue units from throughout the tri-state area will participate in this salute to firefighters. The parade will begin at 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 11. Following the parade, everyone is invited to attend the Oktoberfest Celebration at the Oakland fire hall along Third Street. The presentation of the Fireman of the Year Award by the Garrett County Fire and Rescue Association will be made during the Oktoberfest.

The Autumn Glory 5-K Run/2-Mile Walk, sponsored by the Oakland/Mountain Lake Park Lions Club, will be held Saturday, Oct. 13, at Broadford Lake Park. Gates will open at 7 a.m., with the race scheduled to begin at 8:30 a.m. The first 150 entrants will get souvenir sweatshirts. All proceeds will benefit the Lions Club's sight programs. Information is available at 301-334-4287.

FIRST UNITED BANK SUPPORTS AUTUMN GLORY PARADE — A $2,500 donation was recently made by First United Bank & Trust to sponsor the 34th annual Autumn Glory grand feature parade, slated for Saturday, Oct. 12, 1 p.m., in Oakland. This colorful event is a favorite tradition of many, young and old, who regularly attend the Autumn Glory Festival. This year's parade lineup includes regional high school bands, seasonally decorated floats, clowns, marching units, antique vehicles, and much more. The parade will begin at 1 p.m. "Everyone is invited to come to Oakland early and enjoy the musical entertainment and other activities before the parade. There will also be a unique collection of specialty food and beverage vendors offering a wide selection of festive fare," said Ken Wishnick, president of the Garrett Chamber of Commerce. The chamber organizes and promotes the festival each year in addition to running several events, including the grand feature parade. The festival will run from Wednesday, Oct. 10, through Sunday, Oct. 14. In the photo, representing the Oakland branch of First United are, in front from the left, Becky Thomas, Becky Christenopher, Linda Sines, and Christina Keller. In back are Jason Rush, branch manager, and Becky Sanders. For more information on Autumn Glory, persons may call 301-387-4386.

ANTIQUE SHOW SERVES UP PRESIDENTIAL PLATES, and much more. The annual Autumn Glory Festival Antique Show, a highlight of the annual fall fest for the past 28 years, is slated for 10 a.m to 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Oct. 12-13, and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 14, at the Oakland National Guard Armory. Over 40 dealers are scheduled to be selling a wide variety of fine and antique items, and a selection of homemade foods and baked goods will also be available. The $2 per person admission benefits the GFWC Civic Club of Oakland, which distributes the proceeds to a number of local charities and non-profit organizations. The Armory is located at the corner of Eighth and High streets.

Antique Show Will Take Place At NG Armory

The 28th annual Autumn Glory Festival Antique Show will take place as originally scheduled at the Oakland National Guard Armory from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Oct. 12-13, and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 14. The event, which had been canceled at one point because of the Armory's temporary lockdown, was rescheduled after the Armory site became available once again.

Corn Maze, Storytelling, Bingo, Dancing Among AGF Attractions

A visit to a corn maze, some tall tale telling, bingo, and dancing will be among the attractions of the 34th annual Autumn Glory Festival, set for Oct. 10-14.

The Cove Run Farms Corn Maze, Garrett County's newest attraction, will challenge visitors with its 260,000 square feet of winding corn stalk corridors, dead ends, and blind corners. The maze, to be open Friday, Oct. 12, from noon to 10 p.m. and Saturday, Oct. 13, from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m., is located north of Accident, off Cove Road (just past Northern High School) along Griffith Road. Admission is $6; 12 and under $4; and free for children under 5. For more information, persons may call 301-746-8161.

Old-time tall tales and stranger-than-fiction "true" stories will be spun at the annual Tall Tale Story and Book Festival on Saturday at St. Paul's United Methodist Church fellowship hall, Oakland. Students will spin their yarns from 9 to 10:15 a.m., to be followed by the more seasoned "liars" at 10:30 a.m. Tale tellers may register by calling Gail N. Herman at 301-387-9597. Admission is $4 for adults; $3 for seniors; and $2 for students and children over 3. Proceeds will benefit the AAUW Scholarship Fund for Garrett Community College.

High rollers and other players, age 18 or older, are invited to try their luck in Big Bucks Bingo at the Elks Lodge in Oakland. Doors will open at 5 p.m. Friday, with games to begin at 6:30 p.m. Refreshments will be available. The ticket price of $30 includes all regular games. Tickets may be purchased from any member of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department or the Elks Club or by calling 301-334-3820.

A "Happy Days" atmosphere will be created at the Oldies Dance, slated for Saturday, Oct. 13, from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Elks Lodge. DJ Dan Daniels will "spin the disks," while dancers sway to the tunes of the '50s, '60s, and '70s. The Oakland VFD is sponsoring this event. Information is available at 301-334-3535. Admission is $5 per person.

Avid dancers will also have a chance to "kick up their heels" at the Autumn Glory Square and Round Dance on Sunday, set for 2 to 5 p.m. at Southern Middle School. Sponsored by the Mountain Top Promenaders, the dance will feature Fred and Eva Strang of Johnstown, Pa. Admission for dancers is $10, and free for spectators. Information is available at 301-334-1386.

Autumn Glory is presented by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

"AN' A ONE AN' A TWO" — No, he's not Lawrence Welk, but Director Manning Smith can definitely lead you to a good time with the "Oom-pah" band at the annual Oakland Volunteer Fire Department Oktoberfest Celebration! Fun for the entire family begins in the Oakland fire hall along Third Street immediately after the Firemen's Parade at 7 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 11. German-style food will be served at the fire hall beginning at 4 p.m. So, come eat, drink, and dance the autumn evening away. The Firefighter of the Year award will also be presented during the Oktoberfest.

Festival To Feature Music, Music, Music

The 34th Autumn Glory Festival, scheduled for October 10-14, will feature traditional and contemporary music performed by local and regional musicians. In addition to the state banjo and fiddle championships, performances by the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department Oktoberfest Band, a bagpipe band, a children's choir, plus country and rock groups are slated.

The 28-piece OVFD Band, a mainstay of the annual Oktoberfest at the Oakland fire hall, will strike up on Thursday evening, Oct. 11, following the 7 p.m. Firemen's Parade in Oakland. German food and drink will be available to complete the Old-World atmosphere. Admission is free.

A concert by the seven-member Lewis family will open the Maryland State Banjo Competition on Friday, Oct. 12, at 7 p.m. at Southern High School. Accompanied by banjo, guitar, and bass, the four men and three women of the Lewis family will sing many of the most popular pieces from the gospel and blue grass traditions.

Following the concert, skilled banjo pickers of all ages will take the stage to compete for the state title, as well as trophies and cash prizes. Sponsored by M&T Bank, the event will benefit the Dove Center, Garrett County's resource for do-

FOOD, GLORIOUS FOOD, there certainly is plenty to be found during Autumn Glory. From German-style bratwurst at Oktoberfest to church-sponsored turkey dinners to sweet treats served up by Civic Club members at the antique show, one is sure to find something to please the palette. Many non-profit organizations work hard during the festival every year raising money by feeding hungry festival goers. So, eat, eat, eat, and not only please your stomach, but help out some good causes, too!

MISS MARYLAND 2001, KELLY GLORIOSO, will take part in numerous activities throughout the weekend of festivities. Glorioso, of Towson, will be giving tours of the B&O Railroad with Mayor Asa McCain. She will be featured in the parade Saturday, then she will sing "God Bless America" with Chip and Shaun on the Front Page Stage. Other activities she will be involved with are the fiddle contest and the airplane rides at Garrett Airport. On Sunday she will get messy as she not only judges but participates in the no-hands sundae eating contest at Lakeside Creamery.

RAILEY SPONSORING ROYALTY — Railey Realty Inc. has stepped forward creating a new royalty sponsorship for the Autumn Glory Festival 2001. With the donation of $1,500, Railey established the sponsorship, which will provide a scholarship for the four members of the royal court: King Guy Joseph Jr., Southern High School; Queen Bridget Frazee, Northern High School; Prince Steven Kersten, NHS; and Princess Jennifer Hickman, SHS. In addition, the funds will help defray expenses for purchasing formal gowns for the queen and princess and other "royal accoutrements." The attire for the king and prince are provided by Blair Glass of Marvin's Men's Wear, Oakland. The royal coronation ceremony will occur during the Autumn Glory kick-off dinner on Wednesday, Oct. 10, at the McHenry House of the Wisp. The ceremony and entertainment will be coordinated by Fran Wishnick. In the photo above, Garrett County Chamber of Commerce president Ken Wishnick, left, accepts the contribution from Mike Kennedy of Railey Realty.

CHECK YOUR DIET AT THE TOWN LIMITS, because an array of delicious foods will be waiting for you throughout Oakland during the Autumn Glory Festival. Among the culinary highlights is the two-day "Celebrate the Glory" festival at the Mountain Fresh Farmers' Market at the Mountain Fresh Pavilion in the Oakland town parking lot, set for noon to 5 p.m. Friday, Oct. 12, and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 13. Local produce and baked goods are on the fare, along with sales of crafts, painted pumpkins, and beautiful flowers. The free all-ages event includes musical entertainment, children's activities, and more. Persons may call 301-334-6960 for more information.

Local Heritage To Be Featured During Festival

The agenda for the 34th annual Autumn Glory Festival, October 10-14, includes activities and events highlighting the heritage of the area, according to festival organizers.

For an overview of local history, visitors may wish to make the Garrett County Historical Museum a first stop of their tour. The museum, which will be open daily during the festival from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. except during the parade, displays documents, artifacts, clothing, photographs, and the bric-a-brac of everyday life reflecting the growth and development of the county. Located at 107 S. Second Street, the museum does not charge for admission; however, donations are accepted.

To glimpse the architecture of the Victorian era, one may choose to take a walking or driving self-guided tour of

Fine Arts, Crafts To Be Plentiful For '01 Festival

Many local artists and artisans will demonstrate their skills and display their crafts during the Autumn Glory Festival, October 10-14. Visitors may watch as delicate glass forms emerge from a molten mass or as fleece is spun into yarn. They may view oil paintings or pastels depicting local seasonal color.

Glass blowers at Simon Pearce in Mtn. Lake Park will demonstrate their skills for visitors, who may view them from a catwalk above the work area. The factory will be open for tours from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day. There is no admission charge. Further information is available at 301-334-5277.

To learn about another glass working skill, visitors may stop at the Stained Glass Gallery, which is also located in Mtn. Lake Park. Craftsman Lou DiCarlo will demonstrate the art of glass cutting and invite everyone to browse in the showroom. The gallery will be open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily. Admission is free. For more information, one may call 301-334-8222.

The Mtn. Arts Cooperative will present its Appalachian Artisan Show and Sale, showcasing local craftsmanship. Among the items exhibited and available for sale will be handmade ironwork, stained glass, folk art, wool

"ALL WE NEED NOW IS A PARADE...," and during the annual Autumn Glory Festival you don't have to wait too long for the next one. The Fireman's Parade, featuring bands and fire and rescue units traveling from over 200 miles across the tri-state area, will kick off at 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 11, along Oakland's Third Street. The Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade of Saturday, Oct. 13, gets under way at 1 p.m. in downtown Oakland. Recommended equipment for AG parade watchers: a lawn chair or blanket, sweatshirt, a small bag to dispose of litter, and of course a smile.

Just what is an Evangelical Free Church?

Evangelical: We seek to know Jesus Christ personally and to make Him known through evangelism both locally and around the world.

Free: It's a term that goes back to our European roots, when our founders sought to be free from state church control. ("Free" does not mean out-of-control worship!)

Church: We're a body of biblical, evangelical Christians who follow Jesus Christ and desire to grow in our walks with Him. Our services are a blend of contemporary and traditional worship.

The Evangelical Free Church of America is one of the fastest growing Protestant denominations with over 1200 U.S. churches. It extends to some 30 other nations, encompassing nearly 1,200 additional churches.

The Kitzmiller Heritage Expo will recreate the town's old-time mountain coal mining community. Guided tours will be offered, along with visits to the mining museum and demonstrations and crafts related to the coal-mining heritage. Visitors to Kitzmiller are also invited to take part in a fishing rodeo, to see fly-tying demonstrations and an apple butter boil, and sample homemade refreshments. Kitzmiller tours are available free of charge on Friday, 1-6 p.m. For information, persons may call 301-453-3199.

Recognized as one of the country's finest examples of Queen Anne architecture, the newly restored 1884 Oakland Train Station will be open for free tours during the festival. Persons may visit the station on Friday and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and on Sunday from noon to 4 p.m. For information, persons may call 301-334-2691.

The annual Antique Show & Sale presented by the Civic Club of Oakland will offer "bits of history with a personal touch." The exhibit will include jewelry, furniture, china, linens, and more. Located in the National Guard Armory, near the intersection of Eighth and High streets, Oakland, the Antique Show & Sale will be open Friday and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Admission is $2. Information is available at 301-334-4420.

Sponsored by the Garrett County Arts Council, the Heritage Craft Fest will feature 85 regional artisans displaying traditional crafts as well as contemporary works. To be held at the Broad Ford Elementary School (607 Harvey Winters Road), this is a juried exhibit and admission is free. Persons may call 301-334-6580 for more information.

The Autumn Glory Festival is presented by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. For other AGF information, persons may call 301-387-4386.

Festive Fare

The cost is $6 for adults and $3 for children.

Festival-goers may sample pit beef, chicken teriyaki, corn dogs, fried plantains, Polish sausages, funnel cakes, cotton candy, and more from the multi-cultural fare to be offered by nearly 20 food vendors on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. in Oakland. Visitors planning to watch the parade on Saturday will be able to come early or stay late, and to dine while enjoying the musical entertainment and displays throughout Oakland.

On many Autumn Glory Festival lists of "things not to be missed" is the annual No-Hands Sundae Eating Contest. Competitors will face off against a three-scoop dish of homemade ice cream with toppings and whipped cream. This challenge will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Lakeside Creamery, 20282 Garrett Highway, along Deep Creek Lake. The fee for contestants is $4.75, with proceeds to benefit Big Brothers Big Sisters. There is no charge for spectators.

The festival is presented by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. For more information, persons may call 301-387-4386.

SEASONAL SYMMETRY — Shadow-framed girders of Oakland's Asa McCain Bridge provide a fitting entrance to the 2-mile long footpath that begins on the span's western side. Winding through the woods, the leaf-strewn path leads some walkers to contemplate the permanence of nature's works as it passes several bygone landmarks of the area's human past, including the Tableland Dairy and the carbide cave where fuel was obtained to illuminate the old Oakland Hotel.

A POPULAR COMPONENT OF AUTUMN GLORY is the lilting sound of bagpipes, presented locally by the Garrett Community College Pipes and Drums, pictured above. The group traditionally performs a street concert on Saturday of the festival, and will do so this year beginning at 10:30 a.m. on Second Street. The players are local musicians who perform together throughout the year at a number of festivals and special events.

COME TELL SOME TALES or just sit and listen to some of the funniest, most touching, or unbelievable true stories told by participants in the annual Tall Tale Story & Book Festival. The event will be held on Saturday, Oct. 12, at the St. Paul's United Methodist Church Fellowship Hall in Oakland, beginning at 9 a.m. To register as tellers, persons may contact Gail N. Herman, pictured above, at 301-387-9597.

Storytellers Ready Tales For Tall Tale Fest At St. Paul's

The annual Autumn Glory Tall Tale Festival of the AAUW (American Association of University Women) is set for Saturday, Oct. 13, at St. Paul's United Methodist Church fellowship hall in Oakland. The event will be divided into two portions: a children/students section is set for 9 a.m. to 10:30 a.m.; and an adult section is slated for 10:45 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. Prizes will be awarded to all participants.

Children/student participants may either tell or read their stories, and original stories may be written individually or by up to four collaborators. The story can be told or read by one of the authors or they can share in the presentation. Tales should be no longer than 1-7 minutes for children.

Each participant in the children/student category must register in advance by calling Tall Tale event coordinator Dr. Gail Herman at 301-387-9199, and leaving a message giving his or her name, address, and phone number. If a story will be read, a written copy must be submitted, prior to its presentation, to Herman before or at the event. The first 20

"STARS AND STRIPES FOREVER" by John P. Sousa features a piccolo solo, and few can play that solo any better than Susan Peterson of Oakland, who is a member of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department Oktoberfest Band. That particular piece will take on special meaning at this year's Oktoberfest, slated for Thursday, Oct. 11, at the Oakland fire hall, given the recent terrorist attack on our nation. Admission is free for the Oktoberfest, which has come to be known as Garrett County's biggest annual party. Other band members in the above photo include, from left of Peterson: drummer Tom Tressler (background), Ruth Huebner, Mary McEwen, and Skip Case.

stories will be accepted.

Each of the children/student participants will receive gifts donated by local businesses and the AAUW. Those who tell or read their stories with special expression and characterization will be singled out for special recognition.

Adult participants may read a previously written story of their own or another author's, or ad-lib a tale of their own. Adults are also asked to call Herman to register for the telling, and adult tales should be no longer than 10 minutes in length. Some of the adult storytellers expected to be on hand include Dr. William (Doc) Savage, Gary Yoder, and Jeanne Walton.

St. Paul's UM Church is located at 316 East Oak Street. Spectator admission to the event is $4 for adults, $3 for seniors, and $2 for children over age 3. The annual AG Tall Tale Festival raises funds for the scholarship fund of the Garrett branch of the AAUW, which awards a scholarship to support a local resident studying at Garrett Community College.

tion, Wishnick said. Beginning at 1 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 13, over 100 parade entries will make their way along the crowded route in Oakland. Dozens of floats, scores of musical groups, drill teams, antique cars, and dignitaries will parade past anticipated thousands of spectators expected to line the streets.

"The crowd last year was estimated at 65,000 people for the parade, and we are expecting an even bigger turnout for the 34th annual festival," Wishnick noted.

Parade spectators are encouraged to come to Oakland early to enjoy the many other exhibits, performances, and activities of this fall celebration. Food vendors, open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., will offer a variety of foods to sample. "People Movers" of Garrett Transit Service will provide shuttle service throughout the downtown area from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. for $1 per ride or $3 for an all day pass.

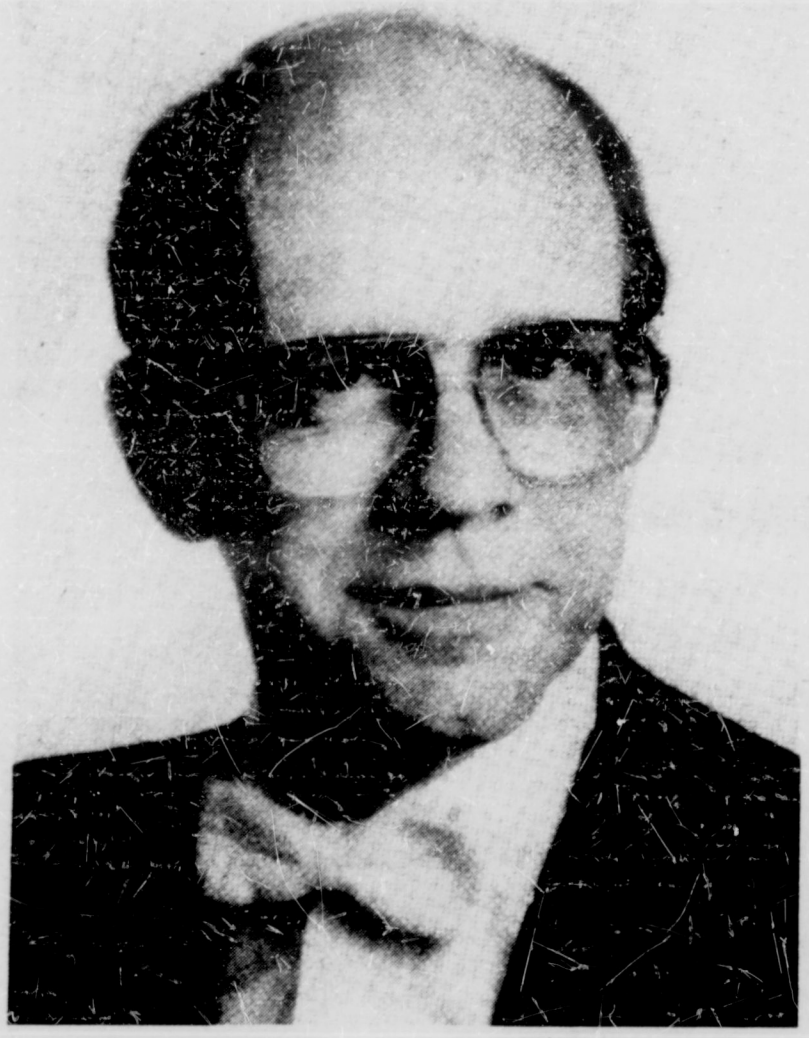
Geoffrey Simon To Return For 11th Annual Festival Concert



Organist Geoffrey Simon will present his 11th annual Autumn Glory Festival concert on Friday, Oct. 12, at St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland. The recital, titled "2001: A Grand Organ Odyssey," will begin at 7 p.m.

Simon will open the program with Richard Strauss's Prelude from Also sprach Zarathustra, followed by two segments of Gustav Holst's The Planets: "Mars, the bringer of war," and "Venus, the bringer of peace."

Other composers' music to be presented by the organist will include that of Ralph Vaughan Williams, Johann Sebastian Bach, Antonin Dvorak, and others.

Run/Walk For Sight Set For Oct. 13 At Broadford

The Oakland-Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club will sponsor the 5K Run/2-Mile Walk for Sight on Saturday, Oct. 13, as part of Garrett County's 34th annual Autumn Glory Festival. This run and walk will begin at 8:30 a.m. at Broadford Lake Park off Route 135 outside Oakland and will cover a mostly flat course.

This competition will be divided into the following age groups: 13 and under; 14-19; 20-29; 30-39; 40-49; 50-59; 60 and over, with awards given to the top three finishers in each age group. An award will be given to the first male and first female runners and walkers, with no duplication of awards. Race participants will be eligible for prize drawings.

Souvenir sweatshirts will be given to the first 150 entrants ($2 extra for XXL). The registration fee is $16. Registration begins the day of the race at 7 a.m., and packets may be picked up that day from 7 to 8:30 a.m.

For race information, persons may contact Paul Shockey, 920 Broadford Road, Oakland, MD 21550; telephone 301-334-4287. Proceeds from the race benefit the sight and hearing impaired.

For more information or a free Autumn Glory Festival brochure, persons may contact the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, 15 Visitors Center, Drive, McHenry, MD 21541; telephone 301-387-4386.

Antique Show Is Go For Autumn Glory Festival

The Civic Club of Oakland recently announced that the annual Autumn Glory Antique Show will proceed Friday, Oct. 12, through Sunday, Oct. 14, at the National Guard Armory, 14 North Eighth Street, Oakland.

The Armory was removed from the lockdown in time for the Civic Club to put into motion all of the details needed to host the show. The hours of operation will be 10 a.m. until 7 p.m. on Friday, and 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

Thirty-one dealers will be exhibiting a large variety of items from jewelry to primitives. Home-cooked food will be served, including soups and baked goods.

As in previous years, a queen-sized quilt make by Civic Club member Helen Nordeck will be raffled off Sunday around 3:30 p.m. Persons do not need to be present to win.

mance, the audience will stand and join in singing the hymn "Alleluia! Sing to Jesus," followed by Simon's playing of Louis Vierne's Toccata from Symphonie I, Opus 18.

There is no admission price for the recital, although a free-will offering will be collected.

This concert is funded in part by the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council.

Simon is the organist and choirmaster of St. Luke's Episcopal Church in Bethesda, and an examiner in the performing arts section of the U.S. Copyright Office at the Library of Congress, where he conducts the Library of Congress Chorale. He also serves as a lecturer in the Music Department of Montgomery College, Rockville.

With undergraduate degrees from Duke University and Kent State University, Simon earned a doctor of musical arts degree from the Peabody Conservatory of the Johns Hopkins University, and is a Fellow of the College of Church Musicians at Washington Cathedral, where he studied with Leo Sowerby and Paul Callaway.

His U.S. recitals have taken him to churches and universities across the country (from Oakland, Calif., to Oakland, Md.) and include six recitals on the great organ of Washington Cathedral. Simon has also performed throughout the world at cities such as Berlin, Copenhagen, London, and Warsaw. He is also one of the few Americans invited to play a recital at the historic St. Thomas Church in Leipzig, Germany, where Johann Sebastian Bach served as cantor for many years. Bach's tomb is located there.

As a conductor, he has led performances of choral and orchestral works from the

Why Leaves Change Color

If you are lucky, you live in one of those parts of the world where Nature has one last fling before settling down into winter's sleep. In those lucky places, as days shorten and temperatures become crisp, the quiet green palette of summer foliage is transformed into the vivid autumn palette of reds, oranges, golds, and browns before the leaves fall off the trees. On special years, the colors are truly breathtaking.

How does autumn color happen?

For years, scientists have worked to understand the changes that happen to trees and shrubs in the autumn. Although we don't know all the details, we do know enough to explain the basics and help you to enjoy more fully Nature's multicolored autumn farewell. Three factors influence autumn leaf color — leaf pigments, length of night, and weather — but not quite in the way we think. The timing of color change and leaf fall are primarily regulated by the calendar, that is, the increasing length of night. None of the other environmental influences — temperature, rainfall, food supply, and so on — are as unvarying as the steadily increasing length of night during autumn. As days grow shorter, and nights grow longer and cooler, biochemical processes in the leaf begin to paint the landscape with Nature's autumn palette.

[illegible]chlorophyll, which gives [illegible] their basic green color. [illegible] necessary for photosyn-

thesis, the chemical reaction that enables plants to use sunlight to manufacture sugars for their food. Trees in the temperate zones store these sugars for their winter dormant period.

- Carotenoids, which produce yellow, orange, and brown colors in such things as corn, carrots, and daffodils, as well as rutabagas, buttercups, and bananas.
- Anthocyanins, which give color to such familiar things as cranberries, red apples, concord grapes, blueberries, cherries, strawberries, and plums. They are water soluble and appear in the watery liquid of leaf cells.

Both chlorophyll and carotenoids are present in the chloroplasts of leaf cells throughout the growing season. Most anthocyanins are produced in the autumn, in response to bright light and excess plant sugars within leaf cells.

During the growing season, chlorophyll is continually being produced and broken down, and leaves appear green. As night length increases in the autumn, chlorophyll production slows down and then stops, and eventually all the chlorophyll is destroyed. The carotenoids and anthocyanins that are present in the leaf are then unmasked and show their colors.

Certain colors are characteristic of particular species. Oaks turn red, brown, or russet; hickories, golden bronze; aspen and yellow-poplar, golden yellow; dogwood, purplish red; beech, light tan; and sourwood and black tupelo, crimson. Maples differ species by species — red maple turns brilliant scarlet; sugar maple, orange-red; and black maple, glowing yellow. Striped maple becomes almost colorless. Leaves of some species such as the elms simply shrivel up and fall, exhibiting little color other than drab brown.

The timing of the color change also varies by species. Sourwood in southern forests can become vividly colorful in

Autumn Glory Car Show To Be Held At Broadford Park

Mt. Top Cruisers Car Club is sponsoring its fourth annual Autumn Glory Car Show on Sunday, Oct. 14, at Broadford Lake Park. Registration will be from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. The registration fee will be $7. Judging will begin at 1 p.m. and the trophies will be awarded at 4 p.m. Spectators are admitted free.

Vehicles are judged on cleanliness and workmanship, and not originality. A visible fire extinguisher is required, and the decision of the judges is final. Club members' vehicles will not be judged. Spectator and trailer parking (for those trailering their vehicles) will be available.

There will be a Chinese auction, raffles, 50/50s, door prizes for the car show participants, plus "rock & roll" music. Food will be available, and this show will be held rain or shine.

There will be 12 classes with three trophies per class and one Best of Show trophy, plus dash plaques for the show participants. Car classes are as follows: antique and classic production cars 1900-1932, 1933-1948, 1949-1960, 1961-1967, and 1970-1976; muscle cars 1960-1967, 1968-1976; pickups to 1976, antique and custom; street rods and customs to 1942 (cars); street rods and customs 1943 to 1976 (cars); 1977 and up for cars; and 1977 and up for trucks. Classes are subject to change on the day of the show.

For more information about this show, persons may contact Ron at 301-334-2838 or Gene at 304-735-5226 or e-mail gfevans@iceweb.net.

This is the club's first year of holding the car show at Broadford Lake Park, and members note their appreciation to the mayor and town council of Oakland for allowing the club to have the show there.

late summer while all other species are still vigorously green. Oaks put on their colors long after other species have already shed their leaves. These differences in timing among species seem to be genetically inherited, for a particular species at the same latitude will show the same coloration in the cool temperatures of high mountain elevations at about the same time as it does in warmer lowlands.

How does weather affect autumn color?

The amount and brilliance of the colors that develop in any particular autumn season are related to weather conditions that occur before and during the time the chlorophyll in the leaves is dwindling. Temperature and moisture are the main influences.

A succession of warm, sunny days and cool, crisp but not freezing nights seems to bring about the most spectacular color displays. During these days, lots of sugars are produced in the leaf but the cool nights and the gradual closing of veins going into the leaf prevent these sugars from moving out. These conditions — lots of sugar and lots of light — spur production of the brilliant anthocyanin pigments, which tint reds, purples, and crimson. Because carotenoids are always present in leaves, the yellow and gold colors remain fairly constant from year to year.

The amount of moisture in the soil also affects autumn colors. Like the weather, soil moisture varies greatly from year to year. The countless combinations of these two highly variable factors assure that no two autumns can be exactly alike. A late spring or a severe summer drought can delay the onset of fall color by a few weeks. A warm period during fall will also lower the intensity of autumn colors. A warm wet spring, favorable summer weather, and warm sunny fall days with cool nights should produce the most brilliant autumn colors.

What triggers leaf fall?

In early autumn, in response to the shortening days and declining intensity of sunlight, leaves begin the processes leading up to their fall. The veins that carry fluids into and out of the leaf gradually close off as a layer of cells forms at the base of each leaf. These clogged veins trap sugars in the leaf and promote production of anthocyanins. Once this separation layer is complete and the connecting tissues are sealed off, the leaf is ready to

What happens to all those fallen leaves?

Needles and leaves that fall are not wasted. They decompose and restock the soil with nutrients and make up part of the spongy humus layer of the forest floor that absorbs and holds rainfall. Fallen leaves also become food for numerous soil organisms vital to the forest ecosystem.

It is quite easy to see the benefit to the tree of its annual leaf fall, but the advantage to the entire forest is more subtle. It could well be that the forest could no more survive without its annual replenishment from leaves than the individual tree could survive without shedding these leaves. The many beautiful interrelationships in the forest community leave us with myriad fascinating puzzles still to solve.

Where can I see autumn color in the United States?

You can find autumn color in parks and woodlands, in the cities, countryside, and mountains — anywhere you find deciduous broadleaved trees, the ones that drop their leaves in the autumn. Nature's autumn palette is painted on oaks, maples, beeches, sweetgums, yellow-poplars, dogwoods, hickories, and others. Your own neighborhood may be planted with special trees that were selected for their autumn color.

New England is rightly famous for the spectacular autumn colors painted on the trees of its mountains and countryside, but the Adirondack, Appalachian, Smoky,

CENTER STREET WILL REMAIN OPEN UNTIL 12:45 P.M.

The Autumn Glory Festival Committee reports that because of potential traffic and safety hazards, the Maryland State Highway Administration has again recommended policy for the 34th annual Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade, slated for Saturday, Oct. 13.

As has been customary with previous Autumn Glory festivals, some roads will be closed for the parade (see map); however, the festival committee requests local residents to note that at 7 a.m. on Saturday, Oct. 13, Green Street will be closed for vendors to set up on the street and in the M&T Bank drive-in parking lot.

At 11 a.m. that day, all southbound traffic on U.S. Route 219 will be routed through Oakland via Fourth Street and trucks will be routed by Oakland via Sand Flat Road. Beginning at 11 a.m., Route 219 will be open to permit holders only, and all traffic will be southbound only. No parking will be allowed along Fourth Street, and Memorial Drive will be closed for westbound traffic at Fourth Street. Through traffic on Memorial Drive will be detoured at Eighth Street. Memorial Drive will be open for parking and local traffic only between Eighth and Fourth streets.

Roads will be closed in several more locations at 11 a.m.: U.S. Route 219 between Fourth and Oak streets, Memorial Drive between Third and Fourth streets, and Pennington, Crook, and Omar streets on both sides of Third Street.

Center Street will be open for cross-town traffic only until 12:45 p.m. Signs advising travelers of the detour will be provided by the Maryland State Highway Administration, and help to travelers at closed roads will be provided by personnel from the Maryland State Police, Garrett County Sheriff's Office, and the Oakland Police Department. Permits are being issued by the festival committee to local merchants and festival participants who need to go through the roadblock on Saturday, Oct. 13. The units of the Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade will set up within the closed area, and the parade will begin at 1 p.m. Handicapped parking will be available at the Paul B. Naylor Masonic Lodge on First Street.

For more information, persons may call the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce at 301-387-4386.

and Rocky mountains are also clad with colorful displays. In the East, we can see the reds, oranges, golds, and bronzes of the mixed deciduous woodlands; in the West, we see the bright yellows of aspen stands and larches contrasting with the dark greens of the evergreen conifers.

When is the best time to see autumn color?

Unfortunately, autumn color is not very predictable, especially in the long term. Half the fun is trying to outguess Nature! But it generally starts in late September in New England and moves southward, reaching the Smoky Mountains by early November. It also appears about this time in the high-elevation mountains of the West. Remember that cooler high elevations will color up before the valleys.

Renaissance, Baroque, Classical, Romantic, and contemporary musical eras. Choirs and orchestras under his baton have performed Bach's B Minor Mass, St. John Passion, and many of his motets and cantatas; masses of Mozart, Haydn, and Schubert; Handel oratorios such as Messiah, Solomon, and Ode to St. Cecilia; the great Requiem settings by Brahms, Faure, and Mozart; major contemporary compositions by such composers as Carl Orff, Francis Poulenc, Luciano Berio, Lalo Schifrein, and Leo Sowerby; and countless anthems.

At the Kennedy Center, Dr. Simon conducted 80 members of the National Symphony Orchestra in a concert including Mendelssohn's "Reformation" Symphony. He has conducted world premiere performances of works by several contemporary American composers, and in 1997 gave the second U.S. performance of The Company of Angels by Benjamin Britten. Earlier this year, he conducted Pergolesi's Sabat Mater and Bach's Cantata 199 to mark the beginning of Holy Week.

LIKE A PHOENIX rising from the ashes, the facade of the old Deer Park Hotel has been re-created in downtown Oakland by the Garrett County Historical Society. The front porch replica, along with the hotel's orginal gazebo (to left) bring to life those turn-of-the-century days when large hotels in Deer Park and Oakland welcomed swarms of city visitors escaping crowds and heat — Some things never change. O.C. Cluss, new owner of Beachy Lumber Company, donated the materials for the porch project, which is shown getting its final touches. Historical Society president Bob Boal said that when funds become available it is hoped that a replica of the old hotel's graceful cupola will be added to the roof of the porch when sufficient funds are in place. Tax-deductible contributions to the effort may be mailed to the GC Historical Society, P.O. Box 28, Oakland, MD 21550.

Glassblowing Tour Slated At Simon Pearce

Visitors can view the art of fine glassblowing on display throughout the 34th annual Autumn Glory Festival during self-guided tours of the Simon Pearce facility in Mtn. Lake Park. The glass-making factory will be open to the public Thursday, Oct. 11, through Sunday, Oct. 14, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

At the Simon Pearce facility visitors will be able to observe glassblowers at work from a "catwalk" viewing gallery above the factory floor. A ventilation system in the roof over the production area helps maintain a comfortable work environment, despite the intense heat from the glass furnace and glory holes. The glassblowers create the glass pieces in two-person master and apprentice teams, sharing the tasks of hand blowing and hand finishing. The rough cross, made by the pontil iron that holds the piece in place as it is finished, symbolizes the unique nature of each piece, which bears the mark as a trademark of Simon Pearce.

Pearce studied at the Royal College of Art in London and worked in some of Europe's most renowned glass houses before establishing his own workshop in Kilkenny, Ireland, in 1970. There he began producing a line of original clear glass that honored the traditions of the past while setting its own precedence for contemporary form and function. Pearce continues to share a vision of design and craftsmanship that is admired for the human touch that gives each piece its individuality and character.

The glass factory operates a retail store that sells Simon Pearce glass and pottery, along with fine table linens, baskets, wooden-ware, and tabletop accessories.

Further information on the factory tours and Simon Pearce products can be obtained by calling 301-334-5277.

STARS AND STRIPES FLY OVER OAKLAND — In keeping with the resurgence of patriotism in the United States that has spread across the country since Sept. 11, the town of Oakland has raised an American flag at the observation deck located on the hillside that once shadowed the former Oakland Hotel. A special platform was built to hold the 8x12 flag, which is illuminated at night by three flood lights. The flag is meant to honor all the military service personnel now in action. "It will fly as long as they remain overseas, risking their lives for the sake of our country," said Jay Moyer of the town council. Pictured in the bucket truck is Bill Ashby, and shown standing from left are Chuck Blamble, street superintendent Roger Thomas, Albert DeWitt (assist. superintendent), and Willie Thomas.

Blaze Destroys Walnut Bottom House Saturday

A fire believed to have been caused by an electrical problem Saturday evening has left a Walnut Bottom area family homeless.

Volunteer firefighters from the Bloomington, Deer Park, Kitzmiller, and Piedmont fire departments were summoned to the residence of John and Carla Paugh, 1303 Walnut Bottom Road, at 7:11 p.m., and found the doublewide house fully ablaze upon their arrival. The Paughs and their son Eric were not at home at the time.

According to a report from the Maryland State Fire Marshal's office, the fire was discovered by a neighbor, who then called 911 for assistance. The family lost the house and all of the contents, with the loss estimated to be at least $50,000. The Paughs reportedly do have some insurance coverage.

Four Motorists Arrested By MSP For Drugs

Four people were arrested by Maryland State Police this weekend on various drug charges.

Three people were arrested following a traffic stop Sunday on Interstate 68 at Keyser's Ridge, and were later released after each defendant posted $1,000 bond, police said.

Travis Tyler Fluck, 21, New Hope, Pa.; Kelli Lynn Brewster, 21, Yardley, Pa; and Lauran Marie Terragrossa, 20, Sewell, N.J., were each charged with distribution of marijuana, possession of marijuana, and possession of drug paraphernalia. Brewster was also charged with possession of hashish, according to Tfc. R. Sharp of the McHenry barrack.

The arrests were made after Sharp stopped the vehicle for allegedly traveling at a speed of 90 mph in a 65 mph zone. Police searched the vehicle after observing a passenger attempting to hide something under the seat.

The search revealed 134.5 grams of marijuana, 6.8 grams of hashish, several glass smoking devices, and approximately $2,300 in cash, police said.

AT AN EVENT BEFITTING ROYALTY, Autumn Glory Festival King Guy Joseph Jr. and Queen Bridget Frazee were crowned during last night's kick-off banquet and reception at the Wisp Resort's McHenry House. The king and queen, along with Princess Jennifer Hickman and Prince Steve Kersten, and a standing-room only audience, were treated to a buffet dinner and a musical entertainment program featuring local performers Kristin Callahan, Holly Hare, and Miranda and Amanda Savage. The Autumn Glory Festival royal court will reign during Saturday's Grand Feature Parade.

Commissioners Hear Updates From Emergency Management

The Garrett County commissioners received their regular monthly update from the county's emergency management office this week. They heard reports on the state's efforts to prepare for terrorist attacks and statistics on calls made to 9-1-1.

Brad Frantz, director of emergency management, told the commissioners that the state's disaster management system has recently undergone several personnel changes, with a new acting director being assigned, perhaps in an attempt to improve the system. He said that most of the changes in the system would be on a state level, but that he would "activate some things on a local

Noted Anti-Taliban Activist To Speak At GCC On Oct. 16

Zohra Rasekh, a naturalized American citizen born and raised in Kabul, Afghanistan, who risked her life by returning to that country to document human rights abuses being committed by the Taliban regime, will speak in the Garrett Community College auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 16. The presentation is free and open to the public.

Rasekh's illustrated presentation will touch on a variety of topics, including Afghanistan's recent history, the Taliban and human rights violations, the roots of terrorism and radically militant fundamentalism, and the true nature of Islam. A question-and-answer session will take place following program.

While in her teens, Rasekh, now in her mid-30s, escaped Afghanistan with her family in wake of the Soviet Union's 1979 invasion of the country. An older brother and several other close relatives were killed during the initial stages of the Red Army's occupation of Kabul, and Rasekh lived through several bombing and missile attacks on her home city. After arriving in America, she graduated from T.C. Williams High School in Alexandria, Va., and went on to eventually earn a master's degree in public health from George Washington University, Washington, D.C.

In 1996, three months prior to the Taliban's seizure of Kabul, she traveled to the city for her first fact-finding mission. She used that journey, which she planned and financed on her own, to document the effects of the hundreds of thousands of landmines left across the country's landscape in the wake of the Soviet occupation and subsequent civil war. She remains active with the International Campaign to Ban Landmines organization.

As a senior researcher for Physicians for Human Rights (PHR), Rasekh spent three months in Afghanistan in early 1998 surveying the Afghan women's health and human rights status under the Taliban regime. During that period she interviewed over 200 Afghan women and personally witnessed numerous human rights violations and harsh punishments being meted out for seemingly the smallest of "infractions."

Among the incidents she documented were public executions of alleged criminals by beheading and stabbing as over 30,000 men, women, and children were forced to witness the executions in the Kabul soccer stadium. She was present in the crowd (citizens are forced to the stadium weekly to witness such punishments) for the amputation of an alleged thief's hand, and the flogging of an 18-year-old girl who was accused of having a romantic relationship. Rasekh herself was chased down a Kabul street by a whip-brandishing

New Info Tech Coordinator Is Busy First Month On The Job

The Garrett County Department of Economic Development's new information technology coordinator reported to the Garrett County commissioners this week about his first month's activities.

Frank Shap told the commissioners that his main focus, so far, has been to introduce himself to local business, education, health care, and government leaders in the county.

He also has had meetings with members of the Tri-County Council for Western Maryland, the Allegany County Department of Economic Development, and the Greater Cumberland Committee.

"I've been positively received," Shap said. "There is a strong interest in the community to improve technology."

The coordinator said that improving the telecommunications infrastructure in the county, developing affordable high speed Internet access, and finding sources for inexpensive long dis-

GEISLER NAMED GOLDEN AMBASSADOR — The honorary title of Golden Ambassador was given to Jerry Geisler, vice president and manager of the Wisp Ski and Golf Resort, last evening during the kick off of the 34th annual Autumn Glory Festival. This recognition is awarded each year to an individual who contributes significantly to the tourism industry of Garrett County. Geisler, who first came to the area as a visitor in the 1960s, graduated from West Virginia University in 1974 and began working for Wisp the following year. Since that time, Geisler has served as a ski instructor, bartender, restaurant manager, and the operations manager of the ski and golf program. He was a member of the executive committee coordinating the World Whitewater Championships in the county, and served on the board of the former county promotion council. He is a past president of that organization, and as such participated in its merger with the chamber of commerce. A current member of the chamber's board of directors, he holds the distinction of being the first county resident appointed to the Maryland State Board of Tourism. He also serves on the Adventure Sports Center and Garrett County Economic Development Corporation boards, and has worked as a member of the Western Maryland Economic Development Task Force. He and his wife Nancy live in McHenry and have two daughters, Julie and Amanda.

ACS Urges Women To Fall Into A Good Habit: Have Yearly Mammogram

"Fall into a Good Habit: Have Your Yearly Mammogram" is the theme that is being used locally to recognize October as Breast Cancer Awareness Month. The American Cancer Society (ACS), Garrett County Health Department, Garrett Memorial Hospital, and the University of Maryland Statewide Health Network have joined together during the month of October to spread the message to women in Garrett County that the early detection of breast cancer saves lives.

Approximately 180,000 women will die of breast cancer this year, according to ACS statistics. "The tragedy in this is that there is a way to help fight those statistics by having an annual mammogram, practicing monthly breast self-exam, and seeing a physician or health care provider every year for a clinical breast exam," said an ACS spokesperson. "Early detection is the best weapon against breast cancer because if diagnosed early, the survival rates increase significantly."

The American Cancer Society recommends that women age 20-39 perform monthly breast self-examination and have a clinical breast examination by a doctor or nurse every three years. Women age 40 and up should have mammograms (a simple, low-dose x-ray of the breast) and a clinical breast examination yearly. They should also be performing monthly breast self-exams.

Breast cancer is not selective and can affect anyone at any age. However, there are certain risk factors of which one should be aware. The first one is obvious: being a woman. However, men can also get breast cancer (about 400 men die of breast cancer each year in the U.S.). The chance of developing breast cancer increases with age (older than 40 and particularly older than 50).

Family history is a risk factor, so those with a mother or sister who has had breast cancer are also considered at higher risk for developing the disease. Those women who have never given birth, had their first child after age 30, started menstruating before age 12, or those having late menopause (after age 55) are considered to have higher risk. There is also some evidence that a high-fat diet and obesity may also increase the risk of breast cancer.

Breast cancer most often begins as a painless lump or thickening in the upper, outer portion of the breast, although it can occur anywhere in the breast, including the nipple. There also may be swelling, puckering or dimpling, or redness or soreness of the skin. The nipple may become drawn into the chest, change shape, or become crusty. Although early breast cancers are usually painless, any pain or tenderness that lasts throughout the menstrual cycle should also be reported to a physician.

Early detection is paramount when fighting breast cancer. Although the breast self-exam is recommended for every woman, it alone is insufficient in detecting small lumps, and when the lump is large enough to detect by the self-exam, often times it is in the later stages. Mammograms are an effective way to detect those lumps when they are very small and often early in the progression of the disease.

"With all the information that is known about the importance of having a mammogram, thousands of women die each year from this dreadful disease," the spokesperson said. "The barriers to having a mammogram that have been cited by women vary, but often include a lack of insurance coverage or the means to pay for the screening.

"In Maryland and in Garrett County, that need not be a reason. Free screenings for both breast and cervical cancer are available to eligible women through the Garrett County Health Department Breast and Cervical Cancer Program (BCCP)."

Garrett County women age 40 and older who meet the financial eligibility guidelines may get free mammograms and pap tests through this screening program, which is funded by the Centers for Disease Control. In addition, if further follow-up diagnostic testing is needed or treatment services are needed, the program will link those qualifying women with the Maryland State Diagnosis and Treatment Fund, which will provide this follow-up care free as well.

The eligibility guidelines for the program are liberal, the spokesperson said. To qualify, the resident must be age 40 or older without health insurance, or with insurance without having met the deductible. Income level and the number in the family determine financial eligibility. Current guidelines are: $21,475 for one, $29,025 for two, $36,575 for three, and $44,125 for four. The program covers the cost of a pap test and pelvic exam, a mammogram, information on breast care, and early detection of breast and cervical cancer. Program participants can go to one of many local doctors in Garrett and Allegany counties, as well as nearby West Virginia, who participate in the program. They may also go to one of several area hospitals for the mammogram: Garrett Memorial, Sacred Heart, Cumberland Memorial, and Meyersdale, Pa.

"The Garrett County Health Department has been offering this program for several years in our community," said Becky Parks, PN and program coordinator. "We have been very successful in reaching women and increasing the number of women in our county who get annual mammograms. Our ultimate goal is that we would not lose any women in Garrett County to breast cancer. The Breast and Cervical Cancer Program is helping us reach this goal by eliminating the financial barrier that may be keeping women from having the screening."

To learn more about the BCCP program or to ask questions about eligibility, persons may call 301-334-8111 or 301-895-3111.

THREE A-PEELIN' LADIES — Peeling apples for homemade apple or dutch apple pies being offered for sale as a fund-raiser by the Area Agency on Aging's home-delivered meals program are, from left, Mabel Smouse and Marguerite Deems of Oakland and Carol Davis of Baltimore. The pies will be available on Saturday, Oct. 13, from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. The $6 pies can be ordered by calling 301-334-9431, ext. 140, or by stopping by the pie booth in the Community Action Building at 104 East Center Street. Persons are asked to specify dutch apple, apple, frozen, or baked. The money is badly needed for the so-called Meals on Wheels program after a grant reduction limited the service to three days a week. Another fund-raiser is planned for Nov. 16 in Grantsville. Details on the upcoming fund-raiser will follow in future editions of the Republican. (Photo by Glenn Tolbert).

Three Vehicle Accidents Noted By State Police

The Maryland State Police at the McHenry barrack issued reports of three car accidents over the past week, involving two collisions caused by one vehicle rear-ending another, and one wreck caused by deer in the roadway.

A Monday afternoon mishap occurred when a 1996 Ford truck operated by Robert Lashley, 63, Accident, slowed on Rt. 219 as the driver attempted to make a left turn onto Aiken Miller Road. The truck was then struck from behind by a 1995 Dodge truck, driven by Carl Thomas, 21, Accident.

Annette Lashley, 61, a passenger in the Ford, was transported to Cumberland Memorial Hospital by the Northern Garrett Rescue Squad, where she was treated and released. Thomas was charged by state police with failure to control speed to avoid a collision.

On Tuesday at 7:45 a.m., two vehicles collided along Interstate 68 near Exit 19, within Garrett County. Pamela Crowe, 56, Clayton, N.C., was operating a 1993 Buick Regal eastbound on the highway when she slowed down because of the glare from the sun. Her car was then rear-ended by a 2002 Ford Expedition operated by William Shears, 27, Morgantown, W.Va.

Crowe was transported by the Northern rescue squad to Cumberland Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released. No charges were filed in this mishap. Also at the scene was the Grantsville Fire Department.

Deer crossing the roadway was deemed the cause of a Saturday afternoon car wreck along Posey Row Road just south of the Pennsylvania state line. Nicholas Soltas, 16, was driving a 1990 Ford Probe northbound when several deer ran in front of the car. As he attempted to avoid the animals, Soltas lost control of the vehicle, which then crossed the road, struck an embankment on the southbound roadside, and overturned.

The teenager was transported to a Meyersdale, Pa., hospital by his father, Dean Brinegar. Hospital officials refused to release a condition report on Soltas.

Coin Machines Broken Into At Local Foodland

Troopers of the Maryland State Police are investigating a break-in and destruction of property at the Browning's Foodland in Oakland. According to the report, someone broke into the vestibule area of the store sometime between 11 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 6, and 4 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 7.

Once inside, the culprit pried open the coin boxes on nine vending machines, stealing the quarters inside. The individual also destroyed the gum and trinket vending machines, according to the report. The victim in the case is the Pete Miller Vending Company.

Any person with information about this crime, or who have observed an individual paying for items with a large quantity of quarters or asking to exchange quarters for paper money, is urged to contact Trooper Mark Clapper at the McHenry MSP barrack, 301-387-1101. The caller may remain anonymous.

ACE Meeting Scheduled

The second meeting of the Advisory Committee on Education (ACE) for the 2001-2002 school year will be held Tuesday, Oct. 16, 7 p.m., in Room 308 of the Continuing Education Center at Garrett Community College, McHenry.

The public is invited to attend.

Three Injured In Separate ATV Accidents

Three people recently sustained injuries resulting from accidents involving all-terrain vehicles, according to the Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Jessica Renee Sherwood, 12, Kitzmiller, was injured when she fell off the 1983 Honda she was driving on private property.

She was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital (GCMH), where she was treated and released.

In a separate incident, Bruce Allen Reed, 47, Stephens City, Va., received minor injuries when the 2001 Yamaha four-wheeler he was operating on Wisp Mountain stalled and flipped over.

He was also transported to GCMH, where he was treated and released Sunday.

Jonathan Ray Williams Jr., 12, Friendsville, was treated and released from GCMH after his 1985 Honda three-wheeler struck a tree after the throttle stuck Saturday, police said.

An Oakland man faces numerous charges after sheriff's deputies stopped him on Old Crellin Road early Sunday morning.

Daniel Paul Uphold, 31, was placed under arrest and charged with driving while intoxicated (DWI), failing to drive right of center, and turning a vehicle without giving adequate signal.

Uphold was released from the Garrett County Detention Center on his own recognizance.

In a separate incident, Gary Harvey took himself to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment after his 1991 GMC truck slid and hit the rear end of a 1988 Dodge Dakota truck, driven by Russell Wayne Knox.

According to police, Knox was eastbound on Glendale Road when he slowed for traffic. Harvey, who was also eastbound, attempted to slow down, skidded, and struck the Knox truck Saturday around 8:30 p.m.

GBI Seeks Leads About Theft At Josie's Restaurant

Garrett Bureau of Investigation is currently seeking information regarding a theft at Josie's Restaurant that occurred between 7:30 p.m Sunday and 6 a.m. Monday.

Sheriff's deputies responded to the restaurant along Garrett Highway and discovered that unknown persons entered the restaurant and removed an undisclosed amount of cash.

Persons with information regarding this case are asked to contact GBI at 301-334-1909.

and Dave Dixon Road, a Friendsville man was arrested on drug charges Saturday afternoon.

According to police, Harvey Joe Dilley Jr., 23, could not produce a driver's license and was given a "pat-down" for officer safety. Police allegedly found a smoking pipe and clear plastic bag of suspected marijuana in Dilley's pocket. A computer check also revealed that Dilley's license had been suspended.

He was charged with possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Cumberland Flights To BWI To Begin Nov. 1

by Penny Riordan
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS—Boston-Maine Airways remains scheduled to start daily flights from Cumberland Regional Airport to Baltimore/Washington International Airport on Nov. 1, despite instability in the airline industry nationwide.

"We ought to be showing people that America's aviation business is up and running," said John Nadolny, senior vice president of Boston-Maine.

The decision comes at a time when Maryland general aviation airports within 18 nautical miles of Reagan National Airport remain closed, with losses up to $5,000 a day. And it comes as one of BWI's major carriers, US Airways, announced it was cutting 60 percent of its jet service from the airport.

But it's the right time for Boston-Maine, Nadolny said.

"We think it's good timing," he said. "We still think it's going to prove pretty popular."

Three flights will leave daily from Cumberland Regional Airport, stop at the Hagerstown Regional Airport, and then land at BWI. Each plane will carry 19 passengers.

Hagerstown has not had flights to BWI since 1997.

The flights are a result of a two-year, $2.25 million contract approved by the Board of Public Works in June.

The airline industry nationwide has suffered huge losses since the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks. Airlines and aircraft makers have laid off tens of thousands of workers, prompting Congress to approve a $15 billion industry bailout.

Current daily flights from Hagerstown to Pittsburgh are running smoothly, said Hagerstown airport manager Carolyn Motz, adding that passenger volume is high since Sept. 11.

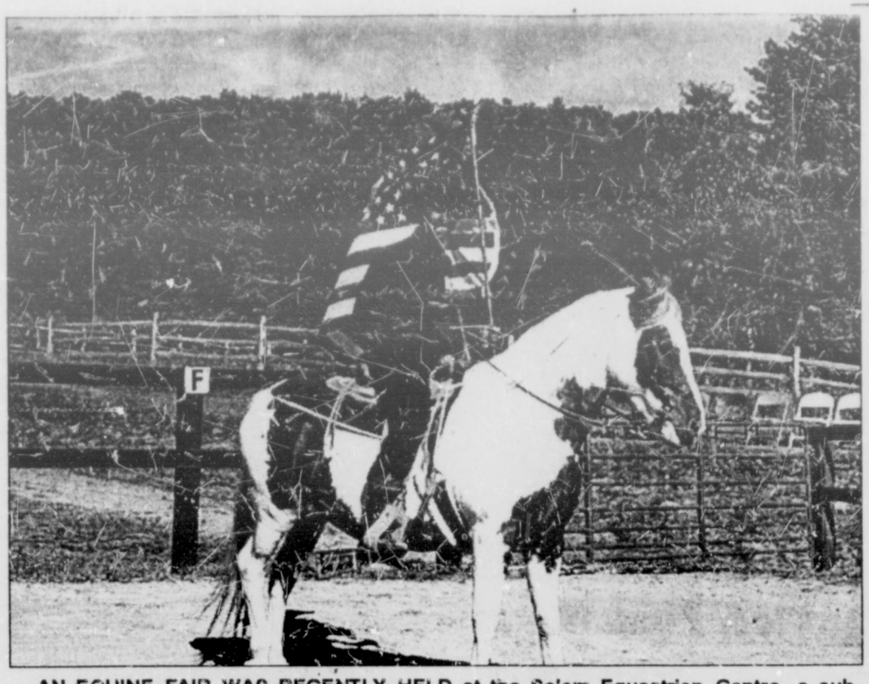
That doesn't mean the new venture is without risk. Passengers may still be fearful about flying even short distances, Nadolny said. Even so, the company will continue to do three flights a day regardless of the number of people on each flight.

"We believe that the market will support the airline service," said House Speaker Casper Taylor, D-Allegany, who pushed heavily for the state to subsidize the service.

"We see no deterioration to our local economy," he said, pointing out that tourism in western Maryland, which is typically reached by car, is faring well.

The only deterrent to keep people from flying is if they are still worried about their safety, said Cumberland airport manager John Jennings.

Boston-Maine Airways has taken appropriate security precautions to ensure passenger safety, Nadolny said. In fact, the company banned all carry-on bags a week before the Federal Aviation Administration put limits on them.



AN EQUINE FAIR WAS RECENTLY HELD at the Salem Equestrian Centre, a subsidiary of the Maryland Salem Children's Trust, on Salem property located off Lower New Germany Road. The festivities included a special message by Saddle Up Ministries from Mercersburg, Pa., and a miniature horse show by Windy Bray Stables, owned by Melba Flores, Cresaptown. Visitors were invited to tour the James House at Salem, and partake in the refreshments, face painting, and pony bingo. Six of the residents of Salem managed one of the center's horses for the event. The Equestrian Centre provides riding and horse care instructions to Salem residents as part of its therapeutic program, and also offers riding lessons and trail rides to the public. Persons wanting more information about the Salem Equestrian Centre may call 301-689-1554. Pictured above is Mark of the centre riding on Sun.

NEWS from THE MARYLAND FOREST, PARK & WILDLIFE SERVICE

SAFE DEBRIS BURNING

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Forest Service, in cooperation with the Garrett County Health Department and the Garrett County Emergency Management Office, would like to remind people that fall is traditionally a time of high forest fire danger in Maryland. In 1999, there were 815 natural fuels fires in the state that burned 3,003 acres. Garrett County Emergency Management received 38 natural fuels or woods fire calls in 1999. These fires burned 26.7 acres.

Typically, fall is the time of the year when many property owners are conducting outdoor burning of leaves and other debris. Unfortunately, many people do not burn safely, resulting in wildfires. Sixty-two percent of the natural fuels fires in Garrett County in 1999 were caused by unsafe debris burning, and 71 percent of these fires occurred Monday through Wednesday.

In order to prevent wildfires from occurring and causing destruction to private homes and woodlands, the state of Maryland has established open-air burning regulations. These regulations apply to activities in woodlands and within 200 feet of woodlands, or activities adjacent to or within an area where flammable materials could ignite and carry fire to woodlands. These regulations are:

1) A natural or constructed fire break at least 10 feet wide must completely surround the material to be burned.

2) Adequate personnel and equipment must be present to prevent the fire from escaping.

3) At least one responsible person must remain at the burning location until the last spark is out.

4) Permissible burning hours are between 4 p.m. and midnight.

5) All open-air burning requires a permit from the County Health Department. Open-air burning prior to 4 p.m. E.S.T. also requires a burning permit from DNR.

Open-air burning of any type not in accordance with these regulation is subject to citations and fines ranging from $70 to $260.

Landowners interested in conducting open-air burning are encouraged to burn after 4 p.m. when a burning permit from the DNR Forest Service is not required, and the air is generally moister and calmer, reducing the chances of the fire escaping.

If a landowner wishes to burn before 4 p.m., the Garrett County Health Department and the Maryland DNR Forest Service have entered into a cooperative agreement to issue a combined burning permit. The landowner should contact the Forest Service office at Mt. Nebo Monday - Friday, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., at 301-334-3296. Landowners are encouraged to contact the office several days before they plan on burning, to arrange a site visit with one of the forest rangers.

Prior to doing any open-air burning, the landowner should contact Garrett County Emergency Management at 301-334-1929 to let the staff know about the controlled burning. This reduces the chances of the local volunteer fire departments being dispatched on false alarms.

When conducting open-air burning, it is the landowner's responsibility to make sure the fire doesn't escape, and to make sure the fire is out cold before leaving it.

Man Allegedly Leaves Scene Of Car Wreck

A Swanton man was arrested Tuesday after allegedly driving his vehicle into a parked trailer on Deep Creek Drive, near Penn Mar Drive, and leaving the scene, according to Maryland State Police.

Christopher Girard, 21, was located and later charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and failure to remain at the scene of a property damage accident, following the 3 a.m. incident. The damaged vehicle, a 1999 Pace utility trailer, reportedly sustained heavy damage to its right front.

The accident allegedly occurred when Girard's 1993 Jeep Cherokee drifted from the roadway and struck the unattended trailer. Girard was processed and taken before a court commissioner, according to an MSP report.

State police and the Garrett County Sheriff's Office responded to the accident.

In another unrelated case, Jason Ray Xander, 21, Friendsville, was stopped by TFC. M. Clapper on U.S. 219, south of Deep Creek Drive, for allegedly failing to stop at a stop sign and failure to drive right of center.

Xander was subsequently charged with failure to stop at a stop sign, failure to drive right of center, negligent driving, and driving under the influence of alcohol, according to an MSP report.

Xander was released on his own recognizance.

Frantz noted that while Garrett County would probably not be a likely target for an attack, he was currently determining what the most likely risks/targets would be in the area, and what the results would be if an attack did occur. "We're looking at both ends of that scenario," Frantz said. He indicated that "plans would revolve around recovery and mitigation after an incident." Preventive measures, he noted, would be under law enforcement's jurisdiction.

Commissioner Ernest Gregg, citing the plane crash in nearby Somerset County, noted that the greatest danger to the county would probably be from terrorists "overshooting another target" and inadvertently hitting somewhere in the county, instead of their planed target.

The commissioners and Frantz noted that the local railroad system and I-68 were possible areas for trouble. They discussed that hazardous materials could be transported through the county by terrorists and intentionally or unintentionally released, causing harm to hundreds of residents, and the need for the county to prepare for such an emergency.

Frantz also reported to the commissioners that 16,430 calls have been made to 911 so far this year, with an average of 59 calls made per day. He projected that about 21,500 calls would be made this year. The peak time of day for the call, Frantz noted, was between 6 p.m. and 2 a.m., with Sunday being the busiest day. Extra staff are on duty during these peak times. Not all of the calls made to 911, the director said, required assistance. Some were nuisance calls or misdials.

The director also noted that cell phone calls made to 9-1-1 do not show up on the system's caller ID, as calls from other phones do. But "it's a problem that is being addressed," he said, because of the new Wireless Identification System coming into effect soon. The system will be developed because wireless providers are now required by law to provide some means by which cell phone callers can be located after dialing 9-1-1, Frantz said. Until then, however, callers dialing 9-1-1 from cell phones should not hang up until the dispatcher obtains all the necessary information to assist them.

member of the Taliban's "religious police" for letting her wrist show from under her head-to-toe garment.

She co-authored the PHR's resulting 120-page report, The Taliban's War on Women: A Health and Human Rights Crisis in Afghanistan, published in August 1998, which was the first documented report on the Taliban's abuse of its own citizens. Her work was also published in the Journal of the American Medical Association, the Health and Human Rights Journal of the Harvard School of Public Health, and the Journal of the American Women's Health Association.

Rasekh traveled to Pakistan's border with Afghanistan the following year to interview newly arrived Afghan refugees for a follow-up report for PHR. In the spring of 2000 she returned to Pakistan to conduct another investigative survey compiling interviews with 300 Afghan men and women who were abused by the Taliban. The results of this study are yet to be published by PHR.

Rasekh has written widely on health and human rights issues inside Afghanistan for a number of medical and human rights journals in addition to those mentioned above. She has spoken at human rights events, universities, and other public forums around the world. She has testified at the United Nations and before the U.S. Congress on the plight of the Afghan people living under the Taliban regime, and was honored by President and Mrs. Clinton at the White House during the 50th anniversary observance of the U.N.'s Declaration of Human Rights, and has addressed the annual conference of the American Public Health Association.

Rasekh was the only woman invited by former Afghan monarch King Zaher-Shah to participate in a 1999 Rome conference where the octogenarian began an initiative to lay plans for an interim Afghan government in the event the Taliban regime should fall from power.

A commentator and a co-producer of an Afghan radio news show broadcast in her native language on both U.S. coasts, Rasekh has been profiled through a number of news media outlets here and overseas, including in an interview with Katie Couric broadcast on NBC-TV's Today Show just this past Tuesday. She has also made feature appearances on National Public Radio's Fresh Air program, in the nationally syndicated column of Pulitzer Prize-winning columnist Ellen Goodman, and on NBC-TV's Dateline.

"I think women are slowly being erased [under Taliban rule]," Rasekh told the Dateline interviewer in early 1999. "They have no face. They have no voice. They have no future."

Although Rasekh is donating her time and travel expenses for the GCC presentation, she will be accepting donations for Global Watch Group, a Washington, D.C., based non-governmental organization she formed to address human rights issues in Afghanistan.

Outreach Opportunity...

The great majority of churches have included in their budgets some kind of community outreach monies, as service to fellow human beings is one of the basic tenets of Christianity, as well as most of the other major religions. While there are literally hundreds of worthy community projects and programs that need monetary donations in order to function, one particularly good example was brought to light on the front page of this newspaper last week.

The local Meals on Wheels program has been providing a balanced meal to homebound, usually elderly, citizens five days per week, at a nominal cost to the recipients. The program, operated through the Area Agency on Aging Senior Nutrition Program of Garrett County Community Action Inc., has recently lost some of its national and corporate grant funding, which has forced the agency to curtail the delivery of meals from five to just three days per week.

The benefits of this program exceed that of simply providing a regular, balanced meal to some of our neediest citizens. Just as important as the food is the safety aspect. Preparing a hot meal can be quite dangerous for senior citizens who have become forgetful or are incapacitated in other ways. The regular delivery of the meals also provides a routine check on these folks, who at times have been found to be in some kind of life-threatening distress. This regular visit gives them a link to the outside world, and helps put their minds at ease knowing that someone is going to be stopping by five days a week.

We issue a challenge to all of our local churches. There are over 120 of them listed on our church page, and probably several others that are not listed there. The amount of money needed to restore the meal deliveries to five days per week is approximately $50,000. If each of our churches would budget just a little over $400 per year for the Meals on Wheels program, it would cover the additional cost. That works out to a little less than $8 per week, and literally pennies per church member per week. We realize that, for some churches, $400 may be a lot, but many others have the resources to give much more than $400.

The program staff is not asking for a commitment of volunteer time or physical labor. They just need the money, so it would be an extremely easy form of outreach to an outstanding, vitally important community service for our elderly neighbors.

It's just about budget time for all of those churches that operate on a calendar year. What a golden opportunity! We would be glad to provide regular coverage of meeting this challenge, particularly for those first churches to jump in and take the lead. Just give us a call.

PAPER DAZE

by Mary Sincell McEwen

As each school day passes by, mounds of school papers in our house grow by three. Three school menus at the beginning of the month, three "Book-It" forms, three requests for Weekly Reader money that are each more insistent than the first several notices, three this and three that. The house is a cluttered mess and it's driving me crazy. For several weeks, I mostly just thought about how it was driving me crazy. Finally I decided to get off the couch for a little while and figure out a new system.

The first order of business was to empty the school paper box that was still filled with last year's collection. This is a pretty big box and it was overflowing. So I started in on it. This task is one some of you might recognize. You grab a stack of papers. You sift through. "Okay, that's junk, junk . . . junk . . ." and then: "Oh, wait a minute — that's cute. It's a homemade Mother's Day card from Alex. Gotta save that." So you make a new pile. This pile is for keeping. You imagine looking through it sometime in the next 30 years and remembering how sweet the kids' childhoods were. You picture your kid's spouse going "Awww, you were so cute!" So the Save Pile is born. Back to sifting: "Junk, junk, junk . . . aw, save . . . junk, junk . . ." like that. An hour passes. The box looks the same as when you started. You start grabbing bigger piles of stuff at once and deciding more quickly to toss items in the garbage. In addition to the Save Pile, you might start a Hey, This Is Still Good Pile, consisting of blank pages of paper, pens that write, glue bottles, Valentine stickers, and some stray Uno cards. So now you have your trash bag, your Save Pile, and the Still Good Pile. An onlooker may be confused by your actions, but you don't care. The onlooker can do it himself if he thinks he's better at it.

This whole system, while tedious, works well until a kid comes onto the scene. I was working hard, having dented the pile by about a quarter inch, when son Robert came in. "Whatcha doin,' Mom?" he asked, sidling up in the rocking chair. I explained that I was going through old school papers and that he was absolutely not allowed to watch because the last time he did that about a year ago, he stopped me every time I tossed stuff in the garbage.

"Oh, Mom, I don't care what you throw away," he said. "That was a year ago. Just go ahead." I eyed him for a moment and he shrugged. "Go ahead," he said again.

So I went ahead, and it wasn't a minute later when I came upon what used to be one of his art projects. It was a piece of black construction paper with some cotton balls hanging off it. I said something like, "Aw, remember this?" and Rob said something like, "Oh, yeah, that was cool." And I tossed it in the garbage bag. "Mom! You're throwing it away?" he shouted, hurt.

"Oh, for pete's sake, Rob, you can't even tell what it is," I said. "It's a wad of paper with some dirty cotton balls stuck to it."

"But I made it," he says. "And you're throwing it away."

"This is why I don't want you to watch. Now go outside and leave me alone."

"I will if you don't throw that away," he bartered. I picked up the cotton ball mess and tossed it into the Save Pile. "Now, go outside and play," I said. So he left, but not without assuring me that I was welcome to throw away all his spelling tests, every one of them. I thanked him.

Sift, sift, sift. Junk, save, junk, junk. Alex comes in. "Hey, Mom!" he bellows, just in case I've suddenly lost my hearing. "Can I have a — what are you doing?" I explain my chore. "Well, I need a snack . . ." he starts, but then eyes the object in my hand. "Hey, isn't that mine?" I say yes, as I handle a tattered autumn collage of finger paints, real leaves, glue, and lint. Alex's blue eyes widen. "Is that a garbage bag you're putting it in?" he asks, aghast. Good grief.

I realize there are parents out there who don't have any qualms about just pitching stuff. I'm sure many of you open up those backpacks every day and sandblast 'em. That's probably the best thing to do, but I am compelled to keep some of the stuff, like Alex's surprisingly good writing excerpts from first grade, or Rob's detailed drawings, or Michael's three-part snow man that has the sweetest Crayon smile. And what shall I do with these things? Put them in a bag and pack it away, I guess. And then when I happen upon it in some years, I'll go through it again and I'll linger over each piece, sighing to myself: "What in the world possessed me to save all this stuff?"

After quite a long while, I did finally get to the bottom of the box. And I made some headway — the garbage bag was absolutely stuffed, the Still Good pile rendered some long-lost usable things, and the entire Save Pile fit neatly a grocery bag. Now the box is empty again. Well, almost empty, except for those papers I dropped into it yesterday. Sigh.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

The recent violent attacks on our country have affected all of us. We need to support our country in these trying times. I strongly urge everyone to show their support and respect by standing as the American flags pass by in the upcoming parades. God bless America.

To the Editor:

In reading your editorial from September 27, "An Ominous Sign ???," I must take issue with this statement: "Not even the gross salaries of all the Closet-Maid employees will hold a candle to the amount of money generated for the county by tourism."

One would think that healthy salaries for our county residents would result in healthy and sufficient money for the government budgets. Minimum and low wage jobs do not provide a future for our children, after their schooling years, and often result in their leaving for greener fields. It seems rather sad to me that this statement appears to say that tourist money for the government is more important than good salaries and solid employment for its people. If I have misinterpreted this statement, please correct me.

It should be said that I am not opposed to the lake and its wonderful amenities. However, it just seemed this statement put all our goose eggs in "tourist" baskets.

Janet Elsea
Grantsville

Dear Ms. Elsea,

Rather than attempt to prove you wrong, let me just try to clarify a few things. I stand by my statement about the salaries vs. tourist dollars. When one adds up the amount of money that flows into Garrett County via tourism — motel accommodations, tax revenue from lake property owners, property rentals, dining/food, gasoline, boat rentals, recreation (e.g., ski lift tickets and rentals), movie theatre, etc. — the sum is immense. And this money benefits each and every citizen of the county, particularly from a tax standpoint.

If, for example, it weren't for the many owners of lake property, by far the most highly assessed in the county, we full-time residents absolutely would not be able to afford our county budget. We would not be able to afford our school system, our roads department, and dozens of other important agencies.

Now, is this flow of money more important than good-paying jobs for our residents? Absolutely not, and it was certainly not my intent to make that suggestion. Good-paying jobs are sorely needed and extremely important for our future, just as you write.

I also totally agree with you that all of our eggs should not be placed into one basket (tourism). But at the same time, we should not underestimate the importance of this particular basket and ignore it.

To the Editor:

One hesitates to address the horror of pain that is September 11, yet a letter in the Sept. 27 issue of The Republican asks a question that may be answered. That letter addresses another horror, the yearly death toll due to drunk driving, and challenges the reader "to name one other event, substance, or attack that takes more innocent lives than driving under the influence of alcohol."

Unhappily, it's quite easy to name one event with an even more horrific death toll. Each day in America, 4,000 lives are lost due to safe, legal abortion. That's over a million babies a year, dying not in hideous televised terrorism or in casual roadside carnage, but in calm, routine, matter-of-fact medical procedures. Sorry, but it's true!

Martha Downing

Editor's note: The following letter was written to Anne Hoddinott, Turkeyneck Road, by her friends, Eva Schiebler and Stefan Farren of Lochmühle, Germany, following the September 11 attack on America.

Dear Annie!

It's so terrible what happened to your friendly, generous, beautiful and charming country — it's almost impossible for us to find the words to express our sympathy, grief, our deep concern and honest love!

We think of you so often and we just want to say: We are so sorry — our lives too will be changed forever!

Sincerely,
Your German friends,
Eva and Stefan

To the Editor:

In a letter to the editor last week, Deb Swiger questioned the Grand Marshal selection process for the Chamber of Commerce's Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade. I am pleased to respond.

Each year, a committee of the chamber considers names of both celebrities and extraordinary local residents who might be given this special recognition. To ensure that all possibilities are fully considered, it has become the norm to delay naming a Grand Marshal until early September. This year, after the tragic terrorist events of September 11, the committee came to the same conclusion that the rest of America has been reaching. Local firefighters, police, and emergency personnel risk their lives daily to protect our communities, and they deserve our gratitude and recognition. Therefore, we are honored to have our local emergency personnel lead the Garrett County Autumn Glory parade this year so that the community can give them the cheers that they have long deserved.

To the Editor:

On October 22 and 23, the Southern Garrett County High School golf team will be participating in the State Championship at College Park. They qualified for this trip by placing second in the Maryland West Regional Championship in September. Southern had the individual boys' champion of 20 high school teams. Four members qualified to compete as a team, and one member qualified as an individual. Southern also won the WMIL championship September 17 in a field of six teams.

Five student athletes and two coaches must provide funding for transportation, lodging, and meals. These young adults are proud to represent Southern Garrett County High School. Anyone interested in supporting the golf team is asked to contact Coach Jeff Friend at 301-334-1509.

Congratulations for a great season, and best of luck at College Park!

Dear Black Bears:

Hi there. It's been a good summer for you, hasn't it. I hear that the tourists are building super markets for you all around the lake. Don't you just love those big rental places? They're well stocked, selection is quite good and let's face it — even the laziest bear has no problem getting food, as very often they leave the table all set for you on the ground. Sometimes people complain you leave a mess behind you — ha, isn't that a good joke. Is it true that, because there are so many rentals along Rock Lodge Road, back in camp you guys jokingly refer to it as going to the "Outlets"?

Well, you know things are going to slow down a bit after Labor Day. A lot of the "locals" have wised up to you and have moved their garbage to inside sheds or bought containers that are a real challenge to you. However, Autumn Glory is coming up and we will have a lot of tourists, so you better take advantage of it and stuff yourselves.

I think you have a good thing going here, and the way building is bursting out all around the lake, the future looks very promising for you. Maybe you should consider teaching your cubs car begging skills. I think it would go over big with the tourists. They just love feeding you big fuzzy, cuddly guys from the car window. Ever seen any old photos of Yellowstone in the '50s? Route 219 could really pay off big — bear-to-bear for miles — begging food, entertaining tourists. You'd no doubt get your fill, cause traffic would get held up because of picture taking and stuff.

One word of caution here — when tourists take your picture, some of them think you're just a big overstuffed Teddy Bear, and they will stand right next to you and sometimes even put an arm around you. You must control yourself here, for at this moment your brain is functioning much better than theirs. Do not grab an arm or leg! It will bring bad publicity and could jeopardize this whole feeding program you have going.

Well, it's something to talk about in camp this winter. Take care.

Love,
Betty Rouse

To the Editor:

On September 4, 2001, I flew to Scotland to spend some time with my 94-year-old aunt. A week later, on September 11, we were returning from a weekend on the beautiful island of Iona, the cradle of Christianity in Scotland. Arriving back in Edinburgh, we got the appalling news from the taxi driver who took us home. We turned on the news and watched with shock and horror until we could bear no more.

By this time, overwhelming sorrow had been added to our feelings, and I felt

COLUMBUS DAY

Notwithstanding the day off that many people had on Monday, tomorrow is Columbus Day. On October 12, 1492, Christopher Columbus discovered the American continents. I ask myself why this second-tier holiday is so important to me.

One reason may be that without this civic holiday there would be none of the other civic holidays. Independence Day, Thanksgiving, Memorial Day, Labor Day, Martin Luther King Day, Armistice Day, Memorial Day would, none of them, exist if Columbus had not had the courage of his convictions to set sail, as he thought, for the East Indies by a westerly route.

Most of all, I like Columbus Day because it serves as a reminder that we, Americans, need to keep rediscovering America.

Whatever else the attack on America was, it was a wake-up call. It was a siren warning us to a peril of a kind the likes of which we have never known before. The events of that day were the herald's trumpet announcing that we must become a different kind of nation than we have been.

We Americans have lived as if we were invincible and as if we were entitled to be invincible. The political rhetoric intended for home consumption since the attack on America has given vivid expression both to the invincibility and to the entitlement. It can be summed up this way: "How dare they?"

That is fair enough as an initial response. I had hoped that once we got over the first shock we might begin to grapple with some of the underlying causes of the terrorists' bold stroke against us. In other words, I had hoped we would ask the same question again, not from outrage, rather in a true desire to understand the terrorists, "How dare they?"

That is happening to some extent. It is implicit in the president's thoughts when he said (approximately), "I'm not going to use a $2,000,000 missile to blow up a $10 camel." It is implicit when the mother of teenagers while watching a high school football games offers, "The per capita income of Afghanistan is only $800." (Our per capita income is $31,500.) The question "How dare they?" is answered partly by another question, "What do they have to lose?"

Osama bin Laden and his gang are not Afghanis, but it is not an accident that they chose one of the poorest, perhaps the poorest, country on earth as their base of operations.

At that point I want to say, "Hold that thought!" We need to probe this economic status quo and what it means for our relationships with the other 5,700,000,000 people with whom we share the globe. How do we as Americans with everything to lose defend ourselves against those with nothing to lose?

We also need to ask, "How does it happen that the average citizen in the richest country on earth is broke?" I'm broke. A friend of mine who is looking for a new job told me he needed a salary around $100,000. "I asked, "How can that be?" He knows that I make about a third of his needed salary. His answer was quick and to the point, "I'm broke at a higher level than you are." Americans are nearly all broke, but at various levels.

Afghanistan and many other countries are broke in a different way. It is being broke at the border of starvation. What is our economic response? Do our leaders tell us that we need to rediscover the puritan virtues that made America great? That we need to rediscover the simple, frugal, generous way of life? An admonition I have heard attributed to John Wesley says it well, "Make all you can; save all you can; give all you can." Are we doing that?

The short, sad answer is, "No." Our president, surrounded by business and political leaders, tells us to get out our charge cards, and spend America back to prosperity. If we continue to define ourselves as consumers, then we shall be as a plague of grasshoppers upon the earth, devouring whatever comes in our way. If that is our course then Osama bin Laden and his kind will only multiply, and every village in America will be a terrorist target.

On this Columbus Day we need to rediscover the America that is great because it is good, not only morally good, but generously good. We need to be the America that knows God has given us our wealth for the purpose of healing the wounds of the world. Then we can cry out with the poet, "O America, my new found land!"

Senior Citizens' Menus

Community Action's Area Agency on Aging Senior Nutrition Program menus for the week of October 15-19 are as follows:

Candy Drop Part Of AG Fly-In At Garrett Field

The annual "candy drop", a staple of past Autumn Glory Fly-In events, will take place this year at the Garrett County Airport in McHenry on Sunday, Oct. 14, at approximately 4 p.m. The day-long Fly-In is slated for 11 a.m. to dusk, and proceeds from the event will benefit families of the victims of last month's terrorist attacks, according to organizer Carolyn Hill.

The Fly-In will feature displays of a variety of antique aircraft, including a vintage World War II P-51 Mustang fighter plan, scenic airplane rides in a 1941 Stearman biplane, displays of state police helicopter Trooper 5 and other emergency services aircraft (if available), and food concessions. Miss Maryland will also pay a visit to greet the crowd.

The Garrett County Airport is located along Airport Road, just off Bumble Bee Road between Kelso Road and the McHenry solid waste satellite site. For further information on the Fly-In, persons may call Hill at Garrett Aviation Service at 301-387-4100.

MUMS ADD COLOR TO GARDEN AND SCHOOL — Flowers 'N Things, Grantsville, recently donated many mums to Accident Elementary School. The school office and cafeteria are decorated with them, and the members of Doris Cooper's class planted their school garden with them also. The garden was started three years ago and is a good source of learning for the class. Pictured, in the front row, from the left, are Carrie Fike and Cara Bauermaster. In the second row are Kenneth Friend, Shawn Kisner, Tommy Friend, Gilbey Wilhelm, and Randy Guthrie. Standing in the back row are Cooper, Timmy House, Cheryl Goehringer (assistant), Alex Beltzel, and Doug Miller (head custodian).

desperate to talk to a family member over here. Unable to reach my husband because of blocked lines, I called my brother in Ontario, Canada, and it was he who told me where the fourth plane had gone down. Fortunately, I was able to get through to Bill the next day, and he was able to assure me that our niece, who works in Washington, was all right. I thought also of Matt Sincell, knowing that she had just moved to the New York area, and prayed for his safety as well.

I found great comfort in the support, concern, and sympathy of the British people, from Tony Blair, who declared, "We will stand shoulder to shoulder with the United States," to a neighbor of my aunt who said simply, "I share this awfulness with you." Friends and relatives phoned to offer their words of comfort, and everywhere I looked, flags were at half-mast. To look up at Edinburgh Castle and see the Union Jack and the Cross of St. Andrew both at half-mast especially touched my heart. We spent a couple of days with cousins in England before flying back to the States, and saw the U.S. flag displayed even in small villages.

Perhaps the images we saw on TV were some of the same that you saw here — the guards at Buckingham Palace, in a break with tradition ordered by the Queen, playing "The Star-Spangled Banner," while outside the gates a huge crowd of people could be seen singing, crying, and waving U.S. flags, and also the masses of people waiting to pay their respects at the American embassy. People were also leaving flowers and notes to an extent that reminded one of the aftermath of Princess Diana's death.

My aunt and I were fortunate to be able to fly home on schedule, and I have never in all my life been so grateful to be back on American soil. As we continue to pray for the victims of this heinous attack and for those they left behind, may we also be mindful of our many blessings.

To the Editor:

Last Saturday the Southern Garrett Marching Band participated in two competitions, and in the evening event at Cumberland's Greenway Stadium their performance was exciting to watch, as they received their best score of the season from the judges.

I have had the pleasure to observe the band over the past four years, and this year both of my daughters are participating musicians. I have been impressed by the level of dedication and effort it takes, both through group and individual practice, to be able to bring their show to a competitive level. A marching band competition is different from anything I experienced as a member of Northern High School's band a "number" of years ago, prior to the local introduction of this type of competitive activity. I'm lucky if I can still play a trumpet standing still, let alone marching in elaborate and evolving patterns. Consequently, I have gradually become an enthusiastic supporter of their efforts.

Their current show, performed to music from the rock opera Aida, is exciting, with a melding of motion, color, and music that is wonderful to behold. You can enjoy individual performances, including trumpet solo, mellophone solo, clarinet and flute solos, and a brass fanfare, to name a few. You can thrill to the enthusiastic swing of the drum major as she leads the show. You can even just sit back and relax, and enjoy the entire spectacle as the sights and sounds wash over you. It will become clear as you watch their performance that this wonderful pageantry is achieved only with the precise effort and attention by everyone who is a part of the band, including the musicians, managers, color guard, and directors. Together, they are able to incorporate their musicianship and marching into intricate patterns woven into the context of this theme from Aida.

There is only one Western Maryland Tournament of Bands each year, so this Saturday evening at 6 p.m. is your only chance to see our band perform their show in competition in Oakland. Southern will be the host school as other excellent local and not-so-local bands perform their own unique and exciting performances, including Westmar, Northern, Musselman, Allegany, Frankfort, University High, Boonsboro, and Keyser. This will include bands ranging in size from fewer than 35 to over 100 performers.

So, if you were ever a member of a band, played or still play a musical instrument, or just enjoy music and pageantry, come to the tournament. If you enjoy watching lots of enthusiastic youth performing in entertaining fashion, come out to the Southern Garrett High School athletic field this Saturday evening. This is a time and an opportunity when we have the chance to show a lot of young people that we support them and appreciate them with our attention and applause. At this moment in history, interspersed with recent tragedy, fears, and inspiration, I really can't think of anything better to do with my time than support our young people.

Thank you,
Donald Richter

French Dressing Jeanswear's
Pink Ribbon Days
Try the fit.. help the cause
You can help a worthy cause by simply trying on a pair of jeans.
Here's a great opportunity to support breast cancer awareness. Be a part of the month-long October French Dressing Jeanswear's Pink Ribbon Days.
French Dressing Jeanswear will donate $1.00 when you try on a pair of French Dressing jeans.* This money will support breast cancer awareness across Canada and the U.S.
Try the fit and do your part to raise awareness. It's only fitting that you'll be helping the cause.

Arrangements were made by the Arthur H. Wright Funeral Home, Terra Alta.

Adorable Adoptables

MOST PUPPIES GROW INTO THEIR FEET, but this little guy looks like he's going to need some more headroom. He's one of a litter of four very curious black and white cocker spaniel puppies, born just two months ago, who are currently available for adoption at the Garrett County Animal Shelter. Located along Oakland Sang Run Road just north of the Oakland Golf Club, the shelter is open every day but Sunday, and may be reached by calling 301-334-3553.

New Arrivals

A son was born October 4 at Garrett County Memorial Hospital to William E. Jr. and June Ours McRobie, Oakland.

A daughter, Elizabeth Lee, was born September 30 at Howard County General Hospital, Columbia, to Brian and Mary Kate Romie of Ellicott City. The maternal grandparents are Jack and Kathy Roerty, Randallstown, and the paternal grandparents are Ken and Virginia Romie, Oakland.

We want to send a heartfilled thank you to the Southern and Northern Rescue Squads for their services on August 25, 2001. Also the emergency department and the ICU at Garrett Memorial Hospital. Also Dr. Kaiser, Dr. Monn and their staff deserve a big thank you. They have given years of support and dedication.

Love,
Virginia Davis' Family

The Catonsville native is the founding pastor of the Catonsville Assembly of God, where he served for over 12 years. Morsberger was educated at Catonsville Community College and Berean College in Springfield, Mo.

Morsberger and his wife Linda have two grown daughters and two grown sons. The sons are both active duty members of the U.S. military; one is serving in Germany, and the other is a member of the just-activated Maryland Army National Guard unit based out of the Catonsville Armory. The daughters both reside in Lancaster, Pa.

The Morsbergers will make their home in the Maranatha parsonage by the end of this month.

Md. Truck Show Deemed Success, Winners Named

The Western Maryland Truck Show Inc., which was held recently in Grantsville, was deemed a success by president Jim McFarland.

"I am pleased with the continued growth and the community participation each year," he said. "We are looking forward to next year, and the official dates are Aug. 24 and 25, 2002."

DON'T SAY A WORD

Rated R - Running Time: 1:53 - Released 9/28/01

Michael Douglas is back to doing what he does best in Gary Fleder's Don't Say A Word, namely playing the part of a regular guy under the control of a psycho. Based on the book by Andrew Klavan, adapted for the screen by Anthony Peckham and Patrick Smith Kelly, this is a first-class child-abduction thriller not unlike many we've seen before (including Fleder's own Kiss The Girls), but it's generally effective despite the well-worn pretext and a few credibility gaps. Douglas heads a talented cast, bringing his own patented sweaty calm to the table and laying it on with the judicious subtlety of a pro. Director Fleder, who has taken time out to do some TV directing in the last few years, returns for his first feature film since Girls, showing he's still got the knack for crafting a standard 2-hour thriller that would make even the most jaded moviegoer fidget.

Douglas plays New York psychologist Dr. Nathan Conrad, whose expertise with mentally disturbed youths brings him in contact with 18-year-old wacko Elizabeth Burrows (Brittany Murphy), who apparently just killed a man with her bare hands for some mysterious reason. On their first meeting, she tells Dr. Conrad, "You want what they want;" although he is baffled as to what this means, he soon finds out when his own 8-year-old daughter Jessie (Skye McCole Bartusiak) is abducted. Over the phone, the head kidnapper (Sean Bean) tells him that Elizabeth has a six-digit number buried somewhere in her subconscious, and if he ever wants to see Jessie again, he'd better get it out of her by sundown. Having no idea what the number is for, he leaves his distraught wife Aggie (Famke Janssen), who is in traction with a broken leg, at home and attempts to get to the bottom of Elizabeth's troubled psyche.

As it turns out, the number will reveal the location of a priceless red diamond which Elizabeth's deceased father stole from the heavies 10 years ago during a bank robbery. Since then, they have been serving time for killing him, and she has been descending into madness from watching them kill him. But Dr. Conrad knows none of this, nor does NYPD Detective Sandra Cassidy (Jennifer Esposito), working independently on the case. Also present is Oliver Platt as Conrad's colleague, Dr. Louis Sachs, who is equally tense but not nearly as cool under pressure. Eventually, just about all of the above come together at a cemetery on Hart Island for an old-fashioned game of Who-Gets-To-Inhabit-The-Freshly-Dug-Grave. Hint: it isn't Michael Douglas.

This is one of those films where the crooks have apparently unlimited financial resources, affording them the most state-of-the-art equipment with which to carry out their shadowy agenda, including high-end computers, cell phones, and various strategically placed surveillance devices, even though no one explains how they get them into the places they are. For instance, they not only have at least four different cameras in Conrad's apartment—so they can watch his sexy, bed-bound wife from every angle in case she decides to strip for their entertainment—but also a hidden microphone in Elizabeth's cell at the psycho ward. I mean, how did they know she was going to get that room?

But despite its sometimes befuddling details, Don't Say A Word is definitely effective at its purpose of maintaining tension. Director Fleder gets the ol' pressure cooker going and raises the temperature steadily during the entire show, and Douglas definitely does his part as the man under pressure. It's just too bad Glen Close isn't around to boil up some rabbit stew. ★★★★

MAX KEEBLE'S BIG MOVE

A "geek's revenge" movie with woefully low standards, Max Keeble's Big Move is the product of Disney studios, whose live-action department has become known of late for providing substandard entertainment suitable only for those who will suck up anything dished out to them on the big screen, i.e., kids under 12. Although it contains a few minor chuckles and a few reasonably engaging performances, director Tim Hill's second feature film (after the delightful Muppets From Space) is a major step down.

The first effort of writing trio Jonathan Bernstein, Mark Blackwell, and James Greer, the script for Max Keeble is one of those where only the kids are sentient human beings, and all adults are either well-meaning simpletons or evil, child-hating megalomaniacs. It pits junior high school punching bag Max (Alex D. Linz) against a number of unpleasant characters, including a psychotic principal (Larry Miller), a vengeful ice cream vendor (Jamie Kennedy), a high-strung extortionist (Orlando Brown), and a garden-variety school bully (Noel Fisher). Although his career at Curtis Junior High starts inauspiciously with a routine workover from all of the above, he soon learns from his parents (Robert Carradine, Nora Dunn) that the family is moving to Chicago. Realizing that he will soon be out of range for retribution, Max decides to seize the opportunity, planning elaborate pranks designed to out-bully the bullies. Although his geeky friends Robe (Josh Peck) and Megan (Zena Grey) aren't going anywhere, he convinces them to help with the four-pronged assault, which involves an electronic pocket organizer, a refrigerator coil, a spray bottle filled with animal pheromones, and a six-foot Scottish frog named McGoogles. But after the deeds are done, Max discovers to his horror that he's not moving after all, and now must face the considerable music. Tacked on to this scenario is his crusade to save an animal shelter from destruction (presumably to lend some kind of noble context to his vindictive aims), and his desire to win the affections of the school hottie (Brooke Anne Smith).

Displaying the exact same kind of us-against-the-grownups mentality seen in Home Alone (the third installment of which featured Linz in the starring role) and Snow Day (in which Grey and Peck played supporting parts), Max is a study in pre-teen politics, where the respect one receives grows in direct proportion to his ability to undo others. It's not particularly funny for adults, but there are a few moments, like a spirited cafeteria food-fight scene that rivals the one in Animal House, the only scene in which it's obvious that the actors were having a great time. The film seems interminable despite its short, 86-minute running time, but maybe that was just me. This is the kind of film that, during the final reel, makes a movie critic wonder what he's doing with his life. ★½

Antique Show Will Take Place At NG Armory

The 28th annual Autumn Glory Festival Antique Show and Sale will take place as originally scheduled at the Oakland National Guard Armory, from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Oct. 12-13, and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 14. The event had been canceled at one point because of the Armory's temporary lockdown.

Approximately 40 dealers from several states are expected to be on hand for the antique show, displaying jewelry, primitive furniture, linens, china, and silverware. A variety of home-cooked foods and baked items will be available.

The antique show is the major fund-raiser for the GFWC Civic Club of Oakland, which uses the proceeds to support a number of local charities and community organizations. Admission is $2 per person, and parking at the Armory site, located at Eighth and High streets in Oakland, is free. For information persons may call 301-334-4420.

AURORA/EGLON NEWS

HARVEST FESTIVAL

The Aurora School and PTO are sponsoring the annual Harvest Festival to be held at the school Saturday evening, Oct. 20, from 5 until 8 p.m. There will be food, games, and dress parades, and raffle tickets are being sold for baskets of various items. Proceeds benefit the school.

PTO WINS WITH FLOAT

The Aurora School float won first place at the recent Buckwheat Festival, and the PTO and school express appreciation to J&B Trucking, A&W Lawn Service, and the Mountain Lions Club for the financial support, and to all parents, grandparents, and anyone else who provided help with this effort.

TRIBULATION HOUSE

The Maple Grove Assembly of God is again sponsoring a Tribulation House. This year's presentation will be shown in a theater setting, and reservations are needed. Schedules of those are: Oct. 18, 7 p.m.; Oct. 19, 7 and 9 p.m.' Oct. 20, 4 and 7 p.m.; Oct. 25, 7 p.m.; Oct. 26, 7 and 9 p.m.; and Oct. 27, 1 and 4 p.m. To obtain tickets for the first three days, persons may call Dodie Burrell at 735-5034. For the second weekend, persons may call Pastor Dave Parker at 735-3117.

DINNER AT BURLINGTON

West Marva District Church of the Brethren is sponsoring a baked steak dinner, which includes desserts, on Oct. 20, at the Burlington fire hall. All proceeds from the dinner will be used toward the building of a house in southern West Virginia for a flood victim family. The meal requires a freewill donation.

SHOOTING MATCH, OCT. 12

The Lantz Ridge Sunshine Club is sponsoring a shooting match at the community building on Saturday, Oct. 13, beginning at noon. Only 12, 16, and 20 gauge shotguns, or .22 rifles (no target guns), are allowed. No scopes above 9 power may be used. Lunches will be served.

AURORA VFD BREAKFAST

The regular monthly breakfast at the Aurora fire hall will be Oct. 21 from 8 a.m. until 1 p.m. The all-you-can-eat meal includes both pancakes and buckwheat cakes, biscuits, and sausage or sausage gravy. The cost is $6 for adults, and $3 for children 12 and under.

BIRTHDAY NOTED

Floyd Knapp of Amboy will observe his 90th birthday on Oct. 23 at Cortland Acres Nursing Home, HC60 Box 98, Thomas, WV 26292. His family requests that friends remember him with a card. His wife, Wilma Knapp, was a patient last week in Garrett County Memorial Hospital, and she needs also to be remembered.

MOWERY BIRTH

Zachary Thomas Mowery was born Sept. 30, at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. He is the first child of Jason and Amanda Teets Mowery, formerly of Oakland, and just recently of Baltimore. He weighed six pounds, eight ounces, at birth.

His grandparents are Paul and Karen Teets of Horse Shoe Run,and Chester and Patricia Mowery of Pomeroy, Ohio. Great-grandparents are David and Wilma Mae Teets, Horse Shoe Run, and Henrietta Thomas of Hundred.

STRAWSER, HARSH WED

The marriage of Jessica Harsh and Travis Strawser on Oct. 5 has been announced. Jessica is the granddaughter of Jean Harsh of St. George, with whom she has resided, and the late Melvin Harsh. Travis is the son of Roger and Debbie Strawser, and grandson of Glenn and Helen Strawser, all of Eglon.

90TH BIRTHDAY

Nina Layman will celebrate her 90th birthday on Oct. 26. Cards may be sent to her at Rt. 1 Box 238A, Aurora, WV 26705.

PERSONAL MENTION

Winifred Gatto continues therapy following a stroke, but remains at her home in Eglon.

Adrain Stemple was admitted Sunday to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, taken there from his home at Aurora.

Bill Reeves of Brookside is a hospital patient in a Morgantown facility as the result of shingles which have affected his eye.

John and Gerry Beckman of Hutchinson, Kan., visited here with relatives last week. While they were here, John's sister and husband, Joyce and Larry Buckley, joined them from Dover, Del. They had a family dinner with brother Don Beckman, sisters Doris and Bernard "Buzz" Arnold and Avenell and Ron Parsons, all local residents, and other members of those families.

Gladys and Doyle Wiles of Weirton were Thursday to Sunday visitors with Hancell and Mildred Teets at Amboy. Visiting them Saturday and Sunday were their grandson, Mark Kepple of Wheeling, and his son Ashton.

Recent visitors with relatives here were Coleman and Pat Roth of Arkansas and Doyle Roth of Ohio.

Twenty-four members from the Aurora United Methodist Charge went last Wednesday to Burlington, where they made 371 gallons of apple butter to add to the total of 1,975 gallons which were sold during the festival this past weekend. Proceeds to benefit the Burlington Home for Children.

Joining a mystery bus tour to Kingsport, Tenn., this past weekend were Willard and Dorothy Roth of Horse Shoe Run and David and Delores Stemple of Aurora.

Rose Ina Harsh and her daughter Neva Frantz and Brenda Hartsell, all attended a Friday overnight Christian emphasis camp in Pennsylvania.

Weekend guests of the Claude Winters family at Eglon were Carl and Nancy Winters of Manassas, Va.

Turnovers Plague Rams In 10-0 Loss To Knights

Winning the battle of statistics does not always mean winning on the scoreboard, and the usual cause of this outcome in the game of football can be described with one word — turnovers.

Such has been the case for the Southern High School varsity Rams more than once this season, with perhaps the most glaring being last Friday when the Rams dropped a 10-0 decision to visiting Preston High School. Southern finished with double the number of first downs, more passing yardage, more rushing yardage, and fewer yards lost in penalties, but they also finished with higher numbers in fumbles and interceptions.

The Rams moved the ball up and down the field with relative ease against the 4-3 Knights, particularly in the first half, but had nearly every drive ultimately halted by a turnover. They lost the handle on the ball five times and lost four of them, and two of Tobi Stoner's aerials were picked off for a total of six turnovers.

"If we ran a high-risk offense, turnovers would be expected a little more often," stated a frustrated coach Fred Gregg. "But we can't be a whole lot more conservative on offense, and we're still turning the ball over."

The only touchdown of the night was scored late in the first quarter when Stanley Moore, and it was set up by — what else — a Ram fumble on Southern's first possession. Moore broke loose for a 30-yard touchdown run, and Torsten Sweiger, a foreign exchange student from Germany, booted the extra point to make it 7-0 with 2:46 left in the quarter.

First Quarter

P - Stanley Moore 30 run (Rocky Albright kick).

Fourth Quarter

P - Rocky Albright 34 field goal.

The second and third quarters, and most of the fourth, was all defense, as the Rams usually forced the Knights to give the ball up on fourth down, but would then shoot themselves in the foot with a turnover.

Southern had the ball inside Preston's one-foot line just seconds before halftime, giving the Rams a golden opportunity to knot the score or take a one-point lead. But a third-down play resulted in a two-yard loss, and then they failed to score on the fourth down attempt.

The Rams were still very much in the game midway through the fourth quarter, but a 34-yard field goal by Sweiger with 3:49 left in the game all but sealed their fate.

The Rams finished with a 179-110 lead in total offensive yardage, and led in first downs, 12-6. Steve Skipper carried the ball 16 times for Southern and gained 64 yards, while fullback Joel Helbig picked up 51 yards on 16 attempts.

Matt Liston paced the Knights' offensive effort with 56 yards on 15 carries.

"We really did play much better on the line, both offensively and defensively" Coach Gregg said. "But you usually only get the ball seven or eight times in an average game, and when you turn it over six of those times, it's really difficult to beat anyone.

"But I certainly don't take anything away from Preston," he said. "They came in with a good plan and they played well. Good teams capitalize on the mistakes of their opponents."

The loss dropped the Rams to 1-4, and several tough opponents are yet to come. "It seems like we are able to put out one fire, and then two more pop up somewhere else," Gregg said. "Then the minute we put them out, another one starts somewhere else.

"But, despite the fact that we are 1-4, our kids still have a very good attitude. They come to practice every day and they keep working hard to improve, trying to make the corrections to get better, and I give them a lot of credit. Our coaches are all still working hard, too. The football history of our school is too good to not keep preparing and playing as hard as we can every single week.

"We're in a bottom-line business (the final score), but the process of playing the game is important," he continued, "because it is in the process that you learn to do things better."

Unfortunately, the Rams will get no break this week. In fact, they will undoubtedly meet the toughest opponent on their schedule in Martinsburg. The Bulldogs, who will come to Oakland with a 7-0 record, have yet to be seriously challenged and are tagged as one of the top two triple-A schools in West Virginia.

"They have it all," Gregg said, "speed, strength, great skill people, everything. Martinsburg is in an area that is growing so fast because of its proximity to the D.C. area, so they have a lot of athletes to choose from."

The most outstanding athlete on the team is probably senior defensive tackle Steve Roach (6-2, 296), who has already signed a letter of intent with Penn State.

"At 296 pounds, he is one of the fastest players on the team," Gregg said. "He's in a class by himself, a player with ability we rarely see."

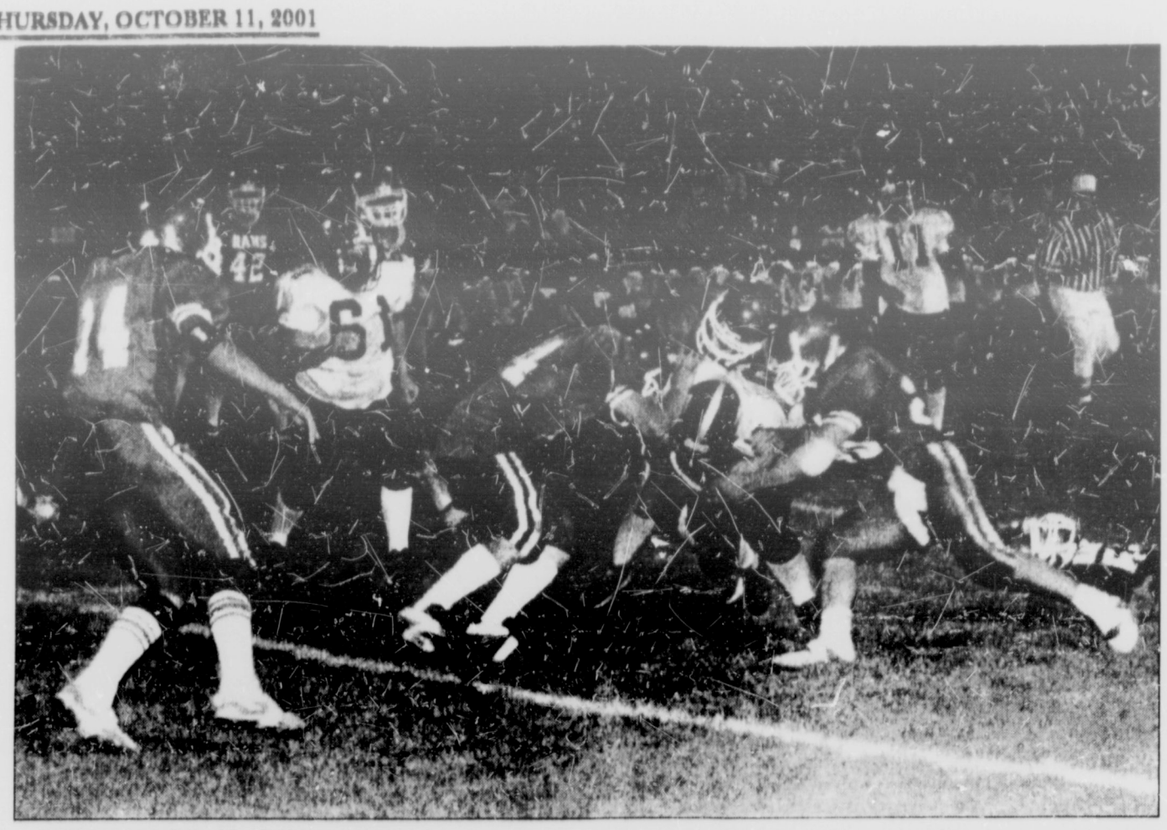
Other outstanding players on their defensive unit are senior linebacker Aaron Warner (6-1, 215) and sophomore Brandon Barrett (6-1, 170), who started as a freshman in the Bulldog secondary. "He's an amazing athlete, too," Gregg said. "He's also their best receiver on offense."

The Bulldogs' wing-T offense is also led by senior quarterback Joey Yurish (6-1, 170).

"They really mix it up offensively," Gregg said. "They have so many weapons. Defensively, we will just have to try to contain their speed as much as possible. Offensively, we are going to have to be more physical and try to pound away at them, because we know we can't outrun them."

Gregg knows his team will be the underdog again this week, but he said that he always tries to look forward, and not backward. "We are going to keep working hard to improve each week," he said. "Eventually that will pay some dividends."

Friday's kickoff at the Southern athletic field is set for 7:30 p.m.



RAMS TO THE EAST, WEST, AND SOUTH are captured in this photo as they corralled Preston High School running back Matt Liston last Friday night at the Southern High athletic field. Rams who are identifiable include #14 Tobi Stoner and #42 Bryson Meyers. Despite winning the game of statistics, the Rams were topped on the scoreboard by a 10-0 margin by the Knights, as the home team committed six turnovers. Trying to break free of a Preston defender in the photo below is Chad Panther. It was the fourth loss in five starts for the Rams, who will face their toughest opponent of the season this Friday at home against 7-0 Martinsburg.

Oakland Youth Football League Results Noted

The Ravens flattened the Jets, 50-0, and the Redskins just got by the Raiders, 19-18, in NFL Division (full-contact) games of the Oakland Youth Football League played this past weekend.

The Ravens are unbeaten (7-0) and lead the division standings, while the Redskins are in second place at 5-2, the Raiders are 2-5, and the Jets are winless at 0-7.

In the NCAA Division (flag) games, the Team One Terps topped the TCI Cougars, 41-25; the F.O.P. Fighting Irish defeated the previously unbeaten Gregg's Pharmacy Mountaineers, 33-21; the First United Buckeyes topped the Gonder Insurance Tigers, 40-34; and the Pro-Fit Insulation Bears rolled over the Rinker Construction Nittany Lions, 32-6.

The undefeated Buckeyes (6-0-1) are now in first place, followed by the Mountaineers with a 5-1-1 record, the Irish and Bears both at 5-2, the Tigers with a 3-4 mark, the Terps at 2-5, the Lions with a 1-6 record, and the Cougars winless at 0-7.

SHS Jayvees Fall To Keyser

The junior varsity football team of Southern High School rallied for 14 straight points in the second half against visiting Keyser last Wednesday evening, but were still on the short end of a 30-22 score. The loss dropped the Rams to 2-3.

Derek Stephen dominated Keyser's play on both sides of the ball against the Rams, as he amassed 170 yards rushing and two touchdowns on just 10 carries, ran for two two-point conversions, and also led the Golden Tornado defensive effort with 11 tackles.

The Rams took an 8-0 lead in the first quarter when Doug Upole scored on a 35-yard run and Tyler Graham passed to Chris Miller for the two-point conversion.

But Keyser answered on its next possession, with Dustin Holman scoring on a 12-yard run and Stephen running successfully for the conversion to tie the score at 8-8.

Stephen put Keyser ahead for good with a 44-yard touchdown run in the second quarter, and also ran for the conversion to make it 16-8 at halftime.

Stephen scored his second touchdown in the third stanza, this time on a run of 12 yards. The conversion run failed.

Keyser's Keith Johnson made the score 30-8 with a 68-yard touchdown carry and conversion run later in the third quarter.

Graham cut the Tornadoes' lead with a 50-yard touchdown run for the Rams, also still in the third quarter. The run for the conversion was no good.

Graham then connected with Brad Reese on a six-yard touchdown pass, and Graham also ran for the two-point conversion to conclude the scoring.

Upole led the Rams' rushing effort with 101 yards on 16 carries, while Darwin Bennett paced the Southern defense with nine tackles.

Southern was slated to host Westmar on Monday, but results of that game were not received.

NHS Dominates Early, But Alco Walks Off With Win

After seeming to right the ship with a big win over Turkeyfoot last week, and a fine first quarter effort Friday against visiting Allegany, Northern High School's varsity football squad was blown back off keel as a much larger Alco unit rolled to a 49-12 win. "We knew coming in we'd have to play way over our heads, but for the first quarter we did just that," NHS coach Phil Carr commented. "We just couldn't keep it going. We scored the first and last touchdowns of the game, but they got everything in between."

Northern literally dominated the opening quarter with a ball-control offense that chewed up bite-sized bits of the field while chomping up the clock. Allegany's offense only snapped two plays during the stanza to the Huskies' 28.

NHS ran a clinic for most of its opening drive, taking the opening kickoff and embarking on a methodical march that covered 60 yards and erased over four minutes of game time. Facing a fourth down and 1 on the Camper 21-yard line, Northern got flagged for a motion penalty that pushed the ball back five yards for a fourth and 6. A pitchout run by Ethan DeVore gained five yards, a fine gain under all circumstances but that one, and the Huskies were forced to turn the ball over on downs after knocking on the door to the red zone.

Allegany's offense appeared to kick into gear on its first possession as the Campers reeled off two long runs. Husky defensive end Cheston Bachtel put the kibosh on that drive by stripping the ball from Alco running back Jeremy Sellers, and cornerback Elliott Perfetti dove on the fumble to give NHS possession on its own 15.

From there, Northern embarked on a second inexorable drive, this one taking up six minutes to cover the full 85-yard distance to the goal line. Bachtel capped the march by diving into the endzone from one yard out on the final play of the quarter to send the Half Mile High crowd into a frenzy at the thought of an upset over one of Maryland's top 20 teams.

NHS's celebration was short-lived, however. Starting fullback Dustin Wiland, a recent addition to the Huskies' backfield who had been turning in some fine running and blocking efforts, broke his hand and wrist on the touchdown play, and was lost for the remainder of the night. Toward the end of the second quarter, Wiland's replacement, the very capable Lee Yoder, went out with an injury of his own. Stretched to the limit by those absences, the Huskies' backfield went into a tailspin from which it never recovered.

Allegany, meanwhile, got down to what it does best — pounding the football up the gut. The Campers scored four touchdowns in the second quarter. The first came when a one-yard Chad Jacovino run capped a 62-yard Alco drive. The second, an eight-yard end-around run by Robbie O'Brien, finished up a three-play, 41-yard drive and made the score 14-6. TD number three came on a 10-yard Ryan Strother pass to Sellers with less than two minutes remaining, and, after three plays and a punt, O'Brien reeled off a 45-yard touchdown run with 55 seconds on the clock to give Alco a 28-6 lead.

HUSKIES SCORE! — Northern High School's Half-Mile High Stadium erupted Friday evening when halfback Cheston Bachtel (#22) scored the opening touchdown in a battle with heavily favored Allegany. The Huskies' 6-0 first quarter lead failed to hold, however, one reason being starting NHS fullback Dustin Wiland was lost for the night with a broken wrist and hand he sustained on this very play. Unbeaten Alco, one of the top 20 teams in the state, rolled up a 49-12 win by the night's end. The 1-4 Huskies visit Bishop Walsh this Saturday afternoon for a 1:30 p.m. match-up with the Spartans. Photo by Lisa Broadwater

The Huskies' poor performance continued in the third quarter, as Sellers streaked 80 yards for a touchdown that gave the Campers a 35-6 advantage. Jacovino added a six-yard scoring run later in the stanza, and Tabrenn Wharton added a six-yard rushing TD late in the fourth quarter. NHS's Steve Snyder, just a sophomore, scored the first touchdown of his varsity career in memorable fashion by taking the ensuing kickoff and streaking 85 yards to cap the scoring.

"We had the momentum early, but when we lost Dustin we lost our ball-control offense," Carr said. "The key to beating Allegany is to keep the ball out of their running backs' hands, and to do that you have to keep your offense on the field. Once we lost that capability, we were in trouble. Their line is big, and their backs are incredibly fast, and that's a tough combination to overcome. They have one of the best offensive units around."

Northern hopes to rebound Saturday afternoon at Bishop Walsh. The Spartans run an I-formation offense, and could give the Huskies' trouble with their passing game. BW quarterback Chris Hendershot (6-2, 195) is only a freshman, but he has shown excellent accuracy and can read defenses fairly well. Hendershot has two good tailbacks to hand the ball to when the Spartans want to run — senior Nathan Chambers (6-0, 160) and junior Brandon Grabenstein (6-2, 165).

Bishop Walsh's defenders usually line up in a 4-4 scheme, but Carr said he expects the Spartans to load the line with a 5-3 or even a 6-2 in an attempt to shut down Northern's option offense. BW's defensive anchor is senior middle linebacker Anthony Gonzalez (5-8, 205).

"We're looking to improve, and we know what we have to do," said Carr. "Our offense gets a little better each week, and our defense is still working the kinks out. A win tomorrow night would help us get the right attitude back."

Saturday's kickoff at Bishop Walsh, located off Seton Drive in the area of Sacred Heart Hospital, is set for 1:30 p.m.

Carr and his Northern coaching staff expressed their appreciation for the generosity of the NHS fans at the Alco game, who purchased over $700 in 50-50 drawing tickets for the benefit of Ryan Savage. Northern Steelers (Cumberland Area Youth Football League) coach Ben Sisler held the winning ticket, and he donated his winnings to Savage, as did the Northern football program with its half. A potato bar fundraiser for the former NHS football star is set for this Sunday, Oct. 5, from noon to 5 p.m. at the Deep Creek fire hall in McHenry. Persons may call 301-746-8717 for information.

Wild Turkey Fed. Chapter Dinner Slated in Finzel

The Western Maryland Chapter of the National Wild Turkey Federation has scheduled its annual benefit banquet and auction for Saturday, Nov. 3, at the Eastern Garrett fire hall in Finzel. Doors open with a 6 p.m. social hour, followed by the auction at 7 p.m and dinner at 7:30 p.m. The event is open to the public.

The banquet and auction will raise funds for the NWTF Maryland Superfund that will be distributed to local conservation projects. In the past the Western Maryland Chapter has used these funds to purchase equipment for locally based Department of Natural Resources personnel, to improve wild turkey habitat on public lands, to support law enforcement activities, to provide scholarships to qualified local college students, and for other projects.

The auction will feature a number of limited edition prints of nature and wildlife scenes, among other items. There will also be door prize giveaways of a muzzleloader rifle, a .22-caliber rifle, and three shotguns.

The NWTF is a non-profit organization, and any contributions to the Western Maryland Chapter are tax-deductible. In addition to purchasing a banquet ticket, persons attending the event will have the opportunity to underwrite a piece of art for the auction or donate a door prize.

To purchase a ticket, or for further information, persons may contact Mike Green at 301-387-9652, Rick Latshaw at 334-4255, or Joe Mills at 301-689-0204.

Service Club League To Hold Meeting Oct. 17

An organizational meeting for the Service Club Basketball League will be held next Wednesday, Oct. 17, at Southern High School in the health classroom in the auxiliary gym at 7 p.m. Any person interested in coaching a team in this year's league should attend.

The league serves over 144 boys and girls in grades 5-8 in the southern end of Garrett County. League sponsors include Oakland-based service organizations, including the Rotary Club, Lions Club, Elks Club, Knights of Pythias, Masonic Lodge, Fraternal Order of Police, Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion, Catholic Daughters of America, Women's Civic Club, American Legion Women's Auxiliary, and Business and Professional Women's Club.

The meeting agenda will include the treasurer's report, coaching assignments, tryout and draft dates, and pre-season practice schedule. For more information, persons may call Dave Bender at 301-334-4390 or Fred Gregg at 301-334-8416.

Maddawgs' Pee-Wee Football Campaign Ends

The Northern Maddawgs C team finished its Pee-Wee Football League regular season Saturday with its third 40-0 victory in a row, this one a romp over host Frankfort Colts, while the Maddawgs A&B combined unit fell 38-33 to its Colts counterpart.

The action gave Northern's C squad a 6-2 record for the regular season, and the Maddawgs A&B teams finished at 4-4. The A&B program finished fourth in the league standings, qualifying it for the playoffs for the first time in at least five years.

The C Maddawgs opened the first quarter with a 15-yard touchdown run by Austin Tombley. Northern scored again on the first play of its next possession when Alex Baker rushed for a 34-yard touchdown. The rout was in full swing when, on the Maddawgs' subsequent possession, quarterback Jesse Lapp scored on a 22-yard keeper.

Northern's highlights continued in the second half, as running back Kyle Rosenberger scampered 51 yards for a touchdown. Josh Mason rushed for a 17-yard touchdown on the next possession. Matthew Grady capped the scoring with a 25-yard touchdown run.

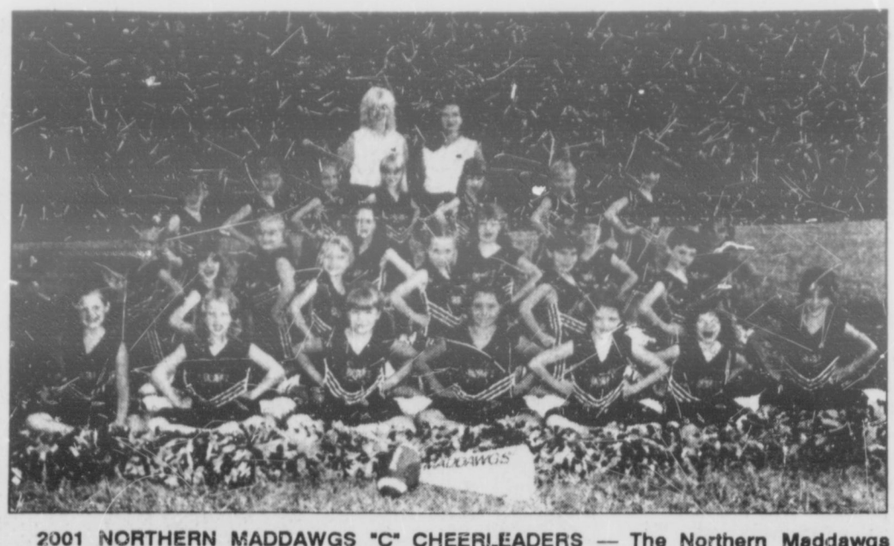
The Maddawgs' defense was just as impressive as the offense, not allowing any first downs in eight Colts possessions. The Maddawgs C team finished the season at 6-2.

The Northern Maddawgs A&B teams struggled early in their contest with the Colts. The B team gave up an early first-quarter touchdown, but the offense soon got going when Nick Graham broke free for a 19-yard touchdown run. The score remained tied until Josh Duckworth took off for a 51-yard touchdown run, making it a 13-6 Maddawgs game at the end of the first quarter.

The Maddawgs A team defense gave up a touchdown early in the second quarter, but the offense rebounded with a long drive down the middle capped by a Blair Silbaugh touchdown. The Maddawgs defense gave up two more touchdowns in the stanza, and the Colts took a 26-20 lead into the halftime locker room.

The Maddawgs B team struggled in the third quarter, and surrendered a Colts' touchdown while failing to score itself. Northern's A team gave up an early touchdown in the fourth quarter, but the rest of the game was all Maddawgs. Northern scored two touchdowns, one a 55-yard touchdown pass gathered in by Andy Ganoe and the other a Silbaugh rushing TD.

The Northern Maddawgs A&B teams travel to LaVale Saturday to compete in the first round of the Pee-Wee League playoffs.



2001 NORTHERN MADDAWGS "C" CHEERLEADERS — The Northern Maddawgs Pee Wee Football League Cheerleaders C squad will compete in the first portion of the C cheer team tournament at Allegany College of Maryland, Cumberland, this Sunday, Oct. 14. Rams Blank Huskies, But Then Get Blanked By Beall

It was a .500 week on the soccer field for the Southern High School boys' varsity, as the Rams recorded a 3-0 shutout over visiting Northern in a Western Maryland Interscholastic League match last Thursday, but were then blanked, 4-0, by host Beall in another WMIL encounter on Tuesday. The split left the Rams with a 4-6 overall record and a 1-4 mark in the WMIL.

Don Parsons accounted for all of the scoring in Thursday's match with Northern, and he completed his hat trick before halftime, as the second half was all defense.

It took just 27 seconds after the opening kickoff for Parsons to put the Rams ahead for good, as he blasted a shot into the net off a feed by Riff Browning.

He doubled the Rams' total exactly 12 minutes later when he scored off an assist by freshman defender Tray Rives.

His third goal, and the final for the match, was recorded with 21:51 left in the first half, this time off an assist by fellow striker Adam Miller.

The Rams dominated in shots on goal, finishing with a 24-9 lead, and each team had three corner kicks. Southern keeper Chris Menker turned away nine shots, while Goeff Newman recorded 21 saves for the Huskies.

The loss dropped the Huskies' record to 1-7 overall and 1-3 in the WMIL. Northern also fell to Bishop Walsh on Tuesday (see other story).

The Rams never got on track against 9-1 Beall on Tuesday, despite falling to the Mountaineers by just a 2-1 margin earlier this season.

Brady Engle put Beall on the board first with an unassisted goal at the 27:22 mark, and then about five minutes later he assisted Jeremy Knieriem on a goal to make it 2-0.

Greg Russ scored the first of two goals for Beall with just 2:30 left in the first half, unassisted, to put the Rams down 3-0.

Russ's second goal of the night came at the 31:40 mark of the second half off a feed by Steve Growden, which was the final goal of the match.

The Rams were out-shot by only a 15-9 margin and trailed in corner kicks, 4-1. Menker had five saves in goal for Southern, while Travis Jackson earned five and Matt Bennett recorded one for Beall.

The Southern junior varsity team was also defeated in the preliminary match, 6-3.

The Rams will play at Northern next Thursday.

RECORDING A HAT TRICK, and all of the goals scored in the match played last Thursday evening at Southern High School, was Southern's D.R. Parsons, pictured at left (#2) going up against Northern Husky Michael Guard. Parsons' first score came just 27 seconds into the match, and his other two were scored before halftime, as the second half was all scoreless defense. In the photo above, Southern's Jonathan Neville (#15) sends the ball toward teammates Parsons (on the ground) and Adam Miller. Huskies in the photo include, from left, Greg Bender (#20), Guy Beltzel, and Justin Fontaine. See story for details. Photos by John McEwen.

Huskies Stay With Spartans In First Half, But Lose 6-1

The Spartans of Bishop Walsh High School proved to the Northern High Huskies and their fans Tuesday evening why they are the top-ranked boys' soccer team in the area, as the visitors handed the Huskies a 6-1 defeat behind a four-goal performance by the area's top scorer, Eric Perlozzo.

The loss was the Huskies' eighth in nine matches, while the Spartans upped their unbeaten mark to 12-0-1.

The Huskies stayed right with BW in the first half, allowing only one goal just 7:40 before halftime when Dado Papic put the ball past Geoff Newman off a pass from Sean Lindner.

Four minutes into the second half, Perlozzo scored his first goal off a feed from Jayme Bradley.

Lindner put the Spartans up 3-0 about seven minutes later with a goal off an assist from Matt Tam.

Eric Durst responded at the 23:00 mark with a goal off an assist by Guy Beitzel, but that seemed to ignite Perlozzo, who was a one-player wrecking crew the rest of the night. He scored three straight unassisted goals, at the 20:30, 8:17, and 3:34 marks.

The Huskies were outgunned in shots on goal by a lopsided 23-9 margin, but finished with a 7-3 advantage in corner kicks. Jay Sulek was credited with four saves in goal for BW, and Newman recorded 11 shots for the Huskies.

The Northern junior varsity team earned a 3-2 victory in the preliminary match, with Robert Fontaine recording a hat trick for the Huskies.

Northern will try to get back into the win column this evening by hosting Petersburg in a 7:30 match. Then the Huskies will be off until next Thursday when they host the Southern Rams.

READY...AIM... — Northern High School's Eric Durst prepares to blast a shot toward the goal against the visiting and top-ranked Bishop Walsh Spartans in a match played Tuesday evening. While this subsequent shot was unsuccessful, Durst did score for the Huskies in the second half. Also in the photo at far right is Northern's Shawn Fike. The Huskies were down just 1-0 at halftime, but the Spartans, led by the area's leading scorer, Eric Perlozzo, took control in the second half and returned to Cumberland with a 6-1 victory. Runnin' Rams Split A Meet With Uniontown

The girls' cross country team of Southern High School defeated visiting Uniontown yesterday at the Rams' home course in Broadford Park, 19-36, while the Southern boys were topped by Uniontown, 20-36.

All-State Ram runners Melissa Durst and Natalie Domenick finished one/two with respective times of 21:10 and 21:20, while Stephanie DiSimone and Emily Cosner placed fourth and fifth, respectively, with times of 23:49 and 24:24. Lisa Wade rounded out Southern's top five by finishing seventh in 25:09.

Leading Uniontown was Jill Monahan, who was third with a time of 23:43.

Uniontown runners took the top three places in the boys' meet, with Dave Mad-

Scheffel Records Hat Trick To Lead Rams Over Huskies

A hat trick by sophomore forward Sabrina Scheffel powered the Southern High School girls' soccer team to a 5-0 victory over cross-county rival Northern Tuesday evening at the Cove. The win gave the Rams a sweep of the Huskies, winning a much closer battle in Oakland earlier this season, 2-1.

The Huskies came into the match off a 7-3 victory over visiting Berlin on Saturday (see other story).

The five-goal spread in the score was not indicative of how well the Huskies played the area's top-ranked team, as they finished with only a 22-20 deficit in shots on goal. The Rams led in corner kicks, 6-1.

Most of the first half was all defense, with both teams mounting offensive drives that were ultimately stopped by Ram sophomore keeper Alasha Rush and Northern's Ashley Warnick.

Finally, with 6:33 remaining before halftime, Scheffel recorded her first of three for the evening, as she scored off an assist by Becky Martin.

Just three minutes later, Martin fed another ball to Scheffel, who fired it past Warnick and into the net to give the Rams a 2-0 advantage with 3:38 left in the half.

Over 22 minutes of the second half was again scoreless defense, but Scheffel completed her hat trick when she scored off an assist by Brittany Naylor with 17:29 remaining.

Senior striker Jenny Hickman made it 4-0 with a goal off a direct kick with 7:44 to play, and Naylor added an insurance goal with just 26 ticks left on the clock, also with a direct kick.

Rush was credited with 20 saves for the Rams, while Warnick turned away 17 of Southern's shots.

The win upped the Rams' unbeaten mark to 8-0-1, while the Huskies fell to 3-6. Southern will host Westmar this evening and play at Beall next Monday. The Northern girls will play at Fort Hill Monday and at Westmar next Thursday.

Northern Girls Whip Berlin Before Falling To Southern

The girls' varsity soccer team of Northern High School was blanked Tuesday night by visiting Southern, but the past week also featured a 7-3 victory over visiting Berlin, a team that had edged the Huskies, 2-1, just one week before. The split left the Huskies and their new coach, Lynn Lais, with a 3-5 record.

The loss to the Southern Rams was the second of the season for the Huskies, although they nearly upset the top-ranked and undefeated Rams in their first meeting, losing by just a 2-1 margin. (See other story for details of Tuesday's match with Southern.)

Brooke Butler and Kara Kenner led the Husky offensive effort against the Berlin Mountaineers on Saturday, as each of them scored two goals.

Butler drew first blood with an unassisted goal 16 minutes into the first half.

Berlin's Talayne Suder knotted the score at 1-1 with a goal about 12 minutes later, as her 25-yard blast went just over the outstretched hands of Northern keeper Ashley Warnick.

Carrie Friend put the Huskies on top for good with a shot and goal from 30 yards out, and Kenner put her first of two on the scoreboard with a goal at about the 4:00 mark of the first half.

Berlin rallied early in the second half to cut the Huskies' lead to 3-2 when Erika Thompson scored about seven minutes in.

But Trisha Kamp responded six minutes later with a goal to give Northern a 4-2 advantage, and Brooke Butler recorded her second goal of the night just three minutes later to make it 5-2.

Lyndsi Butler added an insurance goal midway through the second half off a feed by Tiffany Yoder, and Kenner earned her second goal of the match with a thunderous shot past Berlin keeper Laura Beachley from the right side.

Berlin came back for one final score, as Suder scored another goal with just two minutes left in the match.

Trisha Kamp finished with a pair of assists for the Huskies, who had a 38-15 advantage in shots on goal.

The Northern junior varsity won the preliminary match, 3-0, after having played the Berlin jayvees to a scoreless tie the previous week. The Huskies got goals from Laura Costa, Amy Brenneman, and Carissa Kamp, with an assist by Brenneman. Goalkeeper Terah Sines turned away seven shots for the Huskies, while Kayla Schrock was credited with 12 saves for the jayvee Mountaineers. The win upped the NHS jayvees' record to 3-1-1.

The Northern girls will play at Fort Hill on Monday and travel to Westmar next Thursday.

Ram Golfers Split With Keyser, Down Allegany

Southern High School's golf team got in three outings over recent days in preparation for this afternoon's 4 p.m. tee-off against Northern High at the Oakland Golf Club in the Garrett County Championship Tournament. The Rams fell Tuesday, Oct. 2, to high-flying Keyser by 18 strokes, rebounded Monday to down the Golden Tornado by one stroke, then hammered Allegany by 46 strokes Tuesday. The action gives the Rams an outstanding 37-7 record.

The Rams' first match at Keyser, hosted by one of the top teams in West Virginia, resulted in a 143-161 Golden Tornado victory. Rajesh Shenoy and Ian Tysinger both carded even-par 34s to pace the hosts, while SHS's individual scores were not available.

Southern returned the favor Monday in downing the visiting Golden Tornado in a nail-biter 168-169. Matt Skidmore's low-medal 36 paced the Rams, while Nathan Swartzentruber recorded a 40 and Travis Friend shot a 41. Brad Yutzy's 37 led Keyser.

Skidmore took low-medalist honors for the second straight match as SHS crushed visiting Allegany Tuesday, 157-203. Rounding out the four-member Ram team scores were Swartzentruber's 38, Friend's 40, and Natalie Winter's 42. Keefe Kaylor and Jessica Jewell each posted 48s for the Campers.

Today's showdown with the Huskies, which tees off at 4 p.m. in Oakland, brings the regular season to a close for both squads. Southern will send five golfers, Swartzentruber, Skidmore, Friend, Andrew Feather, and Winter, to the Maryland State Championship Tournament in College Park on Oct. 22-33. See the Letters to the Editor section for details on where donations can be forwarded to the team to help finance the trip.

GC HIGH SCHOOL GOLF CROWN ON LINE TODAY — The Garrett County High School Golf Championship Tournament will tee off at 4 p.m. today, Thursday, Oct. 11, at the Oakland Golf Club, as Southern High School and Northern High square off for the mountaintop's bragging rights. The Southern Rams shown above, kneeling from the left, are Travis Sanders, Robbie DeWitt, Travis Friend, A.J. Bender, and Matt Skidmore. Standing are head coach Jeff Friend, Natalie Winter, Jared Feather, Nathan Swartzentruber, Andrew Feather, Evan Thayer, and assistant coach Alan Skidmore. The Northern Rams who competed in the WMIL Tournament last month are pictured below. Kneeling are Andrew Hady, Michael Bergstrom, and Micah Plevyak. Standing are Jason Rice, Mark Bergstrom, and Ryan Evans. Not shown are NHS golfers Mark Roberts, Willie Rock, Ben Hannibal, Ben Margroff, and head coach Harv Speicher.

SENTINELS STYMIE NHS NETTERS AGAIN — An otherwise perfect season for the Northern High School varsity volleyball team has been slightly tarnished by two defeats at the hands of the top-ranked Fort Hill Sentinels. The Huskies dropped a 3-1 homecourt match to their arch-rivals last night, despite some fine play by NHS head coach Linda Wengerd's troops. Amanda Frantz (#20) is shown above going up for one of two kills she tallied in addition to her 11 attacks, as teammate Molly Wolf (#22) gets into position in the event of a successful Sentinel block. The 9-2 Huskies, second only to Fort Hill in the WMIL rankings, visit Allegany Monday evening.

Northern Netters Down Beall, But Fall To FH Second Time

The battle lines have been drawn for late October's WMIL volleyball playoffs as the league's top two teams, Northern High School and Fort Hill High, have met twice in the regular season. The 9-2 Huskies know who their big postseason rival will be, for after crushing Beall 3-1 Tuesday, they were downed 3-1 last night by Fort Hill for the second time in as many weeks.

Tuesday's match in Frostburg got under way with a 15-6 NHS win, Beall took Game 2 by a 15-5 margin, then Northern sealed the match with 16-14, 15-12 wins. Heather Lander paced the Huskies with 13 service points and one ace, while Molly Wolf added 11 points and Amanda Frantz recorded five kills. The Spartans were led by Sara Harris's 11 points and 10 points from Katie Sweene.

NHS's junior varsity took its match as well, recording a 15-7 opening victory, dropping the second game 15-12, and wrapping up with a 15-10 win. Kristi Garlitz tallied 11 service points and Valene Synder contributed seven. Amy Albright had nine points for the Spartans.

The Huskies got off to a slow start in last night's homecourt showdown with the Sentinels, losing Game 1 by a 15-4 tally, coming back to take the second game 15-10, but dropping the final pair 15-12 and 15-11. Christi Flockhart led NHS with nine service points and 11 attacks, Frantz had 11 attacks and two kills, Nicole Sisler recorded 10 attacks and one kill, and Lander contributed eight service points. Fort Hill's Lauren Whitacre had 16 service points and teammate Robyn Waltz handed out 27 assists. The Sentinels improved their record to 10-1.

The Huskies' JV squad took its first contest 15-8, but dropped the next two 15-10 and 15-2. Lauren Wiley and Jamie Livengood tallied eight points apiece for Northern. Samantha Deter had 16 service points for the Sentinels.

Northern visits Allegany Monday and Bishop Walsh Thursday.

Garrett's Woes Continue With Losses To Beaver, Butler, ACM

It's turning out to be a long season for the Garrett Community College volleyball team, as the Lakers' record dropped to 1-15 after three straight defeats this week at the hands of Beaver Community College, Butler CC, and Allegany College of Maryland.

Beaver took Friday's opening triangular match from Garrett in a 2-0 sweep on game scores of 30-13 and 30-18. Mimi Harvey paced the Lakers with four service points and two aces, Lauren Stillwagon was a perfect 29-for-29 on sets with two assists, and Laura Johnson was 14-for-15 on the attack with four kills.

Home team Butler downed GCC 2-1 that same afternoon, as Garrett fell 30-23 in the first game, rebounded for a 30-21 win, but was polished off in a 15-8 finale. Johnson recorded a team-high 11 points, going 30-for-35 on spikes with six kills and 14-for-16 from the service line with three aces. Harvey tallied eight points on a 12-for-13 serving performance with three aces, and going 12-for-14 on the attack with two kills. DeWitt was 5-for-7 on spikes with two kills and 11-for-11 on sets with an assist, and Stillwagon had four points, was 10-for-10 on serves with three aces, 42-for-42 on sets with seven assists, and 5-for-5 on the attack with three kills.

Tuesday's homecourt match resulted in a 3-0 Allegany victory over the Lakers by scores of 30-27, 30-16, and 30-21. Marianne Unger had 10 service points with two aces to lead GCC, while Johnson had eight service points with two aces and seven kills. Keri Niner contributed six points, two aces, and four kills, and Stillwagon handed out 12 assists.

Garrett plays tonight at Penn State Fayette, then travels to Cecil CC for a Saturday triangular rounded out by Bergen CC.

tance phone service were the main concerns of the people that he had met.

Shap cited Garrett Community College, Garrett County Health Department, and Allegany County's Allconet network as examples of local initiatives already providing the area with improved telecommunication services.

Jim Hinebaugh, director of economic development for Garrett County, said that Shap "has taken a very logical approach" in accessing the area's needs and concerns.

Shap's first step in improving the area's services, Hinebaugh told the commissioners, will be to develop a "local area network" (LAN). A reliable LAN is needed in the area to create a "backbone" that residents can "plug" into to meet their many telecommunication needs, said Hinebaugh.

Shap's plans for the next two months include more meetings with local leaders, as well as meetings with local Internet service providers and cable and long distance service providers to hear their needs and concerns, and with the Maryland Technology Development Corporation (TEDCO) to determine the county's position in the eReadiness Study currently being developed. He is also developing materials for the county's participation in the Maryland Tech Showcase that will be held in Baltimore in December.

Ram Netters' Streak Continues With Sweeps Of Knights, 'Cats

It's been a long time coming, but the Southern High School volleyball team appears to have jelled into a cohesive unit that runs head coach Sue Newton's offensive schemes to a "T," as the Rams' rolled to the sixth straight victory by sweeping Preston last Thursday, Oct. 4, and Westmar last night. SHS will get a true test of its ability Wednesday night when Fort Hill, the top team in western Maryland, pays a visit to Oakland.

Southern pulled out a narrow 16-14 win over Preston in its first game, but went on to thump the Knights 15-9 and 15-6 before a delighted home crowd. Holli Harris accumulated 16 service points to pace the Rams, and scored seven points via aces. Erin Frantz tallied nine points, three aces, and three kills, Kristen Rollman handed out nine assists, Alexis Storey recorded six kills, and Stephanie Niner added five assists.

Preston took the junior varsity contest, losing Game 1 15-3 but rebounding to take the next two 15-12 and 15-10. Andrea Ryan had a team-high 12 points and three aces for Southern.

The Rams all but declawed the Wildcats last night in Lonaconing, running away with the match by game tallies of 15-2, 15-4, and 15-5. Frantz put 11 service points on the board, and Harris added 10 points and three kills. Rollman had a Ram-high 14 assists. Nicole Fazenbaker had four points for the struggling hosts, who fell to 1-10.

Southern's JV triumphed in a 15-10, 15-10 sweep. Megan Pike had 12 points for SHS, and Carla Lewis and Erin Titus had five points each for Westmar.

The Rams will have to focus on a visit to Berkeley County for Saturday's Martinsburg Tournament before they go after the upset of the year Wednesday against Fort Hill. The homecourt match with the Sentinels begins with JV play at 6 p.m., followed by the varsity showdown at 7:30 p.m. ison taking first place in 17:28. He was followed by Andy Gleason and Robbie Goetz.

Craig Conroy and Keenan Shaffer were fourth and fifth, respectively, for the Rams, with times of 18:19 and 19:01. Nathan Rodeheaver was seventh and Jason Weeks placed ninth.

In the recent Abe Everhart Invitational hosted by Uniontown, the Southern girls placed eighth among 17 teams, with Melissa Durst crossing the finish line in 12th place. Her time was 21:26. Natalie Domenick finished 30th in 23:04, and Emily Cosner and Stephanie DiSimone were 54th and 58th. There were over 400 in the race.

The Southern boys placed 13th as a team, with Craig Conroy leading the pack by finishing 43rd overall. Jason Weeks and Tom Crozier finished 71st and 72nd, respectively. There were over 500 in the competition.

The Rams will host the Western Maryland Interscholastic League championship next Thursday.

Hunting Charges Levied Against Oakland Men

A three-week investigation by the Natural Resources Police resulted in the filing of several wildlife violations against a pair of Oakland men this week, according to an NRP spokesperson.

Michael Craig Ford, 41, and Ray Blane Hershman, 29, were initially arrested in West Virginia on Sept. 15 for illegally killing deer. At that time they reportedly confessed to having killed deer in West Virginia in the fall of 2000 and transporting them to a Maryland check-in station, where they allegedly claimed the deer were taken legally during Maryland's muzzleloader season. Mounts of a nine-point buck and an eight-point buck have been seized in Maryland.

Ford faces charges of conspiracy, two counts of false entry in a public record, importing illegal game, and two counts of possessing illegally mounted game.

Hershman is charged with one count each of importing illegal game, false entry in a public record, and conspiracy.

The men are both scheduled to appear for a preliminary hearing in Garrett County District Court. The potential maximum penalty for each violation is: importing illegal game, $1,000 fine; false entry in a public record, three years in jail or $1,000; conspiracy, $1,500; and possession of illegally mounted game, $1,500.

CITIZEN SOLDIERS OF THE LATEST "GREATEST GENERATION," representatives of the Oakland and Cumberland detachments of the Maryland Army National Guard, EnforWest, 121st Engineer Battalion, are scheduled to take part in this year's Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade this Saturday afternoon, Oct. 13. Guard soldiers will also be operating a functional mobile field kitchen and an educational "bunker" all day Saturday along Third Street to give citizens of all ages the opportunity to experience a slice of military life. There will be a number of military items and vehicles to view, including the 11-ton Armored Personnel Carrier (M113) shown above. (These plans are subject to change depending on our local Guard unit's assignments.)

Apple Butter Sold By Local Church

Members of Chestnut Grove United Methodist Church at 8 Virts Road in Swanton will be making apple butter on Saturday, Oct. 13.

Persons wishing to purchase some apple butter may contact any member of the church. Prices will be $3 a pint, $5 a quart, and $18 a gallon.

All proceeds from the apple butter sales will benefit the church's building fund.

For more information, persons may contact Lenora M. Davis at 301-359-9926.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

1st. Lt. Brian McCroskey was promoted to the rank of captain in the U.S. Army on August 1. McCroskey was commissioned as an officer after graduating from Frostburg State University.

He currently serves as a platoon leader in Bravo Company, 3rd Battalion, 75th Ranger Regiment, in Fort Benning, Ga. This is McCroskey's second tour with the Rangers. During his first tour, he participated in combat operations in Somalia, where he was wounded during a raid in which two Blackhawk helicopters were shot down.

Rangers are an elite special operations/direct action assault force. They are trained for infiltration and exfiltration by land, sea, and air. Raids, recovery of personnel and special equipment, and airfield seizures are typical Ranger missions.

McCroskey's military education includes: the Ranger course, airborne school, jumpmaster school, basic military mountaineering course, and the infantry officer's basic course.

McCroskey is the son of Joe and Debbie McCroskey of Oakland. He lives in Columbus, Ga., with his wife Jodi and son Seth.

Durst Named President Of State Board

Rodney Durst, member of the Garrett County Board of Education, was recently elected president of the Maryland Association of Boards of Education for 2001-2002.

The state's 24 school boards, plus the State Board of Education, belong to the association, which provides in-service training for school board members and represents them on public education issues in Annapolis and Washington.

Durst has been a Garrett County school board member since 1988 and a member of MABE's Board of Directors since 1998.

AG FLY-IN MOVED TO GARRETT AIRPORT — The annual Autumn Glory Fly-In will take place at the Garrett County Airport near McHenry this Sunday, Oct. 14, from 11 a.m. to dusk. Fly-In regulars should note the new location of the event. This year's Fly-In will feature a variety of antique aircraft, including the classic 1941 Stearman, shown above, belonging to Gortner resident Jason Snyder, who will be offering scenic airplane rides. Also on the event slate are displays of state police helicopter Trooper 5 and other emergency services aircraft (if available), and food concessions. The Garrett County Airport is located along Airport Road, just off Bumble Bee Road between Kelso Road and the McHenry solid waste satellite site. For further information on the Fly-In, persons may call Carolyn Hill of the Garrett Aviation Service at 301-387-4100.

OCTOBER is Let's Talk Month
The Garrett County Teen Pregnancy Prevention Coalition and the Garrett Youth Council
encourage teens and parents to talk about things that really matter like love, sex, and values. If you are unsure how to start a conversation, try this tried and true tip from parents and talk to each other.

Listen, Really Listen.

"My folks never talked to me and I got a lot of wrong information about sex from my friends. Ilwant to guide my kids — teach them the facts and let them know my values about sex and other topics. I also want to know what is on their mind. The best way to get my message across is to listen to what my kids have to say too!"

Try this:
- Show your child you are interested in talking by stopping what you are doing. Sit down together.
- Ask questions and encourage your child to ask questions. You might even say "That's a good question." or I'm glad you told me about that." or "No question is silly. I'm here to help."
- Set guidelines for good communication. Say there will be no yelling. Allow each person to finish what he or she was saying before jumping in with comments.

Today we often hear the term "road rage", not a pleasant term, but a reality that is symbolic of the age in which we live. It appears that the impatience resulting from the stress of daily life is taking its toll...turning average people into snarling maniacs. What is the answer? Perhaps the key lies in what we do before we turn the key. Daily Bible reading and prayer are necessities to a sane society. Without them we lose our sense of serenity. In Matthew 6:32-33, the Lord Himself establishes our priorities and provides reassurance for our lives..."Do not be anxious (in earthly matters)... But seek first His kingdom and His righteousness, and all these things shall be yours as well."

Worship regularly to keep your spirit in touch with God and tune Him in with prayer each day before you turn the key.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE LIMITS OF NEIGHBORLINESS

Oct. 14, 2001

Background Scripture:
Luke 10:25-37.
Devotional Reading:
Deuteronomy 15:7-11.

"And behold, a lawyer stood up to question him..."

It is significant that this question was posed by someone who approached "eternal life" from a legalistic standpoint. "Teacher, what shall I do to inherit eternal life." It is a straight-forward question and Jesus gives him a straight-forward question in return: "What is written in the law? How do you read?"

The lawyer's answer should have been understood even by non-legal minds: "You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart,...soul,...strength, and...mind; and your neighbor as yourself". And Jesus answered: "You have answered right; do this, and you will live". That could have been the end of it, but it wasn't.

"But he, desiring to justify himself, said to Jesus 'And who is my neighbor?'" Jesus could have replied, "What part of 'neighbor' don't you understand?", but the problem was not that the lawyer didn't understand, but that he desired "to justify himself". "Justify" is a legal term and it helps us to realize that this man wanted to prove his right to eternal life. In order to do that, he set out to limit his responsibility by trying to get a narrow definition of 'neighbor'.

What's The Limit?

Setting narrow limits to our responsibilities as Christians is a normal human reaction. The disciples also asked Jesus to set limits on forgiveness: "Lord, how often shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? As many as seven times?" (Mt.18:21,22). A legalist would have interpreted Jesus' answer as setting a limit of 490 times or "seventy times seven." Jesus does not set a limit, but expands it indefinitely. In his parable, he similarly refuses to set limits. The grace of God, which we are called to emulate, sets no limits.

Think of some of the limits we may hold on to. A priest and a Levite passed by and they did not respond to the victim. Their compassion was limited to specific times and places and this was not one of them. Don't condemn them too quickly: their reaction was the popular one. Helping a victim is often taboo in our world today. "Not getting involved" is a popular limit now, just as it was then.

Other limits are the ethnic and religious identity of the next person along on this road: a Samaritan. Just as the Jew disdained being in contact with Samaritans, so it was expected that a Samaritan would have nothing to do with a Jew. But, in this case, the man acted, not like a Samaritan, but as a child of God, a neighbor. (If it would help, instead of "Samaritan" read "atheist," "Moslem," "Hindu," or "Hari Krishna.")

A Couple Went Down To Waco

I have previously told this story here, but I will tell it again, because, like a parable, it has a timely point. A couple, friends of ours, was driving from Dallas to Waco and on the way their car had a blowout. The husband was physically incapacitated and the woman did not know how to change a tire. As they were pondering this, a car stopped just ahead of theirs. Their momentary relief dissolved when the occupants of the car, two bearded, unkempt young men, got out and started walking towards them. These men certainly were not within the limits wherein they would expect or even look for help.

To their surprise, however, the two young men changed their tire and, when offered "something for your trouble," smiled and refused before driving away. 'Would I have stopped and helped them?' the wife asked herself. The answer, she knew, was certainly 'no, never'.

After all, there are 'reasonable' limits, aren't there?. But Jesus made it very clear, both for the lawyer and for us, that there are no limits to neighborliness, because God himself sends his rain upon our just and unjust neighbors (Mt. 5:45).

TV PIPELINE

Princess Hathaway starred in series

By Taylor Michaels

Anne Hathaway

Q: Isn't Anne Hathaway, who stars in The Princess Diaries, the same actress who played the daughter of Jon Tenney in a Fox series? Did she change her name? –E. Gordon, Delray Beach, Fla.

A: Yes and no. Brooklyn native Hathaway, who turns 19 next month, used that same name (her real one) when she co-starred with Jon Tenney in Fox's critically acclaimed but dismally rated Get Real during the 1999-2000 season.

Q: I recently caught the Ally McBeal rerun where she goes to the prom with Malcolm. What was the name of the song he sang? –Shelle Manning, Whitmore Lake, Mich.

A: Josh Groban, who played Malcolm, sang "You're Still You," which will be on his CD scheduled for release next month. You can download and listen to the song at the wbr.com website.

Q: How long was Captain Kangaroo on the air? When did it premiere and on what network? –Christopher Fancher via e-mail.

A: Bob Keeshan first pulled out his keys as the gentle Captain on Oct. 3, 1955, the same day that the original Mickey Mouse Club premiered. Over his 29 seasons on CBS, Keeshan firmly kept the show a safe harbor for young viewers, teaching kindness and morality via stories and skits.

In the early '80s, as CBS began more seriously developing its early morning news show, Captain Kangaroo was trimmed to half an hour, then moved to a weekend slot. On Dec. 8, 1984, the show ended its remarkable run. Keeshan, now 74, remains a tireless advocate for children's TV and in recent years produced videos to help parents choose programming wisely.

Q: Watching Tour of Duty, I am struck by how realistic the settings seem. Where did they film it? –Harry Ogden, Newton, N.J.

A: In Hawaii and California. Reams of general information on most aspects of the show are available online at www.tourofdutyfanpage.com.

Q: My friends insist I am nuts, but I say back in the mid-'60s there was a Saturday morning show called Whirlybirds about two helicopter pilots. Am I correct? –Emily Johnson via e-mail.

A: Yes. This syndicated half-hour series, which premiered in 1957 and was aimed at young viewers, was a contemporary Western that pretty much substituted helicopters for horses. Kenneth Tobey and Craig Hill starred as partners in a Southern California company called Whirlybirds Inc., and they hired out for all sorts of rescue missions.

IN FOCUS

Bill Kurtis celebrates the 10th anniversary of A&E Network's Investigative Reports on Tuesday.

To commemorate the milestone, this week's episode, Death Penalty on Trial, devotes two hours to the issue.

Given the irreversible flaw in the argument for capital punishment – after DNA testing, 90 death row inmates have been freed – the show examines whether the justice system should continue its use.

SATURDAY

Nathan Lane plays a gay nightclub owner who tries to play it straight in The Birdcage, Saturday on ABC.

Evangelist To Hold Meetings In Oakland

Evangelist David Newberry, Parkersburg, W.Va.,

will be in Oakland Oct. 21 through 24 for a series of meetings at the Church of Christ.

His topics for these meetings are "Fighting Giants" on Sunday at 9:30 a.m., "Jesus is Wonderful" at 10:30 a.m., "What You Need, But Don't Deserve" at 6 p.m., "Jesus is the Answer" on Monday at 7 p.m., "The Gospel is Good New" on Tuesday at 7 p.m., and "The Christian Life is the Best Life" on Wednesday at 7 p.m.

The public is invited to attend. After Sunday morning worship, a potluck dinner will be held at 1300 Memorial Drive, Oakland, one mile from the intersection of Route 219 and Memorial Drive on the right side of the road.

Newberry has preached in Ohio and West Virginia, and is now preaching for the Lubeck Church of Christ in Lubeck, W.Va. He has a minor degree in Bible, a major degree in speech, and a master's degree in counseling. He spent seven years in Italy as a missionary, and has made 13 trips to Guyana, South America.

He is an adjunct professor in speech and Bible and advance program (adult ed) at Ohio Valley College in Parkersburg.

New Information On Web Site For Disabled Persons

J. Charles Fox, secretary of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR), recently announced that DNR's web site now includes new information for locating facilities and programs accessible to people with disabilities on Maryland's public lands.

"Gov. Glendening is committed to providing recreational opportunities for all Marylanders," Fox said. "We have consolidated loads of information on fun recreational activities into a single area for people with disabilities." At www.dnr.state.md.us/accessforall, people can retrieve accessibility information on all the state parks and forests, as well as on specific facilities, including campsites, cabins, fishing piers, trails, picnic areas, and playgrounds.

The new part of the web site includes an application for the State Forest and Park Service Access Maryland Pass, which offers free day-use admission for people with disabilities. It also identifies accessible areas for outdoor sports and wildlife observation and includes photos of accessible sties.

Future plans for the site include detailed maps of designated hunting areas for persons with special permits. The site is accessible for individuals with visual impairments or learning disabilities, and meets the Federal Universal Electronic Access guidelines.

Because of grants from the Access Maryland Program, administered by the Governor's Office for Individuals with Disabilities, DNR has been making state parks more accessible to all citizens for more than a decade. Fishing piers and boating docks, playgrounds, and campgrounds, including tent platforms, have been built using the Americans with Disabilities Act Accessibility to Outdoor Recreation Guidelines and universal design concepts. There are all-terrain wheelchairs available to be borrowed at some parks for beach and trail use.

Persons wanting more information may contact the department's Americans with Disabilities Act coordinator, Debbie Heller, at 410-260-8087.

Maryland Forests Association Noting 25th Anniversary

Managing Our Forest Resources — Rights, Responsibilities & Privileges is the theme of this year's MFA 2001 Annual Meeting and 25th Anniversary Celebration, set for October 19-20 at Sheraton Four Points Hotel, Hagerstown. The association is a statewide, nonprofit organization comprised of forest landowners, forest resource professionals, hunt clubs, businesses in the forest products industry, and other interested individuals, agencies, and businesses. Founded in 1976, MFA is dedicated to promoting the maintenance of a healthy and productive forest land base.

Keynote speaker for Friday night's award banquet will be Douglas W. MacCleery of the USDA Forest Service. Through a slide presentation titled "What on Earth Have We Done to Our Forests?," MacCleery will trace the history of our forests and man's impact upon the resource.

Saturday's educational sessions, titled "Managing for Healthy and Productive Forests," will include talks on the historical changes that have occurred to forest soils, insects and disease threats, and the relations between forests organisms and their environment, all from the perspective of how these elements affect the forest resource. Speakers include Carl Robinette, USDA NRCS; Dr. Robert Rabaglia, forest entomologist, MD Department of Agriculture; and Dr. Ray Hicks, professor of forest ecology at West Virginia University. Saturday's program will conclude with a luncheon presentation, "Getting the Most Out of Your Woodlot," by Dr. James C. Findley from Pennsylvania State University.

Preceding the banquet on Friday afternoon, there will be a workshop on AgroForestry at the Western Maryland Research and Education Center, south of Hagerstown in Keedysville, from 3 to 4:30 p.m. The two-day event will also include the annual silent auction, 25th anniversary celebration, awards ceremonies, and annual business meeting. CFE and CEC credits will be available to licensed professional foresters and Maryland Master Loggers.

Designed to cover MFA's broad spectrum of members and guests, forest landowners, foresters, recreationists, loggers, and mill owners are all guaranteed to gain new insights into the management of forest resources, according to event organizers. The event is open to nonmembers. Preregistration is required. Persons may contact the Maryland Forests Association office at 301-895-5369 or via e-mail at mfa@hereintown.net. Meeting details are on the MFA web site at http://mdforests.org/AM2001.htm. There is also a registration form available at http://mdforests.org/2001FORM.htm.

CIVIC CLUB RAFFLING QUILT — The GFWC Civic Club of Oakland is selling raffle tickets for this quilt, a "Miss Sadie's Dream" pattern, on display at the Book Mark'et and Antique Mezzanine, South Second Street. Raffle tickets can be purchased for $1 each at the Book Mark'et until tomorrow, Friday, Oct. 12, when the quilt will be moved to the Oakland National Guard Armory, Eighth and High streets. It will be displayed at the Armory throughout the three-day annual Civic Club of Oakland Antique Show and Sale until a 3 p.m. drawing, Sunday, Oct. 14. Proceeds from the quilt raffle and antique show have netted over $13,000 in past years, which the Civic Club distributes to local charities and non-profit organizations.

Knowledge One Of Best Weapons In Battling Domestic Violence

by Peggy Nelson
Coordinator, Garrett County Family Violence Coalition

October is Domestic Violence Awareness Month. One of the best ways to combat domestic violence in our community is to have a realistic understanding of the pervasiveness of the problem in American society today.

Facts about Domestic Violence

- One out of every four American women (26 percent) report that they have been physically abused by a husband or boyfriend at some point in their lives.
- Every 15 seconds a woman is battered in the United States by her husband, boyfriend, or live-in partner.
- Women are 85 to 95 percent of the victims of intimate violence.
- Violence by an intimate partner accounts for about 21 percent of the violent crime experienced by women and about 2 percent if the violence sustained by males.
- Domestic violence is the leading cause of serious injury to American women between ages 15 and 44, more common than automobile accidents, muggings, and rapes combined.
- Between 50 and 70 percent of men who abuse their female partners also abuse their children.
- At least 3.3 million children between the ages of 3 and 19 are at risk of exposure to parental violence every year.
- One-third of high school and college students experience violence in an intimate relationship during their dating years.

What is Domestic Violence?

- Abusing a partner physically, emotionally or sexually is called domestic violence. It is also called "battering."
- Battering is physical force used to control or hurt another person. Batterers hit, slap, kick, push, or sexually assault (rape) the other person.
- Emotional abuse is also a form of violence. Threats, shouting, name-calling, and other verbal abuse are used to frighten the other person.

Domestic violence isn't normal; in fact, battering is against the law. For assistance in dealing with an ongoing or suspected domestic violence situation, persons may call the Dove Center's 24 hour-crisis hotline at 301-334-9000 or 1-800-656-4673. For any emergency in progress involving injury or potential for injury, call 9-1-1.

Church Schedules Bazaar And Lunch

The women of Zion Lutheran Church, located along Rt. 219 in Accident, are sponsoring a fall bazaar on Saturday, Oct. 20, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Lunch will also be served during this time.

Arts and crafts, quilts, comforters, woven rugs, holiday items, baked goods, homemade soup, and homemade sauerkraut will be for sale.

Plenty of parking is available behind the church. Handicapped-accessible entrances are located in the front of the church.

Three FSU Elementary Education Programs Win National Recognition

Frostburg State University's three elementary education programs — Early Childhood/ElementaryEducation, Elementary Education, and the FSU Hagerstown Center's Master of Arts in Teaching — have all received national recognition by the Association for Childhood Education International, an important step toward the university's accreditation by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education.

"We are positively thrilled," said Dr. Susan Arisman, dean of FSU's College of Education.

FSU was one of only two institutions to achieve national recognition so far under ACEI's new standards, according to an ACEI official. FSU was one of seven colleges and universities to be part of a pilot project that helped shape the ACEI recognition process by providing examples of quality performance standards. FSU was commended for its participation in the process.

"It's a more arduous process to meet the new standards," said Dr. Mary Kay Finan, coordinator of FSU's N-8 (elementary) programs and co-coordinator of the NCATE accreditation process. But the elementary faculty of the Department of Educational Professions agreed to it because of the benefits to their teacher candidates, she said.

ACEI's new standards are now performance-based, which means educational institutions are now judged on how their teacher candidates perform. Previous standards were based on the content of the courses offered, Finan said.

"It's a shift from what we teach to what students learn," Arisman said. "The process has taken a good program and made it better."

FSU's teacher candidates will have a "leg up" after completing a performance-based program, according to Finan. The new Maryland School Performance Program will judge classroom teachers on how well their students perform, and FSU's new graduates are already familiar with the way performance is measured.

"It's very appropriate. It's the way the trend is going," she said.

FSU officials are particularly pleased that all three programs were recognized at the same time, since each was evaluated and judged separately.

"We're all working toward the same goal, to have a positive impact on student learning and to produce excellent teachers," Finan said.

FSU had been contacted by about a dozen other institutions from all over the country asking for guidance in their own quests to meet ACEI's new standards.

Finan credited the efforts of all of the College of Education's elementary faculty.

"A lot of faculty members contributed to this success. It really was a team effort of the elementary faculty," she said.

The Master of Arts in Teaching, one of FSU's responses to address the state's teacher shortage, is a program designed to attract career-changers to teaching. It is only offered through FSU's Hagerstown Center, although some Allegany County-based students are now able to do their student teaching in Allegany County.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• A proverb of unknown origin states, "The length of a piece of wood can only be too short on one end."

• Many common household products are useful for far more than their manufacturers give them credit for. Jell-O, that all-American jiggly dessert, makes an excellent hair gel. Canned whipped topping can be used as a shaving cream. Coca-Cola can help get your toilet bowl sparkling clean. If you cut yourself while shaving, dab on a bit of Chap Stick to stop the bleeding. To keep squirrels out of a pole-mounted birdfeeder, attach a Slinky to the bottom of the feeder and let it hang down around the pole — squirrels won't be able to climb up to steal the birdseed.

• How's the weather this month in your part of the country? It may be a sign of things to come — an old saying goes, "Much rain in October, much wind in December."

• A famous and oft-quoted line from Sherlock Holmes is "How often have I said to you that when you have eliminated the impossible, whatever remains, however improbable, must be the truth?" However, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle didn't come up with that one himself; he took it from a story by Edgar Allan Poe, another pioneer of the detective genre.

• Just as bears do, many frogs hibernate. A frog will burrow down into the mud at the bottom of a pond and, not being able to use its lungs to breathe, it will absorb the oxygen in the water through its skin.

• Everywhere you go these days, you see people carrying around with them bottles of water. I wonder if they realize how much money they're spending? At $1.49 for a 9-ounce bottle of Evian, a gallon would cost $21.19.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Oct. 19, 1781, British General Charles Lord Cornwallis surrenders at Yorktown, Va., bringing to an end the last major battle of the Revolutionary War. Although skirmishes and limited military actions continued in the colonies for more than a year, George Washington had achieved the inconceivable with victory at Yorktown — he had won American independence from one of the most powerful nations on earth.

• On Oct. 15, 1924, Anna Pavlova, the most celebrated dancer of her time, leaves her home in London for a final world tour. Pavlova was once the prima ballerina of the Imperial Russian Ballet.

• On Oct. 18, 1931, Thomas Edison, who acquired an astounding 1,093 patents in his lifetime, dies at his home in New Jersey. He was 84 years old.

• On Oct. 21, 1959, the Solomon R. Guggenheim Museum of contemporary art opens in New York City. Designed by acclaimed American architect Frank Lloyd Wright, the modern structure marked a bold departure from traditional museum design.

• On Oct. 16, 1964, The People's Republic of China detonates its first nuclear bomb at the Lop Nor test site. The successful explosion makes China the world's fourth nuclear power, after the United States, the Soviet Union and Great Britain.

• On Oct. 20, 1973, after 15 years of construction, the Sydney Opera House is officially opened by Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II. Famous for its geometric roof shells, the structure contains several large auditoriums and presents an average of 3,000 events a year to an estimated 2 million people.

• On Oct. 17, 1989, the deadliest U.S. earthquake since 1902 strikes the San Francisco Bay area in California. The quake, measuring 7.1 on the Richter scale, is witnessed on live television by millions of people watching the third game of the World Series of baseball.

Antiques

by Ralph and Terry Kovel

Orphan Annie first appeared in comic books in 1924. She has since been on the radio, in Broadway musicals and in the movies. During the past seven decades, there have been many books, dolls, toys and games devoted to Annie. She is very popular with collectors.

There have been many dolls made to look like Orphan Annie. The first one was made of oilcloth in 1926 and had a blue-and-white polka-dot dress. Almost all of the later dolls wore the famous red dress that has been almost her only dress since 1927. Most dolls have eyes with large pupils.

One unusual, unmarked doll was made of composition material, probably by Ralph A. Freundlich Inc. The company made dolls for mail-order houses and dime stores in the 1930s and '40s. A 14-inch composition doll with jointed arms and cloth legs sold last year for $230 at a Randy Inman auction in Waterville, Maine.

Q. I know people save McDonald's drinking glasses and Happy Meal toys. I have some Dairy Queen promotional toys. Do people collect DQ items?

A. Fast-food toys, glasses and other items are all collectible. The first Dairy Queen opened in 1940, eight years before the first McDonald's. Dairy Queen issued a set of collectible drinking glasses in 1976. It offered its first promotional toys in the 1990s. That's more than a decade after Burger King and McDonald's started offering kids' meals with toys. Dairy Queen didn't always tie its toys to popular movies or cartoon characters. That way, it avoided paying licensing fees. Save your Dairy Queen glasses and toys. They will grow in value.

Paw's corner

by Sam Mazzotta

Protect Paws from Temperature Extremes

Q. You have an informative column that I enjoy, since I am the owner of a dog and a cat. Could you please mention as a reminder that sidewalks and black tops can "fry an egg" under the hot sun? Why do people walk their dogs on them on a hot day? I wonder if they would go barefoot on that hot sidewalk?

A. Thanks for telling them for me! Although fall is upon us, I feel it is important to keep readers' minds on their pets' paws.

Hot weather is still an issue in some southern states, so keep your pet's well-being in mind. If the sidewalk is hot, let him or her walk along the grass embankment between the sidewalk and the road. Or, get your neighbors' permission to walk the dog along the outer edge of their yards. Better yet, walk the dog in early morning or late evening.

Summer is not the only problem season for pets outdoors. Wintertime brings a whole new set of hazards.

Icy sidewalks, sand and chunks of ice can damage a dog or cat's pads; sand or snow-clearing chemicals can irritate them.

While heavy fur helps protect animals from bitter cold weather, take outside temperatures into account before taking your dog on its daily walk. Animals with thin coats will get chilled easily.

Consider purchasing a cloak for your dog from the pet store. For smaller dogs, booties for each paw, while silly-looking, will add warmth and protect their tiny paws from cold damage. Medium- to large-size dogs don't usually need booties, but you must check each paw after every walk for cuts or scrapes, and rinse away sand or chemicals with cool water.

In really cold climates, check with your vet for the best way to protect your pet from the extreme temperatures.

GCC Sets Varied Body Awareness Course Schedule

Several hands-on bodywork and massage courses have been scheduled for coming weeks by Garrett Community College's Continuing Education and Training Division. The course titles are "Reiki I," "Pathology I: Indications and Contraindications for Swedish Massage Therapy," "T'ai Chi Ch'uan," and "Shiatsu Techniques II."

Reiki I is set for Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 20-21, from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily. The course is an experiential training course in a complementary holistic technique that originated in Japan. The course includes oral history of the Usui system of reiki, instruction on performing hands-on reiki techniques for seif and others, discussion of the precepts, and exchanges and practice. Upon completion of this course participants will be a certified reiki practitioners.

Reiki I is open to current GCC massage therapy students, the general public, and practicing massage therapists as continuing education. Massage therapists will earn 12 Category A Continuing Education CEUs, and must provide proof of licensure at the time of registration.

Pathology I: Indications and Contraindications for Swedish Massage Therapy will meet on Saturday, Oct. 27, 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. This seminar is designed to introduce practitioners to the conditions and diseases which indicate or contraindicate the use of Swedish massage techniques. Participants will review the effects of each of the Swedish massage strokes, and discuss their impact on pathology presented by the client.

Pathology I is open to current GCC massage therapy students and practicing massage therapists as continuing education. Massage therapists will earn six Category A Continuing Education CEUs, and must provide proof of licensure at the time of registration.

T'ai chi ch'uan will be presented Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 17-18, from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. T'ai chi is a form of non-competitive exercise which has been practiced in China for centuries, and is thought to develop the internal strength of the body while minimizing the external force of the muscles. In this course, students will learn the principles of t'ai chi and participate in the slow, circular movements. Benefits may include body alignment, circulation, release of muscular tension, suppleness, and improved concentration, breathing, mental attitude and awareness. An integrated sequential and precise approach to harmonizing the body, mind, and breathing for optimum health, sport, and movement, t'ai chi has been described as an excellent cardiovascular exercise and a valuable movement therapy for people with back problems and joint disorders. The very specific system of mind/body awareness may be incorporated into daily life.

T'ai chi is open to the general public, and to practicing massage therapists as continuing education. Massage therapists will earn eight Category A Continuing Education CEUs, and must provide proof of licensure at the time of registration.

Shiatsu Techniques II, an advanced course with prerequisites, will be offered on Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 27-28, from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Participants in this course will explore additional techniques and principles of shiatsu that can be integrated into their massage practice. The two-day seminar will cover topics including meridians, tsubos, and techniques to treat and diagnose the "hara." The course will explore techniques for facilitating pain relief and includes hands-on practice sessions. Specific areas of imbalance will be addressed such as carpal tunnel syndrome, plantar fasciitis, and headaches.

This course is open to students who have taken "Introduction to Shiatsu," and to practicing massage therapists as continuing education. Massage therapists will earn 12 Category A Continuing Education CEUs, and must provide proof of licensure at the time of registration.

For additional information on any of these course offerings, persons may phone 301-387-3088 or stop in at the Continuing Education and Training Division office, McHenry campus, Room 300. GCC is approved by the National Certification Board for Therapeutic Massage and Bodywork as a continuing education provider under Category A.

The Student Tech Squad

Editor's note: Each year 24 exemplary educators are honored as local Maryland Teachers of the Year, and are charged with serving as ambassadors for the profession and each of the outstanding teachers in their respective school systems. The September edition of "Maryland Classroom," a publication distributed to all educators in the state, is devoted to sharing the best practices of these premier educators.

Steve Cosner of Southern High School was named Garrett County's Teacher of the Year, and the following is his favorite-lesson-plan submission to this special edition of "Maryland Classroom."

STEVE COSNER
Southern High School
GC Teacher of Year

With the expansion of computer technology in our school and county, we now not only have to keep this equipment running, we also must be prepared to help teachers use it. As an electronics teacher, a technology resource teacher, and the system administrator for the school network, I find most days I'm asked many technology-related questions well before I even make it to my room in the morning — by students and staff alike.

So I've started using students as technology assistants throughout the building. Last year I created Southern Garrett's Student Tech Squad. The squad is a select group of students available throughout the day to perform repairs on PCs, help teachers with individual lessons, or serve as guest lecturers, teaching lessons on various computer uses and strategies. I even had a couple of these students lead teachers' after-school professional development activities.

The squad is also responsible for building, updating, and installing new equipment throughout the school, and keeping the computer labs working. The students are available to the teachers on a sign-out basis. Of course, while arrangements for technical assistance and classroom help are supposed to be made in advance, many times the students simply "come when called."

I have found true excitement among the squad members. They feel they're a part of the school outside of being students, and they take ownership of the equipment on which they work. It has been a tremendous asset to our school in many respects and has really helped my students grow — in their confidence, in their abilities, and in their people, troubleshooting, and customer service skills. The squad has also facilitated the integration of technology into all classrooms throughout our school.

Southern Band Participates In Two Competitions

The Southern Garrett Marching Band participated in two field show competitions on Saturday, first in the Westmar High School Marching Classic Invitational in Lonaconing, and then in the Preview of Champions, hosted by Allegany High School at Greenway Avenue Stadium in Cumberland.

The band, under the direction of Richard Clever, assisted by Duane Salisbury, finished second in the Group II division at Westmar, earning a score of 77.2. Allegany was first with a score of 83.45, while Johnstown, Pa., finished third with a score of 72.60. Central Martinsburg was the overall winner of the competition, scoring an 87.20.

Southern drum major Suzanne Gilbert earned the Best Drum Major specialty award.

The band upped its score slightly at the Preview of Champions, earning a 77.90 to finish third in Group II. Walkersville won the division with an 81.7, while Atholton High School finished second with a score of 81.55.

The Keyser High School band was the overall winner, earning a score of 86.0.

"This was our best show of the season," stated Clever. "It was a complete group effort. Greenway Avenue Stadium is a great place to perform, and our band rose to the occasion. We hope we can continue this trend.

"We also hope we have a large turnout at our own Western Maryland Tournament of Bands this Saturday," he added.

The Western Maryland TOB, held in conjunction with the Autumn Glory Festival, will get under way at 6 p.m. on Saturday at the SHS athletic field. At least nine bands are expected to participate.

Revival Slated For UM Church

REV. CLIFFORD SCHELL

The Southern Garrett Parish of the United Methodist Church will be holding revival services on October 19, 20, and 21 at Bethel United Methodist Church in Mountain Lake Park.

Rev. Clifford Schell will be holding the services at 7 p.m. each evening. Rev. Schell is the district superintendent of the Wesleyan District of the West Virginia Annual Conference.

Everyone is invited to attend. For more information, persons may call Janet Tichnell at 301-334-3034.

State Jobless Rate Increases, County's Drops

Confirming that the state's economy remains sound, Governor Parris N. Glendening has announced that Maryland's August unemployment rate remained a full point below the national rate. As expected, employment and labor force levels declined due to the end of summer employment, causing the unemployment rate to rise slightly from 3.8 percent in July to 3.9 percent in August.

Meanwhile, Garrett County's jobless rate dropped from 6.2 percent in July to 5.6 percent in August. The rate for August of last year was 6.5 percent.

"The state's economy remains fundamentally strong. Maryland continues to be among the national leaders as our unemployment rate continues to run a full percentage point lower than the nationwide level," said Governor Glendening. "With the recent tragedies, it is important for Marylanders to move forward and not let these events obscure the reality of Maryland's outstanding business climate and quality of life. We are taking aggressive steps to shore up the industries hardest hit in the wake of September 11 to ensure that the state's economy will continue to grow."

While the state's rate continued to be below the national rate, locally, more than half of the state's jurisdictions reported unemployment levels below the statewide average. Rates were as low as 2.3 percent in Montgomery County, 2.5 percent in Carroll and Talbot counties, 2.6 percent in Charles County, and 2.7 in Frederick County.

During August, employment levels declined by 37,240 people as seasonal positions in restaurants, amusement parks, hotels, outdoor maintenance/recreation programs, and membership organizations came to an end. The withdrawal of seasonal workers from the job market minimized the impact of this decline, leaving the number of unemployed virtually unchanged at 112,555 in August.

While seasonal reductions pared employment in a number of industries, upturns in manufacturing and education, coupled with hiring in food stores and business services, helped to accommodate workers returning from temporary layoffs, as well as those opting to remain in the job market following the cessation of their seasonal employment.

Town Hall

LOCH LYNN

- To correct an error in last week's town hall news, Ron Friend is not a candidate in the upcoming election on Nov. 5, as his term does not expire.
- Terms expire on Dec. 31, 2001, for council members Sheila O'Neil and Roger Shaffer. Both are seeking re-election in the November election. Other candidates for these two positions are Betty Wolford and Leland Hargrove.
- Voter registration has been extended through Oct. 19 at 4 p.m. Residents not yet registered to vote may do so at the election board located in the Garrett County courthouse. Anyone registering after this date will be eligible to vote in the 2002 election.

FRIENDSVILLE

- Another case of extensive vandalism at the Community Park has been reported to the police. The doors of the stage and restroom were kicked in and fixtures were damaged. The criminal investigation is ongoing. The mayor and town council unanimously approved a motion to prosecute to the fullest extent of the law anyone convicted for the vandalism of town-owned property.
- Julia Sines, Lucretia Sines, and Tim Nine have been appointed to the town's zoning board of appeals for one-year terms.
- It was noted that cat cages are available from the county animal control office in an attempt to alleviate the growing problem of stray cats in town. The county has waived the rental fee on the cages due to the severity of the problem. Local residents are urged to contact the animal control officer at 301-334-3553.
- The mayor and council donated $200 for the Halloween activity which is being sponsored by the PTO, RAD group, and Crime Watch on Oct. 26 for local children.

The next meeting of the mayor and town council is scheduled for Thursday, Oct. 18, at 7:30 p.m.

GIEC Slates Technology Conference

The new Garrett Information Enterprise Center (GIEC) has slated a Technology Connections Conference for Friday, Nov. 2, at Garrett Community College. The conference is designed to connect those working in information technology businesses across a five-state region with entrepreneurial training workshops, financial and technical resource providers, and government contracting opportunities. The event is open to technology-related business owners and their employees from Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and Ohio.

The Technology Connections Conference will feature over a dozen workshops facilitated by noted experts in entrepreneurial skills and technical resources, plus exhibits showcasing federal and state agencies, hardware and software providers, technical resource agencies, and financial resource organizations.

The keynote address will be presented by Dr. Phillip A. Singerman, executive director of the independent Maryland Technology Development Corporation, which was created by the state legislature to promote economic development through commercialization, development, and deployment of technology.

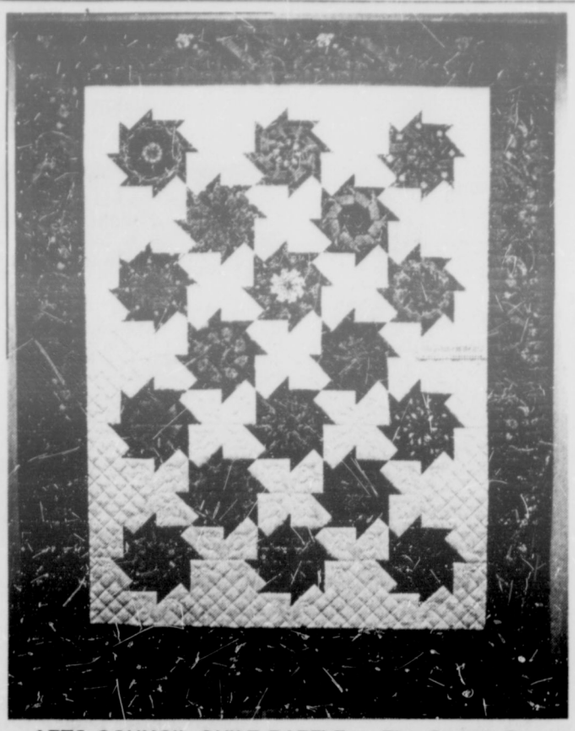
The conference has been endorsed by Senators Barbara Mikulski and Paul Sarbanes, who have jointly invited federal agencies to display information on federal and state contracting opportunities, and technical resources. Representatives of Mountain Maryland Ventures and Maryland's Department of Business and Economic Development will provide information on financial and technical resources available through their agencies. Other potential exhibitors include hardware and software vendors as well as technology related businesses, support agencies, and suppliers.

Those interested in being exhibitors who have not yet registered should contact Sandy Major immediately at 301-387-3167, as space is limited.

The event will also feature the introduction of the new Garrett Information Enterprise Center, scheduled to open in the spring of 2002. GIEC is designed to provide a low-cost supportive environment designed to help information technology businesses—both start-up and satellites of other businesses—grow by offering technologically equipped office space with high speed Internet connections. The center consists of 20 office areas ranging from 305 square feet to 1,254 square feet.

The Technology Connections Conference is being sponsored in part by an Entrepreneurial Training Grant from the Appalachian Regional Commission. Early registration discounts are available for those who register immediately. Conference registration details are on-line at the GIEC web site at www.giecworks.com or can be obtained by calling Sandy Major at 301-3873167.

For information about the Technology Connections Conference or GIEC, persons may contact Major at the number given above, or consult the center's web site, also given above.



ARTS COUNCIL QUILT RAFFLE — The Garrett County Arts Council is raffling off the Pinwheel Kaleidoscope-patterned quilt shown above to promote the local arts community. Oakland quilter Karen Rodeheaver put 400 hours into making the quilt, which will be relocated from the GCAC Art Gallery along Alder Street tomorrow, Friday, Oct. 12, to the council's three-day Heritage Craft Fest at Broad Ford Elementary School. Tickets are $1 each (or $5 for six tickets), and the winning ticket will be drawn at the event at 3:30 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 14. The Heritage Craft Fest features the works of 85 regional artists and a huge juried exhibit. Admission is free.

Registration Deadline For ACT Test Noted

College-bound high school students who want to take the ACT Assessment have two chances to register before the December 8 test date. The postmark registration deadline is Friday, Nov. 2. There is also a late registration postmark deadline on November 15 (an additional fee is required for late registration). Students can get information from their school counselor or register on-line at www.act.org.

ACT scores are accepted by virtually all colleges in the nation, including all Ivy League schools. The test fee is $24 ($27 in Florida). A student's ACT scores are considered by colleges for admissions and course placement along with several other factors, including high school GPA, college prep courses taken in high school, extracurricular activities, personal background, and other information.

To learn more about the ACT Assessment, including registration forms and test locations, students should contact their high school counselor or go to the ACT web site (www.act.org), which also offers useful tips, sample tests, and the opportunity to order test prep materials.

Book Club Sets Next Discussion: Stuck In Neutral

by Keela N. Pfaff, Ruth Enlow librarian

All teens who are interested in reading pop-ular young adult literature, talking with other teens, and having fun are invented to attend the next Ruth Enlow Library Teen Book Club meeting. On Saturday, Oct. 27, at 2 p.m. at the Oakland library, teens will be discussing Stuck in Neutral by Terry Trueman.

In this short, yet powerful novel, readers enter the mind of 14-year-old Shawn McDaniel. Like most boys his age, Shawn loves rock music, Frito Lays, and girls. He even loves the rain in his hometown of Seattle. Yet, no one else will ever know what Shawn enjoys because he has cerebral palsy, a condition robbing him of all muscle control. Shawn cannot talk, walk, or even focus his eyes.

Unable to communicate in any way, Shawn is viewed by other people as nothing but (in Shawn's own words) a "retard" or a "vegetable." As Shawn narrates his story, however, readers learn about his perfect memory, small joys, and the great love he feels for his family, even his father, whom Shawn suspects is thinking about killing him.

Though a loving father, Sydney McDaniel believes that Shawn's life is an endless torment. He cannot bear to watch the painful seizures attacking his son's body each day. Shawn's anxiety grows each day as he struggles to understand what his father is planning.

This gripping novel grabs readers from the beginning and does not let got go until the last page. It is certain to please teen readers and should make for a wonderful discussion.

Interested teens may stop by the Oakland library and pick up a copy of Stuck in Neutral. They may also call the library at 301-334-3996 for more information.

STUDENTS HAVE BEEN BUSY — Students at the Renaissance Early Learning Center have been very busy this fall experiencing people and places within the Oakland area. The students pictured above visited with Oakland mayor Asa McCain (in background), who gave them an educational tour of the Oakland Train Station. The students also visited the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad and learned how paramedics help the community. The Renaissance Early Learning Center, which provides educational/day-care services for children ages 3 to 5 years, is located along Third Street in Oakland.

Evening Class On Business Insurance Set

The Small Business Development Center at Garrett Community College will offer "Business Insurance, Requirements and Protection," beginning on Monday, Oct. 22. The class will run through October 29 from 6:30 to 9 p.m. on Monday evenings. The class will be taught by Rob Michael, owner of the State Farm Insurance Agency in Oakland.

Topics for the course include: 17 types of insurance available to business owners, insurance planning, choosing the right insurance, methods to avoid losses, the meaning of ratings, and methods to reduce costs.

For more information or to register, persons may call Sue at 301-387-3089 or Cathy at 301-387-3080.

Diabetes Cooking Course Scheduled

The Mary Browning Senior Center, Oakland, will host a "Dining with Diabetes" cooking course beginning Tuesday, Nov. 6, and continuing over four consecutive Tuesdays through Nov. 26, from 2 to 4 p.m. each session. The grant-funded program is free to people with diabetes and family members or caretakers.

"If you have diabetes, selecting and preparing foods that are low in sugar, fat, and sodium can be a real challenge," said Beverly Carvell, nutrition educator for the Garrett County Cooperative Extension Service, which is sponsoring the class along with the Garrett County Area Agency on Aging. Carvell will provide information on how to cook with artificial sweeteners, low-fat products, and herbs and spices.

The objectives of the course, as stated by Carvell, include: to increase knowledge of healthful food choices for people with diabetes; to present healthy versions of familiar foods; to demonstrate cooking techniques that use new or more healthful ingredients; and to encourage behavior changes through tasting healthy foods.

No products will be sold at the classes. Space is limited, so early registration is encouraged and may be made by calling 301-334-6960.

A Bloodmobile will be at the Friendsville fire hall on Friday, Oct. 26, from noon to 6 p.m. for those interested in donating blood.

SCHOOL NEWS

Students and faculty of the Friendsville Elementary School recently collected loose change to be donated to the American Red Cross. Two businesses also donated money in check form. Through their efforts they collected $495.60.

Garrett County Schools will be closed this Friday, Oct. 12.

The school is collecting Campbell Soup labels, Foodland receipts, and General Mills/Betty Crocker box tops. These items are being collected to get materials for students' use. They can be dropped off at the school or S&S Market.

An Academia Pep Rally was held Monday, Oct. 1, in the gym. Those students recognized for being "on the right track" were: Chris Paugh, Lisa Umbel, Brian Umbel, Lacie Schroyer, Noah Manges, Christa Bowser, Russ Thomas, Curtis Friend, and Aaron Calhoun.

The "Virtue of the Month" for September was "self-control." Those students who exhibited this virtue were: Katie Frazee, Caleb Griffin, Cloey Hicks, Sarah Friend, Whitney Miller, Dustin Stough, Nicole Tichinel, Catharine Lawson, and Levi Sisler.

Students are selling candles made by Candlesmith until Oct. 22. Small candles cost $8 and large candles cost $12. The classroom that sells the most candles will be given a pizza party.

HAUNTED HAYRIDE

A Haunted Hayride will be held Friday, Oct. 26, from 7 to 10 p.m. The hayride will start and end at the Friendsville Elementary School and include action scenes such as: the Pumpkin Patch, the Grave Yard, the Lab, the Torture Chamber, and more. The admission for the hayride is $2. Food will also be available, and there will be a movie for smaller children. Children are asked to dress in their costumes to have their pictures taken. All proceeds will benefit the Friendsville Elementary School PTO.

This event may not be suited for all students, so parents are urged to use their own discretion.

The Haunted Hayride is co-sponsored by the Friendsville mayor and town council, Friendsville RAD, and Friendsville Community Crime Watch.

AFTER-SCHOOL PROGRAM

An after-school program will be held on Mondays starting October 15, at the Friendsville Elementary School cafeteria for grades 1-8. The program will include crafts, tutoring, recreation, and substance abuse prevention. Snacks will also be provided. Any parent interested in volunteering may do so. This event is being sponsored by the Friendsville Community Watch, the Friendsville Elementary School, and the Garrett Co. Health Dept. Outreach Program. The after-school program will be held only on Mondays that school is in session.

LIBRARY NEWS

The Birth to Five group will be meeting on Tuesdays at 9:30 a.m. All parents and children under 5 are welcome. Activities include reading books, puppets, felt board stories, children's books on video, and children's literature on the Internet.

In Loving Remembrance of William "Jack" Frantz's Birthday
October 17, 1936 - June 5, 2000

We was a son, a brother, and an uncle,
It was a year in June since he went away.
Dearly loved by his close-knit family,
We still think about him every day.

We still look for a light in his window,
And stop by his house now and then.
Although it is empty now,
Memories come flooding back again.

We remember a happier time,
His favorite song, "The Impossible Dream."
He quoted from "The Man of La Mancha."
And his girl friend was Lady Kathleen.

He took us to see covered bridges
That spanned meandering rills.
We marvelled at modern-day windmills,
Towering high on a Pennsylvania hill.

He enjoyed flea markets and yard sales.
For nieces and nephews, he bought surprises.
Making friends as he shopped for bargains.
Finding a different Mickey Mouse was his prize.

Although we miss him, we must go on.
We know that time will heal our pain.
We are sure that he has found his star,
And someday, somewhere, we will be with him again.

He will forever remain in loving memory,
Mother, Gladys I. Frantz
Sister, Thelma Jean Humberson
Nephews, Ivan J. Humberson & Dana Ray Humberson
And two Great-Nieces & three Great-Nephews

NOTICE TO GARRETT COUNTY TAXPAYERS

According to the laws governing my office (Section 14-808/Tax Property), the Tax Collector must advertise and sell properties for delinquent County, State and Town taxes, or taxes due other taxing agencies.

Garrett County tax bills become delinquent 15 months after billing. Therefore, 2000-01 (red) tax bills and prior years were delinquent October 1, 2001. The 2001-02 (orange) bills WILL NOT BE delinquent until October 1, 2002. Personal Property taxes for 2000-01 and prior years are also delinquent and become a lien on real estate.

If you took advantage of the semi-annual payment option, the 2nd coupon amount will be due without interest by Dec. 31, 2001. A small service charge will be assessed at the time of the 2nd payment.

Final delinquent notices will be mailed on or about February 1, 2002, allowing 30 days for payment. After this time, all delinquent accounts will be given to the Attorney for preparation for tax sale. To avoid additional costs, please pay delinquent accounts before February 28, 2002. For administrative purposes, the tax sale is being planned one month earlier for sale 2002. Therefore, the sale has been tentatively scheduled for May 2002 instead of June 2002.

If there are any questions, don't hesitate to call the office anytime between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

I Love Deep Creek Lake

...13th in a series by Ed King

This group of short stories was begun in January 1999. The other stories in the "I Love Deep Creek Lake" series have been published, but this one never got into print until now. One reason was its length and the other was, I thought, whether anyone would care about what happened in this place called "The Colony" that Ed King writes about. The events of September 11, 2001, have motivated me to go forward and share these vignettes with you about this wonderful place, Deep Creek Lake.

A walk through the Colony

There are so many wonderful things I love about walking through our Colony that one walk would not begin to give the reader the feeling I wish to convey. There is such beauty here with the massive trees, the rustic log cabins pre-1940, the people, and the neighborhood pets, and all the animals and birds of the forest.

This particular walk takes place in the late 1960's and the early 1970's. Come with me down the lane and we'll stop here and there to talk about a few old-timer's, all of whom are gone now, who settled the Colony. First, let me tell you where or what the Colony is. Don't look on the map because you won't find it there, nor is it so designated in any deeds or land records. As you learn about where this Colony is located and as we wander in and out of these cabins and lives and memories, don't hesitate to liken our Colony to your own lake neighborhood. I'm sure there are similar stories and memories just about everywhere around Deep Creek.

The Colony of which I speak is in the area where Toothpick Road intersects State Park Road. It is a cluster of log cabins built years before either of these roads existed. In fact, what is now State Park Road was an old logging road all grown over and lined with mud puddles. My brother and I would fill a Mason jar with tadpoles from these mud puddles and pick blackberries along the road in the early 1940's. If the mood called for a dip in the lake, total privacy was available with or without bathing suits.

One arrived at the Colony in those days by way of a dirt lane that came straight down over the hill from Glendale Road just south of the cemetery. This explains the grouping of cabins in the immediate vicinity where the road came to the lake frontage. One definition of "colony" is a community of people of the same pursuits concentrated in a particular place. This is exactly what the Colony was then and still is today. Everyone had come here to enjoy the serenity, the escape, and the amenities of a lake in the forest. The intersection of the road to the lakefront is where this concentration of people gathered to build their camps and cabins.

The Colony was so-named by Naomi Kuhnle who, with her husband Stuart, lived here year-round. As permanent residents, they became the patriarchs of the community. Even in 1965 when I first came to the Colony, Naomi (Na) and Stuart were a very important part of life at Deep Creek Lake. They were our home-away-from-home in so many ways. They were our weather forecasters in winter, Stewart brought us firewood, Naomi baked rolls and sticky buns, their dog "Mister" entertained us. They, literally, were our information service in an environment unfamiliar to us, not only for the Kings who were the newcomers, but for all of us "weekenders." There were the Kuhns (whose cabin we bought), Johnsons, Fullers, Braatens, Nelsons, Prossers, O'Briens, Rayburns, Casteels, Trichtingers, Jasperts, Finkels, Myers, another Johnson family, Scotts, Nelsons, and probably several others I never had the opportunity to meet.

These were the people who visited Na and Stu every weekend, some even during the winter months. It also was a network of people needing each other. Stu had almost every tool imaginable, but often one of us would bring something from the mill or a tool we all needed and it became a neighborhood tool to be borrowed by everyone. That is a brief history of where the Colony is located and how it came to be. Now, let's go back in time and take several walks through Colony.

KUHN'S' DUNWANDERIN

The first walk recounts my initial visit to the area and to the cabin named "Dunwanderin," built and owned by Bill and Bertha Kuhns from Greensburg, PA. It's appropriate that we go here first because this is the cabin my wife and I bought. The time was February 1965 and twelve inches of snow lay on the ground. My wife and I were accompanied by Bill Casteel of Home & Farm Realty. Bill Kuhns had closed the cabin the previous September for the season and not returned. A few days prior to our visit, Mr. Kuhns had sent the keys to Bill Casteel and told him to sell the property. Mrs. Kuhns had passed away and, after having kept the cabin a couple more years, Bill decided it was time to say good-bye to his beloved Dunwanderin and Deep Creek. He was so mellow about leaving that he never returned during the marketing of the property.

We marveled at the winter wonderland around us as we made our way down the path through the snow to the cabin. The hemlock and white pine branches were bent low under the weight of the snow, and the beauty was so captivating. Mr. Casteel had the key to the cabin but, once inside, could not find the key to the basement where the main electric panel was located. Of course, there was no heat and no electricity; yet we were in one of the warmest settings imaginable. As we explored the shuttered cabin with only a flashlight to guide us, we were in awe like children on a Christmas morning at what we saw.

There in this chestnut log cabin sat a large copper kettle beside a huge fireplace with a massive mantel, four ornate kerosene chandeliers, mullioned windows with shutters and a unique double stairway to the sleeping loft. The only thing missing was the Kuhns, but their presence was evident everywhere. The beds were made up with handmade quilts and down comforters that seemed to be six inches thick. A bootjack was at the bedside, where Bill would remove his boots at the end of the day. Today the room remains almost exactly as it was then. As a result, this room is quite a conversation starter especially for younger folks who have never seen anything quite like it. The varnished logs still glisten with the warmth and love that Bill and Bertha brought to this cabin in 1929 when they built Dunwanderin.

GLENN FULLER NEXT DOOR

Swiss railing crafted of wormy chestnut in the late 1930s.

The time is Spring 1965 and I see that the Fullers have arrived next door. Glenn and Marian are in the process of opening their cabin for the summer. Glenn was a true craftsman and took great pride in his woodwork. Even today (2001) the Swiss railing that he had made from wormy chestnut is still in mint condition. This cabin - a mixture of stone, logs and chestnut siding - is quite small by today's standards, but it was large enough to hold the Fullers and their children, Bob and Sally, plus all their good memories. The Fullers were humble folks, and each year they had a bread & beans dinner just to reflect back to the depression years, how hard their life had been and how wonderful it had become for them now. The Fullers were products of the Depression and World War II years and, as such, were certainly representative of those whom Tom Brokaw described in his book titled "The Greatest Generation."

Glenn had built a racing shell for Bobby that was about ten feet long and had a small 8 or 10 HP engine. The summer of 1965 would not end with that boat intact. In late September Bobby had his little blue boat flying down the lake past the State Park. The lake level was receding and the island off the State Park shoreline was nearing the surface. When the engine struck the island it flew off the boat and went screaming to the bottom of the lake. Bobby's dad then did some screaming of his own; and to this day that motor still rests on the bottom of the lake.

ELESTER AND ETHEL BRAATEN

The next walk is with my son, Jeff, going out the lane to visit Les. Among other things, Les not only made handcrafted bows but was himself a famous archer and traveled throughout the United States with some of the best archers of that time. At dinner back at our cabin that evening, Jeff asked, "Dad, did you know Les knows Fred Bear and helped Fred design a damper for one of the famous Bear recurve bows?" "No, I didn't, but I knew he was in many national archery meets." "It's true," Jeff said, "and Les was the first to design removable limbs for bows." At the time, Les was in his late 60's and Jeff was about ten years old. Needless to say, they became great friends and many visits to Les's shop would follow over the years. By the way, both stories about Les's bows are true.

The Braatens lived in Greensburg, PA, but Les was originally from Minnesota where cold weather was the norm. Ethel told me on one visit about their first winter at Deep Creek before there were furnaces and electricity in the cabins. Cabins were called camps in that there wasn't much difference between them and a tent. Ethel told of their Friday night arrivals when they would build a large fire in the fireplace and then prop the mattress up in front of it to take away some of the chill. While the mattress warmed, they would unpack the car and go to the nearby spring to bottle some fresh mountain water. Back home, they would put the mattress on the bed again and jump in with a couple down comforters in hopes the camp would be a few degrees warmer by morning.

GUS THE ASTRONOMER

The kids are off on another walk to talk to neighbor Gus Johnson. The time is after midnight. Imagine a clear night in late November, the temperature is 24 degrees and kids are going out to observe the stars? Gus is waiting on the deck with three of his telescopes already set up and cooled to the outside temperature. You must understand and appreciate that Gus is a famous astronomer. He is that to all of us and many other people here in Garrett County.

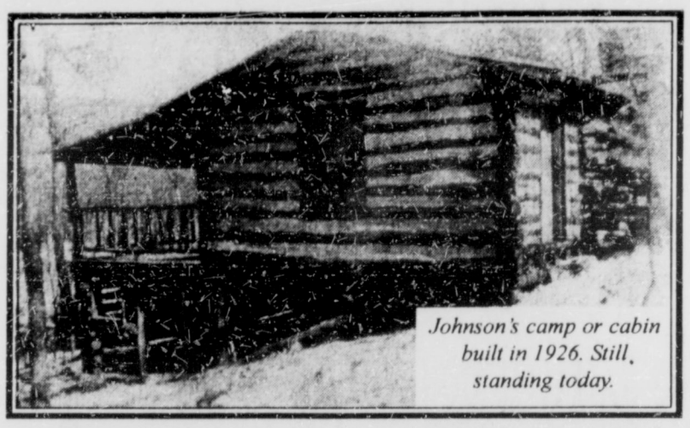
In 1963 Gus discovered the comet Alcock with his amateur equipment only a few days after the Englishman George Alcock had discovered it and, of course, claimed the rights to naming it. Gus also discovered the super nova SN1979c on April 18, 1979, (confirmed by the McGraw Hill Conservatory in Arizona). More importantly, though, he has spent numerous hours with children showing them the heavens and explaining just how huge the universe is and putting our little planet Earth in perspective. Gus is still conducting his star shows and sharing his vast knowledge with anyone who doesn't mind those cold clear Garrett County nights.

CAESAR THE TUGBOAT DOG

What's all that barking about? It's Caesar at the dock barking at young Kenny's boat. We had better walk down to watch the fun. Caesar is a very large boxer whose head is not only huge but so ugly you have to love him at first sight. He learned to swim here at the Colony and now he thinks he is a tugboat in New York harbor. Kenny is about twenty yards out in the lake in a 19-foot runabout and throws one of his dock ropes overboard. Caesar immediately jumps into the water from our dock, swims out and grabs the rope in his powerful jaws. It doesn't take long before he pulls Kenny and his boat to the dock.

Caesar on the dock wating for a boat to tow.

THE FIRST CABIN



Johnson's camp or cabin built in 1926. Still standing today.

Immediately next door to Dunwanderin is the cabin owned by Edna (Eddy) Johnson and her late husband, Stan. See the photograph taken shortly after it was built in 1925. Several couples, including the Johnsons from Greensburg PA, originally built that cabin. Only Bill and Bertha Kuhn, who later built Dunwanderin, were married at that time and they became the chaperons to the other couples when asked for permission to spend a weekend at the lake. The cabin was only one room with a spring for water and an outhouse. I'm sure Bill and Bertha enforced very strict sleeping arrangements.

By four years later, each couple had married and each required more privacy and space. This was when they split up the lakefront into several lots. Bill and Bertha ended up with 183 feet of lakefront and began to build Dunwanderin. They had lived in the small one-room cabin, so they were now experts in cabin architecture. Dunwanderin would be a spacious 840 square foot cabin with a bedroom, kitchen, sleeping loft, outhouse, and front and rear porches. Indoor plumbing and a bathroom would come along much later.

THE GIFT

All the preceding is just a long preamble to set the stage for the next walk through the Colony. It is now about 1970 on a Saturday morning. Eddy Johnson had walked over to Dunwanderin carrying something in her hand and knocked on the door. Upon answering the door Eddy said, "Ed, I have something I want you to give you for safekeeping where it rightfully belongs."

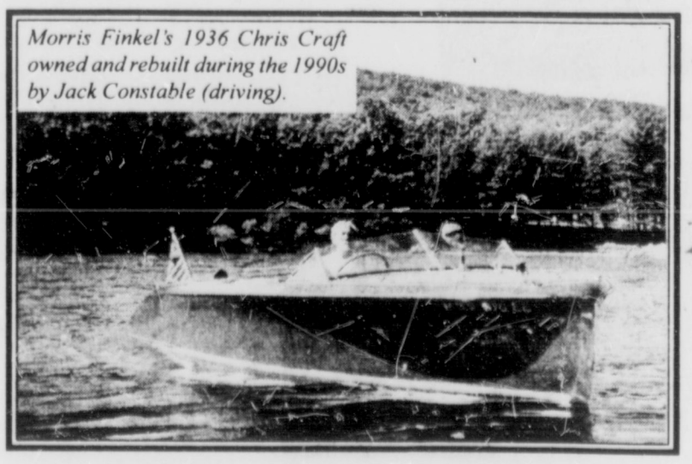
In her hand was a silver loving cup tarnished black from years of sitting on the mantle and people handling it and commenting about its history. She went on to say, "I have observed, Ed, that you love Deep Creek Lake much like my husband, Stan, did and I want you to keep this cup which Stan won." I was touched, yet didn't know what the cup represented or what the engraving read. When I realized the significance of the award, I was totally floored, or today one might say, "blown away." The inscription read:

Class One Fastest Motorboat Deep Creek Lake Aug. 3, 1928

"I will keep it and cherish it, Eddy, and I am honored that you have asked me."

MUSIC TO MY EARS

There is nothing more melodic than the sound of the old Chris Craft, Century, and Dumphy boats. Kids of all ages would often walk down to the lake when they heard the Finkles next door fire up the engine of their Chris Craft. That 1936 23-foot beauty had three cockpits, many coats of varnish on her mahogany hull, leather seats and appointments in gleaming chrome. Needless to say, it was the most gorgeous boat in the Colony. The Straight 8 Gray Marine engine and above-water exhaust made a swirl of steam and a special rumbling sound as Morris Finkle would idle this boat out Meadow Mountain Cove. We would stand on the Toothpick Bridge and watch the scene as though it were from the movie "On Golden Pond."



Morris Finkel's 1936 Chris Craft owned and rebuilt during the 1990s by Jack Constable (driving).

A BIT OF TRIVIA

Toothpick Road was not named until about 1987. Why Toothpick Road? When the County offered to put up a street sign, no one seemed to know if it had ever had a name. The thought was to ask a snowplow driver how they referred to this steep and curving road. The reply was quick and definite:

A walk through the Colony

"Toothpick Road." They named it after the little steel bridge with the wooden floor at the bottom of the hill. For those who remember this old bridge, the very thin steel cross members were thought to resemble toothpicks and, thus, the name for the bridge and the adjoining roadway.

WALKING ON WATER

During the late 1960's I was a single parent, and every Friday evening Jeffrey, Micky, Caesar the dog, and I would head for the cabin from our home in Pittsburgh. During the summer the children's' friends, Mike O'Brien, Billy Weissgerber, and Jeanie Kuhnle would immediately get together to talk about Saturday morning water skiing practice. The routine went like this: 7:00 AM before a pancake & sausage breakfast, everyone gathered on the dock with their skis. One summer we had two goals. First, all five kids would learn a standing dock jumpstart on their slalom ski and, second, all five would ski slalom at one time without anyone falling.

Practice for the first goal was intense. One of the five would be the observer with me in the boat. The other four would be on the dock getting ready to jump, actually trying their start, or in the water. The reward for making the start was a ski ride around the cove. If one missed his or her start, they had to swim back to the dock and help get the next one ready until their next turn came up again. Both goals were achieved that summer. And, all five kids ended up with their own personalized water ski with an Indian's head painted on the tip. The Indian was believed to communicate with the skier. If the skier looked down at the Indian's face and the Indian winked at them that meant they were "in the groove, really jammin'." However, if the Indian was frowning, the skier was most likely in for a fall!

THE KENNEL CLUB

A walk to the club every Saturday afternoon was routine. The club had four charter members and was located in Stu Kuhnle's workshop centrally located in the Colony. The charter members were Stu, Vic O'Brien, Crut Pfirrmann and I. Our names were on a sign beside the clubhouse door. The Kennel (dog house) Club was equipped with a refrigerator, a pot-belly stove and supplied with lots of ice-cold beer. These may or may not have been the "good old days," but they certainly were "good old memories."

Stu's workshop contained enough hardware, nails, tools and you-name-it, that the place was frequented at many times other than regular gatherings. The Oasis (refrigerator of beer) was never permitted to go dry.

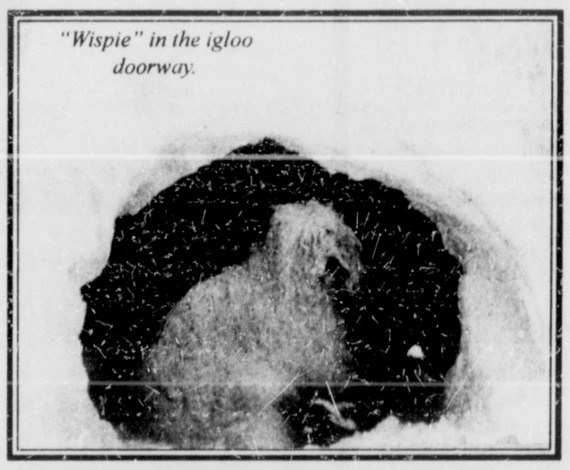
SPLITTING WOOD

One of my joys of living in the Colony was some of the basic chores of splitting firewood, making a rail fence, going to the spring during a snowstorm or cutting firewood with the chain saw. These are physical pleasures that we miss when working in offices all day. Perhaps I enjoy these things so much because of the exercise our bodies need, or maybe it's fun for a while because we know we don't have to do it day-in-and-day-out like the pioneers did. Regardless, as soon as Crut Pfirrmann would hear me out there running the chain saw, there he would come walking out the lane. "Can I give you a hand?" he would ask. Together we would finish the chore and then have a cold drink. What wonderful visits and camaraderie. More recently as Crut grew older, he still would visit and we would talk, have a beer and postpone the work 'til later.

SNOWED IN

Being snowed in is every kid's dream, especially on Sunday night to avoid having to go to school the next morning. Regardless of Garrett County's excellent equipment and road maintenance, every parent owes it to the family to be snowed in at least occasionally. It was mid-1970's and we got a super-duper Nor'easter. A group of us were at WISP and my son, Bruce, was with me. By two o'clock that afternoon it was obvious we would not be able to get Bruce to Hopwood, PA, that evening to his Mom's house and possibly not even back to the Colony from WISP. About ten of us decided we would buy food and make a run for Dunwanderin. State Park Road had already drifted shut, so we opted to try Toothpick Road. Depending on the time each car arrived defined just where it came to rest in the drift right in the center of the road. Chris Waddell's new Cougar landed right at the intersection at the bottom of the hill to be completely covered by drifts during the night. We all managed to get safely to the cabin and were blessed that the power remained on all night. Several of the fellows had decided to ski an extra run before buying groceries and attempting the drive. They had to abandon their car and walk the final three hundred yards. They arrived snow-covered and with only about half the food they had purchased. The paper grocery bags had gotten wet and the food fell out into the couple feet of snow that had already fallen. We immediately created a Donner Pass rescue party to search for the missing hamburger, milk and eggs. Dinner that evening was hot buttered rum, burgers, and all the side dishes that would resemble a picnic. We dined in front of a large roaring fire. We were also hosts to two large dogs: Caesar, of course, and Chris's Sheepdog "Wispie" (named after the WISP).

Next morning nothing was stirring, not even the wind. On with our ski duds for a walk through the Colony. First stop would be Bessie's store on Glendale Road. The snowmobilers had been there first and got first-pick. In fact, we bought almost every thing she had left in her store for less than thirty dollars. Upon returning to the cabin and having a snack, we found the energy of the children was more than we could deal with. We needed a project, so first we tried to dig Chris's car out of the snowdrift. We did locate it and brushed the snow off the roof so the snowplow driver would see there was a vehicle buried in the snow. Any more effort would have been fruitless. The drift was at least eight feet deep, so we decided to make an igloo in the drift. With shovels and gloves, we began to dig. Within several hours we had a very cozy ten-person, two-dog castle of snow. Classify those as "good times."



"Wispie" in the igloo doorway.

THE SHERIFF / REALTOR

I said I would tell you more about Bill Casteel, the realtor who assisted us in buying Dunwanderin. Bill was one of the most colorful people I have ever met in Garrett County. He ranked right up there with Meshach Browning in my book, mostly, I suppose, because I got to meet this man right out of the pages of history. Bill had been the Sheriff of Garrett County. He had met Annie Oakley at nearby shooting matches around the turn of the century, collected cowboy and Indian memorabilia and even a lot of Garrett County stuff. Stuff, being anything from real antiques to what many people call junk. Bill owned the cabin just uphill from Dunwanderin that was filled with the stuff I mentioned. And he loved to trade. His cabin was very basic with one big room, a kitchen and an outhouse. He never installed an indoor bathroom as a means of preventing unwanted friends and relatives from overnight visits. If you ever used an outhouse, I think you can appreciate Bill's thoughts on this matter.

Among the many antiques Bill had were two large wagon wheels. After several weeks of posturing, we agreed on a trade. No money; just a friendly trade. I ended up with one of the wagon wheels, which I immediately converted into a rustic chandelier for our living room. Upon completion, Bill was invited to come see the handiwork and I gave him a couple pipes and several blends of smoking tobacco. Bill was touched by the gifts but more so with the conversion of the wheel into a chandelier. He said, "Eddie, I want you to have the match to that wagon wheel." With that Bill and I bonded, which led to many walks between our two cabins. I cannot do justice in this limited space to describing the man and the stories he told. He was certainly a very colorful and interesting character around the Colony as well as the County.

NA AND STU KUHNLE

You will recall it was Na who named the Colony. Deep Creek Lake was she and her husband's home. They were our full time neighbors on whom we could count anytime day or night. Therefore, I have saved the walk to visit them 'til last. This was a frequent walk; at least once a weekend, but usually more. The fact that the Kennel Club was on Kuhnle's property accounted for at least one walk to the Oasis each week. The Kunhle's had two daughters, Judith and Jeanne. I think Na and the girls had read the dictionary and the encyclopedia at least three times each. What I'm really trying to say is, under any condition, don't play Scrabble with them with any hope of winning. Na was so brazen she would spot you points and still win. Many hours were spent around Na's dinning room table telling stories and playing that blasted word game.

This Kunhle family had been blessed with an overabundance of the ability to love and to give to others. Not that they had riches of gold, but their gifts meant being good neighbors. Along with the hot rolls and sticky buns, there just wasn't any thing they wouldn't do for you. Stu turned our furnace on Friday evenings prior to our arrival, brought us firewood and provided us with any type of nails or hardware to save us a trip to town. Summer or winter, they were always there.

Their little dog, Mister, was even a greater part of the Colony. Mister could do a host of tricks and often would stop by each cabin checking in on us. His best trick was to hold a cookie on his nose until given the okay to eat it. On command, he would flip the cookie up in the air and catch in on the way down. He could also stand on his hind legs and dance for us.

Na gave to so many people in so many ways. She was always taking cuttings from her many houseplants and giving them to people who wanted them. She collected magazines from us "weekenders" and took them to shut-in's. She bought, sold and traded all sorts of antiques from glassware to her favorites, an unbelievable doll collection. She had reference books identifying the date, manufacturer and value of any old item you could bring her. I particularly enjoyed talking with her about antiques. Na was always busy. She began a career in real estate when most people would have been planning to retire; and she was loved by all of her customers and clients.

NA'S FINAL WALK THRU THE COLONY

I saw Na on February 2, 1998, after she had taken a walk through the Colony. She had been out the lane to visit the Johnsons. The purpose of Na's visit was, again, one of giving. Na knitted booties out of leftover yarn. Beth Johnson had commented what a great idea that was, and wished she knew how to knit. Na had taken some yarn and been to the Johnsons to teach Beth the craft. The lane was snow covered and icy. We exchanged greetings and talked about her recent fall from washing windows. I scolded her for being out on such a wintry day. Her greeting and disposition was that of a teenage girl having fun in the snow. "Thanks for worrying about me, Ed, but I' m fine. I even walked to the mailbox!" And with that, away she went toward home with a definite youthful spring in her walk. That same night Na had a stroke and shortly thereafter passed away at the age of 81. To my knowledge, at least since 1965, Na had never had a sick day and she was young at heart and clear of mind as ever. She thoroughly enjoyed each and every WALK THROUGH THE COLONY.

Naomi (Na) Kuhnle, who named the Colony, in her flower garden.

I dedicate these stories to Naomi Kuhnle (1916-1998). At this time of tragedy in America, these simple pleasures of life at Deep Creek Lake are testimony to our pride in being Americans. We need to appreciate all the beauty and goodness that is around us and the wonderful memories Deep Creek has given us. May we always remember our many blessings and that the simple things like hard work and warm fuzzy memories, when added up, are what makes this Country so special.

God Bless America!

Eastern Star Meeting Held

Oakland Chapter No. 67, Order of the Eastern Star, met recently at the Paul B. Naylor Masonic Hall, with Bette L. Welch, Worthy Matron, and David L. Hall, Worthy Patron, presiding at the meeting.

The Worthy Matron's opening thought was "Be A Friend Today." The welcomed guests were Mildred Martin, Past Grand Matron of the Grand Chapter of Maryland; Wilda Hile, P.M., Deputy Grand Lecturer of the Grand Chapter of Maryland; Joy Lou Fogle, Worthy Matron, McKinley Chapter No. 12, and Grand Representative to the state of Oregon; and Joyce Anderson, Uniontown Chapter.

Committee chairperson, Ruth Ellen Paugh outlined the final plans for the chapter's Autumn Glory food and refreshment booth, to be located along Second Street in front of Unfinished Business. All proceeds will go to the Childhood Center for Language Disorders, which is one of the Worthy Matron's projects.

The Worthy Matron presented a program titled "The Badge of a Mason" for Master Masons' Night. The Master Masons in attendance received "The Lambskin" as a gift from the Worthy Matron.

Juanita Bosley, P.M., won the door prize by correctly answering the Eastern Star question. The Worthy Matron recognized Lewis Marks, Past Patron, who was attending the 201st Bicentennial, biannual Session of the Supreme Council, 33rd Degree of Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry, Charleston, S.C. Prior to receiving his 33rd degree, Lewis was a member of the Knight Commander Court of Honor. Lewis has the distinct honor of being the only Master Mason in Garrett County to hold such an honor.

The Worthy Matron thanked her substituting officers, the refreshment committee of Geraldine Bauman and Debra Taylor, and Lillian Reckner, P.M., for her music during the ceremony.

Her closing thought was "Life's Journey." The next meeting will be Oct. 16 at 8 p.m. The Chapter will celebrate Friendship Night. All officers and members are asked to invite guests from other chapters and members of Oakland Chapter. The meeting is open to all OES members.

DNR Nominates Chamber For Tourism Award

The Department of Natural Resources has recently nominated the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce for a statewide award to be presented at the Governor's Tourism Conference banquet Monday, Oct. 15, at Rocky Gap.

The product created by the chamber that earned the endorsement of the DNR is the "Travel By Boat" brochure, which was submitted for consideration in the Cooperative Promotion category.

The three objectives of the program were to enhance Deep Creek Lake as a tourism destination by adding another factor to its appeal, to encourage boaters to make more stops and spend more money at local businesses, and to encourage greater boating safety by publicizing boating information as part of the brochure.

According to Carolyn Matthews, assistant park manager, the brochure drew more attention to the park and Discovery Center, thus increasing visitation and making more people aware of the extent to which this area is accessible by boat.

"This achieves one of our goals by educating the public on what all we have to offer them by using our public lands," Matthews said. "By using the 'Travel By Boat' brochure, visitors could see how close we were in relation to other lake businesses... It also gives the visitors a sense of the variety of activities Garrett County has to offer."

The Maryland Tourism Council gives out three awards each year. Other categories are Best New Product and Beyond the Border Marketing.

Buckwheat Cake Breakfast Set To Raise MS Funds

A buckwheat cake breakfast to benefit the Maryland chapter of the Multiple Sclerosis Society has been slated at the Oakland fire hall for Sunday, Oct. 14, from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. The fund-raiser is being sponsored by the Oakland Elks Lodge.

The menu features buckwheat cakes, pancakes, scrambled eggs, bacon, sausage gravy and biscuits, orange juice, and coffee. Donations are set at $6.95 for adults and $3.50 for children 7 and under. Take-out meals will be available.

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

I was amazed that we did not get even a little bit of snow on Sunday morning since the Pittsburgh weather forecast reported a chance of snow in the higher altitudes and outer areas. Most of the time that means that Bittinger will get that kind of weather.

I can remember a few years ago we got our first snow in early October. Thank goodness it is rare, but not unheard of, in Bittinger. The northwest wind did cause a heavy shower of the colored leaves, but it is still just beautiful around here. As you go up the hill on Rock Lodge Road toward Brenneman's Grove, it seems like going to Heaven, with a view of pure gold.

As fast as the leaves drop, my spirit drops too. I never dreaded to see winter come as much as this year, but it will come anyway and too soon. Last week soon after I handed in my column I happened to go up Frank Brenneman Road, and it was the best autumn scenery that I have yet to see. It is a little-traveled short cut from New Germany Road to Bittinger.

My family was alarmed by a call at 5 a.m. on Saturday morning from Ruby Hospital in Morgantown that our dear "Pappy" Dale had to be moved to its Critical Care Unit. The blood infection that caused the move seems to be under control now, and he is happy to be back in his old room on the ninth floor. He was happy to see his sister, Dot Quaintance, who rushed down from upstate New York where she recently started a new job as an aide for special education students in a high school. Their sister, Helen Englar, from Westminster, also came up to see her sister and also give a boost to her little brother. Dot returned to New York Monday after Dale was released from critical care and was resting more comfortably. I just talked to Helen at the hospital, and she said he was pretty grouchy today, which is probably a good sign.

When the autumn is in full bloom, it is time for Appalachian Sunday at Emmanuel Lutheran Church. It is a special service and gives all a chance to dress down in traditional old-time country clothes. You see a lot of denim, flannel shirts, shawls, straw hats, work boots, and suede fringed jackets, and the church is decked out with quilts, produce, pumpkins, gourds, canned goods, corn stalks, and lots of colorful mums. Pastor Pat Pittsnogle was decked out in her annual farmer's outfit of blue flannel shirt tucked in blue jeans and work boots. There was lots of special music, with our ultimate old-time "mountain man," Bob Brenneman, playing his fiddle and singing, Pastor Pat on the guitar accompanied by her son Jeremy, Leora Yaste on the dulcimer, Linda Buckel and Lana Roby singing duets, special old familiar hymns by the choir, and Ferne Beachy, who played "Jesus Loves Me" on the harmonica during the children's sermon time.

I wish I could find mine so I can try to play "Will the Circle Be Unbroken?" Actually, I need to work on that for next year. I could use the time and a few runs before I can perform it in public.

The joint service of the parish was followed with refreshments and fellowship. The service celebrated the hard lifestyle of our forbearers who struggled to make a life in the mountains, glades, fields, rivers, and mines of the Appalachian Mountains, the first frontier. The Bittinger area still has many of the original homesteads, sometimes just a stone foundation, a lonely brick silo, and a few burned down barns and sheds. Around the house sites still grow the old gardens, lilacs, daffodils, and other hardy, long-life plantings.

Other places are still a part of today's farm. For example, the homestead of my grandmother, Emma Brenneman Glotfelty, is part of the dairy farm of Richard and Regina Brenneman. Our home farm still has the foundation of the old house occupied in the 18th century by a Yoder family, who, as I told in my column before, left behind a simple graveyard with seven children buried in it. That house was occupied by my grandparents, Oral and Emma Glotfelty, and their family.

When I was young I loved to play in the "old house." My aunt told me about another old house which they called "The Betsy House," which is long gone. Who was "Betsy," and where is her house now? I don't know. Maybe it is out in the horse pasture in the corner where two creeks meet. I can remember a few very old shabby buildings and a few big stones along the main creek, with a very old apple tree nearby. It still bears a few of the most delicious apples in the fall, which are red with a tinge of yellow on them. If we were ever lucky enough to find a few windfall fruit that the deer did not get first, we had the best apple you can ever imagine.

My ears are still filled with the bass voice of Bob Brenneman singing "Oh come, come, come," and to the sweet ring of the church bell saying "Oh, come, come, come." Although the old Emmanuel church was not brown, or a least not in the 20th century, my most clear memory of it was its bell. I have a very hazy memory (which is probably wrong) that they used to ring the bell when someone died and the number rang told the age of the deceased. I never asked anyone whether that is something that happened or something I imagined.

This Tuesday was the ultimate perfect Indian Summer day possible. The deep cobalt blue sky made a stunning background for the gold, yellows, and scarlet of the leaves in full colors, and it was pretty warm. The nights are cold enough already that it is a real struggle to get my girls' two dogs to go out before bedtime. Claire calls her dog Boo "the log," and she does a perfect imitation of a big log when it is time to go out, and our little old Emily would rather stay curled up on the couch.

DNR Schedules Yough River Canoe Outings

One-hour guided canoe trips on the Youghiogheny River have been slated for tomorrow, Friday, Oct. 12, by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources. State Forest and Park Service naturalists from several Garrett County state facilities will be guiding the trips, which will take place as the fall foliage lining the banks is at its peak.

Previous canoeing experience is highly recommended, and limited space is available. Persons may obtain departure locations and times by calling the Deep Creek Lake State Park Discovery Center at 301-387-7067, Herrington Manor State Park at 301-334-9180, or the Savage River State Forest/New Germany State Park Complex at 301-895-5759.

Annual Vigil At FSU To Feature Delegate Branch

The fourth annual "Stop the Hate Vigil" at Frostburg State University will be held at 7 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 18, and will feature Maryland Del. Talmadge Branch of Baltimore City as the keynote speaker.

Branch, twice a victim of racial profiling, will speak on this subject. He has served in the Maryland House of Delegates since 1955, and is currently the Deputy Majority Whip and chair of the Maryland Legislative Black Caucus. Participants will gather at the BSA Fountain outside the campus Lane Center.

Persons wanting more information may call 301-687-7490.

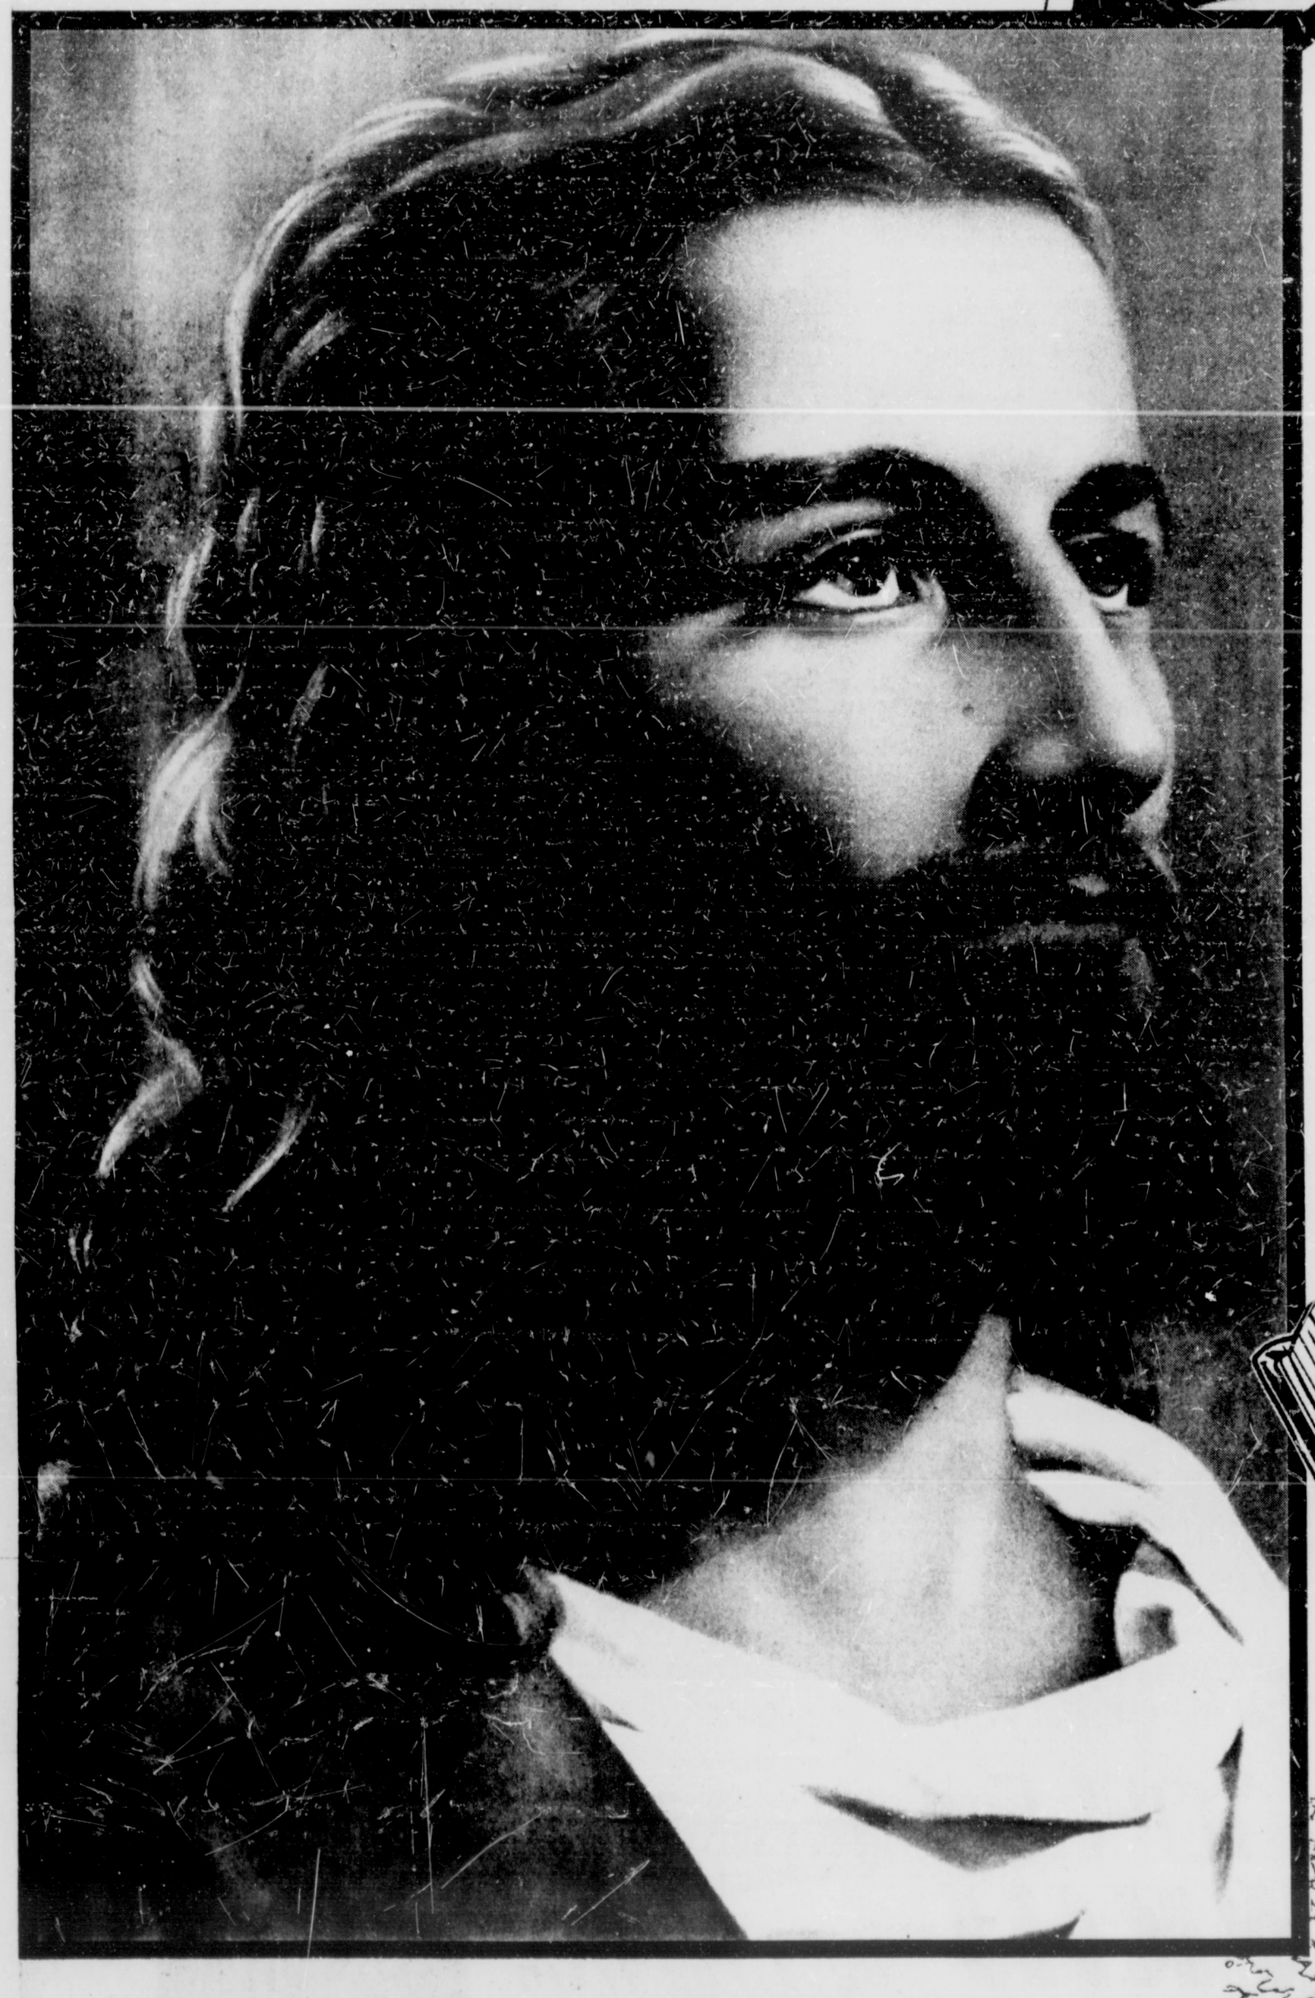
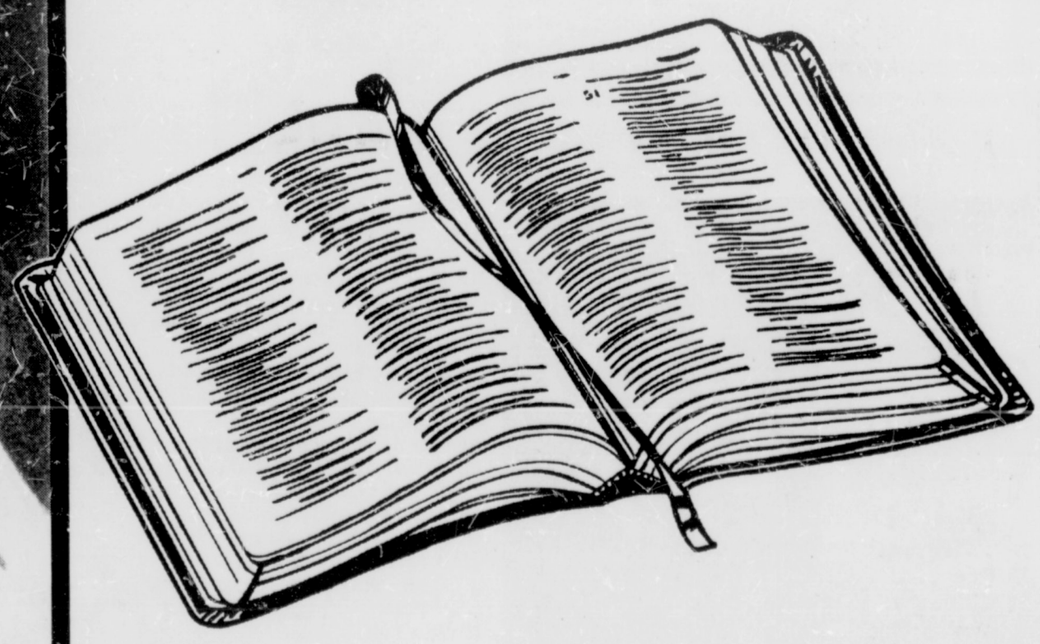
How Do You Like Him Now?

It's been one month since our nation's disaster. Many lives were lost. But the worst loss of all was that of those who died without Christ.

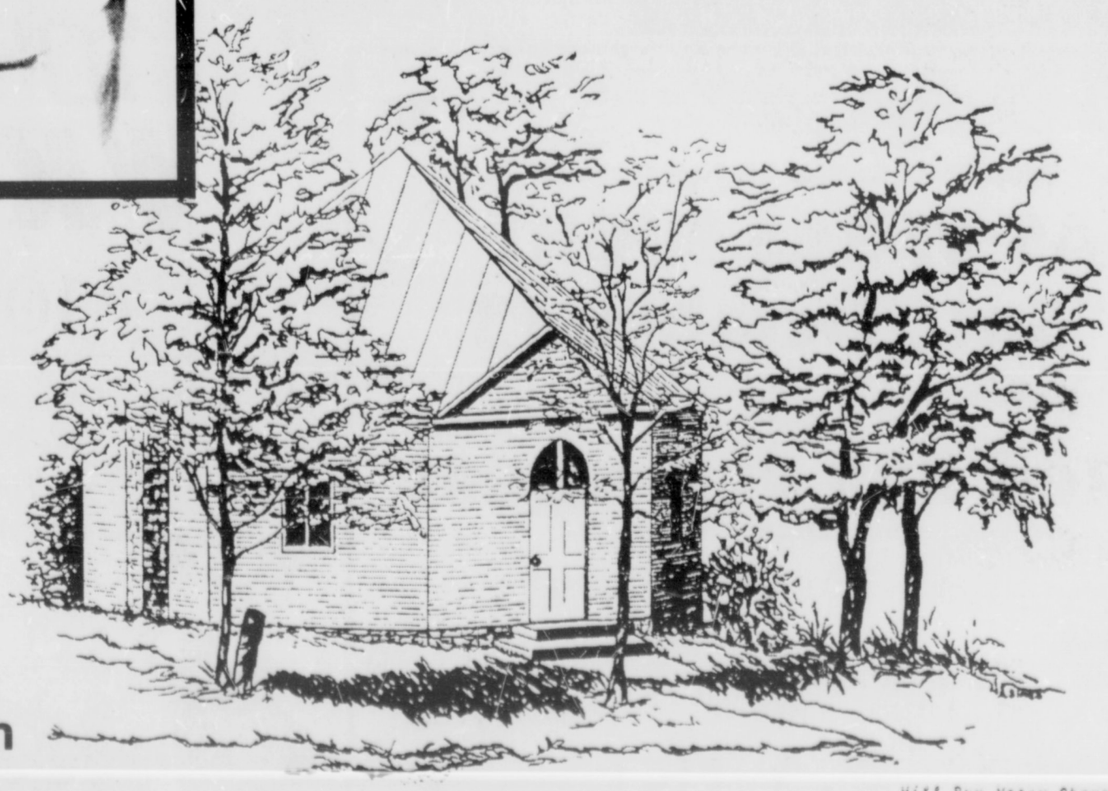


Our country is a great country. Many people have pulled together through all of this, but her greatest strength is God. In Romans 8:31 it says,

"If God be for us, who can be against us?"



The best way to stand for our country is to stand with Christ. Find a church that will help you find Him in* YOUR *life.



Pastor Daymond Schmuck & the congregation of Mill Run Mercy Chapel, Friendsville, MD

ARC Plans 10th Annual Home For The Holidays House Tours

The 10th annual Home for the Holidays House Tours event, sponsored by the Western Potomac Chapter of the American Red Cross (which includes Garrett County), will take place on Friday, Nov. 30, and Saturday, Dec. 1.

Five families and one church will be on the fund-raising tour this year, according to a Red Cross spokesperson. The houses will range from contemporary to some that were constructed in the early 1800s.

Homeowners participating in the event this year are Dave and Wendy Berry, Gortner; Walt and Pat Copeland, Ben DeWitt Road; Donald and Carol Moss and Dusty and Elizabeth Huxford, both of the Blakeslee; and Bob and Anne Proudfoot, Mtn. Lake Park. St. Paul's United Methodist Church will also be on the tour.

Raffles will be held at each of the homes, with gifts donated from area businesses. Each home and the church will be featured in The Republican newspaper as the event nears.

Tour hours are Friday, 4 until 6 p.m.; and Saturday, 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. Tickets, which are $5 in advance and $7 on the day of the tours, can be purchased at Proudfoot's, Gregg's, and Deep Creek pharmacies, as well as at Flowers by Webers in Oakland and Arrowhead Market at Deep Creek Lake.

The proceeds from this event will help meet the immediate needs of Red Cross projects, the spokesperson said.

Election Board Office Closing For Three Days

The Garrett County Board of Elections will be closed October 15, 16, and 17 while the staff is attending a mandatory meeting.

The election board web address is www.co.garrett.md.us/elections.htm, where there is information on deadlines for the primary and general elections in 2002, a register-to-vote form that can be downloaded and mailed, and a link to the Maryland State Board of Elections.

Persons with questions may telephone the office Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Three Injured, Charges Pending In Truck Accident

Three people were injured and charges are still pending from an accident Friday evening when the pickup truck in which they were riding went off the road and struck a tree, according to the Garrett County sheriff's office.

Brian Michael Wilson, 19, Swanton, was operating a 1980 Chevrolet truck on Pine Swamp Road when the truck ran off the roadway. Wilson was transported to Cumberland Memorial Hospital by Tri-Towns Ambulance.

The two passengers, Joseph Melvin Kyle, 19, Westernport, and Kevin Michael High, 19, Swanton, were also injured.

Kyle was also transported to Cumberland Memorial by Tri-Towns, and was later flown to Maryland Shock Trauma Unit in Baltimore, where he is listed in critical condition.

High was flown from the scene by Maryland State Police Medevac Trooper 5 to Cumberland Memorial for treatment and is listed in stable condition.

Investigation is continuing, and charges are pending. Barton Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene.

Wisp Management Announces Student Rewards Programs

Students in the Garrett County school system will have opportunities to ski, snowboard, or go snow tubing at Wisp in McHenry for free this season through new academic awards programs announced this week.

First is the new "Read to Ski" program for all students in all grades. Students will have the opportunity to earn one certificate per month for a free lift or snow tubing ticket as a reward for reaching certain reading levels. Each Garrett County school, from elementary through high school, will establish standards of achievement levels required in order to earn the free tickets. The program goes into effect this November and will run through February.

The second program, which is for all fourth graders in Garrett County, is called "Keep a B and Ski for Free." Any fourth grade student who maintains a B average will be rewarded with a free student season pass to the slopes of Wisp. This program will go into effect after the first grading period in early November.

"We believe strongly in the value of education and are very happy to partner with the Garrett County Board of Education in rewarding our students for academic performance," stated Bill Quigley, CEO of Wisp, "and we hope to give out hundreds of certificates and passes."

Details of the programs will be distributed to students through their school later this month.

UM Ministries Plans Trip To Christmas Show

The Deep Creek United Methodist Ministries, consisting of Paradise Methodist and Hoyes United Methodist churches, extends an open invitation for persons to travel to the Sight & Sound Millennium Theatre in Strasburg, Pa., on Nov. 6.

The program to be presented is titled The Miracle of Christmas, which is a musical performance of the Christmas story on a 300-foot, wrap-around stage.

"This is more than just a holiday highlight," a church spokesperson said. "It's the ultimate love story. You'll not only be present for the betrothal of Mary and Joseph, but you'll witness the turmoil, conflict, and joy that follow the young couple as they take their unique place in history." The spokesperson said the story of God sending his only son is told via the talents of the largest Sight & Sound cast ever assembled.

The cost for the day is $75 for adults and $54 for youth under 18. This includes round trip bus transportation, continental breakfast on the way to Strasburg, lunch at Willow Valley Resort, and admission to the Sight and Sound Theatre. The bus will stop in Chambersburg, Pa., on the way home for dinner (which will be everyone's own responsibility).

Reservations must be made in advance. For details or reservations, persons may contact Sue at 301-387-6832 or e-mail her at rsw@gcnet.net.

Knox To Present Canal Program

Rita Knox, park ranger with the Department of the Interior, will present a program on Monday, Oct. 22, at 7:30 p.m. in Springs, Pa., regarding the C&O Canal in the present and in the past. Knox will discuss the plans for rewatering the canal and for expanding Canal Place projects, using a video presentation.

The program will be held in the Folk Meeting House, located along Springs Road. Sponsored by the Springs Historical Society, admission is free and open to the public. For further information, persons may telephone 814-445-6945 or 814-662-4366.

Youth Sunday Set For Oct. 14

A special Christian Education Youth Sunday titled "This is the Time for this Generation" will be held Sunday, Oct. 14, 11 a.m., at the Accident Grace Brethren Church, Accident.

The youth will be conducting the worship service with guest speaker Ed Lewis, who is a nationally known youth speaker.

The church is located at 3100 Bumble Bee Road, 1/2 mile east of Route 219. The public is invited to attend.

Persons wanting more information may call 330-784-7007.

Garrett County Hosts Outdoor Travel Writers

Forty-nine members of the Mason-Dixon Outdoor Writers Association traveled to Garrett County last week for the group's 2001 annual conference. This organization of newspaper, magazine, and free-lance journalists and photographers from a three-state region attended seminars and sampled the outdoor experiences afforded by the natural resources of Garrett County.

Coordinated by the Maryland Office of Tourism, the writers' forum was hosted at the Will O' the Wisp October 5-7 by the Department of Natural Resources, the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, and various local businesses. The seminar agenda boasted wildlife experts, media specialists, and natural resources and environmental professionals. The visiting writers were entertained by the local musical group Hammers & Strings, which performed traditional songs of rural America during a kick-off reception at the Deep Creek Lake State Park Discovery Center.

BEITZEL ADDRESSES WRITERS — Garrett County Commissioner Wendell Beitzel welcomed the members of the Mason-Dixon Writers Association at a breakfast sponsored by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce and held Saturday at Will O' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake. The breakfast was part of the association's annual conference. Beitzel spoke of the wealth of natural resources in Garrett County, including its rich environment for hunting and fishing. He described the county's timber industry, past and present; the local coal mining industry's support of trout fishing; and the outstanding quality of the four county rivers. "We have a lot to share here in Garrett County," he said. "We hope that you will take your thoughts and experiences, and share them with others through your writing." Nearly 50 writers and photographers took part in the conference, which was sponsored by the chamber, the Maryland Department of Tourism, and the Department of Natural Resources. See story.

Joining forces to present information on shad restoration to the Susquehanna River were Richard St. Pierre, U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service; Dale Weinrich, DNR; and Mike Henricks, Pennsylvania Fish & Boat Commission. Reclamation of the North Branch of the Potomac was explained and discussed in a seminar conducted by Joe Mills of Maryland Department of the Environment and biologist Ken Pavol, DNR western regional manager.

Tim Flanigan, winner of numerous national photography awards, led a seminar on natural history photography, followed by a presentation on outdoor writing in the electronic age by Joe Reynolds, publisher of Outdoor Network Online. At the association's annual banquet and awards program on Saturday evening, Tom Matthews, retired DNR game management supervisor, gave the keynote address.

Guided fly-fishing and lake fishing outings were also on the schedule for the visiting writers, and historical tours and antique shopping excursions were provided for spouses not attending the seminars. On Sunday and Monday following the conference, association members visited Wings of Challenge and Savage River Lodge.

WARM THE CHILDREN

Providing New Winter Clothing For Needy Children

For the fifth year, The Republican is asking for your help. Without it, many Garrett County children will go cold this winter.

Just what is The Republican newspaper's WARM THE CHILDREN FUND?

The Republican's Warm The Children Fund is, basically, neighbors helping neighbors. We here at the paper are asking for monetary donations (tax deductible) from you, the readers. The collected funds will be used to purchase new winter clothing for Garrett County children in need. Because the newspaper administers the program, there are no added fees or overhead costs. Every penny donated is used to buy the winter items.

How are needy children being identified?

A special core of volunteers is working right now to identify those in need this year. Those selected for applications will be receiving them soon. (Please do not call for the service. If you have been selected, you will soon be notified.)

How will the children's clothing be purchased?

Volunteers will take the families shopping at Wal-Mart or through the J.C. Penney's catalog store in Oakland, or at the Ames in Frostburg. The children, with the help of their parents, may select their own new coats, hats, sweaters, long johns, jeans, boots, pajamas, or other needed winter items, spending up to $100 per child.

We need two things: volunteers and donations.

To volunteer as a shopper in Oakland, please contact Linda Thomas at 301-387-6203. To volunteer as a shopper at Ames, please call Lisa Broadwater at 301-895-5827 or 301-746-8223. For general information, you may call Mary McEwen at the newspaper office at 301-334-3963.

THE REPUBLICAN

To make a donation, please complete the coupon below, cut it out, and mail it along with your tax-deductible contribution to the address noted. All checks should be made out to Warm the Children Fund.

Please make your donations before November 30, 2001. Those collected after November 30 will be saved for next year's campaign.

SWANTON NEWS

OTTERBEIN UM CHURCH

Persons from the South Garrett Parish helped to make nine kettles of apple butter last Thursday at the Burlington Children's Home Campus in preparation for the Apple Harvest Festival on Saturday and Sunday. Approximately 1,975 gallons of apple butter were made during the week.

The Burlington UM Family Services Auxiliary sponsors the Apple Harvest Festival every year. Burlington UM Family Services is a ministry of the West Virginia Conference to the people of West Virginia and Garrett County.

Those working at Burlington from Otterbein last week were: Pastor Bali and his wife Maxine, Wanda Maphis, Mary June Harvey, Freda Teets, George and Freda Rexroad, Orval and Mareva Teets, David Wilson, Brian and Sandy Schofield, Dotty and Melvin Beckman, David Coleman, Joan Riley, Bennie Beckman, and Renee Schofield.

Members of the North Glade 4-H Club worshiped at Otterbein on Sunday. Their visit was in observance of National 4-H Week.

Linda Fleming and Sandy Schofield, accompanied by Mary June Harvey at the piano, sang at Camp Aldersgate's annual sing last Saturday evening.

The fall district meeting of UM Methodist Women from Potomac Highlands District will be held this Saturday, Oct. 13, at Petersburg, W.Va. Those attending should bring a sack lunch and items for a food pantry. Transportation will be available. For further information, persons may contact Mary June Harvey.

Rally Day is Sunday, Oct. 14, for Swanton Otterbein Sunday school. There are classes for all ages. Sunday school begins at 9:45 a.m., and is followed by worship at 11 a.m.

The Sunday school is sponsoring an Autumn Glory hayride. All are welcome to bring a friend and get on the wagons at the church by 1 p.m. The wagons will travel up Pine Hill Road, to Mellinger Road, hitting North Glade Road to Camp Agape, where hot dogs, apples, cookies, and other picnic food will be served. The wagons will return to the church between 4 and 4:30 p.m.

The Swanton/Kitzmiller Charge Conference will be held at Otterbein this Sunday, Oct. 14, at 6:30 p.m.

The administrative board will meet Tuesday, Oct. 16, at 7 p.m.

The South Garrett Parish Revival will be held at Bethel United Methodist Church in Mtn. Lake Park Oct. 19-21. Services will begin at 7 p.m. Rev. Clifford Schell will be the speaker. All are welcome.

SWANTON COMMUNITY CENTER

Approximately 20 persons from the center made and sold donuts at the Springs Folk Festival, Springs, Pa., on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 5 and 6. The Community Center has done this for many years. Phyliss Friend was chairperson for this activity.

The October meeting will be held Monday, Oct. 15, at 7:30 p.m. at the center.

PERSONALS

Ralph Friend was discharged from Garrett Memorial Hospital last Monday and is now recuperating at home.

Melvin and Dotty Beckman, and Mareva and Orval Teets attended the funeral of Carl Allen Rhodes Jr. in Romney, W.Va., last Wednesday.

Renee Schofield, Frostburg, visited Mary June Harvey last Wednesday.

Leslie and Tracey Beckman and son of Ohio spent several days with Melvin, Dotty, and Andrew Beckman last week. They returned home on Sunday.

The personal and real property of Ildra Friend Frantz was sold at public auction Saturday.

On Saturday evening Joshua Teets visited his grandparents, Fannie and Bob Rizer and Freda Teets, on his return to Blacksburg, Va., from the WVU-Va. Tech. football game in Morgantown, W.Va.

Ellis, Mike, Emily, and Michaela Woodbrey visited Mary June Harvey on Saturday and Sunday, before returning to Shepherdstown, W.Va.

Weekend guests of Maxine and Meredith Ball were Ralph Hogan and Sherry Drummond of Elyria, Ohio, and John and Marla Bodiford of Cincinnati.

Visitors of Gertrude Annarelli over the weekend were Lee McClelland, Downey M. Hanna, and Connie Wojciechowski, all of Baltimore.

Linda and John Fleming hosted a birthday dinner at Many Pines for their daughter, Lucinda Davis, on Sunday. Others attending were Steve, Amber, and Jacob Davis, Albright, W.Va., Mareva and Orval Teets, Richard Gerlach, and April Fleming. A.J. Fleming stopped by after dinner.

Calvin and Maedean Winters of Romeo, Mich., visited Fannie and Bob Rizer Monday evening before returning home Tuesday. They had spent the weekend in the area to attend the antique car show at the Apple Harvest Festival in Burlington, W.Va., on Sunday. They had traveled 515 miles from their home in Romeo in their 1950 Chevrolet Sports Coupe, which won Best Appearing Vehicle in the show.

Harvest Dinner Set For Oct. 13

The Friendsville United Methodist Church will serve its annual Harvest Dinner on Saturday, Oct. 13, 4 to 7 p.m., in the church's social room.

The menu consists of turkey, dressing, mashed potatoes, gravy, green beans, sauerkraut, cranberry jello salad, rolls, dessert, and beverage. Also available will be crafts, baked good, and carry-out dinners.

Tickets will be sold at the door. The meal costs $6 for aduits and $3 for children under 12.

This event is coordinated by the United Methodist Women. The church is located along Water Street in Friendsville.

Miss Beitzel and Mr. Probst Exchange Vows In June Ceremony

Sandi Beitzel, daughter of Melvin and Gloria Beitzel, Salisbury, Pa., became the bride of Keith Probst, Grantsville, son of Arnold and Ellen Probst, Williamsport, Pa., at 11 a.m. Saturday, June 2, 2001. Pastor Daniel Tice and Jonathan Baker officiated the ceremony at Cherry Glade Mennonite Church, Accident.

Kendra King, Harrisburg, Pa., was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Darla Tice, Grantsville, and Lorena Weimer, Accident.

The flower girl was Evi Schrock, Grantsville, cousin of the groom. Ring bearers were Garret Yoder, Hyndman, Pa., cousin of the groom, and Dawson Beitzel, Frostburg, nephew of the bride.

Kevin Probst, Williamsport, brother of the groom, was the best man. Groomsmen were Kevin and Sherwin Yoder, both of Hyndman and cousins of the groom.

A reception was held at Dry Run Fellowship Hall, Accident. A rehearsal dinner was held at Cherry Glade Mennonite Church, hosted by the groom's parents. Following the ceremony, the couple spent their honeymoon in Pigeon Forge, Tenn., and are presently residing in Salisbury.

The bride is a graduate of Meyersdale Area High School in 1994, and spent the following five years serving under Eastern Mennonite Missions. She is now employed by Goodwill Mennonite Home, Grantsville, as a certified nurse's aide.

Probst graduated from Loyalsock Township High School in 1994 and from Rochester Institute of Technology, Rochester, N.Y., in 1998. He is employed by Mt. Top Youth for Christ, Grantsville, as executive director.

Eli Sommers, 67, Springs, Pa., and Sarah Jane Custer, 61, Meyersdale, Pa.

Miss Gregory To Wed Mr. Klotz

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Gregory, Oakland, announce the engagement of their daughter, Amanda Leanne, to Timothy D. Klotz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Doug Klotz, Hoyes.

The bride-elect is a 2000 graduate of Southern High School and is currently enrolled at Garrett Community College, where she is majoring in agriculture.

Mr. Klotz is a 1997 graduate of Northern High School and is employed by Klotz Construction in Friendsville.

A fall 2002 wedding is being planned.

Swartzentrubers Celebrate Their 50th Wedding Anniversary

Doris and Delbert Swartzentruber, Oakland, recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. The event, hosted by their children and grandchildren, was held at the home of their youngest son, Dan, and was attended by many family members and friends. Out-of-town guests were from Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Florida.

The Swartzentrubers were married on September, 7, 1951, by Reverend William Eisenberg at the Lutheran parsonage in Winchester, Va. Delbert, also known as "Shorty," served in the U.S. Army, was a Garrett County deputy sheriff, and retired from coast-to-coast truck driving for Hill Top Fruit Market in 1993. Doris also retired in 1993, after working 32 years as a registered nurse in the operating room of Garrett Memorial Hospital.

Delbert is the son of Nellie Swartzentruber, Oakland, and the late H.D. Swartzentruber, long-time mayor of Oakland. Doris is the daughter of the late Donald and Lillian Glover, Canton, Ohio.

The couple are the parents of four children: Dani Sue Miller, Diana Winter, and Dan Swartzentruber, all of Oakland, and Dennis Swartzentruber of East Rockland Key, Fla. The Swartzentrubers also have eight grandchildren.

Bray-Nesselrodt Wedding Slated

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald L. Bray Sr., Kitzmiller, recently announced the engagement and upcoming wedding of their daughter, Cheryl Lea Bray to John Douglas Nesselrodt, son of Mrs. Nancy Brady, Kitzmiller, and Mr. Johnny Nesselrodt Sr., Burlington, W.Va.

The wedding will take place Oct. 20, at Locust Grove Church of the Brethren, Mt. Storm, W.Va., by invitation only.

COVE

The women of Zion Lutheran Church, Accident, are sponsoring a fall bazaar on Saturday, Oct. 20, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Lunch will be served the entire time. Arts and crafts, quilts, comforters, woven rugs, holiday items, baked goods, homemade soup, and homemade sauerkraut will be for sale. Parking is available behind the church. Handicapped-accessible entrances are located in the front off Highway 219. The public is invited.

Pam, Rachel, and Darlene Schmidt, Bonnie and Kevin Haenftling, and Bonnie's uncle Gene attended the Springs Folk Festival on Friday.

Weekend visitors at the home of John, Darlene, and Rachel Schmidt were Gerald, Jessica, Hunter, and Summer Gardner, Stafford, Va. Pam was also home for the weekend. Saturday visitors were Silas and Ruth Gardner from Woodbridge, Va., Bryan, Anita, and Tessa Gardner, Brett House, Tim, Sandy, Kathryn, and Dalton Kitzmiller, Karin Tyson from Marshall, Va., and Debbie Miller and children from Oakland. On Sunday, Rachel and Pam attended the Toby Keith concert in Morgantown.

Saturday luncheon guests of Mrs. Alfreda Friend were Josh Robinson and Kristin Hitchins. Josh spent the weekend here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Robinson. Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Robinson were Mr. and Mrs. William Robinson, LaVale, Mr. and Mrs. George Fint, Aurora, W.Va., Mr. and Mrs. Scott Bittinger and daughter Stephanie, Horse Shoe Run, W.Va., Mrs. Brian Anderson and children Samantha and Michael, Arthurdale, W.Va., Kristin Hitchins, and Mrs. Alfreda Friend.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Perry were Monday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Blamble and daughter. The Perrys helped Ronald celebrate his birthday. Another visitor was Shannon Blamble. Mr. and Mrs. Perry were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Long on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ringer joined Circle of Friends for a mystery bus trip for the weekend. The group traveled to Berlin, Ohio, and visited some Amish country. They were treated to Amish cooking, buggy rides, and also visited a cheese factory as well as many other attractions. On Sunday, the group attended a Mennonite Church and participated in worldwide communion.

Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Deniker were Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Broadwater, Accident, and Mr. and Mrs. Everett McClintock. Mr. and Mrs. Glen Krause, Morgantown, arrived at the Deniker home on Sunday and are spending a few days. Monday evening visitors of the Denikers were Roy Deniker and Paul Deniker. A Tuesday visitor was Gary Deniker, Mt. Airy.

A Saturday evening visitor of Mrs. Garnet Ringer was Mrs. Dorothy Bernard, Swanton.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Long celebrated their wedding anniversary on Sunday by having dinner in Somerset. Joining them for dinner were their daughter Beth, grandson Keaton Thomas, J.R. Thomas, Janet Nicholson, and Mr. and Mrs. Don Warrick, daughter Kayla, and grandchildren.

Weekend visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Joslin and son Andrew were Gary and Marsha Fulton, O'Fallon, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Schmidt traveled to Huntington, W.Va., Friday to spend a few days. While visiting there, they had dinner together on Saturday at Bob Evans Restaurant with Mr. and Mrs. Jerry McFann and family, Lesage, W.Va., Mr. and Mrs. Skip Bryan, Huntington, W.Va., Mr. and Mrs. John Arnold, Proctorville, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. Jason McFann, Glenwood, W.Va. The Schmidts also traveled to New Paris, Ind., where they visited a John Deere museum to see some restored tractors. They returned to their home Tuesday.

The Schmidts attended the homecoming at the State Line Methodist Church on September 30.

Harold Schmidt and Scott Schmidt recently traveled to Bedford, Pa., to participate in a Make a Wish truck show.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Schmidt, Mrs. Tosh Schmidt and daughter Danyel, and Mrs. Lee-Ann Rinker and children Matthew and Alexandria had dinner together recently.

Marie Glover, Markleysburg, Pa., and Harold and Betty Frazee, Connellsville, Pa., attended the State Line UM Church, Cove Rd., State Line, on Homecoming Sunday, Sept. 30. They also stayed for the concert by Windy Ridge. Harry Nicklow, Fort Hill, Pa., also attended the State Line Homecoming and the concert. Brenda Shreve, Grantsville, is pastor of the State Line UM Church.

Mtn. Arts Co-Op To Sell Artworks October 14-21

Nearly 20 artisans of the Mountain Arts Cooperative will offer their handmade wares at the former Pritts building in Oakland beginning this weekend, Oct. 14. The cooperative will remain at the building through Oct. 21.

Items for sale will range from walking sticks to furniture, and will include pottery, jewelry, and art works. The artisans are all from the local region, and all their products have been carefully juried, according to a spokesperson.

"We are proud to have only the best of western Maryland and West Virginia represented in our organization," said Martha McCartney, the Mtn. Arts Co-op president. "It's a great chance to pick up some unique, not-to-be-found-anywhere-else presents and decorative items for your home."

The Pritts building is located directly across the street from the Oakland train station. The schedule for this year's co-op is as follows: Sunday, Oct. 14, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Monday, Oct. 15, through Thursday, Oct. 18, 10 a.m. until 5 p.m.; Friday, Oct. 19, 10 a.m. until 7 p.m.; and Oct. 20 and 21, 10 a.m. until 5 p.m.

FSU Will Host Folk Rock Duo

The Day, a folk rock duo with a hip-hop edge, will appear "Live at the Loft" at 8 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 19, in Frostburg State University's Lane University Center. This event is free and open to the public.

"Influenced by such artists as Phoebe Snow, Ben Harper, and Sly, this Philadelphia-based duo blurs the lines between funk and folk with its own distinctive sound," stated a program spokesperson. The Day has appeared around the country with stars, ranging from Jill Scott and Common to Tommy Conwell, Ben Arnold, and Nelly Furtado. To warm up for two tours for the BMI recording label, one in the United States and one to Hong Kong and China, the duo is now touring college campuses.

For more information, persons may call the Lane University Center's Information Desk at 301-687-4411.

Simon To Present 11th Annual AGF Organ Recital

Organist Geoffrey Simon will present his 11th annual Autumn Glory Festival concert on Friday, Oct. 12, at St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland. The recital, titled "2001: A Grand Organ Odyssey," will begin at 7 p.m.

Simon will open the program with Richard Strauss's Prelude from Also sprach Zarathustra, followed by two segments of Gustav Holst's The Planets: "Mars, the bringer of war," and "Venus, the bringer of peace."

Other composers' music to be presented by the organist will include that of Ralph Vaughan Williams, Johann Sebastian Bach, Antonin Dvorak, and others.

To conclude the performance, the audience will stand and join in singing the hymn "Alleluia! Sing to Jesus," followed by Simon's playing of Louis Vierne's Toccata from Symphonie I, Opus 18.

There is no admission price for the recital, although a free-will offering will be collected. This concert is funded in part by the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council.

Simon is the organist and choirmaster of St. Luke's Episcopal Church in Bethesda, and an examiner in the performing arts section of the U.S. Copyright Office at the Library of Congress, where he conducts the Library of Congress Chorale. He also serves as a lecturer in the Music Department of Montgomery College, Rockville.

With undergraduate degrees from Duke University and Kent State University, Simon earned a doctor of musical arts degree from the Peabody Conservatory of the Johns Hopkins University, and is a Fellow of the College of Church Musicians at Washington Cathedral, where he studied with Leo Sowerby and Paul Callaway.

His U.S. recitals have taken him to churches and universities across the country and include six recitals on the great organ of Washington Cathedral. Simon has also performed throughout the world at cities such as Berlin, Copenhagen, London, and Warsaw. He is also one of the few Americans invited to play a recital at the historic St. Thomas Church in Leipzig, Germany, where Johann Sebastian Bach served as cantor for many years. Bach's tomb is located there.

As a conductor, he has led performances of choral and orchestral works from the Renaissance, Baroque, Classical, Romantic, and contemporary musical eras. Choirs and orchestras under his baton have performed Bach's B Minor Mass, St. John Passion, and many of his motets and cantatas; masses of Mozart, Haydn, and Schubert; Handel oratorios such as Messiah, Solomon, and Ode to St. Cecilia; the great Requiem settings by Brahms, Faure, and Mozart; major contemporary compositions by such composers as Carl Orff, Francis Poulenc, Luciano Berio, Lalo Schifrein, and Leo Sowerby; and countless anthems.

At the Kennedy Center, Dr. Simon conducted 80 members of the National Symphony Orchestra in a concert including Mendelssohn's "Reformation" Symphony. He has conducted world premiere performances of works by several contemporary American composers, and in 1997 gave the second U.S. performance of The Company of Angels by Benjamin Britten. Earlier this year, he conducted Pergolesi's Sabat Mater and Bach's Cantata 199 to mark the beginning of Holy Week.

Fund-Raising "Murder Mystery" Set At The Silver Tree Center Oct. 24

The Frostburg Murder Mystery Train Crew is joining forces with the Silver Tree Center to host a murder mystery dinner theater to benefit the American Red Cross on Wednesday, Oct. 24.

The train will "derail" at about 6 p.m. during dinner at Taste Unlimited Lakeside, located in the lower level of the Silver Tree Center. The event will last until 9 p.m.

The cost per person is $30. Tickets must be purchased in advance. Ticket outlets include McHenry Radio Shack, Leone's at Silver Tree, and the new American Red Cross office along Third Street in Oakland (next to Pizza Hut). Persons may also call 301-387-4394 or 301-387-4040 for more information. The ticket will cover an hors d'oeuvre party, a full sit-down dinner, and "lots of extra mischief," a spokesperson said.

Donations acquired during the Murder Mystery Dinner will go to the local Western Potomac Chapter of the American Red Cross, which has served the Garrett County area since 1917.

"Don't miss this thriller evening and the chance to make a difference in the lives of your fellow Garrett Countians," the spokesperson said.

Those who cannot attend the Murder Mystery Dinner but would like to make a contribution to the Western Potomac Chapter of the American Red Cross may mail donations to: American Red Cross, 12 South Third Street, Oakland, MD 21550. The office may be reached by phone at 301-334-3810.

Moonshine Cherrys Will Appear At Frostburg State

FSU Center Stage will present the Moonshine Cherrys from Knoxville, Tenn., at 8 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 20, at Frostburg State University. The concert, which is free and open to the public, will take place in the Lane University Center's Alice R. Manicur Hall.

"With a name that comes from a Tennessee bootlegger whose products included maraschino cherries soaked in moonshine for six months, the band brews up its own blend of pop songs featuring slashing rock rhythms, mandolins, pop tunes, and vocal harmonies. The result is an All-American, good time sound," said a program spokesperson.

He added that Moonshine Cherrys is rapidly building a solid reputation among the college crowd with live performances and a self-titled, debut CD on Syren Records.

"If the Cherrys live come over like the CD, I reckon there's a slew of folks out there who should absolutely love these guys," says the Knoxville News-Sentinel.

For more information, persons may call the Lane University Center Information Desk at 301-687-4411.

SANG RUN is a local musical group that will be featured as part of the Garrett Community Concert Band's fall concert, slated for Saturday, Oct. 27, in the GCC auditorium. The group consists of, pictured from left, front, Alice Fleischman and Jose Pimenta-Bey; and back row: Fred Jacoby, Michael Broderick, and Jeff Gilbert. The theme of the concert is Celtic Music, and Sang Run will present instrumental music with Irish flute and whistle, fiddle, guitar, mandolin, and percussion, as well as vocal selections. The members describe their music as "not quite Irish music" based on the Celtic tradition, "but with a twist," with influences from Ireland, Brittany, Cape Breton, and Appalachia. The concert will also feature the GCC Pipes and Drums, playing as a group and in concert with the Garrett Community Concert Band. The program will begin at 7:30 p.m. Admission is by donation, with a suggested donation of $5 per seat. The program is funded in part by the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council.

Charlotte's Web To Be Presented At Frostburg St.

The Roundabout Theatre at Frostburg State University will present the children's classic, Charlotte's Web, at 2 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 20, and Sunday, Oct. 21, in the Performing Arts Center's F. Perry Smith Studio Theatre.

This show for children of all ages is based on the childhood favorite by E.B. White. An affectionate, sometimes bashful, pig named Wilbur befriends a spider named Charlotte, who lives in the rafters above his pen. Wilbur is devastated when he learns of the destiny that befalls his kind. Aided by Templeton the rat, Charlotte learns her "ABC's" and spins a web that reads "Some Pig," convincing the farmer and surrounding community that Wilbur is no ordinary animal and should be saved. "This story of a very special friendship reminds us to open our eyes to the wonder often found in the simplest of things," said an FSU spokesperson.

Michael Abendshein, a student at FSU, will direct the all-student cast.

OTT Schedules Costume Workshop For Children

Our Town Theatre, Oakland, is planning its second Halloween costume workshop for children. On October 20 from noon to 3 p.m., elementary school children will have the opportunity to work with a teenager or adult in creating an original Halloween costume out of the theatre's "bits and pieces." The theatre is asking for a donation of $5 for each child to help defray expenditures.

Jane Avery, artistic director of OTT, stated, "We certainly can't compete with all of the major stores as far as convenience, but children who partake in our workshop will have the chance to use their creativity and will get to spend a little quality time with someone who will work with them to create an original costume for a very affordable price. It's also a rewarding experience for the teens and adults."

Avery went on to say that parents may stay with their children during the workshop, or may leave the youngsters and pick them up at an appointed time. Reservations, which must be made by October 15, are necessary so that the project coordinators can make certain that they have enough supplies as well as assistants. Persons may call 301-334-5640 to book an appointment.

Preston High To Hold Fine Arts Festival

The Preston High School (Kingwood, W.Va.) Fine Arts Department will present its annual Fall Fine Arts Festival on Monday, Oct. 22, beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the school theatre. The event will feature the Jazz Knights, Electric Knights, Preston Dancers, Concert Choir, Marching Knights, and the Madrigal Choir.

Admission is $3 per person. All are invited to attend.

David Wroe To Speak At Annual GLAF Meeting

Maestro David Wroe, musical director and conductor of the new Deep Creek Symphony, will be the featured speaker at the annual meeting of Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) Monday, Oct. 22, 7:30 p.m., in the art gallery at Garrett Community College.

Wroe will speak of the vision he shares with GLAF, that this area will become a mecca in the eastern United States for the finest in classical and jazz performances. According to a spokesperson, Wroe and the Deep Creek Symphony "electrified" audiences at the inaugural series of the symphony this past August, presenting a family concert and two symphonic concerts of the Music on the Mountain classical series.

The agenda for the meeting will also include seasonal GLAF reports and an election of nominees to the board of directors. The public is invited to attend. Persons wanting more information may call the GLAF office at 301-387-3082.

Bartlett Votes For Farm Bill

"America's farmers are the most productive in the world, and this farm bill will help to make sure that success continues," said Congressman Roscoe Bartlett (R-6-Md.) after voting yes for H.R. 2646, the Farm Security Act of 2001.

Bartlett added, "It's amazing that only two percent of Americans work directly as farmers and ranchers yet produce enough to feed millions. Currently, American consumers spend only 10.9% of their income on food. Contrast this with other countries like Mexico and India, where citizens spend up to 24.5% and 51.3% of their income for food. Whether we live on a farm, in a suburb, or a city, we all have a stake in maintaining a strong and viable agricultural economy. That's why this multi-year farm bill is so important."

Features of the bill include:

- Provides planting flexibility for farmers while including a safety net of counter-cyclical income support to provide predictability and stability.
- Substantially increases funding for conservation programs by 80% to protect and preserve farmland and watersheds, such as the Chesapeake Bay and Potomac River.
- Continues strong support for research advances.

OVERALL ENGINEERING EVENT WINNER — Stephen Lilly was chosen as Overall Engineering Event Winner and also placed 1st in automotive to State, 1st in Senior Bicycle to State, and 1st Senior Small Engines to State.

Perennial Weed Control in Corn

Fall is a perfect time to treat perennial weeds. Why? Because the plant is now storing carbohydrates and sugars to allow it to overwinter. Thus, flow is from the top of the plant to the below-ground root system. By applying a systemic herbicide to the plant, flow will also be from the top of the plant down to the roots. While you may have seeds to contend with next year, your major goal in the fall is to get rid of or at least make some inroads in destroying the underground root systems. One note of importance is that frost damage weeds will not respond to herbicides; however, standing corn does offer protection.

What's available? While a number of products come to mind, the one used most widely is glyphosate (Round-up Ultra Max, Touchdown, and others). It's safe, easy to handle and allows you to plant soon after application.

Asian Lady Beetle Invasion Will Be Coming

Several of the common species of lady beetles (ladybugs, if you prefer) found in our area will wander indoors during the fall. However, this is a distinctive and annoying trait of the Asian lady beetle, a relatively new species imported to the United States from eastern Asia.

The "multicolored Asian lady beetle" (Harmonia axyridis) has become common in Garrett County. This biological control natural enemy is a beneficial inhabitant of the landscape but can also be a serious household pest in those areas where it has become well established and abundant.

Asian lady beetles, like boxelder bugs, pine seed bugs and elm leaf beetles, are accidental invaders; that is, "outdoor" insects that create a nuisance by wandering indoors during a limited portion of their life cycle. Accidental invaders do not feed or reproduce indoors. They cannot attack the house structure, furniture, or fabric. They cannot sting or carry diseases. Lady beetles do not feed on people though they infrequently pinch

Most Frequently Diagnosed Cancer in US Men

Prostate cancer is the most frequently diagnosed cancer and the second most common cause of cancer-related death in men. This cancer type can be found in 50% of men over 70 and virtually all men over 90. Most prostate cancers do not show symptoms because they spread so slowly. Difficulty and frequency associated with urinating sometimes are confused with benign prostatic hyperplasia, another common condition seen in older men.

Surgical removal of the prostate gland and/or the testes and radiation therapy are used to slow or stop the disease. Long-term control may involve drugs that affect or suppress hormones. Medicines called luteinizing hormone-releasing hormone (LHRH) agonists such as leuprolide (Lupron) and goserelin (Zoladex) sometimes are used. The medicines may be as effective as surgery. Another group of medicines used to manage prostate cancer is called androgen receptor antagonists. These medicines, which include flutamide (Eulexin) and bicalutamide (Casodex) may be added to the LHRH agonists in hopes of preventing further stimulation of prostate tumor growth.

Garrett County Included In Disaster Area

President Bush amended a disaster declaration on June 18 to include Garrett County. As a result of this amendment, Garrett County was declared eligible for federal disaster assistance, including Farm Service Agency (FSA) emergency (EM) loans for eligible family farmers.

This action is based on damages and losses caused by severe storms, flooding, and landslides that occurred from May 15 through June 11, 2001.

"If you have financial difficulties caused by this natural disaster, you may wish to request help under the Farm Service Agency Emergency Loan Program," stated Mike Kozier, director of the Garrett County FSA. To apply for an emergency loan, persons should contact Kozier's office.

Emergency loan funds may be used to restore or replace essential physical property such as animals, fences, equipment, orchard trees, etc.; pay all or part of production costs associated with the disaster year; pay essential family living expenses; reorganize the farming operation; and refinance debts.

Loans for crop, livestock, and non-real estate losses are normally repaid in 1 to 7 years depending upon the loan purpose, repayment ability, and collateral available as loan security. Loans for physical losses to real must annually report the following crop acreage information: name of the crop, type and variety, location and acreage of the crop, one's share of the crop and the names of other producers with an interest in the crop, type of practice to grow the crop, date the crop was planted in each field, and intended use of the commodity.

In addition, farmers must provide the following crop production information: the quantity of all harvested production of the crop for which one has an interest during the crop year, the disposition of the harvested crop (such as whether it was marketable, unmarketable, salvaged, or used differently than intended), and verifiable or reliable crop production records.

When a crop or planting is affected by natural disaster, farmers must come to the office and complete CCC-576 Par B, Notice of Loss, within 15 calendar days of the following: natural disaster occurrence, final planting date (if planting was prevented by natural disaster), date damage to the crop or loss of production becomes apparent, or the normal harvest date.

The loss of production must exceed 50% of normal expected production, or 35% of intended crop acreage for a prevented planting.

exposed skin. Lady beetles may leave a slimy smear and they have a distinct odor when squashed.

As with other accidental invaders, the most effective management option is to prevent invasion by sealing cracks, gaps and openings on the outside before the beetles wander in during early fall.

Indoor sprays are of very limited benefit. Aerosol foggers could be used in attics for some immediate relief of heavy infestations but will not control beetles that have not yet emerged from cracks and protected cavities. The practical solution for homeowners in fall and winter is to vacuum and discard invader lady beetles as they appear.

Recently, the Agricultural Research Service announced that camphor and menthol effectively repel the Asian Lady Beetle and could be a way to repel the insects as they attempt to overwinter indoors. Research indicates that camphor and menthol vapors are an irritant to the beetle's chemosensory organs. These organs — like little taste buds — were found to be so sensitive that the vapors from the two compounds were enough to repel the lady beetles. The adult beetles use visual or physical clues to find acceptable overwintering sites. These locations are usually the sunnier or warmer sides of buildings in the afternoon. Once beetles are at the chosen site, they then resort to using chemical clues to locate the exact crevice they want to inhabit. Researchers believe that the source of these chemical clues may be beetle feces from the previous winter or the odor of beetles that died at the site. They could be repelled from their overwintering sites by the camphor and menthol repellants.

A Reminder — Voucher for Applying Fertilizers

If you spread commercial fertilizer or animal waste on 10 acres or more, the Maryland Water Quality Act of 1998 requires you to have a certified voucher that you completed the educational requirements. This part of the law takes effect after December 31, 2001. As a service to those who need vouchers, the Garrett Cooperative Extension will be offering the two hours of training on the following dates: November 1, 6, & 9, 2001. For details and registration, call my office at 301-334-6960.

Local Agency Explains Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program

The noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program provides financial assistance to eligible producers whose eligible crop production, for which crop insurance is not available, is affected by natural disasters.

Eligible crops include commercial crops and other agricultural commodities produced for food, including livestock feed or fiber for which the catastrophic level of crop insurance is unavailable.

The following are examples of eligible natural disasters: damaging weather, such as drought, excessive moisture, or hurricane; an adverse natural occurrence, such as earthquake or flood; or a condition related to damaging weather or adverse natural occurrence, such as excessive heat or insect infestation. The natural disaster must occur before or during harvest and must directly affect the eligible crop.

According to the Garrett County Farm Service Agency, changes have been made to NAP, which make it very similar to crop insurance. Persons must apply for coverage and pay the applicable service fees. The application and service fees must be filed by the application closing date as established by the FSA State Committee. Because the new changes were received after crop year 2001 began, eligible producers may pay the service fee at the same time as reporting a loss due to natural disaster. The service fee is $100 per crop, or $300 per producer per county, not to exceed $900 per producer for all counties. For information on the coverage period for crop year 2002 and subsequent years, persons may contact the Farm Service office.

To remain eligible for NAP assistance, farmers estate must normally be repaid within 30 years.

The final date to apply is February 19, 2002.

As Northeast Dairy Compact Expires, Md. Farmers Cry Over Spilled Milk

by Marie Beaudette
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON — State dairy farmers said the expiration last week of the Northeast Dairy Compact thwarted years of efforts to get Maryland included in the organization, which sets minimum milk prices in some states.

Maryland farmers were "holding out hope that the dairy compact would help them remain economically viable," said Valerie Connelly, director of government relations for the Maryland Farm Bureau.

Without the support of the Northeast compact, which expired Sept. 30, farmers here say more and more dairy farmers will be forced out of the business and their farms will be sold off for development.

Grocers and consumer groups disagree.

"It has been demonstrated already that it does not work and all the compact has done has been to increase milk prices to the consumer," said Barry Scher, vice president of public affairs for Giant Food. "There are other alternatives available that will help dairy farmers without penalizing consumers."

Although milk prices are high now, however, there is no guarantee that they will continue through the winter months, Connelly said. State agricultural officials said there are indications that milk prices could drop in the months to come.

Maryland has been trying for years to join the New England compact, along with Delaware, New Jersey, New York, and Pennsylvania. That effort was dashed when the compact expired earlier last week. But farm groups and some legislators hope to revive the issue during debate on the farm bill, which was passed by the House of Representatives later last week.

Midwestern dairy farmers oppose the continuation of the compact, which they say artificially inflates milk prices on the East Coast. While that helps small East Coast farms, which mostly sell fluid milk, it hurts Midwesterners, who see much of their milk used to produce cheese and dry milk.

Patrick McMillan, special assistant to the Maryland secretary of agriculture, said that the expiration of the compact would have no immediate effect on Maryland, but the hope that the state would eventually join was encouraging in bad times.

"It could potentially close that option," he said. "However, we have every expectation that there will be an opportunity in Congress to renew that compact."

Members of New York's congressional delegation were expected to introduce an amendment to extend the dairy compact, a move Midwestern lawmakers are likely to try to block using House rules.

Paul Weller, executive director of the Maryland Dairy Industry Association, said the compact's price supports would provide smaller Maryland dairy farmers with the profits they need to stay in business.

There is a lot of "economic pressure to sell out to developers," he said. "It's a tough business to be in."

Weller was raised on a western Maryland dairy farm, but his parents sold it in the 1970s because it was too small to be competitive, he said.

"That's what's happening all over Maryland," Weller said.

Scher agreed that Maryland's small farms and development pressures in the state are driving dairy farmers out of the business, along with the younger generation's lack of interest in farming. But he noted that those reasons are unrelated to milk prices that the compact would support.

Still, the Maryland Farm Bureau is concerned that if the compact isn't renewed with Maryland as a member, the state's dairy farmers will be more discouraged than they already are.

"I think we'll see a whole lot of farmers considering leaving the business," Connelly said.

House Rejects Redirecting Farm Aid To Conservation, Smaller Farms

by Marie Beaudette
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON — The House recently narrowly rejected a proposal that supporters said would have benefited smaller farmers like those in Maryland by shifting funds in the $170 billion farm bill from subsidies to conservation incentives.

The amendment to the 10-year bill would have shifted almost $2 billion a year out of subsidies that go mostly to large farms in the Midwest and toward conservation programs. Supporters said the extra conservation money would go to more farmers in more regions of the country.

Rep. Wayne Gilchrest, R-Md., was a leading sponsor of the failed amendment, which he said would help protect family farms from development pressures, while preserving the health of the Chesapeake Bay by encouraging environmentally friendly farming.

"This is about people who have tilled the land in Maryland for 300 years," Gilchrest said at a news conference on the measure earlier this week.

The failed amendment also called for the creation of "conservation corridors" around the country that would have encouraged farmers to take a regional approach to environmental protection.

Gilchrest withdrew a separate amendment to create a local conservation corridor, after getting assurances from the bill's supporters late Thursday evening that they would back a pilot program for such a corridor on the Delmarva peninsula.

The failed bipartisan amendment — sponsored by Gilchrest and Reps. Ron Kind, D-Wis., Sherwood Boehlert, R-N.Y., and John Dingell, D-Mich. — would have doubled conservation funding over the amount in the bill passed by the Agriculture Committee. Boehlert said the amendment would have increased agriculture funding to 34 states.

"Every state and virtually ever congressional district will get more money," Kind said.

But Agriculture Committee members argued that their bill already increases conservation funding by about 80 percent. Shifting more money from subsidy payments to conservation programs would have cut too deeply into the subsidy programs, what they called the farmers' "safety net" funding.

Some farm groups agreed. The Maryland Farm Bureau said last month that those "safety payments" are vital to farmers and that the Gilchrest-Kind amendment would only have endangered those payments while creating bureaucratic headaches for farmers seeking conservation payments.

The Gilchrest-Kind proposal failed on a 226-200 vote after hours of debate. Debate on the bill continued late into the evening, with a vote expected Friday.

"Informed rejection of the amendment affirms the United States Congress's solid support and unwavering understanding of the hard work by farmers day in and day out," said Rep. Larry Combest, R-Texas, and chairman of the Agriculture Committee.

The amendment failed even though the Bush administration said it wanted a farm bill that was more focused on conservation efforts. The White House had urged the House on Tuesday to delay a vote on the farm bill until a policy could be crafted that, among other things, better protects the environment.

The current farm legislation expires next year.

Gilchrest said his amendment would have met the guidelines set three weeks ago by the Bush administration.

Specialty Crop Development Ideas Sought

Armed with a $1 million grant from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the Maryland Department of Agriculture is seeking a broad range of innovative ideas for stimulating the development, production, and promotion of specialty crops, which are becoming an increasingly significant portion of Maryland's $17.5 billion agricultural industry. Concepts will be accepted through Nov. 1, 2001.

"Maryland farmers operate in a technologically advanced, rapidly diversifying, highly competitive environment that is driven by increasingly sophisticated and diverse consumers," said Secretary of Agriculture Hagner R. Mister. "Our challenge is to make producers, wholesalers, retailers, and consumers aware of the new opportunities that are out there to benefit from the expanding food and fiber market."

Specialty crops mean any agricultural crop except wheat, feed grains, oilseeds, cotton, rice, peanuts, and tobacco, all of which benefit from traditional commodity support programs. Broad-based concepts are sought that emphasize innovative methods of agricultural production, inspection, processing, marketing, or distribution that benefit retailers or wholesale producers.

"Success in today's agriculture requires diversity and innovation," Mister added. "Changes in technology, family structure, consumer habits, and the workforce are leading to a fundamental restructuring of the food system and a much different business environment for food and agriculture in the future."

Preference will be given to projects that have long-term benefits for the greatest number of producers, and have the potential to become self-sustaining. The department also will consider smaller, targeted projects that benefit an individual or a small group of producers.

"Detailed proposals are not what we need in this initial round," Mister emphasized. "We are much more interested in as many ideas as possible that can be developed more fully once we have narrowed the field."

Responses received by Nov. 1, 2001, will be reviewed by a specialty crop development advisory committee representing private and public organizations. Ideas not funded under this program may receive technical assistance and/or direction to other funding sources.

A specialty crop development idea form is available by phoning Jane Storrs at 410-841-5770 or 800-492-5590, or on the Internet at http://www.mda.state.md.us/agdev/scpi.pdf.

"Thriving In 2002 And Beyond" Topic Of Annual Dairy Meeting

The Maryland Dairy Industry Association (MDIA) announced that it will outline a dairy production management plan at its 2001 annual meeting in Westminster on November 29. The plan will be designed to assure dairy producers of "Thriving in 2002 and Beyond," theme of the 2001 annual meeting, according to MDIA president Myron L. Wilhide of Detour (Carroll County).

More than 150 dairy producers and industry representatives are expected to participate in the meeting at Wilhelm's Conference Center in Westminster.

Advance registration for MDIA members is $40 for the all-day program, or $50 at the door. This includes buffet lunch, program breaks, and complete proceedings. Members may bring family or farmstead workers for an additional $30 each. Nonmembers are welcome at $50 in advance, or $60 at the door. Those joining on-site may register at the member rate. The "Data-Mining" pre-conference seminar cost is $10.

Veteran dairy veterinarian Dr. Jerome K. Harness will keynote the program, outlining guidelines for maximizing economic returns in the modern dairy operation. He sets the stage for an all-day program that includes Penn State University specialist Richard Stup to discuss a farm labor management plan, dairy management consultant Brad Hilty to draft a farm investment management guide, Virginia Tech dairy specialist Dr. Ray Nebel to outline a reproduction plan and timetable, and Agway veterinarian Dr. Charles Gardner to review bio-security measures to protect and maintain dairy herd health.

MDIA's dairy experts will then assemble in a panel to complete a practical dairy management guide designed to assist dairy producers in meeting the challenges of 2002 and beyond.

Also on the agenda is a pre-conference seminar at the Carroll Community College Annex computer lab on "Data-Mining," to provide dairy producers with hands-on experience on using PC Dart management software. The seminar is being planned for 8 a.m. on Thursday, Nov. 29, ahead of MDIA's annual meeting.

The meeting will also feature exhibits on the latest dairy technology and services, University of Maryland dairy Extension reports, association business reports, and election of directors and officers.

Nutrient Mgmt. Delay Form Now Available

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Hagner R. Mister this week said farmers who need to file a Justification for Plan Submission Delay form while waiting for a consultant to develop a nutrient management plan may have the form signed by any certified nutrient management consultant working in either the public or private sector.

The consultant is permitted to sign it even if he/she cannot assure that the plan will be completed in time for its implementation in 2002. This includes consultants working for Maryland Cooperative Extension, Mister said.

The time line for submitting the forms and qualifying for a plan submission delay is as follows: By Nov. 1, 2001, farmers must contact a consultant for services. Also by Nov. 1, consultants must sign a Justification for Plan Submission Delay form, but do not need to commit to completion of the plan to meet the deadline. By Dec. 31, 2001, the delay form is due at the Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA). It is the farmer's responsibility to make certain the form is sent to the MDA by this deadline.

The Justification for Plan Submission Delay forms are available at the MDA regional nutrient management offices and soil conservation districts throughout the state of Maryland. The forms have also been sent to all MDA-licensed nutrient management consultants. Those who need a delay form should contact one of the organizations listed or call the Maryland Nutrient Management Program office at 410-841-5959.

Deadline For Nutrient Mgmt. Voucher Noted

Any person who is applying commercial fertilizers or biosolids (manure) on 10 acres or more in Maryland is required by the Maryland Water Quality Act of 1998 to obtain a voucher certifying the completion of two hours of prescribed education. The Garrett County Cooperative Extension is offering the following workshops for people interested in obtaining the voucher:

- November 1, 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Garrett Community College, Continuing Education building, Room 314.
- November 6, two sessions offered at the Western Maryland 4-H Camp, near Bittinger. Session #1 from 10 a.m. to noon; Session #2 from 1 to 3 p.m.
- November 7, two sessions offered at the GC Cooperative Extension office. Session #1 from 10 a.m. to noon; Session #2 from 1 to 3 p.m.

Reservations are required by October 16 by calling the Extension office at 301-334-6960. Seating is limited.

Robin R. Kahn Joins Staff Of Mortgage Co.

David E. Sweitzer and John J. Simson of Sweitzer, Simson & Associates have announced the addition of Robin R. Kahn to their staff. Kahn, a former resident of Garrett County and a graduate of Southern High School, is a veteran of the residential mortgage business with years of experience in the Washington, D.C., metro area.

"Robin is a very welcome addition to the company not only because of her experience but also because she brings additional investor relationships which offer many advantages in today's competitive environment," Sweitzer said.

Sweitzer, Simson & Associates is located along Third Street in Oakland.

Salisbury Fund-Raising Efforts Accrue Over $7K

A benefit dinner and donation collection in Salisbury, Pa., late last month raised $7,648 to assist families of victims killed in the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks. Sponsored by the Salisbury Volunteer Fire Department, the efforts resulted in 1,119 diners taking part in a roast beef dinner at the Salisbury fire hall, which netted a profit of over $4,000, and a "boot collection" along the town's Main Street that accrued $3,317.

The entire collection will be divided 50-50, with half going to survivors of New York City firefighters, and the other half distributed among remaining victims' families in each of the three attacks, according to Salisbury VFD assistant chief Dan Haines.

The donation exceeded the fire department's stated goal of $5,000.

Flag Etiquette Details Noted

With sales of American flags skyrocketing in recent weeks, the National Flag Foundation has provided the following reminder of guidelines for proper display and disposal of the Stars and Stripes.

•The flag may be displayed after dark if properly illuminated by a single light shining on it or by a fixture such as a porch light. Without illumination, the flag should be taken down at dusk.

•An older flag that was once the official design is acceptable for display, even if it has fewer than 50 stars.

•When the flag is suspended from a wall or building, the flag union (blue field of stars) should be on the upper left and it should lie flat.

•A flag that is tattered, torn, or excessively faded should not be displayed. Such a flag may be stored as a keepsake, or disposed of in one of two acceptable ways: 1) It can be delivered to the nearest American Legion post, where it will be burned in a solemn ceremony that takes place every Flag Day (June 14), or; 2) it can be burned in a private ceremony by its owner, provided a measure of decorum is maintained and the burning is carried out for private disposal purposes only and not as an act of public protest.

Computer Intro. Class Scheduled

A four-session course titled "Introduction to Computer Skills for Beginners," will be offered at Garrett Community College on Tuesdays and Thursdays, Oct. 16-25, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. For information, persons may call Krista Wilt of the college's Continuing Education Division at 301-387-3069.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Deep Creek Watershed Board of Zoning Appeals will conduct a public hearing on Thursday, October 18, 2001, starting at 7:30 p.m. in the County Commissioners' meeting room, Second Floor, Courthouse Annex, Oakland. The Board will review the following docketed cases:

1. VR-498 - an application submitted by Peter J. Magerko for a Variance from the terms of the zoning ordinance as it affects the front yard setback for residences. The variance is requested to allow an existing accessory structure currently located within 24.83 feet of the front property line to be converted to a single family residence which requires a 40 foot setback from the front property line. The property is located at 1746 Stocksiager Road. ZONED LR.

2. VR-499 - an application submitted by Eleanor M. Selberling for a Variance to construct an addition that will come to within 13 feet of a side property line instead of the grandfathered 13.7 feet. The property is located at 447 Hazelhurst Road. ZONED LR.

3. VR-500 - an application submitted by Christopher Perez for a Variance to allow an existing deck to remain at a zero setback from the rear property line instead of the required 5 feet. The property is located at 48 Stone Tavern Lane. ZONED LR.

4. VR-501 - an application submitted by Jimmy Railey for a Variance to construct a single family residence that will come to within 25 feet of a front property line instead of the required 40 feet. The property is located at 801 Marsh Hill Road (Lot #1). ZONED LR.

5. VR-502 - an application submitted by Jimmy Railey for Variances to construct a single-family residence that will come to with 25 feet of the front property line and to within 20 feet of the rear property line instead of the required 40 feet in each instance. Also, the application requests a Variance for the residence to go to within 9 feet of a side property line instead of the required 15 feet. The property is located at 801 Marsh Hill Road (Lot #2). ZONED LR.

Interested persons are invited to attend.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this proceeding is to secure the foreclosure of all rights of redemption in the following property located in Garrett County, Maryland, sold by the Collector of Taxes for Garrett County and the State of Maryland to the Plaintiff in this proceeding, which is more particularly described as:

all that parcel of land assessed [as Account No. 06-003842] situate in Election District No. 6, containing 21.04 acres, more or less, and described in the deed from Asten, Inc. to Raymond A. Ferguson dated November 2, 1971 and recorded November 10, 1971, in Liber No. 317, folio 233, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland

The Complaint states, among other things, that the amount necessary for redemption has not been paid, although more than six months and a day from the date of sale have expired.

It is thereupon this 25th day of September, 2001, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, Ordered that notice be given by the insertion of a copy of this Order in some newspaper having a general circulation in Garrett County, once a week for three successive weeks, warning all persons interested in the property to appear in this Court by the 26th day of November, 2001, and redeem the property and answer the Complaint or thereafter a final judgment will be entered foreclosing all rights of redemption in the property, and vesting in the Plaintiff a title, free and clear of all encumbrances.

OF IMPROVED REAL PROPERTY
3304 FROSTBURG RD.
FROSTBURG, MD 21532

Under a power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust from Charles Thomas and Carla K . Thomas, dated Sept. 13, 1997 and recorded in Liber 721, folio 77 among the Land Records of Garrett Co., MD, default having occured under the terms thereof the Sub. Trustees will sell at public auction at the Circuit Court for Garrett Co., Courthouse Door, Oakland, on OCTOBER 30, 2001 AT 10:15 a.m.

ALL THAT FEE-SIMPLE LOT OF GROUND, together with the buildings and improvements thereon situated in Garrett Co., MD and more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust.

The property, which is improved by a dwelling, will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions, encumbrances, prior deed(s) of trust and/or agreements of record affecting the same, if any, and with no warranty of any kind.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $17,000 by cash, or certified check. Balance of the purchase price to be paid in cash within ten days of final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett Co. If the purchaser fails to go to settlement, the deposit shall be forfeited and the property shall be resold at the purchaser's risk and expense. Interest to be paid on the unpaid purchase money at the rate pursuant to the Deed of Trust Note from the date of sale to the date funds are received in the office of the Sub. Trustees. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason, there shall be no abatement of interest. Taxes, ground rent, water rent, condominium fees and/or homeowner association dues, all public charges/assessments payable on an annual basis including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges, if applicable, to be adjusted for the current year to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. The purchaser is responsible for any amount in excess of $500 of outstanding water bills, if any, incurred prior to date of sale. Cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes and settlement expenses shall be borne by the purchaser. Purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property. Purchaser assumes the risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale forward. If the Sub. Trustees are unable to convey good and marketable title, the purchaser's sole remedy in law and equity shall be limited to a refund of the deposit. In the event the sale is not ratified for any reason, the purchaser's sole remedy, at law or equity, is the return of the deposit. Additional terms, if any, to be announced at sale.

Maryland Department of the Environment
Waste Management Administration
Notice of Application Received and Opportunity for Informational Meeting

The Maryland Department of the Environment (the "Department") is presently reviewing a Groundwater Discharge Permit Renewal Application (98-DP-2770) submitted by the Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling for Rubble Cell at the Garrett County Solid Waste Disposal and Recycling Facility. The application is for the continued discharge of the wastewater generated by rainwater percolating through the rubble cell floor at the Garrett County Solid Waste Disposal and Recycling Facility into groundwater via infiltration/percolation. This permit is for the existing portion of the rubble cell that was a non-hazardous solid waste acceptance facility for the disposal of construction and demolition debris. The landfill is located at 3118 Oakland Sang Run Road, Oakland in Garrett County, Maryland 21550. The proposed permit allows the Department to set and maintain requirements for the continued monitoring of groundwater quality at the landfill, and does not authorize an expansion or other change to the facility as currently permitted.

The Department has decided to extend the expiration date of the permit for this facility because the current expiration date was not issued for a five-year term allowed under section 9-213(a) Environment Article, Annotated Code of Maryland. This section allows the term of a permit for a landfill system to be renewed for an additional 5-year term before a permit expires on the 5th anniversary of its date of issuance. Therefore, processing of this application will be deferred until February 25, 2004, at which time; opportunity for an informational meeting will be offered to discuss the application and the permitting process. In the interim, the Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling will continue monitoring under its present permit. However, a meeting can also be scheduled earlier if a request is received by October 25, 2001.

The request should indicate the name, address, and daytime telephone number of the person making the request, the name of any party whom the person making the request may represent, and the name of the facility. Upon request, the Department will provide an interpreter for the deaf or hearing-impaired persons. The application and supporting documents will be available for public review after October 4, 2001, at the Garrett County Public Library located at 6 N. 2nd Street, Oakland, MD 21550 and at the Department by appointment.

For further information regarding this notice, or to schedule an appointment to review this permit application and supporting documents at the Department, please contact Ms. Gail Castleman, Hearings Coordinator at 410-631-3314.

SUBSTITUTE TRUSTEES' SALE OF VALUABLE FEE-SIMPLE DWELLING

FROSTBURG, GARRETT COUNTY, MARYLAND 21532

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust from Dwayne E. Wilhelm and Joan C. Wilhelm to Household Finance Corp. III, Trustee, dated July 13, 2000 and recorded in Liber 810, folio 562 among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, the holder of the indebtedness secured by the Deed of Trust having appointed Gerald Danoff, Dennis W. King, and C. Larry Hofmeister Jr., Substitute Trustees by instrument duly executed, acknowledged and recorded among the Land Records of the County aforesaid, default having occurred under the terms thereof, and at the request of the parties secured thereby, the undersigned Substitute Trustees will offer for sale at public auction

AT THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR GARRETT COUNTY, AT THE COURTHOUSE DOOR, OAKLAND, ON TUESDAY, OCTOBER 30, 2001 AT 1:00 O'CLOCK P.M.

ALL THAT LOT OF GROUND AND THE IMPROVEMENTS THEREON situated in Garrett County, Maryland and more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust.

The property is improved by a dwelling and is in fee-simple. The property address is 14121 National Pike, Frostburg, MD 21532.

The property will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting the same, if any, and with no warranty as to the description of the improvements.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $17,000 will be required at the time of sale, such deposit to be in cash, cashier's check, certified check, or in other form as the Substitute Trustees may determine acceptable, in their sole discretion. Balance of the purchase price is to be paid in cash within ten (10) business days of the final ratification of sale, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County. If payment of the balance does not take place within ten business days of ratification, the deposit will be forfeited and the property will be resold at the risk and expense of the defaulting purchaser. Interest to be paid on unpaid purchase money at the rate pursuant to the deed of trust note from date of sale to date of settlement, in the event the property is purchased by someone rather than the note holder. Taxes and water rent to be adjusted to date of sale. All other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges to be adjusted for the current year to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps and transfer taxes shall be borne by the purchaser. If the Substitute Trustees are unable to convey good and marketable title, the purchaser's sole remedy in law or equity shall be limited to the refund of the deposit to the purchaser. Upon refund of the deposit, this sale shall be void and of no effect, and the purchaser shall have no further claim against the Substitute Trustees. The purchaser at the foreclosure sale shall assume the risk of loss for the property immediately after the sale.

ASSIGNEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE IMPROVED PROPERTY

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage from PAUL D. THAYER and KATRINA L. THAYER to THE TERRA ALTA BANK dated October 26, 1999, and recorded October 27, 2001, in Liber No. 788, folio 616, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, and the Assignment thereof for the purpose of foreclosure dated September 15, 2001, default having occurred under the terms and conditions of said mortgage and it having been duly assigned to the undersigned for the purpose of foreclosure, I hereby give notice that I will, on in the Rotunda of the Courthouse, in the Town of Oakland, Garrett County, Maryland, offer for sale, and sell at public auction to the highest bidder, the following property, to-wit:

October 26, 2001
At the hour of 10:00 a.m.

ALL those pieces or parcels of land situate, lying and being in Election District No. 6, Garrett County, Maryland, which is known and designated as Lot Nos. 28 and 29, Section 4, Block H, as shown on a revised plat of Piney Mountain Corporation recorded in Plat Book 2, page 59, one of the Plat Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

SUBJECT to certain restrictive covenants which are fully set forth in a deed from Piney Mountain Corporation to Frank M. Skerbetz and Frank G. Skerbetz dated September 15, 1964, and recorded in Liber No. 260, folio 135, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

EXCEPTING unto Piney Mountain Corporation, its successors and assigns, a right of way with right of entry upon, over, across and through said lots for the purpose of constructing, operating, maintaining and repairing pole lines for electrical and telephone service and other utilities.

ALL lots sold in the Piney Mountain Subdivision shall be subject to similar restrictive covenants.

BEING the same as conveyed by Alden R. Perando to Paul D. Thayer and Katrina L. Thayer, husband and wife, by deed dated September 15, 1995, and recorded in Liber No. 664, folio 183, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

The property is unimproved.

The property will be sold "AS IS," subject to all reservations, restrictions and encumbrances of record affecting same, if any.

TERMS OF SALE: A cashier's or certified check of TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS ($2,000.00) shall be paid at the time and place of sale, except no deposit shall be required of the mortgagee, its successors or assigns, balance in cash at settlement, except that if the mortgagee, its successors and assigns, is the purchaser, a credit will be allowed for the mortgage debt, which shall be twenty (20) days after final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court of Garrett County, Maryland, unless said period is extended by the assignee, his successors or assigns, for good cause shown, time being of the essence. In the event that the purchaser fails to go to settlement as required, the property shall be re-sold at purchaser's risk and expense. Taxes and all other charges, if any, to be adjusted to date of sale. All other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis shall be adjusted to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes, agricultural transfer tax, document preparation and title insurance and/or examination shall be borne by purchaser.

The improvements are being sold in an "as is" condition with purchaser responsible for any and all housing or zoning code violation.

Stop Renting. Start Owning.

Buy a home for $600 down with M&T's Get Started Mortgage.

M&T's Get Started Mortgage can make you a homeowner, even if you don't have a lot of cash. All you'll need is a 1% cash downpayment – that's just $600 on a $60,000 home. M&T can help you finance everything else, even the closing costs. And qualifying is easier than you think. So if you want to start owning instead of renting, call M&T today at (301) 387-4001. Our mortgage consultants are available by appointment seven days a week, anytime, anywhere.

AGF Grand Feature Parade Has Over 100 Units; Winners Named

Over 100 units participated in the Grand Feature Parade of the 34th annual Autumn Glory Festival last Saturday. Crowds lined the streets of Oakland under sunny skies to view the floats, marching bands, and drill teams. Cheers greeted the grand marshal, "Our Rescue Service Heroes," transported by the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department's Engine No. 1, a 1930 American LaFrance, driven by firefighter Joe Helbig, accompanied by his son Cory.

America's rescue service personnel were represented by their Garrett County counterparts. Charlie Pattison, a founding member and a 50+-year veteran of the Bloomington Volunteer Fire Department, symbolizes firefighters nationwide. Riding on behalf of the National Guard, SSgt. Larry Schlossnagle has served 30 years with the National Guard, 20 years as a firefighter, and volunteered with the Red Cross. Elizabeth Huxford, representing Red Cross volunteers everywhere, serves as a volunteer bloodmobile coordinator in Oakland and as a member of the board of directors for the Western Potomac Chapter of the Red Cross.

Cpl. Mike Bittinger of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and president of the Fraternal Order of Police #99 represented all law enforcement officers. Hazel Stewart, a 27-year volunteer with the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad, stood for all dedicated emergency rescue service personnel.

Three members of the National Judges Association, clipboards in hand, sat on the reviewing stand along Second Street recording scores for entries competing in nine categories. Following are the groups winning awards and trophies for their participation.

For float entries in the parade, Terra Alta Bank earned the top award for overall excellence. In the amateur category, prizes went to Brenda's Body Shop, first; Aurora School PTO, second; and People First of Oakland, third. Prizes for commercial floats were awarded to Top Soil Enterprises, first, and Garrett County Memorial Hospital, second. Awards for professionally designed floats went to WEPCO Federal Credit Union, first; Westvaco, second; and Markwood Family of Dealerships, third.

GC Health Dept. Starts Move To New Facility

The Garrett County Health Department has started its move into the new Health Center along Memorial Drive this week.

Effective Monday, Oct. 22, Home Health, Administration, AERS/Western Maryland MedBank Prescription Program, and Community Health will be operating from the new center.

The public should begin using the following phone numbers as of Monday, Oct. 22, for direct dial into the following departments: Administration, 301-334-7700; Home Health, 301-334-7750; AERS, 301-334-7740; Western Maryland MedBank Program, 301-334-7742; and Community Health, 301-334-7730.

The Mental Health Outpatient clinic will be moving Oct. 22, 23, and 24, and there may be some disruption in services; however, all emergencies will be handled in an expeditious manner.

Addictions Services will be moving the latter part of the week. The remainder of the health department services, which include Environmental Health, WIC, Personal Health, Family Planning, Healthy Families, and Dental Services, should be completed by the end of the first week in November. Exact times and dates will

Pioneer Conveyor Breaks Ground At Southern Business/Tech Park

The Garrett County Board of Commissioners announced yesterday that Pioneer Conveyor, a locally owned business currently located along Leon White Road, will expand to the nearby Southern Garrett Business and Technology Park near Mountain Lake Park.

The commissioners hosted a groundbreaking ceremony yesterday at the site where Pioneer Conveyor will construct a new 10,770-square-foot facility, which is expected to employ up to 32 people by 2003. Courtland Helbig, president, Steve Tressler, vice president, and Mike Thomas, general manager, represented Pioneer Conveyor at the groundbreaking.

Pioneer Conveyor was established in 1999 and manufactures conveyor idlers for sale to mining and aggregate industries. According to a press release from the commissioners, Pioneer Conveyor has grown to become a major manufacturer of conveyors for the mining industry, with approximately a 7% market share. The company has produced more than 100,000 feet of conveyor systems in 2001, with 90% of its product being shipped out of state to Kentucky, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Illinois.

"It is good to be at a point where we need to expand just two years after starting this new company," Helbig said. "We are pleased at the rate of growth of the business and plan to add an additional 20,000 square feet over the next three years."

Commission chairman Fred Holliday said the board was pleased to be able to partner with Pioneer Conveyor to make the expansion possible. "It is great to see activity in the Southern Garrett Business and Technology Park," he said. "This project, and some others that we hope to be able to announce in the near future, would not have been possible without the recently completed project to expand the industrial park. Once again, it demonstrates that we have to invest in infrastructure to encourage and support business growth."

Also attending the event were Delegate George Edwards; Jim Waters, USDA Rural Development's community and business program director; Jim Hinebaugh, the county's economic development director; and Criss Kepple Sweitzer, development corporation chairperson.

State Cuts Spending In Reaction To Sept. 11 Terrorist Attacks

by Christopher Sherman
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — Maryland is freezing new hires, trimming agency budgets by 1.5 percent, and deferring $65 million in capital projects to cope with the economic fallout of the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks.

The measures will squeeze $205 million from budgeted state spending to cover soaring security costs and plunging revenues related to the terrorist hijackings, Gov. Parris N. Glendening announced Wednesday.

"Our economy is and remains very strong, (but) we are seeing a slowdown in revenue and significant security costs," the governor said, outlining an early plan to cut expenditures before the December budget estimates.

In fact, the nation's economic slowdown prior to the Sept. 11 attacks has turned into an economic standstill, the governor said.

There also will be no spending for new programs of any size next year, the governor said.

Heightened security across the state has cost $6 million, and that will grow to $24 million by the end of the fiscal year on June 30, 2002. That does not include what the federal government pledged to pay for sending National Guard troops to police the airports, said Eloise Foster, secretary of the Department of Budget and Management.

Those figures do include the cost of providing more security personnel at Maryland airports, intensified truck inspections, and continued health benefits for

Adolescent Substance Abuse Has Decreased, According To Survey

According to the 2001 Maryland Adolescent Survey, more teens in Garrett County use tobacco, alcohol, and drugs than those surveyed in the state of Maryland, but these numbers are lower than the last survey in 1998.

Substance abuse in Garrett County drops below the state average for seniors, but the students in sixth, eighth, and tenth grades were above the statewide average.

According to Dr. Pat Mullinix, coordinator of research, evaluation and information, the numbers for beer and wine are drastically lower than they were three years ago.

"Overall we are pleased to see a drop in the numbers of the recent survey, but we feel that there is still room for improvement," Dr. Mullinix said.

Cigarette use in all the grades is approximately half of what it was in 1998, and beer and wine consumption is also down significantly, she said.

Dr. Mullinix stated that some of the contributing factors in the decrease is attributed to the revision to the comprehensive health curriculum for grades K-12, new textbooks for the middle and high schools, and Project ALERT, an anti-tobacco program for middle school students.

"We also feel that strong support from the health department, which sponsors after-school programs, has helped decrease the numbers." Dr. Mullinix said.

According to Dr. Brenda McCartney, assistant superintendent, the collaboration with the community and the health department has been a major factor in the decreased numbers.

"We have increased the general community awareness, and a lot of research points to the positive impact family has," Dr. McCartney said. "We are encouraged by the results in this survey, but only with continued education and collaboration with the school system, community, and health department can the results improve even more."

GCC Included In Technology Training Grant

Western Maryland's post-secondary institutions — Frostburg State University, Allegany College of Maryland, Garrett Community College, Hagerstown Community College, and Hagerstown Business College — will be expanding a program designed to equip faculty members with technology for teaching, thanks to a grant of $175,000 from the Maryland Higher Education Commission.

Started in the summer of 2000, the WhyTech program has held approximately 110 workshops of about eight participants each. Through these workshops, faculty members learned skills such as using PowerPoint presentations, graphics, interactive video, and Internet resources. Each workshop allowed the faculty member to produce a product to be used in a current class. Another 100 workshops are planned for the coming year, according to Dr. Marthe A. McClive, an FSU associate professor in the Department of Business Management, who is coordinator of the project.

Workshops were also held in learning styles and instructional design.

"It all translates to better teaching," McClive said.

The new grant will also include opportunities for one-on-one follow-up sessions to assist individual faculty members with their teaching strategies, building on elements learned in the workshops.

One purpose of the WhyTech project is to meet the University of Maryland System's resolution on technical fluency. One way to do that is to have faculty members model technology for their students.

"The ultimate aim is to help students be more comfortable learning and doing business on-line. That will help them be more employable and help Maryland businesses," McClive said.

The project has also helped its leaders study what works and what doesn't in the relatively new field of on-line learning.

Among the five institutions, there are a potential 800 full- and part-time faculty who can be reached by this project.

All of the institutions involved except HBC are members of the Regional Education Service Agency of Appalachian Maryland,

Commissioners Discuss Need For Recycling

The Garrett County commissioners discussed improving recycling efforts in the county with representatives from the Garrett County Department of Solid Waste and Recycling this week during their public meeting.

Commissioner Fred Holliday indicated that while the county has made some progress in recycling in recent years, it needs to greatly improve its efforts.

Gary Love, director of Solid Waste and Recycling, said that rural areas face three "fundamental" problems when trying to develop a recycling program: separation of materials to ready them for markets, low volume of recyclables, and long distances to markets that will accept recyclables. He noted, however, that other rural areas, such as Allegany and Preston counties, had overcome these problems by making recycling mandatory and finding ways to make a program pay for itself.

Holliday noted that two of the largest contributors to the county's landfill were newspapers and cardboard. He pointed out that reducing the amount of those items received at the landfill would increase the life of its disposal cells. The county could then use the present landfill site longer, he said, and not have to look for a new one quite so soon.

"What are we doing to encourage the municipalities to recycle newspapers?" Holliday asked the representatives.

Nikki Brown, the county's recycling/public relations coordinator, said that there were currently only two local markets accepting newspapers: a recycling center and a company that uses the newspapers for insulation material.

"We need to develop a consorted process to make it conducive for municipalities to collect (newspapers)," Commissioner Ernest Gregg said.

Holliday added that there is little incentive for consumers to drive miles to the landfill themselves to recycle their items.

The commissioners and representatives discussed their need to develop an easy-to-use recycling program that would financially benefit municipalities, which would create an incentive to collect recyclable items, yet at the same time not greatly increase residents' collection fees.

Brown also reported on her department's recycling education program. She said she had submitted a letter to the Board of Education offering to give recycling presentations and guided tours of the landfill to students.

"We have gotten a little

DNR HONORS CITIZEN'S LIFE-SAVING ACTION — Part-time Garrett County resident Georgia Ann Holler, left, was presented with a Department of Natural Resources' proclamation by Natural Resources Police officer James Clise recently in recognition of her April 4 actions that likely saved the life of an Oakland man. Holler dove into the 38-degree waters of Deep Creek Lake and swam 100 yards to rescue the man whose canoe had capsized approximately 45 minutes earlier in the area of the Glendale Road bridge. She put a lifejacket on the victim and swam back to shore with him in tow, then provided basic first aid until the rescue squad's arrival. The victim was treated for exposure at Garrett Memorial Hospital and released later that same day.

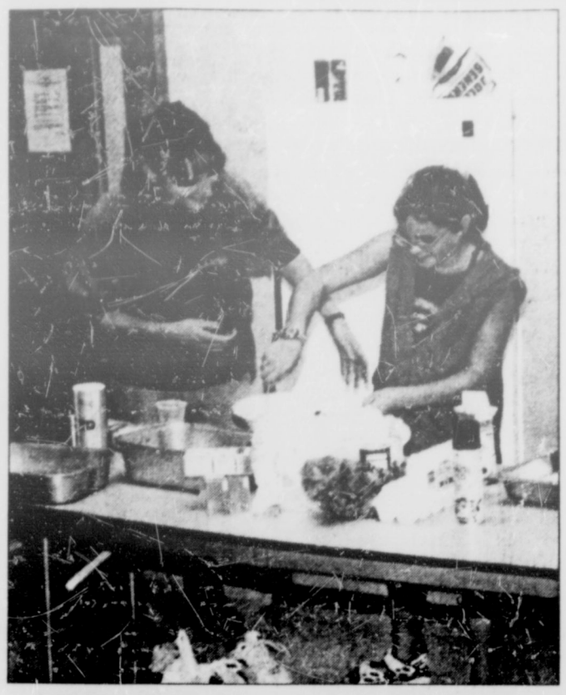
"Kids Helping Kids" Food Drive Set In Schools

A "Kids Helping Kids" food drive has been slated for Monday, Oct. 22, through Friday, Nov. 9, at nine area schools by the Community and Emergency Services office of the Garrett County Community Action Committee. The participating schools are Crellin, Yough Glades, Dennett Road, Kitzmiller, Bloomington, Broad Ford, and Friendsville elementary schools, Swan Meadow School, and Northern Middle School, and the class that donates the most food (in pounds) from each school will be treated to a pizza party.

Students interested in taking part in the food drive may ask their family, a friend, or a neighbor to donate a canned food product or a non-perishable food item. The students then bring as many food items as they can collect to their school, where collection boxes will be in place. Team One Auto has donated the use of a vehicle to pick up and transport the food items to GCCAC, which will use the food to assist Garrett County residents in need.

Some examples of needed food are canned vegetables, canned meats, canned soups, canned fruits, peanut butter, pastas, macaroni, macaroni and cheese, spaghetti, and spaghetti sauce.

For further information on the "Kids Helping Kids" food drive, persons may contact Community Action at 301-334-9431, ext. 119.



A FREE SUPPER will be served this evening in the parish hall of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church in Oakland for anyone in need of a meal or fellowship. Serving will be from 5 to 7 p.m. Similar meals will be served Tuesday, Nov. 20, and Thursday, Dec. 20, with hopes to continue the program, called Stephen's Table, depending upon community participation and support. The program is made possible via the efforts of the members of St. Matthew's and St. John's Episcopal in Deer Park. Tax-deductible donations to support the program may be mailed to St. Matthew's at Box 303, Oakland. Volunteers are also needed to assist with the preparation and clean-up. Pictured above preparing corn bread are St. Matthew members Mary Lantz, left, and Alyssa Dick. Persons wishing to volunteer are asked to telephone Debbie Strubin at St. Matthew's (301-334-2510) or Marilyn Regentin at 301-334-0622. The church, which is located at the corner of Second and Liberty streets, is handicapped accessible.

Local Woman Injured In Friday Crash

A Friendsville woman remains hospitalized in Garrett County Memorial Hospital this morning in guarded condition following a Friday afternoon single-vehicle accident along northbound Route 42 north of Friendsville.

Edith Thomas, 75, was seriously injured in the 3:20 p.m. mishap when, according to the Maryland State Police, she lost control of her 1995 Lincoln Town Car south of Buffalo Run Road for unknown reasons. The car struck a guardrail and became airborne, striking the embankment and several trees along the roadside.

Thomas was transported by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial, where she is still a patient in the Intensive Care Unit. The Southern Rescue Squad and Friendsville Volunteer Fire Department also assisted at the scene.

The accident is still under investigation by state troopers, who reported that charges may be forthcoming.

In other state police news, a Saturday morning accident near Swanton slightly injured a West Virginia child.

Shortly before noon, a 1993 Plymouth Voyager van operated by Nathaniel Hinkle, 30, Mtn. Lake Park, went out of control along Route 495 near Swanton Hill Road when a front tire blew out. The van struck an embankment along the road, injuring a three-year old passenger. The child was transported by the Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial, where he was treated and released. The Deer Park VFD assisted at the scene, and no charges were filed by state police.

Alleged Assault Leads To Arrest Of Two MLP Men

Two Mountain Lake Park men were arrested recently by the Garrett Bureau of Investigation (GBI) and Garrett County sheriff's deputies stemming from an alleged assault at an apartment building along H Street.

David Wayne Welch, 39, was charged with robbery, theft, motor vehicle theft, first and second degree assault, and false imprisonment.

Charles Martin Morehead, 43, was charged with pandering, contributing to the condition of a child, and providing alcohol to a minor.

Morehead allegedly provided alcohol to and solicited a 15-year-old female for sex while in her apartment. Welch, who lives in a neighboring apartment, caught Morehead in the apartment with the female and allegedly assaulted and threatened to kill Morehead while brandishing a knife, police said.

Welch forced Morehead to hand over all his money and to sign over ownership of his vehicle. Morehead was held in the apartment for more than one hour, and was later released by Welch and reported the incident to authorities.

Welch is currently incarcerated in the Garrett County Detention Center on $50,000 bond. Morehead was released after posting $5,000 bond.

Vehicle Hits House; Woman Receives Injuries

A Deer Park woman was injured when she apparently fell asleep at the wheel of her 1993 Mercury Grand Marquis and struck a house, causing extensive damages Sunday, according to the Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Janet Rose Browning, 59, was eastbound on Powles Drive when she said she fell asleep, and when she woke up she tried to make a left turn and ran through a yard, striking a house, and driving through a garage door, hitting a motorcycle, police said.

She was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she was later discharged after treatment.

In a separate incident, Terry Louise Wotring, 38, failed to make a turn and traveled off the roadway, striking a fence and overturning on an embankment Saturday, police said.

Wotring was operating a 1995 Ford van along Bethlehem Road near Eagle Rock Road at the time of the incident. Wotring was transported by Southern Rescue Squad to GCMH and has been admitted for further treatment.

Several people were injured in accidents involving all-terrain vehicles on Saturday.

Kristen Ann Gray, 22, Pittsburgh, Pa., was traveling northbound along Toothpick Road when she gave her 2000 Yamaha too much gas, lost control, and ran into a ditch, police said.

Gray was released from GCMH after receiving treatment for her injuries.

MEALS ON WHEELS DONATION — Mabel Smouse, left, representing the Catholic Daughters of America, is pictured as she hands Ronnie Padmos, Older American Act coordinator, a check for $500 to go to Garrett County's Meals on Wheels program, which has been recently affected by funding cutbacks. In addition to this donation, an anonymous contribution of $1,000 has been made, and another individual has pledged to give $100 each month, according to a program spokesperson. The Friendsville Seniors Group has also pledged to donate the proceeds from its weekly bingo games, the spokesperson said. Because of the funding shortages, meals are being delivered only three days a week, cut back from five. Community Action is working to restore the funding through donations. A special fund-raiser for the program is slated for Nov. 16 in Grantsville. For information on how to donate to the program, persons may contact Adina Brode at 301-334-9431.

Hayward Warren Baker, 33, Aurora, W.Va., was also released after treatment at GCMH for injuries he received when he was ejected from the 1985 Honda three-wheeler he was operating on private property, which hit a tree stump.

Timothy Marvin Marple, 42, Westernport, was also ejected from his 2001 Honda motorcycle Saturday.

According to police, he went over a jump on a race track, landed on the front wheel, and was ejected. He was transported by Southern Rescue Squad to GCMH, where he was later discharged after receiving treatment.

Man Stopped For Speeding, Faces Drug Charge

A Morgantown, W.Va., man was arrested for possession of drugs after he was stopped for speeding Friday evening by Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

According to deputies, Bill Steven Sgaggero, 18, was stopped on Broadford Road for exceeding the posted speed limit. Police said he was also found in possession of suspected cocaine.

He was arrested for speeding and possession of suspected cocaine. Sgaggero was released from the Garrett County Detention Center on his own recognizance.

In a separate incident, three people were arrested on drug charges after deputies stopped their vehicle on Maryland Highway late Saturday night.

According to deputies, they stopped the vehicle after it was observed crossing the center line near Loch Lynn. Police then contacted the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force, who conducted a K-9 search, which revealed suspected marijuana in the vehicle.

The driver, Rudolph I. Jefferson, 23, Fairmont, W.Va., was charged with failing to drive right of center, driving on a suspended out-of-state license, and possession of marijuana.

Passengers Judy R. Keplinger, 22, Fairmont, and Jessica R. Lyons, 19, Mtn. Lake Park, were both charged with possession of marijuana.

Jefferson and Lyons were released after posting $500 bond each, and Keplinger was released on her own recognizance.

Local Audience Learns About Terror Of Taliban From Activist

by Mary Sincell McEwen

ZOHRA RASEKH

The word "Taliban" was barely known to the majority of Americans prior to Sept. 11, 2001. Now it has become part of our vocabulary, discussed almost daily in nearly every office and home across the country. What it represents is almost unfathomable to us: a government that apparently endorses the diabolical deeds of Sept. 11 that left so many people either dead, injured, or grieving; a government that so abuses its own women; a government that harbors terrorists such as Osama Bin Laden. It may be a new term to us, but not to Zohra Rasekh, an American citizen born in Afghanistan who has fought for years to plead the case of her native people and their plight.

Rasekh, now a resident of Falls Church, Va., came to Garrett County this week to speak about the turbulent history of the Central Asian land, which has throughout the centuries repeatedly been the battleground for warring, usually non-Afghan, factions. She specifically outlined the past 25 years, which have been fraught with long periods of violence and anarchy, and have resulted in the emergence of the extremist regime known as the Taliban.

The local audience of over 200 sat quietly while Zohra, soft-spoken and slight in build, detailed the anguish and horror of Afghani people, who have been continual victims of political strife. She began by giving a brief history of the country, noting that its location alone has caused turmoil, as it is basically a through-way to countries such as China, Iran, and Pakistan. In the 20th century, the British attempted to invade the country twice, followed by the former Soviet Union in 1979.

"The Afghani people are peaceful," Rasekh said. "They do not wish for war, but the country has been used as a battlefield by outside forces for years and years."

The country was a monarchy until 1973, followed by a republic government until 1979, when the Soviet Union invaded. The communist regime had stormy control for the next 14 years.

She reminded the audience that the United States basically fought against the Soviet Union during its occupation of the country in the 1980s. While the USA did not send actual troops to the country, it did provide vast weaponry to the Afghan Freedom Fighters as they combated USSR's communistic take-over. Zohra said the Afghani people saw the USA as a friend, although in 1989, when the Soviet-backed regime left the country, the perceived friend turned its back on Afghanistan.

"Suddenly the two super powers were gone, and what we had left were legions of well-armed, well-trained young men, and lots and lots of weaponry," Rasekh said. "The international attention that had been focused on Afghanistan disappeared, and the country fell into anarchy. The country, following the Soviet invasion, was forgotten. What was left was a bad wound that was not treated timely."

"In 1994, the Taliban seemed to emerge from no where," she said. "The group had never existed in Afghanistan before, but they came claiming to be the 'angels of peace.'"

What the group truly is, she said, is a gang of angry young men probably born between 1975 and 1980, who were taken from Pakistani refugee camps and trained at strict religious schools. They were heavily influenced by misguided people like bin Laden. At the schools, the men memorized the Koran (or Qur'an), the sacred book of Islam, in Arabic.

"They only memorized it, in a language they do not understand," she said. "They don't really know what it means, but they use it to do evil things."

Zohra said the word "taliban" means "students of Muslim religious studies," but she was quick to affirm the fact that what the Taliban and bin Laden do in the name of Islam is utterly contradictory to the faith. A Muslim herself, Zohra said the term "Islamic terrorism" is being used by some in the media, and this is a complete misnomer.

"Terrorism is not accepted in Islam," she said. "These men simply use the name. But their reasons are political, not religious." In reference to the hijackers of the airliners, Rasekh said they committed great sin by their actions. "In Islam, suicide is a sin, and it is especially sinful when killing others in the process," she said.

She said the Koran does not support the ill-treatment of women, which has indeed been occurring in Afghanistan for over five years. In fact, it states repeatedly that men and women are equal, Rasekh said, adding that the prophet Muhammad's wife was a business woman who handled all of her husband's financial affairs.

"The Koran says that women are obligated to learn, to be educated," she said. But the scenario in Afghanistan today does not mirror this in any way. Since taking control of the country in 1996, the Taliban has made life for women unbearable. One of the first edicts issued by the Taliban ordered women to leave the workforce immediately. That meant that 70% of the country's teaching force was shut out, along with 40% of the city of Kabul's physicians, 50% of all civil servants, and 40% of the university students. The women were ordered to stay at home with the windows painted over.

Now if a woman has to leave her house, she must put on a "burqa," which is a head-to-toe garment that fully covers her entire body, with just a mesh opening for her eyes. And she must not be seen on the street without a male relative as her escort. If she is alone, she risks severe public beatings or even death.

While Americans may think this is "normal" for the people of this country, it is imperative to realize that before 1996, the women in Afghanistan were as free as those in the United States. While they lived in danger because of the ongoing warfare, they were still free. They dressed how they wished, they pursued educations and careers, and they chose who they married. Zohra displayed a photograph of girls and boys at the football stadium in Kabul, prior to the Taliban takeover. The young people are laughing and relaxed, dressed in brightly colored, modern clothes. Now that same stadium is used solely for public amputations and executions, which the public is ordered to attend.

Zohra's family left Afghanistan when she was about 16 years old. More members of her family left in the ensuing years. However, her heart remained with the plight of her homeland, and she pursued studies in public health, earning a master's degree in that field at George Washington University in Washington, D.C. She joined the a U.S.-based human rights organi-

ONCE A TEACHER, this woman is now restricted to her home except when she dons her burqa and goes out to beg for food to feed her six children. A large percentage of the professional and civil workforce in Afghanistan dissipated as the ruling Taliban, a group of men whose leader is just 35 years of age, ordered all women to stay at home indefinitely.

AN AFGHANI WOMAN who was once gainfully employed as a professional is now reduced to begging on the streets in her burqa, risking public humiliation or beatings for showing as much as an inch of her wrist. Under the Taliban rule, women are no longer free. While the regime claims it "protects" its women through these harsh edicts, it is actually slowly destroying the female portion of its population.

Blessing, Curse...

The son of one of our employees here at Sincell Publishing Company who is a member of the U.S. Air Force was home on leave recently, and was having a discussion with a neighbor. Much to his utter shock, the neighbor proceeded to tell him nearly every detail of what was discussed during a recent classified Air Force briefing which was attended by the young airman. With the world's amazing technology (Internet), the details of that top-secret briefing held in South Dakota made it to Cranesville, W.Va., in a matter of a few days.

As amazing as today's communication technology may be, it is now blatantly obvious that it also poses some major threats to national, and world, security. There is hard evidence that the Internet has been utilized not only as an information gathering resource by terrorists, but also as a device for secret, vital communication of information among them. One of the wonderful, but also frightening, opportunities afforded by the Internet is that it is so easily and widely accessible. For those prone to do good, it's wonderful. For those prone to do evil, it is an enormous threat to the rest of us — the proverbial blessing and curse.

The Internet is here, though; it is here to stay, and we see no effective way to keep evildoers from utilizing it any way they please. Even if U.S. lawmakers attempt to restrict how Americans use the Internet, which would probably never survive the ACLU or even the Supreme Court, they certainly cannot do anything about foreign users.

In this same vein, we wish the national news media would be more responsible in determining what information it decides to air/publish about the current crisis. Practically the entire plan for our war effort has been reported, many times with great detail. It was even revealed when our first ground troops arrived in northern Afghanistan. Instead of simply trying to be the first to report new information, we wish that reporters would first consider the possible consequences of releasing that information. If it can in any way endanger our troops, then going ahead and reporting it is paramount to treason, not to mention reckless endangerment. The public's "right to know" should never supersede the welfare of our young men and women in uniform.

And enough about anthrax already. Yes, we need to know what to look for and what to do in the event of coming in contact with this substance, but we don't need to be told 50 times per day, nor do we need to know of every single, possible exposure incident involving anthrax. The current anthrax panic is just what the perpetrators want.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I would like to say that if our government wants to help the thousands of people who have been unemployed due to these recent terrorist attacks, they should stop taxing unemployment benefits. It's hard enough trying to exist on the small amount one gets on unemployment without having the government add insult to injury by taking a huge bite out of that.

I for one am contacting our congressman, Roscoe Bartlett, to let him know how I feel. I urge others to do likewise. This is truly one way we can help the hurting.

Sincerely,
Norma J. Rodeheaver

To the Editor:

On Saturday, October 13, our squad was on stand-by for the Autumn Glory Parade when a gentleman collapsed and we were called to treat the him.

I first want to offer my condolences to the family of the gentleman, and to say I believe he is in a better place and he is no longer suffering. We did all we could do and we tried our best, and I truly am sorry. I am sure I speak for the whole squad in sending our condolences.

The second thing that I would like to say is thanks to all the people who helped us during the call. We are trained emergency medical personnel, but without the help of the public, we can't do it all. I also cannot express the need for people to learn CPR and also the need for squad volunteers. It truly is a rewarding experience.

Sometimes when we are under difficult conditions we don't take the time to thank people, or have the time, as was the situation in this case.

To the Editor:

I would like to express my appreciation to the county for all the improvements on the roads, especially Shady Dell Road. It looks so much better since it was widened and black topped, except for the portion at the end where certain individuals were too greedy to give up a few feet of their land.

It seems it was a waste of time and taxpayers' money to widen and pave the road for ½-mile before the intersection of Mason School Road. This is a dangerous section of road on which it is difficult to pass other motorists any time of the year, but is impossible in the winter months. These people know who they are because they are the same two who complain about not being able to get their bus turned around on this road. Well, who's fault is that?

I guess my question is, why does the county let two people tell them what to do when we're all taxpayers? If there is anyone else out there who feels the same way, by all means, please speak up. Maybe we can get this issue resolved someday.

To the Editor:

In a time of national crisis, the Republicans are more concerned about their agenda than doing what is in the best interest of the country and safety of the voters that they represent.

It has been well documented that some private companies have hired airport security screeners who are not qualified for the position. As a result, last week, the Senate with its Democratic majority, by a vote of 100 to 0, passed a bill that would make airport screeners federal employees.

House Republican Majority Leader Dick Armey from Texas claims that Democrats want to make airport screeners federal employees in an effort to add up to 28,000 more union workers to the federal payroll.

Because union members are more likely to vote for Democrats, Armey and other House Republicans (majority) are set to oppose making airport screeners federal employees.

Restoring public confidence in the safety of the U.S. aviation system should take precedence over petty Republican politics.

Editor's note: The Garrett County Humane Society received the following thank-you note and requested that it appear in this column.

Dear Friends,

On behalf of the New York City Police Foundation, the entire New York City Police Department, its officers and their families, and all of those whose lives have been affected by the events of Sept. 11, I'd like to thank you for your generous contribution of $350 to the Heroes Fund.

The Heroes Fund was established immediately after the collapse of the World Trade Center, and will be an integral part of the rebuilding of our great city. Donor requests for specific use of funds will be honored, and will be used to aid the families of officers killed or injured in the relief effort and to provide emergency assistance to the NYPD. Your gift brings comfort, support, and hope.

As you know, your donation is tax-deductible to the extent provided by law.

Again, my heartfelt thanks to you for participating in this most worthwhile mission.

Your friend,
Pamela D. Delany

To the Editor:

I started my daily routine today by waking to the local news station, starting with national and international news, following with reports about who got arrested for DWI or DUI. The headlines on the radio continued to be about the attack on our homeland. As before, I listened with keen interest to learn the newest events in this time of terrorism. As usual, after getting ready for work I fixed breakfast and settled down to watch the national morning shows.

This morning brought to head a conflict that has been brewing inside me concerning national TV. We have been given stories from interviews of various professionals about what is wrong with our country. This morning was no exception. An interviewer relentlessly asked this professional how a terrorist incident could possibly occur. Generalities were not requested, but rather details on how it could happen. The professional started to tell me what to look for in the regard of strange behavior from possible terrorists. He mentioned about persons taking videos of national monuments to get a measurement scale for a later attack. When he started going into details about what I could watch for and help prevent another act of terrorism, we had to break for yet another commercial.

I am worried that our media is revealing to the terrorists the chinks in our great country's armor. No nation can be impervious to attacks of terrorism, but why must our media continue to give terrorists the means to find those flaws? Don't tell me how to make a bomb. Instead, tell me what I can do to help. The greatest force against terrorism in the United States of America is Americans. We are everywhere. We can be observant. Media, tell us what we can do to be proactive instead of allowing us to hide behind our complacency of greatness. We are still a great nation and we all need to become soldiers against terrorism. Each of us can watch for signs and report suspicious activities, no matter how insignificant they may seem.

We have a problem of vandalism within our town. Our park has weekly acts of vandalism. Yet no one has come forward to report seeing suspicious behavior at the park. In America we have become complacent; no one wants to go out of the way, we say we are afraid to speak up. We must change that attitude or this unseen enemy will defeat us. If a flight student asks for lessons about flying horizontally and is not concerned about landings or take-offs, be proactive and report it. I have talked to other Americans who feel the same way. National TV, stop telling the terrorists what is wrong with America and start telling us what we can do to stop these malicious acts against America's way of life. And legislators, stop leaking classified information to the media. Don't you know by now that the media has no restraint in what is revealed? How would you feel if our soldiers were killed as the result of your releasing classified information? The President was right in denying further information to you.

To the Editor:

Since the horrific day of Sept. 11, our country and its resilient people have become remarkably unified and shown more pride in the United States than in five decades. As a citizen of this great country, it is rewarding to see so many great acts of heroism, giving of time and resources, and especially, to see our government leaders working together.

On issues concerning our energy, consumers have been on a roller coaster of pricing highs and lows for several years. Dating back from the energy crunch of the seventies to the present, consumers are dependent on fuel supplies being consistent. Over the years we have had many times of expensive home fuel bills and high costs per gallon at the gas pumps.

In times like these, it is even more important that citizens and members of our government work together to support products that are made in the United States. One of those products is ethanol. Ethanol is a clean-burning fuel made from renewable resources such as corn, barley, wheat, or any starched-based product. It has proven to be environmentally friendly and has already aided in cleaning the air due to oxygenation requirements in major cities. Ethanol is currently being produced primarily in the Midwest.

Our great nation has become far too dependent on foreign oil sources. There is no better time or reason for the United States to expand our production and use of ethanol. The United States is capable of supplying a much greater portion of our fuel needs.

The problem started with OPEC cutting oil production. The U.S. relies on foreign suppliers for 59% of our oil needs, or 9 million barrels a day, and projections call for the U.S. to be 70% oil dependent by 2010. Domestic production is off 34% since 1985, even with improved oil recovery techniques.

It is significant to note our oil refining capacity is not expanding while demand for gasoline will continued to grow. Short of curbing our driving habits, it will become increasingly difficult for the oil industry to meet public demand for gasoline in the next generation. No new oil refineries have been constructed in the last 25 years, due in part to increasingly strict environmental regulations. These limitations for the oil industry have opened the door of opportunity for the United States. Dozens of ethanol plants have sprung up in the last decade throughout the country. Many plans are under way for production plants all over the country, including here in Maryland.

An ethanol boom could provide an economic stimulus and new capitol investment in rural communities dealing with low commodity prices and a slumping agricultural economy. New plants, jobs, and tax revenues are expected to spring up in response to this growing ethanol demand.

Granted, ethanol is not the only answer. Americans have a gargantuan appetite for fuel and power consumption, which won't be met by any single power source, or even aggressive conservation efforts. However, the current wave of support for ethanol reflects a conviction to begin down a path looking for functional alternatives to our petroleum usage. All the better if the alternative meets the driving public's needs and fans the fire of the agricultural economy simultaneously!

To the Editor:

As the one-month mark of the "anniversary" of the terrorist attack has come and gone, I have made several observations about this country.

People young and old were shocked and horrified at the events that occurred. In a matter of seconds, lives were dramatically changed and this country was brought to a standstill. President Bush and Mayor Giuliani both encouraged Americans to pray, and to try to return to their "normal" lives.

Since then, the real America has kicked in. People and corporations, in an effort to capitalize on this event to their benefit, have kicked into high gear. Anything displaying anything "patriotic" is now a hot item

BOOKS AS FRIENDS

More of my books are where I can get at them than at any time in the past nine years. A combination of factors has produced that happy result, not the least of which are the two new built-in bookcases and the one new free-standing bookcase now available.

Boxes filled with books still wait in the attic for some decision. I think, I am not sure, but I think that all of my favorite books are now on shelves. During the past few weeks I have reorganized some of the bookcases so that I can usually find what I am looking for.

It is 20 years now since I finished my education and moved home. Most of those 20 years I have spent in this house, living alone. A constant are the books that have been my companions. They have become my friends. Superficially, books are just things, material objects which comprise sheets of paper with markings on them. To someone who does not understand the language in which a book is written, it can never be more than that. There are books which even I have thought would serve the world best as doorstops or as a substitute for firewood. So, how did it happen that I have come to love books as my friends?

I certainly loved to be read to as a child. For some reason the derring-do of the New Orleans pirate Jean Lafitte was a favorite of mine. There is something psychologically revealing about that, surely, in a little boy who was well-behaved beyond belief.

I can remember the first book that I ever read completely on my own, Dr. Seuss's One Fish, Two Fish, Red Fish, Blue Fish. I chose it at the school book fair held in the cafeteria during November when I was in first grade. My parents bought it for me. I can still feel the tremor of excitement in possessing that book, not merely holding it physically, but possessing it intellectually, as I read it again and again and again until I could recite it.

One of the joys during these past few weeks has been to put the books of my childhood and early youth onto shelves. Ostensibly, they are available for my 7-year old niece and my 12-year old nephew who enjoy books, but they are there for me too. There are some other volumes from the youth of my parents. The Hardy Boys, Nancy Drew, and Tom Swift mingle there.

Much of the typical youth reading fare I did not discover until I was or nearly was an adult. The Chronicles of Narnia I read in college, Treasure Island in graduate school, and Louisa May Alcott's Under the Lilacs only a few years ago. No, at 14 I was reading Dostoyevsky's Brothers Karamazov, to which I had been introduced by Billy Graham's Decision magazine.

Perhaps the best way to describe what books are for me is in terms of the wardrobe in C.S. Lewis's The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe. Most of the time the wardrobe was just an elegant wooden box with doors, in which clothes were stored. On certain occasions, for certain persons, the wardrobe itself became a door to other worlds. It was necessary to push through the clothes, to push through the wardrobe's announced purpose, in order to discover the other purpose, which was more important but impossible without the materialistic functionality of clothes storage. My eyes follow the lines from left to right, from top to bottom. My fingers turn the pages. My mind, but more of me than just my mind, travels to 12th century France or to Mississippi of 1925 or to a world and time which has never and which may never exist.

Such books merely by sitting on my shelves remind me of those journeys. Even when I am not reading them, just seeing them can carry me across centuries and continents. Other books become regular companions, as constant as my hound dog. I have been reading The Venerable John Henry Newman's Parochial and Plain Sermons for two years now, about two pages a day, with most of another year to go.

Upon finishing a book I mark the date on the last page. C.S. Lewis's Til We Have Faces I have read four times. Those particular dates are signposts of crises in my life. Just by looking at the dates I am transported to those times. Books do not merely bear me to the worlds reported or created by an author; they bear me to myself, to scenes and events buried in memory under the detritus of life.

Like Lewis's wardrobe, none of this can be commanded. There is a certain magic to reading, what is inexplicable to us and which happens. It is the magic of infinity in a finite space, accessible, but only when the invisible door opens. Such are my friends under the form of paper and ink.

THE BABBLING ADULT
by Beth L. Bowers

I consider myself a fairly intelligent, college educated person with a decent grasp of the English language, but when it comes to communicating with my children, I sound like a babbling idiot.

The part that worries me is wondering if I am alone in this discovery. I was giving my 2-month-old a bath last night and I stopped and really listened to myself. Frankly, I was a bit unnerved. I know that infants prefer hearing a higher pitched voice and they mainly want to see a face. I realize they don't care what is being said to them, as long as someone is speaking to them. But when I heard what was coming from my mouth, I stopped cold. It wasn't the tone that worried me, it was the words.

The poor grammar was alarming. I know I don't have perfect grammar. I am still struggling with the proper use of lay and lying. Just ask my co-workers. But I am at least trying to improve. If the other writers in the office heard what I was saying last night, they would certainly call my alma mater and ask them for proof that I have a legitimate degree.

"Is you cold?" "You my little sweetie sweetie." I actually heard myself say that! Shocking, I know. I think even the 3-year-old is concerned. He just gives me one of those looks and walks away.

Now speaking of the 3-year-old, I don't necessarily speak improper grammar, I just speak fragmented, incoherent sentences. "Tyler, Carter, You. (Forgetting which one I am speaking to is common.) What are you. Stop. Give me. Don't make me. No no no no no. Come here come here come here here here." And it goes on and on from there.

I think that realizing I have these speech problems is the first step in recovery. I think my main problem is my brain works faster than my mouth. I realize that is hard to believe, knowing how my mouth works, usually with one foot inserted at all times.

Tonight I am going to concentrate on not butchering the very language I complain about other people butchering. My husband refers to me as the Grammar Queen, because I have a tendency to correct him from time to time. I may have that title revoked if I don't clean up my act. I don't want that to happen, because I do enjoy being referred to as royalty.

LL Town Council Elections Set

Elections for the Loch Lynn Town Council are set for Monday, Nov. 5, from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the town hall. Four candidates, Leland Hargrove, Sheila O'Neill, Roger Shaffer, and Beth Wolford, are vying for two council seats. O'Neill and Shaffer, whose terms are expiring, are running for re-election, while Wolford and Hargrove are seeking to unseat one or both of those incumbents. Voter registration will be accepted at the Election Board office in the county courthouse until 4 p.m. tomorrow, Friday, Oct. 19.

The next meeting of the Loch Lynn town council is set for 7 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 6. Loch Lynn Town Council meetings have been switched from the first Monday to the first Tuesday of each month because of the number of Monday holidays and the availability of the circuit rider to attend meetings, according to council member Carolyn Corley. Wendell Keaton, the Tri-County Council circuit rider, assists small towns in western Maryland with the preparation of official documents, compliance with regulations, and meeting state requirements.

Loch Lynn's new town clerk, Julie Coleman, was installed at the October town council meeting. She will be available during the new town office hours, set for 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays, except for the first Tuesday of the month when the office will be open from 11:30 a.m. to 7 p.m.

According to Health Officer Rodney B. Glotfelty, this will be the culmination of a long anticipated dream. The consolidation of all health department services in one building will lead to significant budgetary and operational efficiencies. More importantly, service to the public will be greatly enhanced by having all services at one location, he said.

McClive said each of the institutions has provided significant in-kind assistance valued at an estimated $250,000 total.

Cuts Spending

state employees on active military duty. The measures have been instituted since Sept. 11, when four hijacked jetliners slammed into the World Trade Center, the Pentagon, and the Pennsylvania countryside in an attack linked to Saudi exile Osama bin Laden.

The General Assembly may approve other security measures which would not be covered by the $24 million figure, Glendening said.

Lawmakers are considering making some new law enforcement positions permanent ones and enhancing penalties for terrorist acts or threats that turn out to be hoaxes.

Glendening said his cuts will cover both current security measures and the slump in tax revenues, which are down about $53 million from August and September of last year, according to the comptroller.

Deferral of capital projects will raise $65 million of the total, but selection of cuts from the total $133 million in projects won't be made until December, said Foster.

Maryland is in much better shape than some states, Glendening said. The cuts are "necessary for fiscal health but not devastating," he said. "We are taking prudent and significant budget actions now so that we will not have to resort to draconian cuts in the future."

A clearer picture of the economic impact of the Sept. 11 attacks is expected in December after the annual budget estimates, said Mike Morrill, the governor's spokesman. The economy was slowing before the attacks, but "without Sept. 11, I don't think any of us would be standing here for this," Morrill said.

The airline, travel, and tourism industries have been particularly hard hit in Maryland, Glendening said. Tourists have been slow to return to the Washington area, and the closure of Reagan National Airport exacerbated the region's suffering.

Yet the governor seemed pleasantly surprised that in the five weeks since the attacks, there have been 20,811 unemployment claims across the state, an increase of only 1,664 over last year.

Sales tax revenues are still up slightly over last year, due in large part to the sales tax free week in August, Morrill said, but "we won't see improvement in September. If anything, we will see worse numbers."

in high demand. It was even reported that some people were selling what was reported to be rubble from the World Trade Center, at what I am sure was not a discount price.

Seconds after the event, journalists, politicians, etc., were urging America to pray. This same country which our forefathers founded based on Bible fundamentals in 1963 kicked God out of our school system, glorifies sodomites and drunkards rather than God, forbids prayer in public school, disallows the Ten Commandments to be displayed in a courtroom or other public places, was now asking people to pray.

This same nation which idolizes sports and sports figures rather than worshipping God was now asking people to pray. This same nation which would rather attend or watch a race or football game than attend church was now asking people to pray.

I was in a restaurant not too long ago, and while waiting for my meal, I looked around. As others were served their meals, I did not see any persons pray for their meal, let alone their country! This was only two weeks after the attack. And worse off, this was in North Carolina! Part of the "Bible Belt!

What makes anyone think that God will hear our prayers and/or deliver us, a nation that has rejected God? God does not have to do anything. He is God. Why won't God hear our prayers? The Bible states that God has no pleasure in wickedness (Psalm 5:4), "But your iniquities have separated between you and your God, and your sins have hid his face from you, that he will not hear." Isaiah 59:2. God even says in Jeremiah 11:14, "Therefore pray not thou for this people, neither lift up a cry or prayer for them, for I will not hear them in the time that they cry unto me for their trouble."

What do we need to do for God to hear our prayer? In 2nd Chronicles 7:14, God tells us, "If my people which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways, then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land. And if God speaks to your heart about fasting in addition to praying, then do it, and greater will be the blessing."

You know, I wonder how many of those people in the buildings knew God. I wonder how many of those people were faithful to God. I wonder how many of those people worshipped God. I wonder how many of those people thought they had many years of life ahead of them to enjoy, or many years to get right with God. I wonder how many of those people were prepared to meet God? One thing I do know is that on September 11, they met God! And not all of them are in heaven. The rich man in Luke 16:19-31 thought he had nothing to worry about.

America has become a prideful, boastful country, ignorant to the fact that it is God that has brought us through and given us the victory. We say and believe that our military will conquer, and if we can't do it, then we'll just call on one of our neighbors to help us rather than on God.

People prayed during the Gulf War, and God gave us the victory, but God was never given any credit. Vietnam vets say that their own country did not acknowledge them for what they did, nor receive them with a hero's welcome. How much more have we done towards God? And He made us! God is not just a Sunday thing, God is every day! America. Repent. Pray. Selah. And Amen.

Town Hall

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK

The mayor and town council meeting was held Wednesday, Oct. 10.

- The town office will collect sewer tap fees, building permit fees, and all other fees applicable to a building permit at the time of application.
- Councilman DiCarlo reported that he is working on obtaining a grant through the Maryland Historical Trust for the Ticket House.
- Mayor Martin reported that the leaf vac will be ready at the end of this month.
- The Historical Committee will be sponsoring the Christmas house decorating contest again this year.
- Councilman Learey stated that he is having all the building permits issued since July 1, 2001, given to the council for review. He said each month hereafter the building permits will be reviewed by council.

The next council meeting will be Wednesday, Oct. 24.

LOCH LYNN

- The town hall will be closed Monday evening, Oct. 22. It will be open the usual hours on Tuesday and Thursday, from 10 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. It will reopen for evening business hours on Monday, Oct. 29.

FRIENDSVILLE

- The town's annual fall clean-up activity, sponsored by the mayor and town council, is scheduled for the weekend of Oct. 27. Regular weekly trash removal will be Thursday, Oct. 25. Pick up of large items will be on Saturday, Oct. 27, beginning at 9 a.m. Town residents are asked to separate furniture, appliances, and scrap metal for Saturday's pickup. Due to abuse of this free service in the past, residents are reminded that this activity is only for residents of the town of Friendsville. Only items that are the property of town residents will be collected for disposal by the town's contracted collectors. If further abuse of this service is noted during the fall clean-up activity, this service may be discontinued.

ACCIDENT

ACCIDENT CULTURAL AND HISTORICAL SOCIETY

ACHS members met Monday evening at the town hall in Accident. The members voted to contract A.J. Wiley to do some repair work at the Drane House. Plans for Christmas in Flowery Vale, to be held Saturday, Dec. 8, were discussed. Anyone wishing to help with this event may contact an ACHS member or town hall. It was also noted that Milton Naylor, Oakland, worked on the loom at the Drane House.

Officers for the upcoming year were elected as follows: director, Carl Whorton; assistant director, Barrie Gregory; and secretary, Annette Keller.

The next meeting will be held Monday, Nov. 19, at 7:30 p.m. at the town hall.

ACCIDENT SCHOOL

The second grade class will take a community trip on Tuesday, Oct. 23.

Red Ribbon Week will be observed from Monday, Oct. 22, through Friday, Oct. 26, with an activity in each class room.

Pandora's Box will present a program for the third, fourth, and fifth graders on Tuesday, Oct. 23.

The kindergarten class will take a field trip to local farms on the Wednesday, Oct. 24.

The Fun Fall Festival will be held at the school on Friday, Oct. 26, from 5:30 to 8 p.m. The evening will include games, food, a silent auction, and door prizes. The community is invited to attend.

ACCIDENT LIBRARY

A lap-sit program for infants, birth through age 3, will be held at the library on Saturday, Oct. 20, Oct. 27, and Nov. 3, from 11 until 11:30 a.m.

ZION LUTHERAN CHURCH

The women of Zion Lutheran Church, Accident are sponsoring a fall bazaar this Saturday, Oct. 20, from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. Lunch will be served the entire time. Arts and crafts, quilts, comforters, woven rugs, holiday items, baked goods, homemade soup, and homemade sauerkraut will be for sale. Parking is available behind the church. The handicapped-accessible entrances are located in the front of the church.

A HUGE CROWD was on hand for the annual Western Maryland Tournament of Bands, sponsored by the Southern Garrett Band Boosters and held Saturday evening at the SHS athletic field. Pictured above is the host band, Southern Garrett, during its exhibition performance. While not in the competition, the band was still judged and received its highest score to date this season. Below is a shot of the Northern High School Band, which won the Group I division and most of the specialty trophies. Both bands will continue their competitive schedules this Saturday by participating in the Maryland State Championships, hosted by Towson 'Jniversity. The ultimate goal of each band is to score high enough to receive an invitation to the Atlantic Coast Championships, slated for November 10-11 in Scranton, Pa.

Local Company Assists N.Y.C. Relief Efforts

Casselman Lumber in Grantsville, in response to the terrorist attacks on the World Trade Center, joined other Do It Best Corporation member retailers throughout the world to contribute $235,000 and products to aid disaster relief efforts in New York City.

"When we first heard of the unspeakable tragedies, all of us at Casselman Lumber, like people all over the world, were saddened, sickened, and worried for friends, loved ones, and all those we did not know who were directly touched by the events," said Wayne Tiemersma, manager. "When our distributor, Do It Best Corp., notified us of the collaborative effort, our feelings quickly turned into a desire to act."

The check was presented to the Salvation Army on September 28. The organization will use 100% of the contribution to fund ongoing relief efforts.

The corporation, based in Fort Wayne, Ind., also worked with the New York City branch of the Salvation Army to identify products of immediate need to relief workers. An emergency truckload of donated work gloves, bottled water, flashlights, batteries, dust masks, plastic and foam cups, trash bags, and slush boots were delivered by a Do It Best truck to the Salvation Army drop-off site in New York City on September 17.

BLAMBLE CHILDREN CELEBRATE BIRTHDAYS

Danielle Ray Blamble celebrated her third birthday on Aug. 29, with a steak dinner hosted by her parents, Terry and Jackie Blamble, and brother Jonathan. Also attending were grandparents, aunts, uncles, and cousins who all enjoyed a Winnie-the-Pooh theme. On Sept. 21, Jonathan Adair Blamble turned eight and had a bonfire in the backyard with school mates joining his celebration. On Sept. 23, family members joined in a ham dinner celebration of Jonathan's birthday.

MOUNTAINEER 4-H

A beach party was the theme for the Oct. 8 meeting of Eglon Mountaineer 4-H club, held at the Aurora School. Members spent a fun night of volleyball and recreation and also talked with those interested in joining 4-H who, along with families, had been invited for the evening.

Club members were given tickets to sell which give buyers a chance of winning a beef, hog, or lamb, and proceeds from the sale go to the Preston County 4-H Foundation which provides scholarships and prizes to members. The Mountaineer Executive Committee will be attending the Officers' Training and Achievement Program on Nov. 4 at Preston High School. The club will be serving the Mt. Lions Club on Dec. 6 at 6:30 p.m.

The next meeting of the club will be an achievement Program to recognize local members. It will be held in the Maple Spring Church basement on Nov. 12. Members are asked to bring finger foods and all parents are invited to attend.

Tracy Teets, reporter.

CLARA E. WILSON

Clara E. Wilson, 78, formerly of Swanton and most recently of Moran Manor Nursing Home, Westernport, died Monday, Oct. 15, 2001, at Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, W.Va.

Born in Barnum, W.Va., on May 24, 1923, she was the daughter of the late Loman and Anna Ellen (Wilt) Paugh. She was preceded in death by her husband, Gaver Wilson in 1998; two brothers, Loman and Ray Paugh; and one sister, Ollie Paugh.

She was a member of Chestnut Grove United Methodist Church, Swanton, a member of Bethlehem Chapter #14 Order of Eastern Star, and a member of the Westernport Senior Citizens. She formerly worked at various restaurants, including the Savage River Inn, the White Coffee Pot, and the Potomac Motel, and also was formerly employed at the Deer Park Sewing Factory.

LIONS HOST DARE COORDINATOR — A recent meeting of the Oakland/MLP Lions Club featured a presentation by Garrett County sheriff's deputy Chuck Nolan, outgoing coordinator of the county's DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) program. After presenting the drug prevention message to hundreds of local pre-school, kindergarten, and sixth-grade students over the past several years, Nolan is turning the program's reins over to new DARE coordinator Dfc. Rob Corley. Both Nolan and Corley are available on request to speak to parent groups, senior citizens, or other community organizations. Lions Club first vice president Robert Stocksiager, left, is shown presenting Nolan with a certificate of appreciation for his DARE efforts.

Survivors include five sons, Elwood C. Custer, Swanton, Allen W. Custer, Swanton, Riley E. Wilson, Essex, Dwight N. Wilson, Swanton, and P. Russell Wilson, Swanton; three daughters, Myrna Steager, Fairfield, Pa., Paula A. Tasker, Deer Park, and Karen Riggleman, Danville; one brother, Truman Paugh, Swanton; two sisters, Marlene Eversole, Virginia, and Ann Pliner, of Wisconsin; 15 grandchildren; and four great-grandchildren.

The family received friends at the Boal Funeral Home, Westernport. Funeral services were conducted at Chestnut Grove United Methodist Church, Swanton, Thursday, Oct. 18, with the Rev. Donald Nelson officiating.

Interment was in the Paugh Family Cemetery, Swanton.

MYRTLE D. KELLEY

Myrtle D. Kelley, 87, Oakland, died Saturday, Oct. 13, 2001, at the Cuppett-Weeks Nursing Home, Oakland.

Born June 9, 1914, in Garrett County, she was the daughter of the late Simon L. Whitmer and Julia (Moyer) Whitmer. In addition to her parents, he was also preceded in death by her husband, Frank Kelley; and two sons, Ronnie and Ray Kelley.

She is survived by one sister, Thelma McEwen, Stewartstown, Pa.; and one brother, Luther Whitmer, Warren, Mich.

Friends were received at the Durst Funeral Home, Oakland, where funeral services were conducted on Wednesday, Oct. 17, with the Rev. David Moon officiating.

Interment was in the Fairview Cemetery.

The family requests that in lieu of flowers, memorials be directed to the Southern Rescue Squad, P.O. Box 378, Oakland, MD 21550.

MARGARET NILES

Margaret Rudy Niles, 80, Annapolis, died of Alzheimer's disease Friday, Oct. 12, 2001, at Somerford Place, Annapolis, after a lengthy illness.

Born July 13, 1921, she was the daughter of the late Irvin R. Rudy and Mary I. Rudy, who were residents of Oakland. She was also preceded in death by one brother Irvin R. Rudy Jr.

She was educated in Oakland, and graduated from Western Maryland College in 1942. She taught home economics at Southern High School from 1944 to 1950.

She was noted for her prize-winning floral arrangements and was responsible for the initial beautification of Wardour Circle, Annapolis.

She was a member of Calvary United Methodist Church and frequently attended the Naval Academy Chapel. She also belonged to the Inner Wheel of the Annapolis Rotary Club and the Wardour Garden Club.

Survivors include her husband, Nathan O. Niles, a retired Naval Academy professor; one son, James Rudy Niles, Annapolis; one daughter, Susan N. Flater, Glenellyn, Ill.; five grandchildren; and two step-grandchildren.

Friends were received at Taylor Funeral Home, Annapolis. A funeral service was held at a nearby Methodist church on Tuesday, Oct. 16. Burial was private.

Feldstein To Speak At DCL Lions Meeting

The Deep Creek Lake Lions Club has extended an invitation to the general public to attend its upcoming pizza buffet dinner meeting, set for 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 23, at Uno's restaurant. The featured speaker will be historian and author Al Feldstein, who will present a program on the history of Garrett County.

Feldstein has published 26 books, videos, prints, and posters about western Maryland's past. A program manager for Maryland's Appalachian Regional Commission, Feldstein has an extensive background covering a wide range of western Maryland historical research and promotion activities. An accomplished speaker, he has given hundreds of presentations describing the history and heritage of Garrett and other western Maryland counties.

The cost to take part in the dinner is $9 per person. To make a required reservation, or for further information, persons may call DCL Lions Club past president M. Sue Shockey at 301-334-4287.

Drivers Urged To Watch For Deer On Roads

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources has issued a reminder for motorists to use caution when traveling rural roadways, as the months of October and November bring a markedly increased risk of deer-vehicle collisions. Over 4,000 deer-vehicle collisions were reported to the state last year — more went unreported — causing millions of dollars in damage to vehicles, serious injuries, and the loss of life.

Each fall the potential for striking a deer increases dramatically as white-tailed deer become more active and travel within their home range. Mature bucks begin to search for does each fall, and does also increase their activity levels. Yearling bucks, participating in their first breeding season, may relocate many miles from their natural home range, and male fawns born this spring may be separated from their mothers during this season.

DNR urges motorists to heighten their awareness of deer during this fall breeding season, and keep the following tips in mind to decrease the odds of striking a deer:

- A deer standing in a field may suddenly jump into the road. Anticipate this potential for deer behavior by slowing down and proceeding with caution.
- If a deer is seen crossing the road ahead, slow down and scan for more deer. Deer travel in groups, and others may be out of view.
- Slow down and brake to avoid hitting a deer but do not swerve, which can cause a loss of control and lead to a collision with another vehicle or a tree or other fixed object alongside the road. Injuries to drivers and passengers increase when the vehicle swerves.
- Be especially aware during the early morning and afternoon hours year-round. Deer are moving between evening feeding sites and daytime bedding areas.
- Be especially aware at locations with deer crossing highway signs, which indicate locations of frequent deer movement.

Swanton Church Slates Revival

The Mt. Zion United Methodist Church, located east of Swanton, has scheduled a series of revival services for 7 p.m. nightly Sunday through Friday, Oct. 21-26. The guest evangelists are Dan and Jeanie Frederick of Grayson, Ky., who will lead each evening's services and special music.

The church is located at 2445 Mt. Zion Rd., off Maryland Highway 2½ miles east of Swanton. For further information persons may contact Pastor Don Nelson at 301-359-3839.

GCC To Offer First Aid Class

The Continuing Education and Training Division of Garrett Community College will offer a community first aid and safety course at the McHenry campus on Tuesday, Oct. 23, and Thursday, Oct. 25, from 5 to 10:30 p.m.

This course will teach the basic skills of cardiac life support for infants, children, and adults, plus standard techniques to provide first aid to individuals in an emergency situation. Certification is provided through the American Red Cross.

For additional information and registration, persons may contact the Continuing Education and Training Division at 301-387-3069.

LITERACY COUNCIL SETS RAFFLE — The Garrett County Literacy Council is selling tickets for a Christmas raffle for which two rare James Michener first editions will go to two lucky winners. The first ticket drawn will earn its holder a signed first edition printing of Michener's novel Texas, and a second ticket will be drawn for an unsigned first edition of Michener's Mexico. Raffle tickets may be obtained from any Literacy Council volunteer or by calling 301-334-6606. Rams Stun Undefeated Bulldogs On Last Play

One of the most exciting finishes, and biggest victories, in the history of football at Southern High School was recorded Friday night, as the Rams rallied to defeat powerful Martinsburg, 14-13, on the final play of the game.

The single-A Rams came into the contest with a disappointing 1-4 record, while the Bulldogs were boasting a perfect 7-0 mark and were ranked third among triple-A schools on the state of West Virginia. But Coach Fred Gregg, his staff, and his players were seemingly not the slightest bit intimidated, as they took the first lead in the game, stayed right with the heavily favored, quicker, and physically bigger Bulldogs from the opening kickoff to the final play.

Remarkably, Martinsburg held a 13-6 lead with just over 10 seconds remaining in the game, but the Rams scored twice in that final 10 seconds to win, even after seemingly turning the ball over on an interception with just two seconds left. But a roughing the passer penalty gave the home team one final chance at the end zone, and Tobi Stoner's 37-yard aerial was grabbed by senior tight end Bryson Meyers amid a sea of Martinsburg defenders.

Senior running back Steve Skipper, who did not lead the Rams in rushing but provided key blocks all evening for his teammates, put the first points of the game on the board after the Southern defensive unit held Martinsburg to two straight three-and-out possessions. Skipper broke through the Bulldog line for a nine-yard touchdown run on the first play of the second quarter (11:55). The run for the two-point conversion was stopped short, leaving the Rams with a 6-0 advantage.

Martinsburg put a scoring drive together that was capped by a 12-yard touchdown run by Jesse Kiser. The extra-point kick was good, giving the Bulldogs a 7-6 advantage with 5:38 to play in the first half.

Second Quarter

S - Steven Skipper 9 run (run failed), 11:55.

M - Jesse Kiser 12 run, 5:38.

Fourth Quarter

M - Brandon Barrett 30 pass from Joey Yurish (kick blocked), 1:32.

S - Joey Yurish runs out of end zone, :10.

S - Bryson Myers 39 pass from Tobi Stoner (no attempt), 0:00.

With the clock winding down, and the Bulldogs in possession of the ball, albeit deep in their own territory, it was obvious it would take a near miracle for the Rams to pull out a victory.

With less than a minute to play, Martinsburg faced a third down and six on their own 17, but the coaching staff decided to take an intentional delay of game play. The referees threw the flags with just 17 seconds left, giving the Bulldogs a fourth-and-12 on the 12-yard line.

In order to kill more time, and not take the risk of having to punt the ball away, Yurish was instructed to set up for the punt, but to run back into the end zone, run as much time off the clock as possible, and take the safety. He finally ran out of the end zone with just 10 ticks left, giving the Rams the two-point safety and making the score 13-8.

Martinsburg then took a free punt from the 20-yard-line, and the Rams wisely did not touch the ball, which would have started the clock. They took possession on their own 48, still with 10 seconds left.

Stoner's first throw to the end zone was picked off by a Martinsburg defender, who was tackled with just two seconds remaining. But Stoner was roughed on the play, giving the Rams one final opportunity, and 15 yards closer to the goal line, on the Martinsburg 37.

Stoner's next pass to the end zone was grabbed by Meyers with time expired, giving the Rams' the immediate win, rendering an attempt for the conversion unnecessary.

Stoner, Helbig, Skipper, and junior linebacker Brad Palmer all had outstanding games for the Rams, with Stoner completing five of 14 passes for 144 yards, excelling on defense, and having an excellent night punting the ball, as one of his boots sailed some 60 yards. Helbig had the big block of the extra-point attempt, led the team's rushing with 72 yards on 18 carries, and recorded 11 tackles. Skipper provided key blocking on offense and also had a number of key defensive stops from his secondary position, while Palmer led the squad in tackles with 14.

Jay Tressler and Ricky Curry each had a fumble recovery for the Rams.

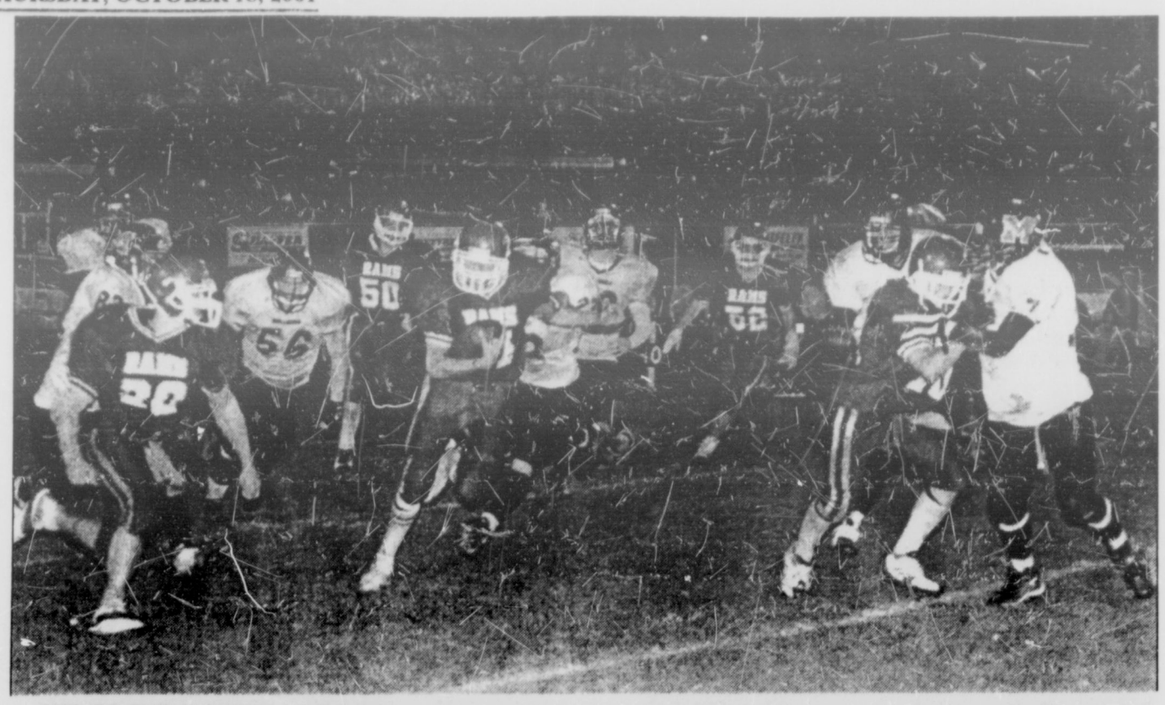
Pacing Martinsburg's offensive effort was Steve Weatherholtz, who amassed 98 yards on 14 carries.

The Rams finished with a 311-254 lead in total offensive yardage.

Another major key to the Rams' success was that, for the first time in several weeks, they were able to hang on to the ball. They had no fumbles and Stoner threw just one interception. The previous week against Preston, the Rams saw six of their possessions ended by turnovers, and it was a similar scenario in the losses to Grafton and Keyser.

"We played a full 48 minutes, we were very physical, and we held on to the ball," stated Coach Gregg. "We were very pleased, because we think we finally played up to our capabilities after beating ourselves all year. If we had played this way in every game, we feel we would be at least 5-1 right now."

Gregg noted the individual play of Stoner, Skipper, Helbig, and Palmer, but quickly added that it was a team effort that won the game. "I've said all along that our line play, on both sides of the ball, is crucial if we are going to be successful in all other aspects of the game," he said, "and our line did an excellent job for us. There are a lot of things that go on in the trenches that are not noticed by most people, but are really important for a team to succeed."



ONE OF THE BIGGEST VICTORIES in school history was recorded Friday night by the Southern High School Rams, who took the field with their 1-4 record against the undefeated, 7-0 Bulldogs of Martinsburg High School, ranked third in the state of West Virginia's triple-A standings, and handed the visitors a stunning 14-13 loss. Adding to the excitement, as well as to the shock of both the Martinsburg and Southern fans, was the fact that the game was won on the final play of the game, a 39-yard "Hail, Mary" pass from Tobi Stoner to Bryson Meyers. Still more incredibly, a pass from Stoner on the next-to-the-last play was intercepted, but a roughing-the-passer penalty gave the Rams one more chance, with just two seconds remaining in the game. Stoner is pictured above on a quarterback keeper, following a lead block by #10 Chad Panther, right, and awaiting another one by Steve Skipper, #20, who opened running lanes all evening with his blocking. Also in the photo for the Rams are #50, Nathan Fitzwater, and #52, Nick Gangler. Stoner is pictured below left loading up for one of his 14 aerials in the contest, and Meyers is pictured below mid-catch, although this was not the winning grab. See story for details.

It's now hard to say if the Rams will be an underdog this week when they host Hampshire, because the Trojans were also sporting a 7-0 record until they were upset by Beall on Friday in Frostburg. But Gregg knows it will take another outstanding effort for his team to defeat the Trojans, who have the top running back in the area, and possibly in the state of West Virginia.

Brian Wright, a 5-8, 190-pound senior fullback, is closing in on the all-time scoring record for the state of West Virginia.

"If he's not the best running back in the state, he's certainly among the top few," Gregg said. "He's big and strong, and he's very fast."

Gregg is also impressed by sophomore back Alex Lee (5-9, 155) and senior quarterback Dan Alkire (6-2, 145) in the Trojans' double-wing and wing-T offense. "Lee's not as strong, but he's just as fast as Wright," he said. "They complement each other well and make a very good tandem.

"Alkire is experienced, he's a good passer, and just a super leader," he continued. "He has every quality a coach likes to see in a senior leader."

Hampshire's 4-3 monster defense is anchored by the linebacking corps, led by senior Mike Fletcher (5-11, 215), and senior lineman Tim Clayton (5-9, 210).

When asked about Beall's upset of Hampshire last Friday, Gregg responded, "We have thought all year that Beall is one of the best teams in the area. They really controlled the line and were just super aggressive. They held Wright in check with the exception of one long touchdown run."

Gregg said he would rather have Hampshire coming into Oakland this Friday still undefeated.

"I'm sure that it has been a very tough week of practice for them, and Coach (Sean) Biser will have them ready to play," he said. "After our win over Martinsburg, they certainly won't come in here over confident. A loss to us will also jeopardize their chances in making their playoffs, because they still have to play at Musselman. But if we play as well as we did last week, we believe we will certainly be competitive."

Gregg said that his team is "generally healthy" and will be ready to go. "It will be nice to be at home for this one," he said.

Friday's kickoff is scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

Huskies Hand Spartans 14-6 Win With Six Fumbles, Two Pickoffs

"It was the best of games, it was the worst of games...." Northern High School's varsity played two entirely different halves of football during Saturday's 14-6 loss at Bishop Walsh, soaring through a first half of near-flawless play, but coming back to earth with a thud in the second half by fumbling the ball away three straight times on the first play of consecutive possessions. Northern's inability to hold on to the football, evidenced by a total of eight fumbles, six of which were lost, and two interceptions, all but gave the win to the BW guests.

The Huskies dominated the first half, and on the stats sheet they seemed to have carried the entire day. NHS racked up 237 rushing yards on 44 carries, for a 5.4 average per play, while the Spartans only averaged 3.2 yards per carry on 49 rushes for 160 yards. Northern accumulated 285 yards of total offense to BW's 248 yards, and the "grave-digger" defense was in evidence throughout the first half as it held Bishop Walsh to just two yards of net offense while sacking the Spartan's quarterback three times.

Second Quarter

N - Ethan DeVore 35 pass from Aaron Mitchell (run failed), 5:53.

Third Quarter

BW - Nathan Chambers 6 run (run failed), 6:03

Fourth Quarter

BW - Brandon Grabenstein 4 run (Dan Rotruck pass from Chris Hendershot), 8:14.

After a scoreless first quarter, which nonetheless featured some fine ball-control offense by NHS, the Huskies cracked the scoreboard in the second stanza by mounting a drive that started on their own 34-yard line. That march had appeared to stall on BW's 35-yard line when, on fourth and nine, Northern head coach Phil Carr elected to go for the first down rather than punt or try for a very long field goal. The gamble paid off in spades when split end Ethan DeVore got behind his defender, and quarterback Aaron Mitchell hit him with a perfect strike along the sideline that netted a 35-yard touchdown that gave NHS a 6-0 lead halfway through the quarter.

Despite the close halftime score, the Huskies appeared to be in the driver's seat as the second half opened. The tide turned, however, on their third play from scrimmage. Mitchell had taken off on an option keeper run and scampered 51 yards with nothing but daylight ahead when BW's Brandon Grabenstein used the angle to track the NHS quarterback down from across the field. Grabenstein and Mitchell collided, the Spartan defender got a hand on the ball and knocked it loose, and BW recovered the fumble on its own 16.

The fumble on the endzone's doorstep seemed to burst Northern's bubble. Bishop Walsh capitalized on the opportunity by embarking on a game-tying 84-yard drive that included a 25-yard run and two long pass completions. BW's Nathan Chambers capped the march with a six-yard run with 6:03 remaining in the quarter.

The Huskies should have been far from out of it though, as the drive only tied the score; but Northern fumbled on the first two plays of its next pair of possessions. Both fumbles came at the end of fine runs by fullback Dustin Wiland, one a 10-yard gain and the other a 12-yard carry. Wiland was playing with one hand in a cast, the result of a broken hand and wrist the sophomore sustained in last week's Alco contest.

"It was very frustrating," Carr commented of the rash of miscues. "Each fumble came at the end of a first-down gain, showing that we were more than capable of moving the ball. It just seemed like it was contagious, and I think the guys can start thinking about it too much and end up psyching themselves out."

Northern's offense was never able to recoup from the fumbles, finding it impossible to regain its rhythm, and the Huskies' defense eventually began to show signs of fraying from being on the field for over 17 minutes of the 24-minute half.

The score remained deadlocked until final stanza, when an NHS fumble was recovered by the Spartans on their own 38. BW quarterback Chris Hendershot completed a couple of long passes that put the ball on the Northern 13, and Grabenstein soon finished off the drive by carrying the ball into the endzone from four yards out. Bishop Walsh completed a two-point conversion pass to take the lead 14-6. Northern got a last gasp with three minutes remaining when the Huskies blocked a field goal, but the offense sputtered without scoring.

Despite the loss, Mitchell led all rushers with 118 yards on just 16 carries, and Wiland gained 74 yards on 12 carries. Northern was forced to punt just once, which showed that its offense was doing most everything right except turning the ball over, and punter DeVore boomed a 58-yard blast way behind the Spartan returners.

"We moved the ball pretty well at times, and could have won by a couple of scores," remarked Carr, "but you're just not going to beat anybody when you turn the ball over like that. I thought we had gotten away from the turnovers, because we've been working really hard on hanging on to the ball in practice and we didn't have any fumbles against Allegany last week. We can't blame everything on fumbles, though, because we were not executing well on every play, and missed a number of important blocking assignments."

Carr and BW coach John Wilson, a former Husky coach, both agreed that the Grabenstein hit that caused the first NHS fumble of the second half was the turning point. "I think that was the play of the game," said Wilson. "We drill on stripping the ball almost every day in practice, and today it paid off." The numbers bear out that conclusion for, up until that play, Northern's offense had rolled up 198 yards to Bishop Walsh's 54; after the fumble, the Huskies only gained 87 yards, while BW reeled off 194 yards. The Spartans held the ball for 17:05 over the entire second half, as compared to NHS's puny 6:55.

The Huskies are nursing some wounds that hurt their performance as well, especially along the line. Guard Tommy Menges may have sustained a broken hand and, given the doctor's ruling, could be lost for the rest of the year. Fellow guard Joe Garlitz broke his foot, and is done for the season. Tight end Josh Swandol injured his neck and shoulder, the same type of injury that sidelined him for much of last year's campaign.

Northern will try to regroup tomorrow night at home against the visiting Petersburg Vikings. The West Virginia squad will bring a much bigger line to bear against the Huskies' front, especially considering the absence of the three players just mentioned. "It's the same story, we're smaller but have to be smarter and quicker," Carr observed. "We've done it before, and we can do it again."

In contrast to past seasons, Petersburg is relying heavily on its running game this year. Junior tailback Ben Vance (5-10, 185) is a threat both up the middle and around the ends, and he has two large blockers in senior tackle Rocky Redman (6-0, 240) and senior guard Derrick Bradshaw (6-0, 250). If the Huskies' defense can contain Vance they can control the game's tempo, for the Vikings are not strong in the passing department this year.

"We're working to get the kids prepared, and boost their enthusiasm," Carr said. "After the last two big years they're not used to losing, but they're getting a valuable lesson into the amount of hard work it takes to sustain a winning program."

Tomorrow night's kickoff at Northern is slated for 7:30 p.m.

Husky JVs Fall To Alco, Rebound To Crush 'Cats

Northern High School's junior varsity football squad sustained its first defeat recently by dropping a 40-24 battle with Allegany last Wednesday, Oct. 10, but the Huskies roared back to demolish Westmar 33-0 Monday evening. NHS's record is 5-1 with two games remaining on the year.

Allegany struck first in its contest on an eight-yard touchdown pass early in the first quarter, but Northern responded with a 12-yard touchdown run by Corey Fike. The Campers then scored on a 30-yard carry, but NHS pulled even again when Mike Wolf reeled off a 65-yard TD run.

Alco took control in the second quarter by scoring three times, on a 60-yard run, a 45-yard pass, and a safety, to take a 26-12 lead into the halftime locker room. The Huskies got off the first score of the second half when Rocco Andres ran 25 yards for a touchdown, but the Campers recorded a three-yard scoring run before the third quarter ended. The final stanza saw NHS hit paydirt on an 80-yard touchdown pass from Robert Stark to Rico Alston, but Alco put the final points on the board with a two-yard scoring run.

Wolf's 12-carry, 110-yard performance led all Northern runners, and Stark added 85 yards on 10 carries while completing 11 of 24 pass attempts for 140 yards. Chad Carr and Ian Wooden turned in outstanding defensive performances for the Huskies.

Northern dominated Monday's contest in Lonaconing. Fike started the scoring with a 32-yard run in the first quarter, and Alston followed with a 54-yard punt return for a touchdown to help NHS to a 14-0 lead as the second quarter opened. That stanza saw Carr add a one-yard touchdown run, and NHS took a 20-0 lead into the halftime locker room.

The Huskies added more points in the third quarter when Alston gathered in a 38-yard scoring strike from Stark, then recorded their final score in the fourth stanza on a 12-yard run by Wolf.

Along with the offensive fireworks, the Huskies' coaches praised their defense for an outstanding effort. Northern is slated to host Southern Thursday at 7 p.m.

Southern High Junior Varsity Falls To Falcons

The junior varsity football team of Southern High School was whipped Monday by host Frankfort, 32-7, as the undefeated Falcons scored in every period to up their record to 6-0.

A six-yard fumble return by D.L. Longerbean gave the Falcons a 6-0 lead in the first quarter. Josh James hauled in a 25-yard scoring pass from Matt Miller in the second quarter to make it 12-0 at halftime.

Eric Spiroff capped a Falcon drive with a one-yard touchdown plunge in the third quarter to give the home team an 18-0 advantage. Then Jose Ortiz carried the ball 24 yards for a touchdown in the fourth stanza, and William Haddix booted the extra point to put the Rams behind by a 25-0 margin.

A 68-yard touchdown run by Southern's Chad Everett and a successful extra-point kick midway through the final period allowed the Rams to avert a shutout.

Andy Helmstetter responded with a 47-yard scoring run for the Falcons, and Haddix kicked the extra point to conclude the game's scoring.

The Rams will play again Monday at Northern.

Thank You!

This thank you is to all the people who remembered me in their prayers, sent cards, called and visited me in the hospital. I especially want to acknowledge my family for their daily loving presence at the hospital during the last 5½ months. I am now in remission and plan to get on with my life.

Maddawgs Open Playoffs With Huge Victories

The Northern Maddawgs C team got off to a huge start in the Pee-Wee Football League playoffs over the weekend with a pair of big victories, as the Maddawgs crushed the LaVale Lions 52-0 Saturday and the Warm Springs Wolves 40-0 Sunday. The wins were the latest in a five-game streak that has seen Northern outscore its opponents 212-0. The Maddawgs C team takes on the Cresaptown Eagles this Saturday in a 4 p.m. semi-final match-up that will send the winner to the league's "Super Bowl."

The Maddawgs A&B squads fell to the LaVale Lions in their playoff opener 38-0, ending their season at 4-4. Despite the loss, Coach Jamie Rodeheaver praised his players, saying "This was the first time the Northern Maddawgs' A&B units ever made it to the playoffs. All the players played their best and it showed in that accomplishment."

Northern's C team victories came as a result of "a total team effort," according to Maddawgs coach Justin Lewis. The rout got under way early when, on the second play of the game, Cameron Kamp rushed 43 yards for a touchdown. The Lions' offense coughed up a touchdown to Northern's defense on its own second play, when the Maddawgs' Alex Baker picked off a pass on the 24 yard line and returned it for a touchdown. Austin Tombley rushed for a 14-yard touchdown to cap Northern's next offensive possession.

With the score 26-0, the Maddawgs ran a drive that saw 11 players carry the ball one time each, with Tyler Hittinger getting the final nod before halftime as he rushed for a 10-yard touchdown.

The second half was more of the same. On the Maddawgs' first possession, Alle Rosenberger carried the ball 14 yards for a touchdown. Zach Meyers got into the act when he scored a five-yard touchdown for Northern and, on the Maddawgs' last possession, Matthew Grady rushed for a 27-yard touchdown to cap the 52-point win.

Northern picked up right where it left off in Sunday's second-round playoff match-up with Warm Springs. On the Maddawgs' first possession, Baker rushed for a 38-yard touchdown. Lightning struck again on the very next Maddawgs possession when Baker rushed 10 yards for another touchdown. Tombley followed with a 28-yard touchdown carry before Baker rushed for his third touchdown just before the half to give the Maddawgs a 27-0 halftime lead.

A second-half backfield switch didn't drop Northern's offense into a lower gear, as Rosenberger scored a 25-yard third-quarter touchdown. The Maddawgs had embarked on yet another good drive when a good Wolves hit caused Josh Mason to fumble the rain-slicked pigskin, which Warm Springs recovered. The Maddawgs defense held strong to force a turnover on downs at the Wolves' 10-yard line, and the offense capitalized on its first play when Josh Mason rushed for a touchdown for Northern's final score.

The Maddawgs' offensive fireworks were complemented by Northern's "stone wall" defense, which, for the fifth consecutive game, held the opposition scoreless. The win was also the third game in a row in which the 'Dawgs defense did not allow a single first down.

RAVENS CHEERLEADERS HAVE MUCH TO CHEER — On the sidelines of play, but in the thick of the battle, the Oakland Ravens cheerleading squad boosted its Oakland Youth Football League team to an undefeated season this year. Shown in the Row 1, from the left, are team mascots Brooke Sisler, Bethany DeWitt, and Brianna Craig. Row 2: Tasha Elliritz, Carrie Sisler, Tori Riley, and Chelsea Moon. Row 3: Trista Sines, Ashley Craig, Ashley Riggleman, Natalie Mayle, and Amelia Ratliff. Northern HS To Host Wrestling Clinic Oct. 27

A USA Wrestling clinic led by former NCAA champion Sheldon Thomas will be held at Northern High School on Saturday, Oct. 27, from 9 a.m. to noon. The clinic is free to anyone holding a USA Wrestling card, which will be available for purchase at the clinic from 8 to 8:45 a.m. that day for $23.

Sheldon Thomas attended St. Mark's High School in Wilmington, Delaware, and was a four-time state high school champion. As a member of the Clarion University team, he placed fifth in the NCAA championships in 1995, was a 1996 NCAA champion, and finished third in the championships in 1997. Since his graduation he has competed in many national and international freestyle tournaments.

For more information about the clinic, persons may contact NHS coach Scott Stough at 301-746-8668 (W) or 301-746-5080.

Ram Duffers Down NHS In Final Match

Southern High School's varsity golf team claimed the Garrett County Golf Championship last Thursday with a nine-stroke victory over the Northern Huskies, 164-173, at the Oakland Golf Club. The win serves as a tune-up for the Rams' visit to the Maryland State Golf Tournament, set for Monday and Tuesday in College Park.

Low medalist honors in the county tourney were divided three ways, as SHS's Travis Friend and Nathan Swartzentruber, and NHS's Michael Bergstrom each shot 39s. Southern's Matt Skidmore carded a 41 and A.J. Bender added a 45, while Northern's Jason Rice shot a 43, Mark Bergstrom tallied a 44, and Andrew Hady recorded a 47.

Southern sends a four-man team of Swartzentruber, Skidmore, Friend, and Andrew Feather to take part in the state tourney, while the Rams' Natalie Winter will compete for the girls' individual state title.

Softball Tourney To Benefit Local Girl Fight Cancer

A co-ed softball tournament will be held Saturday, Oct. 20, at 9 a.m. at Broadford Park with all proceeds benefiting Brittney Burns, daughter of Kathy Burns, Oakland, who is battling cancer.

A meeting will be held tonight, Thursday, Oct. 18, 6 p.m., at the park.

Persons wanting more information may contact Patty Chapman at 301-533-0876.

Unbeaten Streak Of SHS Girls Halted By Beall

The undefeated streak of the Southern High School girls' soccer team was brought to an end Monday night in Frostburg, where the Rams were shut out by Beall, 2-0, in a Western Maryland Interscholastic League contest. Southern went into the match off a 4-2 WMIL victory last Thursday over visiting Westmar and ranked #1 in the area, while the Mountaineers were ranked third with an 8-2 record.

The Rams, whose record dipped to 9-1-1 with the loss, had not lost a regular season match since Sept. 9 of last year. They will conclude their regular season next Monday with a 4:30 match at Allegany.

Gina Reeves led the Southern offensive effort in last Thursday's win over Westmar, as she recorded two goals, while teammates Megan Burner finished with a goal and an assist, and Jenny Hickman had a pair of assists.

Sophomore forward Sabrina Scheffel gave the Rams a 1-0 lead about 12 minutes into the match with a goal off Hickman's first assist.

Megan Burner then doubled Southern's score with an unassisted goal five minutes later.

Westmar cut the Rams' advantage in half when Laura Webb notched an unassisted goal at the 15:43 mark of the first half, but Reeves responded with her first goal of the night off Hickman's second assist with less than two minutes on the clock to give Southern a 3-1 halftime advantage.

Reeves made it 4-1 about midway through the second half off a feed by Burner.

Amanda Ziler pulled the Wildcats within two goals with an unassisted score, but that was to be the last goal of the night. The loss dropped the Wildcats to 6-4.

The Rams finished with a lopsided 24-5 lead in shots on goal and a 6-1 advantage in corner kicks. Alasha Rush had three saves in goal for the Rams, and Westmar keeper Ashley McCutcheon turned away 20 of Southern's shots.

The Rams were responsible for one of Beall's two losses this season, but could not get on track Monday, as the Mountaineers recorded their seventh shutout of the season and kept their home-match record perfect.

It was about seven minutes into the match when Kacey Kahl gave the Mountaineers a 1-0 lead with a goal off an assist by Abby Snyder. The score did not change until the 4:51 mark of the second half when Beall's Jackie Aylor recorded an unassisted goal.

The Rams were outgunned in shots on goal by a 15-11 margin, but finished with a 6-1 lead in corner kicks. Rush had eight saves in goal, while Beall keeper Krista Blank earned her seventh shutout of the season.

Northern Girls Top Sentinels Before Being Edged By Alco

A pair of goals by Emily Rawe paced the Northern High School girls' soccer team to a 2-1 victory over Fort Hill Monday evening at Greenway Avenue Stadium in Cumberland, but the Huskies were edged at home last night, 4-3, by Allegany. The split left the Huskies with a record of 4-7, and they will go after win number five this evening at Westmar.

Rawe put her first goal of the night into the net against Fort Hill less than five minutes into the match off an assist by Brooke Butler.

The Sentinels knotted the score at 1-1 with 15:10 remaining in the first half on an unassisted goal by Lauren Ronan.

The deciding goal, and the only score of the second half, was via a penalty kick by Rawe with just 4:20 left in the match.

The Huskies finished with a slight edge in shots on goal, 15-13, and each team had two corner kicks. Northern keeper Randi Beiler recorded 10 saves, while Becky Beeman turned away 12 shots for the Sentinels, who dropped to 2-9-1.

Allegany struck quickly last night against the Huskies, as Bethany Heavner needed just 36 seconds after the kick off to score off an assist by Eden Shire.

Heather Proud made it 2-0 with her first of two unassisted goals of the evening with 25:57 remaining in the first half.

Lyndsi Butler cut the Campers' lead in half just 24 seconds later with an unassisted goal, and then knotted the score at 2-2 about two minutes later with a goal off an assist by Trisha Kamp.

Proud recorded her second unassisted goal of the match with 17:19 left in the half to give the Campers a 3-2 advantage at halftime.

An unassisted goal by Julie Mizak less than two minutes into the second half put Allegany back up by two, 4-2.

With 14:46 left in the match, Brittany Milbourne scored what would be the Huskies' final goal off an assist by Butler.

The Huskies finished with a 16-10 advantage in shots on goal, while Allegany held a 4-3 edge in corner kicks. Ashley Warnick recorded eight saves in goal for Northern, and Bethany Sindy and Marjorie Gray combined for a dozen saves for the Campers, who improved their record to 5-6-1.

After tonight's match with Westmar, the Huskies will take on Allegany at Westmar again this Saturday and then conclude their regular season next Monday by hosting Beall. Tonight's match at Westmar will kick off at 7:30 p.m., Saturday's contest against Allegany will get under way at 11 a.m., and Monday's clash with Beall will begin at 7 p.m.

by Gail Dever, Community Health Outreach Worker, Garrett County Health Department

The Mtn. Lake Park Youth Activities Committee (MLP-YAC) sponsored tennis lessons during the month of September, with 18 young people taking part in the program. The lessons were taught by Jack Jones and an assistant coach, Sean Gregory.

The 18 participants, ranging from age 7 through 15, offered various stories connected with the lessons.

One of the girls had such a strong desire to learn how to play tennis that she forfeited her soccer games, as her team's goalie, to attend these les-sons. Her story touched Sean in such a way that he felt his involvement in coaching was the opportunity he was looking for. When he was a young boy, a coach took him "under his wing" and gave him free tennis lessons. Sean always hoped to somehow give back those treasured and valuable lessons he had been given.

One of the boys had tried several sports in the past, but they left him uninterested and dissatisfied. Upon his mother's insistence to participate in the tennis lessons, he has found a sport that not only is he very good at, but something he really enjoys.

The mother of one of the girls used to play tennis 11 years ago. After bringing her daughter to the lessons, her own interest in playing tennis was renewed. That same day, she was on the court with three other adults, playing her first game in many years.

Another girl repeatedly wanted to give up because she thought she wasn't doing well at all. After several pep talks from her mother, she returned to the court to try again. By the end of the first lesson, she had decided she would like to join a tennis team.

At the completion of the last lesson, the participating youth walked away not only with new and improved tennis skills, but also with more positive self-images and confidence in their ability to learn something new and valuable. Because of the interest in the tennis lessons, the MLP-YAC will offer them again next summer.

Two door prizes (tennis rackets and balls) were given away in participant drawings to Priscilla McCready and Daniel Leatherman. Tammy Ashby's name was randomly drawn for the 50/50 raffle, having been sold the ticket by Sara Ashby.

The MLP-YAC's next activity, the October Youth Cultural Event, will take

Husky Booters Outplay, But Lose To Petersburg, 7-3

The boys' soccer team of Northern High School outgunned visiting Petersburg in shots on goal, 23-19, last Thursday evening; however, seven of the Vikings' 19 attempts made it into the net, while only three were successful by the Huskies.

Actually only five of the Vikings' shots were good, as the Huskies inadvertently scored two goals for the visitors.

The 7-3 defeat was the eighth of the year in nine starts for the struggling Huskies, who will try to record their second win of the season this evening when they host the Southern Rams.

Leading the Vikings in scoring were Aaron Berg and Jacob Weineke, who each recorded two goals, while Seth Porter contributed one goal and one assist. The victory was the 11th in 18 starts for the Vikings, who ended their regular season.

Berg put the Vikes on the board first with a goal at the 27:03 mark of the first half off an assist by Sebastian Indacochea. Weineke doubled the score four minutes later with an unassisted goal.

Berg scored with 16:30 left in the half off a feed by Porter to make it 3-0, and then the Huskies put the first of two accidental goals into their own net to give the Vikings a 4-0 advantage 15:38 before halftime.

Torrey Poholsky finally answered for the Huskies, as he scored a pair of goals in the final 1:17 of the first half. His first came at that mark off an assist by Eric Durst, and his second was recorded off a feed by Greg Bender with just 38 seconds left.

Porter scored for the Vikings about nine minutes into the second half, unassisted, and then Bender responded with an unassisted goal for the Huskies to make the score 5-3 with 22:01 remaining in the match. But it was all downhill from there for the home team, as the Huskies put yet another Viking goal into their own net, and then Weineke tacked on an insurance goal, unassisted, at the 12:12 mark to conclude the scoring.

The Huskies also finished with a 7-3 advantage in corner kicks. Chris Fickes recorded seven saves in goal for Northern, and teammate Geoff Newman stopped two shots. Viking keeper Ben Fout stopped 15 of the Huskies' shots.

After hosting the Southern Rams this evening, the Huskies will conclude their regular season at Beall next Tuesday. Tonight's junior varsity match will kick off at 6 p.m., and the varsity contest will get under way at 7:30.

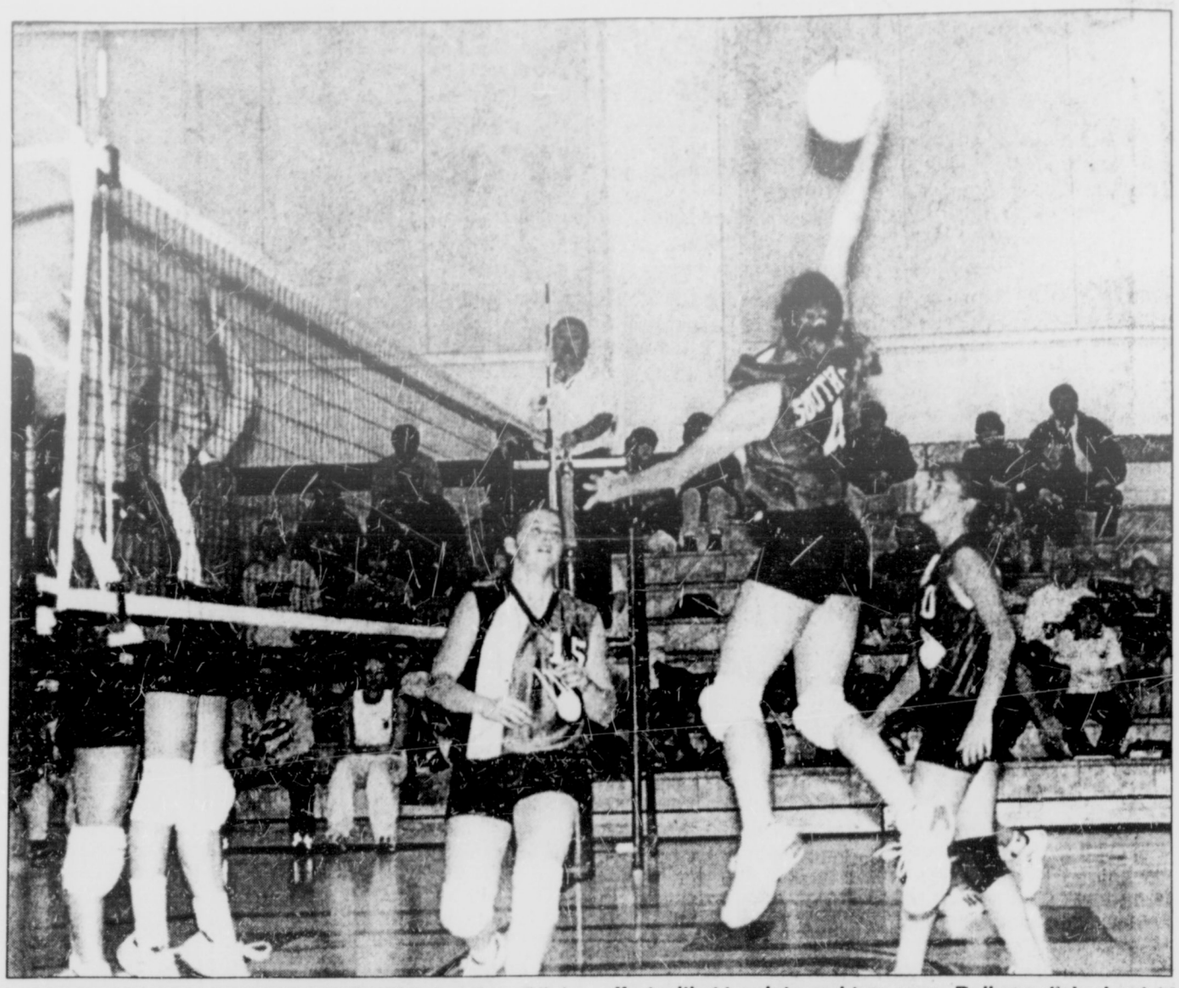
$14K RAISED BY LEMLEY TOURNEY — The Al Lemley Memorial Golf Tournament raised over $14,000 recently for several local volunteer and non-profit community service organizations. Eighty sponsoring businesses and individuals donated funds and prizes for the fourth annual charitable event, and 20 teams of four golfers each competed on the links of the Oakland Golf Club. These photos show the donation checks being presented by tournament organizer Jeanne Lemley, who designated the proceeds to benefit these organizations. The above left photo shows Lemley, left, presenting a $4,000 check to Kathy Greaser of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation. To the right, Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company chief Mike Phillippi accepts a $4,000 check; below left, Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad chief Mary Yoder accepts a $2,000 check; and below right, Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad chief Rev. David Moon accepts a $2,000 check. The event also included a 50-50 drawing for the charity effort, and the bottom photo shows Jerry Michener, part-time Deep Creek Lake area and Montgomery County resident, accepting his $1,972.50 winning share, which he in turn donated to Tribute To Heroes, the network television telethon event that raised funds for the rescue and relief effort formed by the United Way in the wake of last month's terrorist attacks. Not pictured are the golf tourney's winning teams. The low net was turned in by the quartet of Gary Ward, Gary Mills, Charles Greek, and Matt Boxwell, while low gross honors went to the team of Rich Orr, Kevin Miller, Terry Boggs, and Kevin Adrian.



GOING SKY-HIGH AGAINST SENTINELS, Southern High School's Jessica Sharon (#4) is shown above going for one of her seven kills in last night's homecourt match with top-ranked Fort Hill as Kristen Rollman (#15) and Erin Frantz (#10) flank their teammate. Despite a fine performance, the Rams fell 3-0 by game scores of 15-10, 15-11, and 15-10 to the powerful visitors. Sharon paced the SHS effort with 11 points and two aces, Rollman dished out 14 assists, and Brea Byers tallied three kills. The Southern junior varsity took its first game 15-9 before dropping the next two 15-4, 15-8. Southern (7-4) is slated to host Bishop Walsh in a 7:30 p.m. Monday match, before visiting arch-rival Northern on Wednesday for another 7:30 p.m. battle. Photo by John McEwen.

Lakers' Drought Drags On As Four More Losses Added

Garrett Community College's volleyball program remains mired in a year-long slump, as the Lakers dropped four contests this week to take their record down to 1-19. GCC lost last Thursday to Penn State Fayette, 3-0, dropped respective 3-0 and 2-0 matches Saturday to Cecil and Bergens community colleges, and were defeated by Hagerstown Community College 3-1 on Monday.

The Penn State Fayette match scores were 30-19, 30-19, and 30-21. Mimi Harvey led the Lakers with 10 points, Carrie Niner added six, and Jessica DeWitt contributed five while going 37-for-38 on sets with three assists. Lauren Stillwagon went 22-for-23 on sets with three assists, Laura Johnson finished with seven kills and three blocks, and Marianne Unger tallied five kills.

Garrett fell in Saturday's opener with Cecil 30-19, 30-15, and 30-17. DeWitt and Johnson each scored four points, and DeWitt added seven assists while Harvey had four assists. The Bergens match was a much closer affair as GCC was narrowly defeated, 30-26, 30-26, 30-26. Unger paced the Lakers with 11 points and five aces, Johnson had seven points and eight kills, Harvey had five kills and four assists, and DeWitt and Amber Stewart each scored four points.

GCC took the first game of Monday's match with Hagerstown, 30-26, but dropped the next three 30-12, 30-17, and 30-23. Harvey scored 12 points in an excellent 19-for-19 performance from the service line, and Johnson added seven points and nine kills. Stillwagon had 10 assists, Unger had five kills, and DeWitt tallied five points and five assists.

The Lakers play at Montgomery-Rockville CC tomorrow evening, and host Potomac State College and Baltimore City CC Wednesday in a 6 p.m. triangular.

Husky Netters Drop 3-2 Home Match To Alco

The Northern High School varsity volleyball team took the first two games of a Monday match with visiting Allegany, but dropped three straight for a 3-2 defeat. The stumble gives Northern a 9-3 record in what has been an excellent season, while the Campers upped their record to 7-4 with the upset.

NHS opened with 15-6, 15-10 wins, but faded away over the rest of the night as Alco roared back for 15-6, 15-7, and 15-11 victories. Christie Flockhart paced the Huskies with 30 attacks and three kills, while Jolene Brenneman added 21 attacks and four kills. Nicole Sisler turned in a 17-attack, three-kill, 12-point performance, and Amanda Frantz recorded 10 point, 11 attacks, and two kills. The Campers' Casey Wilson tallied 13 points and seven kills, and teammate Kristina Hanft had 17 kills and nine blocks.

Northern swept the junior varsity match by scores of 15-10, 16-14. Jamie Livengood paced NHS with 10 points, and Valene Snyder recorded five attacks and five points.

NHS travels to Bishop Walsh tonight, then returns home to host Preston Tuesday in a 7 p.m. varsity match-up. Southern visits the Huskies' Igloo Wednesday for the 7 p.m. season finale.

bit of response," Brown said. She told the commissioners that she had given a presentation at Swan Meadow School and had conducted two tours for students from Dennett Road Elementary and for Cub Scouts who attend Broad Ford Elementary School.

"The kids were really inquisitive," Brown said. "Hopefully they'll go home and encourage their families to recycle."

Brown also noted that she and Randy DiSimone, operations manager of the collection sites and landfill, had recently attended an electronics recycling seminar. Brown noted that while the seminar was informative and would be important in the future, the county needed to first concentrate on recycling more abundant household items, such as plastic.

THE WEATHER WAS GREAT OUTSIDE and the music was even better inside last Thursday night at the Oakland fire hall, where the OVFD hosted its 24th annual Oktoberfest Celebration as part of the 34th annual Autumn Glory Festival. Maestro Manning Smith, chaplain of the OVFD, led the 32-piece band, consisting of volunteer musicians from both Garrett and Allegany counties, while some members of the crowd of thousands kicked up their heels to a polka, waltz, or march. It was the most successful Oktoberfest to date, according to OVFD treasurer Dave Turney.

Moss Residence To Be Part Of ARC House Tour

The home of Carol and Don Moss south of Oakland will be one stop on the 10th annual Home for the Holidays House Tours event, sponsored by the Western Potomac Chapter of the American Red Cross (which includes Garrett County). The tours, which will involve five homes and one church, will take place on Friday, Nov. 30, and Saturday, Dec. 1.

The Moss home is situated on 1.5 acres of woods along South Blakeslee Road designated as a part of the Department of Natural Resources Wild Acres Program. The home was designed by Carol and Don's son, Andrew Moss, and his wife, Maria Cole, after they graduated from Carnegie Mellon University's School of Architecture in 1989.

The Mosses said the architects wanted to incorporate features that are meaningful not only in the setting, but in the lives of owners. The central, three-level section is reminiscent of the lighthouses found on the Eastern Shore, while the living room fireplace wall is built of local field stone. Still other parts of the home bring back pleasant memories of other houses occupied by the Mosses.

The many windows give a visual access to the woods and wildlife, providing a continual source of entertainment watching birds, deer, and many other small animals.

The inside of the house is designed with the primary living space on one floor. The combined living, dining and kitchen area gives a feeling of open space, and allows room for the antique oak dining table to be expanded to seat 16 people.

The master suite includes a bedroom, den, walk-in closet, and bathroom. This is set apart from the living space by a slate entrance hall and staircase. Guest bedrooms and a bathroom are located on the second floor, which has its own heating source and can be closed off when not in use.

There are hardwood floors throughout, with hickory used in the living area, yellow pine in the bedroom areas, and red oak in the center section. At the top of the "lighthouse" is the tower room, reached by ascending a red oak circular staircase. It is a quiet place, surrounded by treetops, where one can study or read.

HOME OF CAROL AND DON MOSS TO BE ON RED CROSS HOLIDAY TOUR

Small stained glass windows designed and built by the architects for the house punctuate the length of the living and dining rooms.

They are composed of symbols of important aspects in the owners' lives.

The construction of the home was completed in 1992. It has been the permanent residence of Carol and Don since that time.

Tour hours are Friday, 4 until 9 p.m. (not 6 p.m., as written in last week's issue); and Saturday, 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. Tickets, which are $5 in advance and $7 on the day of the tours, can be purchased at Proudfoot's, Gregg's, and Deep Creek pharmacies, as well as at Flowers by Webers in Oakland and Arrowhead Market at Deep Creek Lake.

In addition to the Moss family, homeowners participating in the event this year are Dave and Wendy Berry, Gortner; Walt and Pat Copeland, Ben DeWitt Road; Dusty and Elizabeth Huxford of the Blakeslee and Bob and Anne Proudfoot, Mtn. Lake Park. St. Paul's United Methodist Church will also be on the tour.

Raffles will be held at each of the homes, with gifts donated from area businesses. The proceeds from this event will help meet the immediate needs of Red Cross projects, the spokesperson said.

Accident To Hold Social

The Accident Community Planning Group has announced plans for its Community town social on Wednesday, Oct. 31, from 7 to 9 p.m., at Accident fire hall.

Activities will include pumpkin and cake decorating, musical cake walk, and various games. There will be a disc jockey and music during the evening. The event is free to all school children and youth. Free refreshments will also be provided during the evening.

The children may have their picture taken, for a small fee, with a Halloween background.

Goat Nutrition Workshop Set In Pleasant Valley

Noted animal nutrition expert Dr. Gary Pusillo will present a goat nutrition workshop Monday, Oct. 22, beginning at 7 pm. at the Pleasant Valley Community Center south of Oakland. The free workshop is open to all interested persons, and is sponsored by the Garrett County Extension Office.

Pusillo is the owner of INTI Service Corporation and is an expert in developing and formulating feeds for all livestock. He will present three separate programs during the course of the evening: "Killing Your Goats with Kindness" will address how to determine if goats are receiving proper nutrition through their feed, and what to look for in a good nutritional product; "You Can't Change the Ingredients Once a Cake has been Baked" will describe what a kid goat needs both in the mother's womb and during its earliest growth stages after birth; and "Looking Forward to New Technology for the Modern Goat Production" will present the latest in technological developments.

The Pleasant Valley Community Center is located along Joni Miller Road next to Rigidply Rafters. For further information, persons may call the GC Extension Office at 301-334-6960.

MANY LISTENERS from the tri-state area are familiar with the sight and sound of the Garrett Community College Pipes and Drums marching in the Autumn Glory parade and in concert. The members of this group, whose mission is to preserve the traditions and music of the Scottish heritage, will appear in their family tartans at the Garrett Community Concert Band's fall concert, set for 7:30 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 27, at GCC. The theme of this concert will be "Celtic Music — Music of Ireland and Scotland." In addition to playing separately, the pipe band will join the community band for several numbers. Also featured on the program will be Sang Run, a local group known for their "Irish Music with a Twist." Admission is by donation, with a suggested adult donation of $5. The program is funded in part by Garrett County Arts Council and Maryland State Arts Council.

FSU Students To Hold Youth Rally, Concert

The Frostburg State University Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship will be hosting a concert featuring two popular rock-oriented worship bands, Circadian Rhythm and Soul Inside, on Wednesday, Oct. 24, at 6 p.m. in the Alice R. Manicur Assembly Hall of the campus Lane University Center. Internationally renowned motivational speaker Bobby Petrocelli will also present a message during this youth rally that is free and open to the public.

Circadian Rhythm, which has drawn comparisons to bands such as U2, Radiohead, and Lifehouse, feels it has a Christian message to communicate to the younger generation.

"We know what they are going through because we were there only a short time ago," said Dan Cuomo, drummer for the band. "The message we bring is that they can really have an impact in this world at a young age. You don't have to wait until your 20s and your 30s to make a contribution for Christ in this world. For me personally, I didn't hear that as a teenager."

Opening the show will be Soul Inside, a group from Morgantown, W.Va., comprised of six musicians who promote Christianity through their love of music. "The band brings together a mix of world rhythms, melodic trumpet lines, and smooth funk jams to create a sound that is truly pop worthy, yet very musical and distinctive," stated an FSU spokesperson.

Inter-Varsity is a non-denominational Christian student organization. They have groups on college campuses throughout the world.

Any organization interested in volunteering or becoming a sponsor of this event is asked to contact Don Swogger at 301-687-4761.

FSU To Host Oprah's Children's Book List Author

Deborah Wiles, whose book Freedom Summer has been included on Oprah Winfrey's Recommended Children's Book Reading List, will give a presentation at Frostburg State University on Monday, Oct. 29, at 7 p.m. in Tawes Hall Room 335.

Sponsored by the Children's Literature Centre and the Educational Professions Department, this event is free and open to the public.

Set in 1964, Freedom Summer tells the story of Joe, who is pleased that a new law will allow his best friend, John Henry, who is black, to share the town pool and other public places with him, but is dismayed to find that prejudice still exists.

Wiles's first novel, Love, Ruby Lavender, describes the relationship between Ruby, a young girl living in a small Mississippi town, and her grandmother, who has moved to Hawaii for the summer to visit her new grandchild. Unhappy with the changes in her life, Ruby pours her heart out to her grandmother in letter after letter, but there is one thing Ruby cannot tell even her grandmother.

A resident of Frederick, Wiles is a freelance writer who has also worked as a journalist, radio commentator, and teacher of writing and oral history workshops for children. In these workshops, she shares the importance of each person's biography as history. Her books are based on the trials and tribulations of her own family.

Following the presentation, participants will have the opportunity to ask questions and purchase copies of Wiles's books to be autographed.

For more information, persons may call the Children's Literature Centre at 301-687-4420.

America To Give Concert At Frostburg State

In celebration of Frostburg State University's homecoming weekend, the band America will perform on Saturday, Nov. 3, at 9 p.m. in the Cordts Center Main Arena. Opening for America will be singer-songwriter Jonathan Edwards.

One of the most influential groups of the 1970s, America helped establish a new genre of popular music that fused free-wheeling rock 'n' roll with elements of folk and country, according to an FSU spokesperson. "Now featuring original members Dewey Bunnell and Gerry Beckley, the group's clean vocal harmonies, uncluttered arrangements and evocative lyrics continue to attract fans around the globe." Some of their top hits include "A Horse With No Name," "Ventura Highway," "I Need You," "Tin Man," "Sister Golden Hair, " "Muskrat Love," and the 1980s hit "You Can Do Magic." Their collection History/America's Greatest Hits has sold more than 4 million copies. The title of their most recent release, Human Nature, reflects America's dual themes of the human heart and mind, and the wonder and freedom of the world at large.

Best known for his '70s hit, "Sunshine," Jonathan Edwards uses his voice and acoustic guitar to express his own distinctive mix of folk and country. Some of his other hits include "Have Yourself a Good Time for Me," "Shanty," and "My Home's Not in the Hall of Fame." Last May, he hosted a 13-part PBS series, "Cruising America's Waterways," which took viewers on a scenic tour celebrating the historic and recreational treasures of waterfront America, including Canada.

Dinner theatre specials are available prior to the performance at the following dinner theatre partner restaurants: Fratelli's Italian Restaurant; Giuseppe's Italian Restaurant; JB's Steak Cellar; Leone's Italian Restaurant; and Oxford House. Each special includes a uniquely designed meal with non-alcoholic beverages, tax, and gratuity. Dinner theatre specials can be purchased through the CES Box Office.

For information and ticket purchases, and for dinner-theatre menu selections and reservation purchases, persons may contact the FSU CES Box Office Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at 301-687-3137 or toll free at 1-886-TIXX CES. Order requests can also be faxed to 301-687-7049 or e-mailed to CES@frostburg.edu. Based on availability, tickets may also be purchased at the Cordts Center Arena Box Office one hour prior to the performance. For information and ticket availability on the day of the show, persons may call 301-687-4411. All patrons must have a ticket, and all ticket sales are final.

This tour of America and Jonathan Edwards is presented in partnership with the FSU Alumni Association. Additional information can be obtained by visiting Frostburg State University's Cultural Events Series web site at www.frostburg.edu/events/ces.

Acne: Antibiotics are Primary Treatment

Approximately 80% of the population between the ages of 11 and 30 will have at least one encounter with acne. This condition develops as a result of an interaction between body hormones, skin oils, and bacteria. Hormonal changes and stress can cause the sebaceous glands to become more active and secrete excessive sebum (facial oil). The excess oil can block pores of the skin. If the blockage is incomplete, a blackhead is formed. Whiteheads occur when bacteria flourish in completely blocked pores. Deep or cystic acne results from pus-filled cysts in the underlying skin.

Antibiotics eliminate skin bacteria and are the mainstay of acne treatment. Erythromycin gel or solution can be applied to the skin or taken by mouth. Other oral antibiotics considered safe and effective are tetracycline, doxycycline, or minocycline. Oral isotretinoin may be prescribed for cystic acne. Isotretinoin has revolutionized acne treatment, but this medicine can have serious side effects. The best known is severe birth defects. This medicine should always be taken cautiously by women of childbearing age.

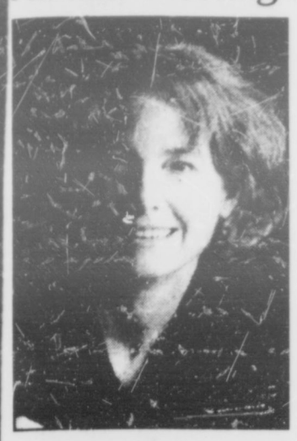
Hurd To Address Friends Of REL Annual Meeting



Barbara Hurd, a local author, poet, and creative writing teacher, will be the featured speaker at the upcoming annual meeting of the Friends of the Ruth Enlow Library, slated for 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 25, at the Oakland branch. Officers and directors will be elected to two-year terms during a short business meeting, which will also include special recognition of Accident Library manager Janet Otto as the Ruth Enlow Library Employee of the Year. The evening is open to the general public.

Following the business meeting, Hurd will read from and discuss her most recent book, Stirring the Mud: On Swamps, Bogs, and Human Imagination. Published last winter by Beacon Press, Hurd's book was met with praise in a number of critics' reviews, and the author herself was featured in interviews that appeared in The Baltimore Sun and The Washington Post. Hurd gave both the Sun and the Post interviewers a tour of the Finzel swamp which, along with the Cranesville swamp, helped inspire her book.

"Stirring the Mud is a book of essays, not specifically about the biology of the swamps, but more of the human imagination as provoked and prompted by the inchoate inexactness of these mucky places," Hurd remarked. "I don't think the world is as finished as we'd like it to be. I'm interested in parts of the world that defy a clear definition. A swamp has got to be one of the most ambiguous places in the world."

Hurd's first book, Objects in this Mirror, is a book of poetry that was well reviewed in "Briefly Noted" column of The New Yorker magazine and received an excellent recommendation on Amazon.com. She has also had essays and poems published in The Yale Review, The Georgia Review, Orion, Nimrod, Prairie Schooner, New Letter Audubon, Heliotrope and other journals. Her work has been included in Best American Essays 1999 and Best American Essays 2001. She has received four Maryland individual Artists Awards for Poetry, won the Sierra Club's National Nature Writing Award, and was a finalist for the Annie Dillard Award for Creative Nonfiction and the PEN/Jerard Award. She lives in Frostburg and co-edits the journal Nightsun.

A reception will follow Hurd's presentation, during which she will have copies of her book available for sale and signing. Friends of the Library T-shirts, designed by local artist Mark Stutzman, will also be for sale.

zation, and as a senior health researcher for that group, she risked her very life in 1998 by going back to her native land to talk with women there and compile a study of the dire conditions.

For two months, Zohra discreetly mingled with 160 women in their homes, asking them over 100 questions about their health, their emotional stability, and their experiences living under the Taliban rule. Her findings were devastating, with 97% of the women interviewed showing definite signs of clinical depression. Some were ill, but unable to obtain good medical care because of the Taliban.

"In 1997, the Taliban ordered all hospitals to release women patients and to not allow any more to come for medical assistance," Rasekh said. "They left one 30-bed facility open for the entire population of women. I went there to see it. There was no electricity, no running water, very few medical supplies, and it was not clean." After some international pressure, the Taliban agreed to open a few more clinics for women only, but even now a woman cannot be seen by a male doctor, and only a handful of female physicians are allowed to practice.

"Women die every day from preventable illnesses, simple infections," Zohra said. "One woman watched her daughter die because she could not afford to buy a burqa and therefore could not go out of her house to get help. Women die in child birth because they cannot have a doctor with them." If a woman goes to a male physician, she must be accompanied by a man who must relate to the doctor what is wrong. The male doctor is prohibited from actually examining any women. He can only make a diagnosis based on the information from the husband, brother, or father. The majority of the women interviewed reported a decline in their general health since the Taliban seizure.

While Zohra gathered this information, she was fearful for her life and the lives of the women she was interviewing. A United Nations compound was her home throughout her stay, but she was never safe.

"Every day, when I left in the morning, I did not know if I would be coming back," she said. "And every night when I went to sleep, I truly did not know if I would wake up. It is very common for Taliban religious police to raid the UN compound." Such raids generally lead to death for those on the opposite side of the Taliban.

Zohra came close to losing everything one day in Kabul. It was warm and she was wearing a long, warm winter coat. "I forgot myself," she said, "and pushed my sleeves up a few inches." Suddenly a voice shouted nearby. "You shameless infidel," he yelled. Zohra turned to see a Taliban officer with a metal rod raised. She ran.

"I ran for my life, and finally found a house to hide in," she said. "If he had caught me, I would have been in terrible trouble because I had my camera in my bag, my recorder, and many notes. I might have been killed." The experience was terrifying, and it brought home to her the horrible realities faced daily by Afghani women.

"When I realized he was yelling at me, and that he was coming after me, I felt all the things that these women feel all the time. The humiliation, the anger, the terror, and I knew then that to be a woman living under the Taliban rule is ... impossible," she said. The Taliban members claim that they have brought peace and stability to a chaotic nation.

"Peace?" Zohra asked. "Perhaps the peace of a concentration camp."

Upon her return to the United States, she and her colleagues compiled a report titled "The Taliban's War on Women." It contains the information Rasekh risked her life to gather, including several photographs. Zohra gave talks about the plight of the women, and was invited to the White House by former First Lady Hillary Clinton to further discuss the issue, and to be honored on the 50th anniversary of the U.N.'s Declaration of Human Rights.

It was a frustrating time for Rasekh and her colleagues. While she received much immediate sympathy from her audiences in those years, the action from those in control was non-existent.

"I presented the situation to many groups, and the audiences were very moved and sympathetic. Mrs. Clinton was touched by the issue and seemed to be willing to help. But very little ever actually happened," she said. Then Sept. 11th came. "It's a terrible shame that it took something like this to finally make people aware of what is happening," Zohra said. "But maybe something good will eventually come from it."

Her sources in and around Afghanistan now report that many people, chiefly women, rejoiced when the United States began the bombing raids.

"Anything is better than life under the Taliban," she said, although she herself is not sure the continued bombing is the solution to the problem. Even if bin Laden is killed, the problem will not be solved, she said.

Rasekh is a founder of a new organization titled the Global Watch Group, the purpose of which is to work to provide medical care to refugees from Afghanistan, and to help out specific families through Save a Life Across the Miles (SALAM), which pairs people from the West with Afghans in need. A web site for the organization can be found at www.globalwatchgroup.com.

"bin Laden repeats that American policy is to blame for Sept. 11," she said. And while she feels the terrorist attacks were absolutely wrong, she said she wonders if bin Laden has a point.

"People in Afghanistan still look to the United States for help," she said. "They consider Americans their friends."

She said it is perhaps time for U.S. citizens to examine and learn how the world is affected by American policies, and to see what we can do to improve the lives of all human beings.

Energy Assistance Available Through Community Action

The Office of Home Energy Programs (formerly known as the Maryland Energy Assistance Program) of the Garrett County Community Action Committee is accepting applications for assistance with heating and electric bills. The Electrical Assistance Program is a new offering this year. All applications for assistance with energy bills must be made during the current program year, which began on July 2.

"Payments for the electric bill assistance are being paid on a weekly basis by the state of Maryland," said GCCAC Home Energy Program director Linda Green. "MEAP benefits will not be issued until late November or early December. These payments will be made by the Garrett County CAC Office of Home Energy Programs."

The guidelines for household size/monthly gross income for those seeking assistance are: one household member, $1,074; two members, $1,451; three members, $1,829; four members, $2,206; five members, $2,584; and six members $2,961. For each household member above six, add an additional $378.

Walk-in applications may be made at the GCCAC headquarters building, located at 104 East Center Street, Oakland, during regular office hours of Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to noon, and 1 to 4 p.m. Special Thursday evening hours are available by appointment through November.

To make a Thursday evening appointment, or to obtain additional information on energy assistance, persons may call the Home Energy Program office at 301-334-9431, ext. 114, or toll free at 1-888-877-8403.

Lake Park Lions Club, will be held Thursday, Oct. 25, in downtown Oakland, beginning at 6:30 p.m. Participants are asked to meet along Center Street in front of the Community Action building. Prizes will be awarded in different age categories to those wearing the best costumes. Judging will take place along Second Street between Green and Alder streets. All participants will receive a bag of treats at the Oakland fire hall, where food and beverages will be available and a cake walk will be conducted. All are invited to take part in the celebration.

Correction Noted

On page B-4 of today's issue of The Republican, a story appears about a meeting slated to discuss the start-up of a youth center in Garrett County. The story states that the location for the meeting is St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland, but organizers have since announced that this meeting place may not be available.

The location of the meeting will be announced in next week's issue.

TRAINING DAY

Rated R - Running Time: 2:00 - Released 10/5/01

I said once that Denzel Washington was getting in a rut playing clean-cut good guys; that it would be nice to seem him play roles with more grit. Well, Denzel must read Film Quips, because he seems to have taken my advice. I'll try not to let it go to my head. In Antoine Fuqua's Training Day, Washington plays a streetwise LAPD narcotics investigator assigned to impart his wisdom upon a fresh new recruit played by Ethan Hawke. In this part Washington is as gritty as it gets, and Hawke is effective as his tough-yet-naive protégé. It is unfortunate that the script by David Ayer is so riddled with pretense, but Washington, Hawke, and their supporting cast do all they can to play through. Moreover, director Fuqua, whose last effort was the overlong and conflicted comedy/thriller Bait, continues to work in the style he loves (big city cop stories), but shows an improved sense of consistency, rendering a tense if implausible story.

Training Day, which features cameos by various black entertainers like Snoop Dogg, Dr. Dre, and Macy Gray, all takes place between morning and night on one day in Los Angeles. Jake Hoyt (Hawke) has been given the chance to move to the big leagues of undercover narcotics investigation if he can pass the tests given to him by veteran Alonzo Harris (Washington). Counseling Hoyt to "forget everything [he] learned at the academy," Harris shows him that to be a good narcotics cop, he must resist the impulse to bust every small-time crook on the street and concentrate on catching the "big fish," a practice which includes but is not limited to taking drugs, driving under the influence, conducting searches without a warrant, beating up suspects, and shooting unarmed people. Which is really, if you think about it, a much more fun way to go about law enforcement than bothering with the boring old law. But before the day is over, Hoyt learns that Harris himself is in trouble with some Russian government thugs, and must use ill-gotten gains to get them off his back. Soon (about late evening) he finds himself in an uncomfortable situation where he must choose between his allegiance to his rogue mentor and his integrity as one of L.A.'s finest.

It is ironic (and an unfortunate choice by the good people at Warner Bros.) that this movie should be released now, in this present atmosphere where police and firefighters are regularly being talked about as heroes and the nation's citizens are generally lining up behind them following a national tragedy. It would have played better, say, 10 years ago, right after the Rodney King beating (but before the O.J. verdict), when the idea of a crooked cop, especially in L.A., was more palatable to the U.S. consciousness. Still, mistiming aside, Training Day suffers from a few other flaws as well, primarily in the script. While it may be believable that some big-city narcotics agents occasionally bend the law in order to apprehend a major criminal, this scenario goes way over the top. Washington seems uncomfortable in this role, probably because of the lengths to which his character must go to move from Hoyt's trusted mentor to full-fledged villain status. While a well-trained and talented actor can usually play any kind of part with skill, there are certain script vs. human nature issues at work here that can undermine even the best actor's work. As a result, Washington's performance is overwrought, moreso as the final reel approaches.

Hawke is adequately effective as Hoyt, having his eyes widened by all that he sees and yet learning to make his own judgments independent of what his twisted superior tells him. Overall, Training Day is sufficient entertainment for those who do not wish to think too hard. ★★★½

JOY RIDE

Rated R - Running Time: 1:36 - Released 10/5/01

The second horror feature in the last two months whose story line stems from an acute case of road rage (after August's Jeepers Creepers), Joy Ride is like a cross country trip in a beat-up Chrysler: at first it's fun, fast-paced, and full of promise, but before long it becomes tedious and uncomfortable. But this time it has the added pleasure of C.B. radio. I don't know whether to blame writers Clay Tarver and J.J. Abrams, who felt the need to pad the film with filler in order to achieve a respectable running time, or director John Dahl, who was so busy bathing everything in red light he failed to see the need for trimming said filler. So I'll just blame all three.

Then there's the cast. Paul Walker, whose career so far has run from bad (The Fast And The Furious) to worse (The Skulls), definitely has the Hollywood look, but lacks the depth needed for any project meant to be taken seriously. In other words, he's perfect for this movie. Meanwhile, Steve Zahn and Leelee Sobieski are capable actors who have yet to really distinguish themselves. This film isn't going to do it for them, but they handle the mediocre script with reasonable finesse, clearly aware that they're riding in a vehicle below their talents.

A Berkeley student planning to fly back East for break, Lewis (Walker) is missing his girlfriend Venna (Sobieski) so much—especially her fabulous, braless breasts that seem to turn up (and I mean that literally) in every Sobieski movie—that he decides to cash in his plane ticket and drive home so he can pick her up in Colorado on the way. But first he must stop by Salt Lake City to bail his bad-boy brother Fuller (Zahn) out of jail. Fuller not only decides to tag along on the trip, but has a C.B. radio installed in Lewis's car so they can play pranks on truckers and maybe get themselves killed. Using the handle "Candy Cane" and a smooth, sultry voice, they entice a Wyoming cottonpicker named "Rusty Nail" to meet them at a roadside motel (room 17) for some two-way lovin'. Although the joke succeeds and they both get a great laugh listening from room 18, they find out the next morning that the male occupant of room 17 has been strangled and Rusty Nail is back between the ditches, switching his vengeance to their frequency. This guy is not a good buddy at all. After a chase down the highway and a tense confrontation, they think it's all over and move on Boulder to pick up Venna. But before long, Rusty Nail reappears at their back door and continues to modulate, not only aware of their current 20, but that they now have a real Candy Cane as a seat cover. 10-4?

Thus begins the aforementioned padding. Before its bloody conclusion, this film meanders hopelessly around the Midwest, incorporating a tiresome array of unnecessary elements like a nude truck stop scene, a chase through a cornfield, and a strained love-triangle between Venna and the two boys. Even with a 1½-hour running time, it seems to go on much longer than it needs to, resulting in a largely joyless ride for yours truly. ★★½

CORKY ROMANO

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:26 - Released 10/12/01

I'm not at all surprised that Corky Romano is such a bad movie. Wacky comedies starring Saturday Night Live cast members have had an amazingly consistent proclivity for lameness, and many of Disney's recent live-action films have been weak, too, so it's no surprise that Corky Romano, starring SNL's Chris Kattan (veteran of the 1998 bomb A Night At The Roxbury) and produced by Disney pictures, is bad. I'm just at a loss as to explain how bad it is. It's not just ill-conceived and poorly written. It's not just full of stupid jokes that fail to generate the slightest chuckle. It's not just run-of-the-mill Hollowwood tripe. It's all those things and worse. The debut effort from director Rob Pritts, written by David Garrett and Jason Ward, is almost willfully awful, as if its producers are consciously thumbing their collective noses at production quality and daring us to spend our hard earned dollars to see it, as if they are trying to see how low they can go with respect to quality and still make money off the multitude of addle-brained teenagers who make up the primary market share. IT IS AN INSULT TO US ALL AND AN ABOMINATION AGAINST EVERYTHING THAT IS HOLY. Well, okay, maybe that's a little strong. But you get the point.

Corky Romano (Kattan) is the forgotten son of crime lord Francis "Pops" Romano (Peter Falk). Although Pops's other sons, illiterate hothead Pauly (Peter Berg) and beefy closet-homosexual Peter (Chris Penn) have supported him in the family business, Corky went another way, becoming an assistant veterinarian at a clinic called "Poodles and Pussies." But when Pops comes under investigation by the FBI, thanks mainly to the information they gained from his trusted but treacherous consiglieri Leo (Fred Ward), Pops decides to call Corky in to go undercover and find out what he can. With a fake ID bearing the name "Agent Pissant," Corky joins the FBI. Despite his bumbling nature and wildly effeminate personality, he stumbles into one piece of luck after another, convincing his superior (Richard Roundtree) that he's a skilled agent with nerves of steel. He even manages to impress the tough but comely Agent Russo (Vinessa Shaw), who has been assigned undercover duty on the Romano case. However, the one person he fails to convince is the surly Agent Davis (Matthew Glave), who attempts to expose Corky for the fraud he is. And what makes it all absolutely hilarious (not) is that Corky doesn't even want to be there, you see. He just wants to be a veterinarian.

Although Chris Kattan admittedly possesses an amazing amount of energy, even his high-impact schtick can't save this film from its myriad weaknesses. The script is pure formula, utterly predictable pap with nothing remotely new or interesting thrown in for flavor. The supporting performances are the kind of trite stereotypes you'd see on a 1970s comedy/variety show, with a host of bland, featureless characters going through motions we have seen a million times before. And even the so-called effects are surprisingly cheesy, like a high school film project done on a shoestring budget. If I were the teacher, it would have failed.

If it were indeed the producers' intention to have bad production values and conspicously lame effects, it might have been funny. But Corky is not that smart, folks. Somebody, somewhere, actually believed in this dreck. ★

Man Who Overcomes Alcoholism, Mental Illness Shares Own Story

Editor's note: Mental illness and alcoholism affect nearly every person either directly or indirectly. Both are debilitating illnesses, but there is also treatment that can help one overcome them and live a normal life.

The following article is written by Howard Gerard, a resident of Garrett County who has suffered from both of the aforementioned illnesses, but has overcome both to become a productive, successful citizen and an advocate for those so afflicted. He graciously and courageously shares his own personal story with our readers, as does his daughter in the second column that appears on this page.

My trouble started when I was about 8 or 9 years of age. My parents were alcoholics and this was causing them to have problems, so they decided to divorce. When this happened there were four of us children. I had an older brother, who was from my mother's first marriage, and I had two younger sisters. I can remember the day we went to court to decide on who would get custody of us children. We were all standing in front of the judge and he asked my mother which of the children she wanted custody of. I will never forget what she said. She told the judge that she only wanted the two girls and "He can have the boy." She said point-blank, "I don't want him!" I did not want to go with my father; I wanted my mother. I went with her and lived there for another eight years.

I hated school. I began smoking and drinking when I was 13 years old. My mother and her boyfriend would get me drunk and sit and laugh at me. I would get drunk and fight all my friends. I had to leave home when I became 16 because I was always in so much trouble, no one wanted me anymore. I headed to New York City and joined the Merchant Marines. I stayed there only about two months before going home and getting work on the B & O Railroad. I worked there until I was furloughed and decided to join the Army.

After I finished my six weeks of basic training, I went home for a visit. After three weeks at home I was shipped overseas. I was in the Army for three years and six months, during Lee's house and said she was asked to be married. Well, I knew I needed to act fast, so I spoke up and said, "You go tell him I asked first." We were married November 20, 1951, and will be married 50 years this November 20, 2001.

After our marriage we worked for a while at Hopemont and had our son John. I knew that I had to get a better job for us to be able to make it, so I went to Baltimore and got a job with the B & O Railroad. We lived there for some time, and I was still drinking and smoking. Ethel told me she would leave me if I didn't stop. I took Ethel back home for a while and she stayed and worked at Hopemont while I was in Baltimore. Then we moved near my sister and mother in Charlestown, W.Va. Ethel worked in the apple orchards and I worked on the B & O off and on when I wasn't furloughed.

My health was not too good at this time. I had pain in my legs and was suffering with narcolepsy (a sleep disorder). I would sometimes go into a narcoleptic state and lose my train. I would be drinking as well. I was sick at this time and went to the doctor. He told me I had to quit smoking and drinking because I had bleeding ulcers, and if I didn't, I would die. Ethel and I had two children now — a son and a daughter. I came home one weekend and Ethel, who is a Christian, told me that God told her that I have been drinking. "If you do not stop, I will pick up and leave you," she said.

My family meant too much to me, so I listened and quit. I have never touched it since — that was which time I was in Germany and worked with what they call Hitler's children. These were the children he made soldiers out of for his army. I tried to teach them how to be children again, how to play ball, and how to basically have fun. It was during this time that my first trouble began. I had really bad pain in my legs and it nearly drove me crazy. I was put in an army hospital in Germany and treated for my nervous condition. After this time I worked on the railroad for the army as well. After my time in the army was finished, I was discharged home.

When I got home my mother told me that I did not have a home with her anymore. I was lucky, and my Aunt Jennie and her husband, my Uncle Dick, had a restaurant and service station in Winchester, Va. They told me I could live with them and help with the business. My mother taught me well — I was still drinking, and it was so bad at times I would drink shaving lotion just to get a taste of liquor.

My family made fun of me because my leg pain was so bad I would cry and no one would help me. Sometimes I would take boxes of aspirin at a time. I left Winchester, went to Preston County, and got a job as an orderly at Hopemont, W.Va. This was a tuberculosis hospital, and I loved my work there. My mother and sisters all worked there as well. This is where my life would change. I met my sister's best friend, Ethel Durr. Ethel was a tray girl in the kitchen, and I was so shy that I wouldn't even ask her out. Then one day Ethel came to my sister Jennie 37 years ago. I also began going to church and had also become a born-again Christian. I took an early retirement from the B & O, where I had worked 20 years.

Shortly after this time I developed a very bad heart condition. I had to have open-heart surgery. I had three blockages and a valve repaired. The surgeon told my family that I would not live through the operation, because my heart was too bad, but he had to try to save me.

But God told me just before I wend under, "Don't worry. I am not through with you yet. I have a job for you to do."

I came through it all with flying colors, and healed up in six weeks. So you see, God knows more than we do.

HOWARD GERARD
by Reba Deise

Over the last 20 years I watched as my father, Howard Gerard, went from a recluse to a very outgoing and vibrant man. My father was very sick all through my childhood and part of my teenage years. I would sometimes pretend he didn't exist, because it was hard to admit that your father was in a mental ward at a veterans facility. My father, Howard P. Gerard, was my hero as a young child, and though we had our good times and more of bad times than I wish to remember, he is still my hero. In 1981 when I graduated from high school, my father also graduated — He came home for the first time in more than four years. Howard was on his way to recovery.

I watched as he went from being afraid of everything to being a go-getter and advocate for the mentally ill. Howard began attending mental health meetings and going to conferences which dealt with mental illness. The next thing I knew, he was also working to fight for veterans' rights. I couldn't believe it — My father, the man who couldn't cope with his own problems was now fighting for other people's problems. Howard became a board member for several local and state level mental health organizations. It was mind boggling to see my father out there fighting for something.

I no longer pretended he didn't exist, because he was certainly out there making sure everyone who could listen knew that he did. My father, Howard Gerard, was actually a local celebrity when it came to the mental health community. He was not only working here at home for mental health rights, he was also working on the statewide level with veterans' mental health issues. It didn't actually sink in how important he was until I received a call from the office of the governor of the state of Maryland requesting to speak with dad. I thought, wow! If they think he is worth calling, then he is big-time.

Along about this time I was feeling very low and my mental health was not doing too well, either. My father talked me into getting professional help. After my doctor started me on an antidepressant, my life took a new turnaround. My father encouraged me to go back to school and obtain my bachelor of science degree in business administration. With his encouragement and push, I finished in two years. I am now working toward my master's degree in business administration, and through my father's constant pushing, I know I will succeed in this endeavor as well.

While I was working on my degree, my father was also taking classes dealing with mental health issues. Daddy now has more certificates than I can count, from all the different classes he attended. I sit here today and think back on the past and how my father, Howard Gerard, almost let his demons, so to speak, take over his life and keep him locked in a mental ward. I know that his belief in God had a great deal to do with his remarkable recovery, and that the love of his family also pulled him through. For this reason I can sit here today and say that Howard P. Gerard is my father and my hero. I am so proud of what he has accomplished over the last 20 years. I know that I am not the only one who feels that way, because there is rarely a day that goes by which someone doesn't come up to me and say, "Aren't you Howard's daughter?" He really is a go-getter and a terrific man.

NMS RECEIVES NATIONAL RECOGNITION — A team of five Polaris yearbook students from Northern Middle School in Accident competed in a Summer Survival contest sponsored by Taylor Publishing Company, Dallas, Texas. High schools and middle schools from across the country participated. The Polaris team placed third in the nation in this event. The five NMS students who participated in the contest are pictured above, left to right: Erik Wood, Nick, Payne, Tara DeVine, Lacie Bittinger, and Angela Umbel. The students and their advisors, Nancy Frank and Darren Wilburn, met all the challenges Taylor Publishing presented them from June through September. Many of the challenges involved organizational tasks and teamwork, which helped to prepare the staff for the 2002 edition of the Polaris yearbook.

Ginkgo Extracts Benefit Circulation

Ginkgo biloba is considered the oldest living tree species in the world. The tree originally was found in western China but now grows in many moderate climates throughout the world. Medicinal agents have been extracted from the leaves of this attractive tree for thousands of years. Study of the medicinal properties of Ginkgo leaves did not begin in North America until the 1950s. However, Ginkgo is one of the most studied herbs in the world, the subject of approximately 300 published studies.

In France and Germany, Ginkgo is distributed as a prescription or licensed medicine. In Germany alone more than 5 million prescriptions were written for Ginkgo in 1988. However, in the US Ginkgo is sold as a dietary supplement.

Two groups of active ingredients in Ginkgo are the flavonoids and the terpenoids. The flavonoids and the terpenoids are antioxidants that help prevent blood platelets from sticking together — an activity similar to that of aspirin. Both compounds are thought to give Ginkgo the ability to increase blood flow to the brain and other body parts — especially in the elderly.

...Forever Blowing Bubbles

What fun we had as children...creating floating, sparkling spheres of iridescence with a mere exhale. When we chased the drifting globes and clapped them between our hands they disappeared! Over and over the game continued until the fantastic fluid was gone.

Do you ever feel like "the game is over"...that the fun has disappeared from your life like those burst bubbles...gone with the responsibilities of adult life? In John 16:20-22, we read..."You will grieve, but your grief will turn to joy....and no one will take away your joy." The Lord promises us eternal peace and joyful contentment when we trust in Him.

To find your happiness through God, we must know what He teaches us. Visit God's house and worship this week. Learn what it is to be a child of the Heavenly Father. Your joy will bubble up from deep within.

EXHAUSTING GOD

October 21, 2001

Background Scripture:
Luke 18:1-14.
Devotional Reading:
Genesis 32:22-30.

Valere and I maintain an intercessory prayer list that we lift up to God at least once a day. At times when, having prayed intercessorily in the morning, I wonder whether in my evening prayers I ought to repeat some of the same concerns for which I have already prayed. It has occurred to me that, in offering the same prayer twice in one day, I may demonstrate a lack of trust in God's attention to the first prayer?

So Luke 18:1-8 is a good reminder to me that we need to always to persevere in prayer. It is not how often we pray for the same thing, but how we pray. That is what the parable of the unjust judge is about. Jesus told them a parable to encourage them to "always pray and not lose heart" (Lk 18:1). When in doubt, he seems to be telling us, pray too much rather than too little. If you are going to err, do it on the side of bold perseverance, not timidity.

In his The Age of Faith, Will Durant writes of a Spanish lad, who, persuaded he is mentally sluggish, runs away from home. On his way, the exhausted youth sits down by a well and his eye is caught by the deep furrow in a stone at the edge; a passing maid explains that the furrow was worn by the attrition of the rope that lowered and raised the bucket. "If," said Isadore to himself, "by daily use the soft rope could penetrate the stone, surely perseverance could overcome the dullness of my brain." He returned to his father's house and became the learned Bishop of Seville.

Is God Reluctant?

This does not mean that we persevere so that we can persuade God to do what we ask. It is not the reluctance of God that we are trying to overcome in prayer, but, like the Spanish lad, the dullness of our own spirits. Prayer doesn't change God; it changes us—at least, if we stay at it long enough to make a difference. What happens when this 'dullness' begins to be overcome in us? It gives God an opportunity to enter into our lives. Henry Ward Beecher said, "Prayer is not the conquering of God's reluctance, but taking hold of God's willingness." With that 'willingness' God can answer the purpose of our prayer, if not the specifics of our request.

In the parable please realize that Jesus is not suggesting that God is like that judge. Just the opposite: he

IT WAS A PERFECT DAY for a parade on Saturday, and the Grand Feature Parade of the 34th annual Autumn Glory Festival drew its usual crowd of thousands up and down Second and Third streets in downtown Oakland. Pictured above left are the Garrett Community College Pipes and Drums, one of the many marching/music groups in the parade. Above right are the members of the 34th AGF royal court, including Prince Steve Kersten and Princess Jennifer Hickman, front, and King Guy Joseph Jr. and Queen Bridget Frazee. Below left are the Grand Marshals of the event, which included representatives of various fire, rescue, military, and law enforcement organizations. They were transported in the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department's antique pumper, Old Number One, driven by OVFD member Joe Helbig. Below right is Jerry Geisler, long-time member of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors, who was named the Honorary Golden Ambassador. His chauffeur was his wife Nancy. Two other honored guests of the parade are pictured at the bottom. At left is Kelly Glorioso of Bel Air, who is the reigning Miss Maryland. At right is Lou Stouffer of Terra Alta, W.Va., President George H. Bush's 70th Point of Light, who has been serving as Santa Claus for 30 years, collecting and delivering toys, clothing, and other gifts to thousands of families in need, not only during the holidays, but also throughout the year. Stouffer was being transported in a restored 1921 Model T Ford.

Let's Get Down To Business!

This is a feature of The Republican to better acquaint our readers with various area business establishments.

DC's Mountain Steak House

DC's Mountain Steak House, the area's newest eating establishment, will open to the public today, October 18. Formerly The Place, DC's features hand-cut choice Western beef, fresh seafood, house specialties, and an extensive wine list.

Located in the McHenry House at Wisp Resort, DC's Mountain Steak House char-grilled steak menu includes prime cuts such as filet mignon, New York strip, center-cut sirloin, and two sizes of slow-roasted prime rib. Tangy barbecue and tender braised short ribs are also available.

Fresh seafood includes grilled salmon and tuna, Crab Imperial, stuffed shrimp with crabmeat, and broiled lobster tail. A special feature, Twin Peaks, includes a five-ounce filet topped with two broiled stuffed shrimp.

House specialties include a variety of main courses, such as Chicken Marsala, Veal Parmigiana, Chicken Amaretto, and Veal Oscar.

The restaurant has been enhanced with softer colors and lighting, new uniforms for staff, and striking table decor that fits its new direction. "With the departure of McClive's Restaurant, DC's will fill the gap of fine food and beverage at great prices on the lake," said Ruth Beitzel, director of food and beverage at Wisp. "We have a wonderful, dedicated staff that's fully knowledgeable of our new menu and wine selection."

DC's Mountain Steak House will be open daily for lunch and dinner beginning at 11 a.m. The restaurant is located in the McHenry House at Wisp at Deep Creek Mountain Resort, 296 Marsh Hill Road, McHenry. Please call 301-387-4911, extension 2165, for more information.

WM Alzheimer's Support Group Slated To Meet

The Alzheimer's Association, Western Maryland Chapter, sponsors family/caregiver support group meetings in Garrett County. The meetings are free of charge and open to the public.

The group meets in September, November, January, and June on the last Mondays of those months from 7 to 9 p.m.

The next meeting will be held on November 26. A presentation titled "Psychiatric Diagnosis and Medications and Alzheimer's Disease and Other Dementias" will be given.

The location of the support group's meetings varies, so interested persons should contact Donna McClintock at 301-334-8253 for more information and the location.

For information about other services available through the Western Maryland Chapter, persons may call 1-800-696-6830 or visit its web site at www.alzwmd.org.

Domestic Violence Victims Run Gamut Of Society, As Do Abusers

by Peggy Nelson
Coordinator, Garrett County Family Violence Coalition

October is Domestic Violence Awareness Month. One of the best ways to combat domestic violence in our community is to have a realistic understanding of the pervasiveness of the problem in American society today.

Who Are Victims of Violence?

Statistically, Most Victims are Women

- 85-95% of all domestic violence victims are women who are abused by their husbands or boyfriends.
- Teenaged, pregnant and elderly women are especially at risk.
- Even though most victims are women, men can be victims, too.

Children Can Be Direct or Indirect Victims

- They may be abused themselves.
- They may be forced to see their parent abused in front of them.
- The abuser may use threats to harm the children as a means of controlling the victim.
- They grow up seeing abuse as the natural way for domestic partners to relate to each other.
- They grow up in an insecure environment filled with tension and violence.

Teenagers Experience Dating Violence

- Teenagers are just as vulnerable to relationship violence, and it is just as dangerous.
- Teenagers may not seek help because they distrust adults.

Domestic Violence Can Also Occur in Gay and Lesbian Households

- Gay and lesbian relationships are not immune to the pattern of abusive and coercive behaviors that constitute domestic violence.
- Victims may not seek help because they don't believe that help is available for same sex domestic abuse or because they fear they will be mistreated because of their sexual orientation.

The Elderly and People With Disabilities Can be Victims

- They may be abused by their spouses or partners, adult children, or caretakers.
- They may be physically unable to defend themselves or escape from the abuse.
- They may be physically or mentally unable to report the abuse to anyone.

Anyone Can Be a Victim

- Studies have found no characteristic link between personality type and being a victim.
- Victims can not stop the abuse by simply changing how they behave.
- Everyone deserves to be safe from domestic violence.

Who Are Domestic Violence Abusers?

Abusers Don't Act Because They Are "Out of Control"

- Abusers choose to respond to a situation violently. They are making a conscious decision to behave in a violent manner.
- They know what they are doing and what they want from their victims. They are not acting purely out of anger. They are not only reacting to stress.
- They are not helplessly under the control of drugs and alcohol.

Abuse Is a Learned Behavior

- It is not a "natural" reaction to an outside event.
- It is not "normal" to behave in a violent manner within a personal relationship.
- It is learned from seeing abuse used as a successful tactic of control — often in the home in which the abuser grew up.
- It is reinforced when abusers are not arrested or prosecuted or otherwise held responsible for their acts.

Abusers May Even:

- Express remorse and beg for forgiveness with seemly loving gestures.
- Be hard workers and good providers.
- Be witty, charming, attractive, and intelligent.
- At times, be loving parents.

Domestic violence isn't normal; in fact, battering is against the law. For assistance in dealing with an ongoing or suspected domestic violence situation, persons may call the Dove Center's 24 hour-crisis hotline at 301-334-9000 or 1-800-656-4673. For any emergency in progress involving injury or potential for injury, call 9-1-1.

Two Local Bars Get U.G.L.Y. To Battle MS

October is the U.G.L.Y.-est month of the year for local bars and restaurants as they compete in the Bacardi U.G.L.Y. (Understanding, Generous, Lovable, Young at heart) Challenge for multiple sclerosis (MS). More than 300 establishments in Maryland, including the Long Branch Saloon in Mtn. Lake Park and the Oakland Elks Lodge, will be participating in this year's competition.

The establishments will be raising money in various ways, including selling paper bats and ghosts, to help the Maryland chapter of the National MS Society and vie for the title of 2001 U.G.L.Y. Challenge Champion.

The mission of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society is to end the devastating effects of MS. Through its 50 state chapters and branches, the society provides a wide range of services to people with MS and their families. For more than 50 years, the society has provided hope and help for people with MS across the nation, according to Randy Bowers, vice president of communications of the Maryland chapter for the National MS Society.

Proceeds from the challenge will support MS research and local services for the more than 4,200 families in the state who are affected by MS daily. For more information, persons may call the central MS office in Hunt Valley at 1-800-FIGHT-MS.

Hayride Set To Scare Students In Friendsville

A Haunted Hayride is set to leave the Friendsville Elementary School Friday, Oct. 26, at 7 p.m. and return to the school at 10 p.m.

The cost is $2, and proceeds benefit the Friendsville Elementary School PTO. This event is sponsored by the Friendsville mayor and town council, Friendsville Residents Against Drugs, and Friendsville Community Crime Watch.

The hayride will include action scenes of the pumpkin patch, the graveyard, the lab, and the torture chamber. Food will also be available, and a movie will be shown for smaller children.

Sponsors of the event warn parents that this event may not be suitable for all students, so discretion is advised. Photos will be taken, and children are urged to wear costumes.

Meeting Slated For Public Input On Youth Center

A meeting is slated for Tuesday, Oct. 30, at 7 p.m., at St. Mark's Lutheran Church, located along 2nd St. across from the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland, for persons interested in starting a youth center in Garrett County.

Local elected officials, as well as the general public, are invited to attend this forum to voice their ideas and opinions on the subject.

Persons wishing to help with this project by donating time, services, materials, or funds may contact Yvette Nutter at 301-334-1223 or Carol Newman at 301-334-4605.

Gilmore star was painfully shy as a child

By Taylor Michaels
©TVData Features Syndicate

Alexis Bledel

Q: What can you tell me about Alexis Bledel, who plays Rory on Gilmore Girls? She has such good chemistry with Lauren Graham (Lorelai). All mothers and teen-age daughters should watch and learn. –Eleanor Martin, El Paso, Texas.

A: Most mothers and teen-age daughters aren't lucky enough to have Gilmore creator Amy Sherman-Palladino writing dialogue for them, but it's true that the dazzling Bledel, a 19-year-old Houston native, really has bowled over viewers, critics and senior co-stars such as Edward Herrmann with her warmth and poise.

When she was 8, Bledel's parents encouraged her to try out for a community theater as a way to combat her shyness. She went on to appear in Our Town, Aladdin and The Wizard of Oz before landing a modeling contract while still in high school. She had enrolled as a film student at New York University shortly before being cast in the coveted role of Rory Gilmore.

Over her summer hiatus, Bledel starred in a new Disney adaptation of the children's classic Tuck Everlasting, scheduled for release in 2002.

Q: Whatever happened to TNT's highly touted movie that was to provide closure to The Pretender? We were out of the country for a couple of months this summer. Did we miss it or was it canceled? –Philip Whittier, Atlanta.

A: No, the final original Pretender movie is safely in the can, but was part of the schedule reshuffling that followed some major changes in the upper management structures at AOL Time Warner, of which TNT is a part. The Pretender: Island of the Haunted now is scheduled to air in December.

Q: Most of the actors on Saved by the Bell have gone on to other jobs, but what happened to the amiable actor who played Principal Belding? –Paul Dunn, Bloomington, Ill.

A: OK, maybe it's not quite as prestigious as co-star Mark-Paul Gosselaar's new gig on NYPD Blue, but actor Dennis Haskins, 44, has continued to work following the demise of Saved by the Bell: The New Class in 2000.

In fact, he guest-starred in an episode of The Practice last January and appears in no fewer than four films set for 2001 release: Max Keeble's Big Move, Tangy Guacamole, Reverie and 18. And no, you probably won't be hearing those titles mentioned in next year's Oscar race.

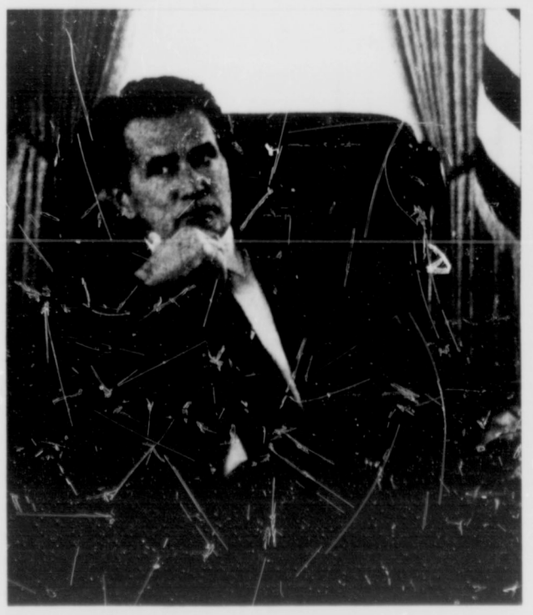
WEDNESDAY



The president (Martin Sheen) and Wyoming's governor argue over how to handle a devastating forest fire in The West Wing, airing Wednesday on NBC.

IN FOCUS

George Chakiris, dancing with fellow Sharks, stars in West Side Story on Saturday, Oct. 27, on Turner Classic Movies.

The timeless musical stars Natalie Wood and Rita Moreno, Leonard Bernstein's exquisite music, Stephen Sondheim's lyrics, and Jerome Robbins' signature choreography.

This updated version of Romeo and Juliet depicts life in 1960 Manhattan with gangs fighting instead of families.

This is the 40th anniversary of the movie that won 10 Oscars, including best picture.

Garrett Student Govt. Officers Plan Activities

Eight Garrett Community College students have been elected to lead the college's Student Government Association as a result of the recent campus elections. The new SGA officers are making plans for the coming year's student activities.

The new officers are Lauren Stillwagon, president; Gregory Jean-Baptiste, vice president; Vance Slagle, secretary; and Bonnie Riley, treasurer. The sophomore class representatives are Jessica DeWitt and Mimi Harvey, while the freshman class is represented by Lacey Holtschneider and Anissa Jamison. Tim Foster will continue to serve as SGA adviser.

One of the first activities sponsored by the SGA will be the Blues Trio concert set for this evening, Thursday, Oct. 18. The concert is an approved co-curricular event. During Halloween week, members will sponsor giveaways at Browning's Foodland, Foodland Fresh, and Sheetz. A pumpkin-carving contest and costume contest are planned for Wednesday, Oct. 31, at the college.

SGA officers will attend the Association of College Unions International Conference in Ocean City in November. They will also be helping with the "In Praise of America" program scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 17. (See separate story.)

In addition to planning and carrying out these activities, Garrett's SGA officers are responsible for funding projects of campus organizations, including the Adventure Sports, Agriculture, Baseball, Business, International Students, Math, and Wildlife clubs, the L.I.F.E. Corps, and the Women's Athletic Association.

GCC STUDENT GOVERNMENT OFFICERS TAKE REINS — The Student Government Association of Garrett Community College is working to make campus life more productive, and enjoyable, for fellow students. A number of activities have already been planned by the SGA, with more in the works. The new SGA officers for the 2001-02 academic year, shown from the left in the first row, are vice president Gregory Jean-Baptiste, freshman class representatives Anissa Jamison and Lacey Holtschneider, and sophomore class representative Jessica DeWitt. In the second row are secretary Vance Slagle, president Lauren Stillwagon, treasurer Bonnie Riley, sophomore class representative Mimi Harvey, and SGA faculty adviser Tim Foster. One of the first SGA-sponsored activities of the fall semester is a Blues Trio concert set for 4:30 p.m. this evening, Thuraday, Oct. 18, in the GCC auditorium.

WVU To Host Veteran-Turned-Priest Activist

Rev. Roy Bourgeois, a U.S. military veteran and a Catholic missionary priest who founded the School of the Americas (SOA) Watch, will speak at West Virginia University, Morgantown, at 7 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 28. Bourgeois' Mountainlair Ballroom appearance, which free and open to the public, is being sponsored the WVU Newman Club and St. John's University Parish.

A Purple Heart recipient, Bourgeois served as a Navy officer for four years, including a year of shore duty in Vietnam in the late 1960s. After completing his military commitment, he began seminary education and was eventually ordained a Maryknoll Missionary priest. During missionary service in Bolivia, Bourgeois became aware of human rights abuses against the poor, but when he spoke out on their behalf he was arrested and expelled from the country.

Bourgeois then became active in the human rights movement in El Salvador after four American nuns, including two who were his personal friends, were raped and murdered there in 1980. An investigation implicated graduates of the U.S. Army School of the Americas (SOA), a taxpayer-funded institution that trains military officers of Central and South American nations. Bourgeois resolved to draw attention to unjust acts by SOA graduates by founding SOA Watch and by leading non-violent demonstrations at Fort Benning, Ga., home of the SOA.

"SOA became important to the United States' defense during the Cold War, when unfriendly countries attempted to destabilize governments south of our border by organizing and arming rebel forces," Bourgeois said. "However, it was not taken into account that many leaders of Latin American countries were not democratically elected, or that the military of few of those nations was under civilian control as it is in the U.S. Furthermore, SOA legislation failed to provide for human rights education or any tracking of its graduates."

In the past 20 years, accounts of atrocities committed by SOA graduates on citizens of their own countries have included the 1980 assassination of El Salvadorean archbishop Oscar Romero as he consecrated the eucharist at the altar during Mass. Two of the three army officers cited as responsible for the archbishop's assassination were SOA graduates, as were 10 of the 12 officers said to be involved in the massacre of 900 civilians at El Mozote, and 19 of the 26 officers cited in the 1989 murder of six Jesuit priests in San Salvador, along with their housekeeper and her daughter.

In Guatemala, another SOA graduate was implicated in the murder of American citizen Michael Devine, as well as the husband of Jennifer Harbury, whose struggle to learn the fate of her husband drew the attention of the U.S. media.

"SOA training manuals have advocated execution, false imprisonment, physical abuse, and other forms of torture as acceptable military strategies," said the priest, who has spent over four years incarcerated in U.S. federal prison over the past 20 years for his non-violent civil disobedience protest actions against the SOA.

For more information about Borgeois Oct. 28 program in Morgantown, persons may contact St. John's University Parish on the WVU campus at 304-296-8231.

WARM THE CHILDREN

Providing New Winter Clothing For Needy Children

For the fifth year, The Republican is asking for your help. Without it, many Garrett County children will go cold this winter.

Just what is The Republican newspaper's WARM THE CHILDREN FUND?

The Republican's Warm The Children Fund is, basically, neighbors helping neighbors. We here at the paper are asking for monetary donations (tax deductible) from you, the readers. The collected funds will be used to purchase new winter clothing for Garrett County children in need. Because the newspaper administers the program, there are no added fees or overhead costs. Every penny donated is used to buy the winter items.

How are needy children being identified?

A special core of volunteers is working right now to identify those in need this year. Those selected for applications will be receiving them soon. (Please do not call for the service. If you have been selected, you will soon be notified.)

How will the children's clothing be purchased?

Volunteers will take the families shopping at Wal-Mart or through the J.C. Penney's catalog store in Oakland, or at the Ames in Frostburg. The children, with the help of their parents, may select their own new coats, hats, sweaters, long johns, jeans, boots, pajamas, or other needed winter items, spending up to $100 per child.

We need two things: volunteers and donations.

To volunteer as a shopper in Oakland, please contact Linda Thomas at 301-387-6203. To volunteer as a shopper at Ames, please call Lisa Broadwater at 301-895-5827 or 301-746-8223. For general information, you may call Mary McEwen at the newspaper office at 301-334-3963.

THE REPUBLICAN

To make a donation, please complete the coupon below, cut it out, and mail it along with your tax-deductible contribution to the address noted. All checks should be made out to Warm the Children Fund.

Please make your donations before November 30, 2001. Those collected after November 30 will be saved for next year's campaign.

Aeronautical Training Begins For SHS Grads

Two 2001 Southern High School graduates have recently began their training at the Pittsburgh Institute of Aeronautics in the 21-month Aeronautical Maintenance Technician Program.

Mark Evans and James Preston III will each receive an associate in specialized technology degree as well as test for the Federal Aviation Administration's Airframe and Powerplant certification upon completion of the program.

Evans is the son of Mark Sr. and Cheryl Evans of Oakland. Preston is the son of James and Laine Preston, also of Oakland.

Courses Under Way At Garrett's Grantsville Cntr.

The Grantsville Outreach Center of Garrett Community College is now in full operation with students enrolled in both credit and non-credit classes, according to center coordinator Terry Beachy.

A total of 32 students are enrolled in credit courses at the center, each of which meets one evening each week. These courses are Introduction to Computers (CS 105), General Psychology (PSY 101), Introduction to Business (BUS 101) and Introduction to Literature (ENG 102).

Credit courses tentatively scheduled for the spring 2002 semester are Introduction to Management (BUS 170), Expository Writing (ENG 101), Microsoft Certified Systems Engineer (MCS 103, 104, 105, and 106), and Networking Fundamentals (MCS 108).

Several non-credit courses will be starting in late October or early November. These are: Basic Computer Skills for Seniors Level II, set for 9 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. on Tuesdays starting Oct. 23; Basic Computer Skills for Seniors Level I, slated for 10 a.m. to noon Wednesdays starting Nov. 7; and Intro to Computer Skills for Beginners scheduled for 10 a.m. to noon on Thursdays starting Nov. 8.

Non-credit courses already in progress include Introduction to Keyboarding and Introduction to Microsoft Word Processing, as well as Adult Basic Education, which meets from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Mondays.

For further information about these courses or the Grantsville Outreach Center persons may call Beachy at 301-895-3368.

FAMILY VOLUNTEERS RESTORE MAST/MAUST CEMETERY — Eighteen descendants of Joseph Mast/Maust worked recently on restoring the old family cemetery located along Route 2004, two miles north of St. Paul, Pa., in Somerset County. Joseph Mast was the son of Swiss immigrant Jacob Mast, who arrived in the United States in 1737. Joseph Mast purchased a farm in Somerset County in 1778 which was operated by his descendants until 1993. With the help of willing volunteers including Rigidply Rafters of Oakland and Otto Brick and Tile of Springs, a new fence has been erected surrounding the cemetery and the banks have been fortified with stone. The family intends to place a plaque commemorating the original founder at the site and plant trees to protect the stones from wind damage. Persons interested in more information or in making a contribution to the restoration effort can call 301-895-3831 or 814-445-6945. Shown at work to preserve the memory of their ancestors, from the left, are Ivan Maust of Grantsville; Jerry Maust, Accident; and Delvin Mast, Grantsville.

4-H Club News

SNOWY CREEK
by Michael Guard
reporter

The Snowy Creek 4-H Club held its monthly meeting on October 13. There were 27 members and two visitors present. Joanne Meyers led the program, teaching the members how to sew on a button.

In the past month the club has attended the Corn Maze at Cove Run Farms. Those attending were Nathan Glass, Tammy, Madison and Will Gallagher, Wanda, Dorsey, Jeremiah, Michael, and Mitchell Guard, Brittany Diehl's family, Jennifer, Lincoln, and Robin Lowdermilk, Darrick, Brianna, Rick, and Cindy Lowdermilk, Shelby, Drew, Sherri, and Ed Glover, and David, Hannah, Cindy, Henry, Charlotte, and David Smearman. We also had several other guests.

Some members also attended the annual livestock meeting and picnic. Those were Randi Rodeheaver, Brittany Diehl, Brianna Lowdermilk, and Molly, Linda, and Lindsay Wolf.

Beef raffle tickets were collected from members.

National 4-H Week was held and Will Gallagher explained what the committee had done for the week.

Election of officers for 2002 will be next month, and Molly Wolf and Jennifer Lowdermilk volunteered to find members who would run for office and make the ballots.

If members need community service learning hours, they were told about helping with the Haunted Hayride in Friendsville at the Community Park on October 26 from 7 to 10 p.m. Also, any 4-H member interested in the 4-H Centennial Celebration — Garrett County Conversation on October 29 from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. at GCC is to let Wanda know.

The next meeting will be held November 8. The election of officers will be held. The program will be an origami art demonstration by Doug Gaither.

Digital Photo Course Slated

The Small Business Development Center of Garrett Community College will hold a two-session course on entry-level digital photography. The first session will be held Thursday, Nov. 1, from 6 to 9 p.m.

Course participants will learn about digital resolution, shooting, printing, and image management. Students may bring their own cameras or learn, prior to purchase, the best digital camera for his/her needs.

To register for the class and/or obtain more information, persons may telephone Cathy at 301-387-3080 or Sue at 301-387-3089.

Antiques

by Ralph and Terry Kovel

Queen Anne ruled England from 1702 to 1714. The furniture made in America in the "Queen Anne" style was not made until about 1725 to 1750. The desks and other wooden pieces were much lighter-looking than furniture made earlier.

Pieces were made with curved forms and simple decorations. The best-known feature of a Queen Anne table, desk or chair is the cabriole leg. The S-shaped leg is graceful and practical. The slight bend and the knee made it possible for a slim leg to support heavy pieces.

The slant-front desk was a popular Queen Anne form. The desk resembled a chest of drawers topped by a series of smaller drawers that were, in turn, covered by a long, slanting board that could be flipped open to form a writing surface.

Q. I have several flower-printed tablecloths of my mother's. Can I use them and wash them without doing any damage? I would like to collect them. What types are best?

A. Tablecloths printed with bright flowers or figures were popular in the 1940s and '50s. Most were made of cotton or linen that was easily washed, but all required ironing. The colors will fade if tablecloths are washed over and over.

The most popular cloths are those sold as souvenirs that picture a map of places like Florida, California or Texas. Theme tablecloths also are popular, and collectors search for those picturing food, Mexican scenes, sea-related objects or farm scenes. Unused cloths can still be found.

Faded cloths sell for less than $20. Crisp examples can bring up to $200. Most tablecloths are either 40-by-40 inches or 52-by-52 inches, made for use on a kitchen table.

Pet Costumes

Q. I want to dress my little dog up for Halloween. Do you have any costuming ideas?

A. Personally, I'm not a big fan of dressing pets up for anything. Not that they don't look cute; it's just that most pets don't seem too happy in tiny collegiate sweaters or with big floppy antlers strapped to their heads.

Darn — there I go mentioning two common costuming ideas. But let me add that doggie sweaters trap heat, making them dangerous in warm weather; and big hats or other head coverings can make your pet extremely anxious.

However, I have seen small dogs that seem to enjoy the attention that dressing up brings them. As long as the costume does not make your pet uncomfortable, anxious, too hot or too cold, go right ahead. And make sure your dog can handle a constant stream of cooing guests.

Costumes that dogs seem comfortable in are minimal. A bowtie or (miniature) baby bib work well; I've also seen tiny horns glued to a ribbon and clipped or tied to the top of the dog's head. Whatever you do, make sure that the costume does not interfere with the dog's sight or walking, and cut everything smaller than you think it needs to be.

Before the party, dress the dog up to see how he or she handles it. If your pet becomes agitated, rethink your idea or abandon it completely.

During the Halloween party, bring the dog in intermittently to meet guests. Don't let your dog run around underfoot; place him or her in a secluded room or in the kennel cage when the place gets crowded. Take off the costume once everyone's been introduced. And keep supplying doggie treats and plenty of TLC, no matter what.

Strange BUT TRUE

• Now that football season is back in full swing, here's something for you to think about: When you're sitting around on Monday night watching the game, the NFL players are earning, on average, $75,000. Yes, $75,000. Per game. Or maybe you're a basketball fan — NBA players earn an average of $43,049 per game. Or is hockey your sport? NHL players average $19,444 per game.

• Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, famed for writing the Sherlock Holmes novels, was also well-known for his skill in playing that quintessential British game, cricket.

• One of Tom Clancy's most successful novels, "The Hunt for Red October" — later a movie starring Sean Connery — was rejected 12 times before it was finally published.

• Have you ever had someone read you the riot act? You may think so, but you probably haven't — not literally, anyway. The original riot act went as follows: "Our Sovereign Lord the King chargeth and commandeth all persons being assembled immediately to disperse themselves and peaceably depart to their habitations or to their lawful business, upon the pains contained in the act made in the first year of King George for preventing tumultuous and riotous assemblies, God save the King." Quite a mouthful, huh?

• Most people know that a human has 46 chromosomes, but how do we compare to other living things? Not surprisingly, an ant has only two. A fruit fly has eight. A garden pea has 14. Your pet dog has 78. And a garden fern? It has 1,260 chromosomes!

Bonds Of Friendship, Family Lead To Dorothy Brock Leighton Scholarship

by Joan Crawford

A friendship that began in high school between two women who went on to become prominent civic leaders in Garrett County has been commemorated, as two families have joined together to establish the Dorothy Brock Leighton Scholarship at Garrett Community College.

Dr. Herbert H. Leighton and his family, along with Barbara and Eugene Flinn, have established the endowed scholarship with the Garrett Community College Foundation to honor the late civic leader. Their contributions of $5,000 each have been matched dollar for dollar by the state of Maryland through the Private Donation Incentive Program, according to GCCF executive director Bretta Reinhard. The Dorothy Brock Leighton Scholarship is a $20,000 endowment.

"This is a wonderful story," Reinhard commented. "The late Dorothy Brock Leighton, a teacher by profession, informally educated members of this community as she championed certain causes and discussed numerous issues. The people of Garrett County benefited from her interpretation and her insight. Barbara Flinn joined Dotty Leighton in many civic-minded pursuits. As volunteers, these women garnered great respect as they worked on important projects, side by side, for many years.

TWO-FAMILY EFFORT LEADS TO LEIGHTON SCHOLARSHIP — The Dorothy Brock Leighton Scholarship has been established at Garrett Community College through the generosity of two local families. Dr. Herbert Leighton and his family and Barbara and Eugene Flinn pooled their efforts with a pair of $5,000 donations to the GCC Foundation, which were matched by the state's Private Donation Incentive Program for a total endowment of $20,000. Shown above standing in front of the GCCF "giving tree," from the left, are Dr. Herbert Leighton, his daughter Ann E. Leighton, Barbara and Eugene Flinn, and college president Dr. Steve Herman, who noted that the large endowment "will support many GCC students in the future and get them off to a good start in life and in serving their community, much as Dorothy Brock Leighton did."

"Barbara Flinn wanted to honor the memory of her late, great friend with this endowed scholarship," continued Reinhard. "The Garrett Community College Foundation sincerely appreciates the generous contributions from the Leighton family and the Flinn family for the endowment of the Dorothy Brock Leighton Scholarship."

"I am glad the family is able to contribute to this scholarship," Dr. Leighton remarked. "We hope the Dorothy Brock Leighton Scholarship will further the education of a number of students over the years.

"Dotty learned to read before she started to school. She continued to be a rapid reader all of her life. Her curiosity and her interest spanned from fiction to science, from classics to popular mysteries. She could read a book in a day."

Many parallels exist between the lives of Dorothy Leighton and Barbara Flinn, in their education, their careers, and their community activities. After graduating in the same class at Oakland High School in 1946, they both went to college and received their bachelor's and then their master's degrees — Leighton at Shenandoah College of Music in Winchester, Va., and Northwestern University in Chicago, while Flinn graduated from Frostburg State Teachers College and West Virginia University in Morgantown. Both became teachers.

Together the women organized the Garrett County League of Women Voters in 1968. Leighton served for eight years as the League's first president while Flinn served as secretary, after which time Flinn became president. During those years both women spearheaded the League's program on environmental issues and zoning.

Leighton also served as president of the Garrett County Arts Council and was a founder of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival and member of the board of directors for eight years. For 25 years she was also choir director of St. Paul's Methodist Church in Oakland. She was active in the local Parent Teachers Organization, the Garrett County Historical Society, and the Civic Club of Oakland. She is especially remembered for her tireless efforts on issues facing women, such as domestic violence and teen pregnancy, and she helped to organize the "Baby, Think It Over!" program now available through the Garrett County Health Department. In March 2001 Leighton was honored posthumously with her induction into the Garrett County Women's Hall of Fame.

Flinn has spent 48 years as an active member of the Business and Professional Women where she has held every office, including three terms as president. In recalling her friend's involvement with many community activities Flinn said, "Dotty was always ready to help at a moment's notice. All I had to do was give her a call. Sometimes we would meet at night after our families were in bed to discuss projects and make plans. We were both always interested in music and in government. Dotty placed a very high value on education, and it is appropriate to remember her with this scholarship."

The parallels in the lives of the two women extend to their families. Leighton was the fourth generation of her family to graduate from college. She and her husband, Dr. Herbert Leighton, had four children, all of whom have at least one master's degree and one of whom is a physician. Flinn and her husband Eugene, a retired education administrator, have four children, three of whom are college graduates, two of whom have master's degrees.

"The Dorothy Brock Leighton Scholarship is a strong symbol of the importance of education to the two families who endowed it," observed GCCF president Ann M. Smith. "The Leighton family and the Flinn family, for multiple generations, have valued education. These two families made formal education a priority. The late Dotty Leighton was an educator herself. The Foundation is honored to have the Dorothy Brock Leighton Scholarship. Dotty Leighton was an outstanding individual. She made significant contributions to our community. She exemplified the true essence of a volunteer. Dotty, herself, and her talents are greatly missed.

"We warmly thank Dr. Herbert Leighton and his children and Barbara and Eugene Flinn for endowing the Dorothy Brock Leighton Scholarship," Smith concluded.

"I find keeping it simple works for me. I used to go on and on until my kid's eyes glazed over. Here I was going into great detail and all my kid wanted was a to-the-point answer. It helps to give the facts first, then add my values and expectations."

Try this:

- Say "Did that answer your question?" or Do you want to know anything else?" or "does that make sense?"
- When you don't know an answer say, "I'm not sure, but I'll find out."

Morgantown Man Handed Jail Term For April Arrest

A Morgantown, W.Va., man was handed a month-long jail sentence after he was convicted of two serious traffic violations during a recent Garrett County District Court proceeding.

Joseph Leroy Jolliffe, 52, pleaded guilty to charges of driving while revoked and driving while intoxicated (DWI), and received a one-year sentence, with all but 30 days suspended, a $1,110 fine, and three years of supervised probation by order of visiting Judge Paul Stakem. Jolliffe's April arrest by state troopers came after a traffic stop. A vehicle search conducted during the incident uncovered an unloaded handgun in the car within Jolliffe's reach, and a box of ammunition was found in his pocket. He was required to forfeit the weapon to the state.

In other district court news, Scott William Dale Kelley, 19, Oakland, pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and was handed a 30-day sentence, all but four days of which was suspended, a $300 fine, and one year of supervised probation by Garrett County District Court Judge Ralph Burnett. Sheriff's deputies jailed Kelley following a July traffic stop when a K-9 drug scan led to the discovery of a bag of marijuana hidden in his pocket.

Walter Elza Sharpless, 75, Aurora, W.Va., pleaded guilty to resisting arrest and DWI and was handed a 150-day suspended sentence, fined $200, and placed on one year of supervised probation. The charges were filed in August by sheriff's deputies came after he struck a deputy during a traffic stop. An additional charge of second degree assault was not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

Brian Michael Whitworth, 19, Owings, pleaded guilty to concealing a deadly weapon and was handed a 30-day suspended sentence, a $255 fine, and 18 months' supervised probation by Judge Stakem. Whitworth was arrested by state troopers in June at the scene of a drug bust when a machete of his was discovered in a vehicle.

Timothy Allen Welch, 36, Oakland, pleaded guilty to a trespassing charge and was handed a 90-day jail term by visiting Judge Timothy Finan. Welch's July arrest came after he was apprehended at a Loch Lynn home while inebriated. Deputies had previously warned him to stay off the premises.

Dustin Allen Guthrie, 19, Kitzmiller, pleaded guilty to possession of drug paraphernalia and received a probation before judgment (PBJ) from Judge Burnett, along with a $100 fine and one year of supervised probation. Guthrie had been arrested in May by a sheriff's deputy who had stopped to assist him at his disabled vehicle. When the deputy noticed suspicious behavior, he obtained Guthrie's permission for a search, and located a metal smoking pipe containing suspected burnt marijuana residue in his pocket. An additional charge of possession of marijuana was not prosecuted.

Thomas Edward Gank, 21, Oakland, was deemed not guilty on two counts of second degree assault after the alleged victim refused to take the stand to testify against him. Gank had been arrested by sheriff's deputies in June for reportedly assaulting his wife while he was intoxicated. The police report alleged that Gank threw an errant punch that just missed striking an infant the woman was holding at the time of the altercation.

Billie Jo Ashby, 34, Oakland, was deemed not guilty of second degree assault after her alleged victim refused to testify against her. Ashby's July arrest by Oakland police officers stemmed from a domestic altercation during which she allegedly struck her husband.

Charles Wayne Moats Jr., 21, Oakland, was handed stet rulings on charges of uttering, forgery, and misdemeanor theft. Conditions of the rulings included a requirement to complete 30 hours of community service and pay restitution of $100 to the Swanton Grocery and $60 to Shortstop. A counterfeit check probe led to Moats's May arrest by sheriff's deputies.

Melinda Sue Uphold, 21, Oakland, was handed a stet ruling, with a requirement to complete 20 hours of community service, on a charge of acting as an accessory after an escape. Uphold allegedly assisted a Garrett County jail inmate who fled a work detail and called her afterward to secure a ride into West Virginia.

Randy Lee Walters, 19,

Mtn. Lake Park, was handed a stet ruling on charges of second degree assault and reckless endangerment, with an order to complete 20 hours of community service. Oakland police officers jailed him in July after he reportedly shot a juvenile in the face with a BB gun.

A stet ruling was handed down by Judge Stakem to Owen Gerard McGrath, 35, Accident, on charges of second degree assault and false imprisonment. McGrath's June arrest by state troopers came after a reported domestic altercation, during which he allegedly struck his wife with a chair and refused to let her leave the residence.

Shawn Aren Bittinger, 19, Oakland, was handed stet rulings by Judge Burnett on four counts of violating an ex parte order, and one count each of second degree assault, harassment, telephone misuse via repeated phone calls, and intimidating a juror. His May arrest by sheriff's deputies came after he reportedly harassed his wife, then he was re-arrested a month later after allegedly starting an altercation with his wife and another person at Swallow Falls State Park.

Wendy Marie Updike, 25, Brentwood, was not prosecuted on three counts each of theft of a credit card and entering a vehicle with malicious intent, and one count each of using another person's credit card to make a purchase and misdemeanor theft. She was arrested by state troopers in June after an investigation of a string of January thefts from vehicles parked in the Wisp Ski Resort lot.

Charles Howard Burgess III, 19, Mtn. Lake Park, was not prosecuted on two counts of felony theft and one count of selling a weapon to a minor. His May arrest by sheriff's deputies came after he allegedly stole guns and cash from an acquaintance's home, then reportedly traded one of the weapons to a 15-year-old minor.

William DeWayne Stemple, 53, Oakland, was not prosecuted on a fourth degree sex offense and second degree assault. His August arrest by sheriff's deputies came after he allegedly tried to initiate sexual contact with an adult acquaintance by touching her inappropriately.

Lester Martin Lewis, 46, Oakland, was not prosecuted on a charge of malicious destruction of property that stemmed from his September arrest by sheriff's deputies for reportedly breaking a window in his family's car in order to retrieve a case of beer locked inside.

DWIs/DUIs

A number of DWI and DUI (driving while under the influence) cases were heard in district court recently, and among those were several probation violation hearings that resulted in the reimposition of jail sentences.

Matthew Dwayne Wakefield, 24, Md., was found to be in violation of his DWI probation, and a 114-day jail term was reimposed by Judge Stakem.

Christopher Scott Hintz, 38, Md., was found to be in violation of his DWI probation, which was revoked as a 56-day jail sentence was reimposed by Judge Burnett.

David Ray Schillingburg, 24, Md., was found to be in violation of his DWI probation, which was revoked as a 21-day term was reimposed.

Molly Ramsey, 51, Md. pleaded guilty to a DWI charge and was handed a six-month sentence, all but 10 days of which was suspended, and placed on two years of supervised probation by Judge Stakem.

Clinton Ray Harvey, 26, Md., pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a 60-day sentence, all but four days of which was suspended, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 40 hours of community service by Judge Burnett.

Johnny Lee Tasker, 40, Md., pleaded guilty to DWI and was handed a 90-day sentence, all but two days of which was suspended, fined $555, and placed on one year of supervised probation by Judge Finan.

Vincent Lee Lacey, 42, Md., pleaded guilty to DWI and was fined $500, handed a 60-day suspended sentence, and placed on one year of supervised probation.

Lars Goran Thureson, 59, Md., pleaded guilty to DWI and was fined $455, handed a 30-day suspended sentence, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 40 hours of community service by Judge Burnett.

Rubben James Everett, 20, Md., pleaded guilty to DUI and was fined $355, handed a 30-day suspended sentence, and placed on one year of supervised probation by Judge Finan.

Rocky Lee Lucas, 41, Md., pleaded guilty to DUI and was fined $355 and placed on one year of supervised probation.

Kerry Allan Hughes, 35, Md., pleaded guilty to DWI and was fined $300, handed a 60-day suspended sentence, placed on two years of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 20 hours of community service by Judge Burnett.

Donald Richard Doman Jr., 40, N.C., was handed a PBJ after pleading guilty to DWI, along with a $355 fine, a 30-day suspended sentence, one year of supervised probation, and 20 hours of community service.

Deputy Observes Weaving, Makes Two DWI Arrests

Two men were arrested and charged with drunk driving charges within a half-hour period after a Garrett County sheriff's deputy observed their vehicles weaving along the roadway early Friday morning.

Deputy Duggan observed a black Toyota truck weaving on Route 135 in Mtn. Lake Park around 2:30 a.m. The driver, Randy Lee Harvey Sr., 43, Swanton, failed sobriety tests and was charged with driving while impaired (DWI), and driving while under the influence (DUI).

A search of the vehicle revealed a quantity of suspected marijuana and smoking paraphernalia, police said.

Harvey was also charged with failing to drive right of center as well as possession of CDS and paraphernalia.

He was released from the Garrett County Detention on his own recognizance.

While transporting a previous DWI arrest to the Maryland State Police barrack for a breath test, Deputy Duggan observed a white Ford truck weaving on the roadway around 3 a.m. The driver, Randy G. Crabtree, 44, Oakland, failed a field sobriety test administered by the deputy.

Crabtree was charged with DWI and failing to drive right of center, and was transported with the previous DWI suspect. He was later released on his own recognizance.

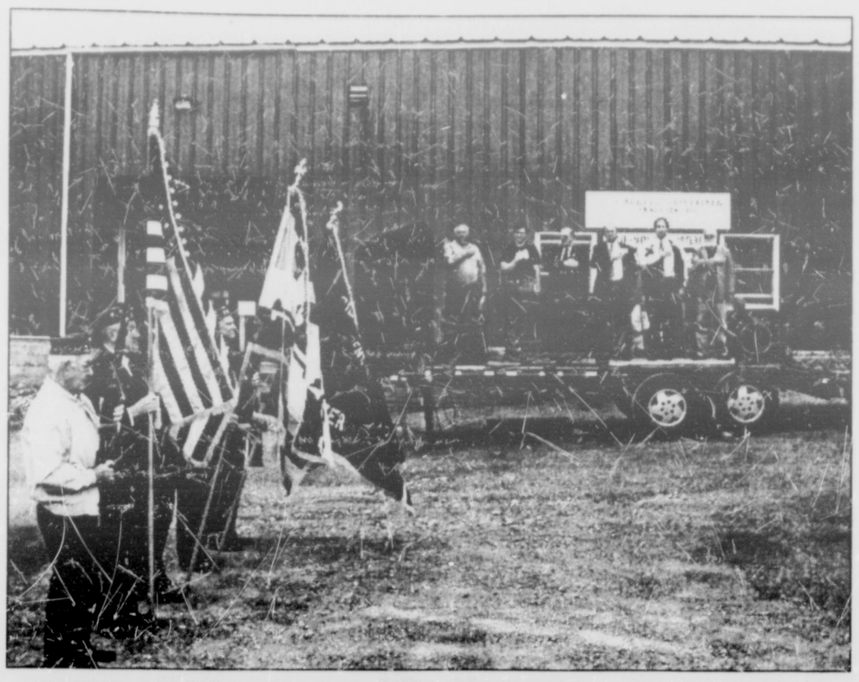
In another report, deputies arrested Herbert D. Keener, 40, Grant Town, W.Va., on charges of DWI and failing to drive right of center. The arrest was made after deputies observed Kenner's vehicle crossing the center line and onto the shoulder of the road, police said.

Keener was later released.

A West Virginia man was arrested and charged with DUI and DWI after deputies stopped his vehicle on Route 560 for an equipment violation.

Kenneth Earl Tasker, 34, Core, W.Va., failed a field sobriety test administered by the deputies.

He was released after posting a $500 bond.



ELECTED OFFICIALS HELP GCS MARK ANNIVERSARY — Garrett Container Systems (GCS) marked its 10th anniversary Friday with ceremonies that drew a number of elected officials to its Central Industrial Park location in Accident. GCS manufactures aluminum shipping containers for the U.S. military's rapid deployment missions and for commercial uses. Since its 1991 inception with a workforce of five employees, including owner and president Don Morin, GCS has grown more than twelvefold to provide employment for 61 area residents. Shown saluting the American flag from the trailer during the flag presentation ceremony, led by Accident American Legion Post 208 Honor Guard, are, from left, Jim Kesselring, GCS quality support manager; Morin; Sen. John Hafer; Bud Otis, representing Congressman Roscoe Bartlett; Del. George Edwards; and Commissioner Fred Holliday. The event also included a reception, tours of the GCS facility, and a salute of employees who are members of the U.S. military. Among those on hand but not pictured were senior GCS employees Richard Beeman and James Kitzmiller (not pictured), both of whom have been with the company since it was was founded, and Accident mayor Rev. Richard Carlson.

AG Fly-In Rescheduled For Sunday

The annual Fly-In, which was canceled due to the inclement weather during the Autumn Glory festivities, has been rescheduled for Sunday, Oct. 21, from 11 a.m. until dusk, at the Garrett County Airport, McHenry.

Proceeds from the event will benefit families of the victims of last month's terrorist attacks, according to organizer Carolyn Hill.

The Fly-In will feature displays of a variety of antique aircraft, including a vintage World War II P-51 Mustang fighter plane, scenic airplane rides in a 1941 Stearman biplane, displays of state police helicopter Trooper 5 and other emergency aircraft (if available), and food concessions. The candy drop, a staple of the event, will take place at 4 p.m.

The Garrett County Airport is located along Airport Road, just off Bumble Bee Road between Kelso Road and the McHenry solid waste satellite site. For more information on the Fly-In, persons may call Hill at Garrett Aviation Service at 301-387-4100.

Garden Club Sets Its Next Meeting

The Mountain Laurel Garden Club will meet Tuesday, Oct. 23, beginning with a buffet lunch at 11 a.m. at BumBle Q's Restaurant in McHenry.

Following the meeting, club members and guests will learn about "Growing Plants the Hydroponic Way" with Laah Broadwater at nearby Garrett Community College. Broadwater will demonstrate the hydroponic technique and provide a tour of the college's hydroponic greenhouse. Members are asked to bring a clean pint jar in which to plant seeds.

Broadwater is a graduate of Southern High School, GCC, and West Virginia University. She is currently an adjunct instructor for the horticulture department and the horticulture coordinator at GCC. Her duties include overseeing the greenhouse and conducting research using fish wastewater. Broadwater is also a master's student in the agriculture education program at WVU.

Persons interested in joining the garden club or being a guest at the next meeting may contact Tiddle Wheeler at 301-387-5018 or Karen Ewing at 301-387-6180 for membership information and/or lunch reservations. The Mountain Laurel Garden Club is open to the public and is a member of the National Garden Clubs Inc. and the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland Inc.

A Breast Cancer Survivor Shares Her Story/Survival "Techniques"

by Renée Shreve

Survivor is a term that is often loosely used, especially in the media. For example, a contestant on a TV "reality" show after "surviving" several weeks on a tropical island, getting a tan, losing a few pounds, eating a few bugs, and winning a million dollars "earns" the moniker "survivor." In the real world, however, where, according to the American Cancer Society, 182,800 women will be diagnosed with breast cancer this year alone, being a survivor is serious business. Pat Bowser, 63, of Underwood Road, Oakland, knows first hand that being a cancer survivor is no game.

PAT BOWSER

She is a third-generation breast cancer survivor. Both her grandmother, Lutie Black, and her mother, Mildred Savage, were diagnosed, treated, and lived for decades. Savage will be 89 in March. Bowser herself has had three lumpectomies and a mastectomy. So, given her family's medical history, she knows that self-examination, early detection, early treatment, and assertiveness are weapons in battling breast cancer. And she wants to pass her hard-earned knowledge on to others.

"You can't fool around with breast cancer," she said. "You have to be aggressive about getting mammograms and biopsies. Otherwise, the cancer will sneak into the lymph nodes, and then go through your entire system," thus reducing one's chances of survival.

Bowser does breast self-exams (BSE) and, because she is at high risk for cancer, has a mammogram every six months.

The American Cancer Society recommends that beginning at age 20, women perform a BSE every month, have breast exams from health-care professionals every three years between ages 20 and 39, and have annual exams and mammograms starting at age 40.

Bowser also stresses that women trust their own instincts. "Even if a mammogram comes back nonconclusive," she said, speaking from experience, "still ask for a biopsy to make sure that everything is alright."

In 1988, a mammogram of her left breast revealed an abnormality that doctors labeled "nonconclusive." They were not convinced that the area was cancerous, and, therefore, decided not to do a biopsy of the site. But Bowser, who was skeptical and had already had one lumpectomy of a cancerous site, wanted to make sure.

She finally persuaded the doctors to do a biopsy. The test revealed that the site was indeed cancerous, and a mastectomy was performed on her left breast. A lumpectomy was also done on her right breast. Bowser stresses that had she not insisted on having a biopsy, the cancer might not have been treated in time.

Aside from having nauseous "dry heaves" for two months after her surgery because of the shock to her nervous system, she had no ill side effects. She needed neither physical therapy nor chemotherapy. She only needed to take two anticancer medications, which she continues to take today.

About the mastectomy itself, she philosophically says, "I'll just leave this world with a few less body parts." She is more concerned about staying alive to see her grandchildren grow up than she is about her figure.

One worse side effect, however, that did occur after her surgeries was that her insurance rates, as she puts it, "skyrocketed." Her premiums jumped from $347 to $922 a month. Like most couples with children to raise, she and her husband could not afford the premiums. So, they dropped the insurance. But Bowser was not left without medical aid. She was able to take advantage of the Breast and Cervical Cancer Screening Program (BCCS) offered through the Garrett County Health Department.

The BCCS program provides women 40 to 64 years of age who are uninsured or underinsured with free exams, mammograms, and treatment (if necessary). Through this program, Bowser has been able to have regular breast examines and mammograms, which, given her cancer history, are vital.

In May of this year, she had some soreness and found lumps in her right breast. "Oh, no, not again," she thought. But she did not hesitate in contacting the Health Department, and even though she was not scheduled for a mammogram until September, the staff immediately arranged for her to have one. A biopsy was done and, as a preventive measure, yet another lumpectomy of her right breast was performed in July.

Bowser has only positive comments about the health care professionals who participate in the BCCS program. In particular, Carol Clark, CRNP, director of personal health at the Health Department, and Rebecca Parks, RN, coordinator of BCCS.

"They're so loving and kind," Bowser said. "They go out of their way to make you feel comfortable."

Bowser also indicated that anesthesiologist Robert Field and the surgical staff at Garrett Memorial Hospital, where her latest lumpectomy was performed, were "so concerned and caring. Dr. Charles Walch is a confident, compassionate person," she said. "Having such a caring physician who will listen to a breast cancer patient's questions and accept her choices for treatment can greatly relieve a woman's anxiety about her disease and treatment."

While caring health-care professionals have been key to Bowser's physical survival, a strong faith and supportive family have been vital to her emotional survival as well.

When first diagnosed with cancer, she felt she had "no control over what was happening" to her. But her faith in God, supportive fellow members at the Pleasant View Baptist Church, loving husband of 46 years, and family have helped her have a positive attitude about her illness.

"I can't imagine going through this without having faith," she said. "It would have been very difficult."

Unfortunately, the cancer legacy in Bowser's family could continue. She has three daughters and three granddaughters. "I look forward to the day when the breast cancer gene can be identified," Bowser said. But that day could be a long way off. Until then, she will make sure that her daughters do self-exams and get mammograms regularly. She will encourage other women to do so as well.

"I highly recommend that women have regular mammograms," Bowser said. And, she adds, if they are diagnosed with cancer, they need to "accept it and deal with it. If they don't, there's no hope."

"Women need not feel that they are alone in this," adds BCCS coordinator Parks. "We're here for them."

For more information on the BCCS program, persons may call the Garrett County Health Department at 301-895-3111 or 301-334-8111.

National BREAST CANCER AWARENESS Month

Application Deadline For GED Test Noted

A Maryland high school diploma GED exam is being offered on December 1 at Garrett Community College. Only individuals 16 years of age and older who are not currently enrolled in the public school system may apply to take the exam. The application deadline is November 1 and the cost is $45, payable at the time of application.

Individuals who tested and passed portions but not the entire five parts of the GED exam in the last five years may only retest those portions they did not pass until December 2001. Beginning in January 2002 this will not be possible. The Maryland State Department of Education will implement a new exam at that time. When the new test is in place, individuals will need to take the entire exam.

"If you currently need to retest, it would be advisable to do so before the exam is revised," stated GCC's Patricia Baer. Those who wish to retest or who have questions about the exam may call Baer at the Oakland Center of Garrett Community College at 301-334-8304.

Volunteer Fire Co. Sets Dinner

The Salisbury Volunteer Fire Department and Ambulance Association are sponsoring an "all-you-can-eat" roast beef dinner on Sunday, Oct. 28, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., at the fire hall along Ord St. in Salisbury, Pa.

The menu will be roast beef, mashed potatoes and gravy, noodles, vegetables, cole slaw, choice of beverage, and dessert. Take-outs will be available. The cost is $6 for adults and $3 for children under 12 years old. Children under 5 years of age eat for free.

Let's Get Down To Business!

This is a feature of The Republican to better acquaint our readers with various area business establishments.

Small Oaks Stables: Dick & Sue Smith

If you are a horse lover, horse rider, or horse enthusiast, Small Oaks Stables, along Smith Drive off Broadford Road, is the place to come.

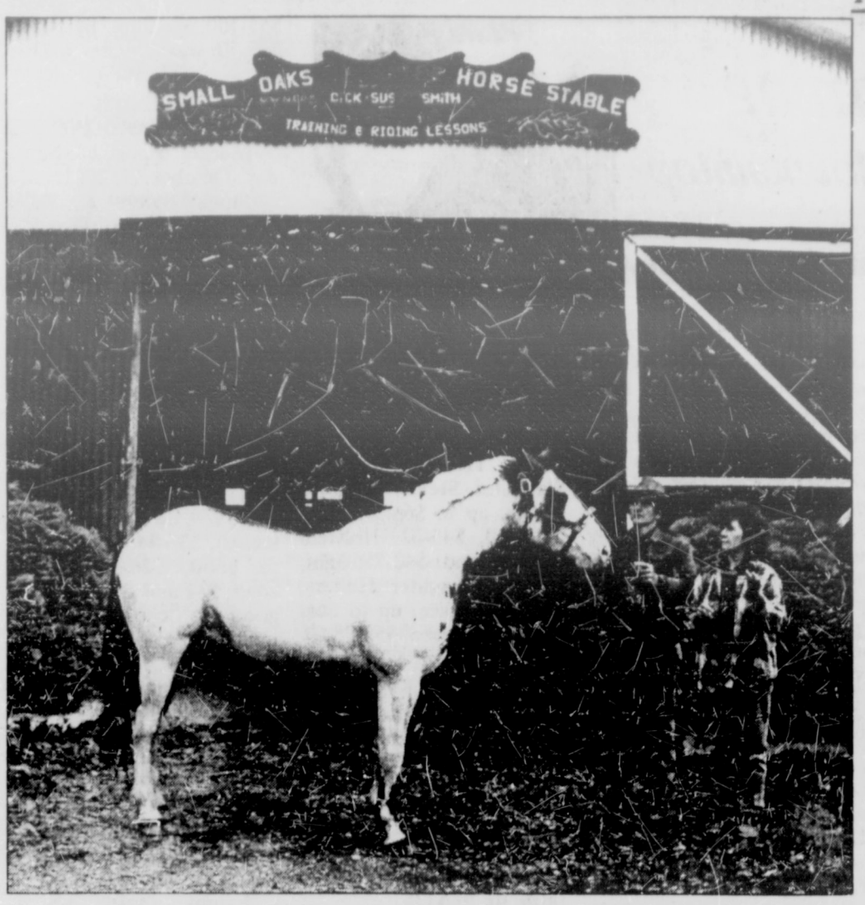
Dick and Sue Smith operate the stables, which offers year-round trail riding for all ages, including little cowboys and cowgirls. All trail riders have a short lesson before they ride with Jacob and Lori, the trail guides. The rides can last anywhere between one hour and four hours. Group rates are available.

The business offers more than riding, including boarding facilities, training and breaking young colts, group hay rides, selling all breeds, and transporting horses. Dick has been training and breaking colts for more than 30 years. He has also bred quarter horses and paints for the last 25 years.

Dick works with the resistance-free training techniques of John Lyons and Monty Roberts, but what makes this facility different is that he works one on one with the horse's owner, so that he/she might learn how to deal with the problem horse.

The stables also offers two breeding paint stallions. One is the popular black and white pattern, and the other is a blue roan overo. Both offer different backgrounds for the rider. One is for western pleasure and the other is for cutting and reining. The Smiths also have older broken horses and young stock for sale.

The stables are open year-round, Monday through Sunday, from 8:30 a.m. until 6 p.m. The Smiths can be reached at 301-334-4991.



DICK AND SUE SMITH, OPERATORS OF SMALL OAKS STABLES

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

Ruth Beachy, Heston, Pa., spent the weekend with Cindy and Sam Stanton and Ferne Beachy. Saturday evening Ruth and Ferne attended a 75th birthday party and dinner at Rocky Gap Lodge for Marie Messick. Her daughter, Rita Hagerty of California, held the party for her and was present along with 26 family members and relatives.

Cindy Stanton spent several days with daughter Lea at her apartment in Lutherville. They visited Steve and Donna Mazer and girls at Glenwood on Saturday.

Lynn and Michael Smith, Timonium, spent the weekend with Marci and Rodney Glotfelty and family.

Sunday after Autumn Glory weekend it really looked like Indian Summer was over as I looked out my front window. The wind was howling with driven semi-frozen precipitation (sleet? hail? freezing rain?).

Meanwhile, the wind almost stripped all the rose-gold leaves from my beautiful maple tree, which, according to my sister-in-law Marci Glotfelty, was one of the best in Garrett County for autumn splendor. That is a tough call. I know of several that contend for that honor. Even now, after the peak of colors on Rock Lodge Road, I saw today three or four still truly beautiful trees. Sunday afternoon after a long day inside, the longer the winds howled and the more the leaves splattered on my window, the lower my spirits plunged. It was impossible to imagine anything that would make me go out in that wet mess.

Suddenly, my door was burst open by a sunny friend from the southwest, Mike Flynn, who now resides in Albuquerque, New Mexico, and who is a former roommate of brother Rodney at the University of Maryland. Since the 1970s he continues to be almost like a member of my family. He rarely returns east without a quick spin up to Bittinger. He succeeded in talking me into going up to my sister's house for Sunday evening entertainment.

The younger generation was somewhat quiet. They were exhausted after providing entertainment for Autumn Glory and the population attending the events on Saturday. My Claire, Robbie and Blakely Glotfelty, and Matthew Bass performed in the big band competition at Southern High School. Northern won their division. The parade earlier showed them winning first place in the band division. On Thursday night they marched in the Firemen's Parade. Even little Maddy Whittemore marched in Saturday's parade as a member of the troupe of Brenda's Body Shop dancers. The really tough day for our Greg Whittemore was a serious afternoon taking the SAT, followed by a hard football game. It is so hard to believe "little Greg" has grown up and is almost ready to go off to college.

Carol and our downstate buddy, Janet Beyea, managed to produce a first-class feast with their usual junior assistants. The Cajun chicken was plenty hot, enough to warm me enough to venture out on their porch, which is luckily a covered porch, as the rain still poured down. Even that was not enough to ruin the Autumn Glory view of the woods behind the Bass house. In fact, I saw autumn scenery in a whole new light, a soft hazy watery light. Even though the rain dimmed the colors, muted yes, but still lovely. The wind reshaped the foliage into varying shapes and an ever-moving picture. No one seemed to have any cameras loaded and ready to go, but a camera couldn't really capture the late afternoon and dusk scene. I tried my best to memorize as much detail as possible and do a couple sketches which hopefully will someday become a full scale painting, even though I am not sure that I can capture the rippling of the leaves or how the wet leaves shimmered from cars' headlights. In the foreground was a heavily loaded grape vine, and there was an apple tree in the background with most of its leaves off, but still holding many golden delicious apples. They looked like Christmas balls, with many of their brothers and sisters on the ground. Further still were multiple species of hardwood woods, with many huge red oak trees jagged bloody red, brilliant young maple trees creamy yellow-orange, some husky hickory with big golden yellow leaves, and behind everything a shimmering white sky with a few smoky grey clouds drifting along. I was upset to see such a great art supply (colored leaves) for my nature dolls get all soggy and muddy. I talked Mike Flynn into going out in the rain to pick some up for me, the biggest, most brilliant orange maple leaves that I have ever seen, nice big butter yellow hickory, and some brilliant maroon from the big oak.

Sunday afternoon we welcomed home "Pappy" Dale after a long stay in the hospital in Morgantown. He is recovering from his big bout with cancer, and we are all delighted to say that he is in remission. He can't say enough thanks for all the prayers, visits, cards, and love he has received from everybody. He is so happy to be home in his own bed. His big sister Betty and husband, Dr. Ralph Hummel, came in from Olympia, Wash., and are watching over him this week. All the family had a spaghetti dinner at Dale's Tuesday night to celebrate his homecoming. Attending were the Bass family, the Glotfelty family, Joan Sussman and daughters, Courtney Englar, and Ruth DiPaolo, in addition to the Hummels and Dale.

The only other big news in Bittinger is that it is time to harvest the many bountiful corn fields for silage. Once again, Rock Lodge Road and Rt. 495 are busy with tractors and wagons, and not just cars and trucks. I failed to pick some bright colored corn leaves from a field back on Peat Moss Road. I also failed to harvest a good many pale beige ones, which make nice white fabric for my doll costumes. They do turn pure white after a soaking in bleach.

I had the pleasure of a visit on Monday from one of my very best friends since first grade, Linda Bowman Neiderberger of Capon Bridge, W.Va., She blew in to deliver some apple cider to her parents, Charles and Mary Bowman of McHenry. She also wanted to make a quick visit to the Autumn Glory Festival in Oakland and deliver a few things to the Art Council's Gallery.

Recent visitors of Ida Reckner were Bill and Beverly Brenneman, Bloomington, and daughter Diane, New Mexico; Wanda Zimmerman, Deer Park; and granddaughter Ginger, Frostburg.

Tim Glotfelty flew to Los Angeles, with his father, Tom Glotfelty.

Are You in Need of a Maryland Private Pesticide Applicator's License?

If you are interested in preparing for the Private Pesticide Applicator's examination you may want to attend a training session on November 7, 7:30 p.m. at the Extension Office. Past participants have indicated that this training session helped them pass the examination. Attending the training session is not mandatory to take the examination, which is scheduled for November 14, 7:30 p.m. at the Extension Office. I do have important study manuals available upon request. Reservations are necessary for the training session and the examination, and may be made by calling 301-334-6960.

Nutrient Management Update

Time is running out on completing the required nutrient management plan. Unfortunately, there are very few licensed consultants who are writing plans for Garrett County Farmers. The law states that nutrient management plans must be written by December 31. Obviously, we have a problem in meeting this deadline. If you know your plan will not be completed by the end of the year it is to your advantage to request an extension of time. This can be done by completing an extension request form available at my office. This form must be completed and dated by October 31.

Gathering information for the nutrient management plan is a time consuming task. Farmers can speed up the process by taking soil samples from all fields including pastures and compiling results with farm maps, crop rotations, animal numbers, manure management details, and manure samples for analysis. Besides basic farm information, the farm property tax ID number is required since the Maryland Department of Agriculture is using this number to track plan completion across the state.

Don't forget to make your reservation for one of the 5 training session required for obtaining the Maryland Voucher Permit for spreading nutrients.

Demand for Hay May Be Good

Some of our fellow farmers in Central Maryland and Pennsylvania have experienced a serious drought. In fact 17 Pennsylvania counties have applied for disaster designation. If you have hay for sale I will pass the information on to other county agents. If you have hay that you know is high quality I would advise that you have the forage tested. As a benchmark you can use $1 per point of relative feed value (RFV). For example, alfalfa testing 140 RFV would be worth $140 per ton. Other information items I would need are type of hay, cutting, type and weight of bale, rain damage, is delivery available, and telephone number.

Garrett Farm Bureau Slates Annual Banquet

Hampstead resident John Butler, a field representative with Bob Jones University Press, Greenville, S.C., will be the featured speaker at the annual Garrett County Farm Bureau banquet and meeting, set for 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 25, at the Bittinger fire hall. Reservations must be made by this Monday, Oct. 22, by calling GCFB secretary Clark Kolb at 301-746-8484.

A Hampstead resident, Butler has accumulated a wide variety of agriculture related career experiences with the Maryland and West Virginia state farm bureaus. He has also worked in the fields of radio and television broadcasting and Christian education. Prior to representing BJUP, he was the administrator of Morning Star Christian School in Hampstead.

Butler is a graduate of Sutton High School in West Virginia. He attended West Virginia University in Morgantown, and graduated from the Atlanta Career Academy of Broadcasting and Central Baptist Theological Seminary, Minneapolis, Minn.

Butler served in several capacities with both Maryland and West Virginia farm bureaus during his agriculture career, which began in 1970 and continued through 1999. He began as a fieldman and then continued as field services director for WVFB until leaving to further his education in 1976. He returned to WVFB in 1987 as a fieldman and young farmer coordinator.

In 1989 he accepted the position of director of field services with the Maryland Farm Bureau and was promoted to assistant administrator. Budget restraints eliminated his position in May of 1999. Two months later he became the administrator of Morning Star Christian School, then he joined the staff of Bob Jones University Press July 2001.

Fieldwork Runs Smoothly Thanks To Dry Weather

With the exception of a few showers on Sunday, last week was predominately dry across the state, allowing Maryland farmers an average of 6.4 days suitable for fieldwork. Because of these conditions, last week was an excellent week for activities such as harvesting row crops and seeding small grains. Precipitation for October ranges from 0.5 inches in Washington County to 1.3 inches in Wicomico County. In regards to temperature, reports of frost last week have raised some concern, especially for late planted soybeans.

Corn harvested for grain has passed the halfway mark of completion with 67 percent harvested, progressing 20 percent from the previous week, 15 percent ahead of last year, and 11 percent ahead of the five-year average. While corn harvest continues ahead of schedule, a slowdown is expected due to delays at the grain elevators. As a result, many farmers are turning their focus onto harvesting soybeans, which are also well ahead of schedule. Soybean harvest is 28 percent complete, progressing 14 percent over the previous week, 13 percent ahead of last year, and 11 percent ahead of the five-year average.

Small grain seedings are well under way. Sixty-seven percent of the barley crop is planted, 13 percent ahead of last year, and 11 percent of the five-year average. Winter wheat planting is 22 percent complete, 3 percent ahead of last year and 2 percent ahead of the average. Rye is 47 percent planted, 18 percent ahead of last year and 12 percent of the average.

Topsoil and subsoil moisture levels decreased due to the dry weather. Consequently, topsoil rated in adequate supply decreased by 17 percent from the previous week. Subsoil in adequate moisture supply decreased by 20 percent from the previous week. Topsoil moisture is rated surplus, 57 percent adequate, 39 percent short, and 4 percent very short. Subsoil moisture is 47 percent adequate, 46 percent short, and 7 percent very short.

Court Reimposes Former Oakland Man's Sentence

A 17-month sentence to the Department of Corrections was reimposed last week in Circuit Court for Chad Allen Ward, 22, formerly of Oakland, for violating probation. In March 1999, Ward had pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor theft, and Judge James Sherbin sentenced him to 18 months in the Department of Corrections, with all of it suspended but 30 days. After his release, Ward was placed on probation for six months.

During that six months, Ward was arrested on three occasions for motor vehicle violations, drug-related charges, and resisting arrest, according to a press release from the Garrett County State's Attorney's Office. It was alleged by agents with the Division of Parole and Probation that Ward had failed to report his new arrests, had changed his address and employment without permission, had stopped reporting to his agent, had left from the state, and had absconded from probation supervision.

Bloomington PTA To Hold Carnival

The Bloomington School PTA will host a Fall Carnival on Friday, Oct. 26, from 5:30 to 9 p.m. at the school. There will be rides, games, face painting, raffles, and a variety of other entertainment for children of all ages. The public is invited to attend.

Youth Camp Juvenile Charged With Assault

A bus driver who was transporting five boys back to the Meadow Mountain Youth Camp from Backbone Mountain Youth Camp was assaulted Friday at 11:46 a.m., according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

The vehicle was stopped at a stop sign at the intersection of New Germany Road and Route 495, when he was overtaken by one of the juveniles. The driver was assaulted several times before two of the youths were able to detain the suspect, police said.

The victim was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

The accused juvenile has been charged with reckless endangerment, second degree assault, attempted escape, and disorderly conduct.

He was released to the Noyes Center, Rockville.

Southern High School recently recognized the students of the month for October, chosen by the faculty of Southern High. The winners for this month are Suzanne Gilbert, music-instrumental; Rex Hoalcraft, vocational; Regis Marucci, mathematics; Kristen McCasky, English; Natalie Domenick, science; and Robin Gregg, social studies.

Suzanne Gilbert, senior, is the daughter of Jeffrey and Elizabeth Gilbert. She is involved in marching, stage, and concert band, and is the historian of the National Honor Society. She was runner-up for the John Philip Sousa Award, and is active in community plays at Our Town Theatre. In the future, Suzanne hopes to attend Carleton College.

SHS STUDENTS OF THE MONTH are, from the left, Kristen McCasky, English; Robin Gregg, social studies; Regis Marucci, mathematics; Suzanne Gilbert, music-instrumental; Rex Hoalcraft, vocational; Natalie Domenick, science; and on the far right is Ernie Gregg, representing Gregg's Pharmacy, which is the community partner sponsoring this month's awards.

Rex Hoalcraft, senior, is the son of Rex and Connie Hoalcraft. He is a member of the FFA and the 4-H Club. He won 1st place in the Garden Tractor contest at the Garrett County Fair. Rex is interested in mechanics and intends to go to a trade/technical school in the future.

Regis Marucci, also a senior, is the son of Mark and Brenda Marucci. He has played football each of his high school years, and has been recognized with an award by the Oakland-Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club for his volunteer work with the club. In the future, Regis plans to attend Frostburg State University to major in physical education and coaching.

Kristen McCasky, a junior, is the daughter of Greg and Laura McCasky. She has been involved in both marching and stage band, and is a member of the Gortner Youth Group. In the future, Kristen plans to further her education and hopes to become a nurse.

Natalie Domenick, sophomore, is the daughter of Mark and Teresa Domenick. At Southern she is a member of the cross country team and track team, and is involved in the puppet ministry at Loch Lynn Church of God. She received the Top Rookie Award and was MVP for track. In the future, Natalie plans to go to college and major in biological sciences.

Robin Gregg, also a sophomore, is the daughter of Fred and Carol Gregg. She is involved in basketball, soccer, and track. She attends St. Peter's Catholic Church, and has received numerous Minds in Motion awards. In the future, Robin hopes to continue her involvement in athletics at a college level.

The community partner sponsoring this month's awards is Gregg's Pharmacy.

UM CHURCH

United Methodist Women met last Tuesday evening at the home of Amy Sweitzer. Officers for 2002 were elected. Wanda Maphis spoke of the chapel that is to be built at the Burlington Children's Home in Burlington, W.Va. She told of fund-raisers that will be held and asked for support from United Methodist Women.

Plans for the Thank Offering Service to be held on November 20 were discussed. Amy Sweitzer will be the leader at this service. The December meeting will be held at the home of Carol Sweitzer on December 11. This will be the Christmas party.

The ladies will have a baked goods table at the Christmas open house at the Community Center on November 3.

Mary June Harvey and Wanda Maphis attended the Potomac Highlands District Meeting of UM Methodist Women in Petersburg last Saturday.

The Rally Day hay ride held last Sunday was well attended, despite the inclement weather. The hay ride was shortened, and lunch was held in the social room of the church. The event was chaired by Wanda Ward, Carl and Grace Lee, and Barbie and Rodney Sweitzer.

The Swanton/Kitzmiller Charge Conference was held at Otterbein on Sunday evening. There were 18 in attendance. Rev. Keith and Ruth Simmons, co-district superintendents of Romney, W.Va., conducted the meeting.

Pastor Meredith Ball and Maxine, and Mary June Harvey attended the District Ministers and Spouses regular meeting at Wesleyan UM Church in Short Gap, W.Va., on Monday. They were part of a seminar on stress management.

The Parish Revival will be held each evening, October 19-21, 7 p.m. at Bethel UM Church in Mtn. Lake Park. Rev. Clifford Schell will be the speaker.

COMMUNITY CENTER

The regular meeting was held Monday evening. Plans for a Halloween social, chaired by Phyllis Friend, were discussed. The parade will begin at 5 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 27, and the social will follow the parade. Trick or Treat night for the community will be Wednesday, Oct. 31, 5 to 8 p.m. Those who wish to participate should leave a porch light on.

Christmas candy will again be made by the center. Hard tack will cost $3.25 per pound, and peanut brittle will cost $3.75 per pound. Orders are now being taken. Persons may call 301-387-4374, 301-387-7231 or 301-387-6826. Orders must be placed by October 31.

Swanton Girl Scouts meet every Monday from 6 to 7 p.m. at the center. The Scouts are now selling candy, nuts, and magazines.

Christi Teets Riley will sponsor a holiday open house at the center on Saturday, Nov. 3, from 9 a.m to 4 p.m. A variety of gift ideas and holiday crafts will be available including holiday florals, wreaths, ornaments, beauty products, candles, baked goods, apple butter, cider, and more.

PUBLIC NOTICES

WATER QUALITY & DRINKING WATER ORDINANCE

AN ORDINANCE of The Council of the Town of Grantsville (the "Borrower") authorizing the issuance and sale of two general obligation installment bonds, one in the maximum principal amount of FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS ($50,000.00) and one in the maximum principal amount of TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS ($200,000.00) pursuant to the authority of the Maryland Water Quality Financing Administration Act (codified as Sections 9-1601 to 9-1622, inclusive, of the Environment Article of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1996 Replacement Volume and 2000 Supplement), Sections 31 to 37, inclusive, of Article 23A of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1998 Replacement Volume and 2000 Supplement), and Sections 18-59 and 18-61 of the Charter of the Town of Grantsville, one bond to be designated "The Town of Grantsville Water Quality Bond" and one bond to be designated "The Town of Grantsville Drinking Water Bond," the net proceeds of the sale thereof to be used and applied for the public purposes of financing or refinancing improvements to the wastewater system and the water supply system, respectively, together with the acquisition of all necessary property rights and equipment, and related architectural, financial, legal, planning and engineering expenses; authorizing the execution of two loan agreements between the Borrower and the Maryland Water Quality Financing Administration; prescribing the form and tenor of the bonds and the terms and conditions for the issuance and sale thereof at private sale to the Maryland Water Quality Financing Administration; providing for the prompt payment of the maturing principal of and interest on the bonds; covenanting to levy and collect all taxes necessary to provide for the payment of the principal of and interest on such bonds; and generally relating to the issuance, sale and delivery of the bonds.

RECITALS

Title VI of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act, as amended by the Water Quality Act of 1987 (the "Clean Water Act"), authorizes the United States Environmental Protection Agency (the "EPA") to award grants to qualifying States to establish and capitalize State water pollution control revolving funds ("SRFs") for the purpose of providing loans and certain other forms of financial assistance (but not grants) to finance, among other things, the construction of publicly owned wastewater treatment facilities, estuary conservation management plans and the implementation of nonpoint source management programs.

In addition, the Safe Drinking Water Act of 1986, as amended by the Safe Drinking Water Act Amendments of 1994 (the "Safe Drinking Water Act"), authorizes the EPA to award grants to qualifying States to establish and capitalize SRFs for the purpose of providing loans and certain other forms of financial assistance (but not grants) to finance, among other things, the construction of water supply systems.

The General Assembly of Maryland at its 1988 session enacted the Maryland Water Quality Financing Administration Act, as amended, codified at Sections 9-1601 through 9-1622 of the Environment Article of the Annotated Code of Maryland (the "Act"), establishing the Maryland Water Quality Financing Administration (the "Administration") and establishing an SRF designated the Maryland Water Quality Revolving Loan Fund (the "Water Quality Fund") to be maintained and administered by the Administration and in its 1993 session enacted amendments to the Act establishing an SRF designated the Maryland Drinking Water Revolving Loan Fund (the "Drinking Water Fund") to be maintained and administered by the Administration. The Act, as amended, authorizes the Administration, among other things, to make loans from the Water Quality Fund to a "local government" (as defined in the Act); for the purpose of financing all or a portion of the cost of a "wastewater facility" (as defined in the Act) and to make loans from the Drinking Water Fund for the purpose of financing all or a portion of the cost of a "water supply system" (as defined in the Act), The Town of Grantsville (the "Borrower") is a "local government" within the meaning of the Act.

The Borrower has applied to the Administration for a loan from the Water Quality Fund to assist in the financing of a certain project which constitutes a "wastewater facility" and for a loan from the Drinking Water Fund to assist in the financing of a certain project which constitutes a "water supply system" within the meaning of the Act. As contemplated by the Act, the Administration and the Borrower will enter into two loan agreements (each, a "Loan Agreement"; collectively, the "Loan Agreements") to effect and evidence the loans.

The Borrower has determined that it will issue its bonds (hereinafter defined), each of which constitutes a "loan obligation" within the meaning of the Act.

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED AND ENACTED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE TOWN OF GRANTSVILLE:

Section 1. Pursuant to the authority of the Maryland Water Quality Financing Administration Act (codified as Sections 9-1601 to 9-1622, inclusive, of the Environment Article of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1966 Replacement Volume and 2000 Supplement) (the "Act"), Sections 31 to 37, inclusive, of Article 23A of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1998 Replacement Volume and 2000 Supplement), and Sections 18-59 and 18-61 of the Charter of the Town of Grantsville (the "Charter"), The Town of Grantsville, a municipal corporation of the State of Maryland (the "Borrowers"), hereby determines to borrow money and incur indebtedness (i) for the public purposes of financing or refinancing improvements to certain wastewater facilities (the "Wastewater System Project") and (ii) for the public purposes of financing or refinancing improvements to the water supply systems (the "Water System Project") and, in each case, related architectural, financial, legal, planning and engineering expenses permitted under the Clean Water Act and Safe Drinking Water Act. The Wastewater System Project and the Water System Project are each described in Exhibit A. The Wastewater System Project constitutes a "wastewater facility" and the Water System Project constitutes a "water supply system" within the meaning of the Act.

As contemplated by the Act, such borrowing and indebtedness shall be made and incurred in accordance with the provisions of loan agreements (each, a "Loan Agreement" collectively, the "Loan Agreements") between the Borrower and Maryland Water Quality Financing Administration (the "Administration"). Each Loan Agreement shall be in substantially the forms set forth in Exhibits B-1 and B-2 attached hereto as a part hereof, with such insertions, omissions or variations as may be deemed necessary or appropriate and approved by the officers executing the same (their execution of the Loan Agreements to constitute conclusive evidence of such approval). The Borrower hereby approves the forms of and authorizes the execution and delivery of the Loan Agreements in substantially the forms set forth in Exhibits B-1 and B-2, including all covenants and conditions set forth therein. The Loan Agreements and all the covenants and conditions set forth therein, including, without limitation, payment to the Administration of the annual Administrative Fee described in such Loan Agreements, are hereby approved and adopted as the obligations of the Borrower.

Section 2. To evidence the payment obligations of the Borrower under the Loan Agreements, the Borrower, acting pursuant to the authority of the Act and the Charter, hereby determines to issue and sell, upon its full faith and credit, (i) a general obligation installment bond, in the principal amount not to exceed FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS ($50,000.00), to be known as "The Town of Grantsville Water Quality Bond" (the "Water Quality Bond") and (ii) a general obligation installment bond, in the principal amount not to exceed TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS ($200,000.00), to be known as "The Town of Grantsville Drinking Water Bond" (the "Drinking Water Bond" and, collectively with the Water Quality Bond, the "Bonds"). There shall be added to the title of each Bond a designation corresponding to the year in which such Bond is issued. The Bonds shall be dated the date of delivery and shall be issued in the form of two fully registered installment bonds, without coupons attached, numbered R-1 and R-2. The Water Quality Bond, numbered R-1, shall bear interest at a rate of 45% of the Bond Buyer 11-Bond Index for the month preceding the date of its delivery and the Drinking Water Bond, numbered R-2, shall bear interest at a rate of 45% of the Bond Buyer 11-Bond Index for the month preceding the date of its delivery. The first payment of principal on each Bond shall be paid no later than one year after the estimated date of completion of each respective project as described in Exhibit A, and subsequent installments of principal shall be payable annually until the principal on such Bond is fully paid, except that the final installment of the entire indebtedness evidenced by each Bond, if not sooner paid, shall be due and payable no later than 20 years after project completion, and except that prepayments may be made as provided in the relevant Loan Agreement. Interest due on the unpaid amounts advanced under the Loan Agreements shall accrue on the basis of a 30-day month, 360-day year from the date of the respective advances of such principal amount, and shall be paid semiannually on the 1st day of February and August in each year until such principal amount has been paid.

Section 3. The Bonds shall be executed in the name of the Borrower and on its behalf by the Mayor of the Town of Grantsville. The corporate seal of the Borrower shall be affixed to the Bonds, attested by the signature of the Clerk-Treasurer of the Town of Grantsville (the "Town Clerk"). The principal of and interest on the Bonds shall be paid by the Borrower by electronic funds transfer, check or draft mailed (by depositing such check or draft, correctly addressed and postage prepaid, in the United States mails on or before the payment date) to the registered owner at its address as it appears on the books kept for that purpose at the office of the Clerk-Treasurer in The Town of Grantsville, Maryland. In the event any official whose signature appears on a Bond ceases to be an official prior to the delivery of such Bond, or shall have become such official after the date of this Ordinance, such Bond shall, nevertheless, be the valid and legally binding obligation of the Borrower in accordance with its terms.

Section 4. Except as provided hereinafter or in an ordinance or ordinances of the Borrower adopted prior to the issuance of the Bonds, the Bonds shall be issued in substantially the form provided for in Exhibit F of each Loan Agreement. Appropriate variations and insertions to provide dates, numbers and amounts, and modifications not altering its substance may be made by the Town Mayor of the Town provided that the face amount of the Bonds shall not exceed the limits set forth in Section 2 of this Ordinance. All of the covenants contained in Exhibit F of each Loan Agreement are hereby adopted by the Borrower as and for the form of obligation to be incurred by the Borrower, and the covsnants and conditions contained therein are hereby made binding upon the Borrower, including the promise to pay therein contained.

Section 5. The Bonds shall be sold to the Administration at private (negotiated) sale, without public bidding, in accordance with the provisions of the Act. The Town Mayor with the Consent of the Town Council of the Town is authorized and directed to enter into such agreements with the Administration as they shall deem to be in the best interest of the Town in order to accomplish the public purposes of this Ordinance.

Section 6. The Town Mayor of the Town is expressly authorized and empowered to take any and all action necessary to complete and close the delivery of the Bonds. The Town Mayor of the Town is expressly authorized to make such changes or modifications in the forms adopted herein as may be necessary or appropriate.

Section 7. The Town Mayor, or in his absence, the Clerk-Treasurer of the Town, is hereby designated to receive payment on behalf of the Town of the proceeds of the sale of the Bonds. Such proceeds shall be used and applied by the Town exclusively and solely for the public purposes described in Section 1 of this Ordinance. If the proceeds received from the sale of the Bonds exceed the amount needed for such public purposes, the unexpended excess shall be applied as soon as may be practicable to the prepayment of the Bonds as provided for in Section 2 of this Ordinance, unless a supplemental ordinance is passed and approved by the Town to provide for the expenditure of that excess for some other valid purpose authorized by the Act and the Charter.

Section 8. The principal of and interest on the Water Quality Bond and the Drinking Water Bond shall be payable in the first instance from funds received from the imposition and collection of wastewater and water user charges, respectively, including any and all fees for the use of the wastewater system or public water system, respectively, or connection thereto established by the Town in accordance with the Charter. In the event that such charges and fees are insufficient to meet the debt service requirements on the Bonds the principal and interest on the Bonds shall be payable in accordance with the Loan Agreement. If, in any fiscal year during which the Bonds may be outstanding, either of such funds are insufficient promptly to meet the debt service requirements of the respective Bond the Town shall levy ad valorem taxes, in accordance with the Charter, upon all assessable property liable to taxation in the Town at the regular tax-levying period in rate and amount sufficient to meet and pay promptly the principal of and interest on such Bond when due in each such fiscal year. If the proceeds from the collection of taxes so levied in any such fiscal year are inadequate for such payment, additional taxes shall be levied in the succeeding fiscal year to make up such deficiency. The full faith and credit and unlimited taxing power of the Town are hereby irrevocably pledged to the payment of the principal of and interest on the Bonds as and when they become due and payable and to the levy and collection of the taxes hereinabove described as and when such taxes may become necessary in order to provide sufficient funds to meet the debt service requirements of the Bonds. The Town hereby covenants and agrees with the registered owner of the Bonds to levy and collect the taxes hereinabove described and to take any further action that may be appropriate from time to time during the period that the Bonds remain outstanding and unpaid to provide the funds necessary to pay promptly the principal thereof and the interest due thereon.

Section 9. The Town hereby covenants and agrees to pay all administrative fees and expenses charged by the Administration under the Loan Agreements.

Section 10. This Ordinance shall become effective twenty (20) days following its enactment by the Council of the Town of Grantsville, Maryland, provided that it is published at least twice in a newspaper having a general circulation in the Town.

INTRODUCED by the Council of the Town of Grantsville, Maryland, at a town meeting session on May 7, 2001.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this proceeding is to secure the foreclosure of all rights of redemption in the following property located in Garrett County, Maryland, sold by the Collector of Taxes for Garrett County and the State of Maryland to the Plaintiff in this proceeding, which is more particularly described as:

all that parcel of land assessed [as Account No. 06-003842] situate in Election District No. 6, containing 21.04 acres, more or less, and described in the deed from Asten, Inc. to Raymond A. Ferguson dated November 2,1971 and recorded November 10, 1971, in Liber No. 317, folio 233, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland

The Complaint states, among other things, that the amount necessary for redemption has not been paid, although more than six months and a day from the date of sale have expired.

It is thereupon this 25th day of September, 2001, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, Ordered that notice be given by the insertion of a copy of this Order in some newspaper having a general circulation in Garrett County, once a week for three successive weeks, warning all persons interested in the property to appear in this Court by the 26th day of November, 2001, and redeem the property and answer the Complaint or thereafter a final judgment will be entered foreclosing all rights of redemption in the property, and vesting in the Plaintiff a title, free and clear of all encumbrances.

SUBSTITUTE TRUSTEES' SALE OF VALUABLE FEE-SIMPLE DWELLING

FROSTBURG, GARRETT COUNTY, MARYLAND 21532

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust from Dwayne E. Wilhelm and Joan C. Wilhelm to Household Finance Corp. III, Trustee, dated July 13, 2000 and recorded in Liber 810, folio 562 among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, the holder of the indebtedness secured by the Deed of Trust having appointed Gerald Danoff, Dennis W. King, and C. Larry Hofmeister Jr., Substitute Trustees by instrument duly executed, acknowledged and recorded among the Land Records of the County aforesaid, default having occurred under the terms thereof, and at the request of the parties secured thereby, the undersigned Substitute Trustees will offer for sale at public auction

AT THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR GARRETT COUNTY, AT THE COURTHOUSE DOOR, OAKLAND, ON TUESDAY, OCTOBER 30, 2001 AT 1:00 O'CLOCK P.M.

ALL THAT LOT OF GROUND AND THE IMPROVEMENTS THEREON situated in Garrett County, Maryland and more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust.

The property is improved by a dwelling and is in fee-simple. The property address is 14121 National Pike, Frostburg, MD 21532.

The property will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting the same, if any, and with no warranty as to the description of the improvements.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $17,000 will be required at the time of sale, such deposit to be in cash, cashier's check, certified check, or in other form as the Substitute Trustees may determine acceptable, in their sole discretion. Balance of the purchase price is to be paid in cash within ten (10) business days of the final ratification of sale, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County. If payment of the balance does not take place within ten business days of ratification, the deposit will be forfeited and the property will be resold at the risk and expense of the defaulting purchaser. Interest to be paid on unpaid purchase money at the rate pursuant to the deed of trust note from date of sale to date of settlement, in the event the property is purchased by someone rather than the note holder. Taxes and water rent to be adjusted to date of sale. All other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges to be adjusted for the current year to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps and transfer taxes shall be borne by the purchaser. If the Substitute Trustees are unable to convey good and marketable title, the purchaser's sole remedy in law or equity shall be limited to the refund of the deposit to the purchaser. Upon refund of the deposit, this sale shall be void and of no effect, and the purchaser shall have no further claim against the Substitute Trustees. The purchaser at the foreclosure sale shall assume the risk of loss for the property immediately after the sale.

ASSIGNEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE IMPROVED PROPERTY

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage from PAUL D. THAYER and KATRINA L. THAYER to THE TERRA ALTA BANK dated October 26, 1999, and recorded October 27, 2001, in Liber No. 788, folio 616, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, and the Assignment thereof for the purpose of foreclosure dated September 15, 2001, default having occurred under the terms and conditions of said mortgage and it having been duly assigned to the undersigned for the purpose of foreclosure, I hereby give notice that I will, on in the Rotunda of the Courthouse, in the Town of Oakland, Garrett County, Maryland, offer for sale, and sell at public auction to the highest bidder, the following property, to-wit:

October 26, 2001
At the hour of 10:00 a.m.

ALL those pieces or parcels of land situate, lying and being in Election District No. 6, Garrett County, Maryland, which is known and designated as Lot Nos. 28 and 29, Section 4, Block H, as shown on a revised plat of Piney Mountain Corporation recorded in Plat Book 2, page 59, one of the Plat Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

SUBJECT to certain restrictive covenants which are fully set forth in a deed from Piney Mountain Corporation to Frank M. Skerbetz and Frank G. Skerbetz dated September 15, 1964, and recorded in Liber No. 260, folio 135, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

EXCEPTING unto Piney Mountain Corporation, its successors and assigns, a right of way with right of entry upon, over, across and through said lots for the purpose of constructing, operating, maintaining and repairing pole lines for electrical and telephone service and other utilities.

ALL lots sold in the Piney Mountain Subdivision shall be subject to similar restrictive covenants.

BEING the same as conveyed by Alden R. Perando to Paul D. Thayer and Katrina L. Thayer, husband and wife, by deed dated September 15, 1995, and recorded in Liber No. 664, folio 183, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

The property is unimproved.

The property will be sold "AS IS," subject to all reservations, restrictions and encumbrances of record affecting same, if any.

TERMS OF SALE: A cashier's or certified check of TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS ($2,000.00) shall be paid at the time and place of sale, except no deposit shall be required of the mortgagee, its successors or assigns, balance in cash at settlement, except that if the mortgagee, its successors and assigns, is the purchaser, a credit will be allowed for the mortgage debt, which shall be twenty (20) days after final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court of Garrett County, Maryland, unless said period is extended by the assignee, his successors or assigns, for good cause shown, time being of the essence. In the event that the purchaser fails to go to settlement as required, the property shall be re-sold at purchaser's risk and expense. Taxes and all other charges, if any, to be adjusted to date of sale. All other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis shall be adjusted to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes, agricultural transfer tax, document preparation and title insurance and/or examination shall be borne by purchaser.

The improvements are being sold in an "as is" condition with purchaser responsible for any and all housing or zoning code violation.

Oak Park Church Sets Portrayal Of Biblical Figures

FRANK HARVEY AS JESUS

Noted Christian actor Frank Harvey will portray a series of biblical characters during dramatic presentations set for 7 p.m. each evening Sunday through Wednesday, Oct. 28-31, at the Oak Park Church of the Brethren. There will be no admission charge for the programs, which are free and open to the public, but freewill offerings will be accepted.

Following his ordination in the Methodist Church, Harvey was asked by his bishop to continue ministering in the field of drama. He has presented his biblical re-enactments at churches, colleges, military installations, and state and national conventions across the country. He and his wife Hazel founded The Living Word Passion Play in 1975, which continues for a three-month run each summer in a Cambridge, Ohio, outdoor theater.

The Oak Park Church of the Brethren is located at 110 Church Lane, across from Southern High School. For further information, persons may call the church office at 301-334-2243.

Westvaco Mill Will Shut Down For Eight Days

An eight-day shutdown is scheduled to take place at Westvaco's Luke mill during the week of Thanksgiving, according to an announcement by Roger Dandridge, vice president and mill manager. The total mill shutdown will begin Sunday, Nov. 18, and will continue until Monday, Nov. 26.

A number of maintenance projects, originally planned for a spring 2002 outage, as well as critical departmental functions, will be taking place during that week. All other salaried and hourly employees not scheduled to work will be eligible to take vacation.

Dandridge explained that poor business conditions and the need for inventory control make this action necessary.

Welfare Cases Drop 68 Percent In Five Years

by Alan Brody
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — Maryland's welfare caseload has decreased by 68.7 percent since January 1995, officials from the Department of Human Resources reported to state lawmakers Tuesday.

The decline means that Marylanders receiving temporary cash assistance have dropped to 71,363, down from 227,887 in 1995, although officials admit the caseload decreases have leveled off.

"We have come a long way in five years," said Senate Minority Leader Martin Madden, R-Howard, chairman of the Joint Committee on Welfare Reform. "People who are leaving welfare are finding lives that are better for themselves and their children."

The state is down to the cases that are the most difficult — those with "multiple barriers" — said Charles Henry, executive director for the Family Investment Administration.

The Sept. 11 terrorist attacks, and the economic fallout from them, may push figures up in the coming months, said state officials who have been monitoring welfare applications. They said they expect the economy will stabilize by spring and caseloads will drop by the end of 2002.

Analysts from RESI, a research institute at Towson University, are forecasting a moderate economic contraction for two or three quarters through the second quarter of 2002.

"The big unknown is what happens in light of the economic slowdown prior to Sept. 11 and particularly what happens after that. There are a lot of challenges ahead. It's a different economic climate now," said Madden, who is serving his seventh and final year on the committee.

The state has budgeted assistance for 68,000 welfare recipients, 3,000 clients short of the Family Investment Administration's goal. But, FIA officials said 96 percent of clients who had received more than two years of temporary cash assistance are working, an increase of 3 percent from last year.

In January 2002, the five-year limit for Maryland's first welfare recipients will expire. However, the Family Investment Administration is making provisions to extend benefits for 586 welfare families. The state will be able to provide benefits to qualified families through July 2004.

"No family will lose assistance just because of an arbitrary time limit," said Henry.

Louise Meyers, a welfare advocate for veterans, said getting off welfare sometimes "can take a lifetime."

Baltimore remains the area with the greatest concentration of welfare clients, more than 62 percent of state welfare cases; however, the city's caseload has declined by about 58 percent since 1995. Another 11 percent of state cases are in Prince George's County.

The state has been successful in hiring addiction specialists in local social services departments everywhere except Baltimore, where they need 23 more such specialists. City officials hope to be at full staff by spring.

Local governments have been successful in hiring welfare clients, with almost 2,100 hired. However, state government has fallen 30 short of its goal, placing 70 clients at state government jobs. FIA officials blamed the low state hiring on problems securing child care and transportation.

Employment and recidivism outcomes for Marylanders leaving temporary cash assistance are positive and coincide with those reported in other states, according to a study by researchers at the University of Maryland School of Social Work.

The study also revealed that the majority of welfare families receive food stamps and medical assistance after leaving public assistance and few families are receiving a child care subsidy during the year after leaving welfare.

Welfare recipients have been hired mostly in service industries; however, job stability is higher among those employed in public administration and in the health and social services sectors, the study said.

Average quarterly earnings in the quarter after leaving welfare were a modest $2,654, the study said, and only 4.4 percent of Marylanders live in poverty.

Rates as of 10/16/01

There's nothing quite like the satisfaction and happiness of owning a home. It's an investment you can enjoy every day you live in it.

But did you know that the average price of an existing single family home in America has risen from $22,300 in 1968 to $190,200 in June of 2001? That's according to the National Association of REALTORS® and represents an appreciation of over 750% in 33 years.

There's even more good news. If you itemize on your Federal Income Tax return, the interest you pay on your home mortgage is tax-deductible, as are your state property taxes. And when you sell your home, up to either $250,000 or $600,000 of capital gains appreciation may be sheltered from taxation. See your tax advisor for specific information.

MORTGAGE INTEREST RATES ARE LOW, LOW, LOW. NOW TRULY IS THE TIME TO BUY A HOME!

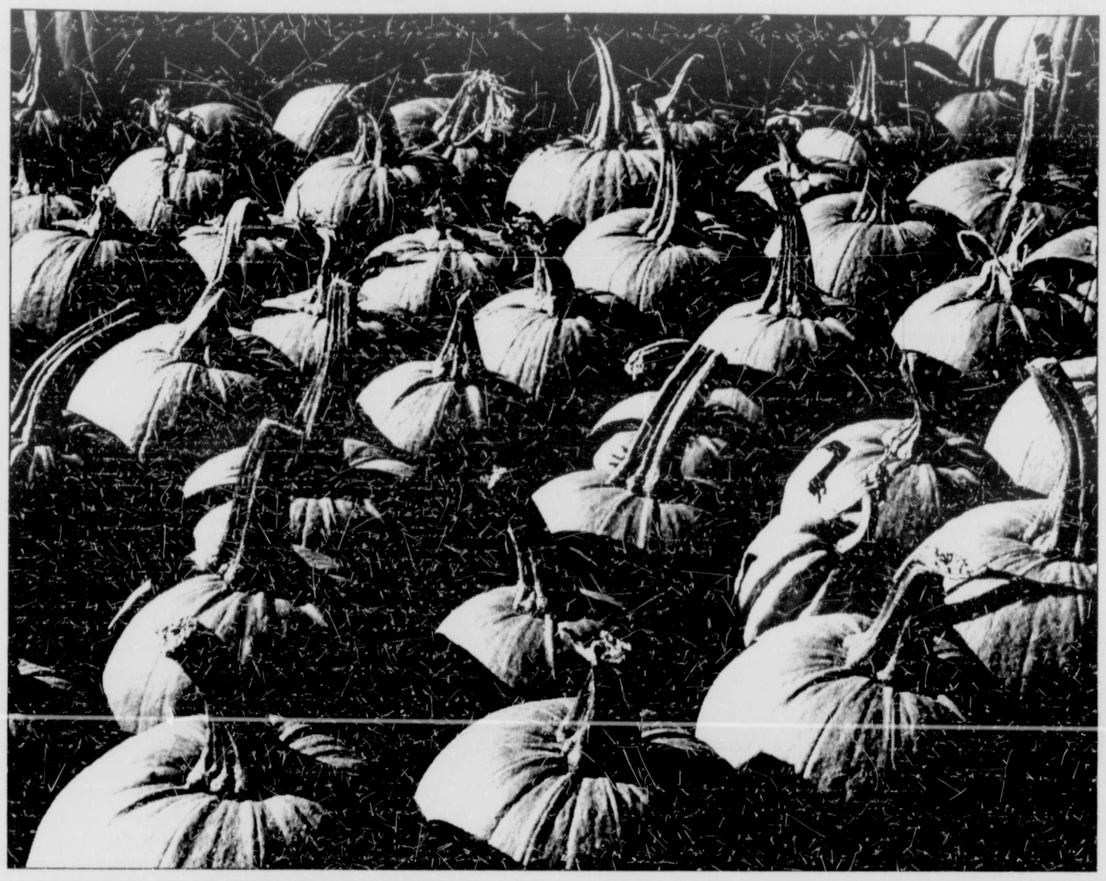
Prince George's, D.C. Men Jailed On Drug Charges

Maryland State Police troopers assigned to the McHenry barrack stopped a vehicle for speeding on Interstate 68 early Wednesday morning and arrested both 18-year-old occupants on drug charges.

Paul Xavier Spence, Temple Hills, and Spencer Sheffield, Washington, D.C., were clocked at 90 mph at 2:46 a.m. along the eastbound interstate approximately one mile east of the New Germany Road exit. Tfc. J. Grinnan reportedly noticed the odor of marijuana as he spoke to Spence, the driver of the 1994 Nissan Maxima.

A vehicle search uncovered 15 individually wrapped bags of suspected marijuana, and two separate plastic bags containing additional plastic baggies sometimes used for packaging and distributing marijuana.

Both Spence and Sheffield were arrested and charged with possession of marijuana with the intent to distribute, possession of marijuana, and possession of drug paraphernalia. Spence was later released from the Garrett County jail when he posted a $5,000 bond; Sheffield remains incarcerated on a $5,000 bond.



A GAGGLE OF GOURDS? These pumpkins look like they're lining up for a team picture, trying to get those stems in sync. It is indeed pumpkin time again, with Halloween just around the corner. Fall festivities are slated across the county over the next week, with parades, trick-or-treating, and parties among the events. The time to celebrate the season is literally blowing away today, though, as high winds seem to be bulldozing winter right into the county. So hurry to get your pumpkins and ply your carving talent -- autumn will soon be overturned by the snowy season. Photo by John McEwen

Band Concert Will Feature Celtic Music

The Garrett Community Concert Band will present its fall concert, "A Celtic Celebration," this Saturday, Oct. 27, at 7:30 p.m. in the GCC auditorium under the baton of Gerald McGee, conductor and music director. The band, which is acquiring fame as the "4th of July Band," will feature two other groups in addition to its own repertoire of Celtic music. In addition to performing alone, GCC Pipes and Drums will play some selections with the band. Sang Run, a local group that concentrates on Irish music, will also be featured.

The Garrett Community Concert Band is relatively new, having presented its first concert on July 4, 2000. Organized as strictly a volunteer group, the band continues to grow in number, with many accomplished instrumentalists from Garrett County and surrounding areas, as well as others who play for the enjoyment and experience of being part of

The Republican Newspaper Sponsors Warm The Children For Fifth Year

For the fifth consecutive year, staff members of The Republican newspaper have launched Warm the Children, a program designed to provide new, warm winter clothing and footwear to area children in need. The newspaper has helped clothe about 800 children over the past four years through the program, and organizers hope to help well over 200 this year.

Each Thursday for the next several weeks, advertisements will be included in issues of the newspaper to ask for donations to the Warm the Children fund. As the money is collected, families in need are identified by the area public school system and the Department of Social Services, and applications are sent to those who may benefit from the program.

"As we have said every year, the beauty of this program is that there are no overhead expenses," said Mary McEwen, director of Warm the Children. "We run the advertisements at our own cost, and we maintain a fee-free savings account at First United Bank & Trust. As the money comes in, we serve the kids."

After the children are identified, volunteers join up with the families and take them shopping. This year the local Wal-Mart is participating in the program, joining two long-time participants, Ames in Frostburg and the Penney's catalog store in Oakland. The volunteers are instructed to spend up to $100 on each child on the purchase of coats, hats, boots, socks, jeans, pajamas, and other warm clothing or footwear.

While McEwen has coordinated most aspects of the program in the past, there will be new leadership in some areas this year. Linda

Messenger Pleads Guilty To Voluntary Manslaughter Charge

Michael Todd Messenger, 35, Davis, W.Va., entered three pleas of guilty yesterday in Garrett County Circuit Court to a charge of voluntary manslaughter and two charges of first-degree assault. The remaining charges were dismissed.

Messenger had been charged in an 11 count indictment which included first degree murder, four counts of first degree attempted murder, four counts of first degree assault, one count of use of a handgun in the commission of a felony, and one count of malicious destruction of property, according to his attorneys, R. Steven Friend and Ramon Rozas III. No testimony or evidence was received in the jury trail.

The manslaughter charge involves the shooting death of Sharyn Burch, 21, and the first-degree assaults involve another female patron and the bartender of Shorty's Bar and Grill, Gortner.

Messenger had allegedly been involved in an altercation in the bar the evening of February 12, 2001, and had been removed from the establishment. He had reportedly broken a window at the bar and had gone to his pickup truck, when the bartender and four patrons went outside. Shortly after, Messenger fired a number of shots from his truck and fled the scene, according to Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney for Garrett County. Messenger was arrested early the next day at his residence in Davis, W.Va.

Burch was shot in the abdomen during the 11:10 p.m. incident and later died

Arrests Made In Par-Matt Lanes Burglary

Two men were arrested by Garrett Bureau of Investigation, Garrett County Narcotics Task Force, and sheriff's deputies late Tuesday afternoon in connection to a burglary and theft at Par-Matt Lanes, Mtn. Lake Park.

Jay Michael Lucas, 18, Loch Lynn, and Daniel James Smith, 18, Mtn. Lake Park, were charged with second degree burglary, felony theft, malicious destruction of property over $500, and possession of marijuana and paraphernalia.

According to the report, sometime during the early morning hours on Monday, suspects broke into the bowling alley and stole a safe, money, and other property. A search was conducted of Lucas's residence, which resulted in the recovery of suspected marijuana and paraphernalia. Property stolen from the bowling alley was later recovered at two different wooded locations in Loch Lynn and Mtn. Lake Park.

Lucas and Smith were later released from custody on their personal recognizance by the District Court commissioner.

"In Praise of America" Event Set At College

"In Praise of America," a community patriotic program, will be held at Garrett Community College at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 17. The program is being sponsored by the college in cooperation with the volunteer fire departments of Garrett County. It will feature local choruses, musicians and speakers.

Members of the committee planning the program are Ben Sincell, Crystal Roberson, and Joan Crawford from GCC, and Jim Raley, president of the Garrett County Volunteer Fire and Rescue Association.

Although there will be no admission charge for the program, a free will offering will be accepted by members of the local fire departments for the benefit of the rescue efforts. "We are planning this program with two purposes in mind," said Crawford. "The first is to benefit the victims of Sept. 11, and the second is to reaffirm and celebrate our heritage as Americans. In this 30th anniversary year for GCC, it's a way for us to give something to the community."

Among the groups performing in the program will be the Garrett Community Concert Band, directed by Gerald McGee; the Broad Ford Elementary School Chorus, directed by Dave Zimmerman; a combined chorus from Northern and Southern high schools, directed by Bill Robinson and Dick Clever; and a color guard from the Proctor Kildow American Legion Post 71. Among the individuals set to participate are Tom Peterson, Susan Weisbrod, Richard Kusy, Jane Avery, Tom Frawley, and John Grant. Dr. Steve Herman will serve as master of ceremonies.

Because of an expected capacity crowd in the auditorium, closed circuit television will be set up in other areas of the college so viewers can see and hear the program. Persons planning to attend are advised to arrive early. Doors will open at 7 p.m.

Not a trick, just a treat... We'll all get an extra hour of sleep! Don't forget to turn your clocks back 1 hour this Saturday evening after those little trick-or-treaters have scurried home.

Commissioners Hear Opposition To Autumn Glory Date Change

The Garrett County commissioners held a public meeting this week for residents to voice their opinions on the recent decision made by the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce to move the date of the Autumn Glory Festival next year from the second weekend in October to the first weekend. The board later reconsidered its decision.

About 20 persons, representing the Southern Band Boosters, Lions Club, and Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, attended the meeting. Ken Wishnick, president, and Leonard Eiswert, vice chairperson, represented the Chamber of Commerce.

"I'm a little annoyed," said Commissioner Ernest Gregg at the beginning of the meeting, "that I had to learn about [the date change] through the news media."

Gregg noted that the commissioners' office had received numerous phone calls from residents concerned that scheduling Autumn Glory for the first weekend in October would conflict with the Mountain State Forest Festival in Elkins, W.Va., and the Springs Folk Festival in Springs, Pa. He said that the Shriners had already notified him that they could not attend Autumn Glory next year if its date were changed.

"I don't think the chamber realized how controversial it would be to change the date," Eiswert responded. "It was not the board's intention to cause hard feelings." He explained that the decision "was driven" by some members who were averse to having Autumn Glory and Columbus Day fall during the same week. Some of the members felt that Autumn Glory would be more successful if the festival did not coincide with the holiday, he said. He also added that the decision was not unanimous.

"I appreciate the input from the community," Eiswert said. He suggested that the chamber look at creating a separate Autumn Glory organization with a broad community base to run the festival. He also indicated that he would go back to the chamber board and sug-

Blaze Destroys Building Used For Meat Processing

A fire believed to have been caused by an improperly installed wood stove destroyed a building in the Finzel area of the county Tuesday afternoon. The 30' x 65' block sectional building, owned by Howie Platter II and located at 864 Church Run Road, was used for a deer meat processing operation known as Howie's Custom Cuts. The loss was estimated to be $120,000 by investigators from the Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office.

According to the investigators' report, a passing neighbor saw heavy smoke coming from the unoccupied building and called 911. Volunteer firefighters from Eastern Garrett, Grantsville, Frostburg, Shaft, Salisbury (Pa.), and Clarysville VFDs responded to the 2:07 p.m. alarm and found the structure engulfed in flames.

One unidentified firefighter from the Frostburg VFD sustained a possible broken arm and was transported to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

Investigators determined that combustibles located near an improperly installed wood stove in the furnace room ignited, and the flames spread up the wall to the roof area. The fire was brought under control in about 15 minutes by the estimated 45 volunteers, but the damages were extensive.

Also responding to the scene were the county air cascade unit, housed at the Deep Creek VFC, and personnel from the Allegheny Power Company.

OUR TOWN SLATES "GHOSTWALK" AT TRAIN STATION — Impending cold weather has prompted a change in Our Town Theatre's plans for "Ghostwalk," which was originally to be presented at various sites around Oakland. The show, penned and directed by Jane Avery, will now be given inside the town's historic train station. The show's run will begin tonight, Oct. 25, and run through Oct. 26, 27, 30 and 31. Reservations are strongly encouraged. Audience members are to meet at the theatre along Center Street at 10:30 p.m., where they will purchase their tickets at $5 each. They will then go to the train station to encounter the portrayals of five "ghosts" from Garrett County's past. The actors of the show are pictured above. In front, from left, are Erin and Lois White. In the back, same order, are John White, Fred Jacoby, and Aaron White. To make reservations, person should call the theatre at 301-334-5640.

NMS Receives TechConnect Grant of $30,000

Northern Middle School recently received a $30,000 TechConnect Classroom Technology Grant from Allegheny Energy. The grant, which will be used to purchase computers, printers, servers, and other computer hardware, will assist the school in improving its technology programs in math and science.

"This grant will benefit the students and staff of Northern Middle School, and will further our mission of enhancing educational technology programs in the communities we serve," said Victoria V. Schaff, Allegheny Energy's vice president of external affairs.

Northern Middle School was one of 10 schools selected to receive the grant. Public and private schools, grades kindergarten through 12, in the company's service territory, which includes parts of Maryland, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and West Virginia, were eligible to apply for a TechConnect grant. More than 200 schools submitted grant proposals, which were evaluated by teams of educators and business leaders.

"We are extremely excited to have the opportunity to participate in this program," said William C. Carlson, principal at NMS. "The TechConnect Grant has provided the opportunity for our school to enhance its state-of-the-art technology for students and teachers."

TechConnect is the cornerstone of Allegheny Energy's Corporate Giving Program, which contributes annually to a wide variety of community needs, including local United Way agencies, volunteer fire companies, museums, and education.

According to a spokesperson, by supporting technology in schools, the company can help provide communities with highly skilled and diverse employees and increase economic development opportunities.

More Awards Go To Local Seaman For 2000 Rescue

U.S. Coast Guard Petty Officer 3rd Class Michael K. Carola received two more major awards this past summer for his life-saving actions in performing a daring water rescue in May 2000. The Garrett County native will also be honored during an upcoming Washington, D.C., ceremony hosted by U.S. Secretary of Transportation Norman Mineta this coming Thursday.

Carola, who in the summer of 2000 received a special honor from Secretary of Defense William Cohen, was presented with the two other awards recently during ceremonies in Orlando, Fla., and in Washington, D.C. The Florida presentation was made at July's annual convention of the Non-Commissioned Officers Association of the United States of America, where Carola received the association's prestigious Vanguard Award. The Washington presentation was made earlier this month at the Association For Rescue At Sea (AFRAS) annual awards ceremony, where he was recognized with the organization's gold medal and a cash prize.

The awards stem from Carola's efforts in rescuing an 82-year-old man who would have all but certainly drowned in a North Carolina ocean inlet after the fishing boat he was a passenger in sunk. The vessel had struck a bridge in the Oregon Inlet near Nags Head, N.C. One of seven passengers rescued from the sinking boat, the elderly man had become pinned against the inside of the bridge fender system by the inlet's raging current.

Despite having no rescue swimmer training, Carola, one of the crew of the U.S. Coast Guard motor life boat that answered the distress call, dove into the chilly water to rescue Douglas Eakers. The exhausted victim, who had a heart condition, was already suffering from hypothermia and was likely to drown in the raging current within minutes of the rescue vessel's arrival. Carola placed his own body between the victim and the bridge fender, fighting against standing walls of water to hold the 250-pound man's head above the surface.

Following an unsuccessful attempt by Carola's crewmates to pull him and the victim to the Coast Guard vessel, Eakers told Carola to "save yourself, [because] I know I'm going to die." Carola refused to let the man go and forced the life-saving ring over his head and under his arms while encouraging him not to give up. He then directed the crew to take the line to the rescue craft's bow and pull them clear by putting the boat's engine into reverse. Once free of the bridge and the strong current raging around it, Carola swam the then-unconscious victim to the vessel.

The NCOA recognized Carola's live-saving actions with its Vanguard Award for the U.S. Coast Guard, presented in memory of Medal of Honor recipient Signalman 1st Class Douglas Munro. Five enlisted servicemen and/or women, representing each of the military's five branches, are presented with the Vanguard Award each year.

"Seaman Carola demonstrated remarkable initiative, exceptional fortitude, and daring in spite of imminent personal danger," noted an article published in Today's NCOA, the organization's journal.

The Gold Medal of the AFRAS, a non-profit foundation that supports services concerned with saving lives at sea, is presented annually to an enlisted Coast Guard person for an act of extraordinary bravery during a rescue at sea. Nominations for the award are made by the USCG's Search and Rescue Division.

"Carola's courage and devotion to duty are most heartily commended and are in keeping with the highest traditions of the U.S. Coast Guard," remarked AFRAS chairman Adm. James S. Gracey, USCG (ret.).

Since the North Carolina rescue, Carola requested and was granted a transfer to Newport, Ore. He recently re-enlisted for a six-year tour of duty and should complete coxswain's training in December, when he will be certified to pilot Coast Guard motor life boats under fairly "normal" conditions. Carola intends to eventually apply for the service's grueling surfsman training, which would enable him to pilot motor life boats in some of the heaviest surf conditions in the world off the Oregon and Washington coasts. As a surfsman, Carola would be responsible for maintaining control of the high-tech 47-foot vessel as it sustains 360-degree rolls while conducting search and rescue operations.

A 1998 graduate of Southern High School, Carola is the son of Linda and Guy Carola of Sand Flat Road.

MORE HONORS FOR CAROLA — "The one action of more benefit to humankind than making a life is saving a life," Abraham Lincoln said, and U.S. Coast Guard Petty Officer Michael Carola continues to receive honors for a heroic water rescue he undertook in May 2000 off the shores of North Carolina's Outer Banks. The Garrett County native dove into frigid waters to save an 82-year-old man from drowning. The Non-Commissioned Officers Association presented its prestigious Vanguard Award to Carola during its annual national convention in July. Carola is pictured above, second from the left, at the NCOA award presentation flanked by his parents, Guy and Linda Carola of Oakland, with Coast Guard Master Petty Officer Vince Patton, the convention's featured speaker. (The woman in the background was not identified.) Earlier this month Carola received the Gold Medal of the Association For Rescue At Sea (AFRAS) from AFRAS chairman Adm. James S. Gracey, USGC (ret.), who is shown below presenting Carola with the award. Carola will also be among the honorees at the 34th annual U.S. Department of Transportation awards ceremony this coming Thursday in Washington, D.C., which will be hosted by Transportation Secretary Norman Mineta.

Invitations Sent For "Meals On Wheels" Benefit

Over 1,000 invitations are being mailed out this week for a fund-raiser to benefit Garrett County's Meals on Wheels program. Funding for the program, which is a meal-delivery service offered to elderly, home-bound residents, has been cut and the service has been reduced from five-day-a-week delivery to three days.

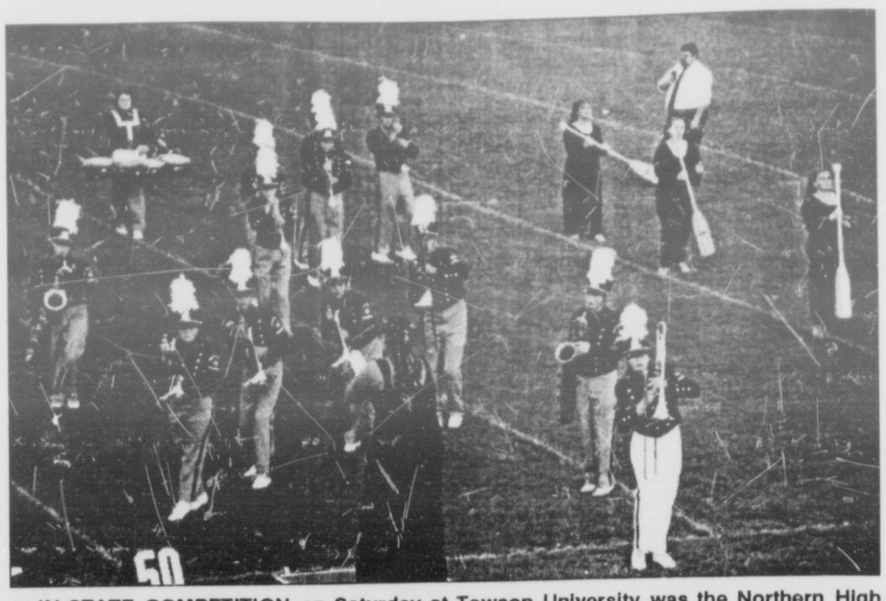
The Area Agency on Aging has mailed the invitations to the benefit, which is slated for Nov. 16 at the Senior Center in Grantsville. Persons do not have to have an invitation to attend the event, as it is open to the public.

"This fund-raiser is being held in the renewed spirit of community assistance now uniting the nation," said Glenn Tolbert, one of the event's organizers. Tickets to the benefit are $50 per couple, with ticketholders to be offered hot hors d'oeuvres, beer and wine, live music, and a special presentation of the Emmy Award-winning film Images of Maryland. Maryland Public Television, the producer of the film, is scheduled to send its senior executive producer to the event, and to provide door prizes.

Meals on Wheels is a function of the Area Agency on Aging. The funding shortfall is the result of the loss of private foundation monies, according to a spokesperson. The meal delivery persons were previously able to check on the clients five days a week, sometimes finding them incapacitated and in need of assistance. Now the delivery personnel can check on the individuals only three days per week.

"Oftentimes, the delivery people provide the clients' only connection with others, and now that connection has been seriously compromised," Tolbert said.

For more information about the fund-raiser or about Meals on Wheels, persons may call the Area Agency on Aging, located within Garrett County Community Action, at 301-334-9431.



IN STATE COMPETITION on Saturday at Towson University was the Northern High School Marching Band, conducted by Amanda Bell, who was named the runner-up among all 33 drum majors in the competition. The band placed fifth in the Group I division with its highest score of the season, 81.75. Bell earned a score of 19.1 in the Best Drum Major rankings, second only to the Lackey High School drum major, who earned a 19.3 out of a possible 20 points. Garrett County was also represented in the state championships by the Southern Garrett Marching Band, which also earned its top score of the season (82.15) and placed sixth in the Group II division. Southern drum major Suzanne Gilbert received the Best Drum Major award among the 12 drum majors in Group II. Both bands will compete again this Saturday in a competition at Musselman High School, and the Southern band will also compete in a show at Frostburg State University. The Northern band is under the direction of William Robinson, while the Southern band is directed by Richard Clever.

Former County Resident Pleads Guilty To Theft

Judge Fred Sharer in Garrett County Circuit Court last week sentenced Antonio Keith Lappegard, 20, formerly of McHenry, to six months in the Garrett County Jail for charges of theft over $500 and theft under $500. That sentence was suspended, and Lappegard was placed on supervised probation for one year.

Lappegard pleaded guilty to these charges in August, and a pre-sentence investigation report was ordered by the judge.

According to a press release from Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney for Garrett County, Lappegard was charged in March by officers with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation, who determined that the defendant had pawned video games, a Sega system, and other items that had been reported stolen from a Garrett Community College dormitory room at Garrett Hall in McHenry.

In another unrelated Circuit Court case, Brandon Lee Ford, 19, Oakland, was sentenced by Sharer to one year in the Garrett County Jail for each of two charges of distribution of marijuana. All of the two years was suspended except for 90 days. Upon his release, Ford will be on supervised probation for two years.

In March, Ford was charged by officers with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force for selling marijuana to a police informant in October and December 2000. Ford pleaded guilty in August 2001, according to Welch.

In another case, Sharer sentenced 21-year-old Stephen Charles Dawson, formerly of Frostburg (Garrett County), to one year in jail for a charge of manufacturing marijuana. Ten months of that sentence was suspended, and Dawson will be on one year of supervised probation after he serves the remaining 60 days.

According to Welch, Dawson was charged after officers with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force executed a search warrant at his residence in February and seized 46 marijuana plants from Dawson's basement bedroom.

Comptroller Urges Deliquent Taxpayers To "Seek Amnesty"

Comptroller William Donald Schaefer is urging qualifying Garrett County residents to help their county meet its budgetary needs by "Seeking Amnesty." Only seven days remain from today in the state's second tax amnesty program, which expires Thursday, Nov. 1.

"The painful events of Sept. 11 should be a wake-up call for anyone who may have thought that their taxes don't matter," said Schaefer. "The importance of state-funded emergency response is absolutely clear. Maryland must be ready to provide for public safety and emergency response, and that depends on the collection of revenues to fully fund those programs. While a renewed sense of patriotism is sweeping the nation, I would hope that people consider paying taxes they owe to the state of Maryland as part of their civic duty."

Delinquent Garrett County taxpayers owe, on average, $1,684, making up less than one percent of all delinquent taxpayers. Garrett County's largest overdue account totals $23,884. A successful Amnesty program could bring in $897,938 for the county through local income tax collections.

The following taxes are eligible for Tax Amnesty:

- personal income tax;
- employer withholding tax;
- sales and use tax; and
- admissions and amusement tax.

Schaefer warned that those who fail to take advantage of this amnesty period face stiffer fines and possible jail sentences if they don't pay. Individuals and businesses failing to settle delinquent state taxes during the Tax Amnesty period face legal actions that could include criminal consequences. Effective Nov. 1, fines will increase from $5,000 to $10,000 for each violation, and there are also provisions for up to five years in jail.

Taxpayers who have failed to file a return or pay eligible tax liabilities due on or before Dec. 31, 2000, or have under-reported taxes due on or before that date are eligible for amnesty. Taxpayers under criminal investigation by the Attorney General's Office, a state prosecutor, or a state's attorney are not eligible for amnesty from criminal prosecution.

As provided in legislation passed earlier this year by the Maryland General Assembly, the Comptroller's Office will begin an aggressive enforcement effort using new, state-of-the art technologies that will greatly enhance identifying and locating taxpayers who neglect to file or under-report income, sales, or withholding taxes. In addition, the Comptroller's Office will add audit, enforcement, and collection personnel and will increase criminal prosecutions.

The Comptroller's Office has attempted to notify those eligible for the Tax Amnesty program about how much they owe in back taxes and interest and the amount of penalty to be avoided under the Amnesty program. Over 315 notices have been sent out to Garrett County residents. In addition, a widespread advertising and public relations campaign urges those eligible to "Seek Amnesty."

The only previous Tax Amnesty period in Maryland was held in 1987. "Maryland taxpayers should have no expectation that Tax Amnesty will be offered again," Schaefer said. "Delinquent taxpayers should come forward and take advantage of this limited opportunity."

Schaefer noted that revenues from amnesty-eligible taxes provide funding for the state's public safety operations, including the Maryland Emergency Management Agency, the Maryland State Police, the Military Department (Maryland National Guard), and the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services. These revenues also support the programs of other state departments providing emergency response such as Health and Mental Hygiene, Environment, and Agriculture. Additionally, the state provides funding to local governments for public safety, including police aid and civil defense.

Revenue collected during the Tax Amnesty period will be distributed as follows:

- $2 million for hiring additional tax compliance and enforcement personnel and for publicizing the amnesty program;
- $8 million to provide grants for public education;
- $10 million to the Volunteer Fire Company Assistance Fund; and,
- $30 million to the state's General Fund.

To obtain a Tax Amnesty application and tax forms, persons may call the Comptroller's Office toll-free at 1-800-MD-TAXES, or consult the comptroller's web site at www.marylandtaxes.com. Garrett County taxpayers may also contact the Garrett County office at 301- 334-8880.

THANKS TO THE EFFORTS of Accident resident Leah Brenneman, and the support of a number of businesses and individuals, the town will have Christmas decorations in place for the holiday season for the first time in at least 45 years. Leah brought the idea to a meeting of the mayor and town council in June and offered to spearhead this project, and the response was so enthusiastic that $5,000 in donations was collected in just two months. The funds were used to purchase 19 large wreaths with lights, delivered last week, that will be suspended on the utility poles in the town. A dedication of the new decorations will be part of the "Christmas in Flowery Vale" celebration that is scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 8, when the town tree will also be lighted. Mrs. Brenneman is pictured above right with (from left) Linda Margraff, Ruth Ann Hahn (town clerk and manager), and Joanne Durst.

Meeting Reset For Discussion Of Youth Center

A meeting to obtain public input concerning the development of a youth center in Garrett County is slated for Thursday, Nov. 1, at the Broad Ford Elementary School cafeteria, beginning at 7 p.m.

This meeting was originally set for Oct. 30, but had to be rescheduled because of various conflicts.

Local officials and the general public are encouraged to attend this forum to express their ideas and opinions on the subject.

For more information, persons may call Yvette Nutter at 301-334-1223 or Carol Newman at 301-334-4605.

Bricks Available To Residents Of Deer Park

Sidewalks bricks in memory or honor of past and present residents of the town of Deer Park are now being sold by the Garrett County Historical Society. The bricks will be used to create a segment of sidewalk between the Deer Park Hotel gazebo and the newly completed replica of the Deer Park Hotel porch, located in Dailey's Park adjacent to the society's county museum in downtown Oakland.

According to society president Robert Boal, the bricks will carry only the names of present and past residents of Deer Park, as well as those of anyone who was in any way connected to the Deer Park Hotel. The cost of the bricks range from $25 to $35, depending upon the number of lines of type desired.

Application forms to purchase bricks are now available at the museum, and also from Robert Moore, 302 Church Street, Deer Park.

"We believe this is a very worthwhile project," Boal said. "It will help us continue to keep this important piece of Garrett County history alive."

A Near Disaster...

Impending disaster for the Autumn Glory Festival was averted yesterday when the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce board of directors rescinded its decision of last week to move the 2002 festival from the second to the first full weekend of October. By a vote of the board yesterday, following an outcry from various organizations, the regular time slot for the festival was restored.

The idea to change the dates of the festival was a bad one, or at least a short-sighted one. It seems that the board members suffered from what we hope was a temporary bout of tunnel vision. Granted, there was some credence for considering the change. When the festival weekend happens to be the same as the Columbus Day weekend, one of the two lucrative weekends is essentially lost. The overlap also causes a tourist influx of such magnitude that it is difficult to serve adequately. There is not enough housing, and the restaurants are taxed beyond their capabilities.

However, there was evidently no consideration of the scheduling ramifications of moving the festival. The AGF is but one in a series of area festivals, the remainder of which are all longer established (Forest, Buckwheat, Springs Folk, etc.). Each festival has its time slot in the series, and any disruption of that series would create a severe wounding of not only the festival that has been rescheduled, but also to the one that already has that slot. All of the entities, organizations, and individuals who actually make the festival what it is — the bands, the vendors, the crafters, fire departments, the antique dealers, the Shriners, and many others, not to mention the people who attend festivals — would be placed in a huge dilemma as to which festival to choose.

We can hear our chamber board now if, say, the Buckwheat Festival organizers in Preston County decided to move the dates of their event to the second weekend of October.

Anyway, we are pleased and appreciative that the board members reversed their decision, and we believe that Ken Wishnick, chamber president (but not a voting member, by the way), has the right idea — establish a festival board/foundation to coordinate, finance, and oversee the event. Coordination of the festival is a huge burden on the chamber staff, and also on the chamber directors. The new organization should certainly include chamber members, but also representatives from many of the other organizations that annually play a major role in the festival.

Even though the festival was founded as a promotional event for the county, it is now much more than that. It has become a broad-based community tradition, a homecoming, practically a legal holiday, at least for the southern half of the county. We would also like to see it expanded more into the northern half.

The commissioners were among those opposed to changing the festival dates, so perhaps they could come up with some seed money to get the foundation off the ground. A part-time professional could be hired as director. Local businesses and individuals would be invited to be AGF Foundation members by making an annual donation to the cause, and the proceeds of the kickoff dinner would go to the foundation, which would allow county government to not have to finance the event after the first year or two.

There was some attempt to organize such a foundation two years ago, but it didn't materialize, which is why we believe we need a paid director to get the ball rolling. At least let's check out how the 65-year old Forest Festival in Elkins, W.Va., which drew an estimated 175,000 people this year, is coordinated.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

It was with a great deal of pleasure that I read your article regarding the youngsters who took part in the tennis lessons sponsored by MLP-YAC.

As a member of the Mountain Lake Park Tennis Club, it is especially gratifying to see our historic courts, which hosted the 80th annual Western Maryland Championships, being used for such a worthwhile purpose. When the proposition for court use was brought before the club, there was total agreement. In addition, a club member knew of a quantity of youth size tennis racquets and made them available for use by the boys and girls.

I hope this is the start of a lifetime of enjoyment in a sport that can be played for a lifetime, and I look forward to seeing them on the courts for a long time to come.

Sincerely,
David DeGrafft

To the Editor:

I could not agree more with your editorial. I am a veteran and I, too, am shocked with the media, who find an excuse to give all our secrets to our enemy. Why is this necessary? I have yet to figure that out. Quite a few reporters think nothing of giving out secret information they may find while working a story. I find this disgusting. Don't we teach the value of keeping certain information secret? Is it that hard to figure out?

There is no "need to know" by the general public to have this information, but it is certainly welcomed by the bad guys. Let's stop it.

To the Editor:

The Maryland Army National Guard had, by far, the best color guard ensemble. The judges must have been blind to have placed them second. Anyway, we, the public, know the true winner of that little competition.

I also want to express my sincerest gratitude to the Oakland Armory. Another fine year of Antiques Show. An exceptional showing of force by the soldiers. A huge, successful "bunker" featuring awesome food, vehicles, and professional, yet personable, men and women military personnel.

I especially wish to thank the person who organizes virtually the entire event — Lt. Joseph Shaffer. He's one great community member, civilian worker for D.S.S., and great soldier. What an asset to our county. He's always ready to lend a hand. When he was on the active duty "heightened security" alert, I had contact with him a few times. He's helpful, professional, and knowledgeable. Give that man a promotion or a huge award or something!

Sincerely,

To the Editor:

Wow! What a nice parade. Great bands, cool Shriners' cars, talented twirlers! But, I have to say, in my opinion, it was the Maryland Army National Guard that stole the show! Their parade display of equipment, float, marching camouflaged soldiers, and color guard was phenomenal! They had my kids so excited, they are counting the years until they can join! Good for me — they can get a fully paid college degree out of this!

The entire crowd was on their feet for them. They deserve the standing ovation they received. Veterans were brought to tears by the patriotic display. The older veterans were yelling out to get the soldiers' attention so they could show them various patches, pins, and insignias that represented their branch of the military, etc. I hope our community honors them and appreciates them just as much when this anti-terrorism war is behind us.

We need for these soldiers to know how much we revere them in times of war and times of peace. Thanks, Army Guard, for your dedication to my, and my family's, protection. I'll never forget you, your parade brigades, or your bunker display, which was awesome for my kids! Keep up the terrific job.

To the Editor:

Many years ago American industry and distributors of consumer goods began to abandon a dictatorial style of management in favor of a more democratic approach by using the term "associate" in reference to employees, finally recognizing that a "team effort" is necessary to achieve true marketing success. The leaders of volunteer companies in Region One could learn a valuable lesson from these "captains of industry." Unfortunately, that does not seem to be the case.

Not long ago, one of these leaders was said to have stated to the membership of his organization that no letter would be forwarded to the newspapers without his expressed approval, an obvious attempt to short circuit the basic constitutional right to freedom of speech. We all thought that Hitler had died in the war. One of his first moves to control was to remove this basic human right.

All who would rule have the same fear — publicity that will expose their methods and defeat their purpose. However, on the other hand, the use of honesty, fairness, and integrity would bring the opposite result, letters of praise for the leadership and for the organization, which would operate in a more efficient and compassionate manner. As we confront the hidden enemy, Terrorism, I hope we will all find that cooperation combined with a sense of duty is the right way to go and will actually bring that measure of success that leaders desire but try to achieve in the wrong way.

To the Editor:

Having read the news article and editorials, and speaking with Ronnie Padmos of Community Action, I have learned our elderly citizens are in desperate need of our help. The Meals on Wheels program serves 150 elderly clients a home-delivered hot meal five times a week. Because of the loss in grant money, the five days are being cut back to three days a week. Some of the clients are stretching their one meal into two days so they have something to eat the days meals are not delivered.

The cost for a home delivered meal is $5.25. The clients are asked to pay whatever they can, if they can. The average payment per meal is 82 cents. The cost to feed one client five hot meals a week for one month is $105.

These are our mothers, fathers, aunts, and uncles. They are Garrett County's family. We have come to the aid of our nation's recent tragedies. Now we must come to the aid of our own family. I am asking you, your organization, group, club, office, or class, to "Feed a Friend" for a month. Your contribution to Meals on Wheels would help that friend receive a very basic right — to sustain life through a nutritious meal.

Please send your contribution to: Meals on Wheels, 104 E. Center Street, Oakland, MD 21550. Mark your calendar for the Meals on Wheels fund-raiser on Friday, Nov. 16, at the Grantsville Senior Citizens Center. Call Ronnie Padmos at 301-334-9431.

To the Editor:

On Sunday, September 23, my husband and I were traveling east on Rt. 135 between Swanton and Luke. At approximately 11:30 a.m., we experienced a flat tire going down the steep slope of the mountain. At this point there was very little shoulder. I became very concerned, knowing that my husband, who is 74 years old, was going to have to change the tire.

However, as we pulled off as far as we could get, our prayers were answered. As soon as we got out of the car, there were three young men in their 20s in a pickup truck that pulled over in front of us and backed up. They asked us if we wanted them to change the tire, for which we will be forever grateful. They unloaded the trunk of our luggage and other items, got out the doughnut tire, and changed it in no time at all. They worked together so well, we felt like we were in a NASCAR pit stop.

After changing the tire, they put everything back in the trunk and even gave us directions to Wal-Mart in Keyser, since the tire had two large holes in the side and we needed a new one. My husband tried to pay them, but they would not accept any money for their help and said maybe someone would stop and help them someday. We did not get their names, but they said they were from Oakland.

We want to thank them publicly and hope they see our letter in your paper. They were certainly "Good Samaritans," and we hope that if any of them have trouble on the road, someone will stop and help them. These three young men certainly were the answer to our prayers that day. God was there with us in those young men.

Once again, we say a big "thank you" and may God bless you young men always.

To the Editor:

During the past couple of weeks, articles in The Republican, Cumberland Times-News, and the Baltimore Sun have highlighted the difficulties faced by Community Action's Area Agency on Aging to provide an adequate level of meal service to our frail homebound elderly. We greatly appreciate the coverage The Republican has afforded the situation through articles and your recent editorial.

As was stated, the Meals on Wheels service was reduced from five to three days per week, which translates to 15,000+ meals. The agency, however, is working diligently to secure the funds necessary to restore the Meals on Wheels service to the 150 frail elderly affected by the reduction through a large fund-raising effort. One of the events scheduled to raise funds is an evening at the Grantsville Senior Center, offering hors 'doeuvres, wine and beer tasting, special music, and the screening of the Emmy-award-winning documentary Images of Maryland. An extensive mailing list was developed in order to invite persons to "Make a Difference" by purchasing a ticket for the event. The ticket donation price is $50 per couple and $25 per individual. Although the agency has sent invitations, anyone in the county who would like to aid our frail seniors is encouraged to purchase tickets or make a donation to restore the Meals on Wheels service to five days per week. Our goal is to raise $50,000.

At this time I would like to address some misconceptions about the program.

OCTOBER 25, 2001

SURVIVOR XXX
by Richard Hill

Recently my friend Mary McEwen wrote a column for this space giving her impressions of a high school reunion she attended, ending with the advice that if one is given an opportunity to attend a reunion, one should surely do so. That advice firmly in hand, I jumped into the waters of my own high school reunion, and discovered that the hazards were not as clearly marked as Mary let on. A rapidly aging baby boomer might wish to proceed with restraint.

There were to be two sessions. One a Hawaiian Luau (Hawaiian was spelled wrong on my ticket, I noted — an ominous sign) on Saturday evening, and an orgy of crab on Sunday. So far so good.

The reunion was held outdoors at a small beach club near my high school in Baltimore. I approached the gate with a vague feeling that I was beginning to shrink. A couple arrived ahead of me, and another couple followed me in. I did not recognize them. I would not recognize anybody unless I stared at their face. How was I to do this without appearing insane, or at the very least, discourteous ("that man keeps looking at me!")? Here was unknown hazard number one.

Two women guarded the entrance, one of whom had a delicious Baltimore accent ("hawara, hon?"). They instantly recognized the two couples, and I was immediately sandwiched in a riot. They gave me a rather grim scrutiny. The woman with the accent turned out to be the organizer of the event and remembered my wife (who did not even attend my high school), but did not remember me. My papers were processed and another stranger handed me a "Hawaiian lei" constructed of fat, plastic flowers that when worn effectively obscured all nametags.

There were only a few folks in the pavilion, and I gave them each a hard stare that turned to a goofy grin if we made eye contact. So far, faces rang no bells. A man with white hair and goatee started a pleasant conversation with me, bless his heart, by announcing that he did not recognize anybody here. (This became a well-worn statement throughout the evening.) We chatted briefly, discovered no common past and moved on. This weekend was not about new relationships — it would be a frenzy of old friendships or die in the attempt.

I headed east and hit paydirt. I found Dave, my fellow embarrassment to the athletic department. He told me he vaguely remembered me (not at all) and invited me to sit with him and his wife (go away!). Again we conversed pleasantly, but like the first drops of rain, the conversation was gradually and then more frequently interrupted by Dave's friend sightings. Each friend hugged Dave, then his wife, then turned to me with outstretched arms, stopped short and gazed at me with confusion.

It dawned on me that I had discovered hazard number two. This gathering was breaking down into companies not based on high school groups, but on elementary school groups. Here I was at a disadvantage. My friends from the time of elementary school all went to the Catholic school (including my wife-to-be). My chances of finding the odd-ball public elementary school acquaintance were slim to none.

But it happened.

I spied a woman who grew up in my neighborhood. We were playmates, briefly, but did not keep a close relationship after that. There was no joy-and-tears reunion, as I was still pleasantly involved otherwise, and did not wish to abandon my present situation until the flavor had all gone out of it.

Before arriving at the reunion I armed myself for conversation with two fascinating facts about myself. Number one: I live in Garrett County. Number two: I am involved with theatre. These tidbits, surely, would cause anyone to swoon with excitement just knowing that a man could live such a fantasy existence. I resolved, however, to bring out the heavy guns only if directly asked about it.

Somehow in the whirlwind of the food line Garrett County was mentioned. A woman behind me (a friend of Dave) with a man I took to be her father (it was her husband) told me they have a house on Deep Creek Lake. Garrett County residents who meet outside the county tr to bring the conversation around to winter and its grea character-building opportunity. I fulfilled this requirement. The couple told me they spend winter in the Bahamas. This was the tidbit they were waiting to drop on someone. It was wasted on me — I do not admire the complicatio of spending a lifetime chasing the perpetual month c June.

The crowd had fleshed out somewhat as I sat to ea but I still saw no ripples worth casting my line into. Dave' wife was very cordial and asked me questions about m family and theatre (bless her heart, too).

I went to fetch a cup of coffee and saw my childhoo friend in an animated conversation with a short man wit white hair. I felt it was a bit early to use my wildcard, bu felt the stirrings of desperation. I elbowed my way ove and asked: "Are you Mary B.? She looked at me, lowere her lids slightly, scrunched her eyebrows and said, as if i answer to a surprise quiz: "Richard Hill." This was the fir time all evening I had heard my name spoken.

Our conversation was mostly one sided (hers), an chock full of divorce, death and illness sprinkled with few mutual memories — all slightly disturbing. I showe her a picture of my kids, but she did not have her glasse Her companion turned out to be the high school ban teacher, but I did not take band. He remembered my ol er brother, however. Hazards three through ten.

I had reached the core of this apple. I scanned th crowd one last time, but with the feeling I get when I a up late with someone else's remote control. I hope th the next channel will have something that interests me. invaritably does not, but it smacks of defeat to give u and go to bed.

The gods of irony were restless that evening. To g past the gate I had to pass a small group. There he wa the one person I least wanted to see — Charlie (hazar eleven through one hundred) — the hoodlum who cause me more periods of episodic embarrassment and humili tion than any other person in high school. As I passed saw him turn and give the side of my head a glance, b heard no response. The fact that he was now bald cause me little glee. My need for nostalgic stimulation h passed. All I wanted now was a decent conversation a a chance to lick my wounds.

The friend with whom I was staying smiled when I r turned much earlier than I had planned. We went o back to his picnic table and smoked cigars, laughed abo old times and talked about the meaning of life. Everythi I really wanted was in his backyard. I felt like Dorothy

If you are in high school now, it is best to plan for t future, today. Go back to your elementary school and o tain the records of everyone you ever knew and pla them in a fire-secure safe. Then plan to attend every r union possible if your goal is to enjoy the 30th, where t pickings will certainly be thin. It is all in proper grou work. You have to watch the rocks.

I returned home on Sunday, missing the continuati of festivities. While the rest of the class ate crab, I ate r ticket.

RIDING IN CARS WITH BOYS

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 2:12 - Released 10/19/01

Riding In Cars With Boys tells the autobiographical story of author Beverly D'Onofrio, a girl who wanted to be a writer but was forced to put her life on hold when she became pregnant in 1968 at age 15. Adapted for the screen by executive producer Morgan Upton Ward (from D'Onofrio's book of the same name) and directed by Penny Marshall, the film stars Drew Barrymore and Steve Zahn doing some of their best work to date, but is somewhat marred by Barrymore's apparent inability to keep a straight face. I have complained about this before; it's not that I think she is a poor actress—in fact I find her extremely talented and quite charming—but the fact that she can't get through a scene, no matter how serious the subject matter, without smirking, is distracting and difficult to ignore. This is especially annoying here because this film, a serious story about a woman who had to face many hardships growing up alongside her own child, contains little to laugh about.

The story begins in Wallingford, Connecticut, in 1961, where a 10 -year-old Bev (Mika Boorem) is seen riding in the cruiser with her policeman father (James Woods), together singing the Everly Brothers song "Dream." After this tender relationship is established, we segue to the 35-year-old Beverly (Barrymore), estranged from her father and her ex-husband, riding to New York City with her college age son, Jason (Adam Garcia). This is a big day for her. "Life is just 4 or 5 big days that change everything," she says to him. And then we return to the late '60s, on another "big day," when an ill-advised romp in a boy's car results in a major life change. Although she had wanted to go to college and become an author, Beverly must marry and settle down. Ray (Zahn) is not her ideal man, but he is the father of her child.

The intervening years of Beverly's life play out much in the same way as It's A Wonderful Life, with one opportunity after another passing her by, usually because of the needs of her growing boy (played by several different young actors) and/or the delinquency of her well-meaning but irresponsible and eventually drug-addicted husband. She attempts to get her high school equivalency degree, she tries to get into college, she dreams of moving to New York or California, she commiserates with her best friend Fay (Brittany Murphy), all the while caring for Jason as best she can and dealing with Ray's failure as a morally responsible human being.

Although this film deals with the depressing minutiae of a life unfulfilled, it does not dwell on Beverly's misery. She is painted as a self-absorbed and emotionally immature young woman who is concurrently raising and being raised by her own child, but there is enough tenderness and true caring on the part of all the characters to win our sympathy. Zahn is subtly charming as the loving loser he portrays, we understand what Bev sees in him even though he does her wrong time and time again. The little boys who play Jason are all honest and believable, especially Logan Arens (age 3) and Cody Arens (age 6), who radiate cute and yet don't push it so far as to be cloying. Along with Barrymore and Zahn, they share some heartbreakingly touching moments. Meanwhile, Barrymore, who apparently re-established communication with her own estranged mother, Ildiko Jaid, as a result of filming this movie, grows into the role, transforming with only minor discomfort from a giggling teen to a jaded, middle-aged woman. She and director Marshall have created something here, a bittersweet comment on a life that didn't go as planned.

But still there's the smirking. Dammit. ★★★★

BANDITS

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 2:02 - Released 10/12/01

From director Barry Levinson comes Bandits, a thoroughly enjoyable romantic caper comedy about a pair of "odd couple" bank robbers whose long but tumultuous friendship is threatened when they both fall in love with their willing but emotionally unbalanced female hostage. It stars Bruce Willis, Billy Bob Thornton, and Cate Blanchett as the members of this uncomfortable and crime-enhanced love triangle, and they all give engaging performances, imbuing their quirky characters with all manner of psychological issues uncommon in traditional crime stories. Also responsible for the film's success is writer Harley Peyton, whose choice to start at the end and use flashbacks to tell the story, carefully giving us only certain details along the way, leads to a clever and immensely satisfying twist ending. Peyton, whose past screenplays have been criticized for being overcomplicated (Keys to Tulsa), has apparently learned how to simplify, because Bandits works as a well-rounded, character-driven story with a minimum of excess fat.

We first find our heroes, fiery and recklessly impulsive Joe Blake (Willis) and intelligent OCD sufferer and hypochondriac Terry Collins (Thornton), a.k.a. the "sleepover bandits," in the midst of a badly deteriorating raid on the Alamo Bank in Los Angeles, which, as it turns out, is the last job they'll ever do. Although they have succeeded many times before and become nationally famous for their polite demeanor and their unconventional habit of spending the night at the bank manager's home before each robbery, this one's not going well at all. With the LAPD and SWAT teams accumulating outside the building and a successful escape looking more and more unlikely, they begin bickering about each other's role in their downfall, and specifically about whose decision it was to let Kate (Blanchett) join the team. It is Kate, you see, who turned them in to the cops.

At this point we leave the scene and begin learning the boys' history, both through flashbacks and by seeing bits of a nationally syndicated interview they gave the night before the ill-fated Alamo robbery. We see first their daring escape from prison, their joint fantasy of retiring to Acapulco to open a night club, and their decision to "sleep over" before each robbery and force the manager to let them in the bank before it opens, avoiding the complications caused by the presence of employees and customers. After a few such jobs, they begin to achieve local notoriety. But then they meet Kate. A depressed woman trapped in a loveless marriage, Kate is accidentally abducted by Terry and is forced to stay with the bandits for one night at their hideout. Recognizing them and becoming enthralled by the danger of the situation, she soon falls in love with both men, each for different reasons. However, her involvement as a sort of modern-day Patty Hearst, and the continuing coverage of the TV news show Criminals At Large, elevates the bandits' fame to national standing, which puts a serious hamper on their ability to do their job.

These three actors are all remarkably enjoyable in their roles, with Willis essentially playing straight to Thornton's and Blanchett's neuroses; each of them is developed with enough depth to be funny characters without giving the film the sense of a full-blown comedy. The three have a tendency to ground each other, resulting in a peculiarly elegant chemistry. Also noticeable is the surprisingly nice camera work by two-time Oscar-nominated cinematographer Dante Spinotti (L.A. Confidential, The Insider). While Bandits doesn't have the level of character Levinson achieved in his debut, 1982's Diner, it will still serve. Get it? ★★★★

First, the community sometimes thinks the program is a convenience for seniors. This is not the case. The program provides a hot mid-day meal to frail elderly who are unable to safely prepare a nutritious meal for themselves due to compromised health. Only individuals who need the service receive it. Second, people do not understand that recipients are encouraged to make a contribution toward the cost if they are financially able; however, the receipt of a meal is not contingent upon a contribution. The average contribution is approximately $.70. Third, although the agency receives federal, state, and local funding, it is insufficient to operate such a costly program. Funds for the 2002 operating year (Oct. '01 - Sept. '02) total $71,000. In addition, the agency receives a USDA reimbursement of $.56 per meal for each meal served. This year's budget, including projected USDA and client contributions, is $106,100. To provide meals five days requires a budget of approximately $182,000. Finally, many people assume that the family should shoulder the responsibility for their elderly. Unfortunately, many of our clients do not have family residing in the area, or their family members are not able to provide the necessary support their parents or elderly relatives require because they work and/or in many cases do not have the financial resources to do so.

One might wonder who the clients are. The typical recipient is female (74%); the average age is 76; 68% or more reside alone; the majority are at serious nutritional risk due to chronic health conditions and medication intake, most taking four or more medications daily; the majority require assistance with three or more activities of daily living; and approximately 85% are low income. They are our mothers and fathers, our grandparents, our aunts and uncles. They raised families, fought for their country, lived through the Depression, shaped the country, and helped build Garrett County into what it is today. They deserve our respect, our compassion, and our help.

We implore the community to support the people who have made the country and the county great. Your donations can make a significant difference — $25 = 6 meals, $50 = 11 meals, $100 = 22 meals, $150 = 33 meals, $200 = 44 meals, $500 = 111 meals, $1,000 = 222 meals, and $2,000 = 444 meals.

To make a donation or to purchase tickets for the November 16 fund-raiser at the Grantsville Senior Center, send checks to the Area Agency on Aging at 104 E. Center St., Oakland, MD 21550. For additional information, call 301-334-9431, ext. 137, 138, or 140.

Respectfully,
Adina Brode, Director
Area Agency on Aging

SECOND GRADERS HELP WITH HOPEFEST — Students in Lori Otto's second grade class at Accident Elementary recently decorated bags which will be on display at the fifth annual Autumn Hopefest on Saturday, Nov. 10, at Will O' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake. The bags will hold tickets for the very popular Chinese Auction, in which attendees at the Hopefest can purchase tickets to win various items donated by local merchants. A drawing will take place at the end of the evening, with all prizes to be given away and all proceeds benefiting the House of Hope. A silent auction will also be held at the event. Some of the donated items include an autographed photo of Baltimore Oriole Pat Hentgen, an oil painting by local artist Freda Quintero, plus items from Cobblestone Alley and Expanding Horizons. The House of Hope, located in Oakland but serving all of Garrett County, is an ecumenical and non-denominational organization relying solely on donations. Neither soliciting nor accepting government funding, the House of Hope provides flexible, individualized and immediate aid to those in crisis. Tickets for the Hopefest may be purchased at Brenda's Pizzeria and Isabell's Coffee House at Deep Creek Lake, Just Us Styling and Animal Crackers Pet Grooming in Accident, and Marvin's Men's Wear in Oakland. Tickets are $30 each, and will be sold by advance purchase only. Seating at the event is limited.

Firewood Buyers Reminded To Be Wary Consumers

With the onset of cooler autumn weather, many Maryland residents are turning on their furnaces and stocking up on wood for home heating. While the U.S. Department of Energy is predicting that home heating fuel prices will be lower than last year, and the supply is adequate to minimize the risk of price run-ups if very cold weather patterns emerge, consumers will still purchase wood for their home-heating needs.

"Anyone buying or selling wood for use at home should be familiar with regulations governing the measurement of firewood so that consumers get what they pay for," said Hagner R. Mister, secretary of the Maryland Department of Agriculture, which regulates the sale of firewood through its Weights and Measures Section.

"Many people will use wood to heat their homes or to enjoy a warm, bright hearth on a cold winter's night. It is important that any Maryland resident buying firewood understand the way it is measured and that any person selling firewood in Maryland know and follow the law."

Maryland regulations require that firewood sold in the state only be sold by the cord, or fractional parts of a cord. Any other term, such as truckload, rack, face cord, or pile, is illegal. "Most consumers do not understand the meaning of a cord, or they are unaware of the many ways wood can be stacked to look like a cord when it isn't," said Louis Straub, chief of weights and measures. "If the seller uses a term other than a cord or a fraction of a cord, consumers should be suspicious."

A cord is the amount of wood stacked and stowed in a well-compacted manner in a space of 128 cubic feet. When properly stacked, the individual pieces of wood are in a line, parallel to and touching each other. Cubic feet are calculated by multiplying the width of the stack by its height and length. A typical stacked cord would be four feet wide by eight feet long by four feet high (4x8x4=128 cubic feet), with no internal gaps.

Bulk sales of firewood must be accompanied by a delivery ticket containing the date of delivery, the name and address of the seller and buyer, the quantity of wood delivered, the cost of the wood, the type of wood delivered, and the license number or other identifying number of the vehicle that transports the wood. Any seller who refuses or is reluctant to provide complete information should be considered suspicious.

Straub recommends that wood be delivered and stacked when the buyer is home if possible so that he or she can promptly measure the stack with a tape measure and determine the correct quantity is received. If the buyer cannot receive the delivery in person, he or she should measure the stack as soon as possible.

"We have already had a few calls from consumers this year with concerns that they did not receive a full cord of wood. We recommend that consumers contact the seller immediately if there appears to be any discrepancy and attempt to resolve the matter," Straub said. "If the seller can't or won't correct the problem, consumers should call us before burning any of the wood."

The Weights and Measures office in Annapolis can be reached by calling 410-841-5790 or 1-800-492-5590.

Bloodmobile To Visit Oakland

The American Red Cross bloodmobile will be at the Proctor Kildow Post 71 American Legion hall, located along Memorial Drive in Oakland, on Friday, Nov. 2. Donors will be welcomed from noon to 6 p.m.

In order to be eligible to donate blood, a person must be at least 17 years of age, weigh at least 105 pounds, be in generally good health, and not have donated for at least 56 days prior. Persons desiring more information may telephone the ARC at 1-800-361-9481.

CHILDREN LEARN ABOUT FIRE PREVENTION — Accident Elementary School students, from pre-kindergarten through first grade, learned valuable fire prevention tips from Paul Custer, safety officer, Jerry Maust, training officer of the Accident volunteer Fire Department, and Sharon Custer of the Outreach Program for the Garrett County Health Department, in recognition of Fire Prevention Week. In the above photo, Custer and Maust show Accident's new fire truck to the students, and to Ms. Bittinger and Ms. McKenzie, teachers.

Battery Change Recommended For Smoke Detectors

The Office of the State Fire Marshal has issued a reminder to Maryland residents to change the batteries in their smoke alarms. Non-working smoke alarms rob residents of the protective benefits home fire safety devices were designed to provide. The most commonly cited cause of non-working smoke alarms is worn out or missing batteries.

"Changing smoke alarm batteries at least once a year is one of the simplest, most effective ways to reduce tragic death and injury from fire," said State Fire Marshal William Barnard, adding that working smoke alarms cut the risk of dying in a home fire by nearly half. The fire marshal also noted that the International Association of Fire Chiefs (IAFC) recommends replacing a smoke alarm every 10 years.

The State Fire Marshal's office, the IAFC, and Energizer brand batteries are cosponsoring a "Change Your Clock, Change Your Battery" campaign. The program urges all Marylanders to adopt a simple, lifesaving habit — change smoke alarm batteries when changing clocks back to standard time each fall, this year on Sunday, Oct. 28.

"Working smoke alarms provide an early warning and critical extra seconds to escape," Barnard stated. "This is particularly important for those most at risk of dying in a home fire, such as children and seniors." The Fire Marshal also recommended that citizens use the "extra time" they save from the time change to test smoke alarms by pushing the test button, planning "two ways out," and practicing those escape routes with the entire family.

For more information on fire safety, persons may contact the Office of the State Fire Marshal at 1-800-

DNR Forest Work Plan Discussion Set For Saturday

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources has slated a public meeting for this Saturday, Oct. 27, at 10 a.m. at the New Germany State Park lakehouse to unveil its proposed fiscal 2003 work plans for the Potomac-Garrett and Savage River state forests. Citizens on hand will have the opportunity to discuss and comment on the plans.

The plans will be available at the meetings, at state forest headquarters, and on-line at www.dnr.state.md.us/publiclands. Public input will be accepted through Monday, Dec. 3, and should be directed to the state forest office for each plan.

BUCKWHEAT DINNER AT MAPLE SPRING

An annual buckwheat cake and sausage dinner will be held at Maple Spring Church of the Brethren on Saturday evening, Nov. 3, from 4 until 8 p.m.

AHS CLASS OF '76

The class of 1976 of Aurora High School had its 25th anniversary reunion on Saturday evening, Oct. 13. The dinner was served by the Aurora VFD Ladies Auxiliary at the fire hall.

The contents of a time capsule that had been unearthed earlier in the day was opened and revealed.

Those attending were Bernie, Ethel, and Seth Ritchie, Ephrata, Pa.; Rosalie (Simmons) Hedrick and Jamie of Davis; Delora (Kope) Baker, Pete, Ethan, and Deidra, Terra Alta; Teresa (Forman) Meaney and Michael, Gaithersburg, Md., and her son, A.J. DeLauder, Terra Alta; Ronnie and Cathy Jones, Parsons; Angela (Knotts) Howdershelt, Reedsville; Nancy Wiles and Michael Schifano, Bruceton; Danny Rumer and Marcia (Strawser) Rumer, and Cheryl (Goff) Skipper, Amboy; Kathy (Roth) Stemple, Steve and Renee Shaffer, Allen and Charlotte Strawser, and Cynthia (Wilt) Bachtel and Carl, all Horse Shoe Run; Bob and Peggy Spaid, Rick, Shirley, Charles, Elizabeth, and Debra Lipscomb, Robin (Sisler), and Gary Feather, Brad, Chris, and Alicia Shaffer, and Delores (Knight) Harsh and Ronnie, all Eglon; Mike and Sue Myers, Jeff and Sandy Myers, and Nancy (Kifer) Poling and daughter, Laura Thomas, all Aurora.

100TH BIRTHDAY

Grace (Bolyard) Heishman of Mt. Jackson, Va., celebrated her 100th birthday with an open house on Sunday, Oct. 21. She is the eldest of the 10 children of the late Thomas E. and Mahala Ann Bolyard, and her only surviving sister is Gertrude Stemple of Aurora. Along with Mrs. Stemple, those attending from here were her children, Ron and Pat Stemple of Oakland, Mary Kowalkoski and her son Jordan, Joe Stemple, and Nancy Sisler, all Aurora.

90TH BIRTHDAY

Family and neighbors of Floyd Knapp gathered Sunday at Cortland Acres Nursing Home for a party honoring his 90th birthday which was Tuesday, Oct. 23.

AURORA CEOS

Seventeen members attended the Sept. 18 meeting of the Aurora CEOS at Union Ambulance squad hall. Gail Rose read "A Thanksgiving Prayer" and closed with prayer.

Ressie Conrad spoke to the group concerning skin cancer.

Delores Douglas asked members to bring recipes, pictures, or other information about Nepal to the October meeting and to continue to collect soft drink can tabs and prescription bottles, these efforts of the Continuing Education Committee. Family Chairman Wilda Stemple reported on the cancer wreath-hanging at Kingwood, and stated that pink ribbons for cancer would be distributed to churches. On Oct. 2, the club had information and ribbons at the post office.

Helping with school activities will continue to be a community project for the club. The 75th anniversary garnered many visitors and was considered successful. A holiday bazaar is set for Jackson's Mill on Nov. 10 for which the club will be making hard tack and peanut butter crunch.

At the Buckwheat Festival, the club helped with car ticket sales on Sept. 29 and displayed an educational exhibit. There are 53 quilts on display at the community building for the Sept. 30-Oct. 28 show.

Members decided to participate in the Santa Tree program. A CEO member of the year will be selected in October and the annual dinner for Christmas is set for Dec. 8 at the squad hall. Opal Myers is responsible for providing decorations for Christmas at the community building. A microwave cooking class is scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 28, at 10 a.m., at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building.

Janice Tackett opened the Oct. 16 meeting by reading "The Hay," and ended with a prayer. Fourteen members were present.

Dean Sisler's lesson was about grandparents who rear their grandchildren.

Continuing Education Chairman Dee Douglas shared facts about education, religion, and employment in Nepal. She was assisted by other members. Martha Bolyard attended this committee workshop at Jackson's Mill fall conference. Family Committee members announced that cancer ribbons had been distributed in seven churches. Chair Wilda Stemple also attended the fall conference workshop for her committee. Marketing and Membership was represented at Jackson's Mill by chairman Opal Myers who said that securing new members is to be the emphasis for the year.

It was new member Mildred Teets who attended the hanging of the wreath for cancer awareness held at Kingwood in September. More helpers are needed to complete the time for the quilt display hours. A covered dish dinner was held Oct. 20 at Brookside for the guest coming to speak on quilt preservation. On Oct. 23 the club attended the cooking by microwave class in the morning, then spent the afternoon making candy at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building.

The club's Buckwheat Festival educational exhibit was awarded a third-place white ribbon. A thank you note was received from Jean Slagle, thanking the club for its aid in selling car tickets.

Lesson topics were selected and members will be providing 13 gifts for the Santa Tree. Virginia Martin was selected as CEO of the year. An auction is planned for the Nov. 20 meeting to be held at 1 p.m. at the squad hall. Dean Sisler was winner of the pig-in-the-poke. Alice Penzo read the vice president's feature, "The Binch (not Grinch) of Bin Laden." An embroidered quilt made by her mother, her aunt, and herself was displayed by Martha Bolyard. Alta Slaubaugh did the quilting.

Those responsible for November are: lesson, Opal Myers; devotions, Dean Sisler; and special feature, Delores Douglas.

50TH ANNIVERSARY

J. Rogers and Elizabeth Fike celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Saturday with a family dinner at Penn Alps. On Sunday morning, Oct. 21, they were surprised when all of their children, Carl, Rodney, Andrew, Jeffrey, Cynthia, and Lisa, except for son Matthew — were in attendance at Maple Spring Church. Matthew's three-week old son, Jonas, had reportedly been very ill and had just been released from the hospital Saturday evening. Several of the spouses and grandchildren, along with Rogers' sister, Reva and Ronald Findley, his sister-in-law, Faye Fike, and Elizabeth's sister and husband, Alice Mae and Gary Bookout, joined with the congregation for a covered dish dinner culminating with wedding cake.

UNION DISTRICT WOMEN TO MEET

The Union District Women will meet Friday, Nov. 2, at noon at the Stemple Ridge Church for World Community Day. Church Women United sponsors this ecumenical worship service.

A pot luck lunch will begin at noon. Bread, drinks, and tableware are provided by the host church. The speaker and program will follow at 1 p.m.

PERSONAL MENTION

Aaron Layman of Buffalo, N.Y., spent the weekend at Eglon with his mother, Lois Layman, and also visited in Fairmont with friends.

Dale Stemple of Aurora received a badly fractured forearm last week during a logging accident.

Chad Arnold of North Carolina was a weekend visitor with his parents, Clifton "Buck" and Deanna Arnold, at Aurora.

Carolyn Wotring and Sue Roberson, Aurora, went to New York City this weekend where they attended a live stage performance in which Melanie Roberson was participating.

A Sunday evening song fest at the Maple Spring Church featured choirs from Brookside, Gortner, Texas Bethel and the host churches, along with congregational singing.

Harry Cullers of Massachusetts visited with his sisters here, Dayton and Betty Bolyard, and Robert and Bonnie Harsh, both Eglon.

TERRA ALTA

LIBRARY NEWS

The Terra Alta Public Library will sponsor its annual Fall Book Sale again this year beginning November 5. Most books will sell for 10¢ each, while there will be new books on display for Christmas gifts or for any occasion. The sale will run through November 16.

Members of 4-H had displayed their Buckwheat Festival entries in the library for two weeks. There was a wide variety of different categories that the members chose to do. Ribbons of red, white, green, and blue were won by several students.

A sign-up sheet for the Community Chorus is on the bulletin board at the library. Anyone wishing to volunteer for this can sign up or get other details from the library. The deadline for signing up is November 4.

The new book return is in front of the library now. A 700 Silver Slot Security Cabinet will hold all returns when the library is closed.

Donating reading materials to the library recently have been: Linda Testerman, Albert Ossman, Ruth Snes, James Price, Cathy Clutter, and Nancy Neff.

Veterans Day Dedication Set For AMVETS Post

American Veterans Mountaineer Post 37 will be dedicated in Terra Alta on Veterans Day, Sunday, Nov. 11, with a 2 p.m. ceremony and ribbon cutting at the facility, located at the old town hall. Lt. Col. Robert Kincade, commander of Camp Dawson, the Kingwood detachment of the West Virginia National Guard, is the featured guest speaker, and several state and local officials have been invited to attend. A 50/50 drawing will be part of the day's events, and tickets are currently available. (See end of story.)

AMVETS Post 37 is the organization's fifth post in West Virginia, and already has approximately 40 members. "AMVETS is not well known in the area," said Post 37 commander Charles Levy, former Maryland state AMVETS commander. "It's the fourth largest veterans organization in the country and growing. As long as you've served one day in the military after World War II you can be a member. I'm part of the DAV (Disabled American Veterans), American Legion, and VFW (Veterans of Foreign Wars), but my heart's more into AMVETS."

AMVETS works to preserve all veterans' rights, earned entitlements, and services, and Levy noted that the organization is especially noted for its support of hospitalized veterans. "We believe that the men and women who have served our country and are now hospitalized shouldn't be forgotten. A number of them aren't receiving regular visits from family members, or have no family members to visit them, so AMVETS goes to Veterans Administration hospitals to keep them company and cheer them up.

"Myself and Crellin resident Howard Gerard, along with a small group of others, spend a lot of time at the VA hospitals in Clarksburg and Martinsburg. We visit with the guys, help them write letters, take them outside the building to get some sunshine and fresh air, all the little things most of us take for granted when we're healthy and are surrounded by loved ones. Some of those guys have no one other than the other patients on their ward to talk to, especially someone who's been through some of the tough things they've been through in the military and in combat."

Levy, who has been voluntarily transporting veterans to the Clarksburg and Martinsburg VA hospitals for 20 years, is working to obtain grants for two Post 37 vans, one handicapped accessible, that he and other AMVETS members will use to transport veterans to VA hospitals and local doctors.

AMVETS' mission is not limited to veterans, however, as the organization works to involve members in a variety of charitable community activities. The Vets Helping Kids program asks veterans to collect donations of toys and money, which are forwarded to the Salvation Army for distribution to children at Christmas. Levy said that Post 37 intends to provide funding for the Terra Alta Public Library, the area food bank, and Paws With a Cause, a program that trains assistance dogs for the disabled.

The recently renovated post building will also provide an office for a local representative of the National Alliance for the Mentally Ill (NAMI), once someone is found to fill that position. "Many vets, especially of the Vietnam War, suffer from some sort of mental illness," said Levy. "We want to provide them with a place to go and a trained person to talk to in their own community."

The AMVETS Post will host organization meetings and social events, and has a large hall available for rent for outside functions. At this point the hall has tables and chairs for 40 persons, but the space allows for a number three times that size.

For further information on AMVETS Post 37, or to purchase a ticket for the 50/50 drawing, persons may visit the post at 100 East Washington Avenue from 9 to 11:30 a.m. weekdays, or call Levy at 304-789-2667. Tickets may also be purchased the day of the post dedication.

Craft Show Set At Potomac State

The sixth annual Potomac State College Holiday Festival/Craft Show will be held Saturday, Nov. 3, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Dana G. Lough gymnasium at PSC in Keyser. This festival features crafts of all kinds, homemade foods, and entertainment. It is held each year to raise money for Toys for Tots in the Mineral County area. Last year $1,200 was raised.

For more information, persons may call 304-788-6906 or 304-788-6905.

Thank You

We want to thank everyone for supporting our annual Autumn Glory Breakfast Buffet fund raiser on Saturday, Oct. 13, 2001.

GCHD Offering Classes To Help Smokers Quit

A free multi-session Tobacco Cessation Program has been slated by the Garrett County Health Department (GCHD), beginning with an introductory session on Thursday, Nov. 15, at 5:30 p.m. at the new Garrett County Community Health Center located along Memorial Drive.

"Tobacco-related illnesses are the greatest Number 1 preventable cause of death in Maryland," said Mike Wilburn, GCHD tobacco cessation coordinator. Wilburn noted that 19.2% of Garrett County adults smoke cigarettes and 6% use smokeless tobacco products, according to the Maryland Adult Tobacco Survey conducted last fall. A similar survey of youth revealed that 22.1% of Garrett County youth reported smoking cigarettes and 8.6% use smokeless tobacco products. In the case of both youth and adults, Garrett County tobacco use rates were higher than the state average.

The overall Tobacco Cessation Program is composed of two parts, the 90-minute "No-Nag" introductory class, followed by a six-session cessation class. The introductory class will be facilitated by Fred Herath, program director of the county's Substance Abuse Program. That initial meeting is a "no-pressure" session designed to explain the stages of change associated with quitting tobacco use.

The actual six-session Tobacco Cessation course will meet twice a week for three consecutive weeks beginning Monday, Nov 19, at 5:30 p.m. The meeting dates of the remaining five sessions will be decided upon by a vote of the participants. Wilburn will facilitate each 90-minute session, covering topics designed to help participants understand nicotine addiction, develop strategies to help them quit, and identify feelings they might be experiencing during the quitting period. Nicotine Replacement Therapy (Nicoderm CQ patches) will be available to participants who set a "quit" date.

ONE TIME WHEN QUITTERS WIN (and the rest of us) is when tobacco users stop lighting up or rubbing snuff. To encourage county residents who are trying to quit, the Garrett County Health Department is sponsoring a free muiti-session Tobacco Cessation Program in Oakland beginning Nov. 15. The program facilitators are GCHD Tobacco Cessation coordinator Michael Wilburn, above left, and Fred Herath, director of the Garrett County Substance Abuse Program. To register for the Tobacco Cessastion Program persons may call 301-334-7730.

"This program has been a long time in coming," said Kendra Todd, director of GCHD's Health Education program. "The Tobacco-Free Coalition has been advocating for a cessation program of this nature for several years now, and we are pleased to finally make it happen. Coincidentally, the Tobacco Cessation Program will kick off the Great American Smoke Out [also Nov. 15]. What better time to quit?"

November's Tobacco Cessation Program is offered as a result of funds received from the Cigarette Restitution Fund Program. For further information about the Tobacco Cessation Program or to register for the classes, persons may call Wilburn at 301-334-7730, or call that same number and ask to be put in touch with the Community Outreach Worker for their area.

BUCKWHEAT CAKE AND SAUSAGE SUPPER

The November community center dinner will be held Nov. 10, starting at 4 p.m. "All-you-can-eat"buckwheat cakes, pancakes, and sausage will be served. Carolyn Livengood is chairman. Cost is $5 for adults and $2.50 for children.

GIRL SCOUTS

The weekly Girl Scout meeting is held on Monday evening from 6 to 7 p.m. at the Swanton Community Center. Rita Savage leads the Juniors and Cadets. With the help of the rangers at Deep Creek Lake State Park, the juniors completed their sky search badge. Kim Sweitzer is the leader of the Daisies and Brownies. A Halloween party will be held Monday, Oct. 29. Orders are still being taken for candy, nuts, and magazines until Monday. Any girl in grades kindergarten through ninth grade is encouraged to participate in the scouting program.

DEER COUNT

Rob McBee, owner of the Swanton Grocery Store, reported 90 deer were checked in during the three-day muzzleloader season. Last year, the count was 110. The bow kill was 108, compared to 150 last year.

PERSONALS

The family of Stan and Fran Ford is back in town. They reside in their new home off Pine Hill Road with their children Ryan and Anna. Their oldest son Lenny is now stationed in Guam with his wife and daughter, Crystal and Raven.

Tammy Whitacre and Sandy Johnson hosted a welcoming party for the Ford family on Aug. 24. Those attending the housewarming were: Bonnie and Norman Thurston of Baltimore, Kathy and Gary Davey, Dave and Mary Wilson, Dawn and Kelsey Eichorn of Walnut Bottom, Lenny, Crystal, and Raven Ford of Guam, Michelle and Gayle Richter of Deer Park, Anita and Nicole Upton of Deer Park, Jeannette Steyer of Deer Park, Patsy Stewart of Oakland, Teresa and Elizabeth White of Kitzmiller, Gail Armstrong of Kitzmiller, and Ellen Calhoun of Kitzmiller.

Carrie Lohr of North Glade and Ethel Hines of Keyser, W.Va., were part of an Oct. 13-20, tour group of 57 people with Bollman's Charter Service. They traveled 2,325 miles to Branson, Mo. Roy Clark's show was one of their favorites.

Ireta Sweitzer was a dinner guest of her daughter Sonya and Charles Craver on Sunday, Oct. 14, at their home in Oakland. Other guests were: Andrew Craver, stationed with the Air Force in Black Hills, S.D., Shawn, Angela, Luke, and Elizabeth Craver of Hagerstown, Aleric Craver of Oakland, John, Brent, and Justin Furr of Oakland, and Bud Craver and his family from Mt. Morris, Pa. This is the first time the Craver brothers Aleric, Shawn, and Andrew have been home together for five years.

Shawn Craver was the winner of the "Old Timer's" Claw Hammer Style Category in the Maryland State Banjo Contest at Southern High School on Oct. 13.

It is cider-making time! Approximately 35 gallons of cider were pressed at the home of Orval and Mareva Teets on Tuesday, Oct. 16. The workers were Orval, Joe Browning, Sharon Lohr, John Livingood, Jim Lohr, and Lewis Lohr.

Visitors of Orval and Mareva Teets this week were Bob and Fannie Rizer of Bloomington, and Lawre, Zack, and Hannah Virts of Chestnut Grove.

Brenda Graham of Prince George's County was a guest for Autumn Glory breakfast at Amy Sweitzer's home on Sunday, Oct.14. Derv James also visited Amy Sweitzer.

Visitors of Helen Winters on Autumn Glory Saturday, Oct. 13 were her daughter, Barbara Sweitzer, her grandchildren, Andrea Sweitzer of FSU, Jason, Jeff, and Regina Sweitzer, Kim and Tim, Kara, Lyndsie, Elizabeth, Rebecca, Amy, and Michael Rush. Also visiting from New Market were Bud, Elizabeth, and Maggie Winters.

Orval Teets went to the Railroad Retiree's breakfast Oct. 18, at the Shrine Club in Cumberland.

Fannie Rizer celebrated her birthday by going shopping and out to lunch with her daughter, Wandell Feaster, of New Creek, W.Va.

The Mt. Top Gospelaires sang at the Cuppett-Weeks Nursing Home on Oct. 20.

Former residents of Swanton, now residing at the Cuppett-Weeks Nursing Home, are Ildra Friend Frantz, Helen Durst Friend, and Francis Gilpin Sweitzer.

The family of Betty O'Brien made apple butter outdoors on Saturday in the copper kettle at the home of her daughter Rita and Ron Savage. The workers were John and Carolyn Livengood, Steve and Christopher Miller, Jason Miller, Lori Filsinger, Jane and Brandon Robinson, Bob and Brenda O'Brien, Danny O'Brien, Misty, Bernard, and Mariah Moon, Heidi, Cody, and Cheyenne Harvey, Leota Savage, Lonnie Bray, and David Lee of Baltimore. Their yield was approximately 28 gallons.

Barbara George Miller hosted a birthday dinner for her husband Ron at their home in New Creek, W.Va., on Saturday. Those in attendance were Tom George, John and Betty George, and Dave and Mary Wilson, Swanton, and Evelyn and Joe Cowatch, Ernest and Virginia Miller, Steve Iser, and Rick and Wendy, Kourtni, Kurtis, and Khristopher High, all of New Creek.

Jerry and Neil Smith of Virginia Beach have been visiting with Jerry's sister Carol and Ray Sweitzer this week. Their nephew, Gary McClung, and his family also visited with them on Saturday. Saturday evening, Oct. 20, they listened to gospel music and shared refreshments at Ray and Carol's home. Others present were: Amy and Artie Sweitzer, Marty Dunkin and Jim Miller of Frostburg, Martha and Ernie Martin of Shaft, and Al and Joan Evans of Bel Air.

OTTERBEIN UM CHURCH

Virgie Cosner, mother of Millie Rexrode of Swanton, died on Oct. 22. Visitation is set for this evening, Thursday, Oct. 25, from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Durst Funeral Home. Her funeral will be Friday, Oct. 26, at 1 p.m. at the Durst Funeral Home. Interment will be in the Terra Alta Cemetery.

Richard Lee, age 35, died Oct. 19 in the Keyser hospital. He is survived by his parents, Alvin and Marge Lee, his wife, Brenda, and two children, Ricky and Trisch. Visitation will be at Smith's Funeral Home in Keyser today, Thursday, Oct. 25, from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. The funeral will be Friday, Oct 26, at 11 a.m. in the Assembly of God Church on Maryland Ave., Westernport.

The Church Choir and Prayer Meeting group sang and visited at the Goodwill Nursing Home in Grantsville on Oct. 16. There were approximately 13 people in the group.

Eight churches of the South Garrett Parrish attended the Parish Revival, Oct 19-21, at Bethel UM Church in Mtn. Lake Park. The speaker, Rev. Clifford Schell, is the district superintendent of the Wesleyan District of the WV Conference of UM Churches. During Sunday morning worship service, Rev. Schell filled Pastor Ball's pulpit. There were several visitors from Kitzmiller, where Rev. Schell served his first church.

Bill and Carma White extend an open invitation to an open house at Kitzmiller Community Center in celebration of their golden wedding anniversary this Sunday, Oct. 28, from 1 to 5 p.m.

The Administrative Board Meeting was held Oct. 17. Orval Teets read the scripture, and had the opening prayer. Linda Lee Teets Fleming directed her last board meeting. She has served as chairperson since 1992. There will be no regular business meeting for the months of Nov. and Dec. The following dates were confirmed: Nov. 1 is All Saints Day, and the church will honor all of its saints on Nov. 4; the Burlington Booth Festival will be Nov. 3; the Thanksgiving service will be Nov. 20 at 7 p.m.; the church Christmas dinner will be Dec. 9 directly after church; and the Christmas program will be Saturday, Dec. 22, at 6 p.m.

The annual meeting of the UM Women of the WV Conference was held at the First UM Church in Princeton, W.Va., on Oct 19 and 20. Grace Lee, Dottie Beckman, Wanda Maphis, and Mary June Harvey attended. While there, they toured two projects of the UM Conference — Glenwood Retirement Village Park and Mary's Cradle.

LAYING HIS RELIGION ON THE LINE, Roy Bourgeois, a Purple Heart-decorated military veteran and Catholic priest who founded the faith-based SOA Watch, will speak at West Virginia University's Mountainlair Ballroom at 7 p.m. this Sunday, Oct. 28. The human rights group lobbies for greater oversight of the U.S. military's School of Americas (SOA), which trains Latin American military officers, some of whom have been tied to numerous incidents of torture and killings of poor peasants, indigenous persons, clergy and religious workers, and anti-dictatorship activists (some Communists, many not) throughout Latin America. Among the atrocities documented by independent United Nations investigators are massacres of many hundreds of unarmed civilians, and religious workers of many denominations, in Honduras, Guatemala, and El Salvador. Located at Fort Benning, Ga., the SOA is funded by American tax dollars, and staffed by U.S. military officers. For more information on Bourgeois's appearance, which is free and open to the public, persons may contact St. John's University Parish on the WVU campus at 304-296-8231.

Important New Use for An Old Medicine

Some diagnostic tests (CT scans, X-rays, and angiography) require the injection of radiographic contrast dye into a vein to create a good image of the body and certain organs. In some people, however, the use of these dyes has been linked to kidney problems. Contrast dye-associated kidney problems are a cause of renal insufficiency or complete kidney failure in some hospitalized patients. People at highest risk are those with congestive heart failure, dehydration, diabetic kidneys, presence of other medicines that are toxic to the kidneys, or preexisting kidney problems.

A recent study has shown that in high-risk patients, giving the drug acetylcysteine (Mucomyst, Mucosil) along with adequate fluid can help prevent diagnostic dye-associated kidney damage. Acetylcysteine has been around for long time. It is a safe, inexpensive medicine commonly used in the form of an aerosol for respiratory conditions or orally as an antidote for acetaminophen (Tylenol) overdoses. The metabolism of acetylcysteine in the body produces antioxidants and free radical scavengers. It is these antioxidants that are thought to prevent the kidney damage associated with injected dyes.

Oakland Update

by Mayor Asa McCain

BROADFORD PARK

Dave Beard was our park director, and he wanted to make sure that we thanked all of those people who helped to make Broadford Park an enjoyment this summer. I would like to recap the summer, as we work this fall and winter toward next year.

Our staff made every effort to accommodate those who used the park to make their visit more enjoyable. They reopened the Broadford Concession Stand. The snowcones, cotton candy, and popcorn were a huge success. This will be a sure thing next year. They made numerous repairs throughout the summer in anticipation of next year. We hope that the number of visitors to the park continues to increase in 2002.

The Fourth of July celebration was of course the highlight of our summer. So many generous people helped to make this event a success. On behalf of the town of Oakland, I would like to say "Thanks" to each one who contributed.

Broadford Park was fortunate enough to get a grant from the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families. This was through the Maryland After School Opportunity Program. We were able to purchase new equipment through this grant to enhance the variety of activities at Broadford Park. We are always looking for ways to help entertain our children and youth.

With hunting season arriving, we would like to remind everyone that hunting is not permitted in the park. In addition, ice-fishing is prohibited. As the winter season approaches, the park will officially close. We would like to encourage those who enjoy walking at the park to continue. We would ask that you help protect the beautiful facility by immediately reporting any signs of vandalism or suspicious activity.

BRICK SIDEWALK

For those who missed the first and second rounds of ordering bricks, there will be one more. We have a limited number to sell this time. At the present time, there are only 90 bricks left to be sold. Don't wait too long!

The second round of the engraved bricks has now been installed. The response has been overwhelming. Thanks so much to all of those who purchased a brick, and also to all of those who worked hard at getting the sidewalk completed before Autumn Glory. The sidewalk looks great.

FALL FOLIAGE TRAIN

The annual Fall Foliage Train visited Oakland again this year. Although the leaves were no longer at their peak, those riding the train had a great time. Thanks to all of those who helped with this. We certainly have great volunteers who helped put on a good show for Oakland, Mtn. Lake Park, and the surrounding area when the foliage is on display.

COMMISSIONERS PRESENTED WITH KITZMILLER FLAG — Nancy Brady, mayor of Kitzmiller, presented a Kitzmiller flag to the Garrett County commissioners on Tuesday. Mayor Brady told the commissioners that the flag was to show her appreciation for the support that they have given the town over the years. The flag was designed by Kim Brady, a former resident of Kitzmiller, and contains four elements that represent some of the town's distinctive features and heritage: Wilson's Mill, a miner's pick and shovel, the Potomac River, and a church. Shown in the picture above, left to right, are Commissioner Fred Holliday, Commissioner Wendell Beitzel, Brady, and Commissioner Ernest Gregg.

New Arrivals

A daughter was born September 28 at Garrett County Memorial Hospital to Richard and Jodie White Kisner, Oakland.

Thomas, a veteran volunteer with the program, is now the overall coordinator of the family-volunteer distribution, and she will be working closely with Lisa Broadwater, Roberta Andersen, and Bobbie Henderson, all volunteer managers. These managers have worked with the program for years as well, with Broadwater as the Ames coordinator and Andersen and Henderson as the Penney's Store coordinators.

"It's wonderful when people like these women step in to help out. They are all so eager and so dedicated to the program. It makes things a lot easier for everyone involved," McEwen said. The Civic Club of Oakland, to which Henderson and Andersen belong, has been a key player in the project for three years, with several members regularly volunteering to be shoppers.

To donate to the program, persons may send their tax-deductible contributions to The Republican newspaper, with checks made out to Warm the Children, at P.O. Box 326, Oakland, MD 21550. The advertisement containing the cut-out coupon can be found in today's issue on page B-9. The ad will be published each week. Persons are asked to make their donations no later than Nov. 30. Money received after that date will go toward next year's effort, McEwen said.

To volunteer to be a shopper, persons may call Thomas at 301-387-6203, Andersen at 301-334-4459, Broadwater in Grantsville at 301-895-5827, or McEwen at The Republican office, 301-334-3963. Volunteers are always needed and welcome, McEwen said.

"Some of our regular volunteers say that taking a child shopping for clothes and boots makes their own holiday season far more meaningful," she said.

Parents who feel their children qualify for the program are urged not to call any of the noted persons or agencies to ask for service. Letters will be sent out to identified families over the next few weeks, McEwen said, and persons are asked to be patient.

"We try our best to serve people who do not already get lots of public assistance," she said. "We want to help those people who are 'falling through the cracks' of the system. They will be given priority over those who are already receiving help from other worthy programs. Our volunteers are working hard to get to the people in need, and those who make repeated phone calls to ask for the service actually jeopardize their chances."

Donations to the program are already coming into the newspaper office, McEwen noted. "We really want to thank people who donate to this program," she said, "and we hope they know that every penny they give will eventually benefit a child in need."

Pleads Guilty

at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

A pre-sentence investigation report was ordered by Judge James Sherbin. Messenger's bond was revoked, and he is being held in the Garrett County Jail until his sentence hearing, which could be within 30 days.

After Messenger entered his plea, Sherbin then had the eight jury members, who had been selected on Tuesday, brought into the courtroom. The judge explained to the jurors that their services were no longer needed because Messenger had pleaded guilty, and that, based on the facts presented by the state, he considered the plea fair to both sides.

Welch reported that her decision to accept the plea to the manslaughter charge, which was encompassed within the first-degree homicide charge, was "based on my considerations, including the expected testimony of numerous witnesses, the desire to limit appeal issues, and the effect of a lengthy trial on the victim's family. Most importantly," the state's attorney explained, "the maximum possible sentence for the three charges is, cumulatively, 60 years."

Sharyn Burch had one daughter and lived in Mountain Lake Park. She was the daughter of Michael Bruce Burch, Deer Park, and Carol Jane Metz, College Park. She was also the granddaughter of William and Vennie Metz, College Park, and Jerry and Jane Burch, Mt. Storm, W.Va.

Meyers' Last-Minute Heroics Give Rams Another Huge Win

For the second week in a row, the underdog Southern High School varsity football team recorded a huge victory in the final minute of the game over a highly rated opponent, as the Rams topped Hampshire High School, 34-28, Friday evening in Oakland. The Trojans came to Oakland with a 7-1 record and the state's most productive running back, having been upset the previous week by Beall.

The previous Friday night, the Rams shocked every football fan in the area by defeating previously undefeated, triple-A Martinsburg, 14-13, on the final play of the game, and it was senior tight end Bryson Meyers who made the game-winning catch of Tobi Stoner's "Hail Mary" pass as time expired. This time it was again Meyers who scored the winning points with just 45 seconds to play, but it was from his defensive position, as he picked off a Dan Alkire aerial and returned it 45 yards for a touchdown.

The victory improved the Rams' overall record to 3-4 and, more importantly, gave them a fistful of bonus points to keep their playoff hopes alive. The Rams are currently tied for eighth place in the state in the Class 1-A rankings, and must be among the final eight to be awarded a berth. West Virginia history was made on the SHS athletic field, as Hampshire running back Brian Wright needed to score just 11 points to break the all-time high school scoring record in the state. He scored two touchdowns to accomplish that feat.

The Southern defensive unit did an effective job of keeping the powerful Wright contained throughout the first half, while the Ram offense built a 20-0 lead. Finally Wright and running mate Alex Lee got on track midway through the third quarter, as the Trojans seized the momentum following a Southern turnover and proceeded to knot the score at 20-20 with three touchdowns scored in just over five minutes.

Senior back Chad Panther set the stage for the Rams' highly successful first half, as he returned the opening kickoff 64 yards to set up the first touchdown of the game. Joel Helbig capped the brief drive with a three-yard touchdown run at the 9:55 mark, and Panther booted the extra point.

Two possessions later, the Rams doubled their lead when Helbig crashed over the goal line from the two, and Panther kicked the conversion to make it 14-0 with 1:02 left in the first quarter.

After stopping the Trojans again on their next possession, Stoner engineered a third scoring drive and capped it himself with a two-yard TD run with 7:16 remaining in the first half. The kick for the extra point was just wide, leaving the Rams with a 20-0 advantage at halftime.

Turnovers, which plagued the Rams early in the season and literally cost them two or three victories, returned in the third quarter, setting up two of the three Trojans' touchdowns in that period. Wright and Lee capitalized on the momentum shift, as they began to break through the Ram defense for some major gains.

Lee broke the scoring ice for Hampshire with a three-yard touchdown run at the 7:57 mark. The pass for the two-point conversion failed.

Lee quickly put his second six-pointer of the night on the board, as he picked off a Stoner pass and raced 35 yards just over two minutes later (5:48). The run for the conversion failed, leaving the Rams with a 20-12 advantage.

A fumble by the Rams on their next possession set up the Trojans' third touchdown, which was scored by Wright on a 14-yard run. Lee then carried successfully for the crucial two-point conversion, which tied the score at 20-20 with 2:50 left in the third quarter.

Southern fans sensed victory when Stoner wrapped up another drive with a one-yard scoring dive and a two-point conversion run with just 3:44 remaining in the game to put the Rams up 28-20. However, Wright quickly cancelled that effort, as he returned Panther's ensuing kickoff 84 yards for touchdown and set a new state scoring record. Lee ran successfully for the conversion to knot the score once again, 28-28.

The next Southern drive was stopped, and with less than a minute to play with the Trojans in possession rather deep in their own territory, it appeared that the contest would most likely go into overtime. However, Meyers, running at full speed toward the goal, yanked Alkire's pass out of the air and raced untouched to the end zone to give the Rams the win. The pass for the conversion failed.

The Trojans had 45 seconds to try to score, but time expired on a long pass play, with the ball sailing over the head of the intended receiver.

The Rams finished with a 323-269 edge in total offensive yardage, with Steve Skipper leading the way with 113 yards on 22 carries, while Helbig amassed 85 yards on 16 carries. Wright and Lee, who are the two top ground gainers in the area, recorded 169 and 160 yards, respectively, on 26 and 13 carries.

Senior Brad Palmer and Helbig led the Southern defensive effort with 16 and 11 tackles, respectively.

Southern head coach Fred Gregg said that a pattern seems to be developing. "It seems that all we have to do is stay close and then wait for Bryson to win the game!" he said jokingly.

"Once again we had a number of guys finish with impressive individual stats, but the key to our success lately has been the vast improvement of our line play, both offensively and defensively," he said.

"I was also most proud of our players when they bounced back after that disastrous third quarter," he said. "It certainly wasn't because we quit trying or thought that we had the game won. In nearly every game you experience some rough times, but good teams keep playing hard no matter what. They work through those rough times, and try to keep them at a minimum."

The Rams will, for a change, no doubt be the favored team in their clash this Friday with Tucker County in Parsons, W.Va., as the Mountain Lions have managed just two wins in nine games, but Gregg said, frankly, that taking them lightly will result in another Ram loss.

The Lions' offense is anchored almost entirely on the passing game, as junior quarterback Jake Bava (6-0, 165) puts the ball in the air 35 or 40 times every week, most of the time from the shotgun position.

"Bava is a very good quarterback," Gregg said. "He's just perfect for their system. He is used to having a host of receivers on almost every play, and he has such a quick release that, from the shotgun position, it's tough for defenses to put a lot of pressure on him. Our defensive backs (Stoner, Panther, and Ricky Curry) and our outside linebackers (Skipper and Meyers) are going to have to stay on their toes all night."

The Lions' running game is paced by senior Josh Arnold (5-10, 171), who is also often a receiver. "They move him around all over the place," Gregg said.

Bava's favorite receivers are senior David Gsell (5-9, 140) and senior tight end Adam Wilfong (6-3, 165).

"They are huge up front, too," Gregg said, adding that the Tucker line is anchored by a huge senior guard in 6-0, 330-pound Jeff Helmick and junior Evan Supak (6-1, 260).

The Lions utilize both 4-4 and 6-2 defensive formations. "They are very aggressive and they like to blitz," Gregg said.

The Rams' playoff hopes are not overly bright, but it is essential for them to win their remaining three games in order to have a chance.

Following Tucker County will be Fort Hill in Oakland and then Northern.

In looking back at some of the Rams' losses to teams that are probably not as talented, Gregg said, "We lost those games, but we learned invaluable lessons in the process. Of course, you'd like to learn lessons and win at the same time, but that sometimes doesn't happen. So we don't look back. We just try to learn from our mistakes in order to get better every week."

Gregg said that the Rams continue to be "generally healthy." Friday's kickoff at Tucker County High School is set for 7:30 p.m.

RUNNING THE BALL is so much easier when all of the defenders are lying flat on the ground, which is what Southern High School's Steve Skipper enjoyed on this particular play against the highly touted Hampshire High Trojans last Friday evening. Skipper was the rushing workhorse for the Rams, as he finished with 113 yards on 22 carries to pace the Rams to a huge 34-28 upset victory. In the photo below, Ram defenders converge on Hampshire's Alex Lee, the area's second leading rusher, who scored 14 of his team's points and rushed for 160 yards in a losing effort. Lee's teammate, Brian Wright, the area's leading rusher and scorer (#22), set a new West Virginia state scoring record in the game. He needed 11 points to set the mark, and he scored 12. Southern Golfers Place Ninth In State 2A/1A Championship

The golf team of Southern High School competed in the Maryland State 2A/1A Tournament this week at the University of Maryland College Park, and the boys' squad recorded a ninth-place finish in a field of mostly much larger schools. Pikesville took the crown with a 642, six strokes under J.M. Bennett's 648 and nine below Towson's 651.

SHS recorded a team score of 704. Matt Skidmore paced the Rams with a two-round combined score of 152 (76, 76), while teammate Nathan Swartzentruber carded a 161 (77, 84). Travis Friend shot a 186 (98, 88), and Andrew Feather tallied a 205 (102, 103). The boys' individual low-medalist for 2A/1A play was not reported.

Southern's Natalie Winter, playing in the girls' individual tourney, shot a 195 (99, 96), good for the top 20. Smithsburg's Ashley Grier led the 2A/1A girls with a 157.

"We had a great year, and I'm real proud of all our golfers," Ram head coach Jeff Friend commented afterward. "Despite losing one of our top golfers last year to this year's football program, we missed the region title by just one stroke and made it to the state tourney.

"Our last-place finish at College Park is a little deceptive, because the other 2A/1A programs we were up against were a lot stronger and more experienced, and it was evident they've had a great deal of help both on and off the links. The golfers at Southern and Northern, while benefiting greatly from the cooperation we get from the Oakland Golf Club and the Wisp Golf Resort, have done a lot more on their own than other golfers, and their accomplishments are that much more commendable."

The coach added that he is doubly excited about the Rams' prospects for next season, for the entire squad returns and several fine younger players are expected to join the program. "I think we have a real good chance to repeat our visit to the state tourney and improve our standing markedly," Friend concluded.

SHS Freshmen Flattened By Falcons, 35-0

The freshman football team of Southern High School was hammered by visiting and undefeated Frankfort (5-0) last Thursday evening, 35-0.

Corey Dolly completed four of five passes for the Falcons, including two for touchdowns. Tyler Oaks caught two touchdown passes, one from Andrew Lopez for 15 yards and one from Dolly for 35 yards. Dolly also fired a 29-yard scoring aerial to Mason.

Rushing for a pair of touchdowns was Phillip Haines, from seven yards and 19 yards. Haines recorded 55 yards on nine carries.

Defensive standouts for Southern were Matt Sweitzer and Michael Schmidl, while Nathan Metz, Josh Holler, Jeremy Whiteman, and Robby Ackerman paced Frankfort's defense.

Northern Slashes Through Vikings' Line In 17-8 Win

Northern High School's varsity football team took a victory Friday night as the Huskies rolled to a 17-8 win over the visiting Petersburg Vikings. NHS's rushing offense pounded away at the Petersburg line with 57 carries on the night, finding enough chinks in the Vikings' armor to roll up an impressive 254 yards on the ground. The visitors, by contrast, ran into a Husky stone wall that limited them to just 160 yards of rushing offense and not a single passing completion in nine attempts.

"It was nice to get a win; our guys worked hard in practice all week, probably the hardest they've worked since the season started," Northern head coach Phil Carr commented. "They wanted this one, and it showed. With what will probably be our three toughest games of the year just ahead, they needed a confidence-builder like this."

The Huskies had some obstacles to overcome to claim the victory, however. A 24-yard scoring run by Cheston Bachtel that capped Northern's opening drive was called back because of a holding penalty, as a referee's yellow flag made another one of its all-too-familiar appearances of the season. With the ball pushed back to the 39-yard line, NHS was subsequently forced to turn the ball over on downs and walk away with nothing to show for the effort.

Both teams remained scoreless throughout most of the first half, until with just 11 seconds to go Trey Brenneman boomed a 36-yard field goal-splitting the uprights dead-center. "It was an incredible kick," Carr remarked. "Trey had another 15 yards of distance on the ball; it would have been good from 50 yards or more. He's pretty consistent in practice from the 40s, but we just haven't had many opportunities for him to kick this year."

Inside linebacker Joel Resh turned in Northern's defensive highlights of the fourth quarter, picking off two passes to shut down any threat of a Petersburg comeback. The first one, just a minute after the stanza opened, stopped a Viking drive dead in its tracks. The second pickoff came with only a few seconds remaining in the game, when Resh yanked down a Petersburg pass at the Viking 12 and returned it to approximately the one-inch line. Mitchell sneaked into the end zone from there as the final horn sounded, giving NHS its final nine-point advantage.

Northern's 254-yard rushing tally was spread evenly throughout the backfield. Bachtel led the Huskies with 59 yards on 14 carries, Mitchell collected 50 yards on 14 carries, and Andrew Frantz contributed 49 yards.

Carr had high praise for the running performance and for his defense. "Joel and Jordan Brenneman both had great games," Carr commented of his inside linebacker duo. "We switched over to a 6-2 defense, going for speed over power. Joel and Jordan held down the inside just behind the line, and we put two outside linebackers out on the corners to give us some good pursuit. That shut down Petersburg's outside game, which was their main threat."

Carr said the defensive troops will continue with the same alignment tomorrow night at Beall, which has upped its record to 3-4 with two straight wins and has been in the thick of every game so far this season. Beall is a mirror team to the Huskies, running a wishbone option that makes pre-game strategy planning a little easier than usual.

"The Mountaineers have an excellent offensive line," Carr observed. "They are small but quick, come off the snap real fast, and move together as a unit very well. They also like to power the ball out of the wishbone more than we tend to, so our defense will have to really be up to speed."

Beall's defense will likely throw a 5-2 defense at the Huskies, with a lot of blitzing by the linebackers. Carr predicted that the Mounties will be loading the defensive line specifically to shut down Northern's fullback.

Mountaineers to watch include senior quarter Nick Durst (6-1, 190), one of the area's top half-dozen runners and a fine two-way player. "If we shut Durst down we have a good shot at winning," said Carr. "He's the key to their offense, and is also their leading tackler at his linebacker spot on defense."

Two of Durst's main supporting cast members on offense are sophomore halfback Mahlon Harper (5-8, 155) a true speed threat, and senior split end Ryan Harper (6-1, 215), who has good hands and a difficult prey to tackle when he has a head of steam. A defensive standout is senior defensive end Zach Roberts (6-1, 210).

The hurting Huskies are concerned with who they won't have at 100% on the field against the Mountaineers. Beall is healthy, while NHS has one incapacitated player and several walking wounded.

The NHS injury list, in part, reads as follows: Pete Stein, torn ligaments in an ankle, done for the season; Joe Garlitz, stress fracture of the foot, out for tomorrow's contest; Tommy Menges, broken hand, out for tomorrow; Aaron Mitchell, strained back, questionable; Dustin Wiland, broken hand and wrist, will play; John Beachy, broken hand, will play; and Danny Ganoe, broken wrist, will play.

Tomorrow night's kickoff in Frostburg is set for 7:30 p.m.

HEADLONG INTO THE VIKING GAUNTLET, Northern High School running back Cheston Bachtel (#22) is shown above making his cut into the smallest of holes in the Petersburg line during Friday's 17-8 NHS victory. The Huskies' ballcarriers poked and prodded the Vikings' armor for 254 yards on 57 carries. The Huskies' ground attack made it unnecessary to throw too often, but Northern's one pass completion in four attempts was captured on film as split end Kellen Baumgardner (#88) is pictured below after gathering in a seven-yard second quarter reception that kept a field goal drive alive. NHS is slated to visit Beall tomorrow night for a 7:30 p.m. contest.

Ravens, Buckeyes Garner Titles In Oakland League

The Ravens defeated the Redskins, 30-0, and concluded a perfect 8-0 season to win the championship in the NFL Division (tackle) of the Oakland Youth Football League on Sunday, Oct. 13. Taking the consolation trophy were the Raiders, who rolled over the winless Jets, 42-6.

The Raiders finished with a 3-5 record, while the Redskins concluded at 5-3 and the Jets, 0-8. All four teams were sponsored by the Oakland B.P.O. Elks Club.

Winning the league title in the NCAA Division (flag) were the First United Buckeyes, who ended their season with a 6-0-1 record. Finishing in second place were the Gregg's Pharmacy Mountaineers with a 5-1-1 mark, followed by the F.O.P. Fighting Irish and Pro-Fit Insulation Bears, who each recorded a 5-2 season.

The Gonder Insurance Tigers finished at 3-4, followed by the Team One Terps, 2-5; Rinker Construction Nittany Lions, 1-6; and TCI Cougars, 0-7.

Maddawgs Earn Berth In Pee-Wee Super Bowl

The Northern Maddawgs C team is headed to the Pee Wee Youth Football League's Super Bowl after a come-from-behind 32-26 victory over the Cresaptown Eagles. The Maddawgs take on the Frostburg Cougars in the league's main event Sunday at noon in Cumberland's Greenway Avenue Stadium at Fort Hill High School.

An impressive 11-play Northern opening drive against Cresaptown stalled at the Eagles' 13-yard line. Cresaptown used just three plays from that point to reach the Maddawgs end zone and take an early 7-0 lead. Northern went four and out on its next possession, giving the Eagles good field position in the process, and after another trio more Cresaptown plays the scoreboard was 13-0.

Three became the Maddawgs' lucky number on their very next possession, as on their third snap Alex Baker took a handoff and sailed 45 yards up the middle for a touchdown. The Eagles scored again six plays later, making the score 20-7. Northern then embarked on a more methodical march, chewing up the field in a 10-play scoring drive that Baker capped with a 24-yard touchdown carry up the left side that left would-be Cresaptown tacklers strewn about the field in his wake. The combatants took the 20-13 score into the halftime locker room.

The Maddawgs' defense turned into a stone wall in the second half, allowing just one first down and one touchdown. Northern's offense also stepped up, grinding out a 10-play scoring drive in its first possession of the stanza. Quarterback Jesse Lapp scampered into the end zone with an 18-yard touchdown keeper to pull Northern within one, 20-19.

The Maddawgs' defense shut Cresaptown down on its ensuing possession, forcing an Eagles punt. Five plays later Alex Baker scored his third touchdown of the game, breaking tackles on the right side for a 34-yard touchdown run and giving the Maddawgs a 25-20 lead. Four plays later the Eagles scored again, regaining the lead 26-25.

With just 4:23 remaining the Maddawgs' offense took control of the ball, and five plays later Alex Baker found daylight along the left sideline for a 44-yard touchdown run. After a successful extra point attempt, Northern held the final lead 32-26. Cresaptown only had time to run two desperation plays, which the Maddawgs' defense shut down completely.

"We were down, but we played with our hearts," Northern C team coach Justin Lewis remarked after the game.

Southern Girls Top Allegany, Northern To Win WMIL Title

Another Western Maryland Interscholastic League championship was captured last night by the Southern High School girls' soccer team, as the Rams squeaked by county rival Northern, 1-0, in Oakland. The Rams came into the match off a 4-1 victory over host Allegany on Monday, and with the win over Northern concluded their regular season with an 11-1-1 overall record and a 5-0 mark in WMIL competition.

Sophomore striker Sabrina Scheffel recorded a hat trick in Monday's win over Allegany at Greenway Avenue Stadium in Cumberland, while teammate Gina Reeves tacked on an insurance goal late in the match.

Scheffel wasted no time giving the Rams the lead for good, as she scored her first of three goals, unassisted, just 29 seconds into the match. She doubled her team's lead less than three minutes later with a goal off an assist by Jennifer Hickman at the 36:49 mark.

The rest of the first half was all defense, leaving the score at 2-0 at halftime.

The Campers cut Southern's lead in half at the 24:41 mark of the second half with a goal off a feed by Bethany Heavener.

Scheffel put the Rams back up by two with a goal off an assist by Megan Burner with 7:11 remaining in the match.

About three minutes later, Reeves took a pass from Melissa Rohrbaugh and put the ball into the net for the Rams to conclude the scoring for the evening.

Southern finished with a 20-8 advantage in shots on goal and also led in corner kicks, 3-0. Alasha Rush turned away five Alco shots for the Rams, while Allegany keeper Marjorie Gray was credited with eight saves.

The Campers concluded their regular season with an overall record of 5-7-1.

Sophomore forward Robbin Gregg was the only player who scored in last night's third clash of the season between the Rams and the Northern Huskies. The two teams faced each other twice in regular-season matches, plus one more time in a tournament last month.

Although the Rams dominated play in finishing with a lopsided 31-12 lead in shots on goal and a 3-1 edge in corner kicks, the stingy Husky defense turned away every shot but one, which was Gregg's goal off an assist by Gina Reeves at the 27:56 mark of the first half. Northern keeper Ashley Warnick finished with 30 saves, with Rush recording 12 in goal for the Rams.

The loss dropped the Huskies' overall record to 4-10 and their WMIL mark to 1-4. Northern also fell to visiting Beall on Monday and host Westmar last Thursday (see other story).

Southern drew a bye in the first round of the 1A West Region playoffs, and will host the winner of the Boonsboro-South Hagerstown match next Tuesday, Oct. 30, with that kickoff set for 7 p.m. Meanwhile, the Huskies will travel to Beall that same evening.

IT WAS THE LAST HURRAH for the senior members of the Southern High School girls' soccer team, at least in terms of regular-season home matches, the schedule of which ended last night with a 1-0 win over Northern.

Among those seniors, who have amassed an amazing win-loss record over the past four seasons, are Gina Reeves, pictured above left battling for possession of the ball with Northern senior Trisha Kamp (#3). In the background of the photo are seniors Emily Rawe of Northern and Megan Burner (#10) of Southern. Above right in a similar battle are seniors Miriam Sincell of Southern and Brooke Butler of Northern. Below left is Northern's senior goalkeeper Ashley Warnick immediately after one of her many saves. In the background of that photo is Southern sophomore Sabrina Scheffel. Below right, Southern senior Laura Hollingsworth assumes possession of the ball, but charging up to challenge her is Northern's Kamp. Both teams will enter 1A West Region playoff action in the coming week. See stories for details.

The boys' varsity soccer team of Northern High School recorded its biggest win of the season last Thursday night at home, as the Huskies topped county-rival Southern, 2-1, avenging an earlier loss to the Rams in Oakland.

The victory celebration was somewhat short-lived, however, as the Huskies then dropped their final two matches of the regular season, falling to host Beall on Tuesday, 3-0, and being blasted by visiting Fort Hill last night, 8-2.

The results left the Huskies with a 2-11 record overall and a 1-4 mark in the Western Maryland Interscholastic League. They will move into the 1A West Region playoffs with a match at Boonsboro this Saturday.

The Huskies scored both of their goals against the Rams in the first half last Thursday, with Greg Bender sending a ball into the net unassisted at the 35:05 mark, and Brent Housley scoring off an assist by Eric Durst about 5½ minutes later.

The Rams rallied for a goal early in the second half, as Jimmy Carpenter sent a ball past freshman keeper Chris Fickes off a feed by Adam Miller at the 34:58 mark. But that was the only score Fickes allowed, as he turned away 19 other Ram shots.

Southern finished with a 27-19 advantage in shots on goal and a 4-2 edge in corner kicks. Ram keeper Chris Menker was credited with a dozen saves.

The Rams, who dropped to 4-8 with the loss, rebounded with a victory over Westmar on Tuesday (see other story).

Second Half

S - Jimmy Carpenter assisted by Adam Miller, 34:58.

The Huskies played well in the first half against heavily favored Beall on Tuesday, but the 11-2-1 Mountaineers recorded three goals in the first 11 minutes of the second half to secure the shutout win.

Nathan Jackson accounted for two of Beall's goals, his first coming off an assist by Greg Russ at just over a minute into the second half (38:42).

Jackson struck again at the 30:21 mark off an assist by Steve Growden.

Joel Greig added an unassisted goal with 29:10 remaining to conclude the scoring for the night.

The Huskies were dominated in shots on goal, 24-6, and in corner kicks, 7-0. Greg Bender had 11 saves in goal for Northern, while Travis Jackson earned three saves and Scott Mathews contributed one for the Mountaineers.

The Beall junior varsity was also victorious, 6-0, in the preliminary match.

The Huskies fared better in shots on goal and corner kicks last night against powerful Fort Hill (11-2-1), but eight of the Sentinels' 23 shots made it into the net, while only two of the Huskies' 15 attempts were successful.

Seven different Fort Hill players scored during the match, with Josh Repac recording two goals. His first was on a penalty kick at the 32:29 mark of the first half.

Daniel Wood doubled the Sentinels' lead with a goal off an assist by Ryan Mullaney at the 30:31 mark, and Repac followed with his second goal of the night about five minutes later off a feed by Justin Mallow.

Unassisted goals by Matt Morgan and Mallow at the 17:32 and 12:01 marks put Fort Hill on top by a 5-0 margin, Danny Bishop followed with a goal off an assist by Repac with 11:20 left before halftime, and Matt Dixon added an unassisted goal at the 6:02 mark to give the Sentinels a commanding 7-0 lead at intermission.

Fort Hill added one more goal less than a minute into the second half, as Matthew Burnett scored off another assist by Repac at the 39:08 mark.

The Huskies averted a shutout when Guy Beitzel scored off an assist by Jason Afable with 17:21 to play, and Torrey Poholsky made it 8-2 with a goal off a feed by Mitchell Guard with just 1:02 left in the match.

Chris Fickes was credited with 14 saves for the Huskies, while Colby Ingram turned away 10 of the Huskies' shots.

The playoff match between the Huskies and Boonsboro is scheduled to kick off at 7 p.m. Saturday.

Northern Girls Defeated By Wildcats, Mountaineers, Rams

It was a long week on the soccer field for the Northern High School girls' varsity, as the Huskies closed out their regular season by being shut out last Thursday by host Westmar, 2-0, dropping a 3-1 decision to visiting Beall on Monday, and being edged by the Southern Rams last night in Oakland, 1-0. (See other story for details on the Southern match.)

The results left the Huskies with an overall record of 4-10, which they will take into the Class 1A playoffs at Beall next Tuesday.

Natalie Sloan scored an unassisted goal for Westmar in the first half of last Thursday's match, and Laura Webb accounted for the second goal of the evening off an assist by Amanda Ziler at the 19:12 mark of the second half.

The Huskies were outgunned in shots on goal by an 18-9 margin, and finished with a 5-3 advantage in corner kicks. Ashley Warnick had nine saves in goal for Northern, and Ashley McCutcheon stopped five of the Huskies' shots.

Northern stayed with heavily favored Beall until midway through the second half. With the score knotted at 1-1, the 11-2 Mountaineers added two goals in the final 11 minutes for the victory.

Becky Skidmore gave Beall a 1-0 lead and scored the only goal of the first half, unassisted, with 17 minutes left before halftime.

Brooke Butler took a feed from Carrie Friend and put the ball into the net for the Huskies 21 minutes into the second half to tie the score.

Abby Snyder put the Mountaineers ahead for good with a goal off an assist by Erin Moulden with 11 minutes to play, and Heather Sagal tacked on an unassisted insurance goal for Beall with five minutes remaining.

The Huskies trailed by only three in shots on goal, 15-12, while Beall finished with a 5-1 advantage in corner kicks. Warnick had five saves in the first half for the Huskies, and Randi Beiler recorded seven more in the second half. Beall keeper Krista Blank turned away six of the Huskies' shots.

The playoff game at Beall next Tuesday will kick off at 7 p.m.

Ram Booters Fall To Huskies, Rebound For Win Over Wildcats

The boys' varsity soccer team of Southern High School split its final two regular-season matches this past week, falling to cross-county rival Northern, 2-1, last Thursday at the Cove (see other story), and then rebounding for a 6-1 Western Maryland Interscholastic League victory over visiting Westmar on Tuesday.

The split left the Rams with a 5-8 overall record and a 2-3 mark in the WMIL. They will host South Hagerstown in a Class 1A West Region playoff match this Saturday, with the kickoff for that match set for 7 p.m.

The Rams dominated play Tuesday night over the Wildcats of Westmar, outshooting their opponents in shots on goal by a lopsided 25-9 margin. Westmar finished with a 6-4 edge in corner kicks.

D.R. Parsons accounted for two of the Rams' goals, while Jimmy Carpenter recorded three assists.

Adam Miller put the Rams on the board first with a goal off Carpenter's first assist about eight minutes into the match.

The Wildcats tied the score at 1-1 when Johnny Shockey scored off a feed by Dan De La Paz with 13:54 remaining in the first half.

The Rams responded with three more goals, all before halftime, with Parsons scoring his first of the night off another assist by Carpenter at the 9:48 mark. Freshman Tray Rives followed with a goal off a feed from Carpenter with 3:29 remaining, and sophomore Karl Hillen made it 4-1 with a goal just 28 seconds later off an assist by Bryan Schwalm.

The Rams added two insurance goals in the second half while keeping the Wildcats out of the net. Parsons hit his second of the match off an assist by Schwalm at the 29:32 mark. Dan Cathell followed with an unassisted goal with 21:14 remaining.

Runnin' Rams Third, Fourth In WMIL Meet

The boys' cross country team of Southern High School finished third and the SHS girls placed fourth in the Western Maryland Interscholastic League Championships, held last Thursday and hosted by the Rams at their Broadford Park course.

The Southern boys finished with 80 points, while Westmar won the meet with 36, Fort Hill was second with 44, Beall placed fourth with 85, and Allegany was fifth with 117. The Runnin' Ram girls also finished with 80 points. Fort Hill won the title with 39 points, Westmar was second with 64, Beall placed third with 65 points, and Allegany was fifth with 93.

Craig Conroy led the Southern boys' effort by placing ninth with a time of 18 minutes, 11 seconds. Sid Bittinger of Westmar was the first runner across the finish line, recording a time of 16:30. Fort Hill placed three runners among the first five.

Other Southern finishers were Nathan Rodeheaver in 12th place (18:30), Keenan Shaffer in 14th (18:44), Jason Weeks in 19th (19:15), Wesley Thomas in 26th (20:31), Brian Crabtree in 27th (20:46), and Jared Reckart in 32nd (21:31).

Leading the Southern girls, as they have all season, were Natalie Domenick and Melissa Durst, placing fourth and fifth, respectively, with times of 21:06 and 21:08. Jennifer Patton of Westmar was the top finisher, recording a time of 19:35, followed by Rachel Armstrong of Beall and Amanda Armstrong of Fort Hill.

Other Ram participants and their respective finishes were: Emily Cosner, 17th (23:45); Lisa Wade, 23rd (24:47); Katie McGehee, 31st (29:51); and Amanda Sisler, 33rd (31:06).

In the boys' junior varsity race, Southern's Kyle Conroy, Skyler Bolden, and Levi Filsinger placed eighth, ninth, and 10th, respectively.

The Runnin' Rams, coached by Louis Newcomb (girls) and Carl Booth (boys), will compete in the 1A West Regional championships next Thursday at Clear Spring High School.

TREMENDOUS SUPPORT, to the tune of over $4,500, was raised recently for Ryan Savage, a 2000 graduate of Northern High School who was seriously injured recently in a four-wheeler accident. A benefit dinner was held at the Deep Creek fire hall, and also donated to the cause were the earnings, and winnings, from a 50-50 raffle conducted at the Northern-Allegany football game. Ben Sisler, pictured above center, was the winner of the raffle, but he donated his half, $350, back. Doing likewise was the Northern football program, the regular beneficiary of the 50-50 drawings. Pictured with Sisler are Ryan Savage's brothers, Shaun, left, and Steve, right. Ryan Savage, son of Gary and Connie Savage, was the co-captain of the 1999 undefeated regular-season Northern football team. He is receiving therapy at Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown, W.Va.

Ram Netters Sweep Spartans, Rebound To Snare Northern

After a dry run of several losing seasons, Southern High School's varsity volleyball program is flying high after a Monday sweep of Bishop Walsh and a come-from-behind 3-2 victory at Northern last night assured the Rams of a 1A Region playoff berth. The 9-4 squad has one regular season game remaining, Monday at Allegany, but have already clinched a first-round playoff bye and a homecourt post-season opener in Round 2.

A milestone was passed last night at Northern, as junior Ram setter Kristen Rollman broke Southern's career assist record by recording 17 assists. The previous mark of 256 was held by Jen Teagarden. With another full year to go, Rollman could set the assists bar at an almost unthinkable level by the end of her high school career.

Southern took no prisoners during Bishop Walsh's Monday night visit, recording 15-3, 15-4, and 15-1 victories over the demoralized Spartans. Jessica Sharon led Ram onslaught with four kills and four aces, Rollman dished out eight assists and Stephanie Niner added six assists, and Holli Harris, Erika Steyer, and Erin Frantz each recorded three kills.

The SHS junior varsity claimed an easy sweep with 15-3, 15-5 triumphs. Andrea Ryan paced Southern with seven points, Kelly Rounds added five points, and Bethany Snyder tallied five assists.

Last night's win in the hostile confines of Northern's Igloo was a wild one. Southern took Game 1 by a 15-5 tally, and the Huskies roared back to take the next two 15-1 and 15-5. Down by a 2-1 margin, the Rams fought back to take the final two contests 15-7, 15-10.

Rollman added 14 points to her fine assist tally, while teammate Alexis Storey recorded 15 points and three blocks. Harris contributed seven kills while Frantz added five kills. Northern was paced by Nicole Sisler's 12 points, nine attacks, and three kills. Christie Flockhart recorded 11 kills, 17 attacks, two kills, and four aces, while Jolene Brenneman had nine points, 17 attacks, two kills, and three aces.

Southern dropped the junior varsity contest as Northern rolled to a 15-12, 15-12 sweep. The Huskies upped their JV record to 13-2 as Valene Snyder and Yesha Patel recorded seven points each. Ryan paced SHS with eight points and Laura Preston contributed six points.

Monday night's match at Allegany, which holds an identical 9-4 record, gives the Rams a chance to avenge an early-season loss to the Campers on Southern's home court.

Garrett Falls To Rockville, Downs PSC In Home Final

Garrett Community College's volleyball squad rebounded from a 3-1 defeat Friday at the hands of Montgomery Rockville Community College by defeating Potomac State College last night by a 3-1 margin. Last night's homecourt victory was perfectly timed for a delighted Sophomore Night crowd, as the Lakers bade a McHenry farewell to departing players Jessica DeWitt, Keri Niner, Mimi Harvey, Bonnie Riley, and Lauren Stillwagon.

Montgomery Rockville took the first game of Friday's meeting 30-21, GCC claimed a nailbiter of Game 2 by a 37-35 tally, and the Hawks took the final two contests by narrow 30-27, 30-25 margins. Stillwagon paced Garrett with 17 points and a 26-for-26 serving performance, and added five aces and four assists. Harvey contributed 10 points with a 21-for-21 serving tally, and Niner recorded nine points and three aces. Marianne Unger scored eight points, Johnson had nine kills, and DeWitt accumulated 18 digs.

The Lakers rolled out to a 30-21 win over PSC in last night's opener, fell in Game 2 by a 30-26 margin, then took 30-25, 30-23 victories to claim the match. Niner led the way with 20 points, two aces, nine kills, and three assists. Harvey had 16 points and five kills, Unger had seven points and went 16-for-16 from the service line, and DeWitt had five points and six assists. Johnson had six points, three aces, and 15 kills, and Stillwagon had five points and seven assists. Former Southern Ram Melissa Kuykendall paced the Catamounts with 18 service points, four aces, and 14 digs.

GCC (3-21) ends its regular season tomorrow evening in Frederick by taking on the host Cougars and the Catonsville Cardinals in a triangular match. The two-day Region XX Tournament gets under way at Catonsville on Friday, Nov. 2.

MIDGET RACER TAKES BIG WIN — Dustin Platter, a sixth-grader at Southern Middle School, took the final points race of the Hagerstown Quarter Midget Club season at the Hagerstown Speedway recently. Platter placed third in the overall point rankings for the season, missing the runner-up slot by only three points. A five-year veteran of the racing circuit, Platter's #90 quarter midget racing car, valued at $4,000, packs a five-hp engine that can crank out an average speed of 68 mph on the speedway's 1/10-mile oval track. The driver, who turns 11 today, was sponsored by S&S Tire Service, D&D Truck Repair, Freestate Towing, and Pilot Truck Plazas, all of the Hagerstown area. He recently moved to the McHenry area, where he resides with his mother, Martha Platter, and near his father, Steve Platter.

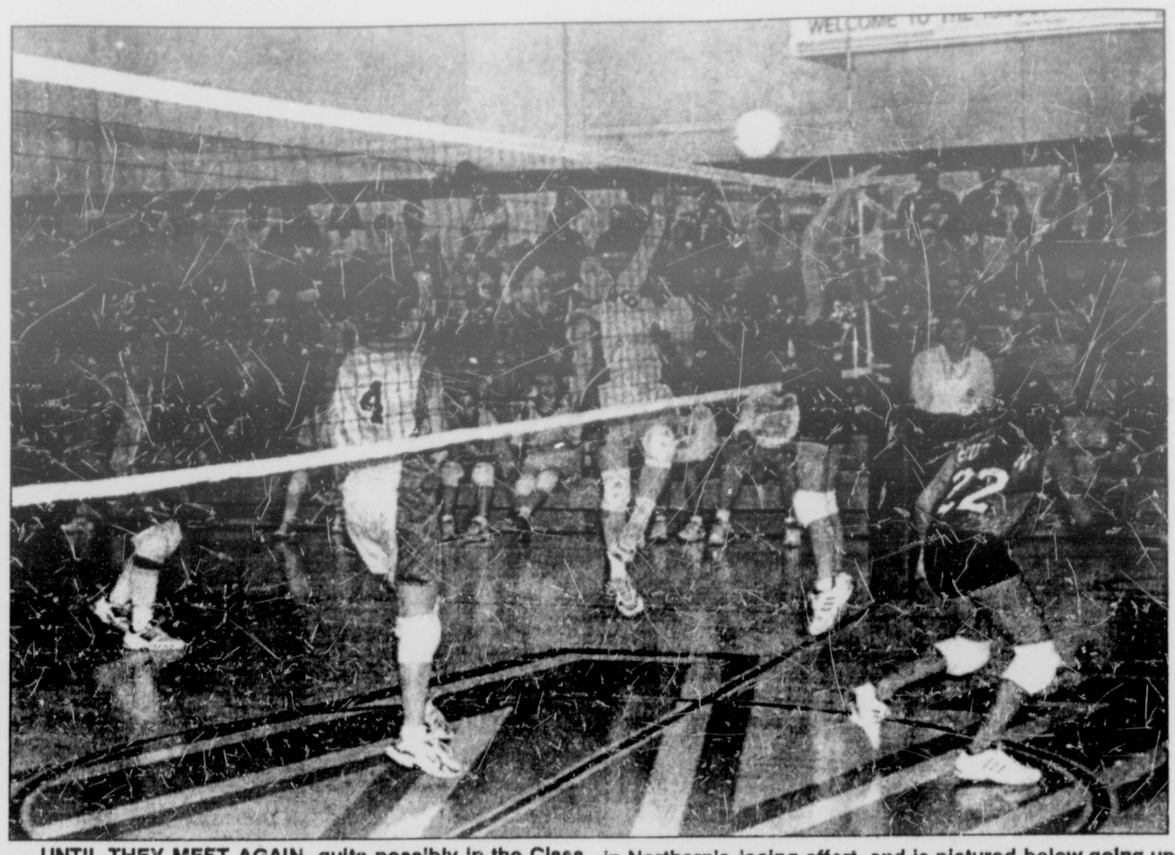
GCC TAKES HOME FINAL — The Garrett Community College volleyball team closed out its home season on the right foot last night with a 3-1 victory over visiting Potomac State College. Shown going high for a kill is Keri Niner (#12) who led the Lakers with 20 points on the night, while her teammates in the photo, from the left, are Marianne Unger (#4), Ashlee Spady (#13), Laura Johnson (#25), and Jessica DeWitt (#10). The contest marked the Laker netters' Sophomore Night, as the Garrett crowd said goodbye to departing players Niner, DeWitt, Lauren Stillwagon, Mimi Harvey, and Bonnie Riley. GCC's regular campaign comes to a close tomorrow night at Frederick, while the two-day Region XX Tourney opens in Catonsville on Nov. 2.



UNTIL THEY MEET AGAIN, quite possibly in the Class 1A playoffs, the Southern and Northern High School volleyball teams squared off last night in Accident in a barn-burner. The Rams claimed the victory with a come-from-behind 3-2 triumph. NHS's Jolene Brenneman (#6 on left side of net) is shown above going up for an attack with teammates Christie Flockhart (#3) and Heather Lander (#4) backing her up, while Southern's Erika Steyer (#3) attempts a block with fellow Ram Alexis Storey (#22) moving into position behind her. Flockhart had a fine performance in Northern's losing effort, and is pictured below going up on one of her 17 attacks, as SHS's Brea Byers (#24) mounts a defensive effort. Backing up their teammates are NHS's Molly Wolf (#22) and Southern's Erin Frantz (#10). Both schools will represent Garrett County in the postseason, at a date to be announced after Sunday night's drawing. The Rams and Huskies will both open at home in the tourney's second round, each having earned a first-round bye.

NHS Netters Roll Over Spartans, Knights; Fall To Rams By One

The Northern High School varsity volleyball team is set for the playoffs after concluding an excellent 11-4 season with a week that saw the Huskies sweep Bishop Walsh and Preston before dropping a narrow match last night to Southern. (See SHS account for details of that battle.) The Region 1A playoff drawings will take place Sunday night, and NHS is assured of a first-round bye and an opening appearance on its home court.

Last Thursday's match at Bishop Walsh was no contest, as Northern sailed to easy 15-6, 15-4, and 15-7 victories. Amanda Frantz paced the Huskies with 12 points and two kills, while Christie Flockhart recorded six points and two kills. Quinn Coulehan tallied five points and four kills for the host Spartans.

Northern's junior varsity had an even easier evening, rolling up a 2-0 sweep via 15-6, 15-3 triumphs. Melissa Patterson scored seven points and Nicole Doerr added five points for the Huskies.

Preston gave NHS a tougher time during its Tuesday visit to the Cove, but in the end the result was the same — Northern swept to 15-8, 15-12, 15-12 victories. Nicole Sisler scored 12 points with five attacks and four kills, Molly Wolf contributed 11 points, and Flockhart had 12 attacks, three kills, and three blocks. Jolene Brenneman tallied nine attacks. Jessica Bishop led the Knights with 13 points.

The Huskies' JV took its first game 15-5, fell 15-12 in Game 2, and rebounded for a 15-14 victory in a thrilling nightcap. Tiffany Swiger scored 15 Northern points, and Patterson added nine points.

RAVENS, BUCKEYES CLAIM OYFL CROWNS — The Oakland Ravens of the Oakland Youth Football League are the NFL Division full-contact champions after concluding a perfect 8-0 season with a 30-0 thrashing of the Redskins in the title contest, while the First United Buckeyes took the league's flag football NCAA Division championship by recording a 6-0-1 season record. The Ravens are shown above. Kneeling in the front, from left, are Josh Armstrong and Andrew Tichinel. Annual Junior Deer Hunt Day Set For Nov. 10

For the seventh consecutive year, Maryland's youth will have the opportunity to learn the outdoor skills of scouting, patience, and hunting during the annual Junior Hunt Day, set for Saturday, Nov. 10. The one-day hunt allows young people, age 16 years or younger, to hun white-tailed deer and sika deer with a firearm when accompanied by an unarmed licensed adult 21 years of age or older.

To participate, each young hunter must possess a valid resident junior hunting license, resident hunting license, or a nonresident hunting license, or be exempt from Maryland hunting license requirements. Each eligible young hunter can take one antlered or antlerless deer in each of the four Deer Management regions on Nov. 10. In Regions C and D the young hunter may take an additional white-tailed deer with a bonus deer stamp. Only one of these two white-tailed deer may be antlered.

For additional information concerning Maryland deer hunting regulations, persons may consult the DNR publication "Hunting and Trapping in Maryland 2000-2001." The booklet is issued to hunters when they purchase a 2001-2002 Maryland hunting license, is available upon request at all DNR service centers, and can be consulted on DNR's web site at www.dnr.state.md.us.

"Junior Hunt Day provides an opportunity for experience hunters to teach deer hunting skills and promote safe and ethical respect for the outdoors and wildlife to interested junior hunters," commented Secretary J. Charles Fox of Maryland's Department of Natural Resources. "Hunting skills including locating deer signs, effective and safe tree stand placement, safe firearm handling, and effective shot selection can be instilled during this November deer hunt."

Date Change

gest that members review their decision to change the festival's date.

"It needs to be done now," said Don Sincell, noting that the fire department was already making plans for four events to be held during next year's festival.

Eiswert indicated that he would contact the board members as soon as possible. But since many of them were out of town, he said, they would have to have a telephone conference meeting.

"The chamber needs to consider the people who come to the event," said Harold Canon, former Oakland council member. He said that many people who regularly attend the festival may not be aware of the date change and may miss next year's event. Also, he added, there could be less people attending Autumn Glory, which in turn could financially hurt local businesses and nonprofit organizations that hold fundraisers during the event.

Sheila Edwards said that for 24 years the Southern Band Boosters has held the Tournament of the Bands during Autumn Glory, and that the event was the band's "largest money maker." She noted, however, that Allegany County's band tournament is held on the first Saturday in October. If Autumn Glory is moved to that date, she said, Southern would end up competing with Allegany for bands, and "only a handful of bands" would probably attend the local tournament.

No one at the meeting voiced his or her support for the date change.

"I hope the chamber will reconsider its decision," Gregg said at the end of the meeting.

According to a spokesperson for the Chamber of Commerce, the board did hold a telephone conference meeting on Wednesday. The members decided to return next year's Autumn Glory to the second weekend in October "after listening to concerns expressed by community leaders." The festival will be held October 9 through 13 in 2002.

Chamber President Ken Wishnick said that the board's original to hold the festival the first weekend in October was an attempt to avoid possible housing shortages, due to the overlapping of the Columbus Day and Autumn Glory weekends.

NOTICE TO OAKLAND TOWN RESIDENTS LEAF COLLECTION!

The Oakland Street Department has begun the annual process of leaf collection. Oakland Town residents are requested to have their leaves raked out to the curb or sidewalk for collection. PLEASE DO NOT RAKE APPLES AND STICKS IN WITH YOUR LEAVES. These items could cause harm to Town Employees or damage to the equipment. The Street Department will continue leaf collection until November 9, 2001, weather permitting. After this time leaves will need to be bagged.

Residents are reminded that weekly bulk pick-up on Fridays by the Oakland Street Department will end October 26, 2001, and will resume in the Spring 2002.

Please call the Oakland Street Department at 301-334-3253 if you have any questions.

Thank You

Gallery Displaying Various Works Of Nooshin Chitsaz

A new exhibit at the Garrett County Arts Council Gallery along Alder Street in Oakland features original watercolor paintings by Frostburg artist Nooshin Chitsaz. The artist will be honored at a public reception at the Gallery on Thursday, Nov. 8, from 5 to 8 p.m.

Chitsaz began pursuing a career in art after spending a summer in Paris and working with a number of internationally known artists. Her training in watercolor, oil, pastel, pencil, and chalk provides a broad background to her current work at her Frostburg studio, where she specializes in portrait paintings and accepts commission work in a variety of subjects.

Her exhibit at the Gallery displays an innovative application of paint to paper with razors, according to Steve Schlosnagle, executive director of the arts council. "The result is a chiseled vibrancy of color and line not usually associated with the watercolor medium," he said.

The exhibit is titled "Rock Formation," a reference to the inclusion of a number of landscapes ranging from the rocky lushness of Swallow Falls State Park to the majesty of the Arizona canyon lands. Other works include the portrait of a shy girl, a crayon-and-watercolor depiction of a dragonfly, and the soft rendering of a cat in a prairie. The various pieces are thematically connected through the artist's choices of color and technique.

"I feel my paintings are alive and are telling stories," said Chitsaz. "Sometimes I cannot even verbalize the story. I would like my paintings to start a story, but let the viewer finish..."

The Chitsaz exhibit will be on display at the Gallery through December. Gallery hours are Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. - 4 p.m. Additional information is available by calling the Garrett County Arts Council at 301-334-6580.

GALLERY DISPLAYS CHITSAZ WORKS — A new exhibit at the Garrett County Arts Council Gallery along Alder Street in Oakland features original watercolor paintings by Frostburg artist Nooshin Chitsaz. "Shy Girl," above, is one of nine paintings comprising the special display, which will be open to the public through December. A gallery reception is planned for Nov. 8 from 5 to 8 p.m. See story.

FSU Faculty Brass Quintet Concert Slated

Brass music spanning the past 400 years will be performed by the Frostburg State University Faculty Brass Quintet this Sunday, Oct. 28, at 3 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center Pealer Recital Hall. The concert is free and open to the public.

Members of the quintet are Jon Bauman and Kurtis Lemmert, trumpets; Stephen Luzader, horn; Brian Plitnik, trombone; and Bryce Quarve, tuba.

The program will begin with five Renaissance dances by Susato. A work from the Baroque era, "Canzona Bergamasca," by Scheidt is next. "La Rose Nuptiale" by Lavallee represents the Classical period. The first half will conclude with a 20th-century work, "Satirical Dance," by Shostakovich.

Following intermission, the quintet will return to 16th-century music with "Canzon II" by Peuerl. "Centone No. 7" by Schein is from the early 17th century. Next is "Es Ist Ein Ros'Entsrungen" by Brahms, followed by an unusual 20th-century composition, "Madrigals," by Frank Campo. Bringing the concert to a finish will be "The Entertainer" by Scott Joplin.

For more information, persons may contact the Department of Music at 301-687-4109.

FSU Baseball Team To Host Queen City Band

Frostburg State University's baseball team will host the band Queen City Funk & Soul on Friday, Nov. 9, in the Cordts Physical Education Center Arena. The dance is scheduled from 8 p.m. to midnight.

A portion of the proceeds will benefit Johnny Twigg, a local youth with cancer.

The 11-piece band features music from the better known horn bands of the '60s, '70s, and '80s, including such artists as James Brown, Wilson Pickett, Stevie Wonder, and Steely Dan. "Strong vocals and exciting instrumental solos have brought audiences to their feet since the band's formation in 1998," stated an FSU spokesperson. The band's first compact disc, We've Got it Covered," was released in summer of 2000.

Parents with a paid adult admission to the dance may bring their children age 5 to 12 to a "free kids' night out" in the PE Center.

Advance tickets are $6 for FSU faculty, staff, and students, and $10 for the general public. Tickets at the door will increase by $2 each.

For more information, persons may call 301-687-3139 or 301-687-4462. Tickets may be purchased in the Department of Athletics on the second floor of FSU's Cordts Center Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Sixth Grader Submits Book; Writes Articles

Danielle Brenneman, a sixth grade student at Northern Middle School, has submitted a book for publication to Herald Press of Scottdale, Pa. Look What's Under My Bed was edited by Mary Clemens Meyer, children's editor for On the Line magazine, and reflects Danielle's love for clever and witty literature.

The young author was a member of the Enrichment Writing Group at Rt. 40 School, where she was a student, last semester. She and the other members of the group toured Herald Press, a division of Mennonite Publishing House and publisher of On the Line, during a field trip. After the tour, the students were invited to submit writing samples to a select group of editors, which included Meyer, for critique. Meyer was impressed with Danielle's work.

"You appear to be a future writer for our magazine," Meyer said in a letter to Danielle. She then encouraged Danielle to submit articles for her magazine and guided her via e-mails on how to do so.

On the Line is a Christian magazine for children age 9-14 and includes stories, puzzles, and regular features. Danielle is currently in the process of deciding topics that would interest the magazine's readers.

Meyer's encouragement has inspired the young writer to write even more. She is also working on a story for a Christmas advent book and may submit it to Meyer for publication.

Danielle is the daughter of Terry and Debbie Brenneman, Accident. She is a Steeler cheerleader for Northern, and her hobbies include basketball, singing, and, of course, writing. She plans to write more and study graphic design in the future.

by Angie Snoberger

Candles burning day and night,
Flowers adorn the streets,
Sparkling with dew at first light.
Pictures of loved ones missing,
Signs of life diminishing...

The smell of smoke still burns the air,
Glimmers of hope turning to despair.

Efforts continue from dawn to dusk,
Sunrise to sunset—continue they must,
Searching through the rubble,
Trying to make sense of what took place
That ingrained such acts of cowardly hate.

So many lives destroyed in one day,
Dear God, help us pray
For healing of the loved ones left behind,
For fighting this battle of terrorism one day at a time.

FSU Fall Dance Concert To Feature Guest Artists And Student Works

The Frostburg State University Dance Company, under the artistic direction of Dr. Barry Fischer, will celebrate the inauguration of FSU's new dance major with the FSU Fall Dance 2001 Concert in the Performing Arts Center's Drama Theater. Performances are scheduled for 8 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 1, Friday, Nov. 2, and Saturday, Nov. 3. An additional matinee performance is set for Saturday at 1 p.m. All performances will take place during FSU's Homecoming celebration of "A November to Remember."

Featured works will include a variety of modern and jazz dance pieces choreographed by FSU students majoring in dance, members of the FSU Dance Company and FSU Dance Club, professionals from the Martha Graham School of Dance, and Dr. Fischer. Guest artists Martin Lofsnes and Elizabeth Auclair from the Martha Graham Dance Company will perform a duet by Graham dancer/choreographer Erica Dankmeyer. Lofsnes will also perform a solo work. Five solo works and one group piece choreographed by the six dance majors will be highlighted, and the company will perform a group work choreographed by the company and club.

The concert will include a diverse array of music, including works by John Cage, Antonio Vivaldi, Dead Can Dance, Santana, Peter Gabriel, David Sanders, and Mr. President.

Fischer has selected two works as a commentary on the current world situation, and, he says, "going forward." He has dedicated "Steps in the Street," which was performed in last spring's FSU Dance Company Concert, to the cause of anti-terrorism and world peace. Fischer used this somber 1936 work, originally choreographed by Martha Graham, as the basis for his New York University doctoral dissertation. Auclair will dance the title role. To conclude the concert on an upbeat note, he created "Put Me Up," a modern jazz piece he describes as "uplifting and highly spirited."

Beginning Monday, Oct. 29, information, reservations, and ticket sales will be available at 301-687-7462 or 301-687-4145 between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Input Sought For Arts District Grant In Oakland

Input is being sought from the regional artisan and business communities for the development of a grant that would designate a portion of Oakland as an "arts and entertainment district."

The designation would give any artists working in the district income tax breaks, and developers who create spaces for artists to live and work an exemption from paying certain property taxes on the value of the improvements for up to 10 years. Designated districts will be exempt from some or all admissions and amusement taxes.

The grant is being written by Glenn Tolbert, Oakland's Main Street program manager, who has already received input from Mayor Asa McCain, Ken Perrin, president of the Greater Oakland Business Association, and Steven Scholsnagle, executive director of the Garrett County Arts Council.

"The timing to receive such a designation in the county seat is just right because the Pritts building is about to be developed into an artisan's work station and incubation center. Oakland also already has the renovated train station, the Garrett Historical Society Museum, Our Town Theatre, the Front Page Stage, the Garrett County Arts Council, and some private businesses that either directly or indirectly deal with art," said Tolbert.

Duane Yoder, president of Garrett County Community Action Inc., who has been working closely with the Main Street program and the town of Oakland in several projects not only agreed that the timing is right for such a designation, but also said that "it's a real nice fit for what the town has been working towards and anything that helps the arts is obviously going to help the economy," Yoder said.

Lt. Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend agreed with Yoder's sentiments. "The arts are an important economic generator for Maryland, pumping more than $726 million into our economy last year and providing more than 17,000 jobs. These designations will surely serve as a catalyst for stimulating the entire Maryland arts community, but will also greatly improve the quality of life in many neighborhoods," Townsend said.

The grants are being made available by the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development (DBED). The completed application is due Dec. 1 to the Maryland Arts Council, an agency of DBED.

"What we need to do is get together with everyone in the Oakland area who has an interest in the arts and get their input," Tolbert said. "As this grant develops we should all sit down at one table and decide exactly what we want to get out of it and how to best make sure that it does the most for our entire community."

Persons wishing to have immediate input into the grant process may call Tolbert at 301-334-9431.

Kremlin Chamber Orchestra To Give GLAF '01 Finale

The Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) will present its final concert of the 2001 season with a performance by the Chamber Orchestra Kremlin. The presentation will be held on Wednesday, Nov. 7, at 8 p.m. in the Garrett Community College auditorium.

Tickets are $15 for adults, $4 for GCC students, and $2 for youth 18 years and younger. Persons may call the GLAF office at 301-387-3082 to order tickets or for further information.

The concert was originally scheduled for Sept. 22, but was postponed because of the terrorist attack in New York City. The musicians were unable to obtain work visas at that time. In order to perform for GLAF on Nov. 7, the Chamber Orchestra Kremlin is making a special diversion from its Dallas, Texas, engagement, according to a spokesperson. Following the GLAF performance, the musicians will return to Dallas to proceed with their American tour.

The Kremlin group is an 18-string orchestra, led by founder and conductor Misha Rachlevsky. The orchestra has earned national and international recognition as one of Russia's leading ensembles. In the fall of 1991, Swiss recording company Claves approached Rachlevsky with an offer to record discs of Russian music and immediately concurred with his suggestion to realize the project with Russian musicians. Rachlevsky then founded Chamber Orchestra Kremlin, an ensemble comprised of some of the finest young musicians in Moscow, the spokesperson said. The success of greeted the orchestra's initial performances in the recording studio and on the concert stages in Russia and abroad led to the formation of the full-time ensemble.

The concert will featur "Horizons," a work by Jo Bauman, professor of musi at Frostburg State Universi ty. Other works to be pre sented include Divertiment in D major, K. 136, by W. Mozart, Suite for Strings b Leos Janacek, and Serenad for Strings, Op. 48, b Tchaikovsky.

The concert is sponsore by the Garrett Coun Chamber of Commerc Sponsor partners are Dav and Irene Eyer, Doug ar Rebecca McClive, F&I Bank, M&T Bank, Tot Biz Fulfillment and Hobl House Press, and Will (the Wisp and Wisp Reso Season sponsors of Garre Lakes Arts Festival a Sprenger-Lang Foundatio Coldwell Banker De Creek Realty, and De Creek Mountain Resort.

The concert is funded part by grants from t Garrett County Arts Cou cil and the Maryland Sta Arts Council.

Tarr Cottage To Be Among Those On Holiday Tour

TARR COTTAGE, HOME OF ROBERT AND ANNE PROUDFOOT, TO BE ON ARC TOUR

The Tarr Cottage in Mountain Lake Park, owned by Robert and Anne Proudfoot, will be among the five homes and one church featured in the 10th annual Home for the Holidays House Tours event, sponsored by the Western Potomac Chapter of the American Red Cross. The tours will take place on Friday, Nov. 30, and Saturday, Dec. 1.

The Tarr Cottage is one of the older homes of the tour, built in 1883 by a judge, the Honorable William H. Tarr. In 1882, Tarr bought two lots on the corner of H and Cedar streets from the Mountain Lake Park Association of Garrett County and had the house built a year later. A third lot was added to the property in 1917 by then owner Ruth W.S. Widdowson.

The house changed hands again in 1925, bought by Isobel D. Hill. She rented to a few men who allegedly turned out to be bootleggers, using the cottage to distill spirits. The home was purchased by Clyde and Marylyle Gnegy in 1957. The Gnegys preserved the house in its original style except for some comfort changes.

A stone mason, Clyde Gnegy created a cut-stone fireplace that stands solidly today. He also hand-dug a basement beneath the entire house, wheeling out the soil and rock and then completing the necessary masonry.

The home was sold to the Proudfoots in 1998. The authenticity of the house has been a focus of the new owners as they add improvements. In the first year, a full bath and laundry room were added. The kitchen was enlarged and modernized, but still includes an older porcelain double sink.

More recently a portion of the wrap-around porch has been enclosed by glass to create a sun porch. The view from this room offers sunsets, flowers, birds, butterflies, and other creatures of nature.

The holiday decor of the Tarr Cottage will include the use of various fabrics and colors throughout the house. Also on display will be original Christmas decorations designed by the hosts depicting mostly angels.

In addition to the Proudfoots, homeowners participating in the event this year are Dave and Wendy Berry, Walt and Pat Copeland, Donald and Carol Moss, and Dusty and Elizabeth Huxford. St. Paul's United Methodist Church will also be on the tour.

Raffles will be held at each of the homes, with gifts donated from area businesses.

Tour hours are Friday, 4 until 9 p.m.; and Saturday, 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. Tickets, which are $5 in advance and $7 on the day of the tours, can be purchased at Proudfoot's, Gregg's, and Deep Creek pharmacies, as well as at Flowers by Webers in Oakland and Arrowhead Market at Deep Creek Lake.

The proceeds from this event will help meet the immediate needs of Red Cross projects, the spokesperson said.

Animal Shelter's New Hours Are "More Effective"

The Garrett County commissioners heard updates this week from staff members of the county's Department of General Services on the animal shelter's new hours and a county cat ordinance being drafted.

Bonnie Zimmerman, manager of the county's animal shelter, reported that as of September 29 the shelter was no longer open on Saturdays. However, the shelter has extended two of its weekday hours.

Located along Sang Run Road just north of the Oakland Golf Club, the shelter is now open Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Tuesdays and Thursdays, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. The shelter is also closed on Sundays.

Zimmerman reported that the new hours have been "more effective." The Saturday hours were less convenient for persons wanting to adopt animals, she noted. "It's easier for persons to stop by the shelter during the weekday after work," she said. "Saturday hours were not as flexible for people." She stated that more animals have been adopted as a direct result of the schedule changes.

"Its very commendable on your part," Commissioner Ernest Gregg told Zimmerman, "that you were flexible to try different [scheduling] variations to accommodate the public."

Persons wanting to adopt animals may visit or call the shelter at 301-334-3553.

The commissioners also heard from Gary Mullich, director of the Garrett County Department of General Services, about implementing a county cat ordinance, similar to the dog ordinance now in affect, in which owners would be required to buy licenses for their cats. The ordinance would also allow animal shelter staff members to pick up stray cats, he noted.

The director indicated, however, that much groundwork was needed yet to develop the new edict, but that he would work with the county's attorney, district court officials, and state officials to draft an ordinance in accordance with state regulations. A draft of the ordinance could be presented to the commissioners as early as December, according to Mullich.

Oakland Man Hospitalized After Mishap

A young Oakland man avoided serious injury after a Friday evening car crash in central Garrett County, but was nonetheless hospitalized overnight at Cumberland Memorial Hospital for observation. Maryland State Police troopers assigned to the McHenry barrack investigated the single-vehicle accident, and declined to press charges.

At approximately 7:58 p.m. Ryan J. Gregory, 17, was traveling south in the 2500 block of Mosser Road when he lost control of his 1993 Jeep Cherokee as an oncoming vehicle entered his lane. Gregory's evasive driving successfully avoided a head-on collision, but his vehicle went off the roadway, through a yard, and struck a telephone pole and a tree.

The Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad and Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company responded to the scene, and Gregory was flown by MSP helicopter Trooper 5 to Cumberland Memorial. He was released from the hospital the following afternoon.

In other state police accident investigations, a tractor-trailer driver reportedly failed to negotiate a curve along westbound Interstate 68 halfway between Keysers Ridge and Friendsville early Friday morning, and the resulting single-vehicle accident closed the highway for approximately 30 minutes.

Joseph Phillips, 55, Fairless Hills, Pa., lost control of his 1984 rig, owned by an Astoria, N.Y., trucking firm, at approximately 4:30 a.m. The tractor-trailer hit a guardrail on the outside shoulder, crossed the roadway, and came to rest in the median strip, where it burst into flames.

Phillips was transported by the Northern Rescue Squad to Cumberland Memorial, where he was treated and released. The Friendsville and Grantsville VFDs, the Air-3 unit of the Deep Creek VFC, and the State Highway Administration also responded. Tfc. J.P. Grinnan continues to investigate the mishap to determine if charges are warranted.

A collision on Rt. 219 just south of Keysers Ridge slightly injured a Pennsylvania woman Friday at 11:14 a.m., while the driver of the other vehicle may be facing charges.

Stephen L. Strozykowski, 68, Baltimore, was reportedly stopped in his 2000 Chevrolet Blazer on the shoulder of southbound Rt. 219 as a second vehicle, a 1998 Toyota truck operated by Dwayne Williamson, 32, Camp Hill, Pa., approached from behind in the traffic lane. Strozykowski allegedly pulled in front of the Williamson's truck in an attempt to make a U-turn without yielding the proper right of way, and the vehicles collided.

Cindy Williamson, 32, a passenger in the Toyota truck, was injured and transported by the Northern Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial, where she was treated and released. The Grantsville VFD assisted at the scene.

The police report indicated that charges are pending against Strozykowski.

DUI Arrest

State police reported one arrest for driving under the influence (DUI) this week. Shortly after 11 p.m. last night, James Bryant Thomas, 30, McHenry, was stopped along Garrett Highway near Deep Creek Lake, and charged with DUI, DUI per se, negligent driving, driving on a revoked/suspended license, and driving an unregistered vehicle.

A GRAND OPENING was held recently at the new Taco Bell restaurant in Oakland, and helping with the celebration were the members of the Southern Garrett Marching Band, pictured above presenting their 2001 field show music. In appreciation for the band members' time and talents, the owner and management of the new restaurant presented the Southern Garrett Band Boosters with a check for $2,000, and also treated the band members to a taco lunch.

Band Concert

a concert band.

New members who are able to commit to regular practice and rehearsal are welcome to join. There are openings especially for low-brass instruments, French horn, and saxophone, but all instrumentalists are encouraged to participate. Persons wishing to attend a rehearsal may call Jerry McGee at 301-387-6315 for more information.

Celtic music has been a traditional favorite to listening audiences for many years, McGee explained. Tom Frawley, the band commentator, will introduce selections with historical and background information. "This promises to be an exciting program, and is in keeping with our mission of bringing a variety of music styles to Garrett County and the surrounding area," McGee said.

Admission will be by donation, with a suggested donation of $5 for adults. The concert is funded in part by Garrett County Arts Council and Maryland State Arts Council.

Penn Alps Named "Employer Of The Year" By BPW

The Grantsville Area Business and Professional Women's Club (BPW) recently selected Penn Alps Inc., located near Grantsville, as its "Employer of the Year" for significantly contributing to the hiring and promoting of women. Alta Schrock, Ph.D., founder of Penn Alps, received the award on behalf of the organization.

"Use your God-given talents for the good of others," Schrock advises young women. "Have peace within yourself. It is not only a principle to be discovered, but a life to be lived."

Schrock received her doctorate from the University of Pittsburgh and is a retired Frostburg State University biology professor. She is presently a board member of Penn Alps and has served as its executive secretary for 30 years. She is also the founder of the Springs Historical Society and the Springs (Pa.) Folk Festival, the Casselman Chronicle, and Council of the Alleghenies and its publication, Journal of the Alleghenies, and served on the board of Garrett County Community Action for 40 years.

"I am grateful to have been honored by an organization like BPW, which has helped to revolutionize the role of women, and has extended a helping hand to women with particular needs," Schrock stated in a press release.

After receiving the Employer of the Year award at the presentation ceremony, Schrock, in turn, took the opportunity to honor 11 Penn Alps employees who have served 15 years or more. The women who were honored are Mary Bennett, 33 years; Betty Miller and Sharon Slovak, both 25; Edith Yoder, 22, Pam Margroff and Becky Stein, both 21; Shirley Hetrick, 19; Tammy Friend and Greta Miller, 18; Tracy Fratz, 15.5; and Joyce Maust, 15. Each of the women received certificates.

Schrock expressed her "appreciation for the faithfulness, loyalty, and hard work of these dedicated women." She described the employees as "a team, respecting one another and the people in this community."

BISSELL NAMED WOMAN OF THE YEAR — Dr. Robin L. Bissell was recently named the Woman of the Year by the Grantsville area BPW (Business and Professional Women). Dr. Bissell graduated from Santa Monica High School, Santa Monica, Calif., in 1969 and the University of Colorado School of Medicine in Denver, Colo., in 1983. She is self-employed in private practice in Grantsville. Being a family physician, her responsibilities include caring for all ages, but her special interest is in diabetes and women's health care. Prior to coming to Grantsville, she was a family physician in private practice in College Park. She is president of the Greater Grantsville Business Association, a member in the Garrett County Health Planning Committee, American Diabetes Association, American Academy of Family Physicians, and a member of MedChi. She has also helped with the Grantsville beautification committee, and has written an article about the value and advantage of women in medicine, which was published in the Maryland Medical Journal. She resides near Grantsville with her husband Richard and two daughters. Pictured above, from the left, are Earleena Tressler, president of BPW; Betty Jo Swauger, co-chairman of the nominating committee; Ruth Newman, chairman of the committee; Dr. Bissell; Dottie George, co-chairman; and Martha Sebold, co-chairman.

Shutdown Of Westvaco Mill Is Canceled

The total shutdown previously announced to take place at Westvaco's Luke mill during the week of Thanksgiving has been canceled because of a multitude of scheduling issues, according to Roger Dandridge, vice president and mill manager.

"However, the need for inventory control is still a priority for the Luke mill," stated Dandridge, "and, therefore, the following inventory reduction plans will be implemented during November and December. The mill's two smaller paper machines will alternate on a reduced operating schedule of 'ten days on/four days off,' and one of the larger paper machines will be shut down for one week during each of those months. This accomplishes the same inventory reduction that would have been achieved through a one-week total mill outage.

Many of the approximately 60 employees affected by the one-week paper machine outages will be eligible to take vacation in lieu of a lay-off.

Grape Seed Extract: Powerful Antioxidant

Several nutrients have antioxidant activity, including vitamin A, beta-carotene, vitamins C and E, and the mineral selenium. Other materials from nature also contain antioxidants - chemicals that neutralize "free radicals." Free radicals are highly reactive molecules that bind with and destroy body components. Aging and development of cancer and other diseases may be due in part to free radical activity. Antioxidant nutrients render free radicals nonreactive.

Grape seeds contain flavonoids - a group of antioxidant compounds. The flavonoids in grape seeds are referred to as procyanidolic oligomers. The abbreviations PCO or OPC often are used for these specific flavonoids. PCOs are 20 times more potent than vitamin C and 50 times more potent than vitamin E in regard to antioxidant activity.

Studies have shown that grape seed extract, are beneficial in improving circulation, particularly in the eye. In one study persons with no retinal problems received 200 mg/day of PCOs. After 5 weeks their visual performance had improved over a control group that did not receive PCOs.

"Second Wind"

The first mile was a proverbial "breeze"; the second...profuse perspiration, followed by another filled with ragged gasps and blood-red faces struggling up "Cardiac Hill." Two more miles to go...impossible!

Then an unbelievable change occurs. A floating sensation replaces breathless exhaustion. Unbelievably, feet fly upon a seemingly limitless level of energy. With that "second wind", the finish line is in sight.

Our lives are similar. Initially, we take our struggles in stride, for we are naturally hopeful. Then, as daily cares continually stretch out before us, we may wonder if the finish line is but an impossible dream. Yet, we should not fear.

Isaiah 40:31 assures us "...but they who wait for the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings like eagles; they shall run and not be weary; they shall walk and not faint." Worship at your local house of worship this Sabbath. God is your "second wind". The finish line is in sight.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

COMPLEX, YET SIMPLE

October 28, 2001

Background Scripture: Matthew 25:31-46.
Devotional Reading: 1 John 4:7-21.

The parable of the last judgment, like all parables, needs to be examined for the big truth it conveys, not the literal details of the story. For example, as a left hander, I do not believe God will literally put the unrighteous on his left side, nor even that God has a left or right 'side'. Nor do I believe that we will literally become 'sheep' and 'goats'. Sheep are not necessarily 'righteous' and goats are not necessarily 'unrighteous'.

I do believe, however, that there will be a judgment of each and every one of us and one of the things that is literally true, I believe, is that Jesus, not us, will do the judging. We will not be invited to join in the judging because we are not capable of doing it—a truth that we all too often forget.

When I was a lot younger, I was confident that I knew the difference between the righteous and the unrighteous. Today I quite realize that ultimate judgment is too complex for the human brain and spirit. I could select those who I think are righteous and unrighteous, but only God in Christ is truly able. Think how difficult it is to be a judge in legal affairs today, to decide guilt and innocence when neither guilt nor innocence is as simple and clear-cut as some would want us to believe. Thank God the final judgment is not our responsibility. Not only do I realize that I am not capable of it, but that my judgments here and now are often too simplistic and ignorant.

The Inheritance: Grace

Something else we may miss in this parable is that the 'inheritance' of the righteous is still dependent upon God's grace. An inheritance is never 'earned'. We do not earn a favorable judgment with our deeds. Those deeds are the willing result of accepting God's grace. The grace is not dependent upon our deeds, but the deeds are dependent upon God's grace. Our deeds indicate to Christ that we have humbly accepted his mercy. We are undeserving of the love he gives us.

That understanding puts our ministry to others in a different light. As we acknowledge that God sheds his grace upon us while yet we are undeserving, so we are called to give grace to others

TV PIPELINE

Murphy becoming a familiar face

By Taylor Michaels
©TVData Features Syndicate

Brittany Murphy

Q: On a recent trip to the movies, I noticed Brittany Murphy's name on several of the movie posters around the lobby. How long has she been making movies? Is she a newcomer, or have I just been living under a rock? –Gerry in Vallejo, Calif.

A: Are those my only two choices? Don't be too hard on yourself, Gerry, but Murphy, 23, has rarely stopped working since breaking out in the movie comedy Clueless in 1995. Recently top-billed with Michael Douglas in the thriller Don't Say a Word, she also is featured in Penny Marshall's new Riding in Cars With Boys and Edward Burns' Sidewalks of New York.

The Atlanta native also starred (with Sidney Poitier and Lukas Haas) in the 1998 ABC remake of David and Lisa, the Showtime Holocaust drama The Devil's Arithmetic and such feature films as Drop Dead Gorgeous and Girl, Interrupted, among many others. If that's not enough, off-camera she also gives voice to flaky Luanne on Fox's animated King of the Hill.

Q: The first new episode of The District included, at the end of the show, a memoriam to Jack Maple. Who was he and how did he die? –Agnes via e-mail.

A: Maple was the former New York deputy police commissioner whose real-life experiences were the inspiration for Jack Mannion, the District character played by Craig T. Nelson. He died at age 48 on Saturday, Aug. 4, after a long battle with colon cancer.

Q: Why was the actor who played Danny on The District written out of the show? –I. Taylor, Hampton, Ga.

A: A CBS publicist says that David O'Hara's departure from the show was amicable and based largely on the Scottish actor's desire to be closer to his family back in the United Kingdom.

O'Hara co-stars in Jon Favreau's recent comedy-drama Made, scheduled for DVD release this November.

Q: Did the man who played Otis Campbell on The Andy Griffith Show also provide the voice of Barney Rubble on The Flintstones? –Gregory Parham, Chicago.

A: No, Mel Blanc and Daws Butler alternated as the voice of Barney during the Flintstones run, but it's funny you should ask: Hal Smith, the gifted character actor best known as Otis Campbell, was also a renowned voice talent who provided various Flintstones voices, Goliath on Davey and Goliath, a host of Disney characters and countless others.

NATIONAL TEMPORARY HELP WEEK OBSERVED — ACT Personnel Service Inc., a temporary and permanent placement service, recently celebrated this week with an award ceremony honoring George Skiles as the 2001 ACT Temporary Employee of the Year. He was presented with a plaque, gift certificate, and cake by Angela Flanigan, branch manager of ACT. Skiles began as a temporary employee for NuWay Interiors and is now a permanent employee. In the past year, ACT has been able to place more than 135 people on temporary assignments, many of which have turned into permanent employment. For a growing number of individuals, temporary employment represents an ideal work solution, said Sheri Senabaugh, president of ACT Personnel Service Inc. In the above photo, from the left, are Alex Flanigan, Skiles, Angela Flanigan, Jimmy Flanigan, and Jim Flanigan.

Lutheran Braille Workers Schedule Benefit Dinner

A turkey dinner has been set at the Northern High School cafeteria for 4:30 to 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 3, to benefit the Lutheran Braille Workers Inc. The 19th annual fund-raising dinner is sponsored by Lutheran Braille Work Center #173 and Aid Association of Lutherans branches 585 and 588.

The cost of the meal is $6 for adults and $3 for children under 12. Take-out meals will be available, along with baked goods and crafts. For information persons may call 301-746-8336.

Church To Hold Bazaar, Luncheon

The Westernport Church of the Brethren will hold its annual bazaar/soup and salad luncheon on Friday, Nov. 2. The bazaar will be held from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., with the luncheon being served from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. The menu will include an "all-you-can-eat" salad bar, soup (vegetable, chicken noodle, broccoli), homemade rolls, drink, and dessert.

All persons wishing to place an order for soup ($3 per quart) must do so by Wednesday noon, Oct. 31, by calling Phyllis Lewis at 301-359-9157, and must provide their own containers. Orders will be available for pickup at the church on Friday, Nov. 2, after 11 a.m.

Included in the bazaar will be items from SERRV, local craft creations, and miscellaneous articles. The cost for the meal is $5.

Dr. Lancaster To Speak At Fall Revival

The New Testament Baptist Church will hold a fall revival during the week of Oct. 28 through 31. Services will be held each evening at the church, beginning at 7 p.m., with guest speaker Dr. J.W. Lancaster, pastor of the Highland Baptist Church in Cumberland.

Dr. Lancaster started his ministry in the area when he planted the Bible Baptist Church in Barton in October 1966. In the spring of 1967, the Bible Baptist Church was able to start as a mission of the Central Baptist Church in Essex with 11 charter members. Rev. W.E. Hardy helped organize the church, and Pastor Lancaster was called as their minister.

By 1968, the church purchased the Barton Theater, and by 1973, the average attendance was 113 per service. In April 1974, Pastor Lancaster was called to plant another church and organized the Highland Baptist Church of Cumberland in 1975 with 43 charter members.

As Lancaster's ministry continued, church ministries included two years of telecast on Cumberland Cable Channel 8 and 10 years of broadcasting the evening services on WFRB. Highland Baptist Church also supports 25 missionaries around the world.

The New Testament Church in Grantsville started out as an extension of the Highland Baptist Church and was organized by Pastor J.W. Lancaster and the Highland Baptist Church. Pastor Tony Wilburn was called to start the mission as pastor. It now has 22 charter members.

The New Testament Church is located at 710 Dung Hill Road, near Grantsville, and for additional information, persons may call Pastor Wilburn at 301-895-4001. The public is invited to attend the week-long revival services.

OCTOBER is Let's Talk Month
The Garrett County Teen Pregnancy Prevention Coalition and the Garrett Youth Council encourage teens and parents to talk about things that really matter like love, sex, and values. If you are unsure how to start a conversation, try this tried and true tip from parents and talk to each other.
Use teachable moments.
"Find times to start talks. Use a TV show, news program, magazine or even a billboard on the highway to start talking about sex. Say something like, 'Do you think that guy in the show should have sex with his girlfriend so she'll stay with him?' Or, 'That model is wearing a really skimpy outfit. Why do you think people dress that way?' I find these short talks work well!"
- Try this:
Watch TV with your kids, listen to their music, and invite their friends to your home. Look for chances to start a 10 - minute talk a few times a week. This lets your child know you are interested and ready to talk.
- Say, "Come and talk with me any time you have a question. I'm here to help."
- Be ready. You never know when a teachable moment will happen.

Horse Liniment Eases Arthritis Pain

OCALA, FL -- An ingredient derived from hot peppers that decreases inflammation in racehorse's legs, is now recognized as safe and effective for human use. The ingredient has been formulated into a product called ARTH-Rx™ and comes in a strength designed for humans. Researchers are excited and say the formula can relieve arthritis pain for millions.

Developed by the Phillips Gulf Corporation, ARTH-Rx is a breakthrough in the treatment of painful disorders ranging from minor aches and pains to more serious conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, tendonitis, backache and more.

Although the mechanism by which ARTH-Rx works to relieve pain is not totally clear, scientists suggest that pain is relieved because ARTH-Rx intercepts the messenger substance that sends pain signals to the brain.

ARTH-Rx is available in a convenient roll-on applicator without a prescription. According to a spokesperson for the company, due to the overwhelming demand for ARTH-Rx, supplies are sometimes limited. ARTH-Rx can also be ordered by calling 1-800-729-8446. www.hcdsales.com ©2000 PGC

Local Students Join In "Walk To School" Day

Schools around the world joined forces again this year on October 2 to celebrate International Walk to School Day. Representing Garrett County, students at Friendsville, Kitzmiller, and Bloomington elementary schools were among the 2 million children, accompanied by parents, teachers, and community leaders, worldwide who participated in the event.

The purpose of International Walk to School Day is to raise worldwide awareness of child pedestrian issues, safety, and exercise. According to a staff member of Garrett County Health Department Outreach, who coordinated the local segment, the event can also help children learn vital road skills and create a stronger sense of community. The event's main principle is that "healthy people make healthy communities.

ROTARY DONATES TO GCHS — A recent meeting of the Oakland Rotary Club featured a presentation by guest speaker Bob Boal, president of the Garrett County Historical Society. The talk detailed the society's progress in preserving and explaining our county's heritage over the past year, and previewed upcoming projects. Boal is shown at the left accepting the Rotary's $500 donation to the Historical Society from club president Jack Regentin.

NGCRWC Slates Meeting, Auction

The Northern Garrett County Republican Women's Club will meet this Tuesday, Oct. 30, at 7 p.m. at the Hill Top Inn in Grantsville. The club's auction fund-raiser will take place during the evening, and members are asked to bring items to donate for sale and take part in the bidding.

The event marks the NGCRWC's last membership meeting until March. A Christmas luncheon will take place in December at the Hill Top Inn, and details will be published prior to that function.

Free Legal Info Can Be Obtained Via The Internet

Maryland citizens can access the Internet for information on many everyday legal issues. "Facing life-changing situations without proper legal knowledge — such as finding a nursing care facility, writing a will, appointing a guardian, or getting the special education a child requires — can lead many people to make rash decisions, sometimes with negative consequences," stated an MSBA spokesperson. "The Maryland State Bar Association helps the public avoid the pitfalls of these situations with its excellent legal resource, the Legal Information Brochure Series.

"These legal information brochures are available on the Internet at MSBA's web site, www.msba.org, under the Public Resources link. The series includes 24 brochures with a wide variety of titles on common legal issues such as: Domestic Violence, Lawyers & Legal Fees, Entering a Franchise Agreement, and When Do You Need a Lawyer, as well as many others. Persons may read the brochures in their entirety on-line. These brochures describe common legal situations in basic layman's terms.

These brochures are also available free of charge in a hardcopy format to the community. For more information, persons may call Ruth Ballard at 410-685-7878 or 800-492-1964, extension 224, to order copies, or e-mail her at rballard@msba.org.

The Maryland State Bar Association Inc. is a professional, nonprofit, voluntary organization composed of over 20,000 attorneys across the state of Maryland.

First United Bank Employee Marks 25 Years

Sharon Frantz was honored recently for her 25 years of service with First United Bank & Trust.

Frantz is a graduate of Northern High School, and has been with First United since 1976, having begun her career as a customer service representative. Since that time she has held other positions, including: computer operator, account reconcilement supervisor, bookkeeping supervisor, loan administration supervisor, and customer service officer for the Deep Creek Lake and Grantsville offices. She is currently the customer service officer at the Friendsville office.

Frantz resides in Friendsville with her husband Phil and son Michael. She is a member of the Friendsville PTO and New Life Church in Markleysburg, Pa.

Jennings ELCA Women Convene

Women of the ELCA, Zion Lutheran Church, Jennings, held their monthly meeting on October 15.

The study, "Praying for the Word," was led by Leota Baker. The goals of the lesson were: to help the group understand what is at stake when people say God's name; to recognize the connection between God's name and God's word; and to be able to distinguish between God's word and the things competing to be God's word. This study of the first petition of the Lord's Prayer was opened with the singing of the hymn "God's Word is Our Great Heritage."

Judy Stanton presided over the business meeting.

A thank-you card was received from the Lutheran Home at Kane, Pa., for the package of washcloths sent by Zion's unit.

A package of gifts and clothing was sent to Our Savior's Lutheran Church, Box Elder, Mont., for their Christmas give-away to the American Indians on the Rocky Boy Reservation.

Tribute to the memory of Norman Baker and Verta Durst was made through gift offerings to Women of the ELCA-Churchwide. These gifts were forwarded for the specific ministry Women and Children in Crisis, and designated for Children at Risk.

The Bulletin of Reports from the W.Va.-W.Md. Synodical Women's Convention, held on August 3-4, has been received.

The annual ingathering of the thankoffering will be observed in November.

Loan Payments To Be Deferred For Guardsmen

Governor Parris N. Glendening announced yesterday that the Maryland Higher Education Commission will defer service requirements and payments on loans for students who receive certain Maryland scholarships and have been called into active duty by the National Guard or the Reserves.

The deferment of payments and work obligation applies to students receiving scholarships such as science and technology, HOPE, teacher, and nursing, as well as other, smaller scholarships. All carry a one-year commitment to work in Maryland for each year a scholarship is received. The deferment will also apply to students whose scholarships become low-interest loans when they change majors.

"We must do all that we can to support our Maryland service men and women as they protect our nation and our freedom," said Governor Glendening. "It is important for those who answered our call to pursue careers in areas experiencing workforce shortages to know that their academics studies and professional goals will face a minimum of disruption while they are on active duty."

Persons affected must contact the Maryland Higher Education Commission and provide appropriate documentation.

When deferment is granted, a recipient will not be considered to be in violation of his or her agreement with the state and will not have to make work obligations, payments, or accrued interest until he or she returns from military duty.

For more information, persons may contact the Maryland Higher Education Commission's State Scholarship Administration at 410-260-4565 or 1-800-974-1024.

Antiques

by Ralph and Terry Kovel

Q. I have an old decorative cast-iron fence and gate. The scroll at the top of the gate is embossed "Rogers Fence Co. Springfield, O" and "Patented Nov. 22 1881." Does it have value?

A. The patent date led us to the patent number 250046. It is a patent for an improvement to the way the uprights on a fence were clamped to the connecting bars. Old iron fences are in demand today, as are all kinds of garden antiques. Fencing sells depending on the size and the beauty of the design. An 8-foot piece of fence selling at a flea market would cost at least $100.

When TLC Isn't Enough

Q. I have a four-year-old yellow Lab who loves cuddles. She has gotten special treatment since she was little, because she was the runt in the litter. She still gets spoiled because she is the only female dog in a group of four Labs. Is this cuddle thing normal for an adult dog?

A. All dogs love attention, so your pet's love of "cuddles" is not surprising. I'm sure the other three Labs have their own ways of getting your attention — from nuzzling your hand to barking and romping around the house.

Is her behavior normal? Well, it depends on a couple of factors: her personality, and her interaction with the male dogs.

The fact that she is the runt of the litter, and the only female dog in the house, probably has contributed to her cuddly personality. If she stays constantly by your side and avoids or refuses to play with the other dogs, she may have some deep-seated anxiety caused by these major factors. An anxious dog may exhibit other behaviors, like crying or hiding during thunderstorms or chewing up everything in the house.

Male dogs, especially if they haven't been neutered, can display aggressive tendencies, further adding to her anxiety. Does a game of catch with all four dogs send the female running in the other direction?

Some effective measures in reducing her "cuddle factor" include reemphasizing her basic behavior training, modifying her interaction with the other dogs, and reducing her anxiety with the help of her vet, who may prescribe medication.

When your dog asks for a cuddle, don't indulge her, but don't push her away. Instead, start a training session. Work with her for about 15 minutes. This way, she gets constructive attention that moves her mind away from those anxious feelings. Reward her with treats and a good pat. Allow "cuddle time" only once or twice per day, for a specific length of time.

If your male dogs aren't neutered, keep them away from the female. If all your pets are fixed, then have her play with just one of your other dogs at a time, for now. She needs to socialize with each one individually. Supervise this playtime.

In fact, unless you intend to breed one of your pets (if they aren't pedigreed, I don't believe you should), have all of them fixed. You don't have to be a dog to know how relieved your pet will be once the constant threat of being mounted is gone.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• Speed is important to the gazelle because of its need to outrun predators. So important, in fact, that a baby gazelle isn't born weak and wobbly like most other animals — it is able to run within minutes of birth. And a two-day-old gazelle can outrun a full-grown horse.

• Reportedly, the Dalai Lama is a fan of the television series "Star Trek."

• A recent study at Long Island College Hospital has found that people who suffer allergies who also own cats with dark fur report two to four times more, and worse, symptoms than allergy sufferers who don't own cats. Not terribly surprising. However, the study also found that there was no difference, statistically speaking, between allergy sufferers with no cats and those with light-furred cats. Are black cats really bad luck?

• If you were to dismantle the Great Wall of China, there would be enough stone to build an 8-foot wall encircling the earth at the equator.

• Birds and insects perform a great service to many plants by carrying pollen from one plant to another, enabling them to reproduce. This is why flowers exist — to entice other creatures into pollinating. However, some plants have other, less appetizing, ways to attract pollinators — like the carrion plant (known scientifically as Stapelia grandiflora) found in Africa. It is an unhealthy-looking, mottled reddish color, and it smells terrible — like rotting meat. This attracts tiny carrion flies, which ordinarily lay their eggs in carrion. When a fly lands on the plant to lay eggs, its body picks up grains of pollen. The next time that fly is fooled by a carrion plant, the pollen stuck to its body will fertilize the plant.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Nov. 1, 1848, the first medical school for women in the United States opens in Boston, with two professors and 12 students. Known as the Boston Female Medical School, the institution was founded through the efforts of Samuel Gregory, a pioneer in medical education for women.

• On Oct. 31, 1926, Harry Houdini, the most celebrated magician and escape artist of the 20th century, dies of peritonitis in a Detroit hospital.

• On Oct. 29, 1929, Black Tuesday hits Wall Street as investors trade 16,410,030 shares on the New York Stock Exchange in a single day. Billions of dollars were lost. In the aftermath, America and the rest of the industrialized world spiraled downward into the Great Depression.

• On Oct. 30, 1938, Orson Welles causes a nationwide panic with his broadcast of "War of the Worlds" — a realistic radio dramatization of a Martian invasion of Earth. Later, Welles feared that the controversy generated by the broadcast would ruin his career. In fact, the publicity helped land him a contract with a Hollywood studio, and in 1941 he directed, wrote, produced and starred in "Citizen Kane."

• On Nov. 2, 1984, in North Carolina, Margie Velma Barfield, a convicted murderer, becomes the first woman to be executed in the modern era of the death penalty. The 52-year-old private nurse and former Sunday school teacher was convicted of lacing her fiance's food with rat poison, and later admitted to poisoning three others.

• On Nov. 3, 1984, Bobby Joe Long kidnaps and rapes 17-year-old Lisa McVey in Tampa, Fla. The victim's subsequent courage and bravery led to the capture and arrest of Long, who was eventually found guilty of 10 murders committed in the Tampa area.

• On Nov. 4, 1995, Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin is fatally shot by Yigal Amir, minutes after attending a peace rally in Tel Aviv. Amir, a 27-year-old Jewish law student, had connections to the far-right Jewish group Eyal.

BIKE-A-THON HELPS ST. JUDE'S — Noel Fearer, daughter of Kelvin and Debbie Fearer, Friendsville, was the top fund-raiser for the recent Bike-A-Thon, which was held at the Friendsville Community Park. The monies will go to help the children receiving medical attention at St. Jude Children's Research Hospital. A bike and helmet were awarded to Fearer by the Garrett County Health Department, Outreach Program. The event was coordinated by Brenda Frazee.

4-H Club News

RED HOUSE
by Ryann Friend
reporter

The October meeting of the Red House 4-H Club was brought to order by Aliza Green. Pledges were led by Tori Riley, and minutes were read by Stephanie Brenneman.

Brenneman delivered a report on the Preston County Beef Show. Sara Brenneman and Nicky Moreland also attended that event. Vonda Moreland gave a report detailing the totals from the Garrett County Fair in August. Demonstrations were performed at the meeting by Adam Sanders, Kaitlyn Jones, and Levi Green.

Several club members gave demonstrations at the fair. They were: Aliza Green, Eli Green, Levi Green, Adam Sanders, Travis Sanders, Daniel Skipper, Jordan Skipper, Rachael Skipper, Barry Uphold, and B.J. Uphold, each of whom performed a pig demonstration; Nathan Sines, who gave a steer demonstration; and Ben Knepp, who performed a sheep demonstration.

Several club members — Eli Green, Ryann Friend, Rachael Skipper, and Jordan Skipper — recorded radio spots to promote National 4-H Week recently. Those radio spots aired the week of Oct. 7-13.

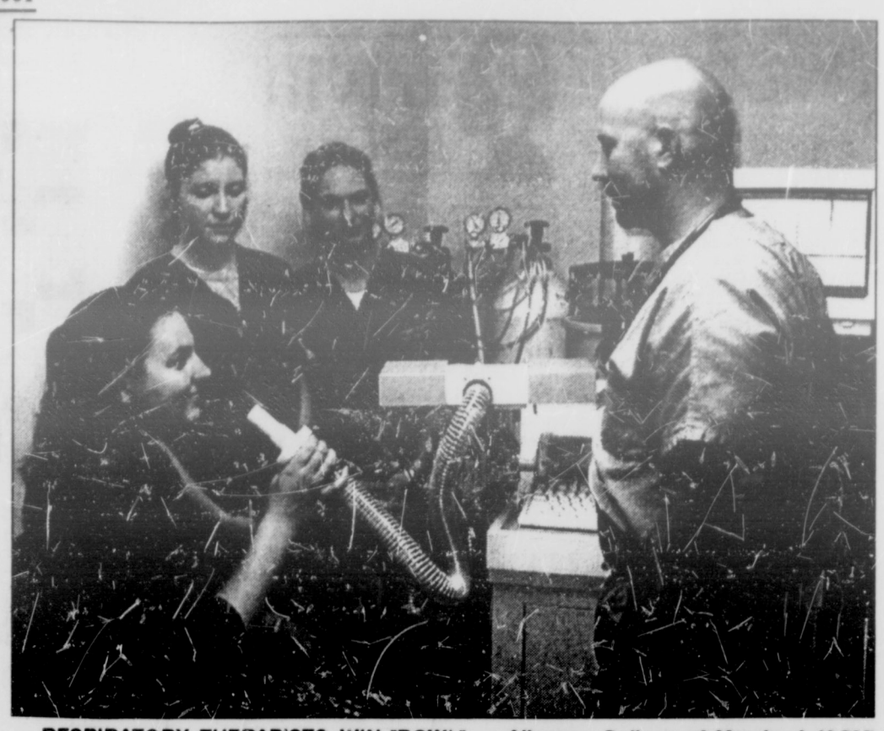
The next Red House 4-H Club meeting is set for Wednesday, Nov. 7.

COUNTRY KIDS
by Amanda Bowers
reporter

The Country Kids 4-H Club held its October meeting at the Pyseli farm after enjoying a hayride on the property and sharing a good meal. Josh Harris led the pledges, Adam Rexrode gave a demonstration and a report on the corn maze, and Derek DeWitt reported on the petting zoo that had been set up in the Oakland town parking lot.

All market beef owners must have their steers weighed and tagged on Saturday, Nov. 3, or Saturday, Nov. 10. If one of those days is canceled, the make-up date is set for Saturday, Nov. 17. Anyone who hasn't turned in his/her premium stub must turn it in to Debbie Barnard by Monday, Oct. 29, or within three days after that date.

Club members interested in running for an officer's position must have a prepared speech ready for the next meeting, set for 7 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 20, at the Deer Park Community Building. Brittany Morgan is reminded to have her demonstration ready for delivery at that meeting. "Project Night" is set for the December meeting, and parents are asked to discuss projects with their club members beforehand.



RESPIRATORY THERAPISTS WIN "BOWL" — Allegany College of Maryland (ACM) respiratory therapy students, who regularly utilize Garrett County Memorial Hospital as a clinical rotation site, competed in the Maryland/D.C. Society of Respiratory Care bowl, held during the organization's state meeting. The local team eliminated seven other groups from across the state to win this year's competition. "The ACM team — with members Art Reeves, Jessica Wilt, and Misty Rawlings — performed well," said Eric Tribbey, GCMH's respiratory therapy department manager and the treasurer of the Md./D.C. Society of Respiratory Care. ACM respiratory care students are able to perform and observe a wide variety of diagnostic and therapeutic procedures at GCMH, which has served ACM as a clinical site for over 20 years. Pictured above from left are patient Deana Closter, Rawlings, Krista Pritt, and GCMH respiratory care practitioner Randy Crabtree.

Redistricting Plan Set For GOP Discussion

The Maryland Republican Party has scheduled a public meeting for this Monday, Oct. 29, at 7 p.m. at Cumberland's Ali Ghan Shrine Temple to discuss its proposed 2002 redistricting plan for western Maryland. The meeting is one of a series of six such GOP events across the state to inform citizens of the party's proposal, and is the western-most gathering on the party's slate.

"Our plan divides each legislative district into three single-member districts," explained Maryland GOP chairman Michael Steele. "Under this plan, every candidate for the House will focus on the needs and concerns of a community of 35,000-39,000 voters. This local emphasis ensures that elected representatives are accessible by, and accountable to, their constituents. Our plan benefits the people who live in each district, not the people who seek to run in each district."

The GOP plan was developed by the party's Redistricting Team 2002, headed by House Minority Leader Robert Kittleman, and Senate Minority Leader Martin Madden. For plan details and further information, persons may consult the Maryland Republican Party web page at www.mdgop.org.

Teaming Up To Save Lives From Breast Cancer

Garrett County Memorial Hospital is challenging businesses and organizations to join them in becoming an American Cancer Society Tell A Friend partner to help save lives. Through a volunteer network, the American Cancer Society's Tell A Friend program is designed to encourage women to get regular mammograms.

Tell A Friend volunteers will be trained by the American Cancer Society to call their friends, co-workers, and family and encourage them to fight breast cancer with early detection — having regular mammograms, clinical breast exams, and performing monthly breast self exams.

Detecting breast cancer in its early stages is highly curable, and mammography is the best tool available for early detection. The Tell A Friend program is a way to spread this message woman to woman. The American Cancer Society invites the public to become part of a communitywide effort to make sure that every woman who needs a mammogram gets one.

The American Cancer Society is looking for organizations and groups, as well as individual volunteers, to become partners in efforts nationwide to ensure that all women age 40 or older have regular mammograms.

Tell a Friend partners can contribute by organizing and recruiting volunteers, with the support of the American Cancer Society.

"We are currently a Tell A Friend Partner with the American Cancer Society and together are striving to make women aware of the importance of getting regular mammograms," said Deana Clester, wellness coordinator for Garrett Memorial Hospital. "It's a simple but effective way of reaching women and getting them to have a mammogram regularly, which ultimately saves lives."

Garrett County Memorial Hospital and the American Cancer Society have placed the challenge to any group or organization to join the list of partners by calling Tenna Taylor with the ACS at 1-888-227-9979.

BROAD FORD RECEIVES AWARD — Broad Ford Elementary School was one of 28 schools across the state of Maryland chosen to receive the Maryland Center for Character Education Recognition Award for 2001. Doug Gaither, principal, and Bonnie Swyter, counselor based at Broad Ford, were recognized by the Garrett County Board of Education at a recent meeting. Pictured above, from the left, are Madeleine Collins, president, Gaither, Swyter, and Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent.

BAGGING FOR AUTUMN GLORY — Maryland Army National Guard volunteers assigned to the Oakland Armory prepared for the recent Autumn Glory Festival in a rather unique way, as they filled dozens of sandbags for use in their convoy display in the Grand Feature Parade and a bunker display of vehicles and equipment at the Cork's Cars lot along Second Street. Fairfax Stone donated over $70 worth of sand for the project. Shown from the left on the sandbagging detail are SSgt. Tom Beeghly, Sgt. Kenneth Fike, and Lt. Joseph Shaffer. The local Guard unit also manned a Mobile Field Kitchen at the bunker site, where citizens were treated to the same Army chow soldiers rely on in the field.

Farming On The Mountaintop

Harvest Continues To Roll On Thanks To Dry Weather

Last week was characterized by dry conditions in Maryland, a continued trend from the previous week that has boosted harvesting activities. Consequently, farmers had an average of 6.4 days suitable for fieldwork, which they took advantage of for activities such as harvesting row crops and seeding small grains. Some counties did receive small amounts of precipitation last week that ranged from 0.1 inches to 0.4 inches. Precipitation for October ranged from 0.7 inches in Anne Arundel, Calvert, and Worcester counties to 1.3 inches in Wicomico County. All counties are between .8 and 1.5 inches below normal for precipitation this month so far.

The weather last week was ideal for harvesting row crops. Corn harvested for grain is 79 percent complete, progressing 12 percent from the previous week, 11 percent ahead of last year, and 10 percent ahead of the five-year average. Corn harvested for silage is virtually complete. Soybean harvest is 42 percent complete, progressing 14 percent over the previous week, 11 percent ahead of last year, and 12 percent ahead of the five-year average. Soybean harvest is in full swing, progressing 28 percent over the past two weeks.

Small grain seedings continue with 78 percent of the barley crop planted, 8 percent ahead of last year, and 5 percent ahead of the five-year average. Barley is rated 1 percent in excellent condition, 52 percent good, 41 percent fair, and 6 percent poor. Winter wheat planting is 40 percent complete, 10 percent ahead of last year and 4 percent ahead of the average. Winter wheat condition is rated 69 percent good, 30 percent fair, and 1 percent poor. Rye is 47 percent planted, 13 percent ahead of last year and 5 percent ahead of the average. Rye is rated 4 percent in excellent condition, 57 percent good, 36 percent fair, and 3 percent poor.

Topsoil and subsoil moisture levels continue to decrease due to the dry weather. Consequently, both topsoil and subsoil rated in adequate supply decreased by 6 percent from the previous week. Topsoil moisture is rated 51 percent adequate, 43 percent short, and 6 percent very short. Subsoil moisture is 41 percent adequate, 53 percent short, and 6 percent very short.

New Beef Weigh-In Required For 4-H/FFA Members

A new mandatory requirement must be met for all members who plan to sell a steer at the 2002 Garrett County Fair. The steer must be brought to a fall weigh-in on Saturday, Nov. 3, or Saturday, Nov. 10, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m., at the fairgrounds.

In case of bad weather, cancellation announcements will be made on radio stations WFRB and WKHJ. If any date needs to be rescheduled, the make-up date will be Saturday, Nov. 17.

At the weigh-in the animal must be weighed and tagged, the member will receive the guide book and project records for the 2002 year, and a veterinarian will be present to do a health check and provide immunizations, if needed.

The Livestock Association representatives who will be conducting the weigh-in said they understand the 4-H members don't have a lot of time to work with the animals before the weigh-in. Consequently, they have established a couple of guidelines to help the weighing and tagging go smoothly. One guideline is that the animal should wear a halter. This does not mean the animal is expected to be halter-broken; instead, the halter will be used for restraining purposes. The other guideline is that the member should work with the animal enough so that the animal is comfortable with the member and the controllable.

This is a mandatory event for all youth with the market steer project. Persons with questions may call the Livestock Association at 301-334-1399, or the Extension Office at 301-334-6960.

From Gourds To Tours: Pumpkins Not Just For Carving Any More

by Marie Beaudette
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON — Maryland pumpkin farmers say they're selling more than just a big orange gourd these days — they're selling pumpkin-picking families a low-cost, wholesome way to spend time together.

Officials say the trend toward "ag tourism" has been growing recently, but may have been boosted this year by the Sept. 11 attacks. At least one vendor said her best sales this year have come near military bases.

"In general we're starting to see more ag tourism," said Ray Garibay, a statistician for the Maryland Department of Agriculture. "They're capitalizing on us urbanites.

"I see a lot of young folks not realizing where food comes from other than the grocery store," he said, adding that there has been a huge effort in Maryland to change this.

One pumpkin vendor said she has seen more families returning to traditional seasonal activities such as pumpkin carving and scarecrow making since the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks.

"A lot of people are going back to traditional values," said Faith Rodell, who owns a chain of seven roadside stands collectively known as the Great Pumpkin Patch.

Rodell, who was working a stand in Calverton this week, said pumpkin sales have been especially high near Maryland military bases. People are getting into things like "motherland and apple pie" and that includes pumpkins, she said.

Steve Weber, a Baltimore pumpkin farmer and president of the Maryland Farm Bureau, said that for the last 20 years people have not been buying as much produce to cook, because most of what they eat now is already prepared. He said it reflects the changing work habits and time restrictions of the modern American family.

"We've changed from produce-driven to entertainment-driven," said Weber, who runs Weber's Cider Mill Farm. "If they can play with it, we can sell no end of it."

That means that where one pumpkin per family may have been the norm in the 1950s and 1960s, he said, families buy pumpkins now by the "little red wagon load, not by the pumpkin."

This trend has translated into a steadily increasing amount of land devoted to pumpkin patches in Maryland, Garibay said. In 1999, there were about 1,400 acres devoted to pumpkins in the state; this year, it will be closer to 1,700 acres.

"The overall trend is due to the increasing population and marketing of the 'come out to the farm and pick your own' idea," he said.

Savvy marketing, according to another pumpkin farmer, is a big reason for an increase in pumpkin sales.

"Farmers come up with innovative ideas to draw people to the farms from the suburbs," said Gilbert Buddy Bowling, a Charles County pumpkin farmer and executive director of the Maryland Agricultural Commission.

Bowling, a former tobacco farmer who switched to pumpkins about four years ago, said farmers use other fall attractions such as corn mazes and hay rides to bring people in to buy pumpkins.

"It's a niche market," Garibay said.

Weber expected Friday would be one of the busiest days of the season, as schools were out for an annual state teachers' conference. Pumpkin vendors have come to call it "Black Friday."

But "this place goes quiet at 1 p.m. on Halloween," he said. "The wagons stop squeaking and there are no kids screaming."

For now, however, business is booming. Weber said he expected to see between 2,000 and 3,000 people at his farm this weekend.

He said much of the pumpkin patch's popularity comes from its distinctly fall atmosphere. People come just to "hang out."

"People have an inborn need to get back to the harvest thing," Weber said.

"Organic" Conference Set For Nov.

The Mountain State Organic Growers and Buyers Association (MSOGBA) has announced its 12th annual conference to be held at the New Vrindaban Community Conference Center near Moundsville, W.Va., Nov. 2 through 4.

The conference, titled "Organic: The Economics of Doing It," will include workshops and discussions on topics such as marketing strategies, organic certification, beneficial insects, and straw bale construction.

Also available will be food, products from the organic community, wine tasting, and a benefit auction. To register or for more information, persons may contact Katharine Dubansky at 301-334-5633.

Agency Seeking Candidates For County Committee

The Garrett County Farm Service Agency is looking to expand the pool of candidates that will run for three-year terms on the farmer-elected County Office Committee.

"We're looking for the broadest possible participation from anyone within the farming community," Mike Kozier, FSA county executive director, said. "There's a lot of skill and experience out there that we haven't tapped into in the past and that we really could use."

The FSA County Office Committee is the most direct link between USDA farm programs and local producers. The county committee system helps shape nationwide programs into programs that work at the local level by making decisions on things like commodity price support loans and payments, and establishing allotments, yields, and marketing quotas for some crops, Kozier explained.

"To make the system work, it must represent all of the different parts of local agriculture," Kozier said. "This means the business side of the operation, the small farmer, people in specialty crops, truck farmers, new farmers, women — all people with unique and valuable insights and perspective to the business. We need their help and experience."

The County Office Committee election will be held in November and December. FSA has the finalized list of all eligible participants — all local farmers — and nomination petitions will be due near the end of the month.

"Those people elected to the committee will become part of a national network of farmers and ranchers who have a unique opportunity to help the future of all local producers," Kozier said. "This is government at its best — local in nature, focused here at home and bringing the resources and expertise of the USDA together with the FSA's customers in rural America."

For more information about the County Office Committee and the election process, interested people should contact the local Farm Service Agency office located in the USDA Service Center for Garrett County at 1916 Maryland Hwy., Site B, Mtn. Lake Park, MD 21550; 301-334-6950, ext. 2.

BIBLICAL DRAMATIST
FRANK ROUGHTON HARVEY
Sunday, October 28, through Wednesday, October 31, 2001

Mr. Harvey received a B.A. Degree in Drama from Asbury College in Kentucky and also studied Radio and Television Arts at the College of Music at the University of Cincinnati. He continued his studies at Cashman Studios in Carnegie Hall in Ney York City. After six successful years on radio, television, and stage, he felt impelled by God to use drama as a means of communicating the Good News of salvation through faith.

He has been a professor of Bible at Andrew College and has served as a visiting professor and guest lecturer at various colleges and universities. He packed Atalanta Stadium with over 45,000 people to see his production of "Behold the Man."

Frank's unusual talent has been featured on CBS radio network and on Christian television networks many times. He has been a frequent guest on local television and radio talk shows. He has performed for general church conferences, national, and international conventions, yet insists on going to even the smallest of churches that invite him. He has served as the protestant "Retreat Master" for the U.S. Armed Forces chaplains. Approximately two months each year are utilized for performances on military posts and air bases in the United States and around the world. He has performed "The Sermon on the Mount" over 6,000 times.

Conduct Slug Assessment Now

Over the next month is the time to sample slugs to determine their relative population size within your fields. Slug populations in the spring often correlate with those numbers found in the fall. The following is an easy procedure to follow for conducting your own slug assessment.

Slug sampling can be done by placing about 10 square foot boards or roofing shingles throughout the field on the ground. Cups of beer can be placed in the soil underneath the boards to attract slugs. If beer is used, the shingles should be sampled the following morning. If only the boards are used, I would recommend sampling underneath the boards after a few days. Sampling would be most beneficial during warmer nights without frost, and is best done a few times during the fall.

Although specific thresholds are not available, knowing that a field has a low or large number of slugs will assist in management decisions next spring. If numerous slugs are found, there is a greater potential for slug problems in the spring, which necessitates closer observations on those fields. If few slugs are found, the chances for problems are lower. However, I recommend to all no-till growers, especially those having a history of slug problems, that they monitor their fields for slugs in the spring no matter what they find in the fall.

Obtaining a Farm Loan

Most small-scale farms in Garrett County are considered to be both businesses and family residences, which can cause problems when small-scale farmers apply for credit. Owners of large farms also have special credit needs, but because they usually are more knowledgeable about their credit options, they are more likely to be viewed by lending institutions as businesspeople.

When applying for a loan, small-scale farmers can increase their chances for success by observing the following management practices:

Know your farm enterprise. The trend both in agriculture and in industry is to do fewer things, but do them better. Small-scale farmers should focus on only one or two enterprises and should develop the production and marketing expertise needed for profitability.

Budget your cash flows. The surplus of revenues over expenses is an important indicator of how much debt you can handle.

Know your collateral value. Lenders will determine whether you are eligible for a loan by considering your repayment ability (or cash flow) and the value of your assets. Collateral can be land, buildings, livestock, machinery, personal property, and financial assets such as stocks and bonds. However, permanent specialized structures do not necessarily have great resale value and therefore may not be a major asset.

Have a written plan. In farming, it makes good business sense to write down goals, investment priorities, and timetables. Agricultural lenders are finding there is no substitute for good planning.

Prepare financial statements in advance. Because small-scale farms often have a relatively large amount of off-farm income, lenders are sometimes uncertain to what extent farm loans should be based on the small-scale farm enterprise or the off-farm income. Also, most small-scale farmers apply for loans under $100,000, and many lenders prefer to make larger loans to business clients, because loan-processing costs per dollar loaned are often highest for small-scale business loans. To minimize these costs, you should have important financial statements for the past three to five years already prepared when applying for a loan, including balance sheets listing assets, debts, and net worth; income statements listing sales, expenses, and overhead costs, such as depreciation and changes in inventories; and cash-flow statements for family expenses and loan payments. Financial statements are actually less complicated than they may seem. Their accuracy and early preparation can help you gain loan approval.

Use your records to make informed decisions. Maintain accurate farm records and use them when making management decisions, such as whether to upgrade or modernize facilities.

Treat the lender as a valuable asset. Because most agricultural loan officers work with farm clients and have a broad knowledge of agriculture, their banking expertise can help make a small-scale farm more successful. Find a lender that you are comfortable with and build a long-term business relationship. It can pay dividends for you and, hopefully, for your lender. Agricultural bankers are recognizing that small-scale loans can be good for their business, increasing not only lending activity, but also savings deposits, insurance sales, and other transactions that make small-scale farmers tend to have excellent repayment histories.

"Ethanol Is Good" Conclusion Of Recent Workshop

A full slate of speakers, including Congressman Roscoe G. Bartlett; Valerie Reed of the DOE's Office of Fuels Development; Bob Dineen, president of the Renewable Fuels Association; and Hosein Shapouri of the USDA's Office of Energy Policy and New Uses, plus a host of others, all convened at a recent ethanol workshop to give their outlook on ethanol and its place in Maryland.

Participants of the workshop also heard a talk about increasing energy security using renewable biomass from guest speaker R. James Woolsey, former director of the Central Intelligence Agency. Woolsey emphasized that now more than ever "we need to 'wake up' and make a difference concerning renewable fuels and the impact it can make on our country."

The information presented throughout the day gave positive indications that ethanol use could and should be expanded as a fuel source for the nation. Given the present global circumstances, all speakers made specific reference that U.S. dependency on foreign oil must lessen.

"Ethanol is a renewable fuel source our country needs. It is good for the consumers, the economy, and the environment," stated Robert Hutchison, member of the Maryland Grain Producers Utilization Board (MGPUB) and a grain, hog, and vegetable farmer from Talbot County. "Our board has been working to develop an ethanol market in Maryland for about 10 years. With the recent energy crunch, rising environmental awareness, and events worldwide, the public is starting to realize how important it is that the United States becomes less dependent on foreign oil. Ethanol is a workable solution. A solution that is good for the people and the environment."

Another highlight of the event was results from the ethanol feasibility study contracted by the MGPUB. Al Voudrie, president of Voudrie Business Development Inc., gave positive findings for the probability of constructing an ethanol plant in Maryland. Their conclusions are based on a 15-million-gallon-per-year ethanol plant, which would run on barley and other small grains including wheat. The approximate cost for constructing a plant of this size would be $30 million. The next stage is for MGPUB to develop a business plan, do site evaluations, and prepare an economic impact study so investors can realize the benefits. There will be opportunity for investors — both farmers and non-farmers — to get involved with this project, according to Voudrie.

Presently, there are more than 60 ethanol plants in the United States. Most are located in the Mid-West. Should Maryland construct its own plant, it would be the first in the state and perhaps the Mid-Atlantic Region. Currently several states, including New Jersey, New York, and Pennsylvania, are investigating the possibility of constructing their own facilities. "As the east coast ethanol market takes off, as many are hoping it will, there will be a great need to build more facilities providing a much-needed stimulus to our lagging economy," stated Hutchison.

He concluded, "The Maryland Grain Producers Utilization Board and its members are trying to do their part in making this a reality...but it will take the work of many!"

ARE YOU TIRED OF BEING OVERWEIGHT AND LACKING ENERGY?

So was Ruthann until she found Vital-18 10 YEARS ago.

Ruthann, like you, saw an ad similar to this one in her local paper, but was skeptical about trying it. She was on medical leave for a broken knee, so exercise was close to impossible. She tried it any way and loved it. Her energy level shot up and the pounds melted away. Her cast fell of due to rapid weight loss and had to be redone. She went from 240 lbs to her goal of 140 lbs in just 6 months. Can you imagine losing 100 unwanted pounds in just 6 months? It is not unusual with the Vital-18. Not only did she lose the 100 lbs but has kept it off for over 10 years by using the Vital-18 once a day, even after having 2 children.

Her success story can be found at www.weightloss-diet.com along with other testimonials, information and store locations. If you want to lose weight but are skeptical about finding a healthy effective diet product that is 100% unconditionally guaranteed to your personal satisfaction, go to your local independent health food store and get a free sample and a free 30 minute audio tape on Vital-18.

Vital-18 is a totally natural product with out any harsh stimulants and is safe for children thru seniors and is even used as a prenatal vitamin. Vital-18 has been inspected by the FDA and the USDA. It is a liquid concentrate containing 72 vitamins, minerals and 18 of the known 22 amino acids essential for dieting. All in natural occurring form.

Vital-18 comes in 3 great tasting flavors, chocolate, berry and butternut.

According to the news obesity is Americas biggest health risk effecting 25% of the population. Vital-18 is a major help with this problem. If you want to increase your life span and your quality of life then try the Vital-18. You have nothing to lose but unwanted pounds, and there is so much you can achieve, such as more energy, more luster to your hair, stronger finger nails and even cuts and scratches heal faster.

You do not experience the normal side effects of dieting such as irritability, hunger, headaches etc.

Are we trying to sell you something? You betcha. A much better life at a bargain price.

The bottom line here is that the Vital-18 has had a 98% customer satisfaction rate since its introduction to the U.S. 13 years ago. It is the most effective and the healthiest diet product available in the U.S.,and it should be. It was developed as a govt. project in "Qatar"for better health for their whole nation at an expense of 20 million dollars and 3 years research. Remember this is a no risk situation. If you are not satisfied with this product for any reason, simply take it back to the store of purchase for a full refund. So go to the following independently owned health food store and get your free sample and audio tape on Vital-18.

RAM Notes

Leadership Academy

The Leadership Academy that worked with our guest speaker last Friday would like to offer suggestions to live by. The following are weekly suggestions for all students and staff to make as a part of our everyday lives at Southern High School: Oct. 22 - Oct. 26 — "Stop talking and start listening," and Oct. 29 - Nov. 2 — "Try to understand new things."

Automotive Engineering Scholarships

Seniors interested in a career in engineering should stop by the Guidance Office to review information on the Society of Automotive Engineers Scholarships. Seniors may apply. Applicants must plan to obtain a degree in engineering or related science. A 250-word essay is a required part of the application. There is also a $5 processing fee. The postmark deadline is December 1, 2001. More information is available in the guidance office. Students can also log onto the web site for a copy of the applications and more information: http://www.sae.org/students/engschlr.htm.

Scholarship Booklets

The Scholarship Booklets, listing scholarships which come through the Northern and Southern guidance departments, are now available for seniors in the guidance office. Some students received one Monday evening during the College Expo at Garrett Community College. These booklets have been revised. Financial aid web site addresses are also listed in this booklet. Please encourage seniors interested in pursuing an education beyond high school to pick up one of these booklets.

SAT Software in Community Tech Center

The school has received a networkable software program for SAT preparation and it is available for students to use here at the library at Southern High School. This program allows users to create an account on the program, then monitors the practice and allows the students to set goals in their preparation. Students, teachers, and administration have been given permission to use the program.

Support Southern Ram Football

The Southern football program is selling football field raffle tickets. The field will be sectioned into approximately 280 plots which fans can "buy" for $10. The end zones will also be sectioned off, with six plots selling for $15 each. If the football ends up on your plot at the end of a quarter, you will win $200. Ram football parents will be selling spots until kickoff of the last home football game against Fort Hill on Nov. 2. Complete rules will be given to each person at the time of purchase. Please help support Ram football and take a chance on winning $200 at the end of each quarter during the senior night game on Nov. 2. See or call Nan Gangler at school.

1955 Football Team Welcomed to Fort Hill Game

In conjunction with the 50th anniversary, the Athletic Department of Southern High School will be welcoming back members of the 1955 football team for the November 2 home game against Fort Hill. Members have been invited to attend the pep rally Friday afternoon and participate in a halftime ceremony. The team, which went 1-2-1, was the first football team in school history. There are currently several other projects under way that will celebrate various aspects of our athletic history.

Peer and Parent Influence Evident in Adolescent Survey

A recent statewide adolescent survey shows substance abuse in the state is down considerably. Information gathered from the Maryland State Department of Education bulletin reports fewer Maryland adolescents are using alcohol, tobacco, and other drugs. The findings are part of the April 2001 Maryland Adolescent Survey, conducted every two years to determine the nature, extent, and trend of alcohol, tobacco, and other drug use among teens and adolescents. The survey results showed that children hold their parents' opinions on drugs in high esteem, and how parents react to drugs and alcohol greatly influences their use in children.

Parents, educators, and other adults in the community need to remember they are setting an example for the future generation, and they cannot underestimate the high esteem in which their opinions are viewed and valued by teens and adolescents today. Similarly, the affect of peer groups is evident in usage rates, with adolescents whose friends approve of substance use also using at greater rates. This emphasizes the importance of peer involvement in substance-free activities. The complete survey results are available for viewing on the web at www.msde.state.md.us.

Rams Playoff Information

The boys' soccer team will host South Hagerstown in an opening-round West Region playoff match on Saturday, Oct. 27. Game time is set for 7 p.m. Following a win, the boys would then travel to Williamsport on October 30 for a second-round game (Williamsport received a bye).

The girls' soccer team received a #2 seed and a first-round bye. They will play a second-round game on October 30. Should Boonsboro defeat South Hagerstown, then the game on the 30th will be at Southern. If South Hagerstown defeats Boonsboro, the girls will travel to Hagerstown. Game times will be announced.

The draw for volleyball will take place on Oct. 29, with games beginning Nov. 5.

A Letter to Parents Regarding the Maryland High School Assessments

Dear Parent/Guardian of Maryland Middle and High School Students:

The Maryland High School Assessments (HSA) are tests in English I, algebra/data analysis, geometry, government, and biology. These challenging tests are necessary to raise standards for high school students and to enhance the value of the Maryland high school diploma. For several years, the Maryland State Department of Education has worked with local school systems to prepare for the tests, which students eventually will have to pass as a graduation requirement. Your child may already have taken practice versions of the HSA.

Beginning with the 2001-2002 school year, all students (regardless of grade) are required to take the HSA as they complete the appropriate coursework. This requirement includes middle school students taking high school-level courses. At this time, passing the tests is not a requirement for graduation. Feedback on how your child performed on the HSA will be made available to you.

An attached fact sheet contains more information about the HSA. If you still have questions about the assessments, please contact your child's guidance counselor or principal. The Maryland State Department of Education will continue to work with school systems, schools, and parents to help Maryland children be successful in school and in future endeavors. Thank you for your support in raising standards for Maryland high schools.

Sincerely,
Nancy S. Grasmick
State Superintendent of Schools

Elks "Most Valuable Student" Award

Applications for the Elks "Most Valuable Student" Award will be available from Robin Spiker in Room 1208 after November 1. These scholarships, which are open to any high school senior, are worth $4,000 to $60,000 over a period of four years and are based on scholarship, leadership, and financial need. Please see Miss Spiker after November 1 to obtain further information.

2001 Yearbooks Here!

Attention 2001 graduates! The 2001 Highlander Yearbooks are available at Southern High School. Come pick up your yearbook today!

French Class Travel

Because of the current world situation as a result of the events of September 11, Mr. Leitzel and the Lycee Lesage in Vannes, France, have decided not to renew the French Exchange Program during the 2001-2002 school year. Hopefully next year we can try again. If sufficient student interest is demonstrated, Mr. Leitzel and Ms. Norris, French teacher at Northern High, will attempt to organize a French trip to Quebec City, Canada. This trip would be available to students enrolled in French II and higher during the current school, and it would most likely take place over the Easter holiday weekend, March 26 to April 1, 2002. Interested students should discuss this travel possibility with their parents, and then should notify Mr. Leitzel immediately of their interest. A minimum of 20 students from both high schools combined would be necessary in order to make this trip a reality. Please be reminded that any such travel plans would have to be approved by the school administration, the school board level administators, and the Garrett County Board of Education.

10 Ways to Help Your Child to Read

1. Read aloud to and with your child.
2. Talk with infants and toddlers before they learn to read.
3. Know the signs of different stages in your child's understanding of words.
4. Keep books nearby. Set up a special place for reading and writing in your home.
5. Encourage your child to read both fiction and nonfiction.
6. Discuss schoolwork and reading every day with your child.
7. Limit your child's TV watching and computer time.
8. Visit the library with your child and help him or her to pick out books.
9. Use books as rewards.
10. Ask for help.

Long Named To Who's Who

Jensen Long, a senior at Northern High School, was recently named to Who's Who Among American High School Students.

Long, an honor student, has played junior varsity soccer and, as a member of the junior varsity basketball team, was named outstanding player. Currently a member of the varsity basketball team, he was named most outstanding post position player for last season.

During his junior year he was on the yearbook staff, and is a teacher's assistant this year. During the summer, Long worked as a counselor at Camp Hickory. He is a member of the Cherry Glade Church and youth group, and has been involved in the Easter play.

He is a son of Kenneth and Darla Long.

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

The Northern High Marching Band traveled to Towson University on Saturday to take part in the Maryland State Championships. It made for a very long day for them. My Claire, along with her cousins Matthew, Robbie, and Blakely, had to get up at 4:30 a.m. to make the bus, and didn't get home until 10 that evening. Although they performed beautifully (this according to Marci and Rodney Glotfelty, who made the trip to support our kids), they placed fifth out of the eleven bands in their category. I know Claire was heartbroken, along with just being plain exhausted. She was pretty much just sagged all day on Sunday.

I can understand why she was so disappointed after months of almost every evening practices, in addition to some weekend long days. They finished on top in recent years, and need to adjust or just work a little harder to get there this year. They are still looking forward to a trip to the ACC championships later this fall to compete with the best on the Atlantic Coast. So, they are not yet finished with practice, practice, practice.

They also showed some great county loyalty since they stuck around for Southern's performance. Southern was missing a couple of members, and according to Claire, the Northern kids wanted to lend some extra support for their cross-county rivals.

Betty and Dr. Ralph Hummel ended their week-long visit with Betty's brother, Dale Glotfelty, for his first week home from the hospital after a long stay. They flew back to Olympia, Wash., on Saturday. Helen Englar of Westminster joined them at Dale's on Friday evening, and will be staying for a few weeks. Betty's and Ralph's loving care boosted Dale's spirits enough that he felt like hosting a family dinner last week. Along with good food was the usual squabbling of the younger generation on who would get to sit at the big table. Some things never change.

Boo (our family name for Betty) shared that this was her favorite time to visit Garrett County, but that she feared she had missed the best of the colors of the trees and the goldenrods. In fact, right now Bittinger has more bare trees than those still dressed in their fancy best. That is what we get for having early frost, and living in a place where the wind blows perpetually.

But I had a wonderful surprise on Saturday as I drove out the south area of Rock Lodge Road out by the lake. That area dazzled me with its sheer beauty. I had to pull over and tried to absorb and memorize it because (once again) I was without my camera. It was a blur of pale greens and yellow golds, brilliant yellows, and yellow oranges. It was a jigsaw puzzle of colors, and across the lake was either a birch or aspen tree with its silver trunk and tiny yellow leaves. Although it was a sunny day, the lake was a soft indigo blue, just about the color of middle-aged jeans. My last pullover was at the spring, and I was horrified to see that it was completely dry, not even a trickle of water. So I guess we should rejoice about a weather forecast that is filled with showers.

My maple tree is finally bare. The girls cleaned them up already. They filled one of those big orange pumpkin bags, but we still have enough left over for a big pile to play in with Hannah and little Claire Diehlman on Sunday afternoon.

My Mere and her friend Hannah took a walk up the road to our nearest neighbor, Steve Beachy, and family, who live in the old Metzler house, to return their tan Lab dog. I wish people would bear in mind when they are speeding on Rock Lodge Road that we have lots of children and animals, both domestic and wild, which at any moment can be near the road. In a recent week I noticed several deer hit, one near my Uncle Dale's home. Just last evening I had an unexpected knock on my door. It was a concerned woman who had just hit a black and white dog down the road toward Bittinger. Both of my dogs were home safe, as was Jazz, the Whittemores' dog. I called around to several neighbors who have black dogs. No luck in tracing the owner. My best guess is Dan and Charla Beiler, but I wasn't able to reach them. Then, another run in with an animal found a teenaged boy taking out a couple of my fence posts as he tried to avoid hitting it.

This week Emmanuel Lutheran Church's Bible study class will host an Islamic group from Winchester, Va. It is an attempt to build bridges and greater understanding between our community and the Muslim community, rather than burn those bridges. Understanding and communication will help heal the conflict being felt in these two worlds. An ecumenical evening service will be held on Sunday evening at 7 p.m., with all of Bittinger's denominations invited.

One of the many benefits of small town living is that you can get your mail forwarded to you even when it has been sent to a completely wrong address. For example, I sometimes get mail addressed to Bittinger rather than my delivery route of Accident. I occasionally still get things that are sent to my pre-9-1-1 address. This week I received a news item from Carl Haenftling with the wrong house number, but it still made its way to me. My real address is 7144 Rock Lodge Rd., Accident, MD 21520. Keep those news items coming!

The 19th annual turkey dinner to benefit the Lutheran Braille Workers Inc. will be held Saturday, Nov. 3, between 4:30 and 7 p.m. at the Northern High cafeteria. The public is invited for a great turkey dinner with all the trimmings and fixings. The cost is only $6 for adults and $3 for children under 12. Dinners will also be available for take-out. Baked goods and crafts will also be available.

The Northern High School Boys' Soccer team will finish its fun-filled (but not necessarily won-filled) season this week with a game on Wednesday evening. Bittinger's Torrey Poholsky and Brent Housley play on the team. Sally Poholsky is relieved that she can at last stop making tons of sloppy joe filling (she really only made about 25 lbs., which works out to about three pounds per game).

On Monday Sally noticed the big cloud of smoke from up here on the farm. We were glad Sally was paying attention, but I'm glad to say it wasn't the barn or woods, just Maryland Forest Service burning off our back pasture to prepare it for some future plantings of hardwoods.

BURNETT SHARES CANCER STORY WITH LIONS — Garrett County District Court Judge Ralph Burnett gave a presentation on prostate cancer at a recent meeting of the Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club. A prostate cancer survivor himself, the judge emphasized the importance of regular medical exams and PSA (Prostate Specific Antigen) blood screenings for all men over 40 in order to increase the odds of early detection, treatment, and survival. Burnett supports the National Prostate Cancer Coalition, which is working to bring an end to prostate cancer deaths with increased research funding, public policy changes, interagency cooperation, and an increase in clinical trial enrollments. Burnett is shown flanked by Oakland/MLP Lions Club president David Slagle, left, and first vice president Robert Stockslager, right, who presented the judge with a $200 donation for the National Prostate Cancer Coalition.

SCHOOLS COMPETE IN 5-A-DAY CONTEST — During National 5-A-Day, Sept. 9 through 15, a competition was held between students at Crellin and Bloomington elementary schools. Students in Mrs. Stephens's and Mrs. DeWitt's class at Crellin and Mrs. Streets's class of second and third graders at Bloomington were encouraged to eat at least five servings of fruits and vegetables each day of the competition and record what they ate. Potatoes were the most popular vegetable among the students, and oranges or orange juice was the preferred fruit. Bloomington had the most participants. Members of the Community Health and Outreach Program of the Garrett County Health Department presented Principal Jim Morris, Mrs. Streets, and her students with nutrition and exercise-related books for the school library. Each school had a class winner, who received a colander filled with 5-A-Day gifts. Ashley Williams was the winner from Crellin. Vaughn Whiteman, the winner from Bloomington, is pictured below with Amy Ritchie, the apple on the left, a registered dietitian with the health department, and Sandy Sutton, the carrot, an alcohol, tobacco, and other drugs prevention specialist.

WARM THE CHILDREN

Providing New Winter Clothing For Needy Children

For the fifth year, The Republican is asking for your help. Without it, many Garrett County children will go cold this winter.

Just what is The Republican newspaper's WARM THE CHILDREN FUND?

The Republican's Warm The Children Fund is, basically, neighbors helping neighbors. We here at the paper are asking for monetary donations (tax deductible) from you, the readers. The collected funds will be used to purchase new winter clothing for Garrett County children in need. Because the newspaper administers the program, there are no added fees or overhead costs. Every penny donated is used to buy the winter items.

How are needy children being identified?

A special core of volunteers is working right now to identify those in need this year. Those selected for applications will be receiving them soon. (Please do not call for the service. If you have been selected, you will soon be notified.)

How will the children's clothing be purchased?

Volunteers will take the families shopping at Wal-Mart or through the J.C. Penney's catalog store in Oakland, or at the Ames in Frostburg. The children, with the help of their parents, may select their own new coats, hats, sweaters, long johns, jeans, boots, pajamas, or other needed winter items, spending up to $100 per child.

We need two things: volunteers and donations.

To volunteer as a shopper in Oakland, please contact Linda Thomas at 301-387-6203. To volunteer as a shopper at Ames, please call Lisa Broadwater at 301-895-5827 or 301-746-8223. For general information, you may call Mary McEwen at the newspaper office at 301-334-3963.

THE REPUBLICAN

To make a donation, please complete the coupon below, cut it out, and mail it along with your tax-deductible contribution to the address noted. All checks should be made out to Warm the Children Fund.

Please make your donations before November 30, 2001. Those collected after November 30 will be saved for next year's campaign.

Man Who Overcomes Alcoholism, Mental Illness Shares Own Story

Editor's note: The following article was written by Howard Gerard, a resident of Garrett County who has coped with both mental illness and alcoholism in his life, but has overcome both to become a productive, successful citizen and an advocate for those so afflicted. The story appeared in last week's issue, but was stripped onto the page in incorrect order.

My trouble started when I was about 8 or 9 years of age. My parents were alcoholics and this was causing them to have problems, so they decided to divorce. When this happened there were four of us children. I had an older brother, who was from my mother's first marriage, and I had two younger sisters. I can remember the day we went to court to decide on who would get custody of us children. We were all standing in front of the judge and he asked my mother which of the children she wanted custody of. I will never forget what she said. She told the judge that she only wanted the two girls and "He can have the boy." She said point-blank, "I don't want him!" I did not want to go with my father; I wanted my mother. I went with her and lived there for another eight years.

I hated school. I began smoking and drinking when I was 13 years old. My mother and her boyfriend would get me drunk and sit and laugh at me. I would get drunk and fight all my friends. I had to leave home when I became 16 because I was always in so much trouble, no one wanted me anymore. I headed to New York City and joined the Merchant Marines. I stayed there only about two months before going home and getting work on the B & O Railroad. I worked there until I was furloughed and decided to join the Army.

After I finished my six weeks of basic training, I went home for a visit. After three weeks at home I was shipped overseas. I was in the Army for three years and six months, during which time I was in Germany and worked with what they call Hitler's children. These were the children he made soldiers out of for his army. I tried to teach them how to be children again, how to play ball, and how to basically have fun. It was during this time that my first trouble began. I had really bad pain in my legs and it nearly drove me crazy. I was put in an army hospital in Germany and treated for my nervous condition. After this time I worked on the railroad for the army as well. After my time in the army was finished, I was discharged home.

When I got home my mother told me that I did not have a home with her anymore. I was lucky, and my Aunt Jennie and her husband, my Uncle Dick, had a restaurant and service station in Winchester, Va. They told me I could live with them and help with the business. My mother taught me well — I was still drinking, and it was so bad at times I would drink shaving lotion just to get a taste of liquor.

My family made fun of me because my leg pain was so bad I would cry and no one would help me. Sometimes I would take boxes of aspirin at a time. I left Winchester, went to Preston County, and got a job as an orderly at Hopemont, W.Va. This was a tuberculosis hospital, and I loved my work there. My mother and sisters all worked there as well. This is where my life would change. I met my sister's best friend, Ethel Durr. Ethel was a tray girl in the kitchen, and I was so shy that I wouldn't even ask her out. Then one day Ethel came to my sister Jennie Lee's house and said she was asked to be married. Well, I knew I needed to act fast, so I spoke up and said, "You go tell him I asked first." We were married November 20, 1951, and will be married 50 years this November 20, 2001.

After our marriage we worked for a while at Hopemont and had our son John. I knew that I had to get a better job for us to be able to make it, so I went to Baltimore and got a job with the B & O Railroad. We lived there for some time, and I was still drinking and smoking. Ethel told me she would leave me if I didn't stop. I took Ethel back home for a while and she stayed and worked at Hopemont while I was in Baltimore. Then we moved near my sister and mother in Charlestown, W.Va. Ethel worked in the apple orchards and I worked on the B & O off and on when I wasn't furloughed.

My health was not too good at this time. I had pain in my legs and was suffering with narcolepsy (a sleep disorder). I would sometimes go into a narcoleptic state and lose my train. I would be drinking as well. I was sick at this time and went to the doctor. He told me I had to quit smoking and drinking because I had bleeding ulcers, and if I didn't, I would die. Ethel and I had two children now — a son and a daughter. I came home one weekend and Ethel, who is a Christian, told me that God told her that I have been drinking. "If you do not stop, I will pick up and leave you," she said.

My family meant too much to me, so I listened and quit. I have never touched it since — that was 37 years ago. I also began going to church and had also become a born-again Christian. I took an early retirement from the B & O, where I had worked 20 years.

Shortly after this time I developed a very bad heart condition. I had to have open-heart surgery. I had three blockages and a valve repaired. The surgeon told my family that I would not live through the operation, because my heart was too bad, but he had to try to save me.

But God told me just before I wend under, "Don't worry. I am not through with you yet. I have a job for you to do."

I came through it all with flying colors, and healed up in six weeks. So you see, God knows more than we do.

Domestic Violence Can Bring Out Partner's Worst; Friend's Best

by Peggy Nelson
Coordinator, Garrett County Family Violence Coalition

October is Domestic Violence Awareness Month. One of the best ways to combat domestic violence in our community is to provide realistic support and encouragement to friends or relatives who is trying to exist in an abusive situation, letting them know they are not alone and there are professional sources of help available through a simple phone call.

Are You Worried About A Friend?

You may suspect something is wrong even if your friend doesn't talk about it. If you can answer yes to some of these questions, your friend may be in a violent relationship.

Does your friend:

- Act withdrawn, worried or depressed?
- Not want to talk as long or as much on the phone?
- Refuse invitations to do things together?
- Talk less about the relationship?
- Have bruises and/or other injuries? Wear clothing or make-up to cover up injuries?

Does your friend's partner:

- Put her down in front of other people?
- Seem possessive and/or jealous?
- Make decision for her, such as what to wear, where to go or what to do?

Supporting a Friend That May Be in An Abusive Relationship

Your friend may deny that violence or make excuses for the partner's behavior. Your friend may even be angry with you for asking.

People who are being abused:

- May not even admit to themselves that they are in a violent relationship.
- Often hope or believe the violence won't happen again, even if it's happened many times.
- May be embarrassed, ashamed or afraid to talk about it.

If your friend won't talk, don't force it. Say that you are concerned, you care, and you want her to be safe. Try to stay in touch. Your friend may come to you for help later. Be ready to help when she wants to take steps.

Listening to a Friend Talk About Being Abused Can be Hard

- Listen carefully without interrupting. Nod your head, without agreeing or disagreeing.
- Believe what is said. The details of domestic violence can be shocking. Take what your friend tells you seriously. You may be the only one trusted enough to tell.
- Validate the feelings. You might say something like "This must be very hard for you," "It must be scary when that happens." Or "No wonder you are afraid."
- Don't judge your friend's actions or choices, even if you disagree.
- Be patient. Deciding what to do about a violent relationship can take a long time.

In addition to listening, you can help in other ways:

- Share what you know about resource materials on domestic violence.
- Explain that it happens to others too. Let your friend know that she is not alone.
- Encourage your friend to get help. Explain how to call the Dove Center for information and support. Offer to drive her there.
- Tell your friend it is not her fault. People who are battered often believe they cause the violence.
- Explain that domestic violence is against the law. No one has a right to hit or hurt others.
- Tell your friend how you are willing to help. Be clear about what you can and cannot do.

Domestic violence isn't normal; in fact, battering is against the law. For assistance in dealing with an ongoing or suspected domestic violence situation, persons may call the Dove Center's 24 hour-crisis hotline at 301-334-9000 or 1-800-656-4673. For any emergency in progress involving injury or potential for injury, call 9-1-1.

Training Of Child Care Workers Course Slated

A 90-hour Training of Child Care Workers course will be offered by the Continuing Education & Training Division of Garrett Community College. The course will be held at the National Guard Armory beginning on Thursday, Nov. 1. Sessions will be held Mondays, Tuesdays, and Wednesdays from 5 to 9:15 p.m. The last session is scheduled to end before Christmas.

The course is required by the state of Maryland for persons seeking employment at child care centers, as senior staff for Head Start programs, or as directors of small centers. The topics will include child development, child health and nutrition, curriculum development, and regulations.

For more details or for registration information, interested persons should contact Patricia Baer at the Oakland Center of GCC at the National Guard Armory, 301-334-8304.

Wolford To Run For Loch Lynn Council Position

Betty Wolford has recently filed as a candidate for town council in the upcoming municipal election in Loch Lynn Heights.

She was been a resident of Loch Lynn since 1969, and a homeowner in the town since 1971. She and her husband Jarryl have three daughters, all of whom attended Loch Lynn School and graduated from Southern High School.

Wolford holds an associate of arts degree from Beckley College and a degree in vocational home economics from Marshall University. She has worked for the West Virginia University Cooperative Extension Service and the Garrett County Extension Service. For the part 21 years, she and her husband have owned and operated Friendsville Pharmacy.

She is a past president and member of the Loch Lynn PTA, and a former Girl Scout leader, having served nearly 20 years. She is a member of the Oak Park Church of the Brethren, where she has held many positions, including Sunday school teacher, youth leader, and church board member. She has also worked with Bible school, and is presently serving as president of the women's fellowship.

She is also serving as president of the West Marva District Women's Fellowship, and is a member of the Loar Auxiliary, as a volunteer in the hospital gift shop.

Wolford said she is interested in seeing a "smoother" form of town government. According to Wolford, she would also like to see remodeling of the Loch Lynn Community Center, and more use of the building for community activities.

"It is my understanding that there are many forms of grant money, often 100% grant funded, available to towns," Wolford said. "I have the time to work with the council on getting some of these monies to be used for improvements to our town. Loch Lynn is a pretty town with a rich history, a good place to raise a family."

Completes 20 Years' Service At First United

Susan Sullivan was honored recently for 20 years of service with First United Bank & Trust.

A graduate of Fort Hill High School, Cumberland, she has been with the bank since 1981. She took various classes at Allegany Community College.

Sullivan began her career with First United as a teller at the White Oaks community office. Since that time she has also held other positions, including: executive secretary, customer service representative, customer service officer, and community office manager of the Martin's LaVale office, and is presently the President's Club coordinator.

Sullivan resides in Cumberland with her husband Fred Jr. She has one son, Christopher McDonald, and two stepsons, Brian Sullivan and Fred Sullivan III. She is a member of the Christ United Methodist Church, and is involved with the South Cumberland Business and Civic Association.

Our sincere thanks and appreciation from the family of

to our friends, neighbors and relatives for their caring and thoughtfulness shown to us during the illness and loss of our Husband, Father and Grandfather. We wish to thank all of you for your concern shown by your prayers, phone calls, cards, food, flowers and donations to St. Paul's Lutheran Church and to Hospice of Garrett County.

We would like to extend a special thanks to the volunteer workers with Hospice of Garrett County, who were only a phone call away when we needed them. Also, a special thanks to Pastor Roland Nairn III for his dedicated time and support. Also all the workers from St. Paul's, St. John's and Grace Lutheran Churches for serving a delicious meal following the funeral services. Special thanks are extended to American Legion Post 71 and Accident Post 208, VFW and DAV members for the military services.

Students Express Their Grief And Gratitude To NYC Firefighters

by Mary Sincell McEwen

The terrible events of Sept. 11 have left their mark on the psyches of people across the country, perhaps across the planet. There is not a single American alive now who had previously experienced an attack on U.S. soil, as that had not happened since the War of 1812. While much of the world deals with terrorism every day, the people of the United States have been sheltered from such offenses. But this first attack has violently shaken our sense of security.

Because this is new to us, and so foreign, we adults are having trouble dealing with it. As we wrangle with our fears and anger, we may tend to forget that our children are dealing with it as well. Surely they are frightened when they witness the reactions of their parents as the newscasts are aired and the adults are aghast.

There is a sense of apprehension that has not existed nationwide for many decades, and as we absorb these new assaults on our minds and souls, we must remember that this is new and scary to our children, too. They may not show their fear or describe it in words, but it can manifest itself in a number of ways, such as through recurring nightmares, a noticeable increase or decrease in sibling conflicts, or new phobias. My own sons are displaying these characteristics, with one even afraid to go into his room alone, something that has never bothered him before.

Friendsville Elementary School students of teacher Carolyn Collen-DuBose were able to express some of their concern and grief via a special letter-writing project. DuBose explained that several years ago, she lived along Buffalo Run in Friendsville with Nancy Lascombe and her four daughters. Nancy later moved to New York City, where she resides along West 77th Street.

"It took me six days to finally reach her," DuBose said, referring to the week of Sept. 11. "I called her every day after the attacks. I knew she was probably okay, but I wanted to hear her voice and hear what she had to say from a New Yorker's perspective."

DuBose found that her friend was saddened by the loss of seven firefighters from her neighborhood firehouse, Ladder Company #25. They died in the collapse of the World Trade Center towers.

"When I decided to ask my students to write notes to the rescue workers, I thought it would be nice to send cards directly to Ladder Company #25," DuBose said. "I thought it would be more personal than sending the cards off to an agency to disperse them to a place we wouldn't know anything about."

Third and fifth grade students wrote personal notes to the firefighters, conveying simple messages of sympathy and gratitude to the people who struggled at ground zero and saw many friends perish.

Third-grader Desiree Groom wrote one of the more detailed messages: Dear Firemen, I wish that you did not have to go into the fire in New York. It is sad that all of those people died. I am sorry that some of your firemen died trying to help put out the fire. Lots of those people died in the tall buildings and in the planes.

Taylor Sisler, also in the third grade, wrote a message that was more concise, but no less heartfelt: Dear Firemen, I'm sorry that you lost your guys. Love, Taylor.

Classmate Cara Stough sent the following note: Dear Firemen, Thank you for helping clean up the mess. Thank you for risking your life for ours. Your friend, Cara.

Fifth-grader Caitlin Spear wanted the firefighters to know how grateful she and her classmates felt toward the rescuers. Dear Ladder Co. 25, Thank you for helping clean up the World Trade Center. I appreciate all the ef-fort you put into helping people when the World Trade Center was hit. I'm sorry for the men who risked their lives and died. Thank you again, Caitlin.

Katy Umbel had a similar sentiment: Dear Ladder Co. 25, I appreciate what you've done for our country in the past month. It was a horrible tragedy and you are taking your time to clean up the mess and save lives. Thanks for all you've done. Thanks again, Katy. And Henry Smearman had a short but sweet note: Dear Ladder Co. 25, I appreciate it when you clean up.

Sarah Friend, a third-grader, incorporated some terms that she has probably only recently added to her vocabulary: Dear Ladder Co., I feel very bad about seven of your men getting hurt in the collapsing of the twin towers. I appreciate how you helped some people in the crash. It was horrible that the twin towers got hit by hijacked planes. Sarah.

The letters, those noted here plus 12 more similar messages, were mailed to the firehouse about a week ago with the hope that the firefighters would find some comfort in these sensitive expressions of concern.

To help them cope, we should allow our children to express how they feel as they, too, take in these new experiences and fears. If they want to talk, we should let them. If they wish to write notes, as these students did, we should assist them. My son Michael, who is not quite 6, expressed himself one night last week, calling out to me from his bed. He was already tucked in, and I, tired and ready for a break, was annoyed that he was employing his regular stalling technique.

"What, Michael?" I asked, tired and impatient. He motioned to me to come to his bedside. I came in, arms crossed.

"The other day," he started, "we all went outside and stood around the flag to say we were sorry about all those people. Some of the big girls cried." My demeanor changed instantly. I said I knew the kids at Dennett Road School had participated in a short ceremony a few days after the attack. And I knew Michael meant some of the women were crying.

"All those people, Mom, buried under all that dirt . . . they're dead, aren't they?" he asked. I said yes. He was quiet for a minute. I patted his leg.

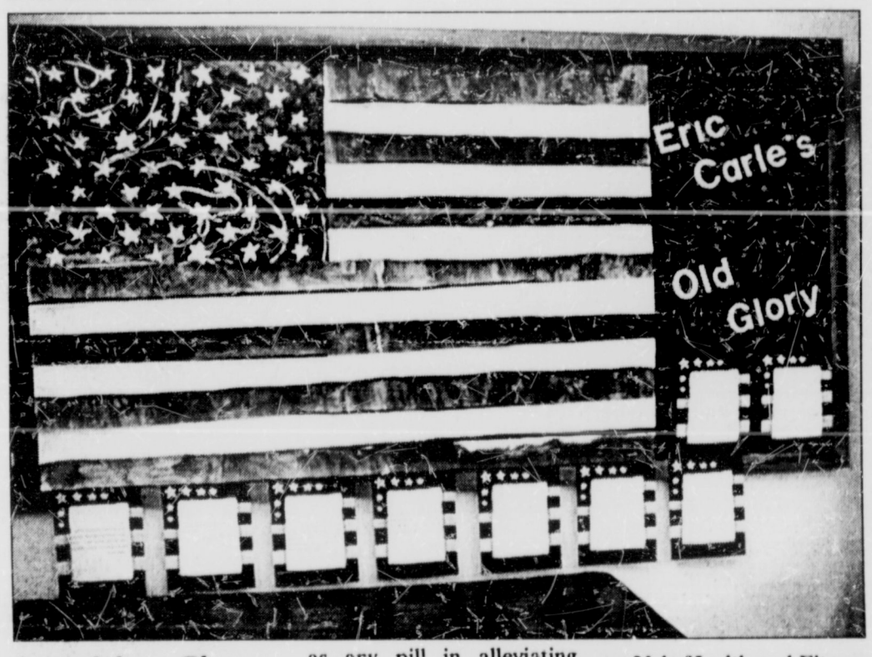
"But it's just their bodies, Mom," Michael said.

"I think so, too," I replied.

"Yeah, they're all with God now. He's taking care of all of them," his little voice said with assurance. He looked toward me, silhouetted in the dark. "It's sort of like being on a different planet, Mom."

"Good enough," I said. I tucked him in again and kissed his head. Thank heavens for young human beings and their wisdom. We must be sure to listen to them.

FRIENDSVILLE STUDENTS DOING THEIR PART — The students at Friendsville Elementary School have not ignored recent events in the United States, and in fact have undertaken projects to express their patriotism and their support of the victims. The children participated in a project titled "Coins for Our Country," bringing in their change for one week and dropping it in the bottles shown in the photograph above. The small school of 168 students managed to collect just over $500, which was then sent to the American Red Cross Disaster Relief Fund. Contributors Taylor Sines (left) and Katie Dignan are shown as they make their donations. The students also wrote letters to a firehouse in New York City (see story), and composed essays describing how they feel about all that has happened. These essays were then incorporated in the design of the bulletin board shown below, which was completed by the third grade students in Sandi Slotnick's class. The board's artwork is in the style of author and artist Eric Carle.



Aerobics Class Set For Seniors At Flowery Vale

A low impact aerobics class designed especially for senior citizens will be offered at 2 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays, beginning Nov. 5, at the Flowery Vale Health and Fitness Center in Accident. The class is sponsored by Garrett Community College.

"If you have never exercised this class is for you," a college spokesperson said. "It will introduce you to the wonderful benefits of exercising, [which] can help prevent pain and be as useful as any pill in alleviating pain from aching joints. If your doctor suggested you exercise to lower your cholesterol, this class will help to do that, too. Exercise will improve strength, flexibility, and coordination," she added.

"Too many people just want to sit and watch TV and take a pill for their heart disease," noted Dr. Gerald Fletcher of the American Heart Association. "The problem is that people don't understand the importance of exercise until they are lying in a cardiac-care unit."

To register for the class or for further information, persons may call the Flowery Vale Health and Fitness Center at 301-746-8050.

Biological Threat Response Course Slated At ACM

"Emergency Services Response to Biological Threats," a special educational program for all interested fire, EMS, and police personnel, has been set for Sunday, Oct. 28, at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Allegany College of Maryland, Cumberland. The free program is being sponsored by the Region Prehospital Care Committee.

"We want to brief the public safety sector on what bio-terrorism plans are being developed at the local and state level, and answer the questions and concerns they might have as the first responders should an event occur," said Dr. William May of the sponsor's committee. "This program is open to all firefighters, EMS personnel, and police officers. We hope to reach as many of our public safety people as possible in this forum."

The program will include presentations by local leaders of Emergency Management and Dr. Mike Weddle, M.D., associate professor at the University of Maryland Baltimore County.

For further information persons may call Region Prehospital coordinator Bill Hardy at 301-723-4119.

In memory of our dear wife and mother
Helen Lipscomb
on her birthday, October 29

You were my mother and my friend
Which was unusual
Somehow our characters still blend
Your wisdom and my will
I turned, and you were there for me,
I spoke and you understood
I felt cared for, but also free
You loved us and it was good
I'm fortunate that I was born
To someone just like you
We love you still though you are gone
You live in what we do.
You are sadly missed by us all.

Halloween Social Set At Crellin Community Bldng.

A "Halloween Social" is slated for Saturday, Oct. 27, from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Crellin Community Building. Sponsored by the Paw Prints of Hutton, Crellin, and Rosedale (formerly known at the Road Runners), the event has free admission, and free treat bags will be distributed.

Games and refreshment items are 25 cents each. There will be apple bobbing and a cake walk, and prizes will be awarded during a costume contest for the prettiest, ugliest, scariest, and most unusual costumes.

Children age 10 and under must be accompanied by a parent throughout the social. For information persons may call Shirley LaRue at 301-334-0957.

Town Hall

FRIENDSVILLE

- The mayor and town council will sponsor door-to-door Halloween trick-or-treating on Wednesday, Oct. 31, from 5:30 to 7 p.m. This activity is for local children 12 years of age and under. Parents or other responsible adults are strongly encouraged to accompany trick-or-treaters. Households that wish to participate are reminded to have a porch light on to greet the trick-or-treaters.
- A central air conditioning system has been installed at the community center building. The mayor and town council contributed $3,000 toward this project. The remainder of the cost was funded by the Garrett County Community Action Committee.
- As a courtesy to town residents, the town employees will pick up bagged leaves from Oct. 29 through Nov. 9. After that time, it will be the responsibility of the property owners to dispose of leaves.
- The mayor and town council will sponsor the annual Holiday Light-Up Night and Old-Fashioned Christmas Celebration on Friday, Nov. 30, starting at 6 p.m. This year the majority of the activities will take place in the Friendsville Community Park. Santa Claus will arrive at the park at 6:30. Hay rides will be available for carolers. Musical entertainment as well as food and craft vendors will be a part of the celebration. All local groups, churches and individuals are invited to participate in this annual community event. For additional information, persons may contact council member Frani King at 301-746-4441.

The next meeting of the mayor and town council is scheduled for Monday, Nov. 5, at 7:30 p.m. at town hall.

LOCH LYNN

- Leaf pick-up will be Nov. 2 and 3, and again on Nov. 9 and 10. Residents must rake leaves to the edge of the street.
- Trick or Treat will be held on Saturday, Oct. 27, from 6 to 8 p.m.
- A Halloween Dance will be held Saturday, Oct. 27, in the all-purpose room of the community center from 7 to 10 p.m.
- General election for two council members will be held Nov. 5 from 11 a.m. until 7 p.m.

ACCIDENT

- The Accident Community Planning Group has announced plans for the community town social on Wednesday, Oct. 31, from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Accident fire hall. Activities will include pumpkin and cake decorating, a musical cake walk, and various games. There will be a DJ and music during the evening. The event is free to all school children and youth. Free refreshments will also be provided. The children may have their picture taken for a small fee with a Halloween background.
- Town Trick or Treat will be held Wednesday, Oct. 31, from 6 to 7 p.m., for the residents of the town. Persons wishing to participate should leave their porch lights on.

Faith Evangelical Church To Hold Missions Conf.

DR. BEN SAWATSKY

Faith Evangelical Free Church in Mountain Lake Park will hold its annual Missions Conference on Friday, Nov. 2, through Sunday, Nov. 4. The keynote speaker will be Dr. Ben Sawatsky, executive director of the missions department of the Evangelical Free Church of America.

Also speaking during the weekend will be Rula Hijazeen, a native Jordanian who is a Christian. Hijazeen works in Washington, D.C., as an Arabic linguist in the areas of instruction, interpretation, and translation. Her mission in life is "to speak on behalf of those who cannot speak for themselves and to defend the rights of the helpless," a spokesperson said. Her passion is strong regarding abuses against Arab women and children, along with issues of religious persecution.

Other conference speakers will be Jennifer Hamilton and Mark Witt. Hamilton, a former Loch Lynn resident, is preparing for missions work in South Africa through the Association of Baptists for World Evangelism. Witt is the director of Teen Quest, a Pittsburgh-based youth ministry.

Services will be at 7 p.m. nightly and at 10:45 a.m. Sunday. Nursery care will be provided at each service.

For more information, persons may call the church at 301-334-4172.

Anonymous Call Leads To Drunk Driving Arrest

An anonymous caller reported a possible drunk driver traveling south on Route 219 through Oakland to the Garrett County sheriff's department Saturday night around 11 p.m.

Deputies located and observed the reported vehicle driving in an unsafe manner. The driver, William R. Livengood, 60, Loch Lynn, failed a sobriety test, and was charged by deputies with driving under the influence (DUI) and driving while impaired by alcohol (DWI).

Sheriff's deputies made two other drunk driving arrests Saturday. Dorothy Louise Burke, 39, Oakland, was charged with DWI, and James Alan Dunne, 29, Casselberry, was charged with DUI.

PUBLIC NOTICES

WATER QUALITY & DRINKING WATER ORDINANCE

AN ORDINANCE of The Council of the Town of Grantsville (the "Borrower") authorizing the issuance and sale of two general obligation installment bonds, one in the maximum principal amount of FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS ($50,000.00) and one in the maximum principal amount of TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS ($200,000.00) pursuant to the authority of the Maryland Water Quality Financing Administration Act (codified as Sections 9-1601 to 9-1622, inclusive, of the Environment Article of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1996 Replacement Volume and 2000 Supplement), Sections 31 to 37, inclusive, of Article 23A of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1998 Replacement Volume and 2000 Supplement), and Sections 18-59 and 18-61 of the Charter of the Town of Grantsville, one bond to be designated "The Town of Grantsville Water Quality Bond" and one bond to be designated "The Town of Grantsville Drinking Water Bond," the net proceeds of the sale thereof to be used and applied for the public purposes of financing or refinancing improvements to the wastewater system and the water supply system, respectively, together with the acquisition of all necessary property rights and equipment, and related architectural, financial, legal, planning and engineering expenses; authorizing the execution of two loan agreements between the Borrower and the Maryland Water Quality Financing Administration; prescribing the form and tenor of the bonds and the terms and conditions for the issuance and sale thereof at private sale to the Maryland Water Quality Financing Administration; providing for the prompt payment of the maturing principal of and interest on the bonds; covenanting to levy and collect all taxes necessary to provide for the payment of the principal of and interest on such bonds; and generally relating to the issuance, sale and delivery of the bonds.

RECITALS

Title VI of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act, as amended by the Water Quality Act of 1987 (the "Clean Water Act"), authorizes the United States Environmental Protection Agency (the "EPA") to award grants to qualifying States to establish and capitalize State water pollution control revolving funds ("SRFs") for the purpose of providing loans and certain other forms of financial assistance (but not grants) to finance, among other things, the construction of publicly owned wastewater treatment facilities, estuary conservation management plans and the implementation of nonpoint source management programs.

In addition, the Safe Drinking Water Act of 1986, as amended by the Safe Drinking Water Act Amendments of 1994 (the "Safe Drinking Water Act"), authorizes the EPA to award grants to qualifying States to establish and capitalize SRFs for the purpose of providing loans and certain other forms of financial assistance (but not grants) to finance, among other things, the construction of water supply systems.

The General Assembly of Maryland at its 1988 session enacted the Maryland Water Quality Financing Administration Act, as amended, codified at Sections 9-1601 through 9-1622 of the Environment Article of the Annotated Code of Maryland (the "Act"), establishing the Maryland Water Quality Financing Administration (the "Administration") and establishing an SRF designated the Maryland Water Quality Revolving Loan Fund (the "Water Quality Fund") to be maintained and administered by the Administration and in its 1993 session enacted amendments to the Act establishing an SRF designated the Maryland Drinking Water Revolving Loan Fund (the "Drinking Water Fund") to be maintained and administered by the Administration. The Act, as amended, authorizes the Administration, among other things, to make loans from the Water Quality Fund to a "local government" (as defined in the Act); for the purpose of financing all or a portion of the cost of a "wastewater facility" (as defined in the Act) and to make loans from the Drinking Water Fund for the purpose of financing all or a portion of the cost of a "water supply system" (as defined in the Act), The Town of Grantsville (the "Borrower") is a "local government" within the meaning of the Act.

The Borrower has applied to the Administration for a loan from the Water Quality Fund to assist in the financing of a certain project which constitutes a "wastewater facility" and for a loan from the Drinking Water Fund to assist in the financing of a certain project which constitutes a "water supply system" within the meaning of the Act. As contemplated by the Act, the Administration and the Borrower will enter into two loan agreements (each, a "Loan Agreement"; collectively, the "Loan Agreements") to effect and evidence the loans.

The Borrower has determined that it will issue its bonds (hereinafter defined), each of which constitutes a "loan obligation" within the meaning of the Act.

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED AND ENACTED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE TOWN OF GRANTSVILLE:

Section 1. Pursuant to the authority of the Maryland Water Quality Financing Administration Act (codified as Sections 9-1601 to 9-1622, inclusive, of the Environment Article of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1966 Replacement Volume and 2000 Supplement) (the "Act"), Sections 31 to 37, inclusive, of Article 23A of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1998 Replacement Volume and 2000 Supplement), and Sections 18-59 and 18-61 of the Charter of the Town of Grantsville (the "Charter"), The Town of Grantsville, a municipal corporation of the State of Maryland (the "Borrowers"), hereby determines to borrow money and incur indebtedness (i) for the public purposes of financing or refinancing improvements to certain wastewater facilities (the "Wastewater System Project") and (ii) for the public purposes of financing or refinancing improvements to the water supply systems (the "Water System Project") and, in each case, related architectural, financial, legal, planning and engineering expenses permitted under the Clean Water Act and Safe Drinking Water Act. The Wastewater System Project and the Water System Project are each described in Exhibit A. The Wastewater System Project constitutes a "wastewater facility" and the Water System Project constitutes a "water supply system" within the meaning of the Act.

As contemplated by the Act, such borrowing and indebtedness shall be made and incurred in accordance with the provisions of loan agreements (each, a "Loan Agreement" collectively, the "Loan Agreements") between the Borrower and Maryland Water Quality Financing Administration (the "Administration"). Each Loan Agreement shall be in substantially the forms set forth in Exhibits B-1 and B-2 attached hereto as a part hereof, with such insertions, omissions or variations as may be deemed necessary or appropriate and approved by the officers executing the same (their execution of the Loan Agreements to constitute conclusive evidence of such approval). The Borrower hereby approves the forms of and authorizes the execution and delivery of the Loan Agreements in substantially the forms set forth in Exhibits B-1 and B-2, including all covenants and conditions set forth therein. The Loan Agreements and all the covenants and conditions set forth therein, including, without limitation, payment to the Administration of the annual Administrative Fee described in such Loan Agreements, are hereby approved and adopted as the obligations of the Borrower.

Section 2. To evidence the payment obligations of the Borrower under the Loan Agreements, the Borrower, acting pursuant to the authority of the Act and the Charter, hereby determines to issue and sell, upon its full faith and credit, (i) a general obligation installment bond, in the principal amount not to exceed FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS ($50,000.00), to be known as "The Town of Grantsville Water Quality Bond" (the "Water Quality Bond") and (ii) a general obligation installment bond, in the principal amount not to exceed TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS ($200,000.00), to be known as "The Town of Grantsville Drinking Water Bond" (the "Drinking Water Bond" and, collectively with the Water Quality Bond, the "Bonds"). There shall be added to the title of each Bond a designation corresponding to the year in which such Bond is issued. The Bonds shall be dated the date of delivery and shall be issued in the form of two fully registered installment bonds, without coupons attached, numbered R-1 and R-2. The Water Quality Bond, numbered R-1, shall bear interest at a rate of 45% of the Bond Buyer 11-Bond Index for the month preceding the date of its delivery and the Drinking Water Bond, numbered R-2, shall bear interest at a rate of 45% of the Bond Buyer 11-Bond Index for the month preceding the date of its delivery. The first payment of principal on each Bond shall be paid no later than one year after the estimated date of completion of each respective project as described in Exhibit A, and subsequent installments of principal shall be payable annually until the principal on such Bond is fully paid, except that the final installment of the entire indebtedness evidenced by each Bond, if not sooner paid, shall be due and payable no later than 20 years after project completion, and except that prepayments may be made as provided in the relevant Loan Agreement. Interest due on the unpaid amounts advanced under the Loan Agreements shall accrue on the basis of a 30-day month, 360-day year from the date of the respective advances of such principal amount, and shall be paid semiannually on the 1st day of February and August in each year until such principal amount has been paid.

Section 3. The Bonds shall be executed in the name of the Borrower and on its behalf by the Mayor of the Town of Grantsville. The corporate seal of the Borrower shall be affixed to the Bonds, attested by the signature of the Clerk-Treasurer of the Town of Grantsville (the "Town Clerk"). The principal of and interest on the Bonds shall be paid by the Borrower by electronic funds transfer, check or draft mailed (by depositing such check or draft, correctly addressed and postage prepaid, in the United States mails on or before the payment date) to the registered owner at its address as it appears on the books kept for that purpose at the office of the Clerk-Treasurer in The Town of Grantsville, Maryland. In the event any official whose signature appears on a Bond ceases to be an official prior to the delivery of such Bond, or shall have become such official after the date of this Ordinance, such Bond shall, nevertheless, be the valid and legally binding obligation of the Borrower in accordance with its terms.

Section 4. Except as provided hereinafter or in an ordinance or ordinances of the Borrower adopted prior to the issuance of the Bonds, the Bonds shall be issued in substantially the form provided for in Exhibit F of each Loan Agreement. Appropriate variations and insertions to provide dates, numbers and amounts, and modifications not altering its substance may be made by the Town Mayor of the Town provided that the face amount of the Bonds shall not exceed the limits set forth in Section 2 of this Ordinance. All of the covenants contained in Exhibit F of each Loan Agreement are hereby adopted by the Borrower as and for the form of obligation to be incurred by the Borrower, and the covenants and conditions contained therein are hereby made binding upon the Borrower, including the promise to pay therein contained.

Section 5. The Bonds shall be sold to the Administration at private (negotiated) sale, without public bidding, in accordance with the provisions of the Act. The Town Mayor with the Consent of the Town Council of the Town is authorized and directed to enter into such agreements with the Administration as they shall deem to be in the best interest of the Town in order to accomplish the public purposes of this Ordinance.

Section 6. The Town Mayor of the Town is expressly authorized and empowered to take any and all action necessary to complete and close the delivery of the Bonds. The Town Mayor of the Town is expressly authorized to make such changes or modifications in the forms adopted herein as may be necessary or appropriate.

Section 7. The Town Mayor, or in his absence, the Clerk-Treasurer of the Town, is hereby designated to receive payment on behalf of the Town of the proceeds of the sale of the Bonds. Such proceeds shall be used and applied by the Town exclusively and solely for the public purposes described in Section 1 of this Ordinance. If the proceeds received from the sale of the Bonds exceed the amount needed for such public purposes, the unexpended excess shall be applied as soon as may be practicable to the prepayment of the Bonds as provided for in Section 2 of this Ordinance, unless a supplemental ordinance is passed and approved by the Town to provide for the expenditure of that excess for some other valid purpose authorized by the Act and the Charter.

Section 8. The principal of and interest on the Water Quality Bond and the Drinking Water Bond shall be payable in the first instance from funds received from the imposition and collection of wastewater and water user charges, respectively, including any and all fees for the use of the wastewater system or public water system, respectively, or connection thereto established by the Town in accordance with the Charter. In the event that such charges and fees are insufficient to meet the debt service requirements on the Bonds the principal and interest on the Bonds shall be payable in accordance with the Loan Agreements. If, in any fiscal year during which the Bonds may be outstanding, either of such funds are insufficient promptly to meet the debt service requirements of the respective Bond the Town shall levy ad valorem taxes, in accordance with the Charter, upon all assessable property liable to taxation in the Town at the regular tax-levying period in rate and amount sufficient to meet and pay promptly the principal of and interest on such Bond when due in each such fiscal year. If the proceeds from the collection of taxes so levied in any such fiscal year are inadequate for such payment, additional taxes shall be levied in the succeeding fiscal year to make up such deficiency. The full faith and credit and unlimited taxing power of the Town are hereby irrevocably pledged to the payment of the principal of and interest on the Bonds as and when they become due and payable and to the levy and collection of the taxes hereinabove described as and when such taxes may become necessary in order to provide sufficient funds to meet the debt service requirements of the Bonds. The Town hereby covenants and agrees with the registered owners of the Bonds to levy and collect the taxes hereinabove described and to take any further action that may be appropriate from time to time during the period that the Bonds remain outstanding and unpaid to provide the funds necessary to pay promptly the principal thereof and the interest due thereon.

Section 9. The Town hereby covenants and agrees to pay all administrative fees and expenses charged by the Administration under the Loan Agreements.

Section 10. This Ordinance shall become effective twenty (20) days following its enactment by the Council of the Town of Grantsville, Maryland, provided that it is published at least twice in a newspaper having a general circulation in the Town.

INTRODUCED by the Council of the Town of Grantsville, Maryland, at a town meeting session on May 7, 2001.

PASSED by the Council of the Town of Grantsville, Maryland, at a town meeting on May 21, 2001.

MARYLAND DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT
Notice of Intent to Establish a Total Maximum Daily Load (TMDL) for Biochemical Oxygen Demand (BOD) to George's Creek in Allegany and Garrett Counties, Maryland

Section 303(d) of the federal Clean Water Act requires Maryland to: (1) identify waters, known as water quality limited segments (WQLSs), where technology-based effluent limitations and other required controls cannot achieve water quality standards; (2) for each listed water, establish Total Maximum Daily Loads (TMDLs) for pollutants preventing the attainment of water quality standards; and (3) offer an opportunity for public review and comment on the proposed TMDLs.

George's Creek was identified on the State's 1996 list of WQLSs as impaired by nutrients, a potential cause of low dissolved oxygen. Upon consideration of additional data, the Department determined that the waterbody is not impaired for these substances. However, pursuant to Maryland's Antidegradation Policy regulation, the Department is establishing a TMDL for George's Creek for biochemical oxygen demand (BOD) to assure that dissolved oxygen standards are maintained. The TMDL sets the maximum load limit for this parameter. The TMDL also reflects load allocations to point sources, nonpoint sources and a margin of safety that accounts for uncertainty in the procedures used to estimate the TMDL.

Once established by the State, the TMDL will be subject to approval by the United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). The Established Protection Agency (EPA). This established TMDL will support the measures needed to attain water quality standards in George's Creek.

OPPORTUNITY FOR PUBLIC REVIEW AND COMMENT

The draft TMDL document is available by written request to Ms. Sheila Franklin at the Water Management Administration, Maryland Department of the Environment, 2500 Broening Highway, Baltimore, MD 21224, or by telephone at 410-631-3599*. For technical information please direct your request to Melissa Chatham, Technical and Regulatory Services Administration at the same mailing address or by telephone at 410-631-4893. Anyone wishing to review the draft TMDL and supporting information may call Ms. Franklin during normal business hours. The draft TMDL is also available from the Internet at web site http://www.mde.state.md.us/tmdl. Copies of the draft TMDL have been placed in the Frostburg Branch Library (301-687-0790), the George's Creek Regional Branch Library (301-463-2629), the Westernport Branch Library (301-359-0455) and in MDE's Library.

Written comments concerning the draft TMDL document may be submitted to the Department on or before November 26, 2001 and should be sent to Ms. Franklin at the above address or e-mailed to sfranklin@mde.state.md.us. If the Department determines there is sufficient interest, a public hearing on this matter may be held. SUBSTITUTE TRUSTEES' SALE OF VALUABLE FEE-SIMPLE DWELLING

FROSTBURG, GARRETT COUNTY, MARYLAND 21532

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust from Dwayne E. Wilhelm and Joan C. Wilhelm to Household Finance Corp. III, Trustee, dated July 13, 2000 and recorded in Liber 810, folio 562 among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, the holder of the indebtedness secured by the Deed of Trust having appointed Gerald Danoff, Dennis W. King, and C. Larry Hofmeister Jr., Substitute Trustees by instrument duly executed, acknowledged and recorded among the Land Records of the County aforesaid, default having occurred under the terms thereof, and at the request of the parties secured thereby, the undersigned Substitute Trustees will offer for sale at public auction

AT THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR GARRETT COUNTY, AT THE COURTHOUSE DOOR, OAKLAND, ON TUESDAY, OCTOBER 30, 2001 AT 1:00 O'CLOCK P.M.

ALL THAT LOT OF GROUND AND THE IMPROVEMENTS THEREON situated in Garrett County, Maryland and more fully described in the aforesaid Deed of Trust.

The property is improved by a dwelling and is in fee-simple. The property address is 14121 National Pike, Frostburg, MD 21532.

The property will be sold in an "as is" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting the same, if any, and with no warranty as to the description of the improvements.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $17,000 will be required at the time of sale, such deposit to be in cash, cashier's check, certified check, or in other form as the Substitute Trustees may determine acceptable, in their sole discretion. Balance of the purchase price is to be paid in cash within ten (10) business days of the final ratification of sale, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County. If payment of the balance does not take place within ten business days of ratification, the deposit will be forfeited and the property will be resold at the risk and expense of the defaulting purchaser. Interest to be paid on unpaid purchase money at the rate pursuant to the deed of trust note from date of sale to date of settlement, in the event the property is purchased by someone rather than the note holder. Taxes and water rent to be adjusted to date of sale. All other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges to be adjusted for the current year to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps and transfer taxes shall be borne by the purchaser. If the Substitute Trustees are unable to convey good and marketable title, the purchaser's sole remedy in law or equity shall be limited to the refund of the deposit to the purchaser. Upon refund of the deposit, this sale shall be void and of no effect, and the purchaser shall have no further claim against the Substitute Trustees. The purchaser at the foreclosure sale shall assume the risk of loss for the property immediately after the sale.

Contract SR-05-02 RT. 40 - KEYSERS RIDGE

STANDING TIMBER FOR SALE

The Maryland State Forest and Park Service is offering for sale the following timber on 21 acres of Compartment #1 of Savage River State Forest. This sale is estimated to cut 204,410 BD FT of live hardwood sawtimber according to the International ¼" Saw Kerf Rule (FC-78), and 135 cords of hardwood pulpwood, more or less. All tallied trees 11" D.B.H. and larger with at least one 16' log to an 8" top D.I.B. with less than 50% defect were tallied as sawtimber.

Timber is located on the north side of Rt. 40, approx. one mile west of the intersection with Rt. 219 (Keyser's Ridge).

1. Timber will be shown at 9:00 A.M. on MONDAY, November 5, 2001. Anyone interested in seeing this timber may meet at the Keyser's Ridge Truckstop parking lot at the above date and time.

2. Contract/Bid Forms will be available at the showing or from the Savage River State Forest Headquarters, 349 Headquarters Lane, Grantsville, MD 21536, or phone 301-895-5759.

3. A Security Bond in the amount of 10% of the bid submitted must be posted upon submission of the bid to the Maryland State Forest & Park Service.

4. The operator must be a registered Forest Product Operator in Maryland for the current year and hold a Certificate of Erosion and Sediment Control (Green/Gold Card) training to be awarded successful bidding.

5. A Performance Bond in the amount of 10% of the bid submitted must be posted upon acceptance of the contract by the State of Maryland. The Security Bond may be applied to cover the Performance Bond.

6. All timber volumes noted in this offering are estimates. Parties bidding on this timber should determine such volumes to their own satisfaction. NO adjustments on the basis of volumes will be made with buyers.

7. Bidder may pay 50% of bid price on acceptance of the contract, with the remaining 50% payable within 90 calendar days from bid acceptance. If buyer selects this option, the delayed payment must be covered by a payment surety bond in form acceptable to the State.

8. Bids will be received up until 1:00 P.M. on MONDAY, November 19, 2001.

GCC To Host Technology Conference

The Garrett Information Enterprise Center (GIEC) at Garrett Community College, McHenry, will host a Technology Connections Conference on Friday, Nov. 2, for businesses that want to learn about management skills, financial resources, technical resources, Hub Zone issues, and government contracting opportunities.

Fourteen federal and state exhibitors will display during the conference to inform participants about federal and state contracting opportunities. Local and state agencies along with private businesses will focus on financial and technical resources for small businesses. The following exhibitors will participate: Environmental Protection Agency, Department of the Air Force, Department of Energy, Treasury Department, U.S. Department of Transportation, Department of the Army, Department of State, Department of the Interior, National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), Md. Department of Transportation, Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development, Garrett County Economic Development, Mountain Maryland Entrepreneurial Development Center, Maryland Technology Development Corporation (TEDCO), Act Personnel Service, Amerivault Corporation, and HR Logic.

The conference has been endorsed by Senator Barbara Mikulski and Senator Paul Sarbanes, who jointly invited federal agencies to participate as exhibitors, according to Sandy Major, GIEC director.

The small business training workshops to be held during the conference are for all types of small businesses. Conference workshops, which will be led by presenters from Virginia, West Virginia, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Maryland, include the following: "Making Financial Management Work for You and Your Business," "Leadership Tools for Growing Companies," "Removing Barriers to Growing a Technology Business," "Presenting a Positive Image on the Web and with Marketing Materials," and "Technology Transfer: How Federal Labs and Universities Can Assist Your Business."

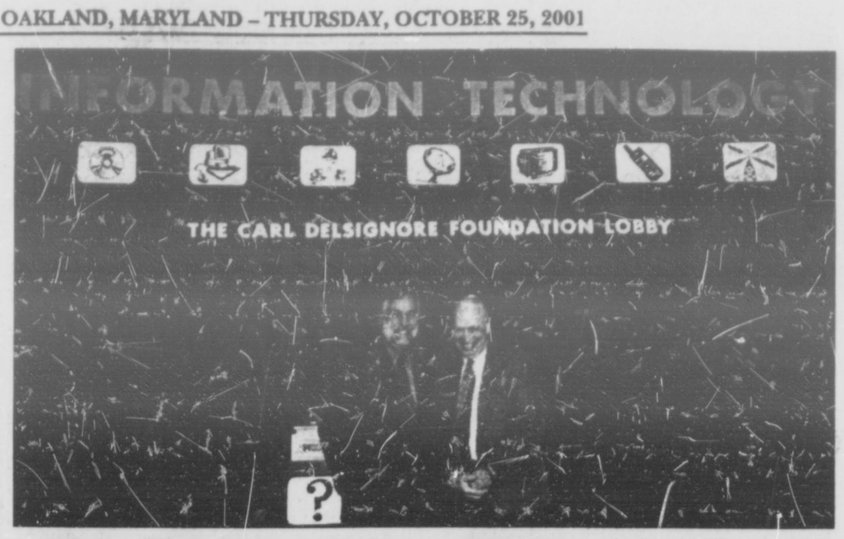
Other topics include "Accessing Venture Capital and 'Angel' Capital," "Intellectual Capital in an Electronic Age," "Supervision Skills: Managing for Success," "Running Your Business Successfully," "Understanding Your Financial Information," "How to Hook Venture Capitalists," "Growing Technology Companies," and "Developing a Winning Business Plan."

Dr. Philip A. Singerman, president/executive director TEDCO, will be the keynote speaker for the conference. TEDCO is an independent corporation created by the state legislature to promote economic development through the commercialization, development, and deployment of technology. In 2000 TEDCO initiated technology transfer programs linking Maryland companies with universities and federal research laboratories, and developed a comprehensive statewide business incubation program. During its first year of operations, TEDCO won competitive grant awards and contracts exceeding $1 million from the National Science Foundation, the Federal Economic Development Administration, the Department of Commerce's Technology Administration, and NASA, and was selected by the National Governors' Association to participate in a study of entrepreneurial policy, according to Major.

The conference will also provide an opportunity to introduce the new Garrett Information Enterprise Center. The GIEC building, scheduled to open in the spring of 2002, will provide a low-cost supportive environment designed to help information technology businesses grow by offering technologically equipped office space with high-speed Internet connections, according to Major. GIEC will be located at GCC's main campus to provide full access to college services, along with those provided by the collaborative efforts of various GIEC partners.

The center will also provide services and assistance in acquiring financial and technical resources. Because GIEC is located in Garrett County, a Hub Zone, there will be an advantage for tenants seeking government contract work.

The Technology Connections Conference is sponsored in part by an entrepreneurial training grant from the Appalachian Regional Commission. Conference registration details are on-line at the GIEC website, www.giecworks.com, or may be obtained by calling Sandy Major at 301-387-3167.



GCC TO HOST TECH CONFERENCE — Dr. Steve Herman (above right), president of Garrett Community College, and Dr. Philip Singerman (left), executive director of the Maryland Technology Development Corporation, recently met to discuss preparations for the Technology Connections Conference to be held at GCC on Friday, Nov. 2. The conference will provide workshops on management skills and financial resources for businesses. The conference will also feature 14 federal, state, local, and private business exhibitors. Singerman will be the keynote speaker for the conference. Conference registration details may be obtained from Sandy Major at 301-387-3167 or at www.giecworks.com.

Ask your Long & Foster Sales Associate about Prosperity Mortgage's 30-year fixed rate mortgages.

There's nothing quite like the satisfaction and happiness of owning a home. It's an investment you can enjoy every day you live in it.

But did you know that the average price of an existing single family home in America has risen from $22,300 in 1968 to $190,200 in June of 2001? That's according to the National Association of REALTORS® and represents an appreciation of over 750% in 33 years.

There's even more good news. If you itemize on your Federal Income Tax return, the interest you pay on your home mortgage is tax-deductible, as are your state property taxes. And when you sell your home, up to either $250,000 or $600,000 of capital gains appreciation may be sheltered from taxation. See your tax advisor for specific information.

Dignitaries To Attend Meals On Wheels Benefit

Maryland Congressman Roscoe Bartlett (R-6th district) is scheduled to join a host of other regional dignitaries and local citizens at the Nov. 16 fund-raiser for Meals On Wheels. The event will be held at the Grantsville Community Center, beginning at 6:30 p.m., and will feature music, beer tasting, a special showing of the Emmy award-winning Images of Maryland, and other entertainment.

Tickets are $50 per couple, with the proceeds directly benefiting the Area Agency on Aging's Meals on Wheels program. Funding for this program, which came from private foundations, was recently cut. This has resulted in a reduction from five to three meals delivered to local elderly people each week.

Adina Brode, director of the Area Agency on Aging, said the delivery people are sometimes the only other people seen regularly by the elderly clients. Often the delivery personnel find the clients in distress, having fallen on become ill, and in need of assistance. With the reduction in service, the clients are at a heightened risk for injury, illness, or general neglect.

Persons who have not received invitations can either purchase them at the door on the evening of the event or order them by calling the Area Agency on Aging at 301-334-9431.

Grantsville Man Jailed After I-68 Domestic Incident

A Grantsville man was arrested Monday morning by Maryland State Police troopers assigned to the LaVale barrack after he allegedly followed his wife from their home and reportedly assaulted her along Interstate 68 in western Allegany County. Any person who may have witnessed the 9:39 a.m. incident is asked to call Tfc. M.L. Hawkins of the MSP's LaVale barrack at 301-729-2101.

Patrick Sean Murphy, 35, remains incarcerated in the Allegany County Detention Center on a $10,000 bond. His arrest stemmed from charges of two counts each of second degree assault and reckless endangerment,

A FUN AND SAFE HALLOWEEN — Despite ongoing international threats of violence and terrorism, the people of Garrett County have not stopped living their lives. This was evidenced well over the past week, as a number of fall harvest and Halloween events were well-attended across the county, all safe and celebratory. Hundreds of "mummers" took part in the annual Halloween Parade in Oakland, shown above, sponsored every year by the Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club, and hundreds more attended school parties and community events that cheered the change of seasons. The future may be uncertain, but life this day remains rich and full here on the mountaintop.

Area Talent To Perform In SMS Vets.' Day Event

A community musical and patriotic salute to America's men and women in uniform, past and present, is set for Veterans Day, Sunday, Nov. 11, from 3 to 5 p.m. at Southern Middle School. The program will feature local entertainers whose skills will honor military and National Guard members. There is no admission charge for the event, which is sponsored by the Western Potomac Chapter of the American Red Cross, although a free will offering will be taken to benefit the ARC.

The master of ceremonies will be Paul Mullan of WMSG Radio, who will open the program by introducing the color guard unit of American Legion Proctor Kildow Post 71. The invocation will be delivered by Pastor Patrick Kerr of St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Del. George Edwards will welcome the veterans on hand for the afternoon, and Commission-

Money And Pledges For Grantsville Library Project Exceed $160,000

The reNew Grantsville's Library Committee announced this week that Grantsville's library supporters have contributed a total of over $160,000 in donations and pledges for the new library building in Grantsville. Donations for the new building have ranged from $25,000 to dimes. Public sector donations have come from the town of Grantsville, Elk Lick Township, and the Salisbury-Elk Lick School District. The Garrett County commissioners funded the cost of the preliminary design for the new building.

Several local service clubs, businesses, and residents have made donations and pledges of over $1,000. Service clubs donating or pledging over $1,000 include Grantsville Lions Club, Grantsville Lioness Club, the Grantsville Rotary, and the Vietnam Veterans of America, Chapter 172. Businesses pledging or donating over $1,000 include First United Bank, Hobby House Press, Allegheny Energy, Beachy's Pharmacy, Four Seasons Stitchery, Highland Thrift Shop, East Coast Erectors, Grantsville Filling Station, Verizon, and Hill and Vale Realty and Appraisals.

Several individual donors have contributed a total of approximately $60,000 to the project. About $8,000 was donated to the fund in memory of Elsa Naser and her husband. Citizens have sponsored hoagie sales, bingo, calendar sales, and a silent auction to help support the project.

The children and staff of Grantsville Elementary School have collected dimes and dollars to contribute to the building fund. The school has held "dime days" and "double dime days," during which students brought in their dimes to add to the fund. Teachers have contributed to the fund during "dollar days" and "double dollar days." The Grantsville PTO has offered to match the funds raised during "dollar days."

Grantsville area churches — including Christ Lutheran Church, Dry Run Mennonite Church, Emmanuel Lutheran Church, the Laughlin Church of the Brethren Women's Fellowship, St. John's United Church of Christ, and the Trinity United Church of Christ — have also supported the library building fund.

Local fund-raising events have raised nearly $8,000

Six Charged For Making, Setting Off Explosives

The Office of the State Fire Marshal has charged four adults and two juveniles with four counts each of "manufacturing, possession, and distribution of destructive devices," and one count each of "intent to explode an incendiary device." The adults are 20-year-old Joshua John Burkett of Hyndman, Pa., Justin Loy Bean, 19, of Cumberland, and 20-year-old Carrie Michelle Williams and 19-year-old Maranda Alicia Fink, both of Westernport. Two juvenile males, 13 and 17 years old, were also charged.

The charges resulted from an incident which occurred on Bloomington Hill Road in Bloomington on June 29, 2001, when the group caused at least four explosions in an open field using destructive devices which they made themselves. Those charged were identified through an intense three-month joint investigation involving fire investigators from the Office of the State Fire Marshal,

County Staff Leaders Provide Monthly Reports

The Garrett County commissioners held their October staff meeting this week, hearing reports from 16 departments and agencies. Updates were given on such items as bio-terrorism, the Dove Center, the Learn and Serve Program, nutrient management, the Ruth Enlow Library, Garrett County Roads Department projects, and the Chamber of Commerce's Vacation Guide.

The director of Emergency Management, Brad Frantz, reported that his department was still on high alert for any possible acts of terrorism in the county. The department is continuing with the recovery/mitigation plans and risk assessment strategies it implemented in September following the terrorist attacks, Frantz said.

Rodney Glotfelty, county health officer, said that he and Frantz were continuing to discuss and assess possible bio-terrorism threats. He noted that many residents were understandably concerned and frightened in the wake of recent deaths due to anthrax-laced letters delivered through the U.S. Postal Service.

While residents do need to take precautions and alert officials if they see something unusual, Glotfelty said, "It is important that we all use a little common sense." He noted that 99.9% of the mail will not be harmful. Two residents were concerned, however, that some "junk mail" that they received was suspicious and asked the Health Department to test it. Glotfelty said that the tests were negative for anthrax, and that the mail was, indeed, just junk mail.

Glotfelty also reported that workers at the Merkle Response Services plant in the Northern Garrett Industrial Park, near Grantsville, were given antibiotics as a precautionary measure on Saturday. The plant reportedly had processed some mail from the Hagerstown postal facility, which had processed mail from the Brentwood facility in Washington, D.C. Glotfelty said that tests conducted by the Maryland Department of the Environment at the Hagerstown facility were negative for anthrax.

A representative from the Dove Center, Heather Hanline, reported that Linda Spassil had resigned from her position and that she (Hanline) would assume the role of director until a new one was appointed. Hanline noted that 83 clients had been helped at the center in September. The acting director also reported that the State Banjo Championship, which was held during Autumn Glory and benefited the center, "went off really well."

County Opts To Share Biochemical Protection Costs With Allegany Co.

The Garrett County commissioners this morning voted to share expenses with Allegany County to purchase new equipment for the neighboring county's biochemical hazardous materials ("haz-mat") team. Until today, Garrett County has utilized Allegany County's haz-mat team rarely, and only on a case-by-case basis. But now the team will cover both counties in the event of biochemical hazards.

Rodney Glotfelty, the health officer for Garrett County, met with Brad Frantz, director of Garrett County Emergency Management, and the commissioners today to discuss the issue. Glotfelty said the commissioners made a wise decision.

"Basically, we need to be able to respond rapidly to issues related to biochemical terrorism," Glotfelty said. "While the risk of such contamination in Garrett or Allegany county is very remote, we have to be prepared."

Glotfelty said the Allegany Co. haz-mat team is highly trained and well-equipped.

"We've used them from time to time when we've had hazardous materials accidents or other incidents, and we've always paid them case by case. They told us we could keep doing that, or we could buy into the program by supplying $7,000, which is about half the cost of some new equipment," the health officer said. "By doing this, we now have a sort of insurance policy — if we need them, they'll be here."

The haz-mat team is trained to respond to a number of incidents, and to sample and examine suspicious agents, among other tasks. With the ongoing terrorist threat of anthrax contamination, the county officials felt they needed to step up protection for the local population.

"We may never need the haz-mat team, but this is a good deal. I'm very pleased with the decision," Glotfelty said.

GCMH Updates Disaster Plan; Sets Task Force

In light of recent events, Garrett County Memorial Hospital is in the process of reviewing and enhancing its local emergency and disaster preparedness plan, according to a spokesperson for the hospital.

"We are taking a leading role in organizing and enhancing our disaster preparedness plans to involve communitywide preparedness," said Dr. K.N. Treat, emergency physician at GCMH. "While we want to assure everyone that there have been no threats, we do want to be prepared if the occasion ever arises."

Disaster planning, testing, and response are multidisciplinary activities that require cooperative interaction. Each agency or individual contributes unique capabilities, perspectives, and experiences. Within this context, emergency physicians share the responsibility for ensuring an effective and well-integrated disaster response, said the GCMH spokesperson.

"As part of our disaster preparedness plan, a special task force is compiling a list of local residents and resources that would be available to help the community if we ever encounter any type of disaster in Garrett County," Treat said.

According to the spokesperson, the preparedness plan calls for resources such as ham radio operators for communication, truck owners/drivers for transportation of equipment, ATVs and snowmobiles for transportation to isolated areas, and individuals with any type of medical training, such as rescue workers and ski patrol volunteers.

"We are also concerned about individuals who live alone or who have special medical needs that might need to be checked on in the case of a mass disaster," said Treat. To assist these individuals, the task force is compiling a list of individuals who fit this category.

Persons interested in being a resource or have special needs and may need assistance in a disaster may contact Garrett County Memorial Hospital at 301-533-4180. A task force representative will obtain the appropriate information.

Health Dept., DNR Institute Burning Ban

Because of windy, dry conditions that currently exist, a ban against all open burning in Garrett County has been issued by the Environmental Health Services division of the Garrett County Health Department and the Forestry Division of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources. The ban will remain in force until the area receives significant precipitation, according to a release from the health department.

Persons with questions about the ban may telephone the environmental health office at 301-334-7760 or the DNR at 301-334-3296.

Four-Month Probe Leads To Drug Arrests

A pair of local residents were arrested this week near Grantsville as a result of a four-month investigation by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force. Both face charges of possession of marijuana with intent to distribute and marijuana possession.

Danny Thomas Gaither, 34, Swanton, and Donald Noel Smith, 22, Oakland, were apprehended at 11:30 a.m. Monday during the course of a traffic stop along Interstate 68 near Green Lantern Road. Task Force detectives, along with Maryland State Police troopers, stopped the pair's 1995 Chevrolet pickup truck and conducted a K-9 scan of the vehicle.

When the drug detection dog presented a positive alert for drugs, the truck was searched and approximately two pounds of suspected marijuana was recovered. Search warrants were obtained that allowed police to check both of the suspects' residences, and reportedly recovered from Smith's White Church Road home were additional sus-

GLAF TO PRESENT KREMLIN CHAMBER ORCHESTRA — The 2001 season finale of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival will be a concert by the Kremlin Chamber Orchestra on Wednesday, Nov. 7, at 8 p.m. in the Garrett Community College auditorium. Tickets are $15 for aduits, $4 for GCC students, and $2 for youth 18 years and younger. Persons may call the GLAF office at 301-387-3082 to order tickets or for further information. Originally scheduled for Sept. 22, the show was postponed because of the terrorist attack in New York City, which caused visa delays for the musicians. The Kremlin group is an 18-string orchestra, led by founder and conductor Misha Rachlevsky. The concert is sponsored by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. Sponsor partners are David and Irene Eyer, Doug and Rebecca McClive, F&M Bank, M&T Bank, Total Biz Fulfillment and Hobby House Press, and Will O' the Wisp and Wisp Resort.

GCMH ENHANCES DISASTER PREPAREDNESS PLAN — Garrett County Memorial Hospital is in the process of reviewing and enhancing its local emergency and disaster preparedness plan. As part of the plan, a special task force is compiling a list of local residents and resources that could be available to help if a disaster arises in Garrett County. Pictured above, left to right, are GCMH staff members Danny Moon, RN; Dr. K.N. Treat, emergency physician; and Dave Betz, RN, who have vital roles in the plan. America Recycles Day Set; Pledge Cards Available

All across America on Thursday, Nov. 15, people will be participating in recycling activities as part of the 5th annual America Recycles Day. The theme of this year's event is "America Recycles Day — A Great Time to Renew Our Commitment to Recycling." The theme is based on the continual need for residents to rededicate themselves to recycling.

The day is aimed at challenging Americans to make a pledge to increase their recycling and to increase their purchases of recycled content products, explained Nikki Brown, Garrett County Department of Solid Waste and Recycling coordinator.

A national contest has been organized as an incentive for Americans to make this pledge. All America Recycles Day pledge cards submitted are entered into a random drawing for a prize package of quality recycled content products, awarded on or about December 15. Pledge cards may be obtained by calling the Department of Solid Waste and Recycling at 301-387-0322, or persons may pledge on-line at www.americarecyclesday.org.

"Solid Waste and Recycling encourages Garrett County residents to support America Recycles Day by pledging to step up their efforts to recycle and buy recycled products," Brown said.

The department also reminds county residents that recycling at all the Garrett County sites is free of charge. No windshield refuse permits are required to recycle. The department encourages all those currently recycling to continue their efforts, noted Brown.

Residents not currently recycling, especially those living in municipalities that have curbside trash service, are encouraged to give recycling a try. Newspapers, telephone books with covers removed, glass bottles and jars (clear, green, and brown), aluminum cans, tin cans, #2 HDPE plastic jugs and bottles (no caps), office paper, used motor oil, and antifreeze can be recycled at various county-operated refuse collection sites. In addition, laser jet and ink jet printer cartridges may be sent for recycling in postage paid mailers.

More detailed recycling information may be obtained in the 2001 Verizon telephone book (yellowpages R1 and R2), on the county web site at www.garrettcounty.org, by calling 301-387-0322, or by e-mailing solidwaste@garrettcounty.org.

Garrett Transit Unveils LL-MLP-Oakland Shuttle

The Garrett Transit Service will inaugurate a new regularly scheduled shuttle service this Monday, Nov. 5, that will connect the towns of Loch Lynn, Mtn. Lake Park, and Oakland. The service will operate on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Saturdays.

The GTS van will begin the shuttle service at the old Loch Lynn School at 9:30 and 11:30 a.m., and 4 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays, and 9:30 and 11:30 a.m. on Saturdays.

From the old Loch Lynn School, the shuttle will complete its initial loop as it makes the following stops: Pleasant View Apts.; Meadows P St.; Meadows N St.; Pinewoods Apts.; Oakwoods Apts.; Parkwoods Apts.; Browning's Foodland; Historical Society Museum (Second St.); Naylor's Hardware; GC Health Center (Memorial Dr.); GC Memorial Hospital; GC Dept. of Social Services; Food Lion; Wal-Mart; Farmer's Market; and CVS Pharmacy. That loop concludes at CVS approximately 50 minutes after it begins in Loch Lynn.

Immediately following each of the afore-mentioned loops, the van will travel from CVS directly to the Glades Square Apts., where its second loop will get under way at 10:30 a.m., and 12:30 and 5 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays, and 10:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Saturdays.

From the Glades Square Apts., the shuttle will complete this loop encompassing the following stops: Underwood South Apts.; Old Overlook Apts.; New Overlook Apts.; Browning's Foodland; Historical Society Museum; Naylor's Hardware; GC Health Center; GC Memorial Hospital; GC Dept. of Social Services; Food Lion; Wal-Mart; Farmer's Market; and CVS.

For a further explanation of the new shuttle service route, times, and fees, persons may call Julie Feather of the Garrett Transit Service at 301-334-9431, ext. 102.

SANTA RECEIVES MAJOR DONATION - Lou Stouffer, Terra Alta, W.Va., who is better known in the area as a "real" Santa Claus, received a major donation from some close friends who reside in Westminster. Not only did Dale Shipley and Roy Stonesifer bring a tractor-trailer load of bicycles, appliances, toys, and clothing for Lou to give to area families in need, but they also gave him the 40-plus-foot 1977 trailer to use as a storage space. For several years, Stonesifer has collected toys and clothing in the Westminster area and transported them to Stouffer, who then delivers them to area children during the holiday season, as well as during times of need throughout the year. Stouffer, Stonesifer, Shipley's father Larry, and grandfather Harvey were all trucking buddies a number of years ago before Lou's retirement. "We haven't worked together for a lot of years, but Roy and the Shipley family are great people," Stouffer said. "Even though they live in Westminster, they bring load after load of toys and gifts for children up here; children that they don't even know." Stouffer, pictured above in front of the tractor that hauled the trailer to his home last week, has served thousands of families over the past 30 years that he has literally embodied St. Nick. He has received national recognition for his efforts in being named President George H. Bush's 70th Point of Light. Pictured at left with the trailer loaded with items are Dale Shipley, left, and Stonesifer. Local persons who have good used toys, clothing, and other items to donate to Stouffer may leave them at St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Center Street, Oakland, or telephone him at 304-789-6743. Persons may also wish to send him a monetary donation to help defray gasoline expenses, as he travels thousands of miles every year. His address is Rt. 1, Box 56, Terra Alta, WV 26764.

Southern Band Fares Well At FSU, Musselman

The Southern Garrett Marching Band of Southern High School had a busy Saturday, competing in the Phi Mu Alpha Symphonia at Frostburg State University, and in the Big Apple Tournament of Bands, sponsored by Musselman High School at Inwood, W.Va.

Under the direction of Richard Clever and Duane Salisbury, the band placed first in the Group II division of the FSU competition and earned its best score of the 2001 marching season, an 84.20. Williamsport High School finished second with a score of 80.75, and Berlin High School was a distant third with a 67.70. No specialty awards were given.

"This was our best show of the season," Clever said. "We got a good effort from all of the units, and we had great concentration."

The band's score slipped exactly one point at the Big Apple event, held that evening, giving Southern a second place in Group II behind Thomas A. Edison High School, which recorded an 85.50 and first place in the entire competition. Greater Johnstown (Pa.) High School finished third with an 82.05.

Southern drum major Suzanne Gilbert won the Best Field Commander award, and the band received the Best Music trophy.

"We were not quite as focused as we were at the Frostburg performance," Clever said, "but we still played very well."

The ultimate goal of the band is to qualify for the Mid-Atlantic Tournament of Bands Championships, which will be held in Scranton, Pa., the weekend of November 10-11. Southern must earn a solid score in the TOB Chapter 13 championships, which will be hosted by Martinsburg High School this Saturday, in order to qualify. Only the top 25 bands in each division in the entire Mid-Atlantic region are invited to the Scranton event.

The music for the SGB show this year is taken from the hit musical Aida.

Single Vehicle Accidents Injure Two Drivers

Two people were injured Friday after being involved in separate single-vehicle accidents around 7 a.m., according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Randi Lee Brown was admitted to Garrett County Memorial Hospital Friday after an accident on Route 219 near Mayhew Inn Road, north of Oakland, police said.

Southern Rescue Squad and Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company also responded to the scene.

At approximately the same time, deputies sponded to another single-vehicle accident on Tablerock Road, one mile south of Route 50.

Investigation revealed that Michael Dalton was operating a 1987 Acura southbound when he reached down to retrieve items from the floor of the vehicle. The vehicle then traveled off the roadway, striking a tree, police said.

Dalton was transported by Southern Rescue Squad to GCMH, where he was treated and released.

Gorman Fire Department and Maryland State Police also responded to the scene.

Pa. Driver Arrested On Drug Charges

A Pennsylvania man was arrested for driving while impaired (DWI) and other charges early Sunday morning on Deer Park Road, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Bruce Wayne Tebo, 33, Greencastle, Pa., was charged with possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Police said a search of the vehicle revealed a smoking pipe containing suspected burnt marijuana.

Tebo was released from the Garrett County Detention Center after posting $1,000 bond.

In another incident, deputies arrested a man on various charges after police reportedly found him passed out in a vehicle in the Treasure Island parking lot Friday evening.

According to police, David Carl Lower, 42, no address given, was found with suspected drugs in his vehicle and in his possession by the K-9 dog Hanno.

Lower was arrested and charged with possession of valium with intent to distribute, possession of a controlled dangerous substance, and possession of marijuana.

According to a jail spokesperson, Lower was released from the detention center on $7,000 bond.

Man Cited After Single-Vehicle Mishap Tuesday

A 21-year-old Oakland man escaped serious injury just after midnight on Tuesday on Cranesville Road near the Yough Mountain Resort when his vehicle struck a utility pole, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Aaron Todd Stevanus apparently lost control of his 2000 Mazda truck, crossed the center line, drove off the road on the opposite side, and struck a telephone pole, police said. He was charged with driving while impaired by alcohol.

He was transported by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was treated for injuries.

The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene.

In a separate single-vehicle accident, Patricia Susan Barcus, 48, McHenry, and her passenger were both treated and released after their vehicle overturned when the driver attempted to avoid a deer on Sunday, police said.

Barcus was traveling north on Cranesville Road when her 2001 Ford truck struck a bank and overturned twice after she attempted to avoid a deer in the road.

An Oakland woman was also treated and released from GCMH after she lost control of her vehicle on Herrington Manor Road.

According to the report, Kimberly Dawn Corby, 17, lost control after the vehicle in front of her stirred up dust from a nearby construction site.

The heavy amount of debris on the road was the cause of the 5:34 p.m. accident on Monday, police said.

In another incident, sheriff's deputies were called to Broad Ford Elementary School early Wednesday morning.

According to the report, a custodian discovered that the flag on the front of the school was destroyed, and only 1/4 of it was recovered.

Persons with information are urged to contact the sheriff's department.

Garrett County Recipient Of Two 2001 Rural Health Care Awards

Garrett County is the recipient of two awards for exceptional efforts in the field of rural health. At the recent Maryland Rural Development and Health Care Awards Dinner, Susan Athey-Oxford, president of the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families (GCPCF), was presented with an award for Outstanding Rural Health Achievement, and the Healthy Families Garrett County program received the Outstanding Rural Health Program Award.

The awards were sponsored by the "FORVM" for Rural Maryland, the Maryland Rural Health Association, and the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene Office of Primary Care and Rural Health. They were presented at the dinner, which was held on Thursday, Oct. 25, at the Rocky Gap Resort in Cumberland. Garrett's awards were among five state programs and two individuals receiving recognition for their efforts in the rural health area.

Individuals and organizations from across Maryland are nominated for rural development awards in six categories and announced during the dinner.

The documentation from the awards event stated that the GCPCF provides more than $1.4 million to address health needs in Garrett County.

"Ms. Athey-Oxford is a licensed certified social worker who displays a passion for improving the health and welfare of the most at-risk members of our community," said Robert Stephens of the Garrett County Health Department, who formerly held Athey-Oxford's position.

In her career as a licensed certified social worker, Athey-Oxford has been an advocate for improved health care services as a prevention strategy to improve the quality of life in the community," a spokesperson said. As the director of resource development and later as the president of the GCPCF, Athey-Oxford has worked to identify and access health resources for local families. She served on the local Vision-To-Scale negotiation team in 1997, which worked with state partners to develop a community partnership that has as its hallmark the Healthy Families Garrett County program.

Some projects currently funded by the GCPCF are Healthy Families Garrett County, the Garrett County Perinatal Partnership, school-based mental health and prevention, adolescent pregnancy prevention, and substance abuse prevention.

As a volunteer in the community, Athey-Oxford has served on the Garrett County Tobacco Free Coalition, the Garrett County Cancer Task Force, the United Way Board, and the Mtn. Top Mental Health Associates board of directors. She has also held leadership roles in the Teen Pregnancy Prevention Coalition, the Garrett County Commission for Women, the League of Women Voters, and Garrett's Promise.

Healthy Families Garrett County (HFGC), under the direction of Earleen Beckman, is a comprehensive prevention program created to assure that children enter school healthy and ready to learn. The mission of the program is to enhance family functioning and promote child health and development. The program works to ensure that all parents have the support and assistance they need to foster health, learning, and development for children age birth to 5, a spokesperson said.

HFGC is one of the few programs in the United States that offers home visiting services universally to all pregnant women (and families with newborns) on a voluntary basis. This program is the cornerstone of the Garrett Community Partnership Agreement of September 1998, developed through a 1997 community-wide needs assessment.

Programs and services that were integrated to form the HFGC included Parents as Teachers (PAT), Early Head Start (EHS), Healthy Start, Alcohol, Tobacco and Other Drugs (ATOD), Lactation Consultant Services, Parents & Children's Warm-Line, and Maryland Children's Health Program.

Underlying the HFGC program is the premise that healthy development, parenting, and preventive care begins prenatally. In fiscal year 2001, a total of 485 families, almost 60% of all families in Garrett County with children infants to age 3, received services.

HFGC is primarily funded through the GCPCF under a five-year partnership agreement with the Maryland Subcabinet for Children, Youth, and Families. HFGC is a GCPCF program administered under a contract with the Garrett County Health Department (GCHD).

RURAL HEALTH AWARDS ACCEPTED — Leaders in rural health care across Maryland were recognized recently by the "FORVM" for Rural Maryland, the Maryland Rural Health Association, and the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene Office of Primary Care and Rural Health. Two of five statewide awards came to Garrett County, one to Susan Athey-Oxford for her achievements as president of the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families (GCPCF), and the other to the Healthy Families Garrett County program, which is directed by Earleen Beckman. See story. Pictured are two home visitors with the programs, Yvonne McConnell and Michelle Ford, who attended the 2001 Rural Awards Dinner on Oct. 25 to accept the local honors.

Oakland Man Gets 18 Months For Burglary

Jason Brian Hardesty, 18, Oakland, was sentenced by Judge James Sherbin recently in Garrett County Circuit Court to five years at the Department of Corrections for a first-degree burglary conviction. All of that sentence was suspended except for 18 months to be served in the Garrett County Jail. Upon his release, Hardesty will be on supervised probation for one year, according to Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney for Garrett County.

Hardesty and a co-defendant, Randall Eugene DeWitt Jr., were charged by officers with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation in April for burglarizing a residence along Smith Drive, outside Deer Park. A large quantity of jewelry was stolen, with most of it recovered during the investigation. Payment of restitution for the items not recovered is a condition of the probation.

DeWitt has also pleaded guilty to the burglary charge, and his sentencing will occur in the near future, according to Welch.

Narcotics Unit Jails PG Men On Drug Charges

The Garrett County Narcotics Task Force arrested three Prince George's County men on drug charges Sunday evening in downtown Oakland. Two of the individuals were released after posting bond, while the third remains incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail without a set bond.

The arrests came after a 6:30 p.m. traffic stop at Oak and Third streets for an equipment violation. A subsequent K-9 check of the vehicle led to a search that uncovered a trace amount of suspected cocaine. The driver, Joseph Russo III, and two passengers, Brian Parker, 23, and Marquis Brown, 19, all of Glen Burnie, were arrested. A small amount of suspected marijuana was also found in Brown's possession.

According to a press release, Brown initially gave investigators false information concerning his identity. After his fingerprints were forwarded to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, it was learned that his real name was Marquis Brown and that he was wanted by the Maryland Department of Corrections for a probation violation.

Each of the three suspects were charged with possession of cocaine and drug paraphernalia, and Brown faces additional charges of marijuana possession and giving false information to a police officer concerning his identity. Brown remains incarcerated without bond, while Parker was released on a $1,500 bond and Russo was released after posting a $1,000 bond. Task Force personnel were assisted by Maryland State Police troopers from the McHenry barrack.

Pa. Man Found After Wandering From Accident

A Pennsylvania man was found after he walked away from a single-vehicle accident along Deep Creek Drive early Friday morning, and was arrested for charges including driving under the influence by Maryland State Police troopers stationed at the McHenry barrack.

Douglas W. Dennis, 23, Markleysburg, allegedly wrecked his 1986 Honda Accord at approximately 1:12 a.m. at Hollow Drive. State troopers responding to the scene found the damaged vehicle abandoned, and located Dennis almost 30 minutes later as he was walking along Garrett Highway near the police barrack. He was determined to be under the influence and was suffering from minor injuries as a result of the wreck.

The Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad transported Dennis to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released. He faces charges of DUI, negligent driving, and failure to wear a seat belt.

In other state police news, Vincent John Swiger, 29, New Cumberland, W.Va., was arrested for DUI along Interstate 68 Friday evening.

Oakland Man Faces Domestic Assault Charge

An Oakland man was arrested on an assault charge after an alleged domestic dispute with his girlfriend Tuesday afternoon, according to Maryland State Police assigned to the McHenry barrack.

Todd William Riley, 26, reportedly struck the woman during a 3 p.m. dispute at their Garrett Highway residence. While troopers were trying to place him under arrest at the scene, he reportedly resisted being handcuffed.

Riley faces charges of second degree assault, resisting arrest, and failure to obey a lawful order. He has been released from the Garrett County Jail on a $500 bond.

In other state police news, two out-of-state visitors were arrested on marijuana charges after a traffic stop along Friendsville Road last night at 9:26 p.m.

Matthew Paul Bellamy, 20, Sandusky, Ohio, and Paul John Ross, 18, Elco, Pa., were stopped for traffic and equipment violations at the intersection of Friendsville and Hoyes roads. A smoking device was reportedly observed in plain view in the driver's side door of the vehicle, a partially burnt suspected marijuana cigarette was located in the center console, and two bags of suspected marijuana were located in one of the men's pockets.

Both Bellamy and Ross were released from jail after each posted a $500 bond.

Tax Plan Could Hit State Revenues; Backers Say Cuts Help In Long Run

by Robyn Lamb
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON — Maryland could lose $345 million in corporate taxes over the next three years under an economic stimulus package being pushed in Congress, according to one budget policy group.

The Center on Budget and Policy Priorities said a provision in the plan — to let businesses write off 30 percent of their investment expenses immediately, rather than over several years — would cost Maryland $115 million a year, by cutting the taxable corporate income upon which the state draws.

The National Governors Association has estimated that the Republican-backed stimulus package could cost states $5 billion a year in lost revenues. The bill passed the House last week and is awaiting Senate action.

It comes as Maryland officials say they can ill afford additional lost revenue: Legislative fiscal analysts said Tuesday that the state already faces an operating deficit of up to $1 billion over the next few years.

"We are already in a bad way," said Warren Deschenaux, chief fiscal adviser to Maryland's General Assembly. "We are not likely to have enough current revenue to support the current budget."

Deschenaux agreed with critics that the federal stimulus package will hurt the state, although he estimated that the impact might be closer to $50 million a year in lost revenue.

But supporters say it is shortsighted to simply look at the immediate loss in revenue.

"We reject the view that on the surface, less money for the state is a bad thing," said Lisa Wright, a spokeswoman for Rep. Roscoe Bartlett, R-Frederick.

Wright said the proposed provision makes the state's tax system more realistic, enhances business investment, and, in the end, benefits the state's economy.

She said businesses are more likely to buy new computers, for example, if they can write off the cost over a couple of years — the typical lifespan of a computer. That incentive to invest in new equipment benefits the economy overall, she said.

"If they (small business owners) can recover their costs immediately, they have a chance to be more productive, which means they are going to do more work," she said. "If they are doing more work, they are paying more taxes."

In the end, she said, small businesses, which are the "engine" of the nation's economy, will lead the state out of the financial slowdown that was ignited by the events of Sept. 11.

But in an Oct. 25 letter to the Senate, the National Governors Association said the economic stimulus package would cut state revenues, aggravate existing state shortfalls, and precipitate deeper state budget cuts.

Spassil Resigns As Dove Center Exec. Director

The Dove Center board of directors has announced the resignation of Linda Spassil, who has served as the executive director of the Dove Center for nearly four years.

"Linda has been instrumental in the expansion of services of the Dove Center and the development of additional programs," said Larry Gnegy, chairman of the board. He said the Dove Center will continue to provide the same quality professional services to which the clients have been accustomed.

Heather Hanline has been appointed acting executive director of the center, Gnegy said. For more information about the Dove Center, persons may call 301-334-6255.

Woman Charged After Collision On Memorial Dr.

An 18-year-old Friendsville woman was charged as a result of a three-vehicle accident in Oakland last Thursday, Oct. 25. Three persons were slightly injured in the early evening mishap, which was investigated by the Oakland Police Department.

Shortly after 6 p.m. Lacie Briana Dumire was driving a 1997 Dodge van northbound on South Fourth Street. After stopping at a stop sign at Memorial Drive she pulled into the intersection, reportedly into the path of an oncoming eastbound 1994 GMC van operated by Marie Angela Bosley, 35, Oakland. Bosley swerved to her left to avoid a collision, but Dumire's van struck her vehicle in the right rear corner.

The impact pushed Bosley's van into the westbound lane of Memorial Drive and into the path of an oncoming 2000 Chevrolet truck operated by Richard Dewey Wakefield, 48, Mtn. Lake Park. As Bosley tried to steer back to the right to avoid a head-on collision with the truck, her van rolled onto its left side and slid into the front end of Wakefield's vehicle.

The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department and Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad responded to the scene, and Bosley and her two juvenile passengers, ages 9 and 5, were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where they were all treated and released.

Dumire was charged with failure to yield right-of-way by Officer Shawn Fratz.

Reported Drag Racing Leads To Two Arrests

Garrett County sheriff's deputies were on patrol in the area of Gorman Road and Bethlehem Road on Thursday around 12:30 a.m. when they observed two vehicles drag racing at a high rate of speed along Gorman Road.

Deputies were able to stop one of the vehicles at Bethlehem Road. While performing field sobriety tests on the driver of the first vehicle, the second vehicle returned to the scene and was subsequently stopped also, police said.

Both drivers, Shawn Robert Strawser, 23, Oakland, and Diane Elaine White, 37, Oakland, were both arrested and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol.

Strawser was also charged with speeding, negligent driving, and failing to drive right of center.

White was also charged with speeding and negligent driving.

Both were later released that night on their own recognizance.

Numerous Minor Injuries Result From Collision

A rear-end collision on Oak Street between two passenger vans owned by the Appalachian Parent Association resulted in minor injuries to six passengers yesterday, according to the Oakland Police Department. Each of the injured was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where all were treated and released.

Shortly after 4:30 p.m. a 1995 Ford van operated by Lisa Michelle Bittinger, 29, Oakland, which was traveling eastbound on Oak Street, approached a 1999 Chevrolet van that was stopped in the same lane of traffic behind a third vehicle waiting to make a left-hand turn onto Eighth Street. Bittinger reportedly failed to stop in time, and struck the stopped Chevy van, operated by Jeannette Joy Lane, 54, Oakland, in the rear.

There were a total of 17 passengers being transported by the agency vans at the time of the mishap. Six of those persons were slightly injured: Oakland residents Connie Michaels, 39, Jarrod Wolfe, 37, Evelyn Iman, 65, Margie Bell, 73, and Wendy Seymour, 32; and Swanton resident Ralph Friend, 52. The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad made the transports.

Officer Shawn Fratz charged Bittinger in connection with the accident.

Cumberland-To-BWI Flights Are Delayed

by Penny Riordan
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — Daily flights from Cumberland Regional Airport to Baltimore/Washington International Airport did not start Wednesday, as previously announced by the airline and the airports.

Boston-Maine Airways, the company providing the flights, is still "wrapping up" certification from the Federal Aviation Administration, said John Nadolny, airline senior vice president.

The delay is just part of the process, said Nadolny, adding that this is an expansion for the company, headquartered in Boston. This is the first time Boston-Maine will offer scheduled, rather than occasional, passenger flights.

"I don't think Sept. 11 has had an impact," he said. "We're in the final steps here."

Three 19-passenger flights are scheduled to leave every day from Cumberland Regional Airport and stop at Hagerstown Airport before landing at BWI. Hagerstown has not had flights to BWI since 1997.

The flights are a result of a two-year, $2.25 million contract approved by the Board of Public Works in June. The state subsidy is designed to stimulate jobs and business to help western Maryland's struggling economy.

"We have every reason to believe they are going to start in November," said Hagerstown Airport manager Carolyn Motz, adding she didn't think Nov. 1 was ever a firm starting date for the flights.

A delay might further depress the number of people on the flights, said Cumberland airport manager John Jennings.

"It does hurt the community. It takes a pretty good media blitz to get the airport back in the public's mind."

He also pointed out "there are a lot of people in the community who have been asking for the flights."

Six Charged

"Did He Say Fire?!"...

"Garrett County Courthouse Did Not Burn Down Last Night"... "No School Bus Wrecks In Garrett County This Week"... "Major Snow Storm Not Predicted For Saturday"... "No Resident Struck By Lightning This Week"...

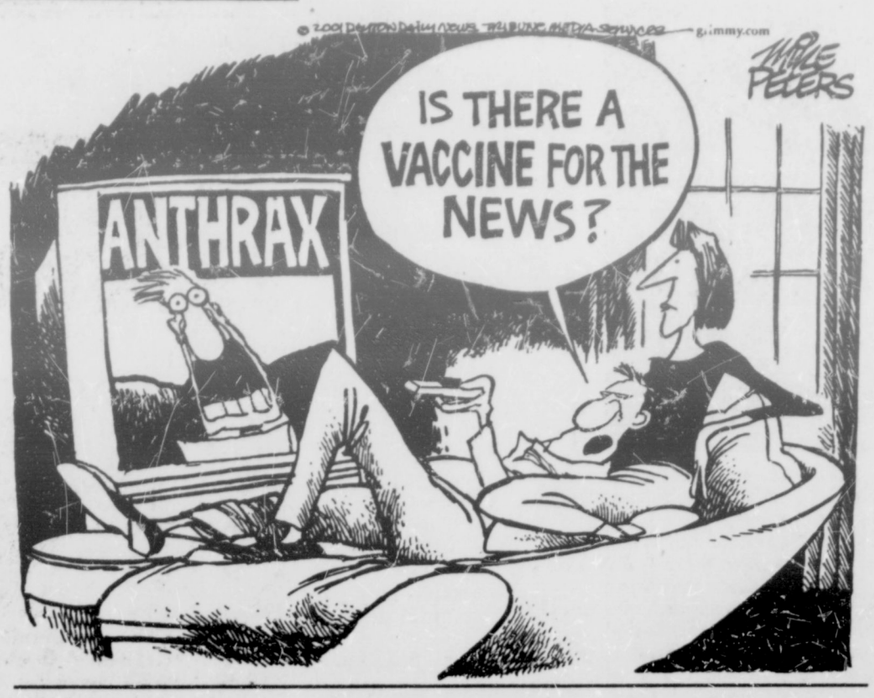
The preceding are possible headlines of ludicrous "non-stories" that you will not find in the pages of this newspaper, but they are examples of the kind of accounts that some in the print and electronic media have elected to publish of late.

Our nation has been in brand new territory since we became victims of major terrorist attacks nearly two months ago. Traveling in uncharted waters is scary, and mistakes are bound to be made as we try to address these new and unexpected assaults on our lives. We in the newspaper business certainly have a responsibility to keep our public informed, especially when the information is crucial to the safety of our people and our communities. But we also have a responsibility to be objective, to keep things in perspective, and to refrain from being sensationalistic in our reporting. Doing otherwise has the potential to create rampant rumor, unnecessary anxiety, and occasionally, sheer panic, which sometimes results in tragedy.

For example, our readers will not find in today's issue of this newspaper a large, bold headline and detailed story about anthrax not being found at the Merkle Response Services plant site in Grantsville. This is certainly not because we don't care about the employees of that company. Nor are we are suggesting that Garrett County is immune from this deadly bacteria and that there is no need for us to even be cautious. The Merkle folks had a good reason to at least have their plant checked out because of the possibility of their handling some tainted mail. There are other similar facilities in the county — including our very own pressroom — in which mail bags quite possibly from the Brentwood postal facility in Washington are handled. We are taking precautions, and we are on alert as to the symptoms of anthrax disease. End of story.

We do not consider it a major story when a facility is simply checked for anthrax and is found to be clean. If, God forbid, anthrax is found anywhere in the county, rest assured we will report it, and we will use a large, bold headline. In the meantime, we will do our best to help pass along useful, precautionary information about what we should do to protect ourselves.

Some of the reporting of late is tantamount to standing up in a crowded theatre and screaming, "This building is not on fire!" Even though it is good news, such reporting still has the potential to cause panic. ("Did he say fire?!"... "That must mean this building was on fire!"... "The building right next door must be on fire!"... "Let's get outta here!"... etc.)



Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I'm writing to tell drivers that, even though you're on a back country road, it doesn't give you the right to drive fast or run over any animal.

On October 18, my boys (ages 2 and 4) and I went to my parents' house. They live ½ mile off a back country road on a farm on Backbone Mountain. My sons' 5-month-old pup went. She was cream in color and a Pomeranian. It took me five months to decide to get them a pup.

We drove over to see my brother between 3:40 and 4 p.m. and left the pup with my parents' dog. When we got back 30 to 45 minutes later, we couldn't find the pup.

I went to look for her and found her 5 to 10 feet away from my parents' cattle fence. Someone had hit her in the head and killed her. (You could have found out who she belonged to). I picked her up and sat in my car crying, trying to figure our what to tell my boys.

I went back down to the house and my boys were still yelling for Cassie. When they saw me sitting in the car, the oldest one screamed, "Someone killed Cassie! She's dead!" He started crying and getting sick. The youngest one just said, "My Cassie's gone." They wanted to see her and tell her goodbye, but I wouldn't let them see her. We brought her home and buried her. The boys put her favorite toy in her grave.

I feel guilty about what happened. I think, "Why did this happen? Why didn't I just put her in the car?"

Whoever you were on this country road, you were going way too fast to stop when you saw her. You hit this little pup and didn't even think about who she belonged to. You hurt two little boys so bad. They keep asking, "Where's my Cassie?" They still miss their best buddy, and so do I!

er Ernie Gregg will speak about Garrett County's fallen veterans.

The entertainment portion of the program will include a variety of patriotic musical selections, including "Over There" and "You're A Grand Old Flag," performed by Dave Callis; "The Star Spangled Banner," performed by Bea Shaw; and Oakland's own "Andrews Sisters" performing such hits as "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy" and "Sentimental Journey," with accompaniment by Sue Peterson. A song taken from eras of each 20th century U.S. war—World Wars I and II, Korea, Vietnam, and Desert Storm—will be highlighted during the evening.

A Brenda's Body Shop troupe will perform a dance rendition of "Stars and Stripes Forever;" Gavin Friend will read his state-winning essay, "I Thank Veterans for My Freedom"; and Doug Gaither and Chuck Nolan will perform a Bob Hope comedy skit, backed by "USO girls" Kim Grimm Weimer and Tammy Blythe. A swing dance demonstration will be performed by Rita Powell and Patrick Damon, and Mullan will play recordings of Big Band hits for audience members who would like to dance.

John Wilson will re-create President Franklin D. Roosevelt's famous "Day of Infamy" speech, and a recording of the Sept. 11 speech by President George W. Bush will be played. Military history exhibits will be displayed by Cpt. Rick Wakefield, Carl Rebele, and Nolan. Acting as canteen girls will be Carole Gregg, Pam Stover, Megan Burner, Donna Durst, Rose Hughes, Joyce Nutter, Melanie Reigrut, Judy Wilt, Joanne Glotfelty, and Arzella Parsons.

For further information, person may call Bea Crosco at 301-334-2147.

To Attend

In addition to Congressman Bartlett, Delegate George Edwards, Senator John Hafer, the Garrett County Commissioners, and the mayors and council members of all of the county's municipalities are expected to attend, according to Brode.

Also present will be Maxine Broadwater, the niece of Leo Beachy, whose photography work in Garrett County in the 1920s is featured prominently in Images of Maryland. Mrs. Broadwater will have prints of Beachy's work for sale and will bring some of his glass photographic plates for people to see, Brode said.

The evening's hot hors d'oeuvres will be catered by Taste Unlimited, and a special beer tasting will be hosted by the Deep Creek Brewery and Uncle Tucker's Brewery of Cumberland. The Glade Players will offer music on dulcimer, guitar, and bass, and well-known regional speaker and humorist Gary Yoder will serve as the host of the evening.

Beer and wine will also be served. Maryland Public Television, the producers of the film, are scheduled to send its senior executive producer and to provide door prizes.

"This gathering offers a nice, informal setting for people from all over the county just to chat over a glass of wine and some hors d'oeuvres. It's kind of a town meeting with good food, good drink, and good music, with the chance to see an Emmy-winning documentary that features some of our county's history," Brode said.

"We realize that $50 is a lot of money in a county with the state's lowest median per household income," she continued. "But we're hoping that the generosity and the community spirit that has prevailed since the September 11 tragedies will prevail up here. We think it will. It is also the first opportunity that many regional citizens will have to talk to their leaders and fellow county residents about those events and how they may affect them."

For more information on the event, person may see the full-page advertisement in this week's issue or call the Area Agency on Aging at 301-334-9431.

Staff Reports

Susan Athey-Oxford, president of Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families, reported that youths who participated in the Learn and Serve Program had been invited to a Baltimore Ravens football game (see separate story in this issue). Commissioner Fred Holliday congratulated Athey-Oxford on winning an Outstanding Rural Health Achievement leadership award at the 4th annual Maryland Rural Summit, held last week in Cumberland, for her work with Partnership for Children and Families. Healthy Families also won an Outstanding Rural Health Program award.

Ann Sherrard, Garrett County Extension educator, reported that about 200 residents had signed up for the office's nutrient management voucher seminars, with about 140 on a waiting list for the next available seminars. She said that "quite a flood of people" had been coming into the office asking questions about the nutrient management vouchers and the Department of Agriculture's new Maryland Water Quality Act.

The director of the Ruth Enlow Library, Cathy Ashby, told the commissioners that all branches of the library will be closed on Tuesday, Nov. 6, for staff training day. The staff will receive training on the library's new phone and bar code systems. Patrons will soon need new cards with bar codes to check out library materials, Ashby said. She also noted that all the branches were adapting computer work stations to make them more useable for disabled persons.

Fred Polce, Garrett County Roads Department superintendent, reported that his department had completed all of its summer/fall projects. Polce noted that 130 miles of road maintenance and four bridge replacements had been completed. "We're now getting ready for the 'good' season (winter)," the superintendent said.

Representing the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, Peggy Santamaria told the commissioners that the chamber was working on the ads and the calendar of events for the 2002-2003 Vacation Guide.

BEAUTY AND HOLINESS

Digging up old rhizomes has occupied me this past week. It is a job that would have been better done in late spring rather than mid-autumn, but it is done at last.

When I came to this place 17 years ago there were remnants of love from decades earlier. A full-sized York imperial apple tree stood on the south edge of the farmstead. That tree is gone, having collapsed after a long and abundant life. There were also shoots of flowers that came up each spring, but which never bloomed. That state of affairs continued for the first decade that I lived here.

One day under inspiration I dug up the shoots, not knowing what they were, and replanted them. The next spring they came up lovely. They turn out to be a delicate old-fashioned iris, pale purple with a streak of yellow. The flower is not as big as the modern irises, but for me willowiness is a desirable feminine quality. The original Iris was the goddess of the rainbow, as willowy a being as can be conceived.

The years have passed since that digging up and replanting. The irises were back to their hardly or not-blooming estate. What happens is that rhizomes grow into multiple rhizomes. If they remain undivided, they bind up. Grass had overgrown the bed, making matters worse.

The iris, like most goddesses, wants space for gathering air and light to be transfigured into a vision of glory. Rainbows just will not be crowded.

Today is the feast celebrating another kind of glory, the glory of holiness. Sanctity has rarely achieved high status as a cultural value over the course of human history. In our day when creativity is defined in terms of transgression, the only really absurd idea is the idea of holiness. Who wants to be called a "goody-two-shoes?"

It is not an accident that the age which disdains holiness also disdains beauty. I am thinking of those art museums that feature works which are equally blasphemous and hideous. Once the ideal of sanctity is lost, the ideal of beauty becomes discredited as well. If beauty is in the eye of the beholder, then some sophisticated elitists have impaired vision.

I remember beckoning someone, that person's identity mercifully forgotten, to behold a sunset. "I've seen better," the person said. Beauty ravishes my heart too much for me to dare to say, "I've seen better."

"Worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness," the psalmist sang. It is an idea so potent and appealing that it occurs twice in the Book of Psalms (29:2, 96:9). That is much of what today, All Saints' Day, is about. There are some who have completed their pilgrimage, and who have arrived at the eternal city of God. They are worshipping God in the beauty of holiness.

Are there irises in heaven? Heaven is hard for me to imagine without flowers, unless the glory of that place is so unimaginable that the flowers which leave me devastated in their wake are but shadows of the beauty there. Both Jesus and St. Paul explained the resurrection and life with God in terms of what is planted in the soil to be raised up in harvest. The lilies of the field, our Lord reminded us, exceed the glory of Solomon. "Fresh as a daisy," we say. "My love is like a red, red rose," sang Robert Burns. The flower in its perfection, however transitory, expresses our highest notions of beauty. It is a beauty like holiness as a simple and complete fulfillment of original nature.

The Fall, that condition of sin into which the world exists since Adam and Eve disobeyed God, is expressed in the fleeting quality of a flower's beauty. "The flower fades," Isaiah observed, as have we all.

The beauty of holiness, the beauty of heaven, is beauty which does not fade and of which we never grow weary. Part of holiness is like astonishment at the sight of every new flower as of the first.

All Saints' Day is a day about heaven even as the rhizomes and bulbs sit, buried in earth, awaiting the summons of spring, months and an eternity from now. Today we who live in the valley of the fading flower rejoice with those who live where irises never fade, never get bound up in their being, but are forever growing in the air and space and light necessary for them to live as standing rainbows in the garden.

one count of malicious destruction of property, and 13 traffic violations, including reckless driving, operating an unregistered vehicle, and aggressive driving.

Murphy came to the LaVale barrack that morning to report a domestic problem between himself and his wife. While he was speaking with troopers, his wife phoned in a report of a domestic-related assault that had just occurred along the Interstate, naming her husband as the assailant. A trooper was sent to the woman's location at a LaVale residence, and after numerous cuts and abrasions were observed on her face consistent with her version of the events, Murphy was taken into custody back at the barrack.

According to a press release, an argument between the couple at their Grantsville home led the woman to take their 2-year-old child and leave in a vehicle. Murphy reportedly followed her in a second vehicle onto eastbound I-68, where he allegedly tried to run her off the roadway. The woman pulled over and Murphy is accused of smashing the driver's side window, shattering glass onto her and the child. He is reported to have then grabbed the woman and banged her head on the door. Both parties then left the scene.

The anonymity of any witnesses is guaranteed, state police said.

for the new library building. Fund-raisers sponsored by the building committee have included a bingo night, silent auctions, raffles and drawings at the Truck Show, Music in the Park, ongoing sales of Leo Beachy photographic prints, and a raffle of wooden toys made by Eugene Bender. Gary Yoder donated a carved sculpture. Hobby House Press donated printing and matting services for the Leo Beachy prints. A number of local businesses donated food and supplies for the Potato Bar fundraiser. Lynn Lais donated a handmade plate. Allen Miller donated his time, talent, and materials by making and serving ice cream at two fund-raising events. Nancy Kaufman donated printed invoices and other printed materials. Pioneer Press printed the Leo Beachy prints at a discount. Numerous other citizens have donated their time and energy to the project.

The reNew Grantsville's Library Committee hopes to raise a total of $200,000 for the project. Donations may be sent to the Grantsville Library, P.O. Box 237, Grantsville, MD 21536. Checks should be made out to the Ruth Enlow Library. Donors are asked to indicate that the donation is for the Grantsville Library Building Fund.

1880s Gortner Home Part Of Holiday Tours

A home built in the 1800s will be among those on the 10th annual Home for the Holidays House Tours event, sponsored by the Western Potomac Chapter of the American Red Cross (which includes Garrett County). The tours of five homes and one church will take place on Friday, Nov. 30, and Saturday, Dec. 1, with all proceeds benefiting the projects of the Red Cross.

The home of David and Wendy Berry is located in the Gortner area and was built sometime in the 1880s by Mr. and Mrs. Peter P. Gortner. The first stud-built house in the area, it was initially situated at the corner of U.S. Rt. 219 and Mason School Road. The Gortners lived there for a few years, and then built a larger house and kept the first one as a rental. Later it was renovated into a 2-unit rental. For a short time, the house also served as the Gortner Post Office. The Berrys said that Mr. and Mrs. Henry Swartzentruber, local Gortner historians, provided much of this history.

When Rt. 219 was improved in the late 1950s, the house was in its path. The state of Maryland purchased it from Mr. and Mrs. Forrest (Shorty) Gortner, but later the Gortners negotiated and purchased it back from the state. They had it moved across Ambrose Run Creek to its present location at 4435 Mason School Road. At that time it was put on a basement foundation.

GORTNER HOME OF DAVID AND WENDY BERRY ON RED CROSS TOUR

Side-by-side bathrooms were added upstairs, with the kitchen beneath them on the first floor. Carlos Powell, stepson and heir of Shorty Gortner, shared printed materials and pictures his mother saved through the years. Some of these items will be on display during the open house.

Through the years, a number of families have lived in the house. William J. Welch resided there as a young boy with his parents from 1937 through 1942. He commented that the "wind blew straight through it" and at times could raise the sugar bowl lid. However, his mother kept the potbellied stove stoked to warm the five-room apartment. They paid $10 per month and the other tenant paid just $8, as he had only four rooms.

In later years, the house became a one-family dwelling again with one owner adding the first floor bedroom and bath. One of the Berrys' first improvements was the addition of a 2½ car garage. Two small rooms were created when the garage walls were directly attached to the main house walls, inclosing the kitchen.

At the time the Berrys purchased the house, the wind still blew through it, causing the curtains on both floors to sway. Now the outside walls are double insulated and the windows have been replaced. The small front porch was removed to make room for a full-width Victorian span.

Because of all the foot traffic during the years, the Berrys found it necessary to rebuild the stairs and banister for the second floor. All rooms upstairs have been restored to their original sizes. On the first floor, several walls were removed to create more open living space. The remaining walls were stripped to the studs, with various layers being removed, including the horsehair plaster and lathe.

One of the small rooms from the garage addition is now part of the new kitchen, and the other one is a foyer room, with the laundry and half-bath off the garage. This will be the entryway utilized for the holiday tour.

In addition to the Berrys, homeowners participating in the event this year are Walt and Pat Copeland, Ben DeWitt Road; Donald and Carol Moss and Dusty and Elizabeth Huxford, both of the Blakeslee; and Bob and Anne Proudfoot, Mtn. Lake Park. St. Paul's United Methodist Church will also be on the tour.

Raffles will be held at each of the homes, with gifts donated from area businesses.

Tour hours are Friday, 4 until 9 p.m.; and Saturday, 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. Tickets, which are $5 in advance and $7 on the day of the tours, can be purchased at Proudfoot's, Gregg's, and Deep Creek pharmacies, as well as at Flowers by Webers in Oakland and Arrowhead Market at Deep Creek Lake.

Local Teacher Sees Similarities Between Teaching, Law Enforcement

by Beth L. Bowers

One of the five math/ resource teachers at Broad Ford Elementary School brings the unique experience of being a former police officer into the classroom.

David Yoder, a native of Garrett County who now resides in Swanton, is in his first year of teaching at Broad Ford after spending three years as a police officer in Hanover County near Richmond, Va. He said he was always interested in teaching and received his degree in early elementary education from Frostburg State University in 1996.

His wife Carla (Graham) Yoder's job with Westvaco took them to the Richmond area. After a few years, she was transferred back to Luke, and according to Yoder he couldn't have been happier.

He said they both always wanted to return to where they grew up, plus their families are still here.

Yoder was a long-term reading enrichment substitute teacher at Northern Middle School last year before retaining a permanent position at Broad Ford.

According to Yoder, there are numerous parallels between the two careers, the first of which is being in the public eye at all times.

"You have to be a great role model all the time," he said. "Even when you are at the grocery store, you must be on your best behavior."

He added that in both law enforcement and teaching, a person must be organized and always prepared.

"You can't let your guard down," he said. "You always have to be prepared because you never know what will happen from one minute to the next, whether you are teaching in the classroom or patrolling the streets."

He said that as a math teacher he has to be especially organized because he has to make the transition from first grade to fifth grade. He said he really enjoys the differences between the five grades.

He does not have his own classroom; instead, he travels to the classrooms and teaches math there.

Another parallel is dedication, he said. "You have to be very dedicated to what you do. You can't be in either job for the paycheck or you will be very disappointed and burned out."

Both jobs also require continuing education and additional training.

For Yoder, the children are what makes teaching worthwhile. "It's the small things that really make your job important," he said. "Sometimes they will give you a picture with 'I love you' on it and that makes you know your job is worthwhile."

He said he really has fun teaching. "Kids know when you are having fun, and they enjoy learning more," Yoder said.

He said even though he enjoyed being a police officer, he is very happy being a teacher.

"Police officers have to make great sacrifices," Yoder said. He worked the 3 to 11 p.m. shift, and he and his wife didn't see much of each other.

"It is very hard when you rarely see each other, especially during the holidays," he said. "Being with my family more is the main reason I found a teaching job when we returned home instead of being a police officer."

Yoder spent the summer working with children at the Western Maryland Consortium.

He is the son of Jim and Edith Yoder, Grantsville.

Bayard Woman Faces Charges In W.Va. Crash

A Grant County, W.Va., woman and her Oakland passenger both escaped serious injury in a single-vehicle accident early Monday morning in Gormania, W.Va. Following her discharge from Garrett County Memorial Hospital, the woman was charged by Grant County sheriff's deputies.

Lisa A. Turner, 35, was traveling northbound along state Route 93 just after 2 a.m. when her 1988 Ford Festiva went off the roadway immediately after crossing U.S. Route 50. The mini-sedan went through a fence surrounding a house near the intersection, over a ledge, and rolled over into the yard.

Both Turner and her passenger, Kim Dillon, 40, Oakland, were trapped in the overturned car for approximately 15 minutes before emergency personnel from the Bayard and Gorman volunteer fire departments, the Mt. Storm Ambulance Service, and the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad freed the pair.

Turner and Dillon were transported by the Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial, where they were both treated and released. Grant County deputy Todd Sherman later charged Turner with failure to stop at a stop sign and failure to maintain control of her vehicle.

PARENTS AND CHILDREN WIN BY READING — Rebecca Stemple is pictured reading to her children Shalyn, 4, and Matthew, 2. Stemple was the Head Start/Early Head Start programwide top reader in the Summer Reading Challenge. Shalyn, who is now in Dennett Road Pre-K and Head Start Preschool Family Support program, was a student in Head Start Oakland Room I. Matthew, now an Early Head Start student in Overlook Room I, was formerly in Liberty Street Room I. Stemple and other family members spent a total of 100 hours reading to Shalyn and Matthew.

Head Start Celebrates Nat'l Literacy Day

The Garrett County Community Action Head Start/Early Head Start program is celebrating National Family Literacy Day today, Thursday, Nov. 1. To celebrate this day, the program is honoring center winners and the programwide winner of the Summer Reading Challenge.

This past summer Garrett County Community Action Head Start/ Early Head Start challenged parents or guardians and other family members to read to their children. Even if the child were moving on to the public school system, parents could still participate.

Participants read to their children as frequently as possible during June, July, and August and documented the books, authors, and time spent reading.

"By participating in the Summer Reading Challenge, parents and guardians spent quality time with their children while instilling in their children a love of reading," said a Head Start spokesperson. "All participants were winners!"

The top reader from each classroom or home-based option won a child's book and a place on the classroom's "Literacy Wall of Fame." Other winners were parents/family members of Cody Hoover, Accident Head Start Center; Caleb Dale, Kitzmiller Head Start; Melanie Burns, Dennett Road Head Start; Killian Steuber, Oakland Room III; Jasmine Schrock, Early Head Start Room I; Ian Riggleman, Early Head Start Room II; Brady Alexander, Early Head Start Room III; and Zachary Slaubaugh, Early Head Start Home Based.

Head Start/Early Head Start provides a full array of family literacy activities year around. November literacy programming includes training provided by Garrett County Health Department Community Outreach at all parent meetings. In addition, "Dinner and Theater" will be held on Nov. 19, beginning with dinner for the entire family at the Community Action Center and ending with a visit to Our Town Theatre.

Families will also receive free children's books from First Books and every Head Start/Early Head Start child will have the opportunity to choose a book of his/her own at d Reading Is Fundamental book distribution.

For information on Head Start/Early Head Start's Family Literacy Program and November literacy activities, individuals may contact Barbara Hornyak, family development coordinator, at 301-334-9431 or 1-888-877-8403 (toll-free).

In Memory of Ruth Lantz

Dear Mommy,
It's been a year since
you passed away.
I remember the things that you used to say,
Like, "Roses are red violets are blue,
I never had a daughter like you."
So here is one for you:
Roses are red
violets are blue,
I sure do miss you and I love you too.
Your Daughters,
Connie & Ellen "Punkie"

HISTORICAL ITEMS DONATED TO DRANE HOUSE — Accident resident Freda Van Scheetz is shown with two antique items that she and fellow descendants of William and Maude (Lee) Lohr are donating to Accident's Drane House, the oldest standing home in Garrett County. The meat grinder at the left was found in the attic of a log home when George Lohr purchased a farm in the 1930s from Howard Schlossnagle, son of Henry Schlossnagle. The lantern was found in the attic of the late 19th century farmhouse built by James W. Lee, located along Mitchell Rush Road, which was purchased by William Lohr from Ezra Lee in 1924. The lantern was filled with grease (possibly tallow) and pieces of wick when it was discovered. The historic Drane House is open to visitors on the first Sunday of each month, and a special "old-time" Christmas display will be featured on Sunday, Dec. 8. Persons may call the Accident Historical Society at the town hall, 301-746-6346 for further information, which will also be published in an upcoming issue of The Republican.

SWANTON NEWS

CHRISTMAS BAZAAR

A holiday open house will be held at the Swanton Community Center from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, Nov. 3. There will be a variety of holiday decor, gift ideas, wreaths, ornaments, candles, make-up, baked goods, apple butter with free samples, and more available. A door prize will be awarded every hour. The bazaar is being hosted by Christy Teets Riley.

The Halloween parade and social were held Saturday at the Swanton Community Center. The parade began at the center and went to the church and back. The parade categories were: Prettiest, Ugliest, Funniest, and Most Original, in age groups 1-3, 4-6, 7-12, 13-adult. There was a large turn-out even with the snowy weather, and the social featured games, food, and cake walks. Chairman Phyllis Friend and the Swanton Community note appreciation to the deputy who went with the parade helping to keep the children safe.

BUCKWHEAT CAKE SUPPER

An "all-you-can-eat" buckwheat cake supper will be held at the Swanton Community Center on Nov. 10, starting at 4 p.m. and ending when the batter runs out. Buckwheat cakes, pancakes, and sausage will be served. Cost is $5 for adults and $2.50 for children. Carolyn Livengood is chairman.

CHRISTMAS CANDY

Brenda King and Dorothy Bernard are co-chairing the annual Christmas candy making. Members are working on making peanut-brittle and various flavors of hardtack. The candy pick-up date is Nov. 10, from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m., at the Swanton Community Center.

SENIOR CITIZENS' MEALS

Senior citizens' meals are served every Monday and Tuesday at the center. On Monday, Oct 29, 30 meals were served. Joe DiSimone's quartet brought special music and stayed for lunch. Cake and sherbet were served to celebrate the October birthdays of Louise Beckman, Gertrude Annarelli, Jessie Skipper, and Dot Groves (Dot was absent). Health nurse Sandy Sutton was on site to take blood pressures. She brings this service at the end of each month. Nov. 26 is the next BP check date.

DIABETIC SUPPORT GROUP

Earl George and Mary Louise Lohr Shreve have organized a committee, including Kathy Skipper and Lillian Beckman, to support people with diabetes. They will have monthly meetings on a trial basis for six months. November 13, from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m., are the date and time of the next meeting, to be held at the Mary Browning Senior Center on Center Street in Oakland. (Use the back door off the parking lot.) There will be information for diabetic families and friends. Wendy Wakefield, GCMH dietician, will be the guest speaker. Her topic will be "Holiday Planning." All are welcome.

PERSONALS

Dottie and Bennie Beckman visited with their family on Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday. They met with Kevin and his family of Hampstead in Frostburg on Sunday, Oct. 21, and Harry and Beth, and Linda and families from Fallston on Monday and Tuesday.

Josephine Murphy and Nancy Johnson of Morgantown, W.Va., visited Irvin and Louise, and Mary and Lynn Beckman last Thursday. Keith, Patty, and Ryan Beckman of Keyser, W.Va. visited Louise and Irvin on Saturday.

Virginia Greer, Michigan, and daughters Judy Jump from Michigan and Brenda Calandrella of Keyser, W.Va., visited her sister Carol and Ray Sweitzer on Saturday.

Visitors of Mareva and Orval Teets this week were Linda and John Fleming, John Lowrey, and Lucinda, Steve, and Jacob Davis of Albright, W.Va.

A combined birthday celebration for Louise and Timothy Beckman was held at the residence of Irvin and Louise Beckman on Sunday. Those attending were Shirley, Chuckie, Elizabeth, and Debbie Lipscomb of Eglon, W.Va., Mary, Lynn, and Timothy Beckman, and Rick, Joanna, Gregory, Patrick, and Michaela Beckman of McHenry. Louise's brother, David A. McRobie, Receda, Calif., gave her a telephone visit for her birthday.

On Sunday evening, Ray and Carol Sweitzer traveled to the UM Church in Leadmine, W.Va., where they ministered in song and word. Their friends, Dick and Carol Paugh from Short Run, accompanied them.

A father-and-son birthday party was held for Rodney Sweitzer and his 1-year-old son Billy on Sunday at the home of Glenna Sweitzer. The celebration included a "Winnie the Pooh" birthday cake. Among the 23 people in attendance were Barbie, Beth, Sara, and Lute Sweitzer, Marge Lee, Den, Alverta, Bob, Kim, Shayna, and Mandy Sweitzer, Debbie and Mike Sweitzer, Wanda, Chuckie, and Gunner Ward, Sharon and Shelly Lee, Chris Lee with fiancee Noel and daughter Carissa, and Bob and Carolyn Marley. Rodney traveled to Baltimore for state highway training.

Bill and Carma White, with their friends and family, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Sunday at an open house at the Kitzmiller Community Center. Their daughter, Ruth Oliverio, gave the welcome. Their son Jim gave a toast, Pastor Meredith Ball gave the invocation, and Bill and Carma introduced their family. They have three children, seven grandchildren, and one great-grandson. All their families were present, including Carma's brothers, sisters, and their spouses, Wayne and Bridgett Bray of Astor, Fla., Neil and Kay Bray of Alliance Ohio, Bill Bray of Deer Park, and Darlene Davis. Carma and Bill said they remembered their parents, Ruth and Everett Bray and Bill and Lula White, who also were able to celebrate 50 years of marriage.

OTTERBEIN UM CHURCH

A homemade-baked-goods table will be part of the holiday open house sponsored by Christi Teets Riley at the Swanton Community Center on Saturday, Nov. 3. UM Women should have their baked goods there in the morning.

On Saturday, Nov. 3, at noon, the South Garrett Parish Burlington Booth Festival will be held at the Deer Park fire hall. Persons should bring a covered dish. Meat, bread, and drinks will be furnished. Also, persons may deliver canned goods, sheets, paper products, school supplies, etc., for the children's home in Burlington.

On November 10 at 6 p.m. at Mt. Bethel UM Church in Kitzmiller, a fund-raiser will be held for the next local work team going to Bolivia. A 15-minute slide show and live gospel music will be part of the program. The groups coming are Ralph Bever and Mt. Highway Gospel Group, and the Gospel Five.

ROUTE 40 SCHOOL'S CIRCLE PROGRAM IS FUN FOR ALL — This year the group was given the opportunity to spend Friday night and Saturday at the Hickory Environmental Education Center with their parents. "We wanted the program to give the parents a chance to experience the outdoor environment with their children, and to have the opportunity to see how wonderful Hickory is," said Pat Delaney, principal at Route 40. During the course of a child's education, he/she makes numerous trips to the center, and many times the parents have never had the opportunity to see the facility, he added. The students in the Circle Program had the chance to go hiking, sing songs at a campfire, and play a variety of board games with their parents on Friday evening. On Saturday morning, the group traveled to the Cove Run Farms Corn Maze. Director of the Circles Program is Charleen Beeman, and team members are Debbie Brenneman, Chris Baker, Patty Rice, Jeff Rice, Delaney, and Laura Bolden. Pictured above is Alice Bender, in the center, explaining the corn maze to the group. Glenn Jordan, a parent, played the accordion for the group during the campfire in the bottom photo.

The family of Richard Alan Lee, son of Alvin and Marge Lee, requests that expressions of sympathy take the form of contributions to the family in care of Brenda L. Lee, 273 Spruce Drive, Keyser, WV 26726.

BISER DEATH

Shayne Biser, husband of Kendra Sweitzer, was a patient in a Winchester (Va.) hospital, where he died suddenly late Tuesday. He is the son of Dan and Diane Biser, Burlington, W.Va. Details of funeral arrangements were not available at presstime; however, visitation will be at the Smith Funeral Home, and the funeral service will be held at the Presbyterian Church in Burlington.

ACCIDENT

LUTHERAN BRAILLE WORKERS INC.

SGCRW Club Members Meet

The Southern Garrett County Republican Women's Club (SGCRWC) held its October meeting at the Oak Park Church of the Brethren in Oakland, with 12 members and one guest in attendance. Club president Bea Crosco told the gathering that she hoped to attend the Maryland Federation of Republican Women's board of directors meeting and 80th anniversary Fall Convention, set for later this month in Columbia.

The fund-raising efforts of SGCRWC members, especially JoAnne Glotfelty, and Jimmy and Pat Light of Oakland, received special recognition. (See accompanying photo caption for details.) The Lights are moving to Florida, and their large contributions to the sales were noted in the success of the fund-raisers.

A summer yard sale provided funding used to continue the club's "No Child Left Behind" program. Last year the club purchased student school supplies, which were presented to eight county middle and elementary schools. This year, members will contact school principals to learn what the needs of their students are in order to respond accordingly. As classes have already begun, this project has the club's highest priority and presentations to the schools should be completed very soon, according to Crosco.

Glotfelty is chairing the club's "Republican of the Year" committee, and members were asked to forward a brief written statement of support for the nominee of their choice to her. The club also approved a donation to assist with the purchase of warm clothing for Garrett County children.

A brain-storming session on ideas to help with the recruitment of new members resulted in suggestions that included a bus trip to Annapolis for a visit to the state capital and other government interests.

The annual SGCRWC Christmas shopping trip fund-raiser is planned for Saturday, Nov. 17. Club members and local seniors will travel by vans or bus to the Gallaria Mall in Johnstown, Pa.

In response to a request for summer vacation stories, members shared memories and photographs from their journeys. These included travels to Ocean City, Arizona's Grand Canyon, Minneapolis, Arkansas, West Point, North Carolina's Outer Banks, Washington D.C., Texas, Myrtle Beach, Mexico, Baltimore (for the 147th anniversary celebration of the USS Constellation), and Thailand. Several members were delayed in their travels by the events of Sept. 11.

The raffle gift was donated by Arzella Parsons and won by Carol Riley. Refreshments were donated by Crosco.

The SGCRWC Christmas party is scheduled for Sunday, Dec. 9. Because of the Thanksgiving holiday, November's meeting will take place Wednesday, Nov. 14, at 7 p.m. at the Mountain Glade Senior Center. Guests are welcome, and for more information on the SGCRWC and its activities, persons may call Crosco at 301-334-2147.

SGCRWC PRESENTS "PRECIOUS MOMENTS" KEEPSAKE — Pat and Jimmy Light, who are moving to Florida, were presented with a "precious moments" trunk by the Southern Garrett County Republican Women's Club during the October meeting in appreciation for their large donations to the club's yard sales this summer. Proceeds from the yard sales are used to benefit needy students in the county's middle and elementary schools. Designed and arranged by SGRWC Ways and Means Committee chairperson JoAnne Glotfelty, the trunk was filled with pictures and mementos representing special memories of family and vacations. Shown from the left are Glo Glotfelty, and Pat and Jimmy Light.

Volunteers Sought For Thanksgiving Meal Deliveries

The Garrett County Community Action Committee's Area Agency on Aging is recruiting volunteers who would be willing to prepare and deliver a Thanksgiving dinner to a homebound elderly Garrett County resident. Volunteers package a dinner from their own Thanksgiving table and deliver it to a frail senior who lives nearby and is alone and/or unable to prepare a nutritious meal on Thanksgiving Day. The agency will identify the clients who could benefit from a meal delivery.

"The packaging and delivery of a meal or two takes so little of a person's time," an agency spokesperson commented. "Previous volunteers have commented on the pleasure they receive when they see the face of the elderly person light up when the meal is delivered."

Persons interested in sharing a meal from their Thanksgiving table are asked to contact the Area Agency on Aging at 301-334-9431 or toll free at 888-877-8403.

LADIES FIRE AWARD 2001 WINNER — Sharon Malone was recently presented the State Silver Spring Fire Ladies Award for 2001 by the Eastern Garrett County Volunteer Fire and Rescue Department Ladies Auxiliary.

Sharon Malone Wins Fire Ladies Award For 2001

The Eastern Garrett County Volunteer Fire and Rescue Department Ladies Auxiliary recently announced that Sharon Malone won the State Silver Spring Fire Ladies Award for 2001. This award is given for an outstanding performance in support of fire prevention and fire service. The person's community service is also taken into consideration.

Malone has been an active member of the auxiliary for 19 years. She has served as secretary and treasurer multiple times, and has attended bi-county conventions.

According to a spokesperson, she is always at spaghetti dinners to work the bake sale. She helps at other activities such as funeral dinners, soup and hoagie sales, community bake sales, and banquets.

She placed second in the Allegany and Garrett Counties Fire Ladies Auxiliary Association. Her performance in fire prevention activities this past year has been very commendable, said a spokesperson. Among some of her fire prevention activities, she has presented programs to the Auxiliary, summer recreation program at Route 40 Elementary School, Finzel 4-H club, and church groups.

Malone developed a tip sheet for fire prevention and did a radio program on WFRB radio station. She also drew a fire truck coloring picture to be used in her programs for children and developed fact and statistics charts. These items may be borrowed by other auxiliaries.

A spokesperson said she made an all-out effort in the month of October, Fire Prevention Month, to get that information to as many people as possible. One thing she did was attend the spaghetti dinner to hand out information to the public. The average attendance at this dinner was 1,200 people. She presented children with coloring pages, yo-yos, and pencils.

Malone uses another of her talents for the fire department. She makes sewing repairs and created a cover for the steam table. She is also involved with Emmanuel United Methodist Church Women's Group. She is a wife, mother, and grandmother.

Diabetes Cooking Class Slated At Senior Center

"Dining With Diabetes," a free course for people with diabetes and family members or caretakers, will meet for four consecutive Tuesdays, Nov. 6-27, from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Mary Browning Senior Center in Oakland.

The course will include discussion of how to cook with artificial sweeteners, low-fat products, and herbs and spices. Participants will receive recipe booklets, watch cooking demonstrations, and taste foods made with less fat, sugar, and salt.

This grant-funded course is offered by the Garrett County Cooperative Extension in partnership with the Area Agency on Aging. No products will be sold at the classes. Spaces are limited, so early registration is encouraged and may be made by calling the Extension office at 301-334-6960.

SHS Girls Mash Rebels To Advance To Region Semifinals

Headed for the 1A West Region semifinals against cross-county rival Northern are the members of the Southern High School girls' soccer team, as the Rams drew a bye in the first round of the playoffs and then cruised to a 6-1 quarterfinal victory over host South Hagerstown Tuesday night. Junior forward Brittany Naylor led the Rams' scoring effort with a hat trick and an assist.

The win upped the Rams' overall record to 12-1-1. Saturday's clash with the Northern Huskies, who upset Beall in another quarterfinal round (see other story) Tuesday, will be the fourth of the season, as the two teams met each other twice in the regular schedule and once during a tournament.

Naylor opened the scoring against South Hagerstown and put the Rams on top 1-0 with an unassisted goal about 10 minutes into the match. The Rebels came back to tie the score about nine minutes later with a goal by Mallory Tsetsilas.

From that point on Southern dominated the match, and finished with a lopsided 22-5 advantage in shots on goal and a 4-2 edge in corner kicks.

The Rams took the lead for good when Sabrina Scheffel scored off a feed by Naylor with just 2:46 remaining in the first half.

Naylor completed her hat trick with a pair of goals midway through the second half, scoring off an assist by Scheffel at the 21:36 mark and putting another into the net off a pass by Jennifer Hickman with 19 minutes remaining.

The Rams tacked on two insurance goals within the next four minutes, with Scheffel scoring her second of the night at the 17:25 mark off a feed by Megan Burner, and Becky Martin hitting the back of the South Hagerstown net unassisted with 15:09 to play.

Alasha Rush was credited with four saves in goal for the Rams, while Brianne Jamison recorded 16 for the Rebels.

Southern coach Ron Petrella knows that it is difficult for any team to defeat any other team four times in the same season, and judging from the scores of the previous three matches between the Rams and the Northern Huskies, Saturday evening's semifinal should be the proverbial "barn burner." The Rams blanked the Huskies 5-0 in a match played at the Cove, but squeaked out 2-1 and 1-0 victories in the other two encounters. The Huskies' 2-0 victory over 13-3 Beall was also greatly unanticipated by most area soccer fans.

"Northern has improved all year long," Petrella said. "Lynn Lais (coach) has done an excellent job with their program. Plus, as with any Northern-Southern contest, you can pretty much throw the records out the window. I expect both sides to play with lots of emotion. It should be a great match."

The winner of the Southern-Northern match will face the victor of the Westmar-Smithsburg clash in the West Region title match. Smithsburg, currently sporting a perfect 15-0 record, is favored to win the region crown.

"I'm impressed that three of the four regional semifinalists are Western Maryland Interscholastic League teams," Petrella added.

Saturday's match between the Rams and Huskies is slated to kick off at 7 p.m. at the SHS athletic field.

Soccer League Championships To Be Saturday

The Mountaintop Soccer Association (MSA) youth league has scheduled its under-15 and under-12 division championship matches for this Saturday, Nov. 3.

Vying for the under-15 title will be the Jammers, sponsored by the Oakland B.P.O. Elks Lodge, and the Rockers, sponsored by Railey Realty. That match will kick off at 11 a.m. on the Southern High School athletic field.

The Jammers qualified for the championship match by topping the Coldwell Banker Blazers, 4-0, in a semifinal contest on Sunday at Southern, while the Rockers earned a spot in the finals by edging Spirit, sponsored by Dr. Albert Getty, 1-0, also on Sunday.

Competing for the under-12 division title will be the Dropkickers, sponsored by Long & Foster Realty, and Mutiny, sponsored by Oakview Motors. That match will get under way at 1 p.m. at Southern Middle School.

The Dropkickers reached the division finals by defeating the Terra Alta Family Practice Crew, 3-1, while Mutiny earned the right to play for the championship by topping Fire, 5-1, in the other semifinal. These matches were also played Sunday.

Spectators are welcome to attend these matches free of charge. Persons with questions about the league and/or playoffs may contact MSA president Ron Petrella at 301-334-1174.

Arsenal League Slates Meeting, Board Elections

The Arsenal Football youth soccer league has set its annual meeting for Saturday, Nov. 10, at 10 a.m. in the Fellowship Hall of Oak Park Church of the Brethren, located at 110 Church Lane. The church is located across from Southern High School. Items of business to be conducted are selected changes in the Articles of Incorporation, election of executive board members, and a "state of the club" message from the league's president.

All families that had a player on the roster of an Arsenal team last season are considered members of the Arsenal Football club and are eligible to vote at the meeting. This includes the player and his or her parents. Others who desire to join the club in order to vote at the annual meeting may do so at 9:30 a.m. prior to the start of the meeting. This will include those families whose child will play Arsenal Football this coming winter and spring seasons.

The Arsenal Football league meeting is open to the public. For more information, persons may contact Mel Menker at 301-334-5906.

SENIOR HUSKIES HONORED - The senior members of the Northern High School girls' soccer team were recognized last week during their final home match. The season, however, is not over for the Huskies, who upset powerful Beall on Tuesday to advance to the semifinals of the 1A West Region championships. They will travel to Oakland on Saturday to take on the Southern Rams for the fourth time this season. The senior members of the team are, pictured from left above: Randi Beller, Brooke Butler, Emily Rawe, Emily Downton, Amanda Bowser, Trisha Kamp, Kara Kenner, Rachel Bruch, and Ashley Warnick.

Northern Girls Upset Beall In Playoffs, To Face Rams

Steady improvement has been the mark of the Northern High School girls' soccer team this season under new head coach Lynn Lais, and all of that effort culminated in a huge 2-0 victory over Beall in a 1A West Region quarterfinal playoff match Tuesday night on the Mountaineers' field in Frostburg. The win, the fifth in 15 starts this season, provided the Huskies with yet another opportunity to defeat their county rivals, the Southern Rams, who whipped South Hagerstown in another quarterfinal clash (see other story) the same evening.

The Huskies have played, and lost to, the Rams three times already this fall, twice during regular-season matches and once during a tournament. They were shut out by a 5-0 margin in one of those encounters, but were edged by only one goal, 2-1 and 1-0, in the other two matches. They will travel to Oakland on Saturday for a 7 p.m. semifinal contest with the Rams, the winner of which will advance to the 1A West Region title match.

Sophomore Lyndsi Butler scored both goals for the Huskies against heavily favored Beall on Tuesday, and she scored both of them within just 67 seconds in the second half.

The first half was scoreless, as the center of the stingy Husky defense kept the Mountaineers away from the goal. Both defensive units played well for the match, however, as Beall finished with only seven shots on goal and the Huskies had just six. But Butler and her teammates made two of theirs count to record the victory.

Butler's first score came at the 16:04 mark of the second half off an assist by Rachel Bruch. Her second was recorded with 14:57 remaining, this time off a pass from Kara Kenner.

The Mountaineers, who came into the contest with a 12-2 record, finished with a 4-2 edge in corner kicks. Ashley Warnick had two saves in goal for Northern, while Krista Blank turned away two of the Huskies shots.

"I was so pleased with our kids' effort," said Coach Lais, "especially that of our central defensive unit which includes Amanda Bowser, Rachel Bruch, and Trisha Kamp. Ashley also had a great match for us."

Lais said his team is excited about getting another shot at the Southern Rams and are anticipating another close, competitive match. "They have had a great season, but we have been improving with every match and with the win over Beall we think we will be competitive with just about anybody. In fact, I think we are probably the best 5-10 team in the entire state right now."

In the two regular-season meetings between Northern and Beall, the Mountaineers recorded victories of 3-0 and 3-1.

Rams Blanked In Playoffs By South Hagerstown

The 2001 soccer season for the Southern High School boys' varsity came to a 2-0 end on Saturday when the Rams were topped by visiting South Hagerstown in an opening round of the 1A West Region playoffs. The Rams concluded their campaign with an overall record of 5-9.

Specific details of the loss to South Hagerstown were not reported, except that Ram goal keeper Chris Menker recorded 14 saves.

Arsenal Soccer Tryouts Slated At Southern

The Oakland-based Arsenal Football youth soccer league will hold tryouts for the fall's outdoor soccer season on Saturday, Nov. 10, at the track field at Southern Garrett High School in Oakland. The age groups are as follows:

- Girls born Aug. 1, 1989, or after may try out for the U-12 Girls' team at noon.
- Girls born Aug. 1, 1987, or after may try out for the U-14 Girls' team at 1 p.m.
- Boys born Aug. 1, 1989, or after may try out for the U-12 Boys' team at noon.
- Boys born Aug. 1, 1987, or after may try out for the U-14 Boys' team at 1 p.m.
- Girls born Aug. 1, 1983, or after may try out for the U-18 Girls' team at 2 p.m.
- Boys born August 1, 1983, or after may try out for the U-18 Boys' team at 2 p.m.

Players need to bring cleats, shorts, shin guards, and socks that cover the shin guards to the tryouts. Scrimmage practice jerseys will be provided to wear over a T-shirt. All soccer balls will be provided.

A parent must accompany the player to the tryout as a waiver form must be completed before a child can participate in the tryout session. For those players who have not played in the Arsenal league before, a copy of the child's birth certificate (which will be retained by the league) for age verification and the child's Social Security number must be submitted.

There is a $20 tryout charge which, if the player is accepted by the Arsenal program, will pay for the registration cost with the Maryland State Youth Soccer Association. If the player is not accepted for the program, the $20 will be refunded. Tryouts are strictly limited to players who live in Garrett County. The number of teams formed will be based upon the number of players successfully completing tryouts.

PLAYING ON TUNDRA Saturday night at the Southern High School athletic field were the members of the SHS and South Hagerstown soccer teams, who met in an opening round of the 1A West Region playoffs. The Rams saw their 2001 season come to an end, as they were blanked by the Rebels, 2-0. Complete details of the match were not received. Pictured above are Southern's Sean Buckle, left, and Riff Browning. Below, Ram Chris Lantz tries to negotiate through the snow and around a Rebel defender. The Rams concluded with an overall record of 5-10.

If a child is selected to play, he or she will be expected to attend one or two one-hour practice sessions per week and participate in both the winter and spring seasons. Winter indoor practices will begin the first week of December, and spring outdoor practices will commence the first week of April. If a player is participating in other sport programs this winter and spring, fewer practices will be arranged for players doing both.

As Arsenal Football plays in a travel league, parents will need to assist in providing team transportation to distant locations. There will be home games and away games up to a maximum of 90 minutes away. During the winter months Arsenal teams will travel to two one-day tournaments per month in January, February, and March, and may also participate in an early tournament in December. The spring travel season runs from Sunday, April 7, through Sunday, June 9. Teams will play on seven of the ten Sundays in the spring season.

For further information on Arsenal Football tryouts, persons may call Mel Menker at 301-334-5906.

Northern Ice Takes First In Soccer Tourney

The under-14 Northern Ice girls' soccer team, based in the northern area of Garrett County, captured first place in the Potomac Highlands Soccer Club Tournament, held October 21 at Fort Ashby, W.Va.

Coach John Milbourne's team won its first match over Arsenal's u-14 girls from southern Garrett County; defeated the host PHSC team, 4-0, in the second round; defeated a team from Petersburg in round three, 3-1; and finally tied a Preston County team, 1-1, giving the Ice girls a 3-0-1 record and first place in the tournament.

"The girls played outstanding ball throughout the tourney," Milbourne said. "This has been a learning year for us, with only three of 17 girls returning from last season. I am very proud of the effort and teamwork of these girls, and they will only be better next year."

The Northern Ice team included: Tara Brenneman, Jessica Harvey, Brittany Herring, Nicole Hill, Nina Loos, Victoria Moser, Shayla Rodeheaver, Amber Savage, Amy Shaffer, Brittany Stein, Devan Yoder, and team captains Erin Brenneman and Bethani Gillum.

Northern Ice is the girls' travel team of the Northern Garrett Soccer Club, which is affiliated with the Maryland State Youth Soccer Association.

Rams Cage Mountain Lions To Keep Playoff Hopes Alive

A 180-yard, two-touchdown performance by senior running back Steve Skipper highlighted a 38-0 thrashing of Tucker County by the Southern High Rams Friday night in Parsons, W.Va., a victory that kept the Rams' playoff hopes alive for another week.

Southern dominated every facet of the contest to up its record to 4-4, leading the 2-8 Mountain Lions in first downs, 19-6; in rushing yardage by an embarrassing 301-9 spread, and in total yards of offense by a whopping 331-90 margin.

The Rams started somewhat sluggishly against the home team, as the first quarter ended in a scoreless tie and most of the second period was expended without any points recorded. A safety, awarded when the Tucker quarterback was called for intentionally grounding the ball from out of his own end zone with just 2:38 remaining in the first half, finally gave Southern a 2-0 advantage.

Ram quarterback Tobi Stoner then capped the ensuing drive after Tucker's free kick with a one-yard touchdown run with 37 seconds remaining before intermission. Chad Panther booted the conversion to give Southern a 9-0 halftime lead.

The second half was all Southern's, as Skipper scored the first of his two six-pointers on a 15-yard touchdown run at the 5:52 mark of the third period. Panther's successful PAT made it 16-0.

Skipper concluded the next Ram drive with a seven-yard touchdown run, and Stoner passed to Panther for the extra two points to give Southern a 24-0 lead with 31 seconds left in the third stanza.

A 19-yard touchdown run by Panther, followed by his successful point-after kick, gave the Rams a commanding 32-0 lead with 9:38 left in the game.

S - Jay Tressler, 7 run (Garrett O'Brien kick), 7:59.

Just over 1½ minutes later, Jay Tressler carried the ball into the end zone from seven yards out, and Garrett O'Brien kicked the extra point to conclude Southern's scoring.

Skipper was the workhorse out of the Ram backfield, as he carried the ball 26 times for his 180 yards, while fullback Joel Helbig added 54 yards on 15 carries.

Helbig was also a standout on defense, recording seven tackles and a sack, and Billy Schmidl was credited with eight tackles.

The Ram defensive unit also picked off two passes and recovered a fumble.

"Our backs had a very good game, and we obviously played well defensively," Ram coach Fred Gregg said. "We knew that if we could take away their passing game that we would have a good chance of winning. It's a tough place to play, though, and we were worried about them because they had gotten better with every game.

"It was not our best game as far as our line play was concerned," he added.

The Rams will most likely face a much tougher test this Friday, even though they are coming off three big wins, are playing at home, are in a must-win situation for the playoffs, and will be facing a team with a modest 3-5 record. The problem for Coach Gregg, his staff, and the Rams is that the team is Fort Hill.

"They may only be 3-5, but they are a big school and play a very tough schedule," Gregg said. "They still have the premier high school program in our area, with the biggest tradition."

The Sentinels' wing-T offense is led by one of the area's top receivers in senior Zack Alkire (6-2, 190), junior quarterback Jeremy Robinson (6-2, 163), up-and-coming freshman halfback Andre Pope (5-11, 181), senior halfback Ryan Shope (5-11, 150), and junior fullback Garrett Snyder (6-0, 200).

"They are a lot like us in many ways," Gregg said. "Their wing-T is power-oriented rather than finesse-oriented. They like to run right at you, and try to dominate you on the line. They do mix it up, but they rely mostly on their running game from tackle to tackle.

"They're not quite as big up front as they usually are, but the are just as skilled and fundamentally sound as they always are under Coach (Barry) Lattimer," he said.

Fort Hill's 6-2 defense is anchored by Alkire at defensive end, junior linebacker Colby LaRue (6-2, 189), freshman lineman Josh Root (6-0, 201), and senior lineman James Divelbiss (5-10, 226).

"Once again, it will come down to our play along the line," Gregg said. "We are going to have to have just as good an effort as we did against Martinsburg and Hampshire, or their line will take control of the game."

The Rams are currently in eighth place in the state, and with victories over Fort Hill and Northern the following week, should make the playoffs.

"Besides the playoffs, we are going to have to win this game in order to have any chance at a winning season," Gregg added.

The Rams and their coaches hope for a large turnout this Friday at the SHS athletic field. It will be Senior Night, when all senior players and cheerleaders are recognized.

Special guests at the game will be the members of the 1954 SHS football team, the school's first ever in its 50 years of existence. The players from that team, along with all previous Southern coaches, will be recognized at halftime.

There will also be a tailgate party in the parking lot behind Dennett Road Elementary School, beginning at 6 p.m. The game will be kicked off at 7:30 p.m.

NHS Falls To 2-6 With 28-8 Loss To Mounties

Three big plays proved to be the big nails in the Northern High School varsity football team's coffin Friday night at Beall, as the Mountaineers took a 28-8 victory with the help of touchdown runs of 31, 57, and 70 yards. "We really didn't play all that bad on defense," NHS head coach Phil Carr observed, "but some blown assignments on those plays allowed those long touchdown runs to happen." Left unsaid was, if those three scores were erased, Northern would have brought home a two-point victory.

"On the bright side we were more physical on defense than we've been in the past; again, we just missed some crucial assignments on those three big plays. Our offense could have played better; we shot ourselves in the foot with a couple of penalties and turnovers, just like we have all year."

Beall's first touchdown came at the 4:42 mark of the first quarter, when quarterback Nick Durst turned the Huskies' best defensive weapon — aggressive pursuit — against them by calling a play right out of Northern's offensive playbook. The Mounties ran an option play that sucked NHS's cornerback inside to try and tackle Durst, who at the last moment pitched the ball to running back Dave Winner, who scampered 31 yards around the end for a touchdown. Durst followed with a two-point conversion run.

"That was a blown assignment," Carr said. "We had two guys tackle the quarterback, one of those being the cornerback who left the corner wide open. When the runner found the sideline, he was gone."

The Mountaineers scored again with just 57 seconds remaining in the first quarter when Northern's middle linebacker was caught out of position, leaving the heart of the Huskies' defense exposed. Winner, having been sprung at the line by some good blocks, blew up the middle for a 57-yard touchdown run. Mahlon Harper's two-point conversion run gave Beall a 16-0 lead, an advantage that held sway through a scoreless second quarter.

The third stanza saw Northern punt the ball away early in the quarter after a drive stalled near midfield. The Huskies had Beall pushed back to its own 30-yard line, but on the Mounties' first play from scrimmage, an off-tackle power play resulted in a 70-yard touchdown run by Harper with 10:02 on the clock. "We had strung it out down the right side of the line, with good pursuit, but the runner cut back across the grain and ran right through four of five missed tackles," said Carr. "That was pretty frustrating."

Just two minutes later Beall struck again. After picking off an errant NHS pass, Mountie defender Eric Parker returned the ball to inside the Huskies' 10-yard line. Zach Sloane then scored on a five-yard run to give the home team a 28-0 lead at the 7:59 mark.

Northern's lone score came early in the fourth quarter when, with 10:03 showing on the clock, running back Cheston Bachtel sallied forth on a 38-yard scoring tally. Ethan DeVore's conversion run made the score 28-8.

The Huskies let an excellent opportunity for another touchdown slip through their fingers at the 6:00 mark, after safety Aaron Mitchell intercepted a Beall pass and made a fine return, scampering 40 yards before being brought down at the 30-yard line. Quarterback Mitchell then engineered an NHS offensive drive that moved the ball to a fourth-and-five situation on the eight-yard line, but a botched handoff exchange on a reverse killed the chance for a score. "It was pretty disappointing to get that close and come away with nothing," the Huskies' skipper admitted. "The films show that Cheston had an easy first down, and probably would have scored a touchdown on that play if the exchange had worked." Both teams failed to score the remainder of the contest.

Beall's offense racked up an impressive 444 yards on the ground, with 158 of those coming on the aforementioned three big scoring plays. The Huskies were held to a total of 188 yards on offense and just five rushing first downs, as compared to the 15 first downs churned out by the Mounties' runners. To be blunt, Northern's best "production" of the night came in the form of some fine punting by DeVore, who boomed five punts with an excellent 35-yard average.

Carr's troops square off against what the coach termed "a dangerous" Westmar squad in tomorrow night's Senior Contest in the Cove. The 4-4 record of the Wildcats can be deceiving, for the playoff squad of last year is still working to replace the loss of 2000 All-Area Player of the Year Jeremy Sellers to Allegany this season.

Quarterback Bobbie Alkire (6-0, 165), just a sophomore, is turning out to be a potent weapon on both offense and in his linebacker spot on defense. "Alkire is a great quarterback who can throw and run," stated Carr, who also singled out senior fullback Kenny Peck (5-10, 208), senior slot receiver Andrew Nicol (5-10, 150), and sophomore split end Dan Duncan (5-11, 153) as Wildcats to watch.

The key, however, appears to be young field general Alkire. "We saw him run every single play out of the shotgun last week, and we expect he'll throw at least 40 times against us," remarked Carr. "Once in a while he'll hand off to a fullback standing next to him in the shotgun, just to keep you honest, but the big problem is that they'll line up four receivers as wide-outs, and send the fullback out as a receiver after the snap. That puts five players with good speed and hands into pass patterns, and that poses a real challenge for most high school defenses.

"If our secondary can keep those guys covered, and if our defensive line pressures Alkire and forces him to keep moving, we can keep their offense from getting into a rhythm. They like to throw a lot of quick, short passes, and often Alkire will release the ball no more than three seconds after the snap. If we can keep him from doing that, we should be able to keep them from scoring."

Westmar's defense is anchored by a strong linebacker trio of Alkire, Peck, and senior Curtis Broadwater (6-0, 203). "We expect a lot of blitzing from those three, but we think we can move the ball on their defense," Carr stated. "We need to control the ball on the ground and keep it away from Westmar's offense as much as we can.

"It should be a great game, and we'd really like to invite everyone to come out early for the 7 p.m. Senior Night ceremonies. Our senior players, cheerleaders, and band members, each of whom has put in a lot of hard work and practice over the years, will be honored. We're very proud of all of them." The game follows the ceremony with a 7:30 p.m. kickoff.

Maddawgs Are "Top Dogs" In Bi-County Pee-Wee Football

The Northern Maddawgs C team took the Super Bowl crown of the Pee-Wee Football League with a crushing 27-6 win over the Frostburg Cougars Saturday. "We played as a team," Northern coach Justin Lewis commented of his troops. "The kids played 'smash-mouth' football on both sides of the line to earn the victory."

The Maddawgs set the tone for the game early, as on their first possession Kameron Kamp scored a 22-yard touchdown and Alex Baker added the extra point. Northern had the ball three more times in the first half, but was unable to turn those possessions into scores. Northern's defense held strong, however, and allowed just two first downs and one touchdown in the first half.

The Maddawgs took a 7-6 lead into the halftime intermission, when the coaching staff made several adjustments that paid off in spades during the second half.

The stanza got under way with Northern's defense forcing a Cougar punt, giving the Maddawgs' offense yet another opportunity to get back on the board. No time was wasted as, on Northern's first snap from scrimmage, Baker took off on a 40-yard touchdown run. After Austin Tombley added the extra point, the Maddawgs held a 14-6 lead and never looked back.

Northern's defense stood strong again and forced a punt. On the next Maddawg possession, Tombley reeled off a 34-yard run to set up a one-yard scoring plunge by Kamp and Baker's extra point.

Again, Northern's defense held strong and forced the Cougars to go four and out. On the Garrett County squad's very next possession Tombley added a nine-yard touchdown to make the score 27-6. The Maddawgs' defense continued to shut down the Cougars' attack, and the game ended with Northern comfortably in the drivers seat by the final 21-point margin.

Rams' JV Downs NHS; Huskies In Turn Beat Beall

The Southern High School and Northern High junior varsity football teams squared off this past Thursday, Oct. 25, and the Rams came out on top by taking a 21-0 shutout. Northern rebounded Monday night to defeat Beall in a 33-0 shutout of its own.

The SHS-NHS contest got off to a scoreless first quarter, before Chad Everd broke the ice on Southern's first play of the second stanza with a 16-yard touchdown with 9:58 showing on the clock. Cory Bosley's extra-point kick gave the Rams a 7-0 lead, which they took into the halftime locker room.

Everd struck paydirt again at the 3:15 mark of the third quarter with a four-yard touchdown run. The Huskies blocked the extra-point kick attempt. Everd scored his third touchdown on the night in the fourth quarter with 8:52 remaining, when he scampered 29 yards for a score. His successful conversion carry gave SHS its final 21-0 lead.

Southern's freshman squad played that same evening, but suffered a 21-14 defeat at the hands of the Meyersdale Red Raiders. The Ram frosh play tonight, Thursday, in a 6 p.m. contest at Fort Hill.

Northern's JVs showed their mettle by roaring back from the SHS loss to crush Beall by 33 unanswered points. Two first quarter Husky touchdowns were supplied by Michael Wolf and Trevor Butler, on respective 11- and 1-yard scoring runs. Robert Stark scored on a 10-yard run in the second quarter to give NHS a healthy halftime lead.

Rico Alston opened the second half by sailing 65 yards with the opening kickoff on his way to a touchdown. Derek Workman added a five-yard run in the third quarter. Ian Wooden kicked a total of three extra points during the contest.

The Northern junior varsity ended a fine season with a 6-2 mark, vanquishing its opponents in each of its wins while losing only to Allegany and Southern. Several of the JV players will be suiting up with the Huskies' varsity as its season winds down, and one would expect a number of the younger players to be heard from again in the next few seasons.

Lakers Hope To Go Beyond 23 Wins In '01-02 Season

For most of the teams in the Maryland JUCO, back-to-back seasons of 23 victories would be coveted, but even though Coach Dennis Gibson and his Garrett Community College Lakers accomplished such a feat, they feel like they have come up short. Hopes are running high for the 2001-02 season, which will feature a beefed-up schedule, plus the return of two of the top sophomores in the conference and Region XX.

The Lakers will open their campaign by hosting their annual Preview Tournament the weekend of November 10-11. That tourney will include Penn State Beaver, Potomac State, and Rockingham.

One of those two top returning sophomores is All-American candidate Kortaa Hall, a 6-3 guard who led the 2000-01 Lakers with a 19 ppg average. The other is 6-6 power forward Jontae Harrington, who was the team's leading rebounder with an average of 8.3 grabs per outing. Falling into a starting role last season after the departure of two 6-7 freshmen, Harrington quickly proved himself too quick and powerful for many opposing centers, as he racked up 14 points per game with 58% shooting effectiveness.

Both Hall and Harrington were All-JUCO selections, and Coach Gibson seems ecstatic about their return.

"Kortaa and Jontae provide a powerful combination of inside and outside abilities," he said. "Both can handle the ball, and I see a big improvement in their play. Kortaa is shooting the ball more consistently, and Jontae has increased his range also."

With veterans being the key to any team's success, the addition of 6-2 Michael Foreman will greatly help solidify the point guard position. Foreman comes to Garrett after a solid freshman year as Frederick CC's starting point guard. He also had a great high school background, which featured two Maryland state championships.

Another veteran of sorts is 6-3 Duke Cooper, another point guard who transferred to the Laker program after being red-shirted one semester at Arizona Western Junior College and one semester at GCC.

A third point guard that will figure into Gibson's rotation will be Antuon Townsend. The exact opposite of Foreman and Cooper in style, the 5-7 Townsend will give the Lakers a strong mix of defensive quickness and three-point shooting.

Scoring should not be among the Lakers' problems this season with the addition of nearby Turkeyfoot Valley High School team MVP and leading scorer Andrew Wass, who finished last season averaging 23 points per game. At 6-4, Wass can shoot the three-pointer, and has earned the title of "Mr. Hustle" from his GCC teammates.

Sam Brown, from Jacksonville, Fla., will contribute greatly to the Lakers' "high-flying" capabilities, as he is the best leaper on the team, despite being just 6-1 in height.

Another southern newcomer is Antonio Whetstone of South Carolina, who was recommended to Gibson by Dave Dickerson, assistant coach of the Maryland Terrapins. A 6-3 guard, Whetstone is a consistent outside shooter and can rebound when called upon to go down low.

"These guards make my job tough," Gibson said. "Any one of them could start for us and do a good job. But starting isn't the key at this level. It's a long season, and you need quality depth and players willing to fill roles to be successful."

At the Division I level, it is difficult for a team the size of Garrett's to secure a lot of height, but this will be rectified this season with the arrival of 6-11 Jason Williams. "Jason is thin, but he's a quick lefty who could give Jontae Harrington a much needed rest on the defensive boards," Gibson said. "He can also score for the low blocks."

Jamal Jacobs gives the Lakers another boost on the inside with his wide body and deft shooting touch. Gibson said he needs only to improve in his conditioning and defensive skills to help the team maintain its traditional up-tempo style.

Finally, anchoring the remaining post spot will be two 6-6 forwards. One is Darvus Gray from Patuxent High School, where he teamed up with former GCC player and current assistant coach, VaShawne Gross. "Darvus can flat out run the floor, and he catches and scores well in transition," Gibson said.

The other forward is Darren Stackhouse from Hayfield High in Virginia, who has proven his ability to score down low, but can also perform well from three-point range. "He is quickly proving himself as one of our better defensive players as well," Gibson noted.

Gibson said that even with this talented line-up, improving upon last season's 23-6 record will be difficult because of the strengthening of the Lakers' schedule. "Our schedule includes many nationally ranked opponents, plus a trip to play top Division I JUCO powers in the Rockingham, N.C., tourney," he said.

The Lakers also lost some outstanding players, including All-American point guard Rob Hall, all-around team player Dustin Long, and long-range shooter Antonio Lappegard.

"This year's version is quicker and more up-tempo, but whether or not that will equal wins remains to be seen," Gibson said. "This team will have to suffer through some growing pains, and hope that leaders like Rob Hall and Dustin Long emerge."

Coach Gibson, who is beginning his 17th season at the helm of the Lakers, has over 300 victories to his credit. He is being assisted again this year by Dave Martin and Jamie Workman.

Ram Netters End Campaign With 3-0 Loss To Campers

SHS, NHS Open Playoff Hunt Monday

A fine regular season for the Southern High School varsity volleyball team ended on a sour note Monday as the Rams were downed in a 3-0 sweep by the host Allegany Campers. SHS (9-5) and Northern High (11-4) both have good chances of taking opening-round wins in the Class 1A West Region Playoff Tournament, as each Garrett County squad takes to its homecourt at 7 p.m. against markedly weaker teams. Southern will host Beall, and Northern plays host to Hancock.

Southern's Monday night loss to arch-rival Allegany, one of the top teams in the region, came on close game scores of 15-12, 15-13, and 15-8. Senior Holli Harris and junior Jessica Sharon both accounted for five Ram points on the night, while Alco's Kristina Hanft recorded 17 kills and three aces. Fellow Camper Michelle Seib dished out 24 assists and scored six points.

Allegany upped its record to 10-4 with the win, and makes its first playoff appearance at home Monday against a pitiful Westmar unit. If both the Campers and the Huskies win, they will advance to meet each other in the second round of the playoffs. The other match-up of SHS's bracket features a showdown between Williamsport and visiting Clear Spring, and the winner of that contest will play the winner of the Southern-Beall opener.

In junior varsity play, the Southern JVs closed their season with a 2-0 loss, 15-7 and 15-4, to host Fort Hill in the Sentinels' Junior Varsity Invitational Tournament Saturday in Cumberland. No individual Ram statistics were reported.

Buckmasters CEO Issues Treestand Safety Reminders

With the advent of the fall hunting season, and deer firearms season set to get under way in just three weeks on Saturday, Nov. 24, hunters are reminded of the importance of following proper safety procedures when installing and using a treestand.

"Most treestand accidents are the result of careless and costly errors, said Jackie Bushman, founder and CEO of Buckmasters, the world's largest whitetail deer hunters association. "Treestand hunting is safe and rewarding if we pay attention to a few basics. People don't like to bother with things like safety belts and other safety measures, but paying attention to safety measures, like wearing a safety belt, is smart.

Bushman encourages hunters planning to hunt from treestands to keep the following safety points in mind:

- "Any time your feet aren't on the ground and you're not wearing a safety belt, you're in what I call 'death territory.' If you're hunting from anything that's hooked to a tree, you need a safety belt. If, for some unknown reason your stand breaks, or you fall asleep, or you lose your balance, the safety belt can save your life.
- "If you like to stand up and shoot when you're bow hunting, use a safety belt that keeps you snug to the tree when you stand up. If you have to lean a little bit, you want to feel the safety belt grab.
- "Always check your treestand before the first day of the season. If you use a homemade treestand, don't forget: Trees grow wider as well as taller from fall to fall, and the nails might be deeper in the tree than they were, leaving the steps or stand less stable. Check to make sure that wooden parts are not rotted. If you plan to make your own stand this year, consider using treated lumber, which will last a lot longer.
- "If you plan to use any of the limbs on a tree as steps to get into your tree-stand, or for balance after you get in, make sure that they're alive and sturdy.
- "Remember the 'death territory' — when you're putting a treestand in place or when you're putting in screw-in tree steps, wear a safety belt. There are many safety belts and harnesses on the market. It's important to buy one that gives you a feeling of comfort as well as security. I like one with a push-button on the ropes so I can tighten it to get closer to the tree or loosen it so I can lean out against the tree. It gives me a little more versatility when I'm putting up a treestand or when I'm hunting.
- "Be sure the belt is big enough to go around a tree. If you're hunting from big trees, you might have to get an extension rope. We learned that lesson the hard way while taping the Buckmasters TV series.
- "Pull your gun or bow up after you're in the stand. Before going up into the stand, make very sure your gun is unloaded and the bolt is open. Then tie an rope or line to the gun so the barrel points toward the ground. Before going down, reverse the procedure: unload the gun, open the bolt, tie it so the barrel points downward."

While admitting that some may find the effort involved in taking such measures burdesome, the Buckmasters founder stressed their importance. "Your friends and family will appreciate your safety efforts because they'd like to see you again.

Laker Netters Close Out With Pair Of Losses

The Garrett Community College volleyball team closed out its regular season with 2-0 losses to Catonsville and Frederick Friday at Frederick. Catonsville's Cardinals took a pair of 30-18 victories, while the Frederick Cougars won 30-26 and 30-22.

Keri Niner paced the Lakers' effort against Catonsville with four points and one kill. Marianne Unger added three points, Jessica DeWitt dished out three assists, Laura Johnson tallied three kills and two assists, and Mimi Harvey recorded two points and two kills.

Lauren Stillwagon led Garrett's outing against the Cougars with 12 points and four aces. Niner accumulated six points and two kills, Harvey had four points, Johnson recorded seven kills, and DeWitt had two kills and two assists.

Their final 2-21 regular season make the Lakers are obvious underdogs in the upcoming two-day Region XX Tournament, which gets under way tomorrow at Catonsville.
